A receiver in bankruptcy has no authority to maintain suits to vacate alleged preferential transfers or payments, to dissolve liens, or to recover property alleged to have been conveyed away in fraud of the bankrupt's creditors. Boonville Nat. Bank v. Blakey (1901) 107 Fed. 891, 47 C. C. A. 43, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 13; Frost v. Latham & Co. (C. C. 1910) 181 Fed. 866, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 313; Guaranty Title & Trust Co. v. Pearlman (D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 550, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 461; Lansing v. Manton (D. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 127, Fed. Cas. No. 8,077. Compare In re Alexander (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 749. Where the bankrupt had sold certain of his assets to his attorney, and the latter had sold the same to another person, it was held that a receiver in bankruptcy was entitled to sue to vacate such sales, without waiting for the appointment of a trustee. In re Alexander (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 749. And where goods of a bankrupt alleged to have been fraudulently conveyed had been taken into the possession of an ancillary receiver, it was held that the court appointing such receiver acquired jurisdiction to determine the validity of the transfer and the rights of the parties. In re Lipman (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 169, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 139.

Judicial Code, § 66, which authorizes a receiver appointed by a federal court to be sued without previous leave of such court "in respect of any act or transaction of his in carrying on the business connected with" the property in his charge, applies to receivers in bankruptcy. In re Kalb & Berger Mfg. Co. (1908) 165 Fed. 895, 91 C. C. A. 573, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 393; In re Kanter & Cohen (1903) 121 Fed. 984, 58 C. C. A. 260; In re Smith (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 1014; In re Kelley Dry Goods Co. (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 747, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 528. But it does not authorize a suit without leave against such receiver unless he is carrying on the business of the bankrupt, or in respect to his acts relating merely to the care and preservation of the property of the estate. In re Kalb & Berger Mfg. Co. (1908) 165 Fed. 895, 91 C. C. A. 573, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 393.

A bill is properly dismissed for want of equity where no relief is asked by complainant for himself, but an accounting by the receiver in bankruptcy of defendant company is prayed, and certain of his actions and a composition settlement are complained of, and it is not stated that the proceedings are terminated and the receiver discharged, and where it is further prayed that certain amounts collected from certain defendants be distributed among the creditors of defendant company, but complainant is a stockholder and not injured by alleged fraudulent acts of the officers of defendant company; it not being claimed that the assets of the company were sufficient to pay creditors when it ceased to do business. Quait v. Wortham Bros. Co. (1913) 176 Ill. App. 273.

It may be proper for a receiver in bankruptcy to enter his appearance in a suit pending against the bankrupt at the time of his appointment. In re Muncie Pulp Co. (1907) 151 Fed. 732, 81 C. C. A. 116, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 56. But in respect to claims which will be provable in the bankruptcy proceedings, the receiver is not the proper person to adjust such claims or to defend suits thereon, and an action on such a claim, against the receiver as such, will not be authorized or allowed by the bankruptcy court in any event. In re Heim Milk Product Co. (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 787, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 746.

The court of bankruptcy has no jurisdiction to stay or prevent the maintenance of an action against the receiver to enforce a personal liability against him for acts done beyond the scope of his authority. In re Spechler Bros. (D. C. 1911) 185 Fed. 311, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 97; In re Kalb & Berger Mfg. Co. (1908) 165 Fed. 895, 91 C. C. A. 573, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 393.

If a receiver in bankruptcy takes possession not only of the property designated in the order appointing him, but also of other goods, the property of a third person, and which never were owned by the bankrupt, the owner thereof may maintain trespass in a state court against the receiver as an individual, for thus interfering with property which was outside the order of the court. In re Young (D. C. 1881) 7 Fed. 855. A state court has jurisdiction of an action against a receiver in bankruptcy to recover rent for premises occupied by the bankrupt under a lease which the receiver elected to accept. Brooklyn Improvement Co. v. Lewis (1910) 136 App. Div. 861, 122 N. Y. Supp. 111. A receiver in bankruptcy is not personally liable for negligence of a person employed by him to remove property which he was authorized to remove, where the receiver was not guilty of any negligence in the selection of such employé. Frederick A. Stokes Co. v. Carell (Sup. 1912) 138 N. Y. Supp. 536.

26. Ancillary receiverships.—A court of bankruptcy possesses jurisdiction to appoint an ancillary receiver for property found within its territory and belonging to a debtor against whom a petition in involuntary bankruptcy has been filed in another district. In re Dunseath & Son Co. (D. C. 1909) 168 Fed. 973, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 742; In re John L. Nelson & Bro. Co. (D. C. 1907) 149 Fed. 590, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 66; In re Benedict (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 55, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 232. Compare Ross-Meeham Foundry Co. v. Southern Car & Foundry Co. (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 403, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 624; In re Dempster (C. C. A. 1909) 172 Fed. 353, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 751.

The power to appoint an ancillary receiver in bankruptcy ought not to be exercised without such notice to the persons in possession of the property, and to other parties in interest, as will answer the requirement of due process of law. Ross-Meeham Foundry Co. v. Southern Car & Foundry Co. (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 403, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 624.

The court of bankruptcy appointing an ancillary receiver has jurisdiction to hear and determine the claims of third persons asserting title to the property in question or liens upon it. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Gaskell (1912) 195 Fed. 865, 115 C. C. A. 527, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 4. Such court also has authority to settle the ancillary receiver's accounts, affording to creditors, or to the trustee of the primary jurisdiction, an opportunity to question the correctness of the accounting in the ancillary court, the receiver not being bound to account to the court of primary jurisdiction. Loeser v. Dallas (1911) 192 Fed. 909, 114 C. C. A. 349, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 733.

The duty of an ancillary receiver in bankruptcy is limited to the collection of assets and to holding the same to await the appointment of a trustee, and he will not ordinarily be authorized to sell any of the property in his custody. In re Brockton Ideal Shoe Co. (D. C. 1912) 194 Fed. 233, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577.

An application to vacate the receivership, on a ground going to the root of the whole matter, as, that the alleged bankrupt was solvent and had not committed an act of bankruptcy, should not be made in the first instance to the court of ancillary jurisdiction (the same person having been appointed receiver in both districts), but to the court of original jurisdiction. In re Hayes (D. C. 1912) 192 Fed. 1018, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 713.

27. Accounts and compensation of receiver.—Exceptions to the account filed by a receiver in bankruptcy should be verified, but the omission of a verification is an amendable defect. In re Ketterer Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 719, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 638.

When the accounts of a receiver have been settled by a court having jurisdiction, he may be summarily ordered to pay over the balance due, and his surety may be held liable therefor. In re Reliable Bottle Box Co. (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 670, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 371.

A receiver in bankruptcy will be surcharged with the value of any property coming into his hands and not accounted for. In re Consumers' Coffee Co. (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 786, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 835.

Though a petition in bankruptcy is dismissed, on the ground that the alleged bankrupt was not amenable to the law, yet as the court had jurisdiction to determine that question, its appointment of a receiver was not void, and hence it may in its discretion allow and pay the expenses of the receivership out of the funds in the receiver's hands, where his services were beneficial to the estate. In re Wentworth Lunch Co. (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 831.

It was formerly held that the question of allowing commissions or compensation to the receiver in bankruptcy, and the amount, was committed entirely to the sound judicial discretion of the court, as in ordinary cases in courts of equity, to be determined upon a consideration of the services rendered in the particular case. In re Schoenfeld (1910) 183 Fed. 219, 105 C. C. A. 481, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 748; In re Kirkpatrick (1906) 148 Fed. 811, 78 C. C. A. 501, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 594; In re Martin Borgeson Co. (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 780, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 178; In re Leonard (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 503, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 97. But this matter was specifically regulated by an amendment to the bankruptcy act adopted June 25, 1910, c. 412, 36 Stat. 838. See infra, § 48.

28. —— Fees of receiver's attorney.—Ordinarily, the duties of a statutory receiver for an alleged bankrupt neither require nor justify the employment of an attorney, and hence no claim for the services of an attorney so employed is chargeable per se against the estate, predicated alone on the fact of employment and service rendered. In re T. E. Hill Co. (1907) 159 Fed. 73, 86 C. C. A. 263, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 73; In re Leonard (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 503, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 97; In re Union Bank (1883) 37 N. J. Eq. 420.

A receiver in bankruptcy is entitled to the assistance of counsel, and a reasonable allowance (keeping in view the economy enjoined by the general policy of the bankruptcy act, and taking into consideration the value of the estate) will be made to him in the settlement of his accounts for services rendered in the administration of the estate while in his hands. He is not entitled to an allowance for services rendered by the attorney for the petitioning creditors in instituting the proceedings and obtaining the receiver's appointment, or for other services rendered primarily in the interests of his clients, and the former is a matter for consideration (if at all) on the settlement of the estate in the hands of the trustee, with which the receiver has nothing to do. In re Oppenheimer (D. C. 1906) 146 Fed. 140, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 59; In re Falkenberg (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 835, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 718.

Where attorneys for the receiver of an alleged bankrupt were also actively engaged in a protracted contest in bankruptcy, as attorneys for the petitioning creditors, and were not independent counsel employed by the receiver, as contemplated by an order granting leave to the receiver to employ counsel, and the bankruptcy proceeding was thereafter dismissed, an order declining to make an allowance to such attorneys for services rendered to the receiver was correct, such expense being rightfully chargeable against the petitioning creditors. In re T. E. Hill Co. (1907) 159 Fed. 73, 86 C. C. A. 263, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 73.

Since a receiver in bankruptcy is required to stand independent of the parties to the litigation, he will not be allowed to charge the estate for services rendered to him by the attorney for either party during the continuance of such relation. In re T. L. Kelly Dry Goods Co. (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 747, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 528.

Fees to the attorney for a receiver in bankruptcy should be allowed only to the extent that his services were rendered for the direct benefit of the entire estate, and not of any particular creditor. In re Ketterer Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 719, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 638; Platt v. Archer (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 11,214.

The number of attorneys employed by a receiver in bankruptcy is not an element to be considered in allowing fees, but the allowance should be made as though but one attorney had been employed. In re Falkenberg (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 835, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 718.

29. Sales of property by receivers.—A receiver appointed by the court of bankruptcy to take charge of the property of the bankrupt, pending the election and qualification of a trustee, may be ordered to sell the property or any part of it, when such a course is necessary for the preservation of its value. In re Becker (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 407, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 412; In re B. D. Garner & Co. (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 914, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 733; In re De Lancey Stables Co. (D. C. 1909) 170 Fed. 860, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 406. If the receiver is not in possession of particular property, the court of bankruptcy has no jurisdiction to order its sale and determine the rights of adverse claimants in the proceeds. First Nat. Bank v. Chicago Title & Trust Co. (1905) 198 U. S. 280, 25 Sup. Ct. 693, 49 L. Ed. 1051, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 102. But this may be done with the consent of the claimant who has the possession of the property. Ommen v. Talcott (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 261, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 572. Where a corporation is adjudged bankrupt in Massachusetts and an ancillary receiver appointed in New York, he will not be authorized to sell the bankrupt's stock in trade in New York, in the absence of any proceedings therefor in the domiciliary jurisdiction. In re Brockton Ideal Shoe Co. (D. C. 1912) 194 Fed. 233, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577. A sale by a receiver in bankruptcy without the order of the court conveys no title. In re Styer (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 290, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 424; In re Fulton (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 664, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 591; Muschel v. Austern (1904) 43 Misc. Rep. 352, 87 N. Y. Supp. 235. A receiver in bankruptcy has no authority to sell at private sale on his own responsibility, but if he reports to the court an offer made by an outside party for the purchase of property in his charge, and the court makes an order authorizing him to accept the offer and sell the property, the transaction becomes a judicial sale, and the purchaser can be compelled, by rule or attachment, to comply with its terms. In re J. Jungmann, Inc. (1911) 186 Fed. 302, 108 C. C. A. 380, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 401.

In view of the temporary nature of the functions of a receiver in bankruptcy, sales of property by him should be authorized only when the property is perishable or is rapidly depreciating in value. In re Desrochers (D. C. 1911) 183 Fed. 991, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 703; In re Harris (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 875, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 635. Where the receiver acquires possession of a leasehold as part of the bankrupt's estate, he should not attempt to make a sale of it. In re Fulton (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 664, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 591. The sale of goods as perishable is for the benefit of all concerned, the money realized standing in place of the property itself, against which the parties interested may assert their rights the same as if the sale had not taken place. In re Le Vay (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 990, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 114.

"Perishable property," as used in General Bankruptcy Order 18 (post, § 9614), permitting the court in its discretion to direct sale of perishable property, held not limited to the property which deteriorates physically, but includes that liable to deteriorate in value and price by reason of delay in the disposition thereof. In re Pedlow (1913) 209 Fed. 841, 126 C. C. A. 565.

III. TAXATION OF COSTS AND FEES

30. Power to award costs.—The obvious policy of the Bankruptcy Act, manifest in all of its provisions touching on the subject, is to reduce to a minimum the expense of administering estates, and the courts are bound to give the statute such a construction and application as will fulfill the intention of congress in this regard. In re J. W. Harrison Mercantile Co. (D.

C. 1899) 95 Fed. 123, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 419; In re Fullick (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 463, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 634.

In cases of involuntary bankruptcy, where the debtor resists adjudication, and the court, after hearing, adjudges the debtor a bankrupt, the petitioning creditors shall recover, and be paid out of the estate, the same costs that are allowed to a party recovering in a suit in equity; and if the petition is dismissed, the debtor shall recover like costs against the petitioner. General Order in Bankruptcy, No. 34 (post, § 9614). And see In re Ghiglione (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 186, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 580; In re Morris (D. C. 1902) 115 Fed. 591, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 709. As regards the case where the petition is dismissed, it is held that this applies only in cases where the jurisdiction of the court was not questioned, or was sustained, and the decision was on the merits, and not to cases where the petition was dismissed for want of jurisdiction or because the defendant was not amenable to the law. In re Philadelphia & Lewis Transp. Co. (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 896, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 444.

Upon the dismissal of a petition in bankruptcy, the respondent is entitled to costs, but not to an allowance for counsel fees or expenses or damages, unless there was an application to seize and hold his property. In re Williams (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 34, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 736; In re Morris (D. C. 1902) 115 Fed. 591, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 709; In re Ghiglione (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 186, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 580. And the fact that a temporary injunction was granted to restrain supposed debtors from paying money into the hands of the alleged bankrupt does not bring the case within the provisions of Bankruptcy Act, § 3e (post, § 9687). In re Williams (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 34, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 736.

The court of bankruptcy has authority under its general equity powers to order the petitioning creditors to pay the expenses of a receivership, where the receiver was appointed on their application on the filing of their petition, which petition was subsequently dismissed as unfounded. In re Lacov (1905) 142 Fed. 960, 74 C. C. A. 130, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 290. See In re Eagle Steam Laundry Co. (D. C. 1911) 184 Fed. 949, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 868. And such order may be enforced by proceedings in contempt. In re Lacov (1905) 142 Fed. 960, 74 C. C. A. 130, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 290. But if the receiver has continued in the possession of the property until after the defendant has been adjudged bankrupt by the court in another district, the authority to compensate the receiver passes to the court making the adjudication, which takes exclusive jurisdiction of the estate. In re Sears, Humbert & Co. (1904) 128 Fed. 275, 62 C. C. A. 623.

Where creditors successfully oppose the bankrupt's application for discharge, and incur costs and expenses in so doing, they would ordinarily be taxable against the bankrupt; but if he is entirely without money, the court will not make a useless order upon him to pay such costs, and there is no warrant in law to tax such costs against the estate. In re Kyte (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 531, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 507.

31. Amount and items of costs.—On dismissal of an involuntary bankruptcy petition, only such costs, counsel fees, expenses, and damages as are occasioned by the seizure and detention of the bankrupt's property can be recovered; the recovery of all other costs and expenses depending on their being brought within clause 18 of this section and General Order 34 (post, § 9614), which are merely declaratory of the general equity power over cost. In re Ward (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 769.

Petitioning and intervening creditors and alleged bankrupt may stipulate for an apportionment as between themselves of the costs and expenses, and a creditor may not then set off against the amount of expenses taxed against him his demand against the bankrupt. King Hardware Co. v. J. G. Christopher Co. (1915) 222 Fed. 224, 138 C. C. A. 54.

Customers of a bankrupt stockbroker, carrying stocks on a margin, are not entitled to any docket fee in reclamation proceedings. In re J. F. Pierson, Jr., & Co. (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 889.

A trustee in bankruptcy, bringing an action to recover stock alleged to have been fraudulently transferred by the bankrupt, and taking possession thereof as provided by Code Civ. Proc. Cal. § 510 et seq., held not entitled, as a part of his costs, to the expenses incurred in keeping and feeding the stock pending the action. Meyer v. Perkins (Cal. App. 1913) 130 P. 206, rehearing denied by Supreme Court, Id. 208.

Extra compensation to expert witnesses, above the statutory witness fee and mileage, cannot be taxed as costs or allowed against a losing party in a court of bankruptcy; and the court will not be bound to make such an allowance because counsel have so agreed, especially where the agreement is not in writing. In re Carolina Cooperage Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 604.

As to the expense of taking down and preserving testimony, it is held that, except where a stenographer is employed on the application of the trustee, as provided by section 38, cl. 5 (post, § 9622), or there has been a stipulation of parties, or money has been deposited for the expense, as provided by General Order in Bankruptcy No. 10 (post, § 9614), the referee cannot be allowed for the expense of a stenographer. In re Mammoth Pine Lumber Co. (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 731, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 651. In any event, the compensation allowed to stenographers will be scrutinized by the court, and reduced if deemed excessive. In re Ellett Electric Co. (D. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 400, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 453.

32. —— Costs on appeal.—Where proceedings for review of an order of the court of bankruptcy are dismissed for want of jurisdiction, without any motion therefor, neither party will be allowed costs. Hutchinson v. Le Roy (1902) 113 Fed. 202, 51 C. C. A. 159, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 20. No costs should be allowed to either party where, on appeal against a trustee from an order in bankruptcy, such order is reversed on a ground not assigned or urged by the appellant. In re Dickson (1901) 111 Fed. 726, 49 C. C. A. 574, 55 L. R. A. 349, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 186.

Although a decree in bankruptcy is reversed on review in the circuit court of appeals, no costs should be allowed when the petition for review was delayed nearly six months, and the estate has probably deteriorated through the delay, and where further proceedings are necessary. In re Endlar (1911) 192 Fed. 762, 113 C. C. A. 48, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 758.

Where an appeal is taken from an order overruling respondent's demurrer to a bill of complaint brought by the trustee in bankruptcy, and pending the appeal the bill is voluntarily dismissed by the complainant, on leave of court, without prejudice, and at his own cost, thereby making necessary the dismissal of the appeal, he should be required to pay the costs on appeal. In re Orman (1901) 107 Fed. 101, 46 C. C. A. 165, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 698.

33. Persons entitled to costs.—Where a petition for adjudication in involuntary bankruptcy is contested, costs will be awarded to the successful party, that is, to the alleged bankrupt if he defeats the petition, or to the petitioning creditors if the adjudication is made. In re Sheehan (D. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 353, Fed. Cas. No. 12,738.

The bankrupt is entitled to his disbursements in proceedings to obtain his discharge. In re Dibblee (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 3,887. If the bankrupt advances the money necessary to pay for the issuance and publication of notices of his application for discharge, he is entitled to repayment of the same out of the estate. In re Hatcher (D. C. 1906) 145 Fed. 658, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 722. In a proceeding to revoke or annul the discharge of a bankrupt, costs may be awarded to the prevailing party. In re Holgate (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 6,601.

A trustee in bankruptcy is entitled to costs on bringing to a successful conclusion an action to recover assets of the bankrupt, set aside an unlawful assignment or transfer of his property, avoid a fraudulent conveyance, or recover an illegal preference. Ommen v. Talcott (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 261, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 572; Stackhouse v. Holden (1901) 66 App. Div. 423, 73 N. Y. Supp. 203; Clowe v. Seavey (1911) 74 Misc. Rep. 254, 131 N. Y. Supp. 817; Parker v. Travers (1908) 74 N. J. Eq. 812, 71 Atl. 612.

Claimants having claims against the estates of bankrupts must ordinarily establish them at their own expense, and they will not be allowed their costs and expenses out of the estate, unless where it appears that the defense made by the trustee was captious or unwarranted. In re Stewart (D. C. 1910) 178 Fed. 463, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 474. But see In re Waterloo Organ Co. (1907) 154 Fed. 657, 83 C. C. A. 481, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 752. Where issues in the bankruptcy proceedings, arising out of the involved conditions of the claims, were caused entirely by the methods of the creditor, the trustee should not be charged with costs. Dowse v. Hammond (1904) 130 Fed. 103, 64 C. C. A. 437.

On referee's finding for claimant, seeking to reclaim property from trustee in bankruptcy, allowance of costs and disbursements to claimant held within the referee's discretion. In re Reeves (D. C. 1915) 227 Fed. 711.

Costs in bankruptcy, to be paid out of proceeds of specific property covered by a lien before payment of the lien creditor, specified. In re Rauch (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 982.

In the case of proceedings taken by parties other than the trustee, such as judgment creditors, mortgagees, or other lien claimants, to set aside fraudulent conveyances, or otherwise to rescue or reclaim property alleged to belong to the estate in bankruptcy, the general rule is that they may be allowed compensation out of the estate for costs, expenses, and counsel fees, in so far as their efforts have inured to the benefit of the general creditors, in the way of creating or preserving a fund for distribution, but not otherwise. In re Lesser (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 433, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 815; In re J. C. H. Claussen & Co. (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 300, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 34; In re Dumahaut (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 394, Fed. Cas. No. 4,126.

A sheriff or other person who has had the custody of property of a bankrupt estate may be reimbursed for his expenses in caring for and preserving it. In re Fortune (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 662, Fed. Cas. No. 4,955; In re Williams (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 229, Fed. Cas. No. 17,705.

Where property of the bankrupt was attached within four months before the filing of the petition, it is error to require, as a condition of delivery of the attached property to the trustee, that he shall pay counsel fees and costs to the attorney for the attaching creditors and the costs of the attachment. In re Shoemaker (1913) 205 Fed. 113, 123 C. C. A. 345, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 349.

34. Persons, property, or funds liable for costs.—It is the duty of every one connected with the administration of the bankruptcy laws to make sure that no fees or charges, except those intended by the facts of Congress, are paid out of the estate. In re Metallic Specialty Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed. 937.

Where an alleged bankrupt appealed from an involuntary adjudication, he was not entitled to an order requiring a receiver of his property to pay the costs of the transcript and the printing of the record out of the proceeds of the bankrupt's estate in his hands, merely because the bankrupt was without the means to bear such expenses. Herman Keck Mfg. Co. v. Lorsch (1910) 179 Fed. 485, 103 C. C. A. 65, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 705.

Under a stipulation between petitioning and intervening creditors and the bankrupt for apportionment of expenses, including allowances to accountants, the bankrupt held liable for its part of the allowances to the accountants. King Hardware Co. v. J. G. Christopher Co. (1915) 222 Fed. 224, 138 C. C. A. 54.

Since counsel fees, expenses and damages provided by section 3e (post, § 9587), on dismissal of involuntary proceedings, are for special services or damages occasioned by the wrongful taking of the property of an alleged bankrupt, such fees and damages are not taxable in the bankruptcy proceedings, but are recoverable in a suit on petitioners' bond. In re Wise (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 567.

Where a petition in bankruptcy is dismissed because it is found that the bankrupt was insane at the time of committing the alleged act of bankruptcy, the costs may be charged against the petitioning creditors. In re Ward (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 769, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 547.

Where an execution creditor intervenes and opposes the adjudication, on the ground that the debtor is not insolvent, but unsuccessfully, the costs of the proceeding, in so far as the same was rendered necessary by his opposition, may be taxed against such intervener, including the fees of witnesses summoned by him and of any witnesses summoned by the petitioning creditors whose examination would not have been necessary but for the intervention. In re Carolina Cooperage Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 604.

Petitioning creditors who succeed in procuring an adjudication of bankruptcy are entitled to be reimbursed out of the estate for their expenditures and to the allowance of a reasonable attorney's fee. In re Mitteldorfer (C. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 1, Fed. Cas. No. 9,675.

Where, on the application of creditors accompanying the petition in involuntary bankruptcy, property of the bankrupt is seized and held pending the adjudication, and the result is the securing or preserving for the estate of valuable property which otherwise would have been lost or dissipated, the petitioning creditors are entitled to reimbursement for their costs and expenses. In re Schwab (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 12,498. But where, such a course having been taken, the petition is dismissed, the damages occasioned by the seizure and detention of the property are recoverable, not against the petitioning creditors generally, but against that creditor on whose application the property was seized. In re Ward (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 769, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 547.

Costs may be awarded against a particular creditor who has insisted on and procured an unnecessary and fruitless examination of the bankrupt in the hope of discovering concealed assets. In re Rozinsky (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 229, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 830. Or against one who has procured the appointment of a receiver, when such appointment proves to have been unauthorized or unnecessary. In re Wentworth Lunch Co. (C. C. A. 1911) 191 Fed. 821, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 515; In re Charles W. Aschenbach Co. (1910) 183 Fed. 305, 105 C. C. A. 517, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 502. Or one who has unsuccessfully opposed the bankrupt's application for discharge. In re Miers (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 288, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 870.

If on the appointment of a receiver no bond, or an inadequate bond, is given, the applicant for the appointment is nevertheless liable for the costs and expenses of the receivership. T. E. Hill Co. v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. (1914) 107 N. E. 194, 265 Ill. 534, affirming judgment (1914) 184 Ill. App. 528.

Where, on re-examination of the allowance of certain claims against a bankrupt's estate, it was found on sufficient evidence that the claims were unsustainable, the referee properly required the claimant to pay the costs of the hearing, but he was not authorized to require that the claimant should also pay a fee to the trustee's attorney. In re Rome (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 971, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 820. And see In re Todd (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 265, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 88. Even where the claimant succeeds in establishing his claim, as against opposition, the court will not allow him costs and attorneys' fees out of the estate. In re Coventry Evans Furniture Co. (D.

C. 1909) 171 Fed. 673, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 623. Especially where the costs on the contest of a claim grew out of a controversy between creditors, entirely carried on for the purpose of controlling the election of the trustee, they will not be allowed out of the estate. In re Worth (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 927, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 566.

Where a claimant of property in the hands of a bankrupt's trustee filed a reclamation petition which was subsequently dismissed as fraudulent and unsustainable, the proceeding being analogous to a suit in equity, the trustee was entitled to an allowance against the petitioner, as a part of the costs, of the charges and expenses properly incurred in preserving the property during the pendency of the petition and directly resulting from such proceedings. In re Schocket (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 583, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 47.

A proceeding by petitioning creditor of bankrupt to reclaim surplus proceeds of collaterals sold by another creditor and proceeds of a stock exchange seat of bankrupt held not a part of the distribution of the estate between creditors as affecting the award of costs. In re H. B. Hollins & Co. (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 618.

A customer of a bankrupt stockbroker, finding his stock in loans, held not liable to disbursements in reclamation proceedings, but expenses should be borne by general creditors. In re J. F. Pierson, Jr., & Co. (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 889.

Where a mortgagee or other lien claimant files and proves his claim in the bankruptcy proceedings for allowance and payment out of the proceeds of the property affected, he is properly chargeable with his pro rata share of the costs of the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Franklin (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 642, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 218.

Where a mortgagee of a bankrupt asserts a lien for an excessive amount, which is contested by the trustee, part or all of the expense thereby incurred, including an attorney's allowance, may be charged against the fund that would otherwise go to the mortgagee. In re Howard (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 402.

Only costs incidental to preservation of property, its conversion, and payment to the landlord, held to be paid out of property on which a landlord has a lien. In re Rauch (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 982.

Where the court of bankruptcy, for the sake of realizing the supposed value of the equity of redemption in the mortgaged property, takes control of the same and causes it to be sold by the trustee, the creditor assenting to, but not inviting, such a course, the proceeds should not be charged with any part of the costs and expenses of the bankruptcy proceeding in general, incurred solely for the benefit of unsecured creditors, but since the mortgagee is benefited to the extent of having his lien foreclosed for him by the bankruptcy sale, he may properly be called upon to bear the actual costs and expenses of the sale. In re Williams' Estate (1907) 156 Fed. 934, 84 C. C. A. 434, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 389; In re Howard (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 402; The Bethulia (D. C. 1912) 200 Fed. 879; Mills v. Virginia-Carolina Lumber Co. (C. C. A. 1908) 164 Fed. 168, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 750; In re Prince & Walter (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 546, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 675; In re Goldville Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 579, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 552; In re Peabody (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 243, Fed. Cas. No. 10,866. And also, if equitable considerations justify it, to contribute towards the expense of caring for and preserving the property before the sale. In re Evans Lumber Co. (D. C. 1910) 176 Fed. 643, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 881. Compare In re Vulcan Foundry & Machine Co. (1910) 180 Fed. 671, 103 C. C. A. 637, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 825.

Where mortgaged property was operated by the receiver without the procurement of the mortgagee, and sold for less than the mortgage debt, neither the fees, or costs of administering the general bankruptcy estate nor of operating the property could be charged against the proceeds to the prejudice of the mortgagee. In re Elmore Cotton Mills (D. C. 1914) 217 Fed. 808.

Where a mill, conducted by a bankrupt corporation on mortgaged property, was operated by the bankrupt's receiver at a loss without the knowledge of the mortgagees, and they proved their claims in bankruptcy to enforce their lien against the proceeds of the mortgaged property, which were insufficient to pay the mortgage debt, such proceeds were not liable for the loss incurred by the receiver, nor for the expense of general administration. In re Elmore Cotton Mills (D. C. 1914) 217 Fed. 810.

Cost of bankruptcy proceeding held not payable from proceeds of mortgaged property, though there were practically no other assets: such proceeds being insufficient to pay the secured indebtedness. In re Cutler & John (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 771.

The bankruptcy act, authorizing the payment of commissions from the proceeds of the sale of incumbered property of a bankrupt, applies only to cases in which the bankruptcy court rightfully exercised its jurisdiction to sell free from liens, or where the lienholder consented to a sale; but where the incumbered property brought much less than the amount of the liens upon it, the estate in bankruptcy must pay the commissions of the referee and trustee. In re Holmes Lumber Co. (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 178, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 119.

Where the trustees of a bankrupt corporation do not receive possession of its assets, because the same have been placed in the hands of receivers of another court in foreclosure proceedings, but they conceive it to be their duty to defend the foreclosure suits, and file a cross bill looking to the administration of the entire assets, they are entitled to have the compensation for themselves and their attorneys made a direct charge on the property prior to the claims of creditors and stockholders. Meddaugh v. Wilson (1894) 151 U. S. 333, 14 Sup. Ct. 356, 38 L. Ed. 183.

When the trustee brings suit to set aside a fraudulent conveyance, recover a preference, or the like, the costs are to be borne by the unsuccessful defendant, and not to be taken out of the property or fund recovered. Bunch v. Smith (1906) 116 Tenn. 201, 93 S. W. 80; Collins v. Bryan (1905) 40 Tex. Civ. App. 88, 88 S. W. 432. But in an action by a trustee in bankruptcy to set aside an assignment by the bankrupt of his interest in remainder, the taxable cost of an infant defendant, who was impleaded in the action and defended by a guardian ad litem, should be paid out of the funds of the estate. Clowe v. Seavey (1911) 74 Misc. Rep. 254, 131 N. Y. Supp. 817. In an action by the trustee to set aside a preference or a fraudulent conveyance, if he is unsuccessful, the expense falls upon the estate in bankruptcy. Ommen v. Talcott (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 261, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 572; In re Babcock (C. C. 1845) Fed. Cas. No. 697.

Where a trustee in bankruptcy paid attorney's fees, leaving an insufficient amount in his hands to pay a watchman employed to care for the property of the estate, he would have to stand the loss, unless he could obtain a refund from the attorneys. In re Mitchell (1914) 212 Fed. 932, 129 C. C. A. 452.

35. Taxation of costs.—Claims for costs, expenses, and fees should be filed with the referee in bankruptcy, in order that they may be examined by parties in interest and that any person aggrieved by the ruling of the referee may have the same reviewed. In re Stoddard Bros. Lumber Co. (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 190. 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 435; In re Rosenberg (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 73, Fed. Cas. No. 12,056. The question of allowance may be determined by the referee ex parte, and notice to creditors of the hearing on such claims is not a prerequisite to the validity of his order. In re Stotts (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 438, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 641. The amount to be allowed as a fee to the attorney of a voluntary bankrupt rests largely in the discretion of the referee, and his allowance will not be disturbed by the judge in the absence of evidence that it was unjust or excessive. In re Tebo (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 419, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 235.

A judgment taxing bankrupt's costs and disbursements on dismissal of petition held not to prevent subsequent assessment of costs, expenses, and damages of receivership. In re McKenzie (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 630.

Where a contest over an involuntary bankruptcy petition was submitted to a master, a direction that expenses incident to a receivership and the taking of testimony should be paid out of funds in the hands of the receiver was provisional only, and did not constitute an adjudication as to all persons ultimately chargeable therewith. In re Ward (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 769.

Stipulation between petitioning and intervening creditors and an alleged bankrupt held to leave to the court how allowances shall be apportioned between intervening creditors and the petitioning creditors primarily liable. A stipulation between petitioning and intervening creditors and an alleged bankrupt for the payment of expenses and costs held to require one-half of the net amount of an expense to be charged against the bankrupt and the balance against the creditors. King Hardware Co. v. J. G. Christofer Co. (1915) 222 Fed. 224, 138 C. C. A. 54.

Costs will be allowed to an alleged bankrupt on the dismissal of an involuntary petition against him only after the filing of his bill of costs with the clerk and notice to the petitioning creditors. In re Haeseler-Kohlhoff Carbon Co. (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 867, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 381.

No fee to the attorney of the bankrupt can be allowed in voluntary proceedings, except upon proof of services actually rendered to the bankrupt in doing the things which the law requires of him. In re Terrill (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 781, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 625. The statute does not make the allowance of an attorney's fee in involuntary cases a matter of right, but gives the court discretionary power and where such an allowance is asked for, the attorney must disclose his dealings with his client, in order that the court may act intelligently in the matter. In re Carr (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 572, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 58.

Marshals must present vouchers for the items charged in their accounts, or produce satisfactory reasons for the absence of such vouchers. In re Comstock (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 88, Fed. Cas. No. 3,075. The claim of the marshal for expenditures must be supported by his own oath as to their amount and the necessity for them. In re Hellmar (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 6,342. Such affidavit is not conclusive, so as to preclude any further inquiry into the items charged. In re Pace (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 10,640.

36. Fees of attorneys.—In bankruptcy cases, compensation may be allowed to an attorney, at law out of a particular property or fund before the court only when his services have had the effect of preserving it for the true owner, and out of the estate in general only when his services have resulted in adding to it, increasing its value, freeing it from claims, or otherwise benefiting the general body of creditors. Gillespie v. J. C. Piles & Co. (1910) 178 Fed. 886, 102 C. C. A. 120, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 502; In re Huddleston (C. C. A. 1908) 167 Fed. 428, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 669; In re Covington (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 884, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 150; In re Irwin (D. C. 1909) 177 Fed. 284, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165.

While the amount of compensation to be allowed for the services of an attorney in bankruptcy proceedings rests largely in the sound judicial discretion of the court, yet this discretion must be exercised in view of the general purpose of the statute, which requires that, as far as possible, all the assets shall be available for the creditors, and that estates shall be administered with economy and at a minimum of expense. In re Iron Clad Mfg. Co. (1914) 215 Fed. 877, 132 C. C. A. 11; Dunlap Hardware Co. v. Huddleston (C. C. A. 1908) 167 Fed. 433, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 731; In re Young (D. C. 1906) 142 Fed. 891, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 106; In re Goldville Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 579, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 552; In re Lang (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 755, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 794. Only a reasonable fee will be allowed to an attorney in any event. In re Talton (D. C. 1905) 137 Fed. 178, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 617. Where a rule of court fixes the scale of fees allowable, such allowance will not be increased except in most unusual cases. In re Keller (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 118, 31 Am. Bankr. Rep. 51.

The referee in bankruptcy is not bound to allow the fee claimed by the attorney, or agreed upon between the attorney and the trustee, but he may and should reduce it if he thinks it too great. In re Ferreri (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 675, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 658. The question of allowing a fee may be determined by the referee ex parte, and he is not required to notify creditors of the pendency of the question and an opportunity to be heard thereon. In re Stotts (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 438, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 641. The referee should be satisfied by evidence of the character and value of the attorney's services, and may suspend action on the application until satisfactory evidence is produced. In re Dreeben (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 110, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 146; In re Curtis (1900) 100 Fed. 784, 41 C. C. A. 59, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 17. The decision of the referee, depending largely upon the exercise of judgment and discretion, will not be disturbed by the judge in the absence of evidence to show that the fee allowed was exorbitant or excessive. In re Tebo (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 419, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 235. But the referee's discretion is judicial, and not arbitrary, and, though he recommends the allowance of a particular fee, it will be reduced by the judge if the latter regards it as extravagant. In re Carr (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 556, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 635. The appellate court may reduce the fee allowed by the referee and approved by the judge, if the judge has failed to exercise his own discretion with a due regard to the policy of the statute and the rights of the parties. In re Curtis (1900) 100 Fed. 784, 41 C. C. A. 59, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 17.

In a proceeding in a court of bankruptcy to determine the amount to be allowed as a fee to the attorney of a creditor, out of such creditor's distributive share of the estate, a trial by jury may be allowed in the discretion of the court, but cannot be claimed as a matter of right, proceedings in bankruptcy being equitable in character. In re Rude (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 805, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 319.

Where more than one attorney or set of attorneys render services for the benefit of an estate in bankruptcy, there must be a division of the allowable fee, rather than a duplication or multiplication of fees. In re Coney Island Lumber Co. (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 197, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 91.

In voluntary proceedings, the attorney for the bankrupt may properly be allowed a docket fee for filing the application for discharge, if there is no contest. If there is a contest made by the trustee at the instance of the creditors, which is unsuccessful, he may be given a larger allowance from the estate. But where an unsuccessful contest is made by one or more creditors, the question of costs and fees should be treated as one arising inter partes, and the estate generally ought not to suffer from an ill-advised contest. In re Keller (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 118, 31 Am. Bankr. Rep. 51.

37. —— Attorney for bankrupt.—In determining the reasonable value of services rendered to a bankrupt by his attorney, neither the assets nor the liabilities of the estate represent or measure the value of the matter involved. In re Lane Lumber Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 780, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 749. The allowance of a fee can be made only for the reasonable value of services actually required, irrespective of the services actually rendered. In re Connell & Sons (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 846, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 474. The attorney cannot claim compensation for all legal work he may do for the bankrupt in the proceedings, but only for that which the referee or the court may consider was required by the provisions of the law and the necessities of the particular case. In re Payne (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 1018, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 192. It is necessary that the attorney's professional services should have been reasonably necessary to enable the bankrupt to discharge his duties under the law. In re Lane Lumber Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 780, 30 Am.

Bankr. Rep. 749. It is necessary that the attorney's services should have conduced to the benefit of the estate, or to its prompt, efficient, or economical administration. In re Duran Mercantile Co. (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 961, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 450; In re Goldville Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 579, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 552; In re Rosenthal & Lehman (D. C. 1902) 120 Fed. 848, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 626.

Where an alleged involuntary bankrupt successfully resists adjudication, he is entitled to have a $20 attorney's fee taxed as part of the costs in his favor. In re Wise (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 567. On dismissal of an involuntary bankruptcy proceeding against respondent, he was not entitled to have an allowance for counsel fees taxed in his bill of costs, though the proceeding was not instituted in good faith. In re Shon (D. C. 1913) 212 Fed. 797. Where the amount paid by a corporation in contemplation of bankruptcy amply compensated its attorneys, where no petition to return is filed, they will not be required to pay back any excess. In re Union Dredging Co. (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 188.

Under the provision that the court may allow a reasonable fee to the attorney for the bankrupt in involuntary cases "while performing the duties herein prescribed," no such allowance will be made in a case where it is not shown that the bankrupt has performed the duties laid upon him by the law; but where it appears, on the contrary, that he has been actively engaged in trying to defeat or delay the proceedings. In re Woodard (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 955, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 692. But the fact that the bankrupt has disobeyed an order of the court requiring him to turn over money to his trustee, and has fled the jurisdiction, and is in contempt, will not prevent the allowance of a proper fee to his attorney for services rendered in the course of the proceedings before the occurrence of the contempt, such misconduct on the part of the bankrupt having been without the attorney's privity or complicity. In re Mayer (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 695, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 238.

The "duties" referred to in Bankruptcy Act, § 64b, to perform which the bankrupt is entitled to the service of an attorney to be paid out of the estate, are those imposed by section 7. Whitla & Nelson v. Boyd (1914) 213 Fed. 587, 130 C. C. A. 167, affirming judgment (D. C. 1913) In re Lane Lumber Co., 206 Fed. 780. Under § 64b, subsec. 3, and section 7, subsecs. 1 and 9 (post, § 9648), bankrupt held not entitled to attorney's fees for attending first meeting of creditors and the hearing on his application for a discharge. Attending sale of assets held not a duty within Bankruptcy Act. Getting his discharge held not a duty of bankrupt. In re Hammel (D. C. 1914) 211 Fed. 238.

The preparation of the bankrupt's petition and schedules is a work necessary to enable him to perform his duties under the act, and a proper and moderate fee should be allowed to his attorney out of the estate for this work, both in voluntary and involuntary cases. In re Fullick (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 463, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 634; In re Anderson (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 854, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 640; In re Mayer (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 695, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 238; In re Carolina Cooperage Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 950, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 154; In re Kennedy (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 7,700; In re Thompson (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 300, Fed. Cas. No. 13,938; In re Mansfield (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 9,048; In re Averill, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 544. Compare In re Matthews (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 772, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 265. The amount to be allowed for this service is not to be determined by the mere clerical labor involved, since the proper preparation of a schedule in bankruptcy requires a special kind of skill and knowledge. The systematizing, arrangement, and condensation of the matter should be considered. In re Andrews (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 59, Fed. Cas. No. 370. But where the work involves nothing that would be beyond the powers of any competent accountant, the fact that it was done by the bankrupt's attorney does not entitle him to charge, as against the estate, on a scale which would be strictly appropriate only for professional services properly so called. In re Lane Lumber Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 780, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 749. The bankrupt's attorney is not entitled to a fee for posting up the bankrupt's books and making extra copies of the schedules. In re Connell & Sons (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 846, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 474.

Where involuntary petition was brief, and bankrupt had consented to adjudication, and schedules were brief, an allowance to attorneys of petitioning creditors of $100 held sufficient. In re Atkins (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 639. An allowance of $25 to the attorney for an involuntary bankrupt, who only prepared the bankrupt's schedules, held sufficient. In re Fullick (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 463. Evidence of an attorney as to certain services rendered for the bankrupt after bankruptcy proceedings had been instituted and prior to the filing of the schedule held too vague to serve as a basis of a conclusion that the services were reasonably necessary to enable the bankrupt to perform its duties or a finding as to the value thereof. Whitla & Nelson v. Boyd (1914) 213 Fed. 587, 130 C. C. A. 167, affirming judgment In re Lane Lumber Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 780.

It is said that a bankrupt is not ordinarily entitled to the aid and presence of his counsel when attending before the referee or court for the purpose of giving information or undergoing examination, and hence his attorney should not be allowed fees out of the estate for such attendance upon the bankrupt, unless it is shown that there was some unusual contingency making his assistance really necessary. In re Lane Lumber Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 780, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 749; In re Kross (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 816, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 187. But see In re Mayer (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 695, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 238; In re Michel (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 803; In re Clark (D. C. 1872) 43 How. Prac. 70, Fed. Cas. No. 2,803.

The bankrupt's attorney is not entitled to a fee for assisting in making good the bankrupt's claim to exemptions and procuring the setting apart of the same. In re Bohrman (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 287; In re O'Hara (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 384, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 508; In re Castleberry (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 1021, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 430. Nor for services rendered in proceedings to confirm a composition. In re Fogarty (1911) 187 Fed. 773, 109 C. C. A. 621, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 568. Nor for services in obtaining a judgment in favor of the bankrupt before the bankruptcy, though he may have a fee for collecting the judgment for the trustee. In re Blum (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 304, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 60. The allowance to the attorney should not include a fee for defending the bankrupt against charges of fraud or concealment of assets, or other matters involving his personal liability, civil or criminal. In re Mayer (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 695, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 238; In re Felson (D. C. 1905) 139 Fed. 275, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 185. Where the trustee in bankruptcy is opposing the allowance of a claim against the estate, as are also some of the bankrupt's creditors, the bankrupt's attorney is not entitled to assist in such proceeding at the expense of the estate. In re Lane Lumber Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 780, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 749.

Services for which an attorney's fee is to be allowed in involuntary bankruptcy held such only as are proper professional service, and not to include conferring with creditors to induce them to join in the petition. In re Sage (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 397. Claim of a bankrupt's receiver appointed by a state court for fees and expenses held a matter for the bankrupt's trustees and creditors to determine, and hence the bankrupt's attorney was not entitled to fees for resisting such a claim. Whitla & Nelson v. Boyd (1914) 213 Fed. 587, 130 C. C. A. 167, affirming judgment In re Lane Lumber Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 780.

On the bankrupt's application for discharge, an allowance has generally been made to the attorney for his services in supporting the application, to the extent of a docket fee if there is no substantial opposition, which may be materially increased if opposition develops. In re Christianson (D. C. 1910) 175 Fed. 867, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 710; In re Kross (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 816, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 187; In re Eidom (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 160, Fed. Cas. No. 4,315. But compare In re Brundin (D. C. 1901) 112 Fed. 306, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 296; In re Duran Mercantile Co. (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 961, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 450; Ex parte Hale (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 5,910. But a contest over the discharge waged between certain individual creditors on the one side and the bankrupt on the other, and not conducted by the trustee as the representative of all the creditors, is a matter which should not involve the estate in liability for costs and fees, if the opposition proves unsuccessful. In re Keller (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 118, 31 Am. Bankr. Rep. 51. See In re Gillardon (D. C. 1911) 187 Fed. 289, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 103.

The allowance of a fee to the bankrupt's attorney in voluntary cases, and its amount, rest entirely in the sound judicial discretion of the court of bankruptcy. In re Smith (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 39, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559; In re O'Connell (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 83, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 422; In re Burrus (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 926, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 296; In re Stotts (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 438, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 641; In re Beck (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 889, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 535; In re Goodwin (1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 445. The attorney of a voluntary bankrupt may be allowed a fee, payable out of the estate, for such professional services as were necessary to enable the bankrupt to bring his case properly before the court, secure an adjudication and reference, surrender his estate, and perform his duties for the benefit of creditors, and receive his discharge if entitled thereto; and the fee is not necessarily to be restricted to such services as were specially beneficial to the estate or rendered primarily in its interest. In re Kross (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 816, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 187. There can be no fixed fee for all cases, but the character and condition of the estate, the orders necessary to be secured for its protection, and the corresponding amount of time and attention required of the attorney, are all matters to be considered by the court in determining what is a reasonable amount in the circumstances. In re Burrus (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 926, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 296.

A claim for attorney's fees for services rendered to the bankrupts after the institution of the bankruptcy proceedings must be determined by the court having jurisdiction of the administration of the estate, and cannot be determined by a bankruptcy court exercising ancillary jurisdiction. Musica v. Prentice (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 326, affirming decree In re A. Musica & Son (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 413. Appeal dismissed Lazarus, Michel & Lazarus v. Prentice (1914) 34 Sup. Ct. 851, 234 U. S. 263, 58 L. Ed. 1305.

38. —— Attorneys for petitioning and other creditors.—The court of bankruptcy is authorized to allow a reasonable fee to the attorney for the petitioning creditors in a case of involuntary bankruptcy, to be included in the costs of administration and paid out of the estate. Post, § 9648, cl. 3. And see In re Harrison Mercantile Co. (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 123, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 419; In re Silverman (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 325, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 227; In re New York Mail S. S. Co. (C. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 627, Fed. Cas. No. 10,208; In re King (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 7,780; In re O'Hara (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 10,465; In re Jones (D. C. 1873) 9 N. B. R. 491, Fed. Cas. No. 7,451; Gordon v. Scott (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 86, Fed. Cas. No. 5,620; Dundore v. Coates (D. C. 1873) 6 N. B. R. 304, Fed. Cas. No. 4,142; In re Mead (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 9,364. But such fee is allowable only in case an adjudication of bankruptcy is made upon the petition, for if the debtor successfully resists it there can be no allowance to the creditors. In re Black Diamond Copper Min. Co. (1906) 10 Ariz. 42, 85 Pac. 653. In case of an adjudication, the attorney for the creditors is entitled to this fee as of right, and its allowance or refusal is not a matter within the discretion of the court of bankruptcy. In re Curtis (1900) 100 Fed. 784, 41 C. C. A. 59, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 17. But the amount to be allowed is a question for the exercise of a sound judicial discretion, and to be determined upon a consideration of the nature and character of the services rendered, but if the sum allowed is deemed excessive, it will be reduced on appeal or review. In re Curtis (1900) 100 Fed. 784, 41 C. C. A. 59, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 17; In re Sanger (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 54, Fed. Cas. No. 12,318. The fee will be paid out of the general funds of the estate, and lien creditors cannot be required to bear the expense of it or contribute to it. In re Freeman (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 48, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 16; In re Gillaspie (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 88, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 59; In re Allert (D. C. 1908) 173 Fed. 691, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101.

Petitioning creditors cannot be allowed, out of the estate, sums paid to their attorneys as retainers. In re Comstock (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 88, Fed. Cas. No. 3,075. Nor fees for services rendered in preserving the special and individual interests of such creditors, but only for such as were for the common benefit of all the creditors. In re Mead (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 9,364.

If two separate petitions in involuntary bankruptcy are filed by different sets of creditors, the one fee allowable should go to the attorneys in that petition on which the adjudication is made. In re Southern Steel Co. (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 702, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 476; Frank v. Dickey (1905) 139 Fed. 744, 71 C. C. A. 562, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 155. And if the petitions are consolidated, the fee must be divided between them according to the relative value of the services and the amount of work done by each. In re McCracken & McLeod (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 621, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 95.

No allowance can be made out of the estate to the creditors who presented the petition, for services of an attorney rendered after the appointment of the trustee, as, in examining the bankrupt, sending out notices, attending sales, or the like, for such services are either for the benefit of the trustee or of the creditors individually. In re Silverman (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 325, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 227; In re Harrison Mercantile Co. (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 123, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 419; In re Comstock (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 88, Fed. Cas. No. 3,075. But where the attorney for the petitioning creditors, concurrently with the petition or directly after it, prepared and presented a petition for an injunction restraining a mortgage trustee of the bankrupt from disposing of the property affected pendente lite it was held that he might be allowed a fee for this service. In re Harrison Mercantile Co. (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 123, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 419.

Counsel employed by creditors of a bankrupt to represent them in the bankruptcy proceedings must look to their clients for compensation and not to the estate of the bankrupt or to the court. In re Evans (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 909, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 730; Mechanics'-American Nat. Bank v. Coleman (C. C. A. 1913) 204 Fed. 24, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 396; In re Smith (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 39, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559. Especially where professional services are rendered for the benefit of a particular creditor, and not for all the creditors of the estate, or where they are in opposition to the interests of the general creditors, they cannot be compensated out of the estate in bankruptcy. In re Baxter (C. C. 1886) 28 Fed. 452; In re Hope Min. Co. (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 6,682. But where the attorney for a particular creditor succeeds in an undertaking which materially benefits the estate as a whole, as, in discovering concealed assets or recovering property fraudulently transferred, he may be allowed a reasonable fee out of the estate, for though he may have acted primarily in the interest of his own client, yet the result inures to the benefit of all. In re Medina Quarry Co. (C. C. A. 1911) 191 Fed. 815, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 466; In re E. I. Fidler & Son (D. C. 1909) 172 Fed. 632, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 16; In re Medina Quarry Co. (D. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 508, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 405; Smith v. Cooper (1903) 120 Fed. 230, 56 C. C. A. 578, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 755; In re Evans (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 574.

There is no authority for allowance in bankruptcy proceedings of compensation from the estate for services of an attorney employed by a secured or nonsecured creditor. Mechanics'-American Nat. Bank v. Coleman (C. C. A. 1913) 204 Fed. 24. The right of creditors of a bankrupt to the allowance of attorney's commissions under their contracts considered. In re Hershberger (D. C. 1913) 208 Fed. 94.

Where notes of the bankrupt are placed in the hands of an attorney for collection before maturity, but are paid in due course of the bankruptcy proceedings and without suit, the holder is not entitled to an allowance for attorneys' fees thereon. In re Jenkins (D. C. 1912) 192 Fed. 1000, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 860.

Where proceedings for the recovery of property concealed or fraudulently transferred have been instituted by the trustee, who is represented therein by competent counsel, it is not the privilege of creditors to have their own counsel assist in such proceedings, and if they do, they are not entitled to fees out of the estate. In re Felson (D. C. 1905) 139 Fed. 275, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 185.

The court will not charge the estate with fees to be allowed to attorneys for creditors, where the services rendered consisted in opposing the allowance of improper or fictitious claims against the estate, or securing their expunction after allowance, or defeating claims to priorities. In re Medina Quarry Co. (C. C. A. 1911) 191 Fed. 815, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 466; In re George Watkinson & Co. (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 218, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 370; In re Harrison Mercantile Co. (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 123, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 419. But it seems that this may be done in cases where the trustee in bankruptcy has refused to make defense against such claims or to take the proper steps to defeat them. In re Roadarmour (1910) 177 Fed. 379, 100 C. C. A. 611, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 49; In re Little River Lumber Co. (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 558.

Where a creditor claims priority of payment out of the estate of the bankrupt, on the ground of his having a lien on particular property, and is opposed by the trustee and by other creditors, the attorney for such claimant, who successfully prosecutes the claim in the court of bankruptcy and secures its allowance, though he cannot of course claim a fee out of the estate, is entitled to a lien for his services on the fund thus secured for his client; and the court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to determine the right to such lien, fix its amount, and enforce it in the distribution of the property. In re Rude (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 805, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 319. And see In re Hershberger (D. C. 1913) 208 Fed. 94, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 635.

39. —— Attorney for receiver.—The number of attorneys employed by a bankrupt's receiver is not an element to be considered in allowing fees, but the allowance should be made as though but one attorney had been employed. Where attorneys for moving creditors and for a bankrupt's trustee were also attorneys for the receiver, they were only entitled to charge the receiver for services rendered to him after his appointment. In re Falkenberg (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 835.

CHAPTER THREE

Bankrupt

Sec.
9587. Acts of bankruptcy.
9588. Who may become bankrupts.
9589. Partners.
9590. Exemptions of bankrupts.
9591. Duties of bankrupts.
9592. Death or insanity of bankrupts.
9593. Protection and detention of bankrupts.
9594. Extradition of bankrupts.
9595. Suits by and against bankrupts.
9596. Compositions, when confirmed.
9597. Compositions, when set aside.
9598. Discharges, when granted.
9599. Discharges, when revoked.
9600. Co-debtors of bankrupts.
9601. Debts not affected by a discharge.

§ 9587. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 3, as amended, Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 2.) Acts of bankruptcy.

Acts of Bankruptcy.—a Acts of bankruptcy by a person shall consist of his having (1) conveyed, transferred, concealed, or removed, or permitted to be concealed or removed, any part of his property with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors, or any of them; or (2) transferred, while insolvent, any portion of his property to one or more of his creditors with intent to prefer such creditors over his other creditors; or (3) suffered or permitted, while insolvent, any creditor to obtain a preference through legal proceedings, and not having at least five days before a sale or final disposition of any property affected by such preference vacated or discharged such preference; or (4) made a general assignment for the benefit of his creditors, or, being insolvent, applied for a receiver or trustee for his property or because of insolvency a receiver or trustee has been put in charge of his property under the laws of a State, of a Territory, or of the United States; or (5) admitted in writing his inability to pay his debts and his willingness to be adjudged a bankrupt on that ground.

b A petition may be filed against a person who is insolvent and who has committed an act of bankruptcy within four months after the commission of such act. Such time shall not expire until four months after (1) the date of the recording or registering of the transfer or assignment when the act consists in having made a transfer of any of his property with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors or for the purpose of giving a preference as hereinbefore provided, or a general assignment for the benefit of his creditors, if by law such recording or registering is required or permitted, or, if it is not, from the date when the beneficiary takes notorious, exclusive, or continuous possession of the property unless the petitioning creditors have received actual notice of such transfer or assignment.

c It shall be a complete defense to any proceedings in bankruptcy instituted under the first subdivision of this section to allege and prove that the party proceeded against was not insolvent as defined in this Act at the time of the filing the petition against him, and if solvency at such date is proved by the alleged bankrupt the proceedings shall be dismissed, and under said subdivision one the burden of proving solvency shall be on the alleged bankrupt.

d Whenever a person against whom a petition has been filed as hereinbefore provided under the second and third subdivisions of this section takes issue with and denies the allegation of his insolvency, it shall be his duty to appear in court on the hearing, with his books, papers, and accounts, and submit to an examination, and give testimony as to all matters tending to establish solvency or insolvency, and in case of his failure to so attend and submit to examination the burden of proving his solvency shall rest upon him.

e Whenever a petition is filed by any person for the purpose of having another adjudged a bankrupt, and an application is made to take charge of and hold the property of the alleged bankrupt, or any part of the same, prior to the adjudication and pending a hearing on the petition, the petitioner or applicant shall file in the same court a bond with at least two good and sufficient sureties who shall reside within the jurisdiction of said court, to be approved by the court or a judge thereof, in such sum as the court shall direct, conditioned for the payment, in case such petition is dismissed, to the respondent, his or her personal representatives, all costs, expenses, and damages occasioned by such seizure, taking, and detention of the property of the alleged bankrupt.

If such petition be dismissed by the court or withdrawn by the petitioner, the respondent or respondents shall be allowed all costs, counsel fees, expenses, and damages occasioned by such seizure, taking, or detention of such property. Counsel fees, costs, expenses, and damages shall be fixed and allowed by the court, and paid by the obligors in such bond. (30 Stat. 546. 32 Stat. 797.)

In this section, as originally enacted, in subdivision a thereof, clause 4 was as follows:

"or (4) made a general assignment for the benefit of his creditors;"

It was amended by Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 2, cited above, by adding to the clause the further provision, beginning with the words "or, being insolvent," etc., to the end of clause 4 as set forth here.

Section 19 of said amendatory Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, 32 Stat. 801, provided that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending when it took effect, but that such cases should be adjudicated and disposed of conformably to the provisions of the original act.

A conveyance, etc., by a person adjudged bankrupt, made within four months prior to the filing of the petition, with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors, is void as against them, by section 67 of this act, post, § 9651.

The trustee may avoid any transfer by the bankrupt of his property which any creditor of such bankrupt might have avoided, by section 70 of this act, post, § 9654.

A preference, as defined by section 60 of this act, post, § 9644, given by a bankrupt within four months before the filing of a petition, or after the filing of the petition and before the adjudication, if the person receiving it, or to be benefited thereby, or his agent acting therein, had reasonable cause to believe that it was intended thereby to give a preference, is voidable by the trustee, by said section of this act.

Notes of Decisions

I. Acts of bankruptcy

(A) Acts of bankruptcy in general and by individuals

1. Construction of statute.
2. Nature and effect of an act of bankruptcy.
3. Insolvency as an element in acts of bankruptcy.
4. Fraudulent conveyances.
5. —— Wrongful or fraudulent intent.
6. —— Presumption and proof of fraudulent intent.
7. Concealment or removal of property.
8. Giving a preference.
9. —— Intention to give a preference.
10. —— Form of transfer or conveyance.
11. —— Payment in money.
12. —— Intention of debtor when presumed.
13. Suffering a preference through legal proceedings.
14. —— Attachment.
15. —— Failure to vacate or discharge lien.
16. —— Meaning of "suffer or permit."
17. —— Entry of judgment on warrant of attorney.
18. Assignment for creditors.
19. —— What constitutes general assignment.
20. —— Invalid assignment.
21. —— Solvency no defense.
22. Appointment of receiver or trustee.
23. —— On application of debtor.
24. —— On application of creditors or others.
25. Admission of insolvency and willingness to be adjudged bankrupt.

(B) Acts of bankruptcy by partnerships

26. In general.
27. Transfers of property and preferences.
28. Assignment for creditors.
29. Insolvency of firm and of partners.

(C) Acts of bankruptcy by corporations

30. Assignment for creditors.
31. Transfers of property.
32. Appointment of receiver.
33. Suffering preference through legal proceedings.
34. Admission of insolvency and willingness to be adjudged bankrupt.
35. —— Who authorized to make admission.

II. Time for filing petition in bankruptcy

36. Commission of act of bankruptcy.
37. Recording or registering of transfer or assignment.
38. Taking notorious, exclusive, or continuous possession.

III. Issue and proof of insolvency

39. Existence and date of insolvency.
40. Issue of insolvency.
41. What constitutes insolvency.
42. —— Fair valuation of property.
43. —— Comparison of assets and liabilities.
44. —— Deduction of property fraudulently transferred or concealed.
45. Burden of proof and evidence.
46. Examination of alleged bankrupt.

I. ACTS OF BANKRUPTCY

(A) Acts of bankruptcy in general and by individuals

1. Construction of statute.—The statute must be strictly construed with reference to the commission of an act of bankruptcy. No one can be adjudged bankrupt on the ground of his having committed an act which, though not among those enumerated by the statute, produces equivalent results. The acts of bankruptcy defined and classified by the statute cannot be enlarged by construction so as to include transactions similar or analogous to, but not identical with those specified. In re Empire Metallic Bedstead Co. (C. C. A. 1899) 98 Fed. 981, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 575.

2. Nature and effect of an act of bankruptcy.—Ignorance of the law is no defense to a proceeding founded on the commission of an act of bankruptcy, and an adjudication cannot be avoided on the ground that the respondent did not know that there was such a statute in existence as the bankruptcy law. In re Craft (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 378, Fed. Cas. No. 3,316.

Legal liability for the commission of an act of bankruptcy cannot be avoided by the subsequent rescission of the transaction constituting the act of bankruptcy. In re Ryan (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 12,183.

Where the execution of a general assignment for the benefit of creditors is proved or admitted, an adjudication of bankruptcy will be made, though the respondent denies that he had any actual intention to defeat or delay the operation of the bankruptcy act. In re Smith (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 377, Fed. Cas. No. 12,974.

A payment of money by an insolvent debtor to one creditor in preference to others is none the less an act of bankruptcy on which a petition and adjudication may be based because it was made in good faith, and was a judicious act and necessary to preserve valuable property. In re Merchants' Ins. Co. (D. C. 1871) 6 N. B. R. 43, Fed. Cas. No. 9,441.

It is not sufficient ground for dismissing a petition in involuntary bankruptcy, against a debtor who has given a preference, that he only yielded to the pressure or urgent solicitation of the creditor, or to threats of legal process or arrest and to the fear of disgrace. Clarion Bank v. Jones (1874) 21 Wall. 325, 22 L. Ed. 542; In re Batchelder (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 150, Fed. Cas. No. 1,098; In re Dibblee (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 617, Fed. Cas. No. 3,884; Campbell v. Traders' Nat. Bank (D. C. 1871) 3 N. B. R. 498, Fed. Cas. No. 2,370.

An act of bankruptcy committed by one of two persons who are jointly and severally liable for a debt, but who are not partners, is no ground for an adjudication of bankruptcy against the other. James v. Atlantic Delaine Co. (C. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 390, Fed. Cas. No. 7,179.

3. Insolvency as an element in acts of bankruptcy.—In determining the question of the commission of an act of bankruptcy, where insolvency is a necessary element, that term is to be understood in the sense in which it is defined by the first section of the bankruptcy act, namely, that "a person shall be deemed insolvent, when the aggregate of his property, exclusive of any property which he may have conveyed, transferred, concealed, or removed, or permitted to be concealed or removed, with intent to defraud, hinder, or delay his creditors, shall not, at a fair valuation, be sufficient in amount to pay his debts." Lansing Boiler & Engine Works v. Joseph T. Ryerson & Son (1904) 128 Fed. 701, 63 C. C. A. 253, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 558; In re Golden Malt Cream Co. (1908) 164 Fed. 326, 90 C. C. A. 258, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 36; Hewitt v. Boston Straw Board Co. (1913) 214 Mass. 260, 101 N. E. 424.

In respect to the transfer, concealment, or removal of property with intent to delay or defraud creditors, the test of liability to be adjudicated a bankrupt is insolvency at the time of the filing of the petition. If the debtor was insolvent at the time the fraudulent conveyance or concealment was made, yet regains a condition of solvency before a petition is filed, the petition must be dismissed. Conversely, if he was not insolvent at the time of the fraudulent transfer or concealment, yet becomes insolvent within the next four months, and is insolvent at the time creditors file a petition, he may be adjudged bankrupt. George M. West Co. v. Lea (1899) 174 U. S. 590, 19 Sup. Ct. 836, 43 L. Ed. 1098, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 463; Acme Food Co. v. Meier (1907) 153 Fed. 74, 82 C. C. A. 208, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 550.

A conveyance or transfer of property by a debtor with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors, or any of them, constitutes an act of bankruptcy, although he may have been solvent at the time. In re Larkin (D. C. 1908) 168 Fed. 100, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 711.

Where the act of bankruptcy charged is the giving or suffering of a preference, the debtor cannot be adjudged bankrupt if he was solvent at the time the preference was given, though insolvent at the time of the filing of the petition, nor when he is solvent at the date of the petition, though insolvent when the act of bankruptcy was committed. In re Rome Planing Mill Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 812, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 123; George M. West Co. v. Lea (1899) 174 U. S. 590, 19 Sup. Ct. 836, 43 L. Ed. 1098, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 463; In re Dunham (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 17, Fed. Cas. No. 4,143. But see Acme Food Co. v. Meier (1907) 153 Fed. 74, 82 C. C. A. 208, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 550, holding that, if the act of bankruptcy charged is the giving or permitting a preference, insolvency must have existed at the time of the preference, but that solvency or insolvency at the time of the filing of the petition can have only a reflex importance as evidence. Compare Johansen Bros. Shoe Co. v. Alles (C. C. A. 1912) 197 Fed. 274, 116 C. C. A. 636, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 299.

When the act of bankruptcy charged is the making of a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, it is not necessary to show that the debtor was insolvent either at the date of the assignment or at the time of the filing of the petition. George M. West Co. v. Lea (1899) 174 U. S. 590, 19 Sup. Ct. 836, 43 L. Ed. 1098, 2 Am. Bankr.

Rep. 463; Leidigh Carriage Co. v. Stengel (1899) 95 Fed. 637, 37 C. C. A. 210, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 383; Bray v. Cobb (D. C. 1898) 91 Fed. 102, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 153.

To render a transfer of property void under the statute, it is not necessary that the debtor should have known or believed himself to be insolvent. The act treats insolvency as a condition of fact, not of belief. Hence, when a man, insolvent in fact, gives a mortgage to an existing creditor, he necessarily does so with a view to giving him a preference. Hall v. Wager (C. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 181, Fed. Cas. No. 5,951.

4. Fraudulent conveyances.—A voluntary conveyance of all his property by an insolvent debtor to a trustee, to be converted into money and distributed to the creditors of the grantor, though it is made for the equal benefit of all the creditors, without preferences and without actual fraud, and though it would be good at common law, is nevertheless an act of bankruptcy, as being a transfer of property with intent to hinder, delay, and defraud creditors, since its necessary operation is to deprive the creditors of the rights, advantages, and safeguards provided for them by the bankruptcy law. Rumsey & Sikemier Co. v. Novelty & Machine Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 699, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 704. And see Gassett v. Morse (D. C. 1843) 21 Vt. 627, Fed. Cas. No. 5,264. But compare Githens v. Shiffler (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 505, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 453.

A voluntary general assignment for the benefit of creditors, with or without preferences, by an insolvent debtor, is a fraud upon the bankruptcy act, and made with intent to "hinder, delay, and defraud his creditors," since its necessary effect is to defeat the operation of the bankruptcy act, and the right of creditors to such an administration of the assets as that act provides. In re Gutwillig (1899) 92 Fed. 337, 34 C. C. A. 377, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 388.

One who, being insolvent, applies to the court for the appointment of a receiver for personal property, transfers his property within the meaning of section 1, cl. 25 (ante, § 9585), defining "transfer." In re Muir (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 495.

A gift by an insolvent debtor of all his property to his wife is an act of bankruptcy. In re Alexander (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 161; In re Hughes (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 872, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 556. So is a deed of valuable property to any person made without consideration. In re Leland (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 830, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 209. And see In re Donnelly (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 755, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 504. So is a conveyance of property by a father to his sons in consideration of their agreement to support him. Avery v. Johann (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 144, Fed. Cas. No. 675. So is the giving of a mortgage of the whole of a debtor's estate and effects to one creditor, with intent to hinder and delay the others. Baldwin v. Rosseau (C. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 803; In re Cowles (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 280, Fed. Cas. No. 3,297; In re McKibben (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 97, Fed. Cas. No. 8,859.

A conveyance made in good faith and intended only as security for an existing debt, or to secure the grantee as a surety for the grantor, does not constitute an act of bankruptcy. Acme Food Co. v. Meier (1907) 153 Fed. 74, 82 C. C. A. 208, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 550. Paying a bonus to secure a loan on a chattel mortgage, the proceeds of which are used to pay off a prior mortgage, is not an act of bankruptcy. In re Hallin (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 806, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 708. Where a bill in equity asking for the appointment of a receiver is brought against a corporation, and the defendant makes no opposition to the suit, but tacitly permits the receiver to be appointed and to take charge of its property, this cannot be said to be a transfer or conveyance within the meaning of the bankruptcy law. In re Baker-Ricketson Co. (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 489, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 605; In re Henry Zeltner Brewing Co. (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 799, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 63; In re Harper & Bros. (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 266, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 804. The exchange of goods covered by a warehouse receipt in the warehouse of the vendor for others of equal or less value is not an act of bankruptcy. Sharp v. Philadelphia Warehouse Co. (C. C. 1880) Fed. Cas. No. 12,709a. A transfer of firm property from one member of a solvent firm to another is not an act of bankruptcy. In re Munn (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 9,925. A transfer of property by an individual member of a firm, although with intent to defraud individual and firm creditors, is not an act of bankruptcy on the part of the partnership which will sustain a petition in bankruptcy against it. In re Stovall Grocery Co. (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 882, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 537. But the withdrawal of money from an insolvent firm by one of the partners, and its secret transfer to a third person, in connection with other concurrent transactions between the partners, held a conveyance and transfer of property with intent to hinder and delay creditors, by both partners, which constituted an act of bankruptcy. In re Shapiro (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 495, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 839.

Where a retail merchant had ordered goods for a customer, but the latter, on inspection, refused to accept them, whereupon the merchant returned the goods to the seller, held, that this was not an act of bankruptcy, not being done with a view to giving a preference or defrauding his creditors, but as a prudent and proper business transaction. Doan v. Compton (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 607, Fed. Cas. No. 3,940.

An indorsement of a bill of lading to a third person, to protect the property from attachment and save it for the benefit of all the creditors, is not an act of bankruptcy. Ex parte Potts (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 11,344.

It is not an act of bankruptcy for a person to transfer property, after he has become involved, in pursuance of an agreement made while he was in prosperous circumstances, to transfer specific property as collateral security for advances made. Id.

5. —— Wrongful or fraudulent intent.—An actual, wrongful or fraudulent intent to hinder and delay creditors, or to defraud them, is an essential element of this act of bankruptcy. In re Wilmington Hosiery Co. (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 180, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 581; In re McLoon (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 575, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 719. An intent to hinder and delay creditors involves a purpose wrongfully or unjustifiably to prevent, obstruct, embarrass, or postpone them in the collection or enforcement of their claims. In re Wilmington Hosiery Co. (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 180, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 581. An act of bankruptcy is committed by the making of a transfer or conveyance with the intention of obstructing creditors in their endeavor to collect their claims, or of putting the property temporarily out of their reach, although there is no intention to defraud them, and although it is the intention of the debtor that ultimately all crediors shall receive full satisfaction. In re Hughes (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 872, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 556. To constitute this act of bankruptcy, it is not necessary that there should be an intent both to hinder, to delay, and to defraud creditors, but it is sufficient if either of these results is intended. In re Muir (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 495.

While one may not connive with others to get his property out of the way, yet a fair and open disposition of it on a full consideration cannot be given a fraudulent character, although it may incidentally have the effect of leaving nothing which creditors can reach, and even though the debtor does this in order to meet some of his obligations rather than others. Githens v. Shiffler (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 505, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 453.

The statute nowhere denounces a mere intention on the part of an insolvent debtor not to become a bankrupt; and the doing or permitting of any of the things specified in this section of the act, for the purpose and with the intention of escaping being thrown into bankruptcy, is not necessarily doing or permitting them with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors. In re Wilmington Hosiery Co. (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 180, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 453.

It is not necessary to show that any creditor actually was hindered or delayed by the debtor's proceedings. Williams v. Nunn, 1 Taunt. 270. If the conveyance was made with intent to delay or defraud one particular creditor, but its necessary effect is to delay or defraud all, it is an act of bankruptcy. In re Williams (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 17,703. But a conveyance by a debtor of property to certain creditors cannot be charged as an act of bankruptcy, when he had at the time no other creditors. Brake v. Callison (1904) 129 Fed. 201, 63 C. C. A. 359, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 797.

6. —— Presumption and proof of fraudulent intent.—The fraudulent intention actuating a transfer or conveyance is not necessarily to be proved explicitly, but it may be made out by inference from the circumstances of the transaction, attention being given to all the acts done and all the circumstances surrounding the transaction. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Cole (1907) 149 Fed. 708, 79 C. C. A. 414, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 44; In re Larkin (D. C. 1909) 168 Fed. 100, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 711; In re Minard (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 377, 19 C. C. A. 485. An intention to delay or defraud creditors may be inferred from the fact that that is the natural and necessary result of the transfer in question. Bean-Chamberlain Mfg. Co. v. Standard Spoke & Nipple Co. (1904) 131 Fed. 215, 65 C. C. A. 201, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 610.

Where a partnership is dissolved, and the whole stock in trade is transferred to the only solvent partner, for the purpose of settling the affairs of the firm, a sale of the whole stock by such partner is not an act of bankruptcy, for the circumstances rebut any presumption of fraud. In re Weaver (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 132, Fed. Cas. No. 17,307. The sale of a stock of goods will not be considered an act of bankruptcy where there is no evidence of the seller's insolvency at the time of the sale, and it appears that his only object in making the sale was to change his business. In re Valliquette (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 307, Fed. Cas. No. 16,823.

7. Concealment or removal of property.—Concealment is the doing of an act, whether by way of conveyance or transfer, by which the true title and ownership of the debtor is kept from the view of the creditor, when done with the intent and purpose of preventing its being attached or taken on execution. O'Neil v. Glover (Mass. 1855) 5 Gray 144.

Within the meaning of this section, the word "conceal" means to hide or withdraw from observation, to carry or keep from sight, to prevent discovery of, or to withhold knowledge of; and hence a petition alleging that the bankrupt did deny and conceal his ownership of a particular bank, so that the creditors, by virtue of deposits carried by them in the bank, were, by the acts and declarations of the bankrupt, mislead into the belief that the bank belonged to another, and that within four months the bankrupt concealed the assets of the bank by turning the same over to the executor of a decedent, to be by the latter administered as property of the decedent, sufficiently alleges concealment of property with intent to defraud creditors, constituting an act of bankruptcy. In re Glazier (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 1020, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 391.

Where a bankrupt assigned to the executor of a decedent, to be administered as property of the estate, the assets of a bank which was in fact owned by the bankrupt, and did this undoubtedly for the purpose of conserving it in some manner for his own use, retaining an equity in the same to redeem in case there was more property than enough to pay the creditors, the bankrupt's intent concerning the bank and its assets must be regarded as an intent to conceal his property, whether he had any right to or control of all of his property during the time of such concealment not being material on the question of intent. Id.

Where a debtor sells his property for the purpose of investing the proceeds in a legitimate business enterprise, into which he expects to enter, and shows good faith in respect to the care of the money received therefor, he is not to be adjudged bankrupt simply because he kept the proceeds in cash in his own hands, instead of converting the fund again into tangible property such as could have been levied on under legal process, for this is not a concealment of his property with intent to defraud creditors. Fox v. Eckstein (D. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 373, Fed. Cas. No. 5,009.

Consigning property to a person out of the district, by one who contemplates bankruptcy, and with the intent to keep the property from the trustee, amounts to removing it from the district with intent to defraud his creditors. In re Hammond (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 5,999.

Where a debtor procured an attachment to issue upon a fictitious debt and to be levied on the property, for the purpose of preventing the levy of an attachment by a genuine creditor, this amounted to a concealment of the property. In re Williams (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 17,703; In re Hussman (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 437, Fed. Cas. No. 6,951. But see In re Wilmington Hosiery Co. (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 180, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 581, holding that the word "removed," as used in this section of the statute, whether taken by itself or viewed in the light of the context, signifies an actual or physical change in the position or locality of the property constituting the subject of the removal, and is not an apt expression for the taking possession of the property by a receiver under competent authority. And the failure of the debtor to oppose and contest the appointment of a receiver is not "permitting" his property to be concealed or removed. Vaccaro v. Security Bank (1900) 103 Fed. 436, 43 C. C. A. 279, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 474; In re Wilmington Hosiery Co. (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 180, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 581.

Where a partner in an insolvent firm withdrew from the firm's bank account a certain sum of money, by a check which he at once deposited to his personal account in another bank, but thereupon drew a larger check upon that bank and deposited it to the firm's credit in its bank, the transaction was held not to constitute a withdrawal of firm funds nor an act of bankruptcy. In re Perlhefter (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 299, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 576.

Where a debtor absconds, taking with him his available assets, he may be adjudged bankrupt on the ground of having "removed" his property with intent to defraud his creditors. In re Filer (D. C. 1900) 108 Fed. 209, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 332. But it is not an act of bankruptcy on the part of one partner to influence or procure the departure of another from the state, although the circumstances are such that the absconding partner makes himself liable to the law. In re Terry (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 13,836.

Whereas this section makes it an act of bankruptcy if one shall have "permitted" the concealment or removal of his property, one does not permit a removal of property who has neither the power nor the right to prevent its being taken away. In re Wilmington Hosiery Co. (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 180, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 581. Where a creditor of a bankrupt removed goods from the bankrupt's store during the latter's absence, and retained possession of them against his protest, the bankrupt's failure to take legal proceedings to recover the possession of the goods did not amount to "permitting" their removal, so as to constitute an act of bankruptcy, in the absence of any evidence of collusion. In re Belknap (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 646, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 326.

8. Giving a preference.—The bankruptcy law does not prohibit an insolvent debtor from dealing with or exchanging his property before proceedings in bankruptcy are instituted against him, provided there is no purpose to delay or defraud his creditors, or to give a preference to any one, and the value of his estate is not thereby impaired. Stewart v. Platt (1879) 101 U. S. 731, 25 L. Ed. 816.

Where a corporation conveys all its property in trust, with directions to the trustee to sell the same, and, out of the proceeds, to pay first the costs and expenses, second, debts entitled to priority under the laws of the state, third, the claims of the creditors of the company, whose names, with the amounts due them, are all set forth in the deed, and fourth, to pay over to the grantor any balance which may remain, the deed does not effect a preference to any creditor, since all are treated alike, and it cannot be made the basis of a petition in involuntary bankruptcy on allegations of preferences. Rumsey & Sikemier Co. v. Novelty & Machine Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 699, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 704.

To constitute an act of bankruptcy by the giving of a preference, the transfer or payment must have been made at a time when the debtor was insolvent. Wilder v. Watts (D. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 426, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 57. And it must have been made within four months before the filing of a petition in bankruptcy against him. In re Bogen (D. C. 1904) 134 Fed. 1019, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529.

A transfer of property, though made by an insolvent person to a creditor, is not an act of bankruptcy, unless there was, at the time of the transfer, some other creditor holding a claim or demand against the insolvent which would be provable in bankruptcy. Beers v. Hanlin (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 695, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 745. A transfer of property by the bankrupt to his wife, she being a creditor, is as much a preference as if made to any other creditor. In re McCartney (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 815, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 548. An accommodation indorser of notes, even before payment, is a creditor of the maker, in the sense that a transfer of property to him may be a preference. In re O'Donnell (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 150, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 621. And so is a surety on the bond of a contractor for government work, who, under the federal statute, is directly liable to laborers to whom the contractor is indebted for labor performed under the contract. United Surety Co. v. Iowa Mfg. Co. (1910) 179 Fed. 55, 102 C. C. A. 623.

The payment of a debt of three dollars by a firm engaged in trade is not such a substantial preference as will constitute an act of bankruptcy sufficient in itself to sustain an involuntary petition. In re Stovall Grocery Co. (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 882, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 537. The payment of a $50 note to a bank, in discharge of a just debt, and made in the ordinary course, and in the expectation by the bankrupt of continuing in business and of ultimately paying all his debts, this amount being trifling in comparison with the total amount of his debts, does not constitute a preference sufficient to justify an adjudication in bankruptcy. In re Hallin (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 806, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 708.

Where a debtor sold some of his property, for nearly its full value, for the purpose of raising money to satisfy a creditor who was threatening him with a criminal prosecution, but the creditor refused to receive the money, and so derived no benefit from the transaction, the mere sale, though made with the intention of preferring that creditor, was not an act of bankruptcy. In re Belknap (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 646, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 326.

The retirement of one partner from the firm, and the consequent transfer of assets and liabilities to the other, are not necessarily acts of bankruptcy by the partnership, but may be so if intended to give a preference to separate creditors over partnership creditors, or in any other way to cover actual or legal fraud. Ex parte Shouse (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 12,815; In re Waite (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 17,044.

Where a debtor, being the owner of a leasehold interest in land having a term of years to run but not assignable without the consent of the landlord, sells the same and applies part of the proceeds in paying the arrears of rent due, taxes on the property, and the incidental expenses of the sale, such payment does not constitute a preference of the creditors paid, but merely a means of realizing the value of the leasehold, and therefore is not an act of bankruptcy on which a petition against the debtor may be maintained. In re Pearson (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 425, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 482.

9. —— Intention to give a preference.—To constitute an act of bankruptcy by the giving of a preference, there must be an intention on the part of the debtor to prefer one or more creditors over others. Goodlander-Robertson Lumber Co. v. Atwood (1907) 152 Fed. 978, 82 C. C. A. 109, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 510.

A payment made, in the establishment of an insolvent partnership, out of its funds, by the recognized agent of the partners, without objection on their part, which has the effect to produce a preference, will be regarded as having been made by the partnership with the intention of giving a preference. Sedgwick v. Sheffield (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 12,624. Where a wife is the owner of a business, but intrusts its entire management and control to her husband, his acts and intentions, in the giving of preferences to creditors, may constitute acts of bankruptcy on which she may be adjudged bankrupt. Graham v. Stark (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 5,676. And see In re Berkebile (D. C. 1905) 144 Fed. 572.

Where a transfer of property by an insolvent debtor with intent to prefer a creditor is made the basis of a petition in involuntary bankruptcy against him, the intent of the debtor is alone material; it is not necessary to show the intent with which the creditor received the transfer, nor that he had reasonable cause to believe a preference was intended. In re Rome Planing Mill (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 812, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 123; In re Ed. W. Wright Lumber Co. (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 1011, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 345; Thompson v. First Nat. Bank (1904) 84 Miss. 54, 36 South. 65; In re Truitt (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 550, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 570.

Under § 60b, when a trustee in bankruptcy sues to set aside a conveyance of property on the ground of its being an unlawful preference, he must show, not only that the bankrupt intended to give a preference, but also that the creditor receiving it had reasonable cause to believe that a preference was intended. But as regards the commission of an act of bankruptcy, no such knowledge or belief on the part of the creditor is required, nor any unlawful intent on his part. In this case, the law looks only to the intention of the debtor. Hence it follows that a transaction may constitute an act of bankruptcy, such as to warrant an adjudication against the debtor, although the conveyance is not voidable under the law. Alter v. Clark (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 153; In re Drummond (D. C. 1873) 1 N. B. R. 231, Fed. Cas. No. 4,093; In re Williams (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 286, Fed. Cas. No. 17,703; In re Locke (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 382, Fed. Cas. No. 8,439; In re Beck (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 588, Fed. Cas. No. 1,205. The verdict on the question as to whether an act of bankruptcy has been committed in giving a preference will not affect the question of the right to recover back the property transferred or the right to a discharge. In re Dibblee (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 617, Fed. Cas. No. 3,884; Harmanson v. Bain (D. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 173, Fed. Cas. No. 6,072.

10. —— Form of transfer or conveyance.—A preference may be given by an insolvent debtor by a conveyance of property by way of absolute sale or gift. Peckham v. Burrows (C. C. 1844) Fed. Cas. No. 10,897; In re Warner (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 414; Fed. Cas. No. 17,177. Or by a mortgage, pledge, or other form of security. In re Edelman (1904) 130 Fed. 700, 65 C. C. A. 665, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 238; In re Riggs Restaurant Co. (1904) 130 Fed. 691, 66 C. C. A. 48, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 508; Arnold v. Maynard (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 561; Baldwin v. Rosseau (C. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 803; In re Ryan (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 12,183; Jones v. Sleeper (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 7,496; In re Rogers (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 397, Fed. Cas. No. 12,002. But see Martin v. Hulen (1906) 149 Fed. 982, 79 C. C. A. 492, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 510. Where a deed, originally intended to operate as a mortgage, was withheld from record by agreement of the parties, and was afterwards allowed by their agreement to stand as security for any balance in favor of the grantee, and later, at a time when the grantor was insolvent and within four months of the filing of a petition in bankruptcy against him, the deed was placed on record, and shortly thereafter the parties agreed that it should operate as an absolute transfer of the property, an act of bankruptcy was committed when the deed was recorded, as it then operated as a forbidden preference. In re Donnelly (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 755, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 504. But the giving of a mortgage by the debtor upon a present consideration and in good faith, to raise a contested attachment and to pay overdue paper, to enable the debtor to continue in business, is not an act of bankruptcy. In re Sanford (D. C. 1873) 7 N. B. R. 351, Fed. Cas. No. 12,310. Nor is the giving of a chattel mortgage to secure an antecedent debt, where it is given in good faith in renewal of a prior mortgage covering the same property, nor even where it includes additional property, if the mortgagor receives a present further consideration sufficient to warrant the additional security. In re Cutting (D. C. 1906) 145 Fed. 388, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 751.

Execution of deed of trust or assignment of mortgaged property for payment of the mortgages and payment of any balance to general creditors held an act of bankruptcy, within subdivision a(4) of this section. In re Cutler & John (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 771.

Where an alleged bankrupt was a stockholder in an insolvent bank, in the hands of the bank commissioner, and he executed a note to the commissioner for his double liability, secured by a mortgage on nonexempt real property, he was guilty of an act of bankruptcy. Under subdivision a(2) of this section a transfer to a trustee for creditors will be treated as if made direct to the creditors. Fulkerson v. Shaffer (1914) 217 Fed. 355, 153 C. C. A. 271.

An assignment by an insolvent debtor to a creditor of earnings to become due under a building contract, with intent to prefer that creditor, is an act of bankruptcy. In re O'Donnell (1904) 131 Fed. 150, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 621.

11. —— Payment in money.—Money is property within the meaning of the bankruptcy law, and the payment of a debt in money is a transfer of property, such as will constitute an act of bankruptcy, if the other elements are present. Pirie v. Chicago Title & Trust Co. (1901) 182 U. S. 438, 21 Sup. Ct. 906, 45 L. Ed. 1171, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 814; Boyd v. Lemon & Gale Co. (1902) 114 Fed. 647, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 81; In re Pinson (D. C. 1910) 180 Fed. 787, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 804; In re Perlhefter (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 299, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 576; In re Foley (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 300, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 830; In re Ft. Wayne Electric Corp. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 803; In re Conhaim (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 923, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 249; In re Wise (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 151; Payne v. Solomon (D. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 162, Fed. Cas. No. 10,856. If the debtor was insolvent and a preference was intended, it is immaterial that the debt was a just one and that no fraud was perpetrated or designed. Brock v. Terrell (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 643, Fed. Cas. No. 1,914. It is no defense to a petition founded on a preferential payment that it was made in the ordinary course of business. In re Oregon Bulletin Printing & Pub. Co. (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 503, Fed. Cas. No. 10,559. But payments made by an alleged bankrupt to creditors in the due course of business and without an intent to prefer such creditors, and without knowledge of a claim subsequently made, which, if sustained, might render the debtor insolvent, do not constitute acts of bankruptcy. In re Morgan (D. C. 1911) 184 Fed. 938, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 861.

Where an alleged bankrupt while hopelessly insolvent paid a creditor in settlement of an antecedent debt, such payment was a preference and an act of bankruptcy, though the insolvent had no actual intent to prefer. In re Condon (1913) 209 Fed. 800, 126 C. C. A. 524, affirming judgment (D. C. 1912) 198 Fed. 947.

It is an act of bankruptcy for an insolvent debtor to sell all of his property to one not a creditor, and then to apply the proceeds to the full payment of a part of his creditors, leaving others unpaid, the transaction being in effect a transfer of property with intent to give a preference. Boyd v. Lemon & Gale Co. (1902) 114 Fed. 647, 52 C. C. A. 343, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 81.

The payment and discharge of a debt, by an insolvent debtor, by a conveyance to the creditor of personal property of greater value than the debt, the debtor receiving the difference in cash, is a preference of such creditor and an act of bankruptcy. Johnson v. Wald (1899) 93 Fed. 640, 35 C. C. A. 522, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 84. And see Goldman v. Smith (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 182, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266.

The settlement of a suit brought on a note, by the attorney for an alleged bankrupt, who himself paid the money and had not been repaid when the petition was filed, held not an act of bankruptcy. In re Kerlin (1913) 209 Fed. 42, 126 C. C. A. 184.

Payments made to cover the ordinary and necessary running expenses of the debtor's business, of comparatively small amounts, or not larger than the debtor has been in the habit of making, do not constitute the giving of preferences, where there was no design to give the payees an advantage over other creditors, but merely an endeavor to keep the business alive. In re Perlhefter (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 299, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 576; In re Union Feather & Wool Mfg. Co. (1902) 112 Fed. 774, 50 C. C. A. 524, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 472; In re Columbia Real Estate Co. (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 980, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 471; Smith v. Teutonia Ins. Co. (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 13,115. CONTRA, see In re Kenyon (1871) 1 Utah, 47, 6 N. B. R. 238.

12. —— Intention of debtor when presumed.—When a transfer of property, or the giving of security, or the payment of a debt, by an insolvent debtor to one of his creditors, actually and necessarily operates to give that creditor a preference over others, it will be presumed that the debtor intended to bring about that result, on the principle that every man is presumed to intend the natural and necessary consequences of his voluntary acts. Toof v. Martin (1871) 13 Wall. 40, 20 L. Ed. 481; Traders' Nat. Bank v. Campbell (1871) 14 Wall. 87, 20 L. Ed. 832; Johnson v. Wald (1899) 93 Fed. 640, 35 C. C. A. 522, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 84; Rex Buggy Co. v. Hearick (1904) 132 Fed. 310, 65 C. C. A. 676, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 726; In re Flint Hill Stone & Const. Co. (D. C. 1907) 149 Fed. 1007, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 81; In re Smith (D. C. 1910) 176 Fed. 426, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 864; In re Gilbert (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 951, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101; In re McGee (D. C. 1901) 105 Fed. 895, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 262; Catlin v. Hoffman (C. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 342, Fed. Cas. No. 2,521; Campbell v. Traders' Nat. Bank (D. C. 1871) 3 N. B. R. 498, Fed. Cas. No. 2,370; Haughey v. Albin (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 399, Fed. Cas. No. 6,222; Morgan v. Mastick (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 521, Fed. Cas. No. 9,803; In re Black (D. C. 1869) 1 N. B. R. 353, Fed. Cas. No. 1,457; In re Craft (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 378, Fed. Cas. No. 3,316; Webb v. Sachs (D. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 168, Fed. Cas. No. 17,325; In re Perry (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 10,999; Warren v. Delaware, L. & W. Ry. Co. (D. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 451, Fed. Cas. No. 17,194; Warren v. Tenth Nat. Bank (C. C. 1873) 7 N. B. R. 481, Fed. Cas. No. 17,202; Vanderhoof v. City Bank (C. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 270, Fed. Cas. No. 16,842; Martin v. Toof (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 488, Fed. Cas. No. 9,167; In re Silverman (D. C. 1870) 2 Abb. U. S. 243, 4 N. B. R. 522, Fed. Cas. No. 12,855; Vogle v. Lathrop (C. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 439, Fed. Cas. No. 16,985; Rison v. Knapp (D. C. 1868) 4 N. B. R. 349, Fed. Cas. No. 11,861; In re Alexander (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 178, Fed. Cas. No. 161.

Where a petition in involuntary bankruptcy charges the debtor with having transferred property with intent to give a preference, his intent to prefer may be presumed from the fact of his having made a transfer of a large part of his property, while insolvent, to a single creditor; and when this is shown, the burden is on the debtor to show that he was ignorant of his insolvency and had reason to believe he could pay his debts in full. In re Rome Planing Mill Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 812, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 123.

The presumption of an intent to give a preference is not conclusive, but the debtor may prove that he was actuated by a different motive and had no such intention, and if this is satisfactorily established, an adjudication of bankruptcy will not be made on that ground. In re Frantzen (C. C. 1884) 20 Fed. 785; In re Seeley (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 1, Fed. Cas. No. 12,628. It is ordinarily sufficient to rebut the presumption for the debtor to show that he actually did not know himself to be insolvent. In re Gilbert (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 951, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101. Payments of comparatively small sums of money to each of a number of creditors, made by a corporation in the usual course of its business, though at a time when it was actually insolvent, do not raise a presumption of an intent to prefer those creditors over others so as to establish an act of bankruptcy. In re Douglas Coal & Coke Co. (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 769, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 539.

13. Suffering a preference through legal proceedings.—In order that a creditor may establish the third act of bankruptcy, he must show that a preference has actually resulted. In re Truitt (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 550. Suffering a creditor to obtain a preference through legal proceedings, involves insolvency, suffering the preference, not avoiding it within five days before sale, and a sale of the property affected. In re Fisher (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 638.

Under the provision that an insolvent debtor shall be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy if he shall have "suffered or permitted any creditor to obtain a preference through legal proceedings," no motive or intention on the part of the debtor to give a preference need be shown, nor that he meant to evade or defeat the bankruptcy act, nor that he did or attempted anything in furtherance of the transaction from which a preference results. Wilson Bros. v. Nelson (1901) 183 U. S. 191, 22 Sup. Ct. 74, 46 L. Ed. 147; In re Truitt (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 550; In re Craft (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 3,316. But this provision of the statute does not apply to liens acquired by legal proceedings more than four months before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, and which therefore will not be dissolved by an adjudication. Colston v. Austin Run Min. Co. (C. C. A. 1912) 194 Fed. 929, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 92; In re Chapman (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 395, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 607; In re Ferguson (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 429, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 586; In re Deer Creek Water & Water Power Co. (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 205, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 356; Owen v. Brown (1903) 120 Fed. 812, 57 C. C. A. 180, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 717. See In re Rome Planing Mill (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 812, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 123, where it is suggested by Judge Coxe that the gaining of an advantage by one creditor over other creditors by seizing the debtor's property, which the debtor suffers or permits, may be an act of bankruptcy, and yet not be voidable by the trustee. See also In re Schick (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 177, Fed. Cas. No. 12,455, where it was held that, although the judgment complained of was entered against the bankrupt before the passage of the bankruptcy act, yet if it was fraudulent and fictitious, and the debtor has taken no steps to set it aside, and, after the enactment of the law, the judgment being still in force, his property is seized on an execution issuing thereon, it is a "procuring or suffering his property to be taken on legal process."

The phrase "legal proceedings" means any proceeding in a court of justice, either interlocutory or final, by which the property of the debtor is seized and diverted from his general creditors. In re Rome Planing Mill (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 812, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 123. The levy of an execution or attachment on property of the debtor is a legal proceeding through which a preference may be obtained. In re Storm (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 618, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 601; In re Ferguson (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 429, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 586; Barnes v. Billington (C. C. 1803) Fed. Cas. No. 1,015. The phrase includes all liens obtained by legal proceedings which are valid under state laws. In re Crafts-Riordon Shoe Co. (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 931, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 449. It includes the lien on real estate of a judgment duly docketed, particularly when followed by an execution and levy. Zugalla v. International Mercantile Agency (1906) 142 Fed. 927, 74 C. C. A. 97, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 67; Bogen v. Protter (1904) 129 Fed. 533, 64 C. C. A. 63, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 288; In re Tupper (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 766, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 824. But not a livery stable keeper's lien, given by a state statute, but not established by any proceeding in the courts. In re Mero (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 630, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 171.

In order that a debtor should commit an act of bankruptcy by failing to discharge the lien of an execution on his property, it is necessary that there should have been an actual and valid levy by a proper officer, and he may contradict the recitals of the sheriff's return by showing that there was no actual levy, or that a pretended levy was wholly void. In re Bodek (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 817, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 476. A void execution levy on the equity of redemption of an alleged bankrupt in mortgaged personal property held not to diminish his estate or constitute a final disposition of his property, and hence was not an act of bankruptcy. In re Moark-Nemo Consol. Mining Co. (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 340.

It is also held that the phrase "legal proceedings" may include the appointment of a receiver by a state court and the vesting of the debtor's property in him. But to make this an act of bankruptcy, it must be shown, first, that the receiver was appointed at the instance of the debtor, or that the latter tacitly permitted and acquiesced in the appointment, and second, that the effect of the receivership and the distribution of the estate under his administration will be to give a preference to one or more creditors, as, where creditors who are entitled to priority under the laws of the state will receive a greater amount under the receivership than they would receive under the bankruptcy act. Mather v. Coe (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 333, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 504; In re Merchants' Ins. Co. (D. C. 1871) 6 N. B. R. 43, Fed. Cas. No. 9,441; In re Bininger (C. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 1,420. In another case it was held that, where a corporation makes no defense to a bill in equity against it in a state court, and tacitly permits the appointment of a receiver and the vesting of its property in him, it is not an act of bankruptcy by the corporation, although certain classes of persons may be entitled to larger dividends under the receivership proceedings than they would obtain in bankruptcy, if it does not appear that any such persons are concerned, or that any sale or final disposition of the property affected by the receivership has been made. In re Baker-Ricketson Co. (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 489, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 605.

14. —— Attachment.—The levy of an attachment on mesne process, in pursuance of any proceeding at law or in equity, upon property of an insolvent debtor, in advance of any determination of the validity of the claim or of any judgment upon it, constitutes the obtaining of a preference through legal proceedings, so that the failure of the debtor to discharge the attachment will constitute an act of bankruptcy. Folger v. Putnam (1912) 194 Fed. 793, 114 C. C. A. 513, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 173; Parmenter Mfg. Co. v. Stoever (1899) 97 Fed. 330, 38 C. C. A. 200, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 220; In re Putnam (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 464, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 923; In re Reichman (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 624, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 17. But see, as holding that an attachment on mesne process, before any trial of the action or the rendition of any judgment, is not enough in itself to constitute a preference obtained by the plaintiff through legal proceedings, within the meaning of the statute. In re Crafts-Riordon Shoe Co. (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 931, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 449; Seaboard Steel Casting Co. v. William R. Trigg Co. (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 75, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 594; In re Vetterman (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 443, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 245.

Where, prior to bankruptcy, a creditor had obtained a lien by attachment, and the property was sold under an order of court, not to satisfy the creditor's claim, but to save disproportionate expense in keeping the property, the fact that the bankrupt failed to discharge the attachment at least five days before such sale did not indicate that the enforcement of the attachment would ultimately operate to prefer the attaching creditor in case subsequent proceedings were taken in support of the attachment, and therefore did not constitute an act of bankruptcy. In re Crafts-Riordon Shoe Co. (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 931, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 449.

15. —— Failure to vacate or discharge lien.—The act of bankruptcy described in this clause does not consist merely in permitting a creditor to secure a lien through legal proceedings, but in the failure to vacate or discharge the preference within five days before a sale or other final disposition of the property affected. Parmenter Mfg. Co. v. Stoever (1899) 97 Fed. 330, 38 C. C. A. 200, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 220; In re Windt (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 584, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 536; In re R. L. Radke Co. (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 735, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 504.

Creditors seeking an adjudication of bankruptcy on this ground need not wait until a sale has taken place. If the debtor, five days before the advertised day of sale, has not discharged the preference, creditors may then file a petition against him and have the sale enjoined. In re Rome Planing Mill (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 812, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 123.

The debtor has the whole of the fifth day preceding that appointed for the sale in which to discharge the lien, and is not guilty of an act of bankruptcy until that day has expired without effective action. Pittsburgh Laundry Supply Co. v. Imperial Laundry Co. (1907) 154 Fed. 662, 83 C. C. A. 486, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 756.

An independent act of bankruptcy is committed by the failure to discharge the lien on each succeeding day, including the day of the sale. In re Nusbaum (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 835, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 598.

Where a debtor permitted a judgment against him to remain unsatisfied after execution had been issued thereon, and garnishment proceedings instituted on the judgment proceeded so far that the garnishee answered admitting a sum to be due from him to the debtor, it was held that an act of bankruptcy had been committed where more than five days had elapsed after the time when the garnishee might have answered under the statute and paid the money into court. In re Harper (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 900, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 567.

As used in this clause, the term "final disposition" does not mean a gift of the property to some third person or a voluntary transfer to creditors in satisfaction of a preferential judgment, but includes every other method than that specified of passing the control and dominion of the property of an insolvent debtor to another or others either absolutely or as security to the preferred creditor to the exclusion of other creditors. In re Tupper (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 767, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 811.

Failure of an insolvent judgment debtor for one day less than four months after the levy of execution to discharge it is not final disposition of the property levied on within subdivision a (3) of this section. An insolvent debtor does not commit an act of bankruptcy by inaction for four months after levy of execution, in view of subdivision a (3) of this section, which means that it would be sufficient to avoid an act of bankruptcy if the lien is lifted five days before final disposition of any property affected; such meaning not being affected by subdivision b limiting to four months after the act of bankruptcy the time for filing petitions in bankruptcy, and sections 67c and 67f, post, § 9651 dealing with the retrospective effect of adjudications in bankruptcy. Citizens' Banking Co. v. Ravenna Nat. Bank (1914) 34 S. Ct. 806, 234 U. S. 360, 58 L. Ed. 1352, answering certified questions (1912) 202 Fed. 892, 121 C. C. A. 250. Failure to release levy of attachment on supposed interest in property transferred by alleged bankrupt nearly seven years previously held not an act of bankruptcy, though transfer was alleged to be fraudulent. In re Murphy (D. C. 1914) 228 Fed. 1018.

The commencement of voluntary proceedings for the dissolution of a corporation does not have the effect of extinguishing the liens of levies on executions against the corporate property, so as to relieve the corporation from the operation of this clause of the bankruptcy law. In re Storm (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 618, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 601.

16. —— Meaning of "suffer or permit."—The failure of an insolvent debtor to file a voluntary petition in bankruptcy at least five days before a sale of his property under a judgment entered against him on an irrevocable power of attorney given years before constitutes the suffering or permitting of the creditor to obtain a preference, which amounts to an act of bankruptcy, although the judgment is entered without the knowledge or consent of the debtor, and he is unable to prevent its enforcement in any other way than by filing his petition in bankruptcy. Wilson Bros. v. Nelson (1901) 183 U. S. 191, 22 Sup. Ct. 74, 46 L. Ed. 147, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 142; In re Putnam (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 464, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 923; In re Cliffe (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 354, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 317; In re Moyer (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 188, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577. Compare Duncan v. Landis (1901) 106 Fed. 839, 45 C. C. A. 666, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 649.

In order to commit an act of bankruptcy by suffering or permitting a creditor to obtain a preference through legal proceedings against him, it is not necessary that the debtor should do any affirmative act. It is enough if he remains passive and allows his property to be taken by one creditor to the exclusion of the others. In re Rung Furniture Co. (1905) 139 Fed. 526, 71 C. C. A. 342, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 12; In re Rome Planing Mill (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 812, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 123; In re Moyer (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 188, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577; In re Cliffe (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 354, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 317; In re Meyers (D. C. 1899) 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 207; In re Reichman (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 624, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 17. Compare In re Nelson (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 76, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 63; In re Truitt (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 550, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 570. An insolvent corporation which suffers or permits a creditor to obtain a preference by means of an attachment on its property and a sale thereunder, commits an act of bankruptcy, notwithstanding the fact that one method of preventing such a result, viz., filing a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, was prohibited to corporations as the law stood at that time. Parmenter Mfg. Co. v. Stoever (1899) 38 C. C. A. 200, 97 Fed. 330, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 220.

The intent of the debtor is immaterial, and where an insolvent corporation fails to cause a preference by legal proceedings obtained by one creditor to be vacated or discharged by showing that the claim is illegal or unfounded, or by paying the debt, such insolvent commits an act of bankruptcy. White v. Bradley Timber Co. (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 989, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 441.

If the debtor directly or indirectly instigates or assists or facilitates the recovery of a judgment against him and the issuance of process thereon, he is guilty of "suffering" the creditor to obtain a preference through legal proceedings. Sage v. Wyncoop (1881) 104 U. S. 319, 26 L. Ed. 740; In re Woods (D. C. 1873) 7 N. B. R. 126, Fed. Cas. No. 17,990; Fisher v. Currier (D. C.

1842) Fed. Cas. No. 4,818; In re Dunkle (D. C. 1870) 7 N. B. R. 72, Fed. Cas. No. 4.160; Wight v. Muxlow (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 17,629; Sage v. Wyncoop (C. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 363, Fed. Cas. No. 12,215.

Where the members of an insolvent firm appeared in a suit against them for the appointment of a receiver, and proposed candidates for the office of receiver, they "suffered or permitted" any preference obtained by the creditors through such suit. In re Kersten (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 929, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 516.

Where an insolvent corporation has allowed some of its creditors to obtain preferences through legal proceedings, and then its stockholders and officers sue for and obtain a dissolution for the express purpose of hindering and delaying creditors, and the effect of such proceedings is to permit the preferences obtained to stand in full force, it has committed an act of bankruptcy, by permitting effective preferences to be fastened upon its property. Scheuer v. Smith & Montgomery Book & Stationery Co. (1901) 112 Fed. 407, 50 C. C. A. 312, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 384.

A debtor suffers the obtaining of a preference through legal proceedings when he permits it to be done, although his failure to resist was due to the pressure or insistence of the creditor. In re Craft (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 378, Fed. Cas. No. 3,316.

17. —— Entry of judgment on warrant of attorney.—For a debtor while insolvent to confess a judgment with intent to prefer a creditor is to aid the creditor to obtain a preference, and constitutes an act of bankruptcy. In re Truitt (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 550, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 570.

Where a creditor actually obtains a preference by entering judgment on a warrant of attorney previously given by the debtor, and levying execution on his stock in trade, the debtor being then insolvent, such debtor commits an act of bankruptcy if he fails to discharge such preference by filing his voluntary petition in bankruptcy (having no valid defense against the debt or the lien obtained by the levy) though he does not in any degree procure the entry of the judgment. In re Moyer (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 188, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577.

Within the meaning of the bankruptcy act, a creditor obtains a preference by entering judgment on a warrant of attorney, and levying an execution thereunder, within the time limited by the act, the debtor being then insolvent, notwithstanding that the warrant of attorney was given more than four months before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy against such debtor, and at a time when he was solvent. Id.

Where an insolvent owning mortgaged real estate confessed a judgment to a preferred creditor and permitted a sale under foreclosure subject to the judgment, there was a sale of property affected by the preference. In re Fisher (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 638.

The failure of an insolvent debtor to file a voluntary petition in bankruptcy at least five days before a sale of his property under a judgment entered against him upon an irrevocable power of attorney (though given years before) constitutes the suffering or permitting the creditor to obtain a preference, which amounts to an act of bankruptcy, although the judgment is entered without the knowledge or consent of the debtor, and he is unable to prevent its enforcement in any other way than by going into voluntary bankruptcy. Wilson Bros. v. Nelson (1901) 183 U. S. 191, 22 Sup. Ct. 74, 46 L. Ed. 147, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 142.

18. Assignment for creditors.—To constitute an assignment for the benefit of creditors, within the bankruptcy act, there must be an absolute transfer by the debtor of both the legal and equitable titles to his property. But the assignment need not be formal, and need not even be valid for all purposes. In re Ambrose Mathews & Co. (D. C. 1916) 229 Fed. 309.

A general assignment for the benefit of creditors, though it embraces all the property of the debtor and is made for the equal and common benefit of all his creditors, without preferences, and without any actual fraudulent intent, either as to creditors or as to an evasion of the bankruptcy law, and though it would be valid under the laws of the state, is nevertheless an act of bankruptcy, on which an adjudication may be made if a petition therefor is duly presented within the prescribed time. Boese v. King (1883) 108 U. S. 379, 2 Sup. Ct. 765, 27 L. Ed. 760; In re Meyer (1899) 98 Fed. 976, 39 C. C. A. 368, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559; Griffin v. Dutton (1908) 165 Fed. 626, 91 C. C. A. 614, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 449; In re Salmon (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 395, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 122; Whittlesey v. Philip Becker & Co. (1911) 142 App. Div. 313, 126 N. Y. Supp. 1046; Costello v. Harbaugh (1899) 83 Ill. App. 29 (affirmed Harbaugh v. Costello [1900] 184 Ill. 110, 56 N. E. 363, 75 Am. St. Rep. 147); In re Burt (C. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 2,210; Cragin v. Thompson (C. C. 1873) 12 N. B. R. 81, Fed. Cas. No. 3,320; In re Smith (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 377, Fed. Cas. No. 12,974; Spicer v. Ward (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 512, Fed. Cas. No. 13,241; In re Randall (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 18, Fed. Cas. No. 11,551; Jones v. Sleeper (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 7,496; In re Kasson (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 379, Fed. Cas. No. 7,617; In re Pierce (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 258, Fed. Cas. No. 11,141; Barnes v. Rettew (C. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 1,019; Barton v. Tower (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 1,085; In re Chamberlain (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R.

710, Fed. Cas. No. 2,574; In re Croft (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 324, Fed. Cas. No. 3,404; In re Mendelsohn (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 9,420; In re Frisbee (C. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 522, Fed. Cas. No. 5,129; McLean v. Meline (C. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 8,-890; Hobson v. Markson (C. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 6,555; Harding v. Crosby (C. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 6,050; In re Kraft (D. C. 1881) 4 Fed. 523; Wald v. Wehl (C. C. 1881) 6 Fed. 163. An adjudication of bankruptcy thereon will avoid the assignment and subject the assigned property to the jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy. Davis v. Bohle (1899) 92 Fed. 325, 34 C. C. A. 372, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 412; In re Sievers (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 366, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 117; In re Curtis (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 737, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 440; Cohen v. American Surety Co. (1908) 192 N. Y. 227, 84 N. E. 947.

A general assignment by an insolvent debtor for the benefit of certain preferred creditors is an act of bankruptcy, though made without moral fraud and under the importunity of the creditors. Ex parte Breneman (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 1,830; Hutchins v. Taylor (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 6,953; In re Broome (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 444, Fed. Cas. No. 1,967.

An absolute and unconditional sale and conveyance of his property by a debtor, free from all reservation, in payment and satisfaction of antecedent debts, cannot be declared a general assignment though it may embrace all of his property and though he may be insolvent. Otis v. Maguire (1884) 76 Ala. 295. A direct transfer to creditors, without the intervention of a trustee, is not an assignment for the benefit of creditors, although it may be a act of bankruptcy as giving a preference. Anniston Iron & Supply Co. v. Anniston Rolling Mill Co. (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 974, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 200. A deed of trust directing the trustee to sell the property and pay the debts of the grantor, and turn over to the latter any balance that may remain, is not a general assignment, if made in good faith and without an intent to evade the provisions of the bankruptcy law. Rumsey & Sikemier Co. v. Novelty & Machine Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 699, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 704; Fidelity Trust Co. v. Kline (1908) 74 N. J. Eq. 445, 70 Atl. 151. CONTRA, see In re Thomlinson Co. (1907) 154 Fed. 834, 83 C. C. A. 550, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 691; In re Salmon (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 395, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 122. A confession of judgment by a debtor to a trustee for all his creditors amounts to a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, under the law of Pennsylvania, and constitutes an act of bankruptcy. In re Green (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 313, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 848.

A mortgage given by a corporation to secure all its creditors equally out of its earnings, or to pay to such as refuse the security their ratable proportion of the proceeds, is not an act of bankruptcy. In re Union Pac. R. Co. (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 178, Fed. Cas. No. 14,376. Where a corporation, under the provisions of a state statute, files in a state court its voluntary application for dissolution and for the appointment of a receiver to wind up its affairs and distribute its assets, on the ground of its insolvency, and procures the appointment of a receiver thereon, such application is not a general assignment for the benefit of its creditors. In re Empire Metallic Bedstead Co. (1899) 98 Fed. 981, 39 C. C. A. 372, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 575; In re Baker-Ricketson Co. (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 489, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 605. A resolution of the stockholders of a corporation, authorizing a committee of the directors to advertise and sell the corporate property at auction at not less than a stated price, and to pay the debts of the corporation with the proceeds, with power to declare such sale revoked or not to take place in a certain contingency, is not an assignment for creditors. In re Hartwell Oil Mills (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 555, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 586. The mere preparation of a deed of general assignment, not signed nor out of escrow, is not an act of bankruptcy, nor is the mere adoption by a corporation of resolutions authorizing its treasurer to convert the corporate assets into cash and to deposit the same with a trust company for the benefit of its creditors, where the plan is not carried out. In re Federal Lumber Co. (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 926, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 438

An instrument executed by a corporation, denominated a mortgage, held to constitute a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, and an act of bankruptcy, under subdivision a(4) of this section. In re Heleker Bros. Mercantile Co. (D. C. 1914) 216 Fed. 963.

19. —— What constitutes general assignment.—An assignment of all of a debtor's property to an assignee, to convert into money and apply to the discharge of debts owing to such creditors as may assent thereto and agree to accept the dividend thereunder in full of their claims, is a "general" assignment for the benefit of creditors, such as to constitute an act of bankruptcy. Courtenay Mercantile Co. v. Finch (1912) 194 Fed. 368, 114 C. C. A. 328, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 688.

An assignment by a partnership for the benefit of its creditors, purporting to transfer all the property of the firm, is a general assignment, such as to constitute an act of bankruptcy by the firm and on which the firm may be adjudged bankrupt, although, considered as an assignment by the individual partners, it would be but partial, by reason of not including their separate property. In re Meyer (1899) 98 Fed. 976, 39 C. C. A. 368, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559.

Instrument appointing trustees to wind up corporation's affairs held not a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, within the bankruptcy act. In re Ambrose Matthews & Co. (D. C. 1916) 229 Fed. 309.

20. —— Invalid assignment. — This clause of the act applies to any instrument which is or purports to be a general assignment without distinguishing between valid and invalid instruments, and it is no defense to a petition in involuntary bankruptcy, based on this ground, that the instrument in question would not be valid or enforceable under the state law or in the state courts. Griffin v. Dutton (1908) 165 Fed. 626, 91 C. C. A. 614, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 449; In re Courtenay Mercantile Co. (D. C. 1911) 186 Fed. 352, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 365; In re Federal Lumber Co. (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 926, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 438; Canner v. Webster Tapper Co. (D. C. 1909) 168 Fed. 519, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 872; In re Lawrence (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 516, Fed. Cas. No. 8,133. Though an assignment for creditors may be invalid under the state law and so defective in its execution that it cannot be enforced, yet if it was designed and used as a means of giving a preference to certain creditors over others, it is an act of bankruptcy on that ground. In re Mendelsohn (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 533, Fed. Cas. No. 9,420.

On a petition in involuntary bankruptcy against a firm, alleging, as an act of bankruptcy, the making of an assignment for the benefit of its creditors, which purports to transfer all the property of the firm, though it was executed by one partner only, the question of the validity of the assignment as to the partners not joining is immaterial. In re Meyer (1899) 98 Fed. 976, 39 C. C. A. 368, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559.

An assignment for the benefit of such creditors only as should accept its terms and release their claims on receiving the dividend to be paid by the assignee is an act of bankruptcy, and it is not necessary that the assignment should be valid as to dissenting creditors. In re Courtenay Mercantile Co. (D. C. 1911) 186 Fed. 352, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 365.

21. —— Solvency no defense.—The making of a general assignment for the benefit of creditors is an act of bankruptcy without regard to the solvency or insolvency of the debtor, either at the time of its execution or at the time of the filing of the petition. George M. West Co. v. Lea (1899) 174 U. S. 590, 19 Sup. Ct. 836, 43 L. Ed. 1098, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 463; Day v. Beck & Gregg Hardware Co. (1902) 114 Fed. 834, 52 C. C. A. 468, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 175; Leidigh Carriage Co. v. Stengel (1899) 95 Fed. 637, 37 C. C. A. 210, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 383; Green River Deposit Bank v. Craig (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 137, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 381; Couts v. Townsend (D. C. 1903) 126 Fed. 249, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 126; In re Sully (D. C. 1905) 142 Fed. 895, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 304; Bray v. Cobb (D. C. 1898) 91 Fed. 102, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 153; Lea v. George M. West Co. (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 237, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 261; In re Farthing (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 557, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 732; Corbett v. Riddle (1913) 209 Fed. 811, 126 C. C. A. 535.

22. Appointment of receiver or trustee.—Prior to the amendatory act of February 5, 1903, c. 487, § 2, providing that it shall be an act of bankruptcy if a debtor, while insolvent, shall have "applied for a receiver or trustee for his property or where, because of insolvency, a receiver or trustee has been put in charge of his property under the laws of a state, of a territory, or of the United States," the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the affairs of an insolvent corporation or partnership, whether on its voluntary application for a dissolution or receivership, or on its consent or acquiescence in hostile proceedings against it, was not an act of bankruptcy, not being a "general assignment for the benefit of creditors." In re Baker-Ricketson Co. (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 489, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 605; In re Empire Metallic Bedstead Co. (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 957, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 329; In re Gilbert (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 951, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101; Vaccaro v. Security Bank (1900) 103 Fed. 436, 43 C. C. A. 279, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 474; Seaboard Steel Casting Co. v. William R. Trigg Co. (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 75, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 594. And the consent of partners or of a corporation to the appointment of a receiver was not an act of bankruptcy as involving a fraudulent transfer or concealment or removal of their property. In re Burrell (1903) 123 Fed. 414, 59 C. C. A. 508, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 625. It might amount to "suffering a creditor to obtain a preference through legal proceedings," but only where it appeared that there were one or more creditors interested in the property who would be entitled to larger dividends under the receivership proceedings than they would receive if the estate were administered and distributed in bankruptcy. In re Baker-Ricketson Co. (1899) 97 Fed. 489, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 605; Mather v. Coe (1899) 92 Fed. 333, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 504. The said amendatory act was not retroactive, and the appointment of a receiver for a firm or corporation because of insolvency, prior to the passage of the amendatory act, will not support a petition in involuntary bankruptcy filed after that time, although the receivership still continues. Seaboard Steel Casting Co. v. William R. Trigg Co. (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 75, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 594.

The appointment of merely temporary receivers for a corporation, by a court acting under its general equity powers, in a pending suit which has not been heard, and in which there has been no adjudication of insolvency, does not constitute an act of bankruptcy. Zugalla v. International Mercantile Agency (1906) 142 Fed. 927, 74 C. C. A. 97, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 67; In re Columbia Real Estate Co. (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 980, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 471; In re Hudson River Electric Power Co. (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 934, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 191. But see Blue Mountain Iron & Steel Co. v. Portner (1904) 131 Fed. 57, 65 C. C. A. 295, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559; In re William S. Butler & Co. (C. C. A. 1913) 207 Fed. 705, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 502, holding that it is immaterial whether receivers appointed for an alleged bankrupt corporation are temporary or permanent, with reference to the commission of an act of bankruptcy. A state court is not deprived of jurisdiction to appoint receivers for an alleged bankrupt corporation (thereby causing it to commit an act of bankruptcy) by the fact that, prior to the filing of the bill under which the appointment is made, another bill was filed in another court for the same purpose, where it appears that the prior proceeding was collusive, and that nothing was done or intended to be done therein beyond filing the bill. Blue Mountain Iron & Steel Co. v. Portner (1904) 131 Fed. 57, 65 C. C. A. 295, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559.

To render the appointment of a receiver an act of bankruptcy, the defendant must have been insolvent, as insolvency is defined by the bankruptcy act. Maplecroft Mills v. Childs (C. C. A. 1915) 226 Fed. 415. A receivership is not an act of bankruptcy, unless the receiver was appointed "because of insolvency," as insolvency is defined in the bankruptcy act. In re Butte Duluth Mining Co. (D. C. 1915) 227 Fed. 334.

Under the bankruptcy act declaring the appointment of an insolvency receiver or trustee by the state courts to be an act of bankruptcy, "insolvency" means only that condition of financial affairs which exists when the aggregate of the bankrupt's property is at a fair valuation insufficient to pay his debts. Karst v. Black Diamond Range Co. (N. J. Ch. 1913) 88 A. 692.

23. —— On application of debtor.— An application by insolvent debtor to state court for appointment of receiver held an "act of bankruptcy." In re Rankin (D. C. 1913) 210 Fed. 529, order affirmed Hill v. Western Electric Co. (C. C. A. 1914) 214 Fed. 243. Where an insolvent applied for a receiver of his assets, he thereby committed an act of bankruptcy, though his purpose in doing so was not to have his assets liquidated and distributed among his creditors. Hill v. Western Electric Co. (1914) 214 Fed. 243, 130 C. C. A. 613, affirming order In re Rankin (D. C. 1913) 210 Fed. 529.

The fact that an application by an insolvent corporation to a state court for the appointment of a receiver for its property was not authorized by the laws of the state does not prevent it from constituting an act of bankruptcy. Exploration Mercantile Co. v. Pacific Hardware & Steel Co. (1910) 177 Fed. 825, 101 C. C. A. 39, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 216.

The consent of a corporation to the appointment of a receiver for its property, on an application by others, is not equivalent to its having "applied for" a receiver, as an act of bankruptcy. In re Gold Run Mining & Tunnel Co. (D. C. 1912) 200 Fed. 162, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 563. In involuntary bankruptcy proceedings, findings by the master that an application for receiver nominally filed by a creditor was actually filed by the debtor held to support a conclusion that the debtor applied for the appointment of the receiver. Where the defendant in proceedings for the appointment of a receiver was the real plaintiff also, hiding behind the nominal plaintiff, there was no cause before the court, and the proceedings did not prevent the bankruptcy court from determining the issue of insolvency at the time the application for the receiver was made. In re Muir (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 495.

In order that an application for the appointment of a receiver by a corporation or a partnership should constitute an act of bankruptcy it is essential that the applicant should be insolvent, within the meaning of that term as used in the bankruptcy law. In re Electric Supply Co. (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 612, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 647. Where a bill in equity filed by creditors against a corporation alleges that it is unable to meet its obligations as they mature, and that it will be for the advantage of creditors and stockholders that its affairs shall be wound up, but that it is solvent, the filing of an answer by the corporation, admitting such allegations and joining in the request for a receiver, is not an act of bankruptcy, as there is no showing of insolvency and no application by the corporation. In re Edward Ellsworth Co. (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 699, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 284. But where the proceedings are instituted by the voluntary application for a receiver, preferred by the corporation itself, while the fact of insolvency must exist in order to constitute an act of bankruptcy, it is not necessary that the receiver should have been appointed and put in charge "because of insolvency," as required by the other clause of the amendatory statute. Exploration Mercantile Co. v. Pacific Hardware & Steel Co. (1910) 177 Fed. 825, 101 C. C. A. 39, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 216; Blackstone v. Everybody's Store (1913) 207 Fed. 752, 125 C. C. A. 290, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 497.

24. —— On application of creditors or others.—The appointment of a receiver or trustee for the property of a debtor is not an act of bankruptcy, when made on the application of his creditors or others, unless made on the ground of his insolvency. In re Spalding (1905) 139 Fed. 244, 71 C. C. A. 370, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 129; Schumert & Warfield v. Security Brewing Co. (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 358, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 676. The appointment of receivers for a corporation on the ground that it is unable to meet its obligations as they mature in the ordinary course of business, is not an appointment because of insolvency, and therefore not an act of bankruptcy. In re Wm. S. Butler & Co. (1913) 207 Fed. 705, 125 C. C. A. 223, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 502.

It is not necessary, in order to constitute an act of bankruptcy, that it should appear of record that insolvency was the sole reason which moved the court to appoint a receiver, if the appointment was in fact made on that and other grounds. Beatty v. Andersen Coal Min. Co. (1906) 150 Fed. 293, 80 C. C. A. 181, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 738. The appointment of a receiver for a corporation under a state statute which authorizes proceedings for the dissolution of a corporation and the appointment of a receiver therein on various statutory grounds, which do not include insolvency by name, or for "other good and sufficient reason," may constitute an act of bankruptcy, where the record and findings in the state court show that the appointment was in fact, though not in name, made because of insolvency. In re Belfast Mesh Underwear Co. (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 224, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 620. If the decree of the court recites the ground for the appointment of the receiver, it is conclusive, and if it states that the receivership was ordered on the ground that the defendant had conveyed property and was threatening to make further conveyances of property in fraud of the plaintiff's rights, it is decisive against the commission of an act of bankruptcy. In re Spalding (1905) 139 Fed. 244, 71 C. C. A. 370, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 129.

Where the bill or complaint alleges insolvency, and it is confessed by the defendant, or the receiver is appointed by the consent of both parties, this is sufficient evidence that he was appointed because of insolvency. In re Pickens Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1908) 158 Fed. 894, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 202; Lowenstein v. Henry McShane Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 1007, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 601; In re Wenatchee Heights Orchard Co. (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 674, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 401. But an act of bankruptcy is not shown where the prayer for a receiver in the bill or complaint is based on allegations of fraud and mismanagement by the officers or majority stockholders of a corporation. In re Boston & Oaxaca Min. Co. (D. C. 1909) 181 Fed. 422, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 923. Nor where, in addition to such charges, it is alleged that the corporation is in danger of becoming insolvent, without averring that it is now insolvent. In re Perry Aldrich Co. (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 249, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 244. The appointment of a receiver for the property of a corporation in a suit to foreclose a mortgage, in which the bill does not allege insolvency, but a breach of the covenants of the mortgage, does not authorize an adjudication of bankruptcy against the corporation, although it may in fact have been insolvent and such insolvency may have caused its default. In re Douglas Coal & Coke Co. (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 769, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 539.

The appointment, by a state court, of a receiver for an insolvent domestic corporation, at the suit of a stockholder, is an act of bankruptcy. Roberts Cotton Oil Co. v. F. E. Morse & Co. (1911) 97 Ark. 513, 135 S. W. 334. And so is the appointment of a receiver in proceedings instituted by the officers and directors of a corporation, holding a majority of the stock. Doyle-Kidd Dry Goods Co. v. Sadler-Lusk Trading Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 813, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 604. The provision of the statute that it shall be an act of bankruptcy where, because of insolvency, a "receiver or trustee has been put in charge" of the property does not mean exclusively that a trustee must have been put in charge by order of a court, but embraces as well a case where liquidating trustees have been elected by an insolvent corporation and put in charge of its property for the purpose of winding up its affairs. In re Hercules Atkin Co. (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 813, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 369; In re C. H. Bennett Shoe Co. (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 687, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 497. Where a state statute provides that, on the return of an execution against a corporation unsatisfied, the judgment creditor may procure a special writ of fieri facias, on which all the property of the corporation, except real estate held in fee, shall be sold and the proceeds distributed by the sheriff among all its creditors, such a proceeding results in placing the sheriff, in the character of a receiver or trustee, in charge of the property of the corporation because of its insolvency, so as to constitute an act of bankruptcy. In re International Coal Min. Co. (D. C.

1906) 143 Fed. 665, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 309.

25. Admission of insolvency and willingness to be adjudged bankrupt.—Where a corporation admits in writing its inability to pay its debts and its willingness to be adjudged bankrupt on that ground, it is subject to adjudication over the objections of creditors, though it is not insolvent. In re Northampton Portland Cement Co. (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 726, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 61; In re Kersten (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 929, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 516. A letter, written by the president of an alleged bankrupt corporation to its creditors, held not an admission that the corporation had committed an act of bankruptcy. Lackawanna Leather Co. v. La Porte Carriage Co. (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 318.

The filing of a voluntary petition in bankruptcy is not of itself an act of bankruptcy, but simply institutes a proceeding in which the court acquires jurisdiction to adjudge bankruptcy if the facts warrant it. In re J. M. Ceballos & Co. (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 445, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 459. See Van Nostrand v. Carr (1869) 30 Md. 128.

Under this provision of the law it is held that where a corporation, by the unanimous vote of its stockholders, authorizes one of its officers to appear on behalf of the company in the federal court and make the admission of insolvency contemplated by the statute, "in the event of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy being filed against said company," this is not in itself such an unqualified admission as is required by the act, and is therefore not an act of bankruptcy on the part of the corporation. Further, where such officer makes a written admission that the company is not able to pay its debts and is willing to be adjudged bankrupt on that ground, but this writing is not executed until after the filing of a petition in involuntary bankruptcy against the corporation it constitutes no ground for an adjudication on that petition. In re Baker-Ricketson Co. (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 489, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 605.

(B) Acts of bankruptcy by partnerships

26. In general.—Under the bankruptcy act, a partnership is a "person" or entity which may be adjudged bankrupt upon its voluntary petition, or in involuntary proceedings, if it has committed an act of bankruptcy, irrespective of any adjudication of the individual partners as bankrupts. In re Meyer (1899) 98 Fed. 976, 39 C. C. A. 368, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559.

Where an act of bankruptcy has been committed by an insolvent partnership as such, it may be adjudged bankrupt on the petition of its creditors, although neither of the partners has done any act upon which he, as an individual, could be adjudged bankrupt. Chemical Nat. Bank v. Meyer (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 896, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 565, affirmed, In re Meyer (1899) 98 Fed. 976, 39 C. C. A. 368, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559.

Where the liquidating partner of an insolvent firm makes a general assignment of the firm's property for the benefit of its creditors, the other partner making no attempt to prevent such assignment, it is an act of bankruptcy upon which the firm, as such, may be adjudged bankrupt. Chemical Nat. Bank v. Meyer (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 896, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 565, affirmed, In re Meyer (1899) 98 Fed. 976, 39 C. C. A. 368, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559.

Where a petition in bankruptcy is filed by one member of a firm against the firm and his partners, it is involuntary in so far as it affects the nonconsenting partners, and they cannot, as individuals, be adjudged bankrupts, unless it is alleged and shown that they personally have committed acts of bankruptcy within four months before the petition was filed. The filing of a petition in bankruptcy by one partner against his copartners is not an act of bankruptcy on the part of the firm. In re J. M. Ceballos & Co. (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 445, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 459.

27. Transfers of property and preferances.—A transfer of property by an individual member of a firm, although with intent to defraud individual and firm creditors, is not an act of bankruptcy on the part of the partnership which will sustain a petition in bankruptcy against it. In re Stovall Grocery Co. (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 882, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 537.

A conveyance by one partner of his individual property, although an act of bankruptcy as against him, will not sustain a proceeding in bankruptcy against the firm, even though such conveyance was made with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud firm creditors, or with a view to give a preference to a firm creditor. Mills v. J. H. Fisher & Co. (1908) 159 Fed. 897, 87 C. C. A. 77, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 237; Hartman v. John Peters & Co. (D. C. 1906) 146 Fed. 82, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 61; In re Redmond (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 408, Fed. Cas. No. 11,632. Where the members of a firm jointly owning real estate convey or incumber the same, without consideration, in fraud of the creditors of the firm, such transaction is an act of bankruptcy by the firm. Lastrapes v. Blanc (C. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 8,100. When a firm is insolvent, it is an act of bankruptcy for a member thereof to suffer the partnership property to be taken on legal process, with intent to prefer a creditor of the firm. In re Black (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 1,457. The taking of firm property, when the firm is insolvent, to pay a debt not of the firm, is an act of bankruptcy, although each of the partners may be liable therefor. In re

Matot (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 485, Fed. Cas. No. 9,282.

A transfer of property from one member of a solvent firm to another is not an act of bankruptcy as being a conveyance or transfer with intent to defraud creditors. In re Munn (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 9,925. But a sale by one partner to his copartner, when the firm is insolvent and on the eve of bankruptcy, is presumptively fraudulent as to firm creditors, the effect of such transfer being to change the order of payment and prefer private creditors to partnership creditors, and the court should set it aside and distribute the property as firm property. In re Cook (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 3,150; Collins v. Hood (C. C. 1846) Fed. Cas. No. 3,015.

The withdrawal of money from an insolvent firm by one of the partners, and its secret transfer to a third person, in connection with other concurrent transactions between the partners, held a conveyance and transfer of property with intent to hinder and delay creditors, by both partners, which constituted an act of bankruptcy. In re Shapiro (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 495, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 839.

28. Assignment for creditors.—An assignment by a partnership for the benefit of its creditors, purporting to transfer all the property of the firm, is a general assignment, such as to constitute an act of bankruptcy by the firm and on which the firm may be adjudged bankrupt, although, considered as an assignment by the individual partners, it would be but partial, by reason of not including their separate property. In re Meyer (1899) 98 Fed. 976, 39 C. C. A. 368, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559. A voluntary assignment of all the property and assets of a firm operating a private bank constitutes an act of bankruptcy, though done by one of the partners and not participated in by the other. Yungbluth v. Slipper (1911) 185 Fed. 773, 108 C. C. A. 106, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 265. Where a partnership and the individuals composing it make an assignment for the benefit of creditors, the act of bankruptcy is committed by all. Green River Deposit Bank v. Craig (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 137, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 381.

29. Insolvency of firm and of partners.—Where insolvency is a necessary element of the particular act of bankruptcy charged, a partnership cannot be adjudged bankrupt on a petition filed against it, on the allegation and showing of its insolvency, unless all its members are also shown to be insolvent, and it is not enough to show that the assets of the firm, as such, are insufficient to pay its debts, if some or all of the partners, residing within the jurisdiction, are personally solvent. Vaccaro v. Security Bank (1900) 103 Fed. 436, 43 C. C. A. 279, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 474; Tumlin v. Bryan (1908) 165 Fed. 166, 91 C. C. A. 200, 21 L. R. A. (N. S.) 960, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 319; In re Perlhefter (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 299, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 576; Washington Cotton Co. v. Morgan (1911) 192 Fed. 310, 112 C. C. A. 568, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 638; Francis v. McNeal (C. C. A. 1911) 186 Fed. 481, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555; In re Perley & Hays (D. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 927, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 54; Davis v. Stevens (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 235, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 763; In re Kobre (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 106; Abbott v. Anderson (1914) 265 Ill. 285, 106 N. E. 782; In re Young (D. C. 1915) 223 Fed. 659; In re Samuels (C. C. A. 1914) 215 Fed. 845, reversing decree In re Samuels & Lesser (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 195. But see, CONTRA, In re Everybody's Grocery & Meat Market (1908) 173 Fed. 492, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 925; In re McMurtrey & Smith (D. C. 1905) 142 Fed. 853, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 427; In re Bertenshaw (C. C. A. 1907) 157 Fed. 363, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577; In re Solomon & Carvel (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 140, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 488; In re Morgan & Williams (D. C. 1911) 184 Fed. 938, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 861; In re Samuels & Lesser (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 195, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 293.

(C) Acts of bankruptcy by corporations

30. Assignment for creditors.—The act of bankruptcy involved in making a general assignment for the benefit of creditors can be committed by a corporation without a formal deed of assignment, but some corporate act purporting to transfer all the property of the corporation must be shown, and the mere adoption of resolutions authorizing the treasurer to convert the property into cash and deposit it with a trustee for the creditors does not constitute an act of bankruptcy, where the plan was not executed. In re Federal Lumber Co. (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 926, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 438. An assignment by the corporation does not require the unanimous consent of the stockholders; it constitutes an act of bankruptcy if directed by a majority vote at a stockholder's meeting, and then by resolution of the board of directors. Clark v. American Mfg. & Enameling Co. (1900) 101 Fed. 962, 42 C. C. A. 120, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 351.

When a corporation, under the provisions of a state statute, files in a state court its voluntary application for dissolution and for the appointment of a receiver to wind up its affairs and distribute its assets, on the ground of its insolvency, and procures the appointment of a receiver thereon, such application is not a "general assignment for the benefit of its creditors," within the meaning of the bankruptcy act. In re Empire Metallic Bedstead Co. (1899) 98 Fed. 981, 39 C. C. A. 372, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 575.

It is not an act of bankruptcy for a corporation to convey its property in trust to secure bonds to be issued and sold, and the proceeds to be applied to pay all its unsecured debts, the same being done in good faith, and with a view to enable the company to continue in business, though it may be technically insolvent or likely soon to be so. In re Union Pac. R. Co. (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 178, Fed. Cas. No. 14,376.

31. Transfers of property.—Whether the act of an insolvent corporation in voluntarily applying to a state court for a decree dissolving the corporation and winding up its affairs, pursuant to a state law, through the agency of a receiver, is a transfer of its property with intent to hinder and defraud its creditors, because operating to deprive them of the remedies provided by the bankruptcy law, quære. In re Harper & Bros. (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 266, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 804. The sale of property by an insolvent corporation, and the use of the proceeds in paying the current salary of its president, is not a transfer with intent to prefer a creditor, such salary being a legitimate current expense so long as the corporation is a going concern. Richmond Standard Steel Spike & Iron Co. (1906) 148 Fed. 657, 78 C. C. A. 389, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 583.

Instrument appointing trustees to wind up corporation's affairs held not a conveyance or transfer with intent to defraud creditors within the Bankruptcy Act. In re Ambrose Matthews & Co. (D. C. 1916) 229 Fed. 309. It is no defense to a proceeding in bankruptcy against a corporation that the act of bankruptcy charged was not within its charter powers. Badders Clothing Co. v. Burnham-Munger-Root Dry Goods Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 228 Fed. 470.

32. Appointment of receiver.—The appointment by a state court of a receiver for a corporation is not an act of bankruptcy unless the appointment was made "because of its insolvency." In re Valentine Bohl Co. (1915) 224 Fed. 685, 140 C. C. A. 225. If the appointment is based on the ground that the corporation is "in imminent danger of insolvency," it is made because of insolvency. In re Maplecroft Mills (D. C. 1914) 218 Fed. 659. But otherwise if it is on the ground that the corporation is unable to pay its debts in the ordinary course of business. In re Wm. S. Butler & Co. (C. C. A. 1913) 207 Fed. 705. An act of bankruptcy is not committed if it does not appear on what ground the receiver was appointed. In re Columbia Real Estate Co. (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 980; In re Commonwealth Lumber Co. (D. C. 1915) 223 Fed. 667. If the facts appearing of record do not show an appointment because of insolvency, an act of bankruptcy is not proved. Maplecroft Mills v. Childs (C. C. A. 1915) 226 Fed. 415.

Record of a state court showing the appointment of a receiver for a corporation held insufficient to show that the appointment was made because of insolvency, which constituted an act of bankruptcy. In re Butte Duluth Mining Co. (D. C. 1915) 227 Fed. 334. Appointment of receiver by a state court for an insolvent corporation on a petition alleging insolvency, on the finding of insolvency, subsequently proved, held to constitute an act of bankruptcy. In re Wenatchee Heights Orchard Co. (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 674. That the proceedings, pleadings, or orders in a state court by which a receiver was appointed for a corporation do not state the ground for such appointment held not to defeat the jurisdiction of a court of bankruptcy to adjudge it a bankrupt on the ground that it was because of insolvency. In re Maplecroft Mills (D. C. 1914) 218 Fed. 659.

The president of a corporation instituted a suit against it in a state court, the purpose of which was to have it wound up. The petition alleged that it was largely indebted to plaintiff and to others, that it was unable to meet its liabilities or to carry on its business, and was in imminent danger of insolvency, and, in general, that it was in a failing condition. A statement was made that its assets slightly exceeded its liabilities, and the appointment of a receiver was prayed for and granted. By an amended petition it was alleged that the property of the company when the suit was begun was insufficient to pay the indebtedness to plaintiff. Held, sufficient to show that the receiver was appointed because of the insolvency of the company, and therefore constituted an act of bankruptcy. Hooks v. Aldridge (1906) 145 Fed. 865, 76 C. C. A. 409, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 658.

That the consent of a corporation to the appointment of a receiver by a state court because of its insolvency was not authorized by formal corporate action does not prevent such appointment from being an act of bankruptcy. In re Maplecroft Mills (D. C. 1914) 218 Fed. 659. If a receivership for an insolvent corporation, although procured in a suit against it, was actually procured by and in behalf of the corporation, it constitutes an act of bankruptcy. James Supply & Hardware Co. v. Dayton Coal & Iron Co. (1915) 223 Fed. 991, 139 C. C. A. 367.

Suit by minority stockholders to dissolve corporation and appoint a receiver pursuant to Revisal N. C. 1905, §§ 1196, 1219, held not to entitle creditors to relief in the bankruptcy court until the corporation became insolvent and committed an act of bankruptcy. Bank of Andrews v. Gudger (C. C. A. 1914) 212 Fed. 49. Filing of petition for receivership by majority stockholder, to which company filed no answer, held not an act of bankruptcy by the corporation. In re Valentine Bohl Co. (1915) 224 Fed. 685, 140 C. C. A. 225.

If the appointment of a receiver for an insolvent corporation, although made in a suit to which it was defendant, was in fact procured by the corporation and in its behalf, it is immaterial that the receivership was not ordered because of insolvency, but it is sufficient if the corporation was actually insolvent. James Supply & Hardware Co. v. Dayton Coal & Iron Co. (1915) 223 Fed. 991, 139 C. C. A. 367.

33. Suffering preference through legal proceedings.—An insolvent corporation occupying leased premises does not commit an act of bankruptcy by permitting its property on such premises, which is subject to a mortgage given to secure its bonds, to be sold under a distress warrant lawfully issued for rent past due, which by the state statute is made a lien on such property, as this does not operate to give any creditor a preference throught legal proceedings. Richmond Standard Steel Spike & Iron Co. v. Allen (1906) 148 Fed. 657, 78 C. C. A. 389, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 583.

34. Admission of insolvency and willingness to be adjudged bankrupt.—Where it is apparent that an admission of insolvency by a corporation was made for the purpose of inducing creditors to take measures to put the corporation into bankruptcy (the corporation itself, under the bankruptcy act as then in force, being forbidden to file its voluntary petition), and that the real motive was the desire of the managers of the company to liquidate its affairs through the court of bankruptcy, that court should discourage the attempt to evade the law. In re Bates Machine Co. (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 625, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 129. But see In re C. Moench & Sons Co. (1904) 130 Fed. 685, 66 C. C. A. 37, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 240; In re T. L. Kelly Dry Goods Co. (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 747, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 528.

The question whether the corporation is actually unable to pay its debts or not is immaterial, and a creditor intervening to oppose the petition cannot prove its solvency as a defense. In re Duplex Radiator Co. (D. C. 1906) 142 Fed. 906, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 324; In re C. Moench & Sons Co. (1904) 130 Fed. 685, 66 C. C. A. 37, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 240.

The admission of insolvency need not be made in the form of a resolution of the directors or stockholders or of a published notice or letter to creditors. Where the company itself files a bill in a state court asking for the appointment of a receiver, this may constitute an effectual admission of insolvency. Moody v. Port Clyde Development Co. (1907) 102 Me. 365, 66 Atl. 967. Where hostile proceedings are instituted against a corporation in a state court, its answer may constitute an act of bankruptcy if it thereby admits both its insolvency and its willingness to be adjudged bankrupt, though the former admission is not enough without the latter. In re Wilmington Hosiery Co. (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 179, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 579. If a petition in involuntary bankruptcy is filed by creditors against a corporation, and its answer waives process, admits the allegations of the petition, and declares its willingness to be adjudged bankrupt, it is an act of bankruptcy within the meaning of the statute. In re Columbia Real Estate Co. (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 965, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 411. But where a corporation authorizes one of its officers to appear on behalf of the company in the federal court and make the admission of insolvency contemplated by the statute, "in the event of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy being filed against said company," this is not in itself such an unqualified admission as is required by the act, and is therefore not an act of bankruptcy on the part of the company. An admission of insolvency, made in answer to an involuntary petition filed by creditors, cannot be availed of as a ground of adjudication on the pending petition, but may constitute the foundation of a new petition. In re Baker-Ricketson Co. (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 489, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 605.

Where a petition in bankruptcy is filed against a corporation, it is not necessary, in order to authorize counsel to appear and admit the acts of bankruptcy charged, that the corporators or stockholders should previously vote to authorize that act or direct it to be done. Leiter v. Republic Fire Ins. Co. (C. C. 1873) 9 N. B. R. 205, Fed. Cas. No. 8,227. A corporation has the same privilege of becoming a voluntary bankrupt as an individual has, and a resolution of its board of directors need not strictly conform to subdivision 5 of this section. Bell v. Blessing (C. C. A. 1915) 225 Fed. 750.

35. —— Who authorized to make admission.—No officer of a corporation can commit an act of bankruptcy in its name and behalf, by admitting its inability to pay its debts and its willingness to be adjudged bankrupt, without express authority from some competent source. In re Southern Steel Co. (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 702, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 476; In re Jefferson Casket Co. (D. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 689, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 663. The unauthorized admission of an officer of a corporation cannot be made effective by subsequent ratification by the directors. In re Burbank Co. (D. C. 1909) 168 Fed. 719, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 838. A written admission signed by a majority of the directors, but individually and not in their official capacity, is ineffective. In re Gold Run Mining & Tunnel Co. (D. C. 1912) 200 Fed. 162, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 563. Acts of bankruptcy by a corporation may be shown by proof of acts of its officers in authority, although for their own individual benefit. Badders Clothing Co. v. Burnham-Munger-Root Dry Goods Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 228 Fed. 470.

A resolution adopted at meetings both of the board of directors and of the stockholders of a corporation, admitting its insolvency and its willingness to be adjudged bankrupt, will constitute an act of bankruptcy. In re American Guarantee & Security Co. (D. C. 1911) 192 Fed. 405, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 640.

The power of the board of directors of a corporation to throw it into bankruptcy by admitting its inability to pay its debts and its willingness to be adjudged a bankrupt depends on the laws of the state issuing its charter. In re Russell Wheel & Foundry Co. (D. C. 1915) 222 Fed. 569. But they may do so in the absence of any restrictive provision in the laws of the state or the charter of the corporation. Rudebeck v. Sanderson (C. C. A. 1915) 227 Fed. 575.

Authorization to a corporation to file a petition in bankruptcy, given by its board of directors, a member of which practically owned all the stock, is sufficient, notwithstanding Civ. Code Cal. § 361a. Bell v. Blessing (C. C. A. 1915) 225 Fed. 750. Proceeding instituted by the officers and directors of a corporation, holding a majority of the stock in number of shares and amount, for the appointment of a receiver of its assets, held the act of the corporation. Doyle-Kidd Dry Goods Co. v. Sadler-Lusk Trading Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 813.

Under the laws of Massachusetts, the directors of a manufacturing corporation have no authority to make a written admission of its inability to pay its debts and its willingness to be adjudged bankrupt. Such an admission is in excess of their authority, and therefore does not constitute an act of bankruptcy; nor will a vote of the stockholders ratifying the action of the directors, but taken after the filing of the petition, relate back so as to validate it, at least where creditors other than the petitioners have already entered an appearance and opposed the adjudication. In re Bates Machine Co. (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 625, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 129. And a similar ruling has been made in the case of an Oregon corporation. In re Quartz Gold Min. Co. (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 243, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 667; Van Emon v. Veal (1908) 158 Fed. 1022, 85 C. C. A. 547.

The directors of a New York corporation have power and authority to put it into bankruptcy in this way, without the concurrence or authorization of the stockholders, and this is not a corporate function, to be exercised by the whole body of corporators, but an administrative act, and that the act of bankruptcy in question may be committed by the board of directors alone, unless there is something in the statute law of the particular state to forbid it. In re C. Moench & Sons Co. (1904) 130 Fed. 685, 66 C. C. A. 37, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 240; In re Rollins Gold & Silver Min. Co. (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 982, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 327; In re Mutual Mercantile Agency (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 152, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 607; In re Guanacevi Tunnel Co. (C. C. A. 1912) 201 Fed. 316, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 229. This rule is also applied in the case of corporations organized under the laws of Minnesota and of Arizona. In re Kenwood Ice Co. (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 525, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 499; Dodge v. Kenwood Ice Co. (C. C. A. 1913) 204 Fed. 577, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 586; Home Powder Co. v. Geis (C. C. A. 1913) 204 Fed. 568, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 580. Directors of a Pennsylvania corporation without special authority from stockholders have power to authorize the filing of a petition to have the corporation declared a bankrupt. In re Foster Paint & Varnish Co. (D. C. 1914) 210 Fed. 652. Board of directors of Michigan corporation held authorized to admit inability to pay debts and willingness to be adjudicated a bankrupt. In re Russell Wheel & Foundry Co. (D. C. 1915) 222 Fed. 569.

The appointment of receivers for an insolvent corporation does not dissolve it nor vacate the offices of the directors to such an extent as to make it legally impossible for them to make the admission of insolvency contemplated by the bankruptcy act. Cresson & Clearfield Coal & Coke Co. v. Stauffer (1906) 148 Fed. 981, 78 C. C. A. 609, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 573; In re C. Moench & Sons Co. (1904) 130 Fed. 685, 66 C. C. A. 37, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 240. Where the court appointing the receivers granted an injunction restraining the officers of the company from commencing or prosecuting any proceeding "involving in any way the property or property rights" of the corporation, or incumbering or embarrassing the same, held, that the subsequent action of the board of directors in adopting a resolution confessing the insolvency of the company and its willingness to be adjudged bankrupt was a violation of the injunction and unauthorized, and therefore did not constitute an act of bankruptcy. In re Hudson River Electric Power Co. (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 934, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 191.

A resolution adopted by the board of directors of a corporation, at a meeting called and held in the usual manner, at which a quorum was present, admitting the insolvency of the corporation and its willingness to be adjudged bankrupt, is sufficient, in the absence of fraud or collusion, to authorize creditors to institute bankruptcy proceedings, and to warrant an adjudication, although some of the directors in a distant state were not notified of the meeting, especially where neither the stockholders nor a new board of directors elected by them have taken any steps during several months to vacate a receivership obtained by the petitioning creditors with the consent of counsel for the corporation. In re Lisk Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1908) 167 Fed. 411, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 674. So also where the directors not notified were only nominal members of the board and had never taken part in the meetings of the directors nor given any attention to the affairs of the company. In re Marine Machine & Conveyor Co. (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 630, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 421. And the action of the board is not invalidated by failure to give notice of the meeting to a single director, constituting the minority, where it appears that notice to him would have been entirely perfunctory and of no avail in the way of securing his attendance at the meeting or his concurrence in the views of the majority, as he had had a violent quarrel with the other directors, and had instituted a suit to rescind his contract for the purchase of stock in the company on the ground of fraud, and would have resisted the proceeding to put the company into bankruptcy in order to sustain an attachment of the company's property in his own favor. In re Kenwood Ice Co. (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 525, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 499.

II. TIME FOR FILING PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

36. Commission of act of bankruptcy.—The period of four months allowed for the filing of a petition, after the commission of an act of bankruptcy, is to be computed by excluding the day on which the act of bankruptcy was committed and including that on which the petition is filed. In re Stevenson (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 110, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 66; In re Dupree (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 28.

The four months' limitation applies to the filing of the petition as the commencement of the proceedings, and if the petition is filed in due time, the proceedings will not be vitiated by a delay in the issuance of process thereon. In re Lewis (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 632, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 458. It is not material that certain creditors, who joined in the petition subsequent to its filing and before an adjudication, and who are to be reckoned in making up the requisite number of creditors and amount of claims, did not enter their appearance, for the purpose of such joinder, until more than four months after the act of bankruptcy. In re Romanow (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 510, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 461. The four months' limitation does not apply to an amendment of the petition, and if the original petition was filed in due time, it is no objection to an amendment that it is allowed more than four months after the act of bankruptcy charged, provided it does not introduce a wholly new act of bankruptcy. International Bank v. Sherman (1879) 101 U. S. 403, 25 L. Ed. 866; Hark v. C. M. Allen Co. (1906) 146 Fed. 665, 77 C. C. A. 91, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 3; In re Shoesmith (1905) 135 Fed. 684, 68 C. C. A. 322, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 645; In re R. L. Radke Co. (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 735, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 950.

Both the original and the duplicate petition required by the statute must be filed within the four months; it is not enough to file the original, and then, after the four months, the duplicate. In re Stevenson (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 110, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 66; In re Dupree (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 28.

When the preference alleged as an act of bankruptcy was obtained by an attachment of the defendant's property and a sale thereunder, a petition in involuntary bankruptcy may be filed within four months after the seizure and sale of the property, though it be more than four months after the attachment was levied. Parmenter Mfg. Co. v. Stoever (1899) 97 Fed. 330, 38 C. C. A. 200, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 220; In re Nusbaum (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 835, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 598.

Where the act of bankruptcy alleged is a concealment of property, rather than a transfer of it, this is a continuing act, and the time begins to run from its discovery by the creditors. Citizens' Bank v. W. C. De Pauw Co. (1901) 105 Fed. 926, 45 C. C. A. 130, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 345.

When the act of bankruptcy charged is the appointment of a receiver, he is to be regarded as "put in charge" of the property of defendant when the decree appointing him is entered, and the four months' limitation begins to run from the date of the decree, rather than from the time when the receiver qualifies and takes possession. In re Perry Aldrich Co. (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 249, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 244.

37. Recording or registering of transfer or assignment.—The bankruptcy act is not retroactive, and a conveyance of property is not an act of bankruptcy when made before the passage of the law, though not recorded until after that time. The deed is operative from its date, and the act of creditors in recording it cannot be taken as the act of the grantor. In re Wynne (C. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 18,117. But a petition in involuntary bankruptcy could be maintained upon an act of bankruptcy committed before November 1, 1898, the earliest day on which such a petition, under the present statute could be filed, provided the act was committed after July 1, 1898, the date when the law took effect. Leidigh Carriage Co. v. Stengel (1899) 95 Fed. 637, 37 C. C. A. 210, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 383.

In determining whether a transfer of property was made within the time limited, it will be held to have taken place at the time of the actual execution and delivery of the deed, and not at its date. In re Rooney (D. C. 1871) 6 N. B. R. 163, Fed. Cas. No. 12,-032. Where an insolvent corporation sold its real estate and used the proceeds in paying some of its creditors to the exclusion of others, and a petition in bankruptcy against it, alleging the transaction as an act of bankruptcy, not on the theory of its being a transfer of property with intent to delay and defraud creditors, but on the ground that the payments out of the price received were a transfer of property with intent to prefer certain creditors, was filed more than four months after such payments were made, though within four months after the recording of the deed, held, that the petition was too late and must be dismissed. In re Mingo Valley Creamery Ass'n (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 282, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 67.

38. Taking notorious, exclusive, or continuous possession.—The word "notorious" does not mean that the fact of taking possession of property by the beneficiary in a preferential conveyance of it should be advertised or made public by any active efforts on the part of those concerned, but only that there should be nothing secret or hidden in the transaction; the change of possession need only be such that creditors could have discovered it by proper inquiry. In re Woodward (D. C. 1899) 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 352.

III. ISSUE AND PROOF OF INSOLVENCY

39. Existence and date of insolvency.—The bankruptcy act does not make insolvency an essential prerequisite in every case to an adjudication in involuntary bankruptcy. George M. West Co. v. Lea (1899) 174 U. S. 590, 19 Sup. Ct. 836, 43 L. Ed. 1098.

Solvency at the time of the filing of a petition in involuntary bankruptcy is important as a defense only when the act of bankruptcy charged is the conveyance, transfer, or concealment of property with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors. If the act of bankruptcy charged is the giving or permitting of a preference, insolvency must have existed at the time of the preference, and solvency or insolvency at the time of the filing of the petition can only have a reflex importance as evidence. Acme Food Co. v. Meier (1907) 153 Fed. 74, 82 C. C. A. 208, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 550.

40. Issue of insolvency.—In proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy against a corporation, stockholders may obtain leave to intervene, file an answer, and take issue on the question of its insolvency. Ogden v. Gilt Edge Consol. Mines Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 225 Fed. 723.

41. What constitutes insolvency.—The definition given in clause 15 of section 1 (ante, § 9585) makes the question depend upon the balance between total assets and total liabilities, and it establishes the fixed and invariable rule to be applied in bankruptcy proceedings, and which must be strictly adhered to. Duncan v. Landis, 106 Fed. 839, 45 C. C. A. 666, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 649; In re Rome Planing Mill Co., 99 Fed. 937, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 766; Mackel v. Bartlett (1907) 36 Mont. 7, 91 Pac. 1064; Plymouth Cordage Co. v. Smith (1907) 18 Okl. 249, 90 Pac. 418, 11 Ann. Cas. 445. And see Harmanson v. Bain (D. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 173, Fed. Cas. No. 6,072; In re Wells (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 371, Fed. Cas. No. 17,388; Hewitt v. Boston Straw Board Co. (1913) 214 Mass. 260, 101 N. E. 424.

42. —— Fair valuation of property.—The fair valuation of property is its market value, that is, what the property will probably bring or is worth in the general market where everybody buys, not what it is worth to a person specially circumstanced, or having use for a particular article, but what it is worth as a marketable commodity at a given time, with no special conditions prevailing other than such as affect the market generally in the locality where the commodity is for sale. In re Hines (D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 142, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 295. The fair market value of a corporation's assets, for the purpose of determining its solvency when it committed an alleged act of bankruptcy, is the value which the corporation might have realized on them for itself. In re Marine Iron Works (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 753, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 390. "Fair valuation" means such a price as a capable and diligent business man could presently obtain for the property after conferring with those accustomed to buy such property. Stern v. Paper (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 228, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 451.

The term "fair valuation," as used in the bankruptcy act, means the present market value and the value that the debtor might realize thereon if permitted to continue in business. Arnold v. Knapp (W. Va. 1915) 84 S. E. 895.

The "fair valuation" of real estate, for the purpose of determining the question of solvency or insolvency, where no definite market value can be established, and expert testimony must be relied on, is the amount which the property ought to give to a going concern as a fair return, if sold to some one who is willing to purchase under ordinary selling conditions, and not what it might probably bring at a forced sale or an auction sale. The fair valuation of mortgage securities held by a bank, in determining the question of insolvency in bankruptcy proceedings, is to be based on what could be realized therefrom by the bank as a going concern in the usual course of business, and not the so-called market value which could be obtained by treating them as quick assets. In re Kobre (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 106.

The fair value of property may be what it has actually brought at a sale on execution, where the sale is shown to have been in all respects fair and reasonable. In re Martin (C. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 990.

Where the assets of an alleged bankrupt include notes, book debts, or other accounts, their value is the sum which could have been realized from their collection, by the exercise of reasonable diligence, within a reasonable time after the date of the proceeding, and not necessarily their face or par value. In re Coddington (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 281, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 243; Louisiana Nat. Life Assur. Soc. v. Segen (D. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 903, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 407; Plymouth Cordage Co. v. Smith (1907) 18 Okl. 249, 90 Pac. 418, 11 Ann. Cas. 445.

43. —— Comparison of assets and liabilities.—Unpaid subscriptions to the stock of a corporation are part of its assets, in determining whether or not it is insolvent. In re Commonwealth Lumber Co. (D. C. 1915) 223 Fed. 667. But not the liability of stockholders of a corporation for stock claimed to have been issued without payment, which claim is disputed. First Nat. Bank v. Wyoming Valley Ice Co. (D. C. 1905) 136 Fed. 466, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 448. Nor prospective profits on goods which had been ordered from abroad, but not shipped or paid for, and for which orders had been taken to be delivered six months later. In re Bloch (1901) 109 Fed. 790, 48 C. C. A. 650, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 300.

A bankrupt who is the manager and ostensible head of a business cannot avoid liability for the debts contracted in the business, on the ground that another was the real party in interest and he was merely an employé, where that fact was not stated to or known by the creditors. Strellow v. Schloss (D. C. 1906) 149 Fed. 907, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 881. A note secured by mortgage is to be reckoned as one of the bankrupt's debts, though he has fraudulently conveyed away the property on which the mortgage rests. In re Shoesmith (C. C. A. 1905) 135 Fed. 684.

In determining the solvency of an alleged bankrupt, liability as surety or indorser for a solvent principal is not to be counted as a liability. In re Bowers (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed. 617.

A judgment in a state court against the alleged bankrupt, which has been opened and the bankrupt permitted to appear generally and defend without conditions, cannot be reckoned as an established debt on the issue of his solvency. McGowan v. Knittel (1905) 137 Fed. 453, 69 C. C. A. 595, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1. A corporation cannot be charged, for this purpose, with the outstanding individual debts of a merchant whose business it bought and continued, but without assuming liability for the debts. In re C. W. Aschenbach Co. (1909) 174 Fed. 396, 98 C. C. A. 290, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 95.

The failure of a Pennsylvania corporation to pay the tax due to the state on an increased issue of stock, which had been duly reported to the state authorities as required by law, was an irregularity of which advantage could only be taken by the state, which waived its right by subsequently accepting the tax, and the delay in making the payment did not affect the validity of the stock, or of bonds based thereon, which could only be issued under the state law to the amount of half the capital stock, so as to exclude such bonds from consideration in determining the question of the corporation's insolvency in bankruptcy proceedings against it. First Nat. Bank v. Wyoming Valley Ice Co. (D. C. 1905) 136 Fed. 466, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 448.

44. —— Deduction of property fraudulently transferred or concealed.—Where the bankrupt is shown to have sold property for a large sum in cash, which he retained for several months, and where he gives no information about it except to say that, since the filing of the petition, he has invested it in different states, such sum should be treated as concealed assets and deducted from his available property in determining the question of his solvency. In re Shoesmith (1905) 135 Fed. 684, 68 C. C. A. 322, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 645.

Property is not to be deducted which has been pledged as security for a just debt, or paid away in discharge of it, although the transaction would constitute a preference under the bankruptcy law, if it were made the basis of a petition. Acme Food Co. v. Meier (1907) 153 Fed. 74, 82 C. C. A. 208, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 550; In re Doscher (D. C. 1902) 120 Fed. 408, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 547.

Property which is exempt from execution under the laws of the state is not to be excluded in computing the assets of the alleged bankrupt. In re Hines (D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 142, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 295; In re Crenshaw (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 638; In re Baumann (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 946, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 196.

45. Burden of proof and evidence.—If the act of bankruptcy charged in the petition is a fraudulent transfer or concealment of assets, the solvency of the defendant at the time of filing the petition is a matter of defense, and the petitioners are not called upon to prove insolvency, but on the contrary, the burden of proving his solvency at that date is on the defendant. In re West (1901) 108 Fed. 940, 48 C. C. A. 155, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 734; In re Crenshaw (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 638, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 502. If the act of bankruptcy charged is the giving or suffering a preference, and the bankrupt appears in court and submits to examination touching his solvency, the burden of proving insolvency is on the petitioning creditors; but if the defendant fails to obey the statute in this respect, he must assume the burden of proving his solvency. Cummins Grocer Co. v. Talley (1911) 187 Fed. 507, 109 C. C. A. 273, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 484; McGowan v. Knittel (1905) 137 Fed. 453, 69 C. C. A. 595, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1. When the burden of proof rests on the creditors, they are not required to make full and absolute proof of the debtor's insolvency, but may offer evidence tending to show that fact, sufficient at least to make out a prima facie case, and the debtor must then explain or contradict the evidence if possible, as he is best acquainted with the condition of his own affairs. In re Iron Clad Mfg. Co. (1912) 197 Fed. 280, 116 C. C. A. 642, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 628; In re Doyle (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 247, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 102; In re Kassel (C. C. A. 1912) 195 Fed. 492, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 233; In re Oregon Bulletin Printing & Pub. Co. (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 503, Fed. Cas. No. 10,559.

The insolvency of a person at a particular time cannot be proved by general reputation. Hurley v. Smith (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 6, 920; Stewart v. McMurray (1886) 82 Ala. 269, 3 South. 47. See Lakin v. First Nat. Bank (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 7,999. Nor by the opinion of witnesses, unless the testimony also shows that they are stating conclusions based on their own knowledge of the circumstances. Brundred v. Paterson Machine Co. (1843) 4 N. J. Eq. 294; Royall's Adm'r v. McKenzie (1854) 25 Ala. 363. But the inability of a person engaged in business to meet his debts, as shown by his submitting to suit on claims against which he has no defense, especially when coupled with such circumstances as his suspension of business, or the dissolution of a partnership, is strong evidence of insolvency, and may be sufficient, unless completely explained. In re Elmira Steel Co. (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 456, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 484; In re Miller (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 764, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 140; Mayer v. Hermann (C. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 9,-344. But failure to pay a single debt when due is not sufficient to establish insolvency. Driggs v. Moore (C. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 4,083.

A letter written by defendant, stating that he was unable to pay his debts, and calling a meeting of his creditors for the purpose of inducing them to accept a compromise, is prima facie proof of his insolvency, and sufficient to sustain a finding against him on that issue, unless overcome by countervailing proof. In re Lange (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 197, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 231. So a statement of indebtedness, drawn from the books of a corporation, is admissible in evidence in proceedings in bankruptcy against it. Badders Clothing Co. v. Burnham-Munger-Root Dry Goods Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 228 Fed. 470. And a statement made by an officer of a corporation to its creditors, with request for a settlement at 35 cents on the dollar, may be considered on the question of its insolvency, though his authority is not clear. In re Brown Commercial Car Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 227 Fed. 387. But a petition filed in a state court by the directors of a corporation, alleging its insolvency and praying for its dissolution and the appointment of a receiver, is not sufficient ground for a finding of insolvency by a court of bankruptcy in involuntary proceedings subsequently instituted against it, where the rule obtaining in the state courts as to what constitutes insolvency differs from that prescribed by the bankruptcy act. In re Doscher (D. C. 1902) 120 Fed. 408, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 547. And see In re Pickens Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1908) 158 Fed. 894, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 202.

Where a portion of the stock of goods of an alleged bankrupt was destroyed by fire shortly before the filing of the petition, and his insurance thereon was unadjusted, it was competent, on the issue of insolvency, to show the value of his stock before the fire as well as that remaining, and evidence was admissible to contradict or impeach his own estimates or appraisals. Bogen & Trummel v. Protter (1904) 129 Fed. 533, 64 C. C. A. 63, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 288. And see In re Bloch (1901) 109 Fed. 790, 48 C. C. A. 650, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 300; Troy Wagon Works v. Vastbinder (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 232, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 352. If there is a wide discrepancy in the opinion of witnesses, all equally trustworthy, as to the value of assets, the doubt must be resolved against the party having the burden of proof. In re Gilbert (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 951, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101. The court will not, at the outset, determine a question of title, to reduce the alleged bankrupt's apparent assets and show insolvency. Blackstone v. Everybody's Store (C. C. A.

1913) 207 Fed. 752, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 497.

The issue of solvency or insolvency may depend upon a single circumstance, to which the evidence should be confined, as, whether or not defendant was a partner in a certain firm. Buffalo Milling Co. v. Lewisburg Dairy Co. (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 319, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 279. Or whether or not all his creditors had entered into and bound themselves by a composition agreement. Kinsing v. Bartholew (C. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 7,831.

A finding of insolvency by a referee in bankruptcy, on the evidence taken before him as a special master, on a petition in involuntary bankruptcy, will be sustained, under the rule that such findings are presumptively correct, unless it appears that it rests upon an erroneous theory of valuation or that controlling testimony was disregarded. Chicago Motor Vehicle Co. v. American Oak Leather Co. (1905) 141 Fed. 518, 72 C. C. A. 576, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 804.

46. Examination of alleged bankrupt.—In involuntary cases, a bankrupt may be examined on oath touching his estate and property, and the disposition thereof by him prior to adjudication. U. S. v. Coyle (D. C. 1916) 229 Fed. 256.

Referee in bankruptcy, appointed as special master, held to have full power and authority to administer oath and conduct examination of bankrupt concerning his property and its disposition. Id.

A simple denial of the fact of insolvency in the answer by an alleged bankrupt, who had previously assigned all his property for the benefit of his creditors, not accompanied by any affidavits, schedules, or other evidence, does not raise such an issue of solvency as is contemplated by the act. Bray v. Cobb (D. C. 1898) 91 Fed. 102, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 153.

The failure of the bankrupt to appear and submit to examination will justify the presumption of insolvency against him. In re Perlhefter (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 299, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 576. If the bankrupt does not appear voluntarily, he may be called and cross-examined by the creditors. In re Coddington (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 281, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 243. But see In re Thompson (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 874, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 655, where it is held that an alleged bankrupt cannot be subjected to examination on written interrogatories before adjudication at the instance of petitioning creditors.

If the bankrupt is engaged in trade, he is required to produce such books, invoices, and other accounts as should properly be kept in his business and which are necessary to show the character and amount of his assets and liabilities, and his failure to do so, without satisfactory explanation, casts upon him the burden of proving his solvency. Bogen & Trummel v. Protter (1904) 129 Fed. 533, 64 C. C. A. 63, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 288. Where the nature of his business is not such as to require him to keep books of account, in the ordinary or mercantile sense, yet the rule of the statute applies to such papers and accounts as he actually does keep, these being usually the best evidence of the existence of the assets which he claims and relies on to establish his solvency. Cummins Grocer Co. v. Talley (1911) 187 Fed. 507, 109 C. C. A. 273, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 484.

Where the bankrupt appears with other witnesses and is examined, and books are produced, but neither the testimony of the witnesses nor the matters shown by the books disclose the actual financial condition of the bankrupt, this is not a compliance with the requirement of the statute. In re American Pub. Co. (1905) 15 Okl. 177, 79 Pac. 762.

§ 9588. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 4, as amended, Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 3, and Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, §§ 3, 4.) Who may become bankrupts.

Who May Become Bankrupts.—a Any person, except a municipal, railroad, insurance, or banking corporation, shall be entitled to the benefits of this act as a voluntary bankrupt.

b Any natural person, except a wage-earner or a person engaged chiefly in farming or the tillage of the soil, any unincorporated company, and any moneyed, business, or commercial corporation, except a municipal, railroad, insurance, or banking corporation, owing debts to the amount of one thousand dollars or over, may be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt upon default or an impartial trial, and shall be subject to the provisions and entitled to the benefits of this Act.

The bankruptcy of a corporation shall not release its officers, directors, or stockholders, as such, from any liability under the laws of a State or Territory or of the United States. (30 Stat. 547. 32 Stat. 797. 36 Stat. 839.)

This section, as originally enacted, was as follows:

"Who May Become Bankrupts.—a Any person who owes debts, except a corporation, shall be entitled to the benefits of this act as a voluntary bankrupt.

"b Any natural person, except a wage-earner or a person engaged chiefly in farming or the tillage of the soil, any unincorporated company, and any corporation engaged principally in manufacturing, trading, printing, publishing, or mercantile pursuits, owing debts to the amount of one thousand dollars or over, may be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt upon default or an impartial trial, and shall be subject to the provisions and entitled to the benefits of this Act. Private bankers, but not national banks or banks incorporated under State or Territorial laws, may be adjudged involuntary bankrupts."

It was amended by Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 3, cited above, by adding at the end of the section as originally enacted, the paragraph beginning "The bankruptcy of a corporation," etc., as set forth here.

Clauses a and b of the section were amended, by Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, §§ 3, 4, also cited above, to read as set forth here.

Section 19 of said first amendatory Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, 32 Stat. 801, provided that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending when it took effect, but that such cases should be adjudicated and disposed of conformably to the provisions of the original act.

Section 14 of said second amendatory Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, 36 Stat. 842, also provided that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending when it took effect, but that such cases be adjudicated and disposed of conformably to the provisions of the original act as previously amended.

Notes of Decisions

I. Persons subject to bankruptcy law
1. Voluntary bankruptcy.
2. Involuntary bankruptcy.
3. Aliens and Indians.
4. Married women.
5. Insane persons.
6. Infants.
7. Decedents' estates.
8. Executors.
9. Wage-earners.
10. Farmers.
11. Second bankruptcy.

II. Corporations subject to bankruptcy law
12. Jurisdiction of corporations.
13. Effect of proceedings for dissolution under state law.
14. Corporations amenable to bankruptcy law.
15. Trading and mercantile corporations.
16. Manufacturing corporations.
17. Banking corporations.
18. Insurance companies.
19. Mining and quarrying companies.
20. Public service corporations.
21. Moneyed, business, and commercial corporations.
22. Charitable, religious, and other corporations not for profit.
23. Unincorporated companies.

I. PERSONS SUBJECT TO BANKRUPTCY LAW

1. Voluntary bankruptcy.—The right of voluntary bankruptcy is open to all natural persons, without distinction as to occupation or pursuit, including an officer in the United States army. Audubon v. Shufeldt (1901) 181 U. S. 575, 21 Sup. Ct. 735, 45 L. Ed. 1009, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 829. A state court will not grant an injunction restraining a party from applying for the benefits of the bankruptcy law on his voluntary petition. Fillingin v. Thornton (1873) 49 Ga. 384. No creditor can either compel a debtor to go into voluntary bankruptcy or compel a partner to petition for the adjudication of his copartners. Nor can any man lawfully be called upon to show cause why he should not go himself, or put anybody else, into voluntary bankruptcy. In re Harbaugh (D. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 246, Fed. Cas. No. 6,045.

Proceedings in voluntary bankruptcy cannot be conducted in the united names of parties who have no common interest and do not seek a common decree, and individuals cannot associate and make a joint and several petition with a view to a separate decree in favor of each applicant. In re Moritz (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 9,814. But where the system of community property prevails, a husband and wife may file a joint petition in voluntary bankruptcy, in the nature of a partnership petition, for though they are not exactly partners, yet where joint debts and obligations are contracted, there is a joint liability such as will sustain a joint petition. In re Ray, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 276.

The fact that a petitioner in voluntary bankruptcy owes debts of a fiduciary character, which would not be affected by his discharge, is no objection to his being adjudged bankrupt and obtaining the benefit of the act, if he owes other debts not of a fiduciary character. In re Tebbetts (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 13,817. If the existence of at least one debt is a jurisdictional necessity, it must be of such a kind as to be provable in bankruptcy, and an unliquidated claim for damages for a personal tort is not such a debt. In re Yates (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 365, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 69.

A petition in voluntary bankruptcy which schedules no property except such as is exempt under the law of the state, and only one debt, which is a judgment from which the petitioner would not be released by a discharge, fails to disclose any subject-matter upon which the court can act, and should be dismissed for want of jurisdiction. In re Maples (D. C. 1901) 105 Fed. 919, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 426.

A person who owes but one debt, and has no assets to which a trustee could take title, is nevertheless entitled to become a voluntary bankrupt. In re Schwaninger (D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 555, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 427.

Where a petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed, and the debtor, before an adjudication thereon, filed his voluntary petition and was duly adjudged bankrupt, held, that the pendency of the first proceeding was no bar to the institution of the second, and that the court would proceed in the latter, and the further prosecution of the former would be stayed. In re Flanagan (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 4,850.

The pendency of proceedings in insolvency under a state law, on the debtor's voluntary petition, begun before the passage of the bankruptcy act, will not be ground for dismissing the debtor's subsequent voluntary petition in bankruptcy, although he has contracted no new debts, when it appears that one or more of the creditors scheduled by the bankrupt are citizens of states other than that in which the insolvency proceedings were instituted. In re Mussey (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 71, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 592.

The default of the defendant to a petition in involuntary bankruptcy, through failure to appear, does not convert the proceeding into a case of voluntary bankruptcy, and hence, if he belonged to one of the exempt classes, and therefore could not be adjudged in involuntary proceedings, he cannot be adjudged on default, though he might have filed his voluntary petition had he so chosen. In re Taylor (C. C. A. 1900) 102 Fed. 728, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 515.

2. Involuntary bankruptcy.—A natural person may be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt, although he is not "engaged principally in manufacturing, trading, printing, publishing, or mercantile pursuits," the quoted clause qualifying the words "any corporation" only. Cleage by Laidley (1906) 149 Fed. 346, 79 C. C. A. 284, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 598. See In re Excelsior Cafe Co. (D. C. 1910) 175 Fed. 294, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 701.

A man who regularly follows two occupations is not at the time of the commission of an act of bankruptcy chiefly engaged in one of them merely because at that time he is giving his principal attention to it rather than to his other pursuit. In re Disney (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 294.

Whether an alleged bankrupt is within a class of persons exempt from adjudication in involuntary bankruptcy is to be determined as of the date of the commission of the act of bankruptcy charged in the petition. Flickinger v. First Nat. Bank (1906) 145 Fed. 162, 76 C. C. A. 132, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 678; In re Leland (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 830, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 209; In re Disney (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 294; Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Shelhorse (C. C. A. 1915) 228 Fed. 493; In re Folkstad (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 363, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 77. Compare, as holding that the question must be determined as of the time when the debts to the petitioning creditors were contracted. Tiffany v. La Plume Condensed Milk Co. (D. C. 1905) 141 Fed. 444, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 413; In re Burgin (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 726, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 574; In re Crenshaw (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 638, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 502.

While the primary burden is on the petitioning creditors to show that the alleged bankrupt is not among the exempt classes, yet where it appears that the debtor, who claimed to be a farmer, had left his farm more than 14 years ago, and had gone into other active business, in which he continued for several years, the burden shifted to the contestants to show that he again regained an exempt status. In re Leland (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 830, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 209.

3. Aliens and Indians.—An alien, as well as an American citizen, may be adjudged bankrupt in either voluntary or involuntary proceedings. In re Goodfellow (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 5,536; In re Burton (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 2,214; In re Boynton (D. C. 1882) 10 Fed. 277; Judd v. Lawrence (Mass. 1848) 1 Cush. 531; Cutter v. Folsom (1845) 17 N. H. 139.

An Indian, maintaining his tribal relations and not being a citizen, may be adjudged bankrupt on his voluntary petition. In re Russie (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 609, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 6; In re Rennie, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 335.

4. Married women.—If, by the laws of the state of her domicile, a married woman is allowed to make valid and enforceable contracts in the way of trade or business, she is amenable to the bankruptcy law, and in any case where a plea of coverture would not avail her in an action on the debt, she may be proceeded against in bankruptcy. In re Kinkead (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 7,824; In re O'Brien (C. C. 1873) 1 N. B. R. 176, Fed. Cas. No. 10,397; In re Lyons (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 8,649; In re Collins (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 3,006; In re Ruddell (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 12,-109.

A married woman who is a partner in her husband's business, or who engages in business in her own name, by her husband acting as her agent, he exercising the entire control and management of the same in his discretion, may be adjudged bankrupt. Graham v. Stark (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 5,676; In re Steele (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 78, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 549.

Where a married woman has entire control over her separate estate, whether owned before marriage or since acquired, and may make contracts in respect to the same, enforceable either at law or in equity, and may engage in trade, using her own name, and she forms a business partnership with her husband, contributing her separate money to the capital of the concern and her time and skill to the management of its affairs, the firm may be adjudged bankrupt, and semble that the wife may be so adjudged individually. In re Kinkead (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 7,824.

Where a married woman was authorized by her husband to carry on business as a partner with other members of a firm, and was separate in property from her husband, it was not necessary to make the husband a party to a proceeding in involuntary bankruptcy against the firm. Lastrapes v. Blanc (C. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 8,-100.

The bankruptcy act authorizes the adjudication of a married woman as an involuntary bankrupt, where she is engaged in business on her own account and owes business obligations of the amount required by the statute, for which her separate property would be liable in equity though not at law. MacDonlad v. Tefft-Weller Co. (1904) 128 Fed. 381, 63 C. C. A. 123, 65 L. R. A. 106, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 800.

If the laws of the particular state have not removed the common-law disabilities of a married woman, so that she is still incompetent to contract, a petition in bankruptcy will not lie against her, at least where it is not shown that she has a separate estate. In re Goodman (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 5,540.

If the laws of the state are such that a married woman had no power to contract the particular debts claimed by the petitioning creditors, and such debts are not legally binding upon her, such debts are not provable in bankruptcy and will not support a petition, and therefore she may plead her coverture to defeat them, and cannot be adjudged bankrupt. In re Slichter (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 336, Fed. Cas. No. 12,943.

A petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed against an alleged bankrupt, a married woman having a separate estate, founded on the nonpayment of certain promissory notes made by her. Held, that inasmuch as it did not appear on the face of the notes that it was her intention to bind her separate estate, and there being no allegation that they were given for the benefit of her separate estate, or in the course of trade, the petition must be dismissed, but with leave to amend on payment of costs. In re Howland (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 357, Fed. Cas. No. 6,791.

A married woman, where no fraud is intended, may take advantage of bankruptcy with respect to debts contracted while she was sole. Lawver v. Gladden (Pa. 1885) 1 Atl. 659.

5. Insane persons.—A court of bankruptcy is not deprived of jurisdiction in an involuntary proceeding by an adjudication in a state court, in proceedings instituted after the filing of the petition, that the alleged bankrupt is insane, and has been insane since a time prior to the alleged act of bankruptcy set out in the petition, nor is such adjudication conclusive on the bankruptcy court, but the issue of insanity may be tried under the defense that the defendant did not commit the alleged act of bankruptcy. In re Ward (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 755, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 482; In re Kehler (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 235, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 596.

It is a good defense to a petition in involuntary bankruptcy that the defendant was insane at the time of the commission of the alleged act of bankruptcy, and therefore legally incapable of forming an intent to defraud creditors, give a preference, or otherwise commit an act of bankruptcy. In re Ward (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 755, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 482; In re Kehler (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 235, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 596; In re Funk (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 244, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 96; In re Marvin (C. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 9,178; In re Weitzel (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 17,365; In re Pratt (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 11,371.

An insane person is not capable of maintaining a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, since he is incapable of performing the duties and assuming the burdens and obligations which accompany the benefits to be derived from the operation of the bankruptcy law. In re Eisenberg (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 786, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 551.

The fact that a person has been declared a lunatic by the proper court of a state, and a guardian appointed for him, will not invalidate the action of the bankruptcy court in subsequently passing an adjudication of bankruptcy upon him on his own petition; for the decree of the state court merely establishes the fact that he was a lunatic at the time it was made, and does not exclude the supposition that he may since have become sane. Saunders v. Mitchell (1883) 61 Miss. 321.

But compare In re Funk (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 244, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 96.

6. Infants.—An infant cannot be adjudged bankrupt either upon his own petition or upon the prosecution of his creditors. In re Duguid (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 274, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 794; In re Derby (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 3,815. Compare In re Book (C. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 1,637. No person can be made bankrupt on the basis of his owing debts which he is not liable at law to pay. In re Eidemiller (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 595, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 570. The giving of a mortgage, or a transfer of property, by an infant cannot constitute an act of bankruptcy on which he may be adjudged bankrupt, since it is subject to be avoided or disaffirmed by him on reaching his majority. In re Derby (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 3,815.

A minor cannot come into court after attaining his majority, and, by a petition to that effect, ratify and confirm involuntary proceedings begun against him during his minority. If the court of bankruptcy never acquired jurisdiction of his person, jurisdiction cannot be thus retroactively conferred upon it. In re Derby (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 3,815.

Where the law of the state (Code Iowa 1897, § 3190) provides that a minor may not disaffirm his contracts on reaching full age when, "from his having engaged in business as an adult, the other party had good reason to believe him capable of contracting," if a minor engages in business as a merchant, and parties consequently assume that he is of full age, and deal with him in that belief, no inquiry or representation being made as to his minority, he becomes absolutely liable for the debts contracted in such business, and may be adjudged bankrupt on his own petition, though still an infant. In re Brice (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 942, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 197.

The provision of the bankruptcy act that it shall be applicable to a person who "owes debts" has reference to an obligation for which a debtor is legally liable, and hence the act includes an infant if he owes debts for which his property is legally chargeable. In re Walrath (D. C. 1910) 175 Fed. 243, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 541.

Where proceedings in bankruptcy are instituted against a firm, and it appears that one of the partners is a minor, an adjudication may be made against the adult partners and against the firm as such, and the partnership property and the separate estates of the adult partners may be administered in bankruptcy, but no adjudication can be made against the infant partner, as to whom the petition must be dismissed. Jennings v. Stannus (1911) 191 Fed. 347, 112 C. C. A. 91, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 384; In re Duguid (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 274, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 794; In re Dunnigan (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 428, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 628.

7. Decedents' estates.—The bankruptcy act does not authorize the institution of proceedings against the estate of a deceased person, nor provide for the administration of such an estate in the court of bankruptcy, nor does the court acquire jurisdiction of the estate of a decedent by proceedings against a partnership of which he was a member. Adams v. Terrell (C. C. 1880) 4 Fed. 796; In re Daggett (D. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 287, Fed. Cas. No. 3,535.

An adjudication in bankruptcy against a firm, on the voluntary petition of one of the partners, is void when it appears that the firm had been dissolved by the death of the other partner. In re Temple (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 13,825.

8. Executors.—A testator, who was engaged in business as a private banker, made his wife his general executrix, but by a codicil to his will nominated two other persons as his executors for the limited purpose of winding up his business, and clothed them with the powers necessary to carry on the business to effect that object without injury to his estate or to his customers. These persons qualified and carried on the business for some time, until forced by a financial panic to suspend business and stop payment, and a petition in bankruptcy was filed against them. Held, that it must be dismissed, as this was not one of the class of executorships designed to be administered under the bankruptcy act. Graves v. Winter (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 357, Fed. Cas. No. 5,710.

9. Wage-earners.—The question whether a person petitioned against in involuntary bankruptcy is exempt in the character of a wage-earner depends upon his status as to occupation at the time the alleged act of bankruptcy was committed. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Shelhorse (C. C. A. 1915) 228 Fed. 493.

While a farmer is exempt from involuntary bankruptcy, whatever may be his other interests, if farming is his chief occupation, a wage-earner is exempt only when he actually pursues the calling which that term prescribes, and a wage-earner is an employé, and this implies service for another which is substantially exclusive. Id.

One who is engaged in manufacturing and trading pursuits does not become a wage-earner, so as to be exempt from involuntary bankruptcy, merely because, while so engaged, he also earns wages by working for another in a different occupation. In re Naroma Chocolate Co. (D. C. 1910) 178 Fed. 383, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 154.

One whose occupation is that of secretary and financial manager for a corporation at a salary of $100 a month, and who has no other business, is exempt from adjudication in bankruptcy, as a wage-earner, though he is also a stockholder in the corporation, from which, however, he derives no income. In re Pilger (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 206, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 244.

One who owns a team of horses and wagons and a plow, and who works by the day for different employers as he can obtain work, earning usually not more than $15 a week, and who works alone when he cannot find work for his team, is not an independent contractor, but a wage-earner. In re Yoder (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 894, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 445.

Alleged bankrupt held not a bona fide wage-earner when acts of bankruptcy were committed, though business formerly conducted by him had dwindled in volume and about that time he entered the employment of another. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Shelhorse (C. C. A. 1915) 228 Fed. 493.

A teacher of music, who charges and receives a fixed price per lesson or per hour of instruction, is not exempt from proceedings in bankruptcy in the character of a wage-earner, though his earnings do not exceed $1,500 per annum. First Nat. Bank v. Barnum (D. C. 1908) 160 Fed. 245, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 439.

Where an alleged bankrupt had engaged in a mercantile business in which he had contracted debts, and thereafter acquired property by inheritance, worth $40,000, which he immediately assigned to his brother for $180, and during the year the assignment was made received wages for his services exceeding $1,500 per annum, he was not exempt from adjudication in bankruptcy as a wage-earner. In re Wakefield (D. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 247, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 118.

Where the defendant in a petition in involuntary bankruptcy nominally drew a salary of $900 a year as president of a corporation, but owned two-thirds of the stock of the corporation, and drew more than $2,000 a year from its earnings, preceding the institution of the bankruptcy proceedings, and he was also in the business of buying and selling real estate, his holdings outside the corporation being worth nearly $90,000, he was not exempt as a wage-earner. Carpenter v. Cudd (1909) 174 Fed. 603, 98 C. C. A. 449, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 463.

Where an alleged bankrupt received $100 a month and his expenses while traveling and it was proved that his employer's agreement to pay his expenses was worth $40 a month to him, his compensation exceeded $1,500 a year, and he was therefore not exempt as a wage-earner from bankruptcy adjudication under Bankr. Act 1898, § 1, subsec. 27. In re Hurley (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 126.

10. Farmers.—The provision of the act exempting from involuntary bankruptcy persons engaged chiefly in farming or the tillage of the soil applies only to natural persons and partnerships, not to corporations. In re Lake Jackson Sugar Co. (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 640.

A person "engaged chiefly in farming or the tillage of the soil" does not commit an act of bankruptcy, nor become subject to adjudication in bankruptcy, by making a general assignment for the benefit of his creditors. Olive v. Armour (C. C. A. 1909) 167 Fed. 517, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 901.

A person engaged in trade or some other nonexempt pursuit, and who commits an act of bankruptcy, cannot evade the statute by engaging in farming and making that his chief occupation, after the act of bankruptcy and before the filing of the petition against him. In re Mackey (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 355, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577; In re Luckhardt (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 807, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 307.

A man who regularly follows two occupations, one of them being farming, is not, at the time of the commission of an act of bankruptcy, chiefly engaged in one of those occupations merely because at that time he is giving his principal attention to it rather than to his other pursuit. In re Disney (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 294.

If a person's main occupation is some form of agriculture, he is exempt from the bankruptcy law, though he may devote some minor part of his time to incidental pursuits, and thereby supplement his income. In re Mackey (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 355, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577.

In determining whether one sought to be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt is chiefly engaged in the exempt occupation of farming, all his pursuits must be considered as a whole, though he is merely a partner as to some of them. American Agricultural Chemical Co. v. Brinkley (1912) 194 Fed. 411, 114 C. C. A. 373, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 438.

One who resides with his family on a farm and cultivates it, and derives his main support from it, is a farmer, though he is also the publisher of a weekly newspaper and the proprietor of patent medicines. McCue v. Tunstead (1884) 65 Cal. 506, 4 Pac. 510. Or the owner of a small store, from which he derives a profit, but small in comparison with the income from his farm. Rise v. Bordner (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 566, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 297.

A person whose principal occupation is the raising of cattle, sheep, hogs, or other live stock for the market, his farm being devoted to use as pasture land and for raising grass, hay, and corn with which to feed and fatten the stock, is exempt from the bankruptcy law, being a "farmer" though not a tiller of the soil, and does not lose this character by the fact that he incidentally supplements the products of his own farm by the purchase of fodder for the stock, nor by the fact that he does not entirely restrict his operations to cattle raised on his own land. In re Dwyer (C. C. A. 1911) 184 Fed. 880, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 913; In re Thompson (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 287, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 340. But one whose chief occupation is the purchase and sale of live stock, and who uses his lands as a mere feeding station, and, even for the maintenance of the cattle while on his lands, relies chiefly on purchased supplies, is not engaged in either farming or the tillage of the soil, but is a trader. Bank of Dearborn v. Matney (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 75, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 482; In re Brown (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 706, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 140.

A farmer does not cease to be engaged chiefly in farming because he establishes a dairy as one of the branches of his industry, to utilize the products of his farm and convert them to profitable uses, nor because he may sell the products of his dairy at retail. But one is not exempt as a farmer whose business is to maintain a herd of cows and sell the milk, owning no farm, but only the barn in which they are kept, and buying from others the grain and other forage to maintain them. Gregg v. Mitchell (1909) 166 Fed. 725, 92 C. C. A. 415, 20 L. R. A. (N. S.) 148, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 659.

Evidence held to require a finding that a bankrupt firm, operating a canning factory and canning produce partially raised on its farm, was not chiefly engaged in farming, nor were the members of the firm, except one, so chiefly engaged, and hence the firm and the partners, with such exception, were subject to adjudication in bankruptcy. In re Disney (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 294.

Persons who reside upon and cultivate land as partners, on which they raise fruit and vegetables of the value of several thousand dollars a year, which constitutes by far the greater part of their income, are engaged chiefly in farming or the tillage of the soil, within the meaning of the bankruptcy act, and are not subject to adjudication in bankruptcy, although they may also realize a few hundred dollars each year from other and incidental occupations. In re Terry (D. C. 1913) 208 Fed. 162.

If a man's principal occupation is the management and control of a large plantation, which he owns, upon which he resides, and upon which he relies for his income, he is engaged chiefly in farming, and it is not material that part of the property is rented to tenants, the owner exercising supervision and control of their operations, nor that, as to the rest, the manual labor is performed by hired servants, the owner himself not personally working on the land. Wulbern v. Drake (1903) 120 Fed. 493, 56 C. C. A. 643, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 695.

One having regular clerical employment in a city, but whose home is upon a farm, where he spends his Sundays and one night in each week, the management of which is, in his absence, in the hands of men hired by him for the purpose, is not a farmer. Johnson v. London Guaranty & Accident Co. (1897) 115 Mich. 91, 72 N. W. 1115, 40 L. R. A. 440, 69 Am. St. Rep. 549.

The owner of a farm, who does not work it himself, but lets it to a tenant, retaining a general supervision to the extent of seeing that the tenant carries on the work as agreed, but taking no active direction or control, and who has no active business of any kind except looking after his investments, is not "engaged in farming" so as to be exempt from involuntary bankruptcy. In re Leland (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 830, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 209; In re Matson (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 743, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 473. And see In re Hoy (D. C. 1905) 137 Fed. 175, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 648.

Where the title to a farm stands in the name of a wife, and she performs only such services as are generally performed by the wives of farmers, the husband taking full charge of the farming operations, the wife is not "engaged chiefly in farming." In re Johnson (D. C. 1907) 149 Fed. 864, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 74.

Whether an alleged bankrupt was chiefly engaged in farming, and therefore exempt from involuntary bankruptcy adjudication, must be determined as of the time when he committed the act of bankruptcy charged. In re Disney (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 294.

11. Second bankruptcy.—The provision of the bankruptcy act which forbids the granting of a discharge if the bankrupt has, in voluntary proceedings, been granted a discharge within six years, is not retroactive as applied to cases where the first proceedings were had prior to its enactment, as it creates no new offense and imposes no new penalties, but only fixes new conditions of discharge in the case of petitions filed after its passage. In re Carleton (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 146, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 475.

A bankrupt who has not been discharged, or to whom a discharge has been refused, and who has contracted new debts sufficient in amount to give the court jurisdiction, may file a second petition in bankruptcy; but a discharge under such new petition will apply only to new debts and to such old debts as had been proved anew. In re Drisko (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 4090.

The denial of a bankrupt's application for discharge renders the issue as to his right to a discharge res judicata as to debts which were provable in that proceeding, and his failure to apply for a discharge has the same effect. In re Pullian (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 595, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 513. Hence where, in a subsequent voluntary proceeding, the bankrupt schedules the same debts and the same assets, the second proceeding is a manifest attempt to evade the effect of the former, and should be dismissed, or the bankrupt should be restrained by the court from prosecuting a second application for a discharge. But where a considerable time has elapsed, and new debts are also scheduled, the bankrupt has the right to maintain the proceeding as to those, and an order granting a stay should be limited accordingly. In re Kuffler (1907) 151 Fed. 12, 80 C. C. A. 508, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 16; In re Pullian (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 595, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 513.

II. CORPORATIONS SUBJECT TO BANKRUPTCY LAW

12. Jurisdiction of corporations.—A petition in involuntary bankruptcy against a corporation which does not show that it belongs to one or other of the classes of corporations enumerated in the statute as being subject to proceedings in bankruptcy is not sufficient to support an adjudication. In re Oregon Bulletin Printing & Pub. Co. (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 10,561.

It is within the jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy to determine whether or not the respondent corporation is amenable to involuntary bankruptcy, in view of the nature of its business or occupation. T. E. Hill Co. v. Contractors' Supply & Equipment Co. (1910) 156 Ill. App. 270.

The same proportion of creditors, in number and amount, must join in a petition in involuntary bankruptcy against a corporation as are required in the case of a natural person. In re Leavenworth Sav. Bank (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 8,165; In re Oregon Bulletin Printing & Pub. Co. (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 10,561.

Jurisdiction of voluntary proceeding by corporation having domicile and residence in district held to be taken, notwithstanding earlier filing of involuntary petition in another district, where it was claimed to have a place of business. In re R. H. Pennington & Co. (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 388.

Insolvency is not a necessary prerequisite to the filing of a voluntary petition for bankruptcy adjudication against a corporation. In re Foster Paint & Varnish Co. (D. C. 1914) 210 Fed. 652.

13. Effect of proceedings for dissolution under state law.—A corporation which is subject to the provisions of the act, and has committed an act of bankruptcy, and which is in existence when the petition against it is filed and when the proper papers are served on its proper officer, cannot oust the jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy to proceed to an adjudication on the return day, because a decree dissolving the corporation has been made after such service and before such return day. Scheuer v. Smith & Montgomery Book & Stationery Co. (1901) 112 Fed. 407, 50 C. C. A. 312, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 384; Platt v. Archer (C. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 11,213.

The federal court has power to declare a corporation bankrupt, notwithstanding its dissolution by decree of a state court, and the appointment of a receiver to wind up its affairs, before the commencement of the proceedings in bankruptcy, provided that such proceedings are begun within four months after such dissolution, that being the time within which an act of bankruptcy must be alleged. Morehouse v. Giant Powder Co. (C. C. A. 1913) 206 Fed. 24; In re Munger Vehicle Tire Co. (1908) 159 Fed. 901, 87 C. C. A. 81, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 785; Tiffany v. La Plume Condensed Milk Co. (D. C. 1905) 141 Fed. 444, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 413; In re Belfast Mesh Underwear Co. (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 224, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 620; White Mountain Paper Co. v. Morse (1904) 127 Fed. 643, 62 C. C. A. 369, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 633; In re Independent Ins. Co. (D. C. 1872) 6 N. B. R. 169, Fed. Cas. No. 7,018; In re Green Pond R. Co. (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 118, Fed. Cas. No. 5,786; In re Safe Deposit & Sav. Inst. (D. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 392, Fed. Cas. No. 12,211; In re Washington Marine Ins. Co. (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 648, Fed. Cas. No. 17,246; Thornhill v. Bank of Louisiana (C. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 13,992; In re Merchants' Ins. Co. (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 9,441; In re New Amsterdam Ins. Co. (C. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 10,140. And see In re Storck Lumber Co. (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 360, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 86.

Where an insolvent corporation commits an act of bankruptcy by preferring certain of its creditors, the jurisdiction of a court of bankruptcy to adjudge it bankrupt and administer its property attaches, and the company cannot avoid such jurisdiction and validate its preferences by instituting proceedings for its dissolution in a state court before proceedings in bankruptcy against it are commenced. In re Adams & Hoyt Co. (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 489, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 161; Scheuer v. Smith & Montgomery Book & Stationery Co. (1901) 112 Fed. 407, 50 C. C. A. 312, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 384.

Proceedings taken by a state to forfeit the charter of one of its corporations for nonpayment of a license tax or other state tax, or to suspend its corporate activity until such delinquency is removed, do not deprive a court of bankruptcy of jurisdiction to adjudge it bankrupt and administer its assets. In re Double Star Brick Co. (D. C. 1913) 210 Fed. 980; In re Munger Vehicle Tire Co. (1908) 159 Fed. 901, 87 C. C. A. 81, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 785.

Proceedings under Act Pa. April 7, 1870 (P. L. 58), by which all of the property of an insolvent corporation is sold under a special writ of fieri facias for distribution among its creditors, do not work a dissolution of the corporation so as to defeat subsequent bankruptcy proceedings against it based on such proceedings as an act of bankruptcy. Cresson & Clearfield Coal & Coke Co. v. Stauffer (1906) 148 Fed. 981, 78 C. C. A. 609, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 573; In re International Coal Min. Co. (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 665, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 309.

The court of bankruptcy is not deprived of jurisdiction by the appointment of receivers for a manufacturing corporation, and its ceasing to do business in consequence thereof, before the filing of a petition in bankruptcy against it. In re C. Moench & Sons Co. (1904) 130 Fed. 685, 66 C. C. A. 37, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 240. Nor by the act of a corporation in electing liquidating trustees, as authorized by a state statute, which further provides that, upon their giving notice by publication, the company "shall cease to carry on its business, except so far as may be required for the beneficial winding up thereof." In re Hercules Atkin Co. (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 813, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 369.

14. Corporations amenable to bankruptcy law.—The bankruptcy act is to be strictly construed with reference to the amenability of corporations to its provisions, and cannot be held to include any corporation not clearly within the enumerated classes. In re New York & New Jersey Ice Lines (1906) 147 Fed. 214, 77 C. C. A. 440, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 832.

The court of bankruptcy in which a petition against a corporation is filed has jurisdiction to determine whether or not the corporation comes within the terms of the law. T. E. Hill Co. v. Contractors' Supply & Equipment Co. (1911) 149 Ill. 304, 94 N. E. 544. See In re Broadway Savings Trust Co. (C. C. A. 1907) 152 Fed. 152, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 254.

A corporation chartered for a certain purpose is to be regarded (in bankruptcy proceedings) as engaged in the business contemplated by the charter from the time it starts to put itself in shape to pursue the object for which it was incorporated, and is amenable to bankruptcy proceedings although it has not yet completed its plant, or started its works, or turned out any finished product. Bollinger v. Central Nat. Bank (1910) 177 Fed. 609, 101 C. C. A. 235, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 44; In re Bloomsburg Brewing Co. (D. C. 1909) 172 Fed. 174, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 625; White Mountain Paper Co. v. Morse (1904) 127 Fed. 643, 62 C. C. A. 369, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 633; In re White Mountain Paper Co. (D. C. 1903) 127 Fed. 180, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 491. But numerous decisions maintain that, to authorize an adjudication against a corporation on the ground of its being "engaged principally" in some line of business within the terms of the statute, it is not sufficient that its charter authorizes it to engage in such business, nor that it may have the intention of so engaging. If, up to the time of the filing of a petition against it, it has never done any business, except of a preparatory kind, it is not subject to adjudication. In re Coolidge Refrigerator & Car Co. (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 908, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 209; In re New England Breeders Club (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 517, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 349; In re Chicago-Joplin Lead & Zinc Co. (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 67, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 712; In re Tontine Surety Co. (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 401, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 421; In re Toledo Portland Cement Co. (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 83, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 117.

The liability of a corporation to bankruptcy proceedings depends on the business it actually transacts, and not on the business it is empowered by its charter to do. In re Kingston Realty Co. (1908) 160 Fed. 445, 87 C. C. A. 406, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 845. But see In re H. J. Quimby Freight Forwarding Co. (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 139, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 424, holding that, while the liability to bankruptcy of a corporation does not depend wholly on its charter, yet it cannot be brought within the scope of the act by a principal business outside its charter, and therefore a company whose only authorized business is that of a carrier is not liable to bankruptcy on the ground that its principal business is in fact that of a trader. But compare In re Kingston Realty Co. (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 299, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 465, holding that, if the occupation which the corporation pursues is one that brings it within the terms of the act, it is no defense to a petition against it that such business was ultra vires.

Where a corporation is engaged in two or more distinct lines of business, one of which would subject it to the operation of the bankruptcy act, while the other would not, the question of its liability to involuntary bankruptcy depends on the nature of that business which is its chief or principal pursuit. Cate v. Connell (1909) 173 Fed. 445, 97 C. C. A. 647; In re Interstate Paving Co. (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 604, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 572. Where a corporation was organized to publish, distribute, and place advertising matter in railroad cars, waiting rooms, and depots along the right of way and in and around other property of railroads and in other places, and also to own and place and operate vending machines and other self-acting mechanical devices, and the corporation carried on both lines of business extensively up to the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy against it, so that neither could be said to be its principal business and the other incidental, the advertising business not being within the bankruptcy act, the corporation was not subject to adjudication. In re Humphrey Advertising Co. (1910) 177 Fed. 187, 101 C. C. A. 1, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 41. If a company is carrying on two lines of business, both of which are within the terms of the act, it is immaterial which is to be considered its principal business. Burdick v. Dillon (1906) 144 Fed. 737, 75 C. C. A. 603. If the business of the corporation was of one of the kinds enumerated in the statute, it is none the less liable to be adjudged bankrupt because it has ceased to operate before the commencement of the proceedings. Robertson v. Union Potteries Co. (D. C. 1909) 177 Fed. 279, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 121. See J. W. Calnan Co. v. Doherty (1909) 174 Fed. 222, 98 C. C. A. 130, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 297.

15. Trading and mercantile corporations.—Under the bankruptcy act, as it stood prior to the amendment of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 838), providing for proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy against corporations "engaged principally in manufacturing, trading, printing, publishing, mining, or mercantile pursuits," the term "mercantile pursuits" is to be given its common and generally understood meaning, and includes only corporations engaged in the buying and selling of commodities. Zugalla v. International Mercantile Agency (1906) 142 Fed. 927, 74 C. C. A. 97, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 67.

A corporation is not subject to proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy, as engaged principally in trading or mercantile pursuits, because authorized to engage in such pursuits by its charter, when it has never in fact been so engaged. In re Tontine Surety Co. (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 401.

To be a trader or to engage in a mercantile pursuit, within the meaning of the Bankruptcy Act, a corporation must both buy and sell. In re Tontine Surety Co. (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 401, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 421. The mere purchase of articles and their subsequent sale will not make one a merchant or trader, within the meaning of the law, if the commodities were not bought for the purpose of being sold again. In re Rogers (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 12,001.

The purchase by a freight forwarding company of horses, wagons, harness, etc., necessary to carry on its business, and the occasional incidental sale of horses and wagons, does not transform it into a trading or mercantile corporation. In re H. J. Quimby Freight Forwarding Co. (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 139, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 424.

Electricity generated for the purpose of furnishing light, heat, and power is a product of manufacture and a commercial commodity, and a corporation whose business it is to buy electricity and resell it to consumers for such purposes at a profit is engaged principally in "trading," and may be adjudged bankrupt. In re Charles Town Light & Power Co. (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 160, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 687. CONTRA, In re Wilkes-Barre Light Co. (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 248.

Proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy will lie against a corporation conducting the business of a mercantile agency, and chiefly occupied in gathering information and printing and publishing a book of ratings with respect to the standing of merchants. In re Mutual Mercantile Agency (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 152, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 607. But compare Zugalla v. International Mercantile Agency (1906) 142 Fed. 927, 74 C. C. A. 97, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 67.

A corporation having for its sole or chief business the boarding of horses is engaged in trading or mercantile pursuits. In re Morton Boarding Stables (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 791, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 763; In re Odell (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 10,426. CONTRA, In re Willis Cab & Automobile Co. (D. C. 1910) 178 Fed. 113, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 593.

A corporation whose business was chiefly that of a carrier, and to a less degree that of letting teams by the hour, day, or week, with a subordinate business of taking horses to board, cannot be held to have been principally engaged in trading, within the meaning of the Bankruptcy Act. In re H. J. Quimby Freight Forwarding Co. (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 139, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 424.

Although a water company may be authorized by its charter to "buy, sell, use, and deal in water for power, manufacturing, and hydraulic purposes," yet if its business is actually confined to supplying water for domestic consumption and to municipal fire departments, it cannot be said to be "engaged principally in trading or mercantile pursuits." In re New York & W. Water Co. (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 711, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 508.

A corporation engaged in buying and selling stocks, bonds, and other securities cannot be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt as a trader, or as engaged in mercantile pursuits. In re Surety Guarantee & Trust Co. (1902) 121 Fed. 73, 56 C. C. A. 654, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 129. Where a corporation was organized to carry on a general stock, bond, grain, and brokerage business, and was authorized to trade on its own behalf in stocks, bonds, etc., and to lease and dispose of real and personal property, it was subject to adjudication as a bankrupt engaged in trading and mercantile pursuits. In re H. R. Leighton & Co. (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 311, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 275.

A corporation which owns and maintains a private hospital for consumptives, conducting its business for profit and not as a charity, furnishing to its patients the usual accommodations of a hotel, and treating their disease chiefly by the inhalation of an antiseptic vapor chemically prepared on the premises, though it is not a "manufacturing" corporation, within the meaning of the statute, is "engaged principally in trading or mercantile pursuits," and may therefore be adjudged bankrupt in involuntary proceedings against it. In re San Gabriel Sanatorium Co. (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 271, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 408.

A corporation organized to conduct a general livery and boarding stable business, and engaged in buying, keeping, and hiring its horses and vehicles for profit, and keeping, feeding, and caring for the horses and vehicles of others for hire, not being engaged in buying and selling horses and vehicles or feed as a business, is not a trading corporation or one engaged in mercantile pursuits. Gallagher v. De Lancey Stables Co. (D. C. 1908) 158 Fed. 381, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 801.

A corporation chiefly engaged in conducting the business of a general fire insurance agency is not engaged in a trading or mercantile pursuit, and is not subject to adjudication in bankruptcy. In re Moore & Muir Co. (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 732, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 122.

A corporation is not liable to adjudication in bankruptcy, as being engaged in trading or mercantile pursuits, which is occupied in buying and selling improved and unimproved real estate. In re Kingston Realty Co. (1908) 160 Fed. 445, 87 C. C. A. 406, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 845. Nor one operating for profit a circulating library. In re Parmelee Library (1903) 120 Fed. 235, 56 C. C. A. 583, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 568. Nor one whose business is renting films for moving pictures. In re Imperial Film Exchange (1912) 198 Fed. 80, 117 C. C. A. 188, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 815. Nor a building and loan association. In re New York Building Loan Banking Co. (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 471, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 51. Nor a corporation conducting a public warehouse. In re Pacific Coast Warehouse Co. (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 749. Nor one engaged in the business of soliciting advertisements and placing them in newspapers at rates previously obtained. In re Snyder & Johnson Co. (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 806, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 325. Nor a company incorporated for the purpose of giving theatrical performances and engaged solely in that business. In re Oriental Society (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 975, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 219. Nor a common carrier. In re Philadelphia & Lewes Transp. Co. (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 403, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 707; In re H. J. Quimby Freight Forwarding Co. (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 139, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 424. Nor a corporation operating a laundry. In re Eagle Steam Laundry Co. (D. C. 1911) 184 Fed. 949, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 868. Nor a corporation engaged in conducting a hotel, a restaurant, or a saloon. Toxaway Hotel Co. v. J. L. Smathers & Co. (1910) 216 U. S. 439, 30 Sup. Ct. 263, 54 L. Ed. 558, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 626; Nollman & Co. v. Wentworth Lunch Co. (1910) 217 U. S. 591, 30 Sup. Ct. 694, 54 L. Ed. 895; In re United States Hotel Co. (1904) 134 Fed. 225, 67 C. C. A. 153, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 403; In re Wentworth Lunch Co. (1908) 159 Fed. 413, 86 C. C. A. 393, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 29; In re Chesapeake Oyster & Fish Co. (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 960, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 173; In re Barton Hotel Co. (1904) 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 335.

16. Manufacturing corporations.—A corporation engaged principally in manufacturing is subject to adjudication under the bankruptcy act as it stood on September 21, 1908. In re Culgin-Pace Contracting Co. (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 245.

A corporation which makes an article for profit is a manufacturer of that article within the meaning of the bankruptcy act, and it makes no difference whether the thing so made or manufactured is affixed to the realty or a part of the realty or is a chattel. In re Church Const. Co. (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 298, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 549; In re Rutland Realty Co. (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 296.

The term "manufacturing," as used in the bankruptcy act, authorizing involuntary proceedings against corporations engaged in manufacturing, embraces only such corporations as are engaged in manufacturing as a business and selling their wares on the market, doing those things usually done by those who not only manufacture their wares, but place them on the market for sale at wholesale or retail. Walker Roofing & Heating Co. v. Merchant & Evans Co. (1909) 173 Fed. 771, 97 C. C. A. 495, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 185.

A corporation organized to buy, gather, store, and preserve ice, to ship and vend the same, and which carried on its business by renting small bodies of water, from which it cut the ice which it stored, shipped, and sold, only two or three times in a number of years buying small quantities of ice when its own supply ran short, was not engaged principally in manufacturing, trading, or commercial pursuits, within the meaning of the bankruptcy act and was not subject to involuntary proceedings in bankruptcy. In re New York & New Jersey Ice Lines (1906) 147 Fed. 214, 77 C. C. A. 440, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 832. A corporation chartered for the purpose of carrying on a wholesale and retail ice business, and which in fact sold not only ice of its own harvesting, but also large quantities which it purchased from others, is engaged chiefly in trading and mercantile pursuits, and may be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt. First Nat. Bank v. Wyoming

Valley Ice Co. (D. C. 1905) 136 Fed. 466, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 448.

A corporation organized for carrying on the business of catching and preserving by salt and marketing salt water fish, and which owns and operates a plant for the preparing, preserving, and packing of such fish, is "principally engaged in manufacturing," and is subject to adjudication as an involuntary bankrupt. In re Alaska American Fish Co. (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 498, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 712.

A corporation engaged in the business of building and construction is engaged in manufacturing, for the purposes of the bankruptcy act, whether its products be ships and vessels, concrete piers, waterworks and sewers, bridges, houses, or other structures, although such company makes its product, and gives it form and shape, at the place where it is to remain. Friday v. Hall & Kaul Co. (1910) 216 U. S. 449, 30 Sup. Ct. 261, 54 L. Ed. 562, 26 L. R. A. (N. S.) 475, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 610; United Surety Co. v. Iowa Mfg. Co. (1910) 179 Fed. 55, 102 C. C. A. 623, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 726; In re First Nat. Bank (1907) 152 Fed. 64, 81 C. C. A. 260, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 265; In re Marine Construction & Dry Dock Co. (1904) 130 Fed. 446, 64 C. C. A. 648, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 640; Columbia Ironworks v. National Lead Co. (1904) 127 Fed. 99, 62 C. C. A. 99, 64 L. R. A. 645, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 340; In re Niagara Contracting Co. (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 782, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 643. But compare In re T. E. Hill Co. (1906) 148 Fed. 832, 78 C. C. A. 522, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 517; Butt v. C. F. MacNichol Const. Co. (1905) 140 Fed. 840, 72 C. C. A. 252, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 515, affirming In re MacNichol Const. Co. (D. C. 1905) 134 Fed. 979, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 188; In re New York Tunnel Co. (1908) 166 Fed. 284, 92 C. C. A. 202, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 531. But a company which merely constructs houses on its own land is not engaged in manufacturing. In re Kingston Realty Co. (1908) 160 Fed. 445, 87 C. C. A. 406, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 845.

Where the principal business of a corporation was the roofing of buildings and other structures, the installation of heating apparatus, the construction of houses and other structures, and the carrying on of a general roofing, heating, and construction business, its manufacturing being only incidental thereto, it was not engaged in manufacturing and was not subject to adjudication in bankruptcy. Walker Roofing & Heating Co. v. Merchant & Evans Co. (1909) 173 Fed. 771, 97 C. C. A. 495, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 185.

A corporation engaged in producing plays and giving theatrical entertainments is not "engaged principally in manufacturing," within the meaning of the bankruptcy act. In re J. J. Reisler Amusement Co. (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 283, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 501. Nor one conducting the business of a cold storage warehouse. In re Philadelphia Freezing Co. (D. C. 1909) 174 Fed. 702, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 508. Nor one occupied in the business of operating a laundry. In re Eagle Steam Laundry Co. (D. C. 1910) 178 Fed. 308, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 457; In re White Star Laundry Co. (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 570, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 30. But see In re Troy Steam Laundering Co. (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 266, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 97. Nor one operating a restaurant. In re Wentworth Lunch Co. (1908) 159 Fed. 413, 86 C. C. A. 393, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 29.

17. Banking corporations.—A national bank is not liable to be proceeded against in involuntary bankruptcy. In re Manufacturers' Nat. Bank (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 9,051. And no corporation organized under the laws of a state can be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt under the description of a "private banker." In re Surety Guarantee & Trust Co. (1902) 121 Fed. 73, 56 C. C. A. 654, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 129. But one who carries on the business of banking without being incorporated is a private banker, whether a natural person or an unincorporated company, and as such is subject to adjudication as an involuntary bankrupt. In re Sage (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 525.

An association of individuals, formed to carry on the business of a private bank, as authorized by a state statute, but not incorporated, is a partnership, and as such is subject to be adjudged bankrupt, though entitled to exercise some of the attributes of a corporation. Burkhart v. German-American Bank (D. C. 1904) 137 Fed. 958, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 222.

The provision of the bankruptcy act excluding from liability to involuntary proceedings any "banking corporation" applies to a corporation organized for the purpose of carrying on a banking business under the general incorporation laws of a state which has no special laws relating to the formation of banking corporations. In re Oregon Trust & Sav. Bank (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 319, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 484.

18. Insurance companies.—A corporation which merely collects from such of its members as are willing to contribute funds which it thereafter distributes to the beneficiaries of deceased members, which was not an insurance company under the laws of the state where and when it was organized, and which belonged to a class of corporations well known at the time the bankruptcy act was passed as fraternal benefit associations, is not an "insurance corporation," within the provision of the bankruptcy act excepting such corporations from the benefits thereof. In re Grand Lodge A. O. U. W. (D. C. 1916) 232 Fed. 199.

A petition in involuntary bankruptcy cannot be maintained against an incorporated mutual fire insurance company, such a corporation not being "engaged in manufacturing, trading, or mercantile pursuits," within the meaning of the bankruptcy act as originally enacted. In re Cameron Town Mut. Fire Ins. Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 756, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 372.

19. Mining and quarrying companies.—Under the bankruptcy act prior to the amendment of February 5, 1903 (32 Stat. 797), and that of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 838), proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy would not lie against corporations engaged in the business of mining gold, silver, or other metals, or coal, or operating quarries for the extraction of marble, stone, or slate, since they were not engaged in "manufacturing, trading, or mercantile pursuits." Horn Silver Min. Co. v. New York (1892) 143 U. S. 305, 12 Sup. Ct. 403, 36 L. Ed. 164; In re Rollins Gold & Silver Min. Co. (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 982, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 327; In re Keystone Coal Co. (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 872, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 377; In re Woodside Coal Co. (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 56, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 186; In re Elk Park Mining & Milling Co. (D. C. 1899) 101 Fed. 422, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 131; In re Chicago-Joplin Lead & Zinc Co. (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 67, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 712. But see In re Mathews Consol. Slate Co. (D. C. 1905) 144 Fed. 724, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 779; Commonwealth v. East Bangor Slate Co. (1894) 162 Pa. 599, 29 Atl. 706; In re Tecopa Mining & Smelting Co. (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 120, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 250.

20. Public service corporations.—The bankruptcy act does not include in the classes of corporations made subject to proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy public utility corporations, such as gas and electric companies principally engaged in supplying means for lighting in cities and other communities. In re Hudson River Power Transmission Co. (1910) 183 Fed. 701, 106 C. C. A. 139, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 504.

A corporation organized under a state statute to manufacture electricity, and supply light, heat, and power by electricity, with the right to a certain extent to exercise the power of eminent domain, and with authority from the state to use the highways of a municipality, subject to reasonable regulations of the municipality, and engaged in the business of manufacturing and supplying electricity for light, heat, and power, is a public service corporation, and is not liable to adjudication as an involuntary bankrupt. In re Wilkes-Barre Light Co. (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 248.

A corporation, otherwise amenable to the bankruptcy law, is not exempt from its operation on the ground of being a quasi public corporation and subserving a public use, if its franchise is assignable, so that its functions might be exercised by any transferee to whom its powers might pass through proceedings in bankruptcy. In re New York & Westchester Water Co. (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 711, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 508, affirmed In re Morris (1900) 102 Fed. 1004, 43 C. C. A. 91.

A corporation is not liable to proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy, as "engaged in manufacturing, trading, or mercantile pursuits," which is engaged in the business of obtaining, transporting, and supplying pure water for domestic and municipal use. In re New York & Westchester Water Co. (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 711, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 508, affirmed, In re Morris (1900) 102 Fed. 1004, 43 C. C. A. 91. Nor a corporation engaged in making and distributing illuminating gas, and also in generating, transmitting, and selling electricity for light and power. In re Hudson River Electric Power Co. (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 934, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 191. Contra, In re Charles Town Light & Power Co. (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 160, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 687. A company organized to furnish water for irrigation is not engaged in trading or mercantile pursuits. In re Bay City Irrigation Co. (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 850, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 370.

21. Moneyed, business, and commercial corporations.—The word "business," as applied to corporations, has a broader meaning than the word "commercial," but it was not the intention of congress to give such a scope to the word "business" as to supersede the words "moneyed" and "commercial" and leave them without any practical signification. Sweatt v. Boston, H. & E. R. Co. (C. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 13,684.

A corporation engaged in leasing its own property and collecting rents therefor, with power to sue and be sued, to contract debts, and to dispose of its property, is a "moneyed, business, or commercial corporation" against which proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy may be had. In re R. L. Radke Co. (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 735, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 950.

A corporation engaged in conducting a restaurant, which was not subject to adjudication as a bankrupt prior to the amendment by Act June 25, 1910, cannot be subjected to bankruptcy proceedings because of a general assignment made prior to that date, the amendment not being retroactive. In re United States Restaurant & Realty Co. (1911) 187 Fed. 118, 109 C. C. A. 36, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 915.

22. Charitable, religious, and other corporations not for profit.—In making the provisions of the bankruptcy act applicable to all "moneyed, business, or commercial corporations," it was the intention of congress to bring within the scope of the act all corporations except those organized for religious, charitable, social, literary, educational, municipal, or political purposes. Alabama & C. R. Co. v. Jones (C. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 97, Fed. Cas. No. 126.

An incorporated club, of which the principal object is social intercourse, any business conducted by it being merely incidental, is not subject to proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy, as a "moneyed, business or commercial corporation." In re Fulton Club (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 997, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 670.

23. Unincorporated companies.—A trust association, created by an instrument of trust providing that the property acquired shall be held and managed by a trustee, but the capital of which is contributed by certificate holders, who have power to elect a trustee in case of vacancy, each share having one vote, also to amend the declaration of trust, increase the number of shares, and by a three-fourths vote terminate the trust, is an "unincorporated company" within the meaning of the bankruptcy act, and is subject to adjudication as a bankrupt. In re Associated Trust (D. C. 1914) 222 Fed. 1012.

A partnership is not an "unincorporated company," within the provision of the bankruptcy act that any unincorporated company may be an involuntary bankrupt, so as to authorize its adjudication, though it would otherwise be exempt as a person engaged chiefly in farming. H. D. Still's Sons v. American Nat. Bank (1913) 209 Fed. 749, 126 C. C. A. 473.

An unincorporated Lloyd's association of fire underwriters is subject to adjudication in involuntary bankruptcy. In re Seaboard Fire Underwriters (D. C. 1905) 137 Fed. 987, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 722.

A mercantile association organized under act Pa. 1874 (P. L. 271), providing for the formation of partnership associations in which the capital subscribed shall alone be responsible for the debts of the association, is within the terms of the bankruptcy act, and subject to be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt, whether regarded as an unincorporated company or a corporation. In re Hercules Atkin Co. (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 813, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 369.

Where the laws of the state make no provision for the incorporation of banks, an association of persons claiming to be incorporated as a bank, and which conducts a banking business under the corporate name assumed, is not a corporation within the meaning of the bankruptcy act, but may be proceeded against as a partnership. Davis v. Stevens (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 235, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 763.

§ 9589. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 5.) Partners.

Partners.—a A partnership, during the continuation of the partnership business, or after its dissolution and before the final settlement thereof, may be adjudged a bankrupt.

b The creditors of the partnership shall appoint the trustee; in other respects so far as possible the estate shall be administered as herein provided for other estates.

c The court of bankruptcy which has jurisdiction of one of the partners may have jurisdiction of all the partners and of the administration of the partnership and individual property.

d The trustee shall keep separate accounts of the partnership property and of the property belonging to the individual partners.

e The expenses shall be paid from the partnership property and the individual property in such proportions as the court shall determine.

f The net proceeds of the partnership property shall be appropriated to the payment of the partnership debts, and the net proceeds of the individual estate of each partner to the payment of his individual debts. Should any surplus remain of the property of any partner after paying his individual debts, such surplus shall be added to the partnership assets and be applied to the payment of the partnership debts. Should any surplus of the partnership property remain after paying the partnership debts, such surplus shall be added to the assets of the individual partners in the proportion of their respective interests in the partnership.

g The court may permit the proof of the claim of the partnership estate against the individual estates, and vice versa, and may marshal the assets of the partnership estate and individual estates so as to prevent preferences and secure the equitable distribution of the property of the several estates.

h In the event of one or more but not all of the members of a partnership being adjudged bankrupt, the partnership property shall not be administered in bankruptcy, unless by consent of the partner or partners not adjudged bankrupt; but such partner or partners not adjudged bankrupt shall settle the partnership business as expeditiously as its nature will permit, and account for the interest of the partner or partners adjudged bankrupt. (30 Stat. 547, 548.)

Notes of Decisions

I. Bankruptcy of partnerships

1. Jurisdiction in partnership cases.
2. — Exempt occupation.
3. — Minority or insanity of one partner.
4. Proceedings in partnership cases.
5. What constitutes partnership.
6. — Secret and presumptive partners.
7. Involuntary proceedings against firm.
8. Effect of dissolution of firm.
9. — Dissolution by death of partner.
10. Bankruptcy of firm without adjudication of any partner.
11. Voluntary petition by one or more partners.
12. Individual bankruptcy of one or more partners.
13. Effect of adjudication of one or more partners.
14. Continuing or liquidating partner.
15. Statutes and rights of retiring partner.

II. Partnership and individual estates and debts

16. Election and appointment of trustee.
17. Distribution of estate.
18. — Where no partnership assets exist.
19. Marshaling assets.
20. What constitute partnership assets.
21. What constitute individual assets.
22. Partnership debts and claims.
23. Separate debts of partners.
24. Joint and several liability—Double proof.
25. — Liability for torts.
26. Claims of partners against each other and the firm.

I. BANKRUPTCY OF PARTNERSHIPS

1. Jurisdiction in partnership cases.—For the purposes of the bankruptcy act, a partnership is a legal entity, which may be adjudged bankrupt, separately from the individuals composing it, as though it were an independent legal person. In re Samuels (1914) 215 Fed. 845, 132 C. C. A. 187; Francis v. McNeal (1911) 186 Fed. 481, 108 C. C. A. 459, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555; In re Perlhefter (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 299, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 576; In re Everybody's Grocery & Meat Market (D. C. 1908) 173 Fed. 492, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 925; In re L. Stein & Co. (1904) 127 Fed. 547, 62 C. C. A. 272, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 536. But it must be shown that a partnership exists in fact, and who are the members of it, before the court can act intelligently upon a petition against it, and an adjudication will be denied until these matters are before the court. In re McLaren (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 835, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 141.

A bankruptcy court, having jurisdiction over one partner, may take jurisdiction of the firm without reference to whether it is six months old, and without a specific allegation as to its principal place of business. In re Mitchell (1914) 219 Fed. 690, 135 C. C. A. 362, affirming order In re Mitchell & Co. (D. C. 1914) 211 Fed. 778.

If one of the partners has been a resident of the district for the required length of time, he may there file a petition for the adjudication of the firm, notwithstanding the fact that the business of the firm is carried on in another district or state, or that the other partners reside elsewhere, though, in such a case, the other members of the firm must be given an opportunity to join in the petition or to oppose it. In re J. & M. Schwartz (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 326, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 344; In re Penn (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 30, Fed. Cas. No. 10,927; Ex parte Hall (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 5,919; Whitson v. Farber Bank (1904) 105 Mo. App. 605, 80 S. W. 327.

Where a nonresident partner of an alleged bankrupt firm is joined, he may be served by publication, and an ancillary proceeding brought against him in the district where he resides; but he cannot be so adjudicated in the original proceedings, unless he interposes a petition or endeavors to administer the estate, under Bankr. Act July 1, 1898, § 5, subd. "h." In re J. & M. Schwartz (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 326, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 344.

When a petition by creditors against a firm is based on the ground of residence or domicile, it will be dismissed, where it is shown that none of the members of the firm had his domicile or resided within the district long enough to support the jurisdiction of the court. In re Blair (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 76, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 588.

If the principal place of business of a partnership has been within a given district for the requisite length of time, the court of bankruptcy of that district will have jurisdiction of a voluntary or involuntary petition against the partnership, irrespective of the fact that some of the partners may be nonresidents. Cameron v. Canieo (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 527, Fed. Cas. No. 2,340.

Where a partnership has had its only place of business within a given judicial district for a period of more than three months before the filing of a petition in bankruptcy against it in such district, the court therein will have jurisdiction of the petition, although, during a part of that time, the only business carried on was in the way of winding up the affairs of the firm by two of the partners, the others having retired. In re Blair (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 76, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 588.

Where partners are domiciled in different bankruptcy court districts, and the firm maintains a business establishment in each district, both bankruptcy courts will have jurisdiction of proceedings against the firm and the individual partners. But the court in which the first petition is filed is vested with exclusive jurisdiction to determine the question which of the two courts can proceed with the case for the greatest convenience of the parties in interest. In re Sterne & Levi (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 70, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 259.

Where the same persons constitute two separate partnerships engaged in business, similar or dissimilar, in different states, each partnership having a distinct firm name, an adjudication of bankruptcy in either jurisdiction, on petition of creditors of one firm only, will apply to all the debts and assets of both partnerships. Ballin v. Ferst (1875) 55 Ga. 546. But the adjudication of a firm in one district does not prevent a subsequent adjudication in another district of a firm only in part composed of the same persons. In re Jewett (C. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 7,-307.

2. —— Exempt occupation.—A partnership, in so far as the administration of its assets in bankruptcy proceedings is concerned, is not an entity separate and distinct from its partners, but is a natural person within § 4b (ante, § 9588), providing that a natural person other than a wage-earner or one chiefly engaged in farming may be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt. Bankr. Act, § 5a, authorizing bankruptcy adjudication against a partnership, is to be construed in connection with section 4b, and hence does not authorize bankruptcy adjudication against a partnership engaged chiefly in farming. H. D. Still's Sons v. American Nat. Bank (1913) 209 Fed. 749, 126 C. C. A. 473.

3. —— Minority or insanity of one partner.—Under this section the insanity of a partner and the appointment of a conservator of his estate will not prevent an adjudication of bankruptcy against the partnership on petition of its creditors. In re L. Stein & Co. (1904) 127 Fed. 547, 62 C. C. A. 272, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 536.

A partnership in which one member is a minor may be adjudged bankrupt, as also the adult members of the firm, and the partnership property and the separate estates of such adult partners may be administered in bankruptcy, although no adjudication can be made against the infant partner individually. Jennings v. Stannus (1911) 191 Fed. 347, 112 C. C. A. 91, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 384; In re Dunnigan (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 428, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 628.

4. Proceedings in partnership cases.—A partnership owns its property and owes its debts apart from the individual property of its members and apart from their individual debts, and it may be adjudged bankrupt upon its voluntary petition, or in involuntary proceedings if it has committed an act of bankruptcy, irrespective of any adjudication of the individual partners; and the adjudication of the firm will subject the separate estates of the partners, as well as the firm property, to administration in bankruptcy. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Gaskell (1912) 195 Fed. 865, 115 C. C. A. 527, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 4; In re Meyer (1899) 98 Fed. 976, 39 C. C. A. 368, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559; In re Bertenshaw (1907) 157 Fed. 363, 85 C. C. A. 61, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577; Mills v. Fisher (1908) 159 Fed. 897, 87 C. C. A. 77, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 237; New Orleans Acid & Fertilizer Co. v. Guillory & Co. (1906) 117 La. 821, 42 South. 329; Lacey v. Cowan (1909) 162 Ala. 546, 50 South. 281.

Where a petition in voluntary bankruptcy is presented both in the name of a partnership and in the names of the individual partners, and is accompanied by schedules setting forth the debts and assets of the firm and also of the partners, and thereupon the petitioners are adjudged bankrupts as prayed, it is not necessary that each partner should also file an individual petition, in order to be relieved from his individual debts, but the court of bankruptcy may administer upon the separate estates of the partners as well as upon the estate of the firm in a single proceeding, and may grant to the partners a discharge from both separate and joint debts. In re Gay (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 870, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529.

Where a voluntary petition in bankruptcy by partners prays that "the petitioners" may be adjudged bankrupts, instead of "the said firm," but otherwise follows the official form for a partnership petition, describing the petitioners as the members of the firm, and the schedules show that all their debts are firm debts, and the order of adjudication corresponds with the petition, the defect of form in the petition and adjudication is not material on opposition to the application for discharge, but may be amended nunc pro tunc. In re Meyers (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 757, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 260.

Though one of the members of a firm has not been, and could not be, adjudicated a bankrupt individually, the court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to take possession of his property and to administer the same so far as necessary to a settlement of the partnership estate. Dickas v. Barnes (1905) 140 Fed. 849, 72 C. C. A. 261, 5 L. R. A. (N. S.) 654, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 566; In re Samuels & Lesser (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 195, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 293; In re R. F. Duke & Son (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 199, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 93.

In a proceeding in involuntary bankruptcy against a partnership, where the act of bankruptcy charged is one which involves the insolvency of the partnership, there can be no adjudication against it, unless it and all of its members are insolvent, and in such a case, though the adjudication be against the partnership only, or against the partnership and some, but not all, of its members, the estates of all the members are drawn into the proceeding for administration. Francis v. McNeal (1911) 186 Fed. 481, 108 C. C. A. 459, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555 (affirmed 228 U. S. 695, 33 Sup. Ct. 701, 57 L. Ed. 1029); Menke v. Sunderman (1911) 186 Fed. 486, 108 C. C. A. 464; In re Hansley & Adams (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 564.

5. What constitutes partnership.—Persons who attempt to organize a limited partnership, but fail in law to accomplish that result, for lack of compliance with the statutes governing such associations, may be proceeded against in bankruptcy as partners. In re Merrill (C. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 9,467. Where persons associate themselves together, intending to form a corporation, or assuming to be a corporation and using a corporate name, but without authority of law, they are individually liable as partners for the debts of the association, and a creditor who has dealt with them as a corporation is not thereby estopped from setting up his claim against them individually in bankruptcy. Manson v. Williams (1907) 153 Fed. 525, 82 C. C. A. 475, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 674; In re Hudson Clothing Co. (D. C. 1906) 148 Fed. 305, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 826; In re Mendenhall (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 497, Fed. Cas. No. 9,425. But the directors or stockholders of a corporation, who have made themselves personally liable for its debts by failure to obey the laws governing corporations of that class, are not subject to be proceeded against in bankruptcy as partners. James v. Atlantic Delaine Co. (C. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 390, Fed. Cas. No. 7,179.

To warrant an adjudication of bankruptcy against an alleged partnership, or against an individual as a member of a partnership, the existence of a partnership in fact must be shown, and the burden of proof on this issue rests on the petitioning creditors. Buffalo Milling Co. v. Lewisburg Dairy Co. (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 319, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 279; Jones v. Burnham, Williams & Co. (1905) 138 Fed. 986, 71 C. C. A. 240, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 85; In re Beckwith & Co. (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 475, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 453. Whether a partnership exists as between the parties themselves, depends on their intention, and that intention must be ascertained from the whole evidence and the circumstances in the case. In re Hirth (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 926, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 666. Where two or more parties are engaged in a joint business enterprise, to which they contribute their capital, skill, or labor, upon an understanding, tacit or otherwise, that they will share in common the profits accruing therefrom, they are partners in fact and in law, both between themselves and as to creditors. In re C. F. Beckwith & Co. (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 475, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 453. For the purposes of an adjudication in bankruptcy, participation in the profits of a business is presumptive or primary proof that the participator is a partner in such business, and in the absence of other proof, is sufficient evidence thereof; but such presumption may be overcome by showing that such profits were received by the party simply as wages for services performed, or interest for money loaned to the persons carrying on the business. In re Francis (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 5,031. Under Civ. Code S. D. § 1723, which provides that a partnership is the association of two or more persons for the purpose of carrying on business together and dividing its profits between them, a business conducted in the name of a bankrupt and his brother as partners, was not a partnership business, but the individual business of the bankrupt, where his brother had no capital invested and worked for a salary, and there was no agreement between them that he should share in either profits or losses. In re Gibson (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 665, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 401.

To sustain proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy against a firm or against a person as a member of a firm, a partnership in fact must be shown, and a mere holding out, by which one may have become liable to some creditors on the principle of estoppel is not sufficient. In re C. F. Beckwith & Co. (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 475, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 453; In re Hudson Clothing Co. (D. C. 1906) 148 Fed. 305, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 826; Moore v. Walton (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 402, Fed. Cas. No. 9,779; In re Murray (D. C. 1882) 13 Fed. 550.

In an action by the trustee in bankruptcy of a partnership, the issue being as to whether all the persons composing the firm were included in the adjudication of bankruptcy, the trustee is not bound or concluded by the record of a prior judgment wherein the persons composing the firm were ascertained and determined, although he, in his private capacity, was a party to that judgment. Abendroth v. Durand (D. C. 1880) 1 Fed. 849.

A person who is not actually a member of the firm cannot properly be adjudged bankrupt in proceedings by or against the firm. In re Berryman (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 1,360. But the proceedings will not be rendered invalid as to the actual partners by the inclusion of persons who are not partners; but on the application of a person thus wrongly included, the proceedings may be vacated so far as they relate to him. Hanson v. Paige (1855) 3 Gray (Mass.) 239. But they will not be so vacated in cases where there has been a slothful acquiescence in the proceedings for such a length of time that rights and interests of third persons have grown up under the adjudication and been adapted to it. In re Griffith (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 510, Fed. Cas. No. 5,820; In re Gilbert (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 5,411.

Where an issue is raised as to the persons who constitute a bankrupt partnership, the court of bankruptcy has power and jurisdiction to determine it. In re Griffith (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 510, Fed. Cas. No. 5,820.

Where the evidence established that two bankrupts were, at the time of their bankruptcy, and had been for more than twenty years, partners in all their business, that all of their property, whether held in the name of the firm or of either or both partners, was partnership property, and all of their debts partnership debts, whether evidenced by obligations of the firm or either or both partners, held a case of "universal" partnership, to which the bankruptcy act is applicable. In re Culver (D. C. 1909) 176 Fed. 450, 23 Am. Bankr. 779. The act is also applicable to a special partnership formed for the single purpose of prosecuting some special adventure or enterprise. Thrall v. Crampton (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 14,008.

Where two firms shared in a certain venture, and kept an account in a bank in the name of one firm with the addition of the word "Co.," and so signed the checks, it was held that these checks did not establish a copartnership between the two firms, and that a holder of a check so signed could not file a petition in bankruptcy against the members of both firms. In re Warner (D. C. 1871) 7 N. B. R. 47, Fed. Cas. No. 17,178.

A judgment procured against three persons as partners may be proved against the estate of two, regarding the other as a surety, where the third has been held, in the bankruptcy proceedings, not a partner. In re Kitzinger (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 152, Fed. Cas. No. 7,861.

6. —— Secret and presumptive partners.—It is not essential to the validity of an adjudication in bankruptcy against a partnership that a secret or dormant partner should have been made a party defendant; where only the ostensible partners are served and proceeded against, this will at least bind the partnership property. In re Gibson (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 665, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 401; In re Harris (D. C. 1899) 108 Fed. 517; Metcalf v. Officer (C. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 9,496; In re Kenney, 97 Fed. 554, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 353; In re Lane (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 135, Fed. Cas. No. 8,044. And see In re Samuels & Lesser (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 195, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 293.

Where the petitioning creditors, at the time the indebtedness was incurred, knew that a person was a secret partner in a firm, and such partner is a guarantor on commercial paper of the firm, he may, although solvent, and having personally committed no acts of bankruptcy, be adjudged a bankrupt on a petition filed against him and his partners. In re Ess (C. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 133, Fed. Cas. No. 4,530. Where a firm has committed an act of bankruptcy, the personal estate of an undisclosed partner is subject to administration in such proceeding, whether he is insolvent or not. In re Samuels & Lesser (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 195, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 293, decree reversed In re Samuels (C. C. A. 1914) 215 Fed. 845. A bankruptcy court, neither under § 21a (post, § 9605), nor independent thereof, had authority, on a creditor's petition in bankruptcy proceedings against a firm, to try the question of the membership in the firm of an alleged secret partner against his will, and to compel him to file schedules of assets and liabilities. In re Samuels (C. C. A. 1914) 215 Fed. 845, reversing decree In re Samuels & Lesser (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 195.

To charge a person as a silent partner in the business of a bankrupt, so as to debar him from the rights of a creditor of the estate, where there has been no holding out as such, an actual and definite agreement must be proved binding on all the parties thereto. In re Clark (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 893, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 96. This decision was reversed in Rush v. Lake (1903) 122 Fed. 561, 58 C. C. A. 447, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 455, but on the evidence and not on the proposition of law laid down.

The trustee in bankruptcy of a dormant partner is not entitled to the possession of the partnership effects, as against attaching creditors of the partnership. Talcott v. Dudley (1843) 5 Ill. (4 Scam.) 427.

Where the adjudication in bankruptcy has been made against the ostensible partner, his trustee cannot be kept out of possession of property of the firm by one who claims title under a mortgage given by the secret partner.

White v. Farnham (1904) 99 Me. 100, 58 Atl. 425, 105 Am. St. Rep. 261.

Where a partner has retired from the firm, but permits his name to remain in the style of the firm and to be used for the benefit of the other partners, he is liable to a person who takes notes of the new firm, or gives it credit, in ignorance of the dissolution and in reliance on the name of the retiring partner; and on the petition of such creditors for an adjudication of bankruptcy against the firm, the retiring partner will be made bankrupt with the others. In re Krueger (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 7,941.

7. Involuntary proceedings against firm.—A court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to adjudge a partnership bankrupt on the petition of one of its members and against the objection of the others. In re J. M. Ceballos & Co. (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 445, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 459. When the requisite number of creditors join in a petition against a firm, it is not necessary that they should all be creditors of the partnership, if they are creditors of the partners. In re Matot (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 485, Fed. Cas. No. 9,282.

A partnership cannot be adjudged bankrupt in a proceeding to which one of its members is not a party, and the petition cannot be amended by adding a new party after the testimony has been taken and the case is on hearing before the court. In re Pitt (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 11,188. An adjudication of bankruptcy against a firm must be made in one proceeding and on one petition. The adjudication of one member of a firm in one proceeding, and of the remaining members of it in a separate proceeding, with such effect as to bring the firm into bankruptcy, is not contemplated by the statute. In re Plumb (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 11,231. Compare In re Kelley (D. C. 1878) 19 N. B. R. 326, Fed. Cas. No. 7,656. Distinct firms, consisting of three persons, one of whom was a partner in both, cannot be joined in one proceeding in bankruptcy, though one was the successor of the other and undertook to pay its debts. In re Wallace (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 191, Fed. Cas. No. 17,095.

In a petition in involuntary bankruptcy against a firm, it is not sufficient merely to allege that "the partnership is insolvent," but there must also be an averment as to the insolvency of each of the partners. In re Blair (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 76, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 588.

8. Effect of dissolution of firm.—Although a partnership has been dissolved by mutual consent, yet if the members continue to treat each other as partners after the alleged dissolution, and to act as such in their business transactions with third parties, a petition in bankruptcy may be filed against the firm as if there had been no dissolution. In re McFarland (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 381, Fed. Cas. No. 8,788; In re Tomes (D. C. 1878) 19 N. B. R. 36; Fed. Cas. No. 14,084. The formal dissolution of a partnership will not prevent the bankruptcy court from taking jurisdiction of proceedings against the firm so long as any unfinished business, debts, credits, or assets remain. In re Crockett (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 208, Fed. Cas. No. 3,402; In re Noonan (C. C. 1873) 10 N. B. R. 330, Fed. Cas. No. 10,292; In re Williams (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 286, Fed. Cas. No. 17,703; Hunt v. Pooke (D. C. 1872) 5 N. B. R. 161, Fed. Cas. No. 6,896; In re Gorham (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 419, Fed. Cas. No. 5,624.

There can be no final settlement of the affairs of a firm until its debts are paid or in some other way extinguished, and an adjudication of bankruptcy may be made against it when it appears that there are any firm debts remaining unsatisfied, although the assets of the firm have been entirely consumed, and it has been dissolved by the partners and has ceased to do business. Holmes v. Baker & Hamilton (1908) 160 Fed. 922, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 252; In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 571, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 344; In re Levy (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 812. The "continuance" of a partnership, within the meaning of the bankruptcy act, is its actual status as a firm, as distinguished from a status created by estoppel against a partner, and it is essential that the partnership should exist as such, or that its affairs should be still unsettled at the time of filing a petition, in order to subject it to an adjudication in bankruptcy. And although the affairs of a partnership are "unsettled" so long as the partnership debts are unpaid, yet debts which are binding on partners only by way of estoppel as to creditors without notice of dissolution are not firm debts in this sense. In re Pinson & Co. (D. C. 1910) 180 Fed. 787, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 804. Where an agreement that the accounts of a firm should be used to pay firm debts was not incorporated in a partnership dissolution agreement, an outgoing partner is not entitled to enforce such provision as against partnership creditors in bankruptcy. In re Wilson (D. C. 1912) 194 Fed. 564, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 867.

A petition by a partner of a dissolved firm against his copartners will be dismissed where it appears that the firm was dissolved by judicial decree, and all its assets transferred to a receiver. In re Oehninger (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 10,441; Hopkins v. Carpenter (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 339, Fed. Cas. No. 6,686. Compare In re Hathorn (C. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 6,214.

9. —— Dissolution by death of partner.—A partnership, after its dissolution by the death of one of the partners, may be adjudged bankrupt, and in such a case the proceedings are not invalidated by the fact that the petition did not refer to the deceased partner, nor disclose the fact that the partners named were surviving partners, where the business was being continued as provided in the partnership agreement. In re Coe (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 308, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 618; In re Stevens (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 13,393; Briswalter v. Long (C. C. 1881) 14 Fed. 153. CONTRA, In re Evans (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 590, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 406; In re Temple (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 13,825.

The court of bankruptcy will not take from the custody and control of the executor of the deceased partner the individual estate of the latter nor any of the partnership assets which may have been committed to the hands of such executor for administration. In re Daggett (D. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 287, Fed. Cas. No. 3,535, affirmed (C. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 433, Fed. Cas. No. 3,536; French v. Grenet (1881) 57 Tex. 273. But compare Hewitt v. Hayes (1910) 204 Mass. 586, 90 N. E. 985, 27 L. R. A. (N. S.) 154, where it was held that the trustee in bankruptcy of a surviving partner may sue the executors of the deceased partner for whatever firm assets and property have come into their hands; and that, where the executors of a deceased partner acted individually under a power of attorney given by the surviving partner, and they deposited in a bank in their names, "for the benefit of whom it may concern," funds made up of cash on hand belonging to the firm and of sums belonging to the firm as proceeds of its property, or as commissions due to it, or otherwise, the trustee in bankruptcy of the surviving partner was entitled to the fund. Though a deceased partner's interest in a partnership claim vests in the surviving partner, it does not pass to the latter's trustee in bankruptcy, so that the surviving partner can maintain an action thereon in his own name. McCandless v. Hadden (1848) 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 186. A surviving partner, after the adjudication of the firm, has no power to consent to an allowance to the widow and heirs of the deceased partner out of the assets of the firm prior to the payment of the firm debts. In re F. Dobert & Son (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 749, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 634. The trustee in bankruptcy of the surviving partner is not entitled, as against judgment creditors of the latter suing on firm obligations, to a surplus arising on foreclosure against firm property. Moses v. Pond (1900) 32 Misc. Rep. 406, 66 N. Y. Supp. 600.

Where a partner carries on business with the consent of the personal representatives of the deceased partner, upon the surviving partner being adjudged bankrupt, there is no priority of payment between debts contracted before, and those contracted after, the death of the partner. In re Mills (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 74, Fed. Cas. No. 9,611.

10. Bankruptcy of firm without adjudication of any partner.—A partnership, as such, may be adjudged bankrupt without any adjudication being made against any one of the members of the firm. In re Hansley & Adams (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 564.

The adjudication in bankruptcy of a firm, when based on or involving its insolvency, draws to the court of bankruptcy for administration the individual estates of the partners, although they, personally and individually, are not adjudged bankrupts, and the court may compel any partner to transfer his individual property to the trustee. Francis v. McNeal (1913) 228 U. S. 695, 33 Sup. Ct. 701, 57 L. Ed. 1029, affirming (1911) 186 Fed. 481, 108 C. C. A. 459, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555; Menke v. Sunderman (1911) 186 Fed. 486, 108 C. C. A. 464; In re Lattimer (D. C. 1909) 174 Fed. 824, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 388; In re Stokes (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 312, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 262. CONTRA, In re Bertenshaw (1907) 157 Fed. 363, 85 C. C. A. 61, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577.

A petition in bankruptcy following the official form for a partnership petition, and praying merely that the firm be adjudged a bankrupt, does not authorize the court to adjudge the partners bankrupt, and where an adjudication is desired of the petitioning partners as individuals, as well as the firm, the petition should so pray. Where petition in bankruptcy by two of three partners prayed that the firm be adjudged a bankrupt, but did not allege that nonjoining partner had committed any act of bankruptcy individually, there was no ground for adjudging him a bankrupt. In re Lenoir-Cross & Co. (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 227.

11. Voluntary petition by one or more partners.—The bankruptcy act contemplates a case where one or more, but not all, of the members of a partnership are adjudged bankrupt, while the partnership as such is not before the court. In re Junck & Balthazard (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 481.

One partner may petition to have the partnership declared a voluntary bankrupt. In re Hansley & Adams (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 564.

When some of the members of a partnership file their petition in bankruptcy asking for an adjudication against the firm, the other partners not joining, the proceeding is, in its inception, a voluntary proceeding in bankruptcy, and it will remain so in its entirety unless the other partners, on due notice, dissent from the petition and contest the adjudication, in which case the proceeding becomes, as to those partners, an involuntary one. In re Junck & Balthazard (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 481, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 298; In re Carleton (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 146, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 475; In re Murray (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 600, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 601. In consequence of the original voluntary nature of the proceeding, it is not necessary that the petitioning partner should allege acts of bankruptcy to have been committed by the firm, though the absence of such acts will be a defense to the partners who do not join. In re Junck & Balthazard (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 481, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 298; In re Noonan (C. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 10,292. But compare In re Forbes (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 137, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 787. The dissenting partner may show, if he can, that the firm is not insolvent. In re Fowler (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 4,998. If the nonjoining partner afterwards comes in and confesses himself a bankrupt, and is so adjudged, it is a case of involuntary bankruptcy. Metsker v. Bonebrake (1883) 108 U. S. 66, 2 Sup. Ct. 351, 27 L. Ed. 654.

Where a petition in bankruptcy is filed by certain of the members of a partnership, praying an adjudication against the firm and averring that the partner who has not joined in the petition is not a resident of the district and that his residence is unknown to the petitioners, if the judge of the court of bankruptcy is absent from the district, or the division of the district in which the petition is filed, at the time of its filing, the clerk should forthwith refer the case to the proper referee; but if partners who did not join in the petition shall, upon notice, enter their appearance and contest the adjudication of the firm, the referee cannot act upon the petition (it being then an involuntary case), but must certify the case to the judge, before whom the issue will be heard and determined. In re Murray (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 600, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 601.

Questions presented by partner not joining copartners in petition for adjudication of bankruptcy of the firm, but insisting that he had paid to the creditors of the firm his part and had been released, will arise before referee under order of reference on adjudication of bankruptcy of firm. In re Lenoir, Cross & Co. (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 227.

Where one of the partners files his petition in bankruptcy, with the object of obtaining a discharge from debts of the firm as well as his individual debts, the petition should set forth the names of the partners and pray for a discharge from partnership debts, the schedules should list both the petitioner's individual property and debts and property and debts of the firm, notices to creditors should inform them that firm creditors are affected and that the bankrupt seeks a discharge from their debts, and notice of the filing of the petition and of creditors' meetings should be sent to the partners who have not joined. In re Laughlin (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 589, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1; In re Hartman (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed 593, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 65.

Notice to the partners not joining in the petition is essential to any adjudication against the firm. No adjudication can be made until the nonjoining members of the firm have had due notice of the filing of the petition and a proper opportunity to defend against the same. If an adjudication has been made without such notice, it will be vacated and set aside on motion. In re Altman (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 263, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 407; In re Murray (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 600, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 601; In re Russel (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 32, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 91; In re Gorham (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 419, Fed. Cas. No. 5,624. Where certain of the members of a partnership file their voluntary petition in bankruptcy, asking for an adjudication of the firm, but the other partners do not join and are not notified of the proceedings, the defect is not cured by filing in court, after the adjudication, a paper purporting to embody the consent of the nonjoining partners, but which is unverified, qualified in its terms, and signed only by their attorneys. In re Altman (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 263, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 407.

If the partners who have not joined in the petition can be found, whether within the district or without it, personal service of such notice must be made upon them. But if personal service cannot be had, then, upon the filing of an affidavit showing the fact, the court will order publication of the notice in the same manner as in equity cases. In re Murray (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 600, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 601.

A firm having failed more than eight years before a member thereof petitioned individually to be adjudged a bankrupt, and more than nine years before the other partner was cited, without any proof of bankruptcy, a rule on the latter to show cause why he and the partnership should not be adjudged bankrupt was held properly discharged. Royston v. Weis (1902) 112 Fed. 962, 50 C. C. A. 638, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 584.

Where one of the partners files his voluntary petition in bankruptcy as an individual, and does not seek an adjudication against the firm, nor a release from firm debts, the proceeding cannot be turned into a partnership proceeding by the voluntary joinder therein of the other partners. In re Boylan (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 1,757. See In re Lewis (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No.

8,311. If the bankrupt lists only his individual debts and assets, and does not seek an adjudication of the partnership, nor cause notice to be given to his copartners nor to the creditors of the firm, the discharge which he may receive will not release him from partnership debts. In re Little (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 8,390; In re Noonan (C. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 10,292; Hudgins v. Lane (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 6,827; In re Plumb (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 11,231.

A firm may be declared bankrupt although one of its members has already been adjudicated in involuntary proceedings against him by creditors. Hunt v. Pooke (D. C. 1872) 5 N. B. R. 161, Fed. Cas. No. 6,896. The fact that a partnership has been adjudicated bankrupt, and the partners have been denied a discharge in such proceedings, does not preclude one of the partners from filing an individual petition in bankruptcy, although he schedules the same debts and the same assets. In re Feigenbaum (D. C. 1902) 151 Fed. 508, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 339.

12. Individual bankruptcy of one or more partners.—Since, in the contemplation of the statute, a partnership is a distinct entity, its bankruptcy must be conditioned upon a petition specifically directed against it, alleging an act of bankruptcy in which it is expressly involved, and resulting in an adjudication against the partnership itself, irrespective of and in addition to any that may be made against the individual members, and even simultaneous proceedings against all the individual members of the firm do not necessarily bring the partnership itself into court so as to authorize an amendment calling for an adjudication against it. In re Mercur (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 655, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 275; affirmed (1903) 122 Fed. 384, 58 C. C. A. 472, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 505; In re Bertenshaw (1907) 157 Fed. 363, 85 C. C. A. 61, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577. And see Lacey v. Cowan (1909) 162 Ala. 546, 50 South. 281. And upon a petition in involuntary bankruptcy against one person as an individual, no adjudication can be made against other persons who were in partnership with him, even though the latter voluntarily come in and consent to be adjudged bankrupts. If such persons desire to take the benefit of the act, they must file their individual petitions, deposit the fees required, and proceed strictly according to law. Mahoney v. Ward (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 278, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 770; Lacey v. Cowan (1909) 162 Ala. 546, 50 South. 281. And although a voluntary petitioner in bankruptcy may be a member of a firm, he may apply for adjudication simply in his private capacity, and without seeking to bring the partnership into bankruptcy. But it is his duty in such a case to include in his schedule not merely his individual assets, but also his interest in the partnership and its property, since even his private creditors may have an ultimate or reversionary right in the assets of the firm. In re Brick (D. C. 1880) 4 Fed. 804; Ex parte Norcross (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 10,293.

If the bankrupt, being a member of a partnership which is not in bankruptcy, seeks a discharge from both individual and firm debts, the creditors of the firm may prove their debts against the bankrupt and cause his interest in the firm property to be subjected to the payment thereof; and if a proper foundation is laid in the pleadings and in the notices to creditors, the discharge granted to the bankrupt will release him from both classes of debts. In re Laughlin (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 589, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1; In re McFaun (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 592, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 66; In re Hartman (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 593, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 65; In re Russel (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 32, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 91; In re Wilcox (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 84, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 117. See also In re Frear (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 660, Fed. Cas. No. 5,074. But where one member of a firm thus files his separate petition, with the object of obtaining a discharge from the debts of the firm as well as from his private obligations, the petition should set forth the names of the partners and pray for a discharge from partnership debts, the schedules should list both the petitioner's individual property and debts and the assets and debts of the firm, notices to creditors should inform them that firm creditors are affected and that the bankrupt seeks a discharge from their debts, and notice of the filing of the petition and of creditors' meetings should be sent to the other partners. In re Hartman (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 593, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 65; In re Russel (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 32, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 91; In re McFaun (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 592, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 66. Failing compliance with these requirements, the petitioner's responsibility for the firm debts will not be affected, although, on a seasonable application by the bankrupt, the adjudication may be set aside, and leave granted him to file an amended petition, and thereupon an adjudication may again be entered and the case proceeded with de novo. In re McFaun (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 592, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 66.

Partners are not entitled to a discharge in bankruptcy affecting the debts of the firm, when the partnership, as such, is not in bankruptcy, but only the individual partners on their separate voluntary petitions, and when there is evidence of the existence of firm assets not brought into the bankruptcy, or circumstances justifying the inference that there has been a fraudulent concealment of partnership assets. In re

Meyers (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 408, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 707.

13. Effect of adjudication of one or more partners.—Where all the members of a firm are adjudged bankrupts, but there has been no adjudication against the firm as such, the trustee appointed in the individual cases has no authority to reclaim or interfere with the assets of the firm, notwithstanding that all the cases were instituted at the same time by the same creditors, and the same trustee was appointed for all the partners. In re Mercur (1903) 122 Fed. 384, 58 C. C. A. 472, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 505, affirming (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 655, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 275; Ludowici Roofing Tile Co. v. Pennsylvania Inst. for Instruction of the Blind (C. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 661, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 739; Oldmixon v. Severance (1907) 119 App. Div. 821, 104 N. Y. Supp. 1042; American Steel & Wire Co. v. Coover (1910) 27 Okl. 131, 111 Pac. 217, 30 L. R. A. (N. S.) 787.

The provision of subdivision "h" of this section applies to the case (and only to the case) where the partnership as such is not in bankruptcy, and one or more of the partners have also escaped adjudication or have not been petitioned against, while another or others of the firm have been adjudged bankrupt in their individual capacities. Francis v. McNeal (1911) 186 Fed. 481, 108 C. C. A. 459, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555, affirmed (1913) 228 U. S. 695, 33 Sup. Ct. 701, 57 L. Ed. 1029; In re Junck & Balthazard (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 481, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 298.

Where the total assets of the partners and of the firm are insufficient to pay the partnership debts, it is proper to render an adjudication of bankruptcy against both the firm and the individual partners, though one of them may be personally solvent. Yungbluth v. Slipper (1911) 185 Fed. 773, 108 C. C. A. 106, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 265.

The provision of subdivision "h" of this section does not apply where the infancy of the partner not adjudged bankrupt was the only ground for dismissing the petition in bankruptcy as to him. In such a case, the firm as such may be adjudged bankrupt, and its whole property administered in the bankruptcy proceedings, though there can be no adjudication against the infant partner. In re Dunnigan (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 428, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 628; In re Duguid (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 274, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 794.

Where the nonbankrupt partner elects to wind up the affairs of the firm, he cannot be interfered with by the trustee of the bankrupt partner. Such trustee has no right to sue for or take possession of any of the assets of the firm. Burke v. Rollinson (1901) 23 R. I. 177, 49 Atl. 694; Lane v. Tanner (1909) 156 Cal. 135, 103 Pac. 846. But the liquidating partner is bound to report to the court of bankruptcy the residuum of assets remaining to be distributed by that court among the partnership creditors, if not to report the details of his settlement of the firm's affairs. Dycus v. Brown (1909) 135 Ky. 140, 121 S. W. 1010, 28 L. R. A. (N. S.) 190; In re Junck & Balthazard (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 481, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 298. And when he has completed the settlement of the firm's affairs, he is bound to pay over the share of the bankrupt partner to the latter's trustee. Mills v. J. H. Fisher & Co. (1908) 159 Fed. 897, 87 C. C. A. 77, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 237.

14. Continuing or liquidating partner.—When a partnership is dissolved by mutual consent, and all its property is transferred to one of the partners, who proposes to continue the business and who assumes the payment of the firm debts, the assets of the partnership become the separate estate of the continuing partner, provided the transfer was made in good faith and for consideration, and will be so treated on his bankruptcy. In re Long (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 227, Fed. Cas. No. 8,476; In re Collier (D. C. 1874) 12 N. B. R. 266, Fed. Cas. No. 3,002; In re Montgomery (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 429, Fed. Cas. No. 9,727. But see In re Morse (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 376, Fed. Cas. No. 9,854. And since, under such an arrangement, he becomes individually responsible for the debts, the partnership creditors may, at their option, prove their claims as separate creditors of such partner and share pari passu with his individual creditors. In re Lloyd (D. C. 1884) 22 Fed. 88; In re Long (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 227, Fed. Cas. No. 8,476; In re Rice (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 373, Fed. Cas. No. 11,750. But they are not compelled to do so as against their own interest. And if the equities of the case require it, the law will still distinguish partnership assets and debts from the assets and debts of the individual bankrupt, and require the application of property belonging to the firm at the time of its dissolution to the satisfaction of debts existing against it at that time, and the application of the separate estate of the bankrupt partner to the payment of his individual debts, leaving only the surplus of either estate available to creditors of the other class. In re Denning (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 219, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 133; In re Filmar (1910) 177 Fed. 170, 100 C. C. A. 632, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 194; Oxley v. Willis (C. C. 1807) Fed. Cas. No. 10,639.

Where, as a part of an agreement for the dissolution of a partnership, it was stipulated that the continuing partner should furnish the outgoing partner with a release from liability from certain creditors of the firm, and that certain book accounts should be collected and the proceeds used to pay the other creditors, but the agreement as to the appropriation of such accounts was not contained in the dissolution agreement, and the accounts were not so applied, the outgoing partner was not entitled to compel such application as against the creditors of the firm in bankruptcy. In re Wilson (D. C. 1912) 194 Fed. 564, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 867. Where an oral agreement between partners incident to dissolution provided that firm accounts should be collected and the proceeds applied to pay the debts of the firm, but there was no appropriation of the same pro tanto by transferring them, or otherwise, in such a manner as to take them out of the hands of the parties, or authorizing the holder to pay the amount directly to the creditor, without further intervention or concern on the part of the partnership, the provision of the contract was executory only, and unenforceable as against creditors in bankruptcy proceedings against the continuing partner. In re Wilson (D. C. 1912) 194 Fed. 564, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 867.

Where the continuing partner has assumed the joint debts, the firm creditors may, after petition filed, assent to the conveyance to him of the firm's assets, and they will then be entitled to come in with the individual creditors upon the separate estate of the bankrupt partner. In re Johnson (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 7,369.

Where the liquidating partner of an insolvent firm makes a general assignment of the firm's property for the benefit of its creditors, it is an act of bankruptcy upon which such partner, as an individual, may be adjudged bankrupt, being a conveyance or transfer of a portion of his property with intent to hinder or defraud his individual creditors. In re Meyer (1899) 98 Fed. 976, 39 C. C. A. 368, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559.

15. Status and rights of retiring partner.—The retiring partner will not ordinarily be adjudged bankrupt on the petition of the continuing partner, at least where the latter has assumed the joint debts and given bond for their payment, and the creditors do not desire such an adjudication. In re Bennett (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 1,314.

The retiring partner in such cases cannot claim the right, when the other is adjudged bankrupt, to settle the firm's affairs, under the provision of subdivision "h" of this section, as that provision is not applicable to the case of the bankruptcy of a liquidating partner. In re Denning (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 219, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 133.

The retiring partner occupies the position of a surety, and he cannot make proof for the difference between the amount of the firm debts and the dividend which the firm assets will pay, when he has not actually paid any part of such difference. In re Phelps (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 11,070. But assets withdrawn by the retiring partner are subject to the payment of the firm debts, when the remaining assets are insufficient, and may be reached for the benefit of the creditors. In re Sauthoff (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 12,380; In re Pease (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 168, Fed. Cas. No. 10,881.

II. PARTNERSHIP AND INDIVIDUAL ESTATES AND DEBTS

16. Election or appointment of trustee.—In the bankruptcy of a partnership, a person holding a claim against one of the individual partners is not a "creditor of the partnership," within the meaning of this section of the bankruptcy act, and therefore has no right to vote in the choice of a trustee in bankruptcy. In re Phelps (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 525, Fed. Cas. No. 11,071; In re Scheiffer (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 591, Fed. Cas. No. 12,445; In re South Boston Iron Co. (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 13,183.

Where a separate adjudication is made against a bankrupt who is or has been a member of a firm, both the separate creditors and the firm creditors have a right to vote for the trustee. In re Beck, 110 Fed. 140, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 554; In re Falkner (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 503, Fed. Cas. No. 4,624; Wilkins v. Davis (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 17,664; In re Webb (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 17,-317.

The bankruptcy act contemplates that the trustee elected for a partnership shall also be the trustee of the individual partners, and there is no authority for the election of separate trustees for the partners. In re Coe (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 162, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715.

A court of bankruptcy has discretionary power to appoint separate trustees for the estates of a bankrupt partnership and of an individual partner, but such power should be exercised only in cases of special and peculiar necessity. In re Currie (D. C. 1910) 197 Fed. 1012, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 834.

17. Distribution of estate.—Under the rule of distribution prescribed by subdivision "f" of this section, partnership assets are for partnership creditors and individual property for separate creditors, and individual creditors cannot receive anything out of the firm assets until the partnership creditors have been paid in full, and conversely, creditors of the partnership cannot share in the assets of either of the partners until his individual creditors have received the full amount of their claims. In re Mills (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 269, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 667; Collins v. Hood (C. C. 1846) Fed. Cas. No. 3,015; In re Williams (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 17,702; In re Warren (D. C. 1847) Fed. Cas. No. 17,191; In re Ingalls (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 7,032; In re Byrne (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 464, Fed. Cas. No. 2,270; In re Wiley (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 17,656; In re Smith (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 500, Fed. Cas. No. 12,987; In re Estes (D. C. 1880) 3 Fed. 134; In re Hollister (D. C. 1880) 3 Fed. 452; In re Lloyd (D. C. 1884) 22 Fed. 90; In re Wilcox (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 84, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 117; In re Jones (1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 193; In re Bates (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 263; Murray v. Murray (1821) 5 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 60; New York Inst. for Instruction of Deaf and Dumb v. Crockett (1907) 117 App. Div. 269, 102 N. Y. Supp. 412; Gray v. Brunold (1903) 140 Cal. 615, 74 P. 303; Ex parte Cook (1728) 2 P. Wms. 500. And see Hiscock v. Varick Bank (1907) 206 U. S. 28, 27 Sup. Ct. 681, 51 L. Ed. 945, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1.

The statutory rule for the distribution of assets as between individual and firm creditors—that partnership property goes to firm creditors, and separate property to individual creditors, and that only the surplus of either estate is available to creditors of the other class—applies not only to the case of the adjudication of the partnership as such, but also to the case where one member of the firm is adjudged bankrupt in his individual capacity; and creditors of the firm will not be entitled to receive dividends out of the bankrupt's separate estate until his individual creditors have been paid in full; and this rule prevails notwithstanding the fact that there are no partnership assets. In re Wilcox (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 84, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 117; In re Morse (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 376, Fed. Cas. No. 9,854.

Where a partnership has been dissolved by decree of a state court, and its affairs wound up and all its assets distributed to its creditors, and no partner remains solvent, and afterwards one of the partners is adjudged bankrupt in his individual capacity, creditors of the firm who proved their claims and received the dividend in the state court, and who do not offer to surrender the same, are not entitled to participate in the distribution of the bankrupt's estate, as to the residue of their debts, until all his individual creditors have been paid in full. In re Mills (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 269, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 667. If one member of a firm is adjudged bankrupt, but not the other partners of the firm, a joint creditor may prove against the separate estate of the bankrupt. He cannot compete with the separate creditors in the distribution of separate assets, but he will receive dividends from any joint assets which the trustee may obtain, and from any surplus of the separate assets after the separate debts are paid. Wilkins v. Davis (D. C. 1876) 15 N. B. R. 60, Fed. Cas. No. 17,664.

The reduction of claims of creditors of a firm to judgment does not change the order of distribution of the proceeds of partnership and individual estates under the bankruptcy act. In re F. J. Hacker & Co. (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 869.

Partnership creditors have an equitable lien upon partnership property for the payment of the partnership debts. In re Abrams (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 271. Any scheme or device resorted to by persons contemplating bankruptcy for the purpose of charging partnership assets with individual debts is in violation of the act and will be frustrated by the court. In re Jones (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 781, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 141.

A partnership debt on which a bankrupt partner remains liable is none the less provable against his estate because there may be no surplus of his individual assets over his separate debts, since the provability of a debt depends upon the nature of the liability, not on the existence of assets for its satisfaction. In re Bates (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 263, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 56.

In the primary distribution, partnership assets must be applied to partnership debts, without reference to any disproportion between the interests of the individual partners therein. In re Lowe (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 221, Fed. Cas. No. 8,564.

The United States is not bound by the rule for the division of an estate as between partnership and separate creditors, and though the claim of the government is against an individual partner, it is entitled to priority of payment out of the partnership funds, and vice versa. U. S. v. Lewis (C. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 15,595, affirmed (1875) 92 U. S. 618, 23 L. Ed. 513; In re Strassburger (C. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 13,526. CONTRA, In re Webb (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 614, Fed. Cas. No. 17,313.

Where the separate estate of one of the partners is more than sufficient to pay his individual debts, but the partnership assets are not sufficient for firm creditors, the separate creditors are not entitled, as against the firm creditors, to receive interest on their debts for the period subsequent to the adjudication. In re Chandler (C. C. A. 1911) 184 Fed. 887, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 865; In re Berrian (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 1,351.

Where a bankrupt partner is a member of two firms, one of which is also in bankruptcy, the assets of that firm should be applied to the payment of the firm debts, and any surplus of the individual assets that may remain, after paying the individual debts in full, distributed pro rata among the creditors of both firms. In re Knowlton & Co. (1913) 202 Fed. 480, 120 C. C. A. 610; In re Dunkerson (D. C. 1869)

12 N. B. R. 391, Fed. Cas. No. 4,159. See In re Vetterlein (D. C. 1890) 44 Fed. 57.

18. —— Where no partnership assets exist.—Creditors of a partnership, as such, are not entitled to share ratably with the individual creditors of the bankrupt partners in the settlement of the individual estates in bankruptcy, although there are no partnership assets available for partnership creditors. Euclid Nat. Bank v. Union Trust & Deposit Co. (1906) 149 Fed. 975, 79 C. C. A. 485, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 834; In re Janes (1904) 133 Fed. 912, 67 C. C. A. 216, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 341; In re Hull (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 796; In re Wilcox (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 84, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 117; In re Henderson (D. C. 1906) 142 Fed. 588, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 91. CONTRA, In re Gray (D. C. 1913) 208 Fed. 959; In re Green (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 118, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 553; In re Keller (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 118, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 334; Conrader v. Cohen (1903) 121 Fed. 801, 58 C. C. A. 249, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 619; In re Conrader (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 676, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 85; In re West (D. C. 1889) 39 Fed. 203; In re Lloyd (D. C. 1884) 22 Fed. 88; In re Litchfield (D. C. 1880) 5 Fed. 47; In re Slocum (C. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 12,950; In re Jewett (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 491, Fed. Cas. No. 7,304; In re Knight (C. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 7,880.

Where firm creditors claim the right to share with individual creditors in the individual estate, on the ground that there was no partnership property, the test of available assets of the firm is whether, at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, there was an available fund to pay firm creditors; and neglect by firm creditors to avail themselves of such fund then existing whereby it has been dissipated or lost to them, does not enlarge their equity against the individual estate, although in fact they have received nothing on their debts. In re Litchfield (D. C. 1880) 5 Fed. 47. If there is any joint fund, however small, and even though it was purposely created by separate creditors by purchasing worthless partnership assets, still firm creditors cannot prove against the separate estate in competition with separate creditors. In re Marwick (D. C. 1845) Fed. Cas. No. 9,181. But if the joint estate has all been expended in payment of costs, partnership creditors may share pari passu with individual creditors. In re McEwen (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 8,783; In re Slocum (C. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 12,950. But this does not apply where there were originally partnership assets, which would have been applicable to the payment of firm debts, but which have been totally expended by the trustee in a vain attempt to realize more. In re Blumer (D. C. 1882) 12 Fed. 489. Though there are no actual assets of the firm, a firm creditor cannot share in the separate property of a bankrupt partner, in competition with his individual creditors, if there remains a member of the firm who is solvent and not in bankruptcy. In re Dunham (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 4,144. But if one member of a firm, though thrown into bankruptcy with the rest, owes no private debts, his individual assets are to be distributed among the partnership creditors. In re Leavitt (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 8,169.

19. Marshaling assets.—Where there are both partnership creditors and individual creditors, a partnership creditor who has a lien on both the partnership and the individual assets will be required to exhaust the funds of the partnership estate before resorting to the individual fund. In re Lewis (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 8,313; In re May (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 192, Fed. Cas. No. 9,327.

A creditor of the firm, holding security from one partner, may prove against the joint estate without surrendering or selling his security or applying its value on the claim. In re Holbrook (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 6,588; In re Thomas (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 54, Fed. Cas. No. 13,886. But a note given by the firm as an accommodation to a partner, to enable him to raise his share of the firm's capital, may be proved against the firm, but securities pledged by the individual partner must first be applied to its payment. In re Norris (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 10,302.

A lien acquired before bankruptcy, by execution, on the individual property of a member of the bankrupt firm, under a judgment against the firm, will not yield to the equities of the separate creditors of such partner. In re Sandusky (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 452, Fed. Cas. No. 12,308.

Where one of the members of a firm, who was indebted to a relative on his individual note, long overdue, caused the note to be indorsed in the name of the firm, no new consideration moving to the firm, and the partnership was then financially embarrassed, as the creditor knew, and within four months thereafter became bankrupt on its voluntary application, and the firm had assets but neither partner had any separate estate, held, that the transaction was a fraudulent attempt to prefer the holder of the note over other creditors, by converting the individual debt of the maker into a partnership obligation, and that the court of bankruptcy, under its power to marshal the assets of the bankrupts, should not allow the proof of the note as a claim against the joint estate. In re Jones (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 781, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 141.

Where the actions of partners, in connection with the transfer by one of his interest in the firm to the other, are fraudulent and constitute acts of bankruptcy upon which both partners and the firm are adjudged bankrupt, the property will be marshaled, as between firm and individual creditors, as though no transfer had been made. In re Shapiro (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 495, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 839.

Where the members of a bankrupt partnership were a natural person and another partnership, which was also insolvent, in the marshaling of assets in the bankruptcy proceedings the constituent partnership is to be treated as an individual partner, and its assets applied first to the payment of its own creditors. In re Knowlton & Co. (1913) 202 Fed. 480, 120 C. C. A. 610, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 729.

20. What constitute partnership assets.—Although all the capital of a partnership is in fact contributed by one partner, it constitutes assets of the firm, in bankruptcy, and not of the individual partner. Buckingham v. First Nat. Bank (1904) 131 Fed. 192, 65 C. C. A. 498, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 465.

A seat on a stock exchange, contributed by the partner who owned it to the capital stock of the firm, for the purpose of carrying on its business, at an agreed valuation, on which sum he was to be paid interest by the firm, where the firm thereafter paid all dues chargeable against the seat, and charged the same on the firm's books as a firm expense, was part of the assets of the firm in bankruptcy, and not the individual property of the former owner. In re Hurlbutt, Hatch & Co. (1905) 135 Fed. 504, 68 C. C. A. 216.

Real estate purchased with partnership funds and used by the firm in its business, and constituting a part of its capital, though the legal title may stand in the name of one or more of the partners, is to be treated as personalty so far as to be charged with the debts of the firm in the first instance; it is assets in bankruptcy for the creditors of the firm, and not for the separate creditors. In re Groetzinger (1904) 127 Fed. 814, 62 C. C. A. 494, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723; In re Farmer (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 207, Fed. Cas. No. 4,650; In re Lawrence (D. C. 1881) 5 Fed. 349. Real estate owned and held by a firm as partnership property and brought into the firm stock is not converted absolutely and for all purposes. It is to be treated as personalty in so far as may be necessary to secure the payment of the firm debts and advances made by the partners respectively, but for every other purpose it remains real estate. Hence a judgment against the firm for a partnership debt is a lien on partnership real estate, and in the bankruptcy of the firm, if such judgment is valid and not voidable under the act, the judgment creditor is entitled to enforce his lien against such realty, and the trustee in bankruptcy, as representing the unsecured creditors of the firm, cannot claim the land on the theory of its conversion into personalty. In re Codding (D. C. 1881) 9 Fed. 849. The nature of the title to real estate held by partners cannot be changed to the prejudice of the rights of separate creditors by their classification thereof in their schedule. In re Zug (C. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 280, Fed. Cas. No. 18,222. Even where a creditor has obtained a judgment against those members of the firm in whose name the legal title to the firm's real estate stands, he will have no prior lien thereon. Marrett v. Murphy (D. C. 1874) 11 N. B. R. 131, Fed. Cas. No. 9,103.

If one of the partners has fraudulently converted to his own use property or money of the firm, or taken the funds of the firm for the purchase of property in his own name, it remains partnership assets and may, under the equitable powers of the court, be subjected to the payment of the debts of the firm. In re Hamilton (D. C. 1880) 1 Fed. 800; Patrick v. Central Bank (C. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 10,803.

Where property of an insolvent firm is sold within a month of the commencement of the proceedings in bankruptcy, and the proceeds divided, and one partner, with his share, purchases property, it will be regarded as partnership assets. In re Melvin (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 543, Fed. Cas. No. 9,406.

Where the same partners, under different firm names, carry on the same business at two different places, the assets of both nominal firms are equally applicable to the payment of all the creditors of both. In re Williams (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 17,707.

21. What constitute individual assets.—In bankruptcy of a partnership, "individual estate" is such property as belongs to one or more of the partners to the exclusion of the others. In re Lowe (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 221, Fed. Cas. No. 8,564.

Policies insuring the life of one member of a bankrupt partnership, and payable to himself or his legal representatives (or in one case, to his wife and children if they should outlive him), and which have been individually pledged by him, do not belong to the partnership estate, although the firm may have pledged the policies in connection with his separate individual pledge. Hiscock v. Varick Bank (1907) 206 U. S. 28, 27 Sup. Ct. 681, 51 L. Ed. 945, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1.

Where property once belonging to a partnership has, by a bona fide contract, ceased to be partnership property and become the separate property of one of the partners, who afterwards becomes bankrupt, the partnership creditors are not entitled to any preference over the bankrupt's individual creditors in relation to such property. In re Wiley (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 17,656; Crane v. Morrison (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 3,355.

Where a partner sues for the dissolution of the firm, and bankruptcy proceedings are begun against the firm, the amount claimed by such partner on dissolution is his individual property, which will pass to the trustee for the payment of his separate debts. In re Clark (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 2,798.

On the bankruptcy of a person who is actually and in fact the sole owner of a business, although it was conducted in the name of himself and another as partners, the property and assets of such business will pass to his trustee as his individual property without regard to any liability of the ostensible partner to the creditors. In re Gibson (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 665, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 401.

22. Partnership debts and claims.—Joint debts of partners composing a bankrupt firm cannot be proved against the partnership estate, to share on an equality with firm creditors. In re L. B. Weisenberg & Co. (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 517, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 417.

A claim founded on a note or bond signed by the individual members of a firm, but not given for a firm debt, is not entitled, as against partnership creditors, to be paid out of the assets of the firm in bankruptcy, for though it is a joint debt, it is not a partnership debt. In re L. B. Weisenberg & Co. (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 517, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 417; In re Webb (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 17,313; In re Nims (C. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 10,269; In re Roddin (C. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 11,989. But if notes are given for liabilities of the partnership, they constitute debts of the firm, though not signed by the firm name, but as the joint and several notes of the partners, and notwithstanding the individual liability of the partners thereon. In re Mosier (D. C. 1901) 112 Fed. 138, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 268. A note made jointly by all the members of a firm, strictly in the course of the partnership business, and for a consideration passing to the firm, is to be treated as the debt of the firm, though not signed in the firm name. In re L. B. Weisenberg & Co. (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 517, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 417, citing In re Warren (D. C. 1847) Fed. Cas. No. 17,191; In re Thomas (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 54, Fed. Cas. No. 13,886; Davis v. Turner (1903) 120 Fed. 605, 56 C. C. A. 669, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 704. CONTRA, In re Bucyrus Machine Co. (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 303, Fed. Cas. No. 2,100; In re Holbrook (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 6,588; In re Herrick (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 312, Fed. Cas. No. 6,420; Strause v. Hooper (D. C. 1901) 105 Fed. 590, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 225; In re Jones (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 431, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 626. A note signed by the members of the firm as individuals, with nothing on its face to indicate that it was given for a partnership debt, is presumptively the debt of the individuals, and cannot be proved as a claim against the estate of the partnership in bankruptcy to share with firm creditors. In re Jones (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 431, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 626. The real nature of the transaction relating to a note given by a bankrupt firm may be shown, to determine whether the debt is one provable against the firm or the individual partners, notwithstanding the failure to enter the transaction at large on the books of the creditor. In re Stevens (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 323, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 9. A bank made a loan of money to each of the two members of a firm taking in each case a note signed by both partners. The proceeds were passed to the individual accounts of the partners respectively, but they thereupon, by their checks, transferred the money to the partnership account, and it was used in the firm's business. Held, that the notes did not constitute debts of the firm provable against its estate in bankruptcy, because it had received the money from the partners and not from the bank. In re L. B. Weisenberg & Co. (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 517, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 417.

A firm note separately indorsed by one of the partners is a firm obligation, whether the indorser's liability has become fixed or not, and cannot be made the basis of a claim against his estate in bankruptcy as an individual debt. Lamoille County Nat. Bank v. Stevens' Estate (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 245, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 164; In re Speer Bros. (D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 910, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 524. A bank holding a draft drawn by one firm and accepted by another, where both are adjudged bankrupts, cannot share with the individual creditors in the separate assets of one who was a partner in both firms. In re Dunkerson (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 4,158.

Where property has been wrongfully converted by a partnership and inures to the benefit of the firm, and the owner, waiving the tort, seeks to recover the value of the property as on an implied contract, his claim is against the firm, and not against any individual partner. Reynolds v. New York Trust Co. (1911) 188 Fed. 611, 110 C. C. A. 409, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 698.

The mortgagee in a chattel mortgage of a stock of goods cannot prove his claim against a partnership formed after the making of the mortgage and before its maturity. In re Forbes (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 4,922. And see In re Van Buren (D. C. 1880) 2 Fed. 643.

An agreement between two traders to unite their stocks in trade as the capital of a partnership to be formed between them, and to convert the separate business debts of either into joint debts of the firm, will not entitle a separate creditor who has not acceded in any way to the arrangement before the bankruptcy of the firm to prove his claim as a joint creditor of the firm against the partnership estate. In re Isaacs (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 7,093. But compare In re Sickman & Glenn (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 508, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 232.

Proof of a debt in the case of a bankrupt firm should show with reasonable certainty whether it was contracted by the firm or the individual partners, and proof against the partnership should not be joined with proof of a debt against an individual partner. In re Walton (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 17,129.

23. Separate debts of partners.—Where a member of a firm gives his individual note, bond, or mortgage (not executed in the name of the firm nor by the other partner), to secure an existing creditor of the firm, or to secure the future payment of the price of goods purchased for the firm's stock in trade, it is his separate debt, and the creditor cannot come upon the partnership assets in competition with partnership creditors. In re Forse (D. C. 1910) 184 Fed. 85, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 843; In re Stevens (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 323, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 9; In re Linforth (D. C. 1898) 87 Fed. 386.

Where a creditor of a firm, holding its promissory note for money loaned, surrendered the same and accepted in lieu thereof the individual note of a member of the firm, for the same amount, the assumption of the debt by that partner being part of the consideration for the purchase of an interest in the firm for her son-in-law, and the latter note was twice renewed and was finally reduced to a judgment against the maker, and within four months thereafter the partnership and its members became bankrupt, it was held that the debt was that of the individual partner, not of the firm, notwithstanding the fact that the interest on the new note had always been paid by the firm. In re Lehigh Lumber Co. (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 216, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 221.

An indebtedness contracted by a member of a partnership individually, before the partnership was formed, cannot be converted into a firm obligation by its entry as such on the books without the creditor's knowledge, or by making payments thereon by checks of the firm. Hibberd v. McGill (1904) 129 Fed. 590, 64 C. C. A. 158, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101.

Where one member of a firm gives a note signed in the firm name, but in fraud of his copartners and for his private benefit, or even, as some of the cases hold, without the consent of the other partners, the firm being insolvent, and the transaction not being in any way for the benefit of the firm, it does not create a debt provable against the assets of the partnership. First Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank (1904) 131 Fed. 422, 65 C. C. A. 406, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 429; In re Forsyth (D. C. 1873) 7 N. B. R. 174, Fed. Cas. No. 4,948; In re Golder (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 5,510; In re Irving (D. C. 1877) 17 N. B. R. 22, Fed. Cas. No. 7,074. A partner cannot bind the firm by notes given in the firm name in renewal of his individual notes, and the burden rests upon the creditor seeking to prove the same against the partnership estate in bankruptcy to show that the other partner knew of the transaction and assented thereto. In re McIntire (D. C. 1903) 132 Fed. 295, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 787. But where a partner, acting for the firm, pledged as collateral security for a loan to the firm, for which he was indorser, individual notes made by himself to the firm for borrowed money, which were afterwards sold by the pledgee in accordance with the terms of the pledge, the purchaser took the same title and rights as though the notes had been those of a third party, unaffected by the fact that the maker was also indorser on the principal debt, and was entitled to prove the notes against the estate of the maker in bankruptcy. In re White (1910) 183 Fed. 310, 105 C. C. A. 522, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 541; Bush v. Crawford (C. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 2,224; In re Dunkle (D. C. 1871) 7 N. B. R. 107, Fed. Cas. No. 4,161.

A mortgage given by one partner on partnership property, but to secure his individual debt, although with the consent of the other partner, cannot be enforced as against firm creditors in bankruptcy. In re Blanchard (D. C. 1907) 161 Fed. 793, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 417.

A note given by a bankrupt firm to a member for his contribution to the capital stock, and by him turned over to his wife, who furnished the money, is evidence only of the individual debt of such member and not provable against the firm. In re Frost (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 736, Fed. Cas. No. 5,135.

Where, after the failure of a firm, and while they are endeavoring to settle with their creditors, one partner, at the request of the holder of a firm obligation, guaranties its payment, such guaranty is without legal effect and does not entitle that creditor to prove against the separate estate of the guarantor upon a subsequent adjudication of bankruptcy. In re Blumer (D. C. 1882) 13 Fed. 622.

A judgment against partners and others jointly is a several claim as against the bankrupt partners, and cannot receive a dividend from the joint estate. In re Herrick (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 312, Fed. Cas. No. 6,420. A debt founded on a judgment against the two members of a firm jointly, in a suit on a partnership note, does not entitle the creditor to dividends out of the separate estate of each member of the firm, on an equal footing with the separate creditors of each member. In re Berrian (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 1,351.

Where a firm failing without assets resumed business under the name of one of its members as "agent," and again failed, the debts contracted under the former name were not entitled to share in the assets of the second failure. In re Nims (C. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 10,269.

Where, by the local law of a state, taxes assessed against a firm are individual liabilities of the several partners, they may be proved against the separate estates in bankruptcy. In re Green (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 118, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 553.

A creditor holding a claim against the partners jointly, which is not a firm debt, may file separate proofs of the same claim to its full amount against each of the members of the firm. In re Beers (D. C. 1870) 5 N. B. R. 211, Fed. Cas. No. 1,229.

24. Joint and several liability—Double proof.—A joint and several obligation given by a partnership is also provable as an individual obligation against the estate of either of the partners. Ex parte Miller (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 9,550. A creditor who has proved a joint and several claim against the bankrupt members of a firm separately, and not against the firm, is entitled to dividends out of the several assets of the individual partners. In re Bigelow (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 1,397.

A creditor who holds notes made by the bankrupt firm and indorsed by an individual member of the firm, also a bankrupt, may prove his debt against both estates and share in the dividends of each, having a right of action against each, though entitled to only one satisfaction. Buckingham v. First Nat. Bank (1904) 131 Fed. 192, 65 C. C. A. 498, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 465; In re McCoy (1906) 150 Fed. 106, 80 C. C. A. 60, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 760; In re Thomas (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 54, Fed. Cas. No. 13,886; Emery v. Canal Nat. Bank (C. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 217, Fed. Cas. No. 4,446; In re Bigelow (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 371, Fed. Cas. No. 1,397; In re Howard (D. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 571, Fed. Cas. No. 6,750; Stephenson v. Jackson, 9 N. B. R. 255, Fed. Cas. No. 13,374; In re Farnum (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 4,674; In re Bradley (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 1,772. Where a firm composed of three persons gave, in settlement of part of a debt due to one creditor, the note of the copartnership with the indorsement of one of the partners, and, for other parts of it, severally, three notes, each made by one of the partners and indorsed by the others, and the firm was adjudged bankrupt, and the creditor proved his debt against the makers alone of the four notes, it was held that he was entitled to dividends according to such proofs out of the several estates, joint or separate, against which the proofs were made. Mead v. Nat. Bank of Fayetteville (C. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 173, Fed. Cas. No. 9,366.

If a creditor having a firm note indorsed by one partner, and holding property of that partner as security, obtains payment by a sale of the security after the commencement of the proceedings in bankruptcy, the separate creditors are entitled to receive from the joint fund a sum equal to the dividend on the note. In re Foot (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 337, Fed. Cas. No. 4,906.

A joint and several note, given for money borrowed by a firm and signed in the firm name, with other names following, may be proved against the joint assets of the firm, but not one which is signed individually by certain of the partners and by others as sureties. In re Holbrook (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 6,588.

25. —— Liability for torts.—Where a firm converted certain property belonging to a bank, and the firm and the individual partners were then adjudged involuntary bankrupts, the bank could prove a claim against the partners jointly on their acceptances for the price of the goods and another against the partners jointly and severally on an implied contract to repay moneys, to wit, the proceeds of the goods wrongfully converted by them, the doctrine of election between inconsistent remedies on the same claim being without application. In re Coe (1910) 183 Fed. 745, 106 C. C. A. 181, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 352, affirming (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 1002, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 384. And see In re Jordan (D. C. 1880) 2 Fed. 319; In re Blackford (1898) 35 App. Div. 330, 54 N. Y. Supp. 972.

The rule which permits the owner of property converted to waive the tort and recover the value of the property as on an implied contract, is based on the ground that defendant's estate has been unjustly enriched by the conversion, and where the tort was committed by a partnership, and enured to the benefit of the firm's estate, whatever implied contract might arise would be that of the firm, and not of an individual partner; and hence the owner of the property, after having proved his claim against the partnership estate, as a claim founded on contract, is not entitled to prove it against the individual estate of a partner, for this would have the effect of giving such creditor an advantage over creditors claiming against the firm under express contracts. Reynolds v. New York Trust Co. (1911) 188 Fed. 611, 110 C. C. A. 409, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 698.

Where one member of a firm, with the knowledge and assent of his copartners, misappropriates trust funds (as, the money of an estate of which he is executor, or the money of a corporation of which he is the treasurer or agent) and invests the same in the business of the firm, the obligation thus created is both joint and several; and proof of the claim may be made against the partnership as well as against the individual partner. In re Baxter (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 62, Fed. Cas. No. 1,119; In re Tesson (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 378, Fed. Cas. No. 13,844; In re Jordan (D. C. 1880) 2 Fed. 319.

Where a liability to the United States is incurred by a fraudulent undervaluation of goods entered at the custom house, the claim of the government against the firm for the tort is joint and several and may be proved against both estates. In re Vetterlein (D. C. 1884) 20 Fed. 109.

26. Claims of partners against each other and the firm.—Where a surviving partner converts the property of the deceased partner to his own use, and the administrators of the latter consent, they may prove a claim therefor against the estate of the former in bankruptcy. In re Mills (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 74, Fed. Cas. No. 9,611.

One partner, as between himself and the firm creditors, cannot estop himself by any dealings with the other partner from claiming partnership assets. In re Gorham (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 5,624.

While the trustee in bankruptcy of a partnership estate may prove a claim against the individual estate of one partner, such claim is not entitled to payment pro rata with the claims of individual creditors, but only from the surplus, if any, remaining after the individual claims have been paid. In re Telfer (1910) 184 Fed. 224, 106 C. C. A. 366.

Where a partnership existed between a bankrupt and another, which was terminated prior to the bankruptcy, the former partner cannot prove a claim against the estate, based on the debts of the partnership paid by him, without an accounting and settlement of the partnership affairs, but such accounting and settlement may be had in the bankruptcy court before a referee. In re Hirth (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 926, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 666. But the partner so proving on such a claim is not entitled to share in the distribution of the partnership estate until all the other creditors of the partnership have been paid. In re Effinger (D. C. 1911) 184 Fed. 728, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 930; In re Denning (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 219, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 133; In re Rice (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 509, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 205; Wallerstein v. Ervin (1901) 112 Fed. 124, 50 C. C. A. 129, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 256; In re Carmichael (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 594, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 815; In re Ervin (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 135, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 356. See In re Lough (C. C. A. 1910) 182 Fed. 961, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 597. But this rule does not apply to a debt which was due from the firm to the particular partner before he entered into the partnership, and which was not brought into the firm's capital, but was overlooked and remained unpaid until after the bankruptcy. In re Ervin (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 596.

Where judgments against a firm, in favor of certain of its creditors, were bought up by one of the partners, who took assignments of the judgments to himself, it was held that he thereby became a creditor of each of his copartners for their respective shares of the money advanced by him in purchasing the judgments, and was entitled to prove a claim for such share against the individual estate of one of the copartners in bankruptcy. In re Carmichael (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 594, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 815. So, where a partnership is dissolved by consent, one partner buying the assets and assuming all the debts and liabilities of the firm, from which he agrees to save the other harmless, the relation of the former partners becomes that of principal and surety, and if the retiring partner is compelled to pay a debt of the firm, after an adjudication in bankruptcy against the continuing partner, the former may prove the amount so paid as a claim against the latter's estate in bankruptcy, making such proof in the name of the creditor; or if the creditor has already proved the debt, the partner paying it may have himself subrogated to the rights of such creditor. In re Dillon (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 627, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 63. And see In re Smith (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 113, Fed. Cas. No. 12,991.

Where, out of a firm consisting of four partners, two were insolvent, one was a bankrupt, and the fourth paid off and discharged all the firm debts out of his separate estate, held, that he was entitled to prove against the separate estate of the bankrupt one-half of the amount so paid by him. In re Dell (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 3,774.

A partner who has taken notes on the sale of his interest to his copartner cannot receive a dividend from the estate of the latter in bankruptcy until all partnership debts have been paid. In re Jewett (D. C. 1869) 1 N. B. R. 495, Fed. Cas. No. 7,309.

Where a member of a bankrupt firm is also a member of another firm, his partner, as the remaining member of the latter firm settling its affairs, may prove a debt against the bankrupt firm. In re Buckhause (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 2,086.

The fact that two firms carrying on business under different names in different places are composed of identically the same persons will not operate to give the claims of one firm against another firm the character of individual demands, as distinguished from partnership demands. In re Stanton (C. C. 1845) Fed. Cas. No. 13,295. And see In re Vetterlein (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 16,927.

§ 9590. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 6.) Exemptions of bankrupts.

Exemptions of Bankrupts.—a This Act shall not affect the allowance to bankrupts of the exemptions which are prescribed by the State laws in force at the time of the filing of the petition in the State wherein they have had their domicile for the six months or the greater portion thereof immediately preceding the filing of the petition. (30 Stat. 548.)

Notes of Decisions

1. Validity and construction of this section.
2. Determination of exemption with reference to time.
3. Exemptions under federal laws.
4. —— Pension money.
5. Construction and application of state exemption laws.
6. Exemption by value.
7. Exemption of specific property.
8. —— Wearing apparel, watches, and jewelry.
9. —— Tools and implements of trade.
10. —— Growing crops.
11. Policies of life insurance.
12. Homestead exemption.
13. Title to exempt property.
14. Forfeiture of exemptions.
15. Abandonment and waiver of exemptions.
16. —— Rights and remedies of creditors holding waivers.
17. Liens on and claims against exempt property.
18. —— Claims for unpaid purchase money.
19. Transfer and assignment of exempt property.
20. Jurisdiction of bankruptcy court.
21. Claim of exemptions.
22. Setting apart exempt property.
23. —— Valuation, selection, and delivery of property.
24. —— Report, exceptions, and confirmation.
25. Sale of property and allowance of exemptions out of proceeds.
26. Exemptions in partnership cases.

1. Validity and construction of this section.—This section, though it adopts the various state laws as the measure of exemptions to be allowed to bankrupts, is not repugnant to the requirement that laws on the subject of bankruptcy shall be "uniform" throughout the United States. Darling v. Berry (C. C. 1882) 13 Fed. 659.

This section is to be liberally construed, to accomplish the purpose of the exemption, in a manner comporting with the beneficent spirit which prompted it, and not defeated by technical rules. Smith v. Thompson (1914) 213 Fed. 335, 129 C. C. A. 637; In re Lenters (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 878; In re Tilden (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 500, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 300.

This provision expressly confers on courts of bankruptcy jurisdiction to determine all claims of bankrupts to their exemptions. Lucius v. Cawthon-Coleman Co. (1905) 25 Sup. Ct. 214, 196 U. S. 149, 49 L. Ed. 425.

The bankruptcy act neither enlarges nor diminishes the exemption laws of the states, but takes the law of the particular state where the bankrupt is domiciled, as it exists at the time when the proceeding is begun, and adopts it as the measure of the exemption to be allowed. In re Bassett (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 410, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 800; In re Boyd (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 999, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 337; In re Staunton (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 507, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 79; In re Wunder (D. C. 1905) 133 Fed. 821, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 701; In re Manning (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 948, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 571; Steele v. Buel (1900) 104 Fed. 968, 44 C. C. A. 287, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165; In re Andrews & Simonds (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 776, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 116.

The extent and duration of a homestead allottment made in the court of bankruptcy will be the same as prescribed by the laws of the state. In re Woodard (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 260, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 339; Windley v. Tankard (1883) 88 N. C. 223. But where the exemption law of the state has been amended by a new statute allotting additional exemptions, but such later act is void for want of conformity to the constitutional requirements as to amending statutes, a bankrupt who has had set apart to him all the exemptions allowed by the original act cannot claim anything further under the amending statute. In re Buelow (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 86, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 389.

The nature and extent of the state exemption must be ascertained in the mode designated by the state law. In re Feely (D. C. 1868) 3 N. B. R. 66, Fed. Cas. No. 4,714.

Section 47a (2), as amended by Act June 25, 1910 (post, § 9631), held not to affect this section. Brandt v. Mayhew (1914) 218 Fed. 422, 134 C. C. A. 210.

Where, in proceedings against a bankrupt firm, one of the partners procured his release on the ground of infancy, he was thereby precluded from successfully claiming a right to exemptions. Right of a debtor to exemptions, conferred by Const. Wis. art. 1, § 17, is a personal privilege to each debtor individually, so that, when the debtor's individual relation to the process or proceeding through or in which the property has been seized is terminated on the sole ground that he is not amenable to it, his exemption privilege also fails. In re Ellenbecker (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 396.

2. Determination of exemption with reference to time.—The right to claim exemptions must exist, if at all, at the date of the commencement of the proceedings in bankruptcy. In re Crum (D. C. 1913) 221 Fed. 729; In re Duerson (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 183, Fed. Cas. No. 4,117. But where the bankrupt is entitled to the exemption at that date, his subsequent removal from the state does not deprive him of the right, though the exemption is only given to residents by the state law. In re Donahey (D. C. 1910) 176 Fed. 458, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 796.

A bankrupt who was engaged in farming until a short time before the adjudication is entitled to the exemptions given by the state law to farmers, though he afterwards engages, temporarily, in another pursuit. In re Fly (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 141, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 550.

Where a husband before bankruptcy transferred his homestead interest to his wife, the fact that on bankruptcy proceedings he claimed a homestead exemption does not, under Rev. St. Mo. 1909, § 8304, prevent the wife from asserting her homestead exemption in the same property. Morrow v. Zane (1914) 170 S. W. 918, 185 Mo. App. 111.

3. Exemptions under federal laws.—This section deals solely with exemptions claimable under the laws of the states, and does not repeal or affect R. S. § 2296, ante, § 4551, providing that a federal homestead shall not be liable for debts of the homesteader before the issuance of a patent, and hence such a homestead cannot be subjected, in the bankruptcy proceedings, to the payment of any debts contracted by the bankrupt before the issuance of a patent. In re Cohn (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 568, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 761; In re Daubner (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 805, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 368.

An act of congress providing for the allotment in severalty of the agricultural lands of an Indian reservation, declared that the United States would hold the lands for 25 years in trust for the sole use and benefit of the Indian allottees, who were not allowed to convey or incumber the lands during that time, and that at the expiration of that period the United States would convey the land to the allottees or their heirs discharged of the trust, and free from all charges and incumbrances. During the time named, an Indian, one of the allottees under the act, became a voluntary bankrupt. Held, that the lands allotted to him did not vest in his trustee in bankruptcy, not being property which he could have alienated or incumbered, but being exempt under a law which was not repealed or affected by the bankruptcy act. In re Russie (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 609, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 6.

4. —— Pension money.—R. S. § 4747, ante, § 9080, provides that no money due to any pensioner shall be liable to attachment, levy, or seizure by or under any legal or equitable process whatever, whether the same remains with the Pension Office, or any officer or agent thereof, or is in the course of transmission to the pensioner entitled thereto, but shall "inure wholly to the benefit of such pensioner." Held, that the words quoted mean only that the pension funds shall be protected until they have come safely into the hands of the pensioner, after which they are liable for his debts; and hence pension money in the hands of a bankrupt at the time of the adjudication, neither invested nor mingled with other funds, is not exempt. In re Jones (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 337, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 536. CONTRA, In re Bean (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 262, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 53.

A bankrupt pensioner cannot claim as exempt real property which was purchased in the first instance partly with pension money, but out of which he has withdrawn, by way of mortgage, more than the pension money originally put in, and used the money so withdrawn in other ventures. In re Ellithorpe (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 163, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 18.

5. Construction and application of state exemption laws.—A bankrupt's right to exemptions must be deduced from state law, though asserted as prescribed by the bankruptcy act. In re Lenters (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 878. And the state laws govern on the question of exemptions. People's Nat. Bank of Independence v. Maxson (Iowa, 1915) 150 N. W. 601.

In construing the state exemption laws, for the purposes of the bankruptcy act, the federal courts will follow the decisions of the highest court of the state, if any applicable rulings are to be found. In re Crook (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 979; In re Scheier (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 744, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 739; In re National Grocer Co. (C. C. A. 1910) 181 Fed. 33, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 360; In re Cochran (D. C. 1911) 185 Fed. 913, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 459; In re Meriwether (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 102, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 435; In re McCrary Bros. (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 485, 22 Am. Bankr.

Rep. 161; In re Stone (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 35, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 416; In re Owings (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 739, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 472; In re Downing (D. C. 1905) 148 Fed. 120, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 423; In re Stevenson (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 789, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 230; In re Camp (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 745, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165; In re Beauchamp (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 106, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 151; In re Wyllie (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 18,112; Southern Irr. Co. v. Wharton Nat. Bank (Tex. Civ. App. 1912) 144 S. W. 701. But they are not bound to follow a mere obiter dictum. In re Sullivan (1906) 148 Fed. 815, 78 C. C. A. 505, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 578.

In setting out the exemption to the bankrupt, it is the law of his domicile which governs. Duncan v. Ferguson-McKinney Dry Goods Co. (1907) 150 Fed. 269, 80 C. C. A. 157, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 155. And property which is exempt by the laws of the state where the debtor resides and where the petition is filed will be protected wherever it may actually be situated, and if it is situated in another state, the court will not inquire into the laws of that state to see if it would be there exempt, that question being immaterial. In re Stevens (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 13,392. Compare Gibbs v. Logan (1883) 22 W. Va. 208.

Collateral provisions in state laws, particularly in relation to the method of allotting or setting apart the exempt property, are not made a part of the bankruptcy act by this section. In re Lynch (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 579, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 262; Farmer v. Taylor (1876) 56 Ga. 559. See In re Culwell (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 828, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 614.

Where the state law grants the exemption to "residents of the state," the bankrupt must answer this condition or he cannot claim the exemption. In re Dinglehoef (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 866, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 242; In re O'Hara (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 325, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 714. And one who is not a citizen of the United States or of the particular state is not entitled to exemptions. In re Kaplan (D. C. 1910) 186 Fed. 242, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 376. Nor can the bankrupt claim the exemption if he does not answer the requirement of the state statute that exemptions shall be allowed only to one who is "the head of a family." In re Finklea (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 492, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 738; In re Youngstrom (1907) 153 Fed. 98, 82 C. C. A. 232, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 572; In re Glisson (D. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 287, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 911; In re McGowan (D. C. 1909) 170 Fed. 493, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 469. Or to a "citizen householder having a family." In re Rainwater (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 738, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 419.

The reference in this section to "the state laws" means the statutory law of the state only. Hence an item of property having an actual market value (such as a seat in a stock exchange) which, if exempted from liability to satisfy the debts of the owner, is so exempted by decisions of the state courts, not resting on any exemption by reason of a state statute, but purely on definitions of property, will not be deemed exempt under the bankruptcy act. Page v. Edmunds (1903) 187 U. S. 596, 23 Sup. Ct. 200, 47 L. Ed. 318, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 277.

6. Exemption by value.—Where the state statute, as is often the case, does not specify the items of property which may be claimed as exempt, but grants to the debtor an exemption of personal property generally (or of property either real or personal) to a value not exceeding a certain sum, it is held that the exemption is in property and not in money, so that a bankrupt must select the items of property which he wishes set apart to him, not exceeding the designated value, and cannot simply claim an exemption of that much money out of the proceeds of his estate in bankruptcy. In re Ansley Bros. (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 983, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 457; In re Baughman (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 668, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 167; In re Pfeiffer (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 892, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 230; In re Staunton (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 507, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 79; In re Prince & Walter (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 546, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 675. Under Gen. Code Ohio, §§ 11730, 11733, 11735, 11738, it is proper to allow a bankrupt $500 in money from the proceeds of a sale of the homestead having a value of more than $1,000. In re Crum (D. C. 1913) 221 Fed. 729.

An exemption by value may be taken out of cash remaining in the hands of the bankrupt at the time of the adjudication. In re Wilson (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 197, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 287. Or in a vested expectant interest of the bankrupt in a sum of money payable at his death or at the death of another person. In re Bennett (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 1,315. Or in real estate if the statute so provides. In re Edwards (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 349, Fed. Cas. No. 4,293.

Where the state statute is intended primarily for the benefit of the family rather than of the individual debtor, and grants an exemption to either the husband or wife, but with a proviso that the amount allowed to them jointly shall not exceed a certain sum, the rights of a married bankrupt will be determined by the same rule which would govern them in the state courts, and may thus depend on the financial condition of his wife. In re McCutchen (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 779, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 81. But in the absence of a provision of this kind, the bankrupt is entitled to claim the full amount of the exemption specified in the statute, irrespective of the fact that his wife may own unincumbered property. In re Tonne (D. C. 1875) 13 N. B. R. 170, Fed. Cas. No. 14,095.

The court of bankruptcy will give to a bankrupt the benefit of a state statute exempting his wages earned within a limited time or to a limited amount. In re Holden (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 980, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 96. Balance of a trustee's interests in certain profits of a business, after deducting his salary of $100 a week for a year prior to bankruptcy, held not "wages or salary," which he could claim exempt as such, under Act Pa. April 15, 1845 (P. L. 460) § 5. In re Pears (1913) 205 Fed. 255, 123 C. C. A. 459.

7. Exemption of specific property.—Under Rem. & Bal. Code, Wash. § 563, par. 3, exempting to a householder a bed and bedding for each member of the family, and "other furniture" not exceeding $500 in value, a bankrupt, having selected beds and bedding for each member of the family, could not select other beds and bedding to make up the additional $500 exemption. In re Robison (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed. 662.

An automobile belonging to a bankrupt, who had no other carriage, was a "carriage," within Sess. Laws Okl. 1905, c. 18, § 1, subd. 10, exempting to a debtor one carriage or buggy. Patten v. Sturgeon (1914) 214 Fed. 65, 130 C. C. A. 505.

As to a specific exemption of a lot in a cemetery, see Burdette v. Jackson (1910) 179 Fed. 229, 102 C. C. A. 481, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 127. As to claiming an exemption out of a stock of goods in trade, see In re Wilson (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 197, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 287. Concerning the effect of a state insolvency law, granting to the debtor an allowance for the support of his family, see In re Anderson (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 141, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555. As to a state law exempting "wages or salary," see In re Pears (C. C. A. 1913) 205 Fed. 255, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 563. On the construction of a statute exempting the "best swine or meat of a swine," see In re Libby (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 776, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 615; Bank of Nez Perce v. Pindel (1912) 193 Fed. 917, 113 C. C. A. 545, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 69. On the exemption of earnings necessary for the support of a debtor's family, see In re Condon (D. C. 1912) 198 Fed. 947, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 907. On the question of exempting a membership in a stock exchange or chamber of commerce, having a market value, by reason of certain benefit or insurance features in its charter or rules, see In re Neimann (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 738, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 739. As to whether a liquor license can be claimed as a part of the exemption, see In re Olewine (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 840, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 40; In re Myers (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 869, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 536.

The burden of proving that an article alleged to be exempt is within the provisions of the statute rests upon the bankrupt. In re Turnbull (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 667, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 549. And he must select his exemption in kind, and cannot ordinarily wait until the property has been sold and then claim the maximum value of his exemption in money from the proceeds. In re Blanchard (D. C. 1907) 161 Fed. 793, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 417; In re Grady (D. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 935, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 738. A bankrupt who does not happen to own any articles of the kind or class mentioned in the statute (tools, domestic animals, or the like) will not be entitled to receive out of his estate a commutation of their value in money. In re Harrington, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 513. And see In re Buelow (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 86, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 389. But if articles strictly within the exemption law have been wrongfully taken by creditors, before the bankruptcy proceedings, on attachment, execution, or distress, and sold, the bankrupt will still be entitled to claim and receive the allowance of his exemptions, the sale being declared void or the money ordered refunded by the creditors or by the sheriff if still in the latter's hands. In re Martin (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 9,152; In re Ellis (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 555, Fed. Cas. No. 4,400; Williams v. Miller (1844) 16 Conn. 144. And a judgment recovered by a debtor against one who has unlawfully levied upon and sold his exempt property stands in place of the exemption and cannot be reached by creditors. Tillotson v. Wolcott (1872) 48 N. Y. 188. And it appears that the same doctrine applies to money due to the bankrupt from an insurance company as indemnity for the loss of his exempt property by fire. Sands v. Roberts (1859) 8 Abb. Prac. (N. Y.) 343.

8. —— Wearing apparel, watches, and jewelry.—A gold watch and chain, habitually carried upon the person in the ordinary mode of use, is exempt as wearing apparel, if the value of the watch is not so great as to make it primarily an article of ornament rather than of mere use. In re H. L. Evans & Co. (D. C. 1907) 158 Fed. 153, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 752; In re Jones (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 773, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 259; In re Freeman (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 569; In re Steele (D. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 13,346; Sellers v. Bell (1899) 94 Fed. 801, 36 C. C. A. 502, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529; Stewart v. McClung (1885) 12 Or. 431,

8 Pac. 447, 53 Am. Rep. 374; Brown v. Edmonds (1894) 5 S. D. 508, 59 N. W. 731. CONTRA, In re Everleth (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 620, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 236. But if the statute only exempts "necessary wearing apparel," a watch is not exempt. In re Turnbull (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 667, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 549. If a bankrupt who is a mechanic can show that it is necessary for him to have a watch in order to carry on his trade, he may claim as exempt, under the designation of a tool or implement of his trade, such a watch as would be proper and sufficient for that purpose, but if the watch which he owns is more valuable than it need be for use in his trade, he must account to his creditors for the difference. In re Coller (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 503, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 131; In re Turnbull (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 667, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 549. And see In re Everleth (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 620, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 236.

Articles of jewelry which are only carried as ornaments are not exempt under the description of wearing apparel. In re Gemmell (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 551; In re Kasson (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 7,616. Where the state statute exempts "wearing apparel," a bankrupt is entitled to claim as exempt a diamond stud, worth $250, habitually worn by him during several years past in the front of his shirt, and for the purpose of fastening the shirt together, when there are no circumstances connected with its acquisition or use tending to show fraud or bad faith towards his creditors. In re Smith (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 832, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 140. And see In re H. L. Evans & Co. (D. C. 1907) 158 Fed. 153, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 752, where the court allowed as exempt, under the statutory description of "wearing apparel," a gold watch and chain, and rings and scarf pins set with diamonds, sapphires, rubies, and pearls, aggregating over $400 in value.

The term "wearing apparel" may also include the uniform or regalia of a fraternal order to which the bankrupt belongs, although he does not wear it as an ordinary and usual dress, but only on special occasions. In re Jones (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 773, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 259. But compare In re Everleth (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 620, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 236.

9. —— Tools and implements of trade. —Within the meaning of a statute exempting the tools or implements of a mechanic or artisan necessary to the carrying on of his trade, a baker is a mechanic. In re Osborn (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 780, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 111; In re Petersen (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 417, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 630. And so is an undertaker and embalmer. Steiner v. Marshall (1905) 140 Fed. 710, 72 C. C. A. 103, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 486. A farmer may claim as exempt a mechanical cream separator. In re Hemstreet (D. C. 1903) 139 Fed. 958, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 823. A professional guide in the Maine woods is entitled to the exemption of a canoe as a tool of his trade, but not his rifle. In re Mullen (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 206, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 275. A horse and wagon may be so strictly necessary to the conduct of the bankrupt's business as to be exempt under the designation of implements of his trade. In re Conley (D. C. 1907) 162 Fed. 806, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 200; In re Hindman (1900) 104 Fed. 331, 43 C. C. A. 558, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 20. But where the statute exempts "two horses kept and used for team work," a bankrupt is not entitled to claim as exempt a horse kept and used only as a racer. In re Libby (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 776, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 615.

Where the bankrupt is a "polyartist," or pursues several different mechanical trades at the same time, he is not required to limit his claim for exemption of tools and implements to those appropriate for the pursuit of any one of his trades, but may select those suitable for all his trades, provided he does not exceed the total amount of the exemption in value. In re Robinson (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 176, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 686.

10. —— Growing crops. — As to whether unmatured crops growing on a homestead claimable by the bankrupt under the law of the state constitute a part of it and so belong to the bankrupt, or are not included in it and therefore vest in the trustee, the question depends entirely on the terms of the state statute, which will be applied in the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Sullivan (1906) 148 Fed. 815, 78 C. C. A. 505, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 578; In re T. C. Burnett & Co. (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 162, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 872; In re Friedrich (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 193, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 656; In re Daubner (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 805, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 368; In re Coffman (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 422, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 530; In re Hoag (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 543, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 290; In re Hussey (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 6,945.

Shannon's Code Tenn. § 4764, held not to render a bankrupt's interest in a growing crop exempt property, so that he was entitled to have it set off to him as exempt under the state laws. In re T. C. Burnett & Co. (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 162.

Crops growing upon a homestead on the public lands of the United States, at the time when the homestead entryman becomes bankrupt, do not pass to the trustee in bankruptcy, but are exempt. In re Miller (D. C. 1915) 221 Fed. 690.

11. Policies of life insurance.—A policy of insurance on the life of a bankrupt, which is exempt from liability for the bankrupt's debts under the state law, is also exempt under the bankruptcy act, and the bankrupt is not obliged to pay or secure its surrender value in order to retain it as his own. Holden v. Stratton (1905) 198 U. S. 202, 25 Sup. Ct. 656, 49 L. Ed. 1018, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 94; In re Johnson (D. C. 1910) 176 Fed. 591, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 277; In re Holden (1902) 114 Fed. 650, 52 C. C. A. 346; Steele v. Buel (1900) 104 Fed. 968, 44 C. C. A. 287, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165; Pulsifer v. Hussey (1903) 97 Me. 434, 54 Atl. 1076; Dreyfus v. Barton (1911) 98 Miss. 758, 54 South. 254; Chandler v. Traub (1909) 159 Ala. 519, 49 South. 240; In re Sawyer (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 12,393; Young v. Thomason (Ala. 1912) 60 South. 272. CONTRA, In re Scheld (1900) 104 Fed. 870, 44 C. C. A. 233, 52 L. R. A. 188, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 102; In re Lange (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 361, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 189; In re Steele (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 78, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 549.

Gen. St. Kan. 1901, § 3463, held to exempt the proceeds of a policy on the life of a debtor from liability for debts, and hence the surrender value of the policy was not a part of the insured's estate in bankruptcy. In re Morse (D. C. 1912) 206 Fed. 350.

Where the state law provides that a policy of insurance expressed to be for the benefit of or payable to the wife of the assured shall inure to her benefit as against the claims of his creditors, a policy on the life of a bankrupt but payable to his wife is exempt in the bankruptcy proceedings and does not vest in his trustee. In re Whelpley (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 1019, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 433; In re Carlon (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 815, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 18; Allen v. Central Wisconsin Trust Co. (1910) 143 Wis. 381, 127 N. W. 1003, 139 Am. St. Rep. 1107. See In re Morse (D. C. 1912) 206 Fed. 350.

Where a life policy was payable to insured's wife in case he died prior to the end of 20 years, and if he survived that period he was entitled to certain specified benefits, he was without right on his becoming a bankrupt within the period to deprive his wife of the life insurance provision or to obtain any benefits of the policy to which she did not expressly assent. A wife's interest as beneficiary under a policy insuring the life of her husband is exempt both under the general law and under St. Wis. 1898, § 2347. In re Churchill (1913) 209 Fed. 766, 126 C. C. A. 490, reversing order (D. C. 1912) 198 Fed. 711.

But though the law may provide that insurance effected by a husband on his own life shall inure to the benefit of his widow free from the claims of his creditors, this does not exempt in favor of the husband, during his lifetime, insurance payable either to himself or to his estate. In re Moore (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 679, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 109. Exemption cannot be claimed in respect to a policy which is made payable to the assured at the end of twenty years if living, and in case of his prior death to his wife if living, and otherwise to his legal representatives or assigns. In re Loveland (D. C. 1912) 192 Fed. 1005, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 765; In re Churchill (D. C. 1912) 198 Fed. 711, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 153. CONTRA, In re Booss (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 494, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 658.

Under St. Mass. 1907, c. 576, § 73, and this section, insured in an endowment policy may, before his adjudication as a bankrupt, assign the policy to his wife, subject to his right to surrender it, and the wife remains the owner, unless he or his trustee in bankruptcy exercises the power to surrender. Where insured in an endowment policy assigned it to his wife, reserving the right to surrender it, and then became a bankrupt, and died before the power to surrender was exercised, the wife's right to the proceeds was absolute, notwithstanding Bankr. Act, § 70a (post, § 9654). Eldredge v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York (1914) 105 N. E. 361, 217 Mass. 444.

Where a policy is made payable on the death of the insured to his wife by name, it is one expressed to be for her benefit, within the meaning of the statute, notwithstanding the fact that by its terms, as in most modern policies, the insured is given the right to change the beneficiary or to enjoy certain collateral rights in his lifetime in the way of obtaining loans thereon or its surrender value, and such a policy, which was so payable at the time of the bankruptcy of the insured, whether it be regarded as the property of the wife, or as exempt property of the husband, does not pass to his trustee and the latter cannot recover the same, even though the right of the wife may be subsequently extinguished, or though she does not set up any claim thereto. In re Orear (1911) 189 Fed. 888, 111 C. C. A. 150, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 521.

12. Homestead exemption. — Where the law of the state in which the bankruptcy proceeding is pending allows a homestead exemption to the debtor, the same exemption may be claimed and set apart to him in the bankruptcy proceeding; and all questions in regard to the acquisition of the homestead, the steps necessary to make it effective, its measure and duration, the kinds of debts enforceable against it, and its retention or abandonment, will be determined in accordance with the laws of the state, the court of bankruptcy following the decisions of its highest courts where they are applicable. Grattan v. Trego (C. C. A. 1915) 225 Fed. 705; In re Burnham (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 762; In re Rippa (D. C. 1909) 180 Fed. 603; In re Marquette (1900) 103 Fed. 777, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 623; In re Baker (C. C. A. 1910) 182 Fed.

392, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 411; In re Stone (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 35, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 416; In re Reinhart (D. C. 1902) 129 Fed. 510, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 78; In re Buelow (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 86, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 389; In re Dawley (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 795, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 496; In re Harrington (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 390, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 639; In re Pope (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 722, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 525; In re Pratt (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 11,-370; Daughters v. Christy (1906) 223 Ill. 612, 79 N. E. 292; Rushin v. Gause (1870) 41 Ga. 180; Murray v. Hazell (1888) 99 N. C. 168, 5 S. E. 428; Martin v. Lile (1879) 63 Ala. 406. Compare Darling v. Berry (C. C. 1882) 13 Fed. 659.

Where the right of a bankrupt to a homestead exemption has been adjudicated by a state court in proceedings under a general assignment made in accordance with a state law, after a contest by creditors, and before the court of bankruptcy acquired jurisdiction by the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, such adjudication cannot be reviewed or set aside in the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Rhodes (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 117, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 173.

Since the rights of the parties are fixed at the date of the adjudication in bankruptcy, if no homestead was allowed by the law of the state at that time, none can be set apart to the bankrupt afterwards. In re Kerr (D. C. 1873) 9 N. B. R. 566, Fed. Cas. No. 7,729. See In re Vogler (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 16,986; In re Smith (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 12,996. But a homestead claim will not be denied in the bankruptcy proceeding, though the claim originally filed with the county recorder under the state law was defective, and an amended claim was filed after the filing of the bankrupt's schedules. In re Irving (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 969.

The statute of the state provided that to entitle any person to the benefit of a homestead exemption, he should cause the word "homestead" to be entered in the margin of his record title to the same, the entry to be signed and attested by the clerk and recorder of the county. Held, that where the alleged homestead of a bankrupt had not been so designated on the record when the petition in bankruptcy was filed, at the time of the adjudication, or when the trustee was appointed, the premises were not exempt under the state law and could not be made so under the bankruptcy law. In re Youngstrom (1907) 153 Fed. 98, 82 C. C. A. 232, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 572.

If the bankrupt has merely expressed an intention to claim as a homestead a certain tract of land belonging to him, but has taken no steps to make the intention effective, he cannot have the land set apart to him as exempt under the bankruptcy law. In re Duerson (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 183, Fed. Cas. No. 4,117.

Under Const. Kan. art. 15, § 9, and Gen. St. Kan. 1909, § 3646, no specified time is necessary for the occupancy of a farm by owner's family to entitle him to exemption therein on bankruptcy. Grattan v. Trego (C. C. A. 1915) 225 Fed. 705.

Where a bankrupt claims property as a homestead, and proceedings are taken before the referee to subject it to the payment of a prior debt, the bankrupt should be allowed an opportunity to set up the statute of limitations against such debt. In re Bean (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 262, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 53.

The trustee in bankruptcy should include the homestead in his report of exempt property. In re Sinnett (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 12,907.

Where the state statute grants a homestead only to one who is a "householder" or the "head of a family," the bankrupt must show that he answers this description. See Richardson v. Woodward (1900) 104 Fed. 873, 44 C. C. A. 235, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 94; In re Morrison (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 734, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 488; In re Mussey (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 1007, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 91; In re Eash (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 996, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 738.

A bankrupt cannot claim a homestead, under a statute allowing such exemptions to a "householder having a family," by virtue of a marriage contracted after his adjudication. In re Rainwater (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 738, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 419. A wife cannot have a homestead on the land of her bankrupt husband, as against the trustee, nor against those claiming title thereto under a sale made by the trustee. Lumpkin v. Eason (1871) 44 Ga. 339.

Under Gen. Code Ohio, §§ 11730, 11733, 11735, 11738, wife, who filed petition in bankruptcy while family was still occupying homestead, but after improper allowance to the bankrupt husbank in lieu of a homestead, held not entitled to a homestead exemption. In re Crum (D. C. 1913) 221 Fed. 729.

Whether a divorced person comes within the description of those entitled to claim a homestead under the law of the state will be decided according to the laws and judicial decisions of the state. See In re Le Claire (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 654, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 733; In re Pope (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 722, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 525; In re Giles (1908) 158 Fed. 596, 85 C. C. A. 418, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 306; In re Rhodes (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 117, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 173.

It is necessary that the debtor should own the property claimed as a homestead, at the time of the adjudication in bankruptcy, and have a present legal right to the occupancy of it. In re Sale (1906) 143 Fed. 310, 74 C. C. A. 448, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 235. A claim of homestead cannot be set up in respect to given property where he has divested himself of the title to it, in any way or for any purpose, before the bankruptcy proceedings. Hill v. Oxendine (1878) 79 N. C. 331; In re Everitt (D. C. 1873) 9 N. B. R. 90, Fed. Cas. No. 4,579. One who, about two months before filing a petition in bankruptcy, divested himself of title to realty, to protect it against the children of his first marriage in the interest of children of the present marriage, cannot claim the property as his homestead. Kinder v. Trotti (1912) 130 La. 360, 57 South. 1005. But this rule does not apply where the bankrupt has merely contracted to sell the property without parting with the title. In re Carmichael (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 789, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 551. Or where he has leased the property to a third person, provided he has not abandoned it as a home, but has always intended to resume his occupancy of it. In re Pope (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 722, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 525.

Under Const. Kan. art. 15, § 9, and Gen. St. Kan. 1909, § 3646, bankrupt owner of fee in remainder in farm, being tenant from year to year of owner of life estate, held not precluded from the exemption, because life tenant had present right of occupancy. Grattan v. Trego (C. C. A. 1915) 225 Fed. 705.

Where the state law requires that the premises claimed as a homestead shall be actually occupied by the debtor and his family as their residence, this point may be contested in the bankruptcy proceedings, and the bankrupt's claim of exemption determined in accordance with its solution. In re Malloy (1911) 188 Fed. 788, 110 C. C. A. 494, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 31; Cowan v. Burchfield (D. C. 1910) 180 Fed. 614, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 293; In re Irvin (1903) 120 Fed. 733, 57 C. C. A. 147, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 689; In re Dawley (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 795, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 496; In re Downing (D. C. 1905) 148 Fed. 120, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 423; Martin v. Lile (1879) 63 Ala. 406.

A bankrupt who resides in a city cannot claim a homestead in a tract of rural land on which he has not actually lived for several years. In re Buelow (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 86, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 389.

A debtor may change his homestead by removing from one residence and taking up another, and may claim the new homestead as against his trustee in bankruptcy, though the change was made within the four months preceding his bankruptcy, if done in good faith and without fraud. Huenergardt v. J. S. Brittain Dry Goods Co. (1902) 116 Fed. 31, 53 C. C. A. 505, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 341; In re Carlon (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 815, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 18; In re Carmichael (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 789, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 551; In re Johnson (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 312, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 257.

If the debtor abandons his homestead without taking up a new one, the right to claim it as exempt in bankruptcy is lost, and whether this has been done is a question determinable in each case by reference to the particular circumstances. In re Mayer (1901) 108 Fed. 599, 47 C. C. A. 512, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 117; In re Thompson (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 257, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 283; In re Harrington (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 390, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 639; In re Schulz (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 228, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 317; In re O'Brien (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 1012, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 151.

A homestead right will be protected for the benefit of the debtor's family, as against his trustee in bankruptcy, if they continue to reside on the premises, notwithstanding that the bankrupt has absconded. In re Pratt (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 11,370; In re Luby (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 659, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 801. In the absence of a local rule on the subject, the bankrupt's right to claim a homestead exemption in given property is not defeated by the fact that he moved his family into the premises after he became insolvent and in contemplation of bankruptcy. In re Stone (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 35, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 416. Or even that he bought the property claimed as a homestead with funds or assets which would not be exempt in bankruptcy and when he was insolvent. In re Letson (1907) 157 Fed. 78, 84 C. C. A. 582, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 506; In re Wood (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 877, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 93; Rushin v. Gause (1870) 41 Ga. 180. Compare McGahan v. Anderson (1902) 113 Fed. 115, 51 C. C. A. 92, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 641.

If the state law prescribes any particular manner of claiming or designating the homestead claimed, it must be at least substantially complied with in the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Tobias (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 68, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555.

If the law of the state permits, a homestead may be claimed and allowed, in bankruptcy proceedings, out of a stock of merchandise. In re Tobias (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 68, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555. Compare Laderburg v. Miller (C. C. A. 1913) 210 Fed. 614.

Where the state law grants a homestead of a certain value, "to be valued at the time it is set apart," improvements or accretions made by the owner after the homestead is set apart become a part of it, and are not subject to the claims of creditors in bankruptcy, though they may so enhance the value of the property as to make it worth much more than it was originally. In re Wardlaw (D. C. 1912) 192 Fed. 449.

A bankrupt held entitled, under Code Iowa 1897, § 2972 et seq., to exemption as a homestead of an entire building, one room of which was rented for business purposes. In re Coles (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 170.

A bankrupt owning property used for hotel purposes, on which he and his family resided as a homestead, held entitled to have $2,000 of the value thereof exempt to him as homestead, under Rem. & Bal. Code Wash. § 552. In re Robison (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed. 662.

Under Act Okl. March 15, 1905 (Sess. Laws 1905, c. 18, § 1), and Const. Okl. art. 12, § 1, a bankrupt held entitled to claim a country homestead, not greater than 160 acres in area, as exempt, without reference to its value. Patten v. Sturgeon (1914) 214 Fed. 65, 130 C. C. A. 505.

A court of bankruptcy has no jurisdiction to allot to a bankrupt, domiciled within its district, a homestead in lands situated in another district or state. In re Owings (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 739, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 472.

If the state law gives a homestead in real property, but not to exceed a certain designated value, and the trustee finds that the property occupied and claimed by the bankrupt as a homestead is worth more in the market than the specified sum, he will not be entitled to take possession of the premises. In re Nye (1904) 133 Fed. 33, 66 C. C. A. 139, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 142. But he may call upon the bankrupt to pay the excess value of the property over the limit of exemption, and if this is done, the bankrupt may retain the land. In re Manning (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 180, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 498. See Hatfield v. Cline (1911) 143 Ky. 565, 137 S. W. 212. But if it is refused, and the property is not susceptible of division for the purposes of a sale without a loss, the trustee should apply to the court for an order for its sale, the bankrupt being then entitled to receive out of the proceeds a sum equal to the statutory amount of the homestead exemption. In re Nye (1904) 133 Fed. 33, 66 C. C. A. 139, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 142; In re Oderkirk (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 779, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 617.

Under Gen. Code Ohio, §§ 11730, 11733, 11735, 11738, if sale of homestead yields more than $500 above liens, bankrupt held not entitled to allowance from personal property in lieu of homestead. In re Crum (D. C. 1913) 221 Fed. 729.

The value of personal property exemptions allowed to a bankrupt cannot be set off against a homestead exemption to which he is entitled for the purpose of diminishing the latter. In re Strauch (D. C. 1913) 208 Fed. 842.

Where the state law provides that the homestead shall continue exempt from the payment of any debt, after the death of the owner and during the widowhood of his wife and the majority of any of his children, the reversionary interest or title in land set apart to a bankrupt as his homestead, to accrue upon the termination of the homestead estate, is assets of his estate in bankruptcy vesting in the trustee. In re Woodard (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 260, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 339; Williams v. Scott (1898) 122 N. C. 545, 29 S. E. 877. CONTRA, In re Wardlaw (D. C. 1912) 192 Fed. 449; McAllister v. Bodkin (1882) 76 Va. 809.

13. Title to exempt property.—Property which the bankrupt is entitled to claim as exempt does not pass to or vest in his trustee, but the title thereto remains in the bankrupt and is not affected by the bankruptcy proceedings. Lockwood v. Exchange Bank (1903) 190 U. S. 294, 23 Sup. Ct. 751, 47 L. Ed. 1061, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 107; Ingram v. Wilson (1903) 125 Fed. 913, 60 C. C. A. 618, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 192; In re Nye (1904) 133 Fed. 33, 66 C. C. A. 139, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 142; Bank of Nez Perce v. Pindel (C. C. A. 1912) 193 Fed. 917, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 69; In re Cale (1911) 191 Fed. 31, 111 C. C. A. 89, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 938; In re Orear (1911) 189 Fed. 888, 111 C. C. A. 150, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 521; In re Bass (C. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 453, Fed. Cas. No. 1,091; In re Hester (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 285, Fed. Cas. No. 6,437; In re Griffin (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 254, Fed. Cas. No. 5,813; McKenney v. Cheney (1903) 118 Ga. 387, 45 S. E. 433; Bush v. Lester (1876) 55 Ga. 579, 15 N. B. R. 36; Felker v. Crane (1883) 70 Ga. 484; Morgenstein v. Commercial Nat. Bank (1906) 125 Ill. App. 397; Fellows v. Dow (1876) 58 N. H. 21; Pollard v. Noyes (1880) 60 N. H. 184; Finnin v. Malloy (1871) 1 Jones & S. (N. Y.) 382; Wilkinson v. Wait (1872) 44 Vt. 508, 8 Am. Rep. 391; Robinson v. Wilson (1875) 15 Kan. 595, 22 Am. Rep. 272. 14 N. B. R. 565; Walker v. Carroll (1880) 65 Ala. 61; Morris v. Covey (Ark. 1912) 148 S. W. 257. Notes taken by a bankrupt after adjudication, for the future rental of land which is exempt, do not constitute assets of his estate in bankruptcy. In re Oleson (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 796, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 22.

The trustee in bankruptcy has no authority to make deductions from the exemptions allowed the bankrupt by the state law. In re Humphreys (D. C. 1915) 221 Fed. 997.

The bankrupt may maintain an action of replevin for the recovery of exempt property in specie, or trespass for wrongs done in respect to it, independently of the trustee in bankruptcy. Winn v. Morse (1879) 59 N. H. 210; Henly v. Lanier (1876) 75 N. C. 72; Scott v. Wilkie (1871) 65 N. C. 376; Seiling v. Gunderman (1872) 35 Tex. 545.

Where a husband in fraud of his creditors conveyed exempt property to his wife, his trustee in bankruptcy cannot reach the property. Jackson v. Jetter (Iowa, 1913) 142 N. W. 431.

If the bankrupt transfers his exempt property to one creditor with intent to give him an advantage over others, it is not a "preference" within the meaning of the bankruptcy act nor a fraud upon the statute. In re Scott (D. C. 1880) 11 Fed. 133; Schlitz v. Schatz (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 12,459; Anderson v. Brown (1884) 72 Ga. 713; Jackson v. Jetter (Iowa, 1913) 142 N. W. 431. But it is held that, in Pennsylvania, according to the law of that state, a bankrupt's exemption is personal to himself and not assignable, and hence an assignment of his exempt property will operate as an abandonment of his right to it. In re Sloan (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 873, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 435.

A trustee cannot maintain a bill to set aside a prior mortgage on the bankrupt's homestead, otherwise valid, as giving a preference contrary to the act, nor to restrain the foreclosure of such mortgage in the state courts. Rix v. Capitol Bank (C. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 11,869.

The trustee in bankruptcy, though without title to the exempt property of the bankrupt, has the temporary dominion and control over it, until it can be selected and set apart to the bankrupt. In re Grimes (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 529; In re Seabolt (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 766, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 57; Pincus v. S. H. Meinhard & Bro. (1913) 139 Ga. 365, 77 S. E. 82; Sheldon v. Rounds (1879) 40 Mich. 425.

14. Forfeiture of exemptions. — A bankrupt cannot claim any exemption in property which, prior to the commencement of the proceedings in bankruptcy, he had conveyed away in fraud of his creditors, or transferred to a particular creditor by way of preference, and which is afterwards recovered for the estate. In re Wishnefsky (D. C. 1910) 181 Fed. 896, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 798; In re Yost (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 792, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 153; In re Coddington (D. C. 1904) 126 Fed. 891, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 122; In re Long (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 113, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 591; In re Evans (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 909, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 730; In re White (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 635, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 451; In re Tollett (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 425, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 305; In re Graham (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 5,660; Gibbs v. Logan (1883) 22 W. Va. 208. And see In re Denson (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 857, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 162; Kinder v. Trotti (1912) 130 La. 360, 57 South. 1005. CONTRA, In re Harrell (D. C. 1915) 222 Fed. 160; In re Cotton & Preston (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 190, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 532; In re Soper (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 116, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 868; In re Thompson (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 257, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 283; In re Falconer (1901) 110 Fed. 111, 49 C. C. A. 50, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 557; In re Park (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 602, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 432; In re Noee (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 789; Bartholomew v. West (C. C. 1872) 8 N. B. R. 12, Fed. Cas. No. 1,071; McFarland v. Goodman (C. C. 1874) 11 N. B. R. 134, Fed. Cas. No. 8,789; In re Detert (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 293, Fed. Cas. No. 3,829; Smith v. Kehr (C. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 97, Fed. Cas. No. 13,071; Fisher v. Henderson (D. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 175, Fed. Cas. No. 4,820; Penny v. Taylor (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 200, Fed. Cas. No. 10,957; In re Peterson, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 215; Hatcher v. Crew (1887) 83 Va. 371, 5 S. E. 221; Vogler v. Montgomery (1874) 54 Mo. 577. And see In re Denson (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 857, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 162.

The court of bankruptcy will not uphold a bankrupt's claim of homestead exemption, where that would merely enable him to prefer one of several creditors for whose benefit he had waived the exemption. In re Anderson (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 790.

The allegations of fraud relied on to defeat the bankrupt's claim to exemptions must be specific, and the evidence complete and convincing. In re Tobias (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 68, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555. A bankrupt cannot be charged with a fraudulent disposition of his property, where he has sold it for a fair consideration and with an honest motive, though it has the effect of leaving nothing for creditors. In re Duffy (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 926, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 358. Nor merely because he has sold goods from his stock without keeping track of all such sales and the proceeds thereof. In re McUlta (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 250, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 480. There is no actual fraud in a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, and the bankrupt may claim his exemptions out of property so assigned after it has been surrendered to the trustee or recovered by him. Bashinski v. Talbott (1902) 119 Fed. 337, 56 C. C. A. 241, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 513; In re Talbott (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 417, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 427. Where the local law expressly forbids the claim of a homestead exemption in any property the conveyance of which by the claimant has been set aside on the ground of fraud or a want of consideration, where there has been a conveyance by the head of a family, a reconveyance and claim of homestead in the property, before the rendition of any decree setting aside the conveyance as fraudulent, makes the claim a valid one, although a creditor's suit to set aside the conveyance for fraud was instituted before the reconveyance and was then pending. In re W. C. Allen & Co. (D. C. 1904) 134 Fed. 620, 13

Am. Bankr. Rep. 518; In re Tollett (1901) 106 Fed. 866, 46 C. C. A. 11, 54 L. R. A. 222, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 404.

Where a debtor who is insolvent and contemplates bankruptcy makes an exchange of property, giving articles which would not be exempt for specific property which is exempt under the laws of the state, the transaction will be held void, and the trustee will take title to the property so attempted to be alienated. In re Parker (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 10,724; Pratt v. Burr (C. C. 1857) Fed. Cas. No. 11,372. And so also where the debtor, under similar conditions as to insolvency and approaching bankruptcy, converts property into cash and invests it in a homestead. In re Gerber (1911) 186 Fed. 693, 108 C. C. A. 511, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 608. So where a partner takes notes belonging to the firm, and with these purchases a homestead, immediately before the bankruptcy of the firm and with knowledge of its insolvent condition, he will not be entitled to retain the homestead as exempt. In re Boothroyd (D. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 223, Fed. Cas. No. 1,652.

Where the exemption law of the state provides that a debtor shall forfeit his right to the exemption ordinarily allowed if he is guilty of willful fraud in concealing from his creditors any part of the property of which he is possessed at the time he seeks the benefit of the exemption, a bankrupt who does not make a full and fair disclosure of all the property owned by him at the time of filing his petition in bankruptcy, is not entitled to have any exemption set apart to him by the trustee. In re Rice (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 589, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 202; In re Dobbs (D. C. 1909) 172 Fed. 682, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 801; In re Schafer (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 505, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 361; In re Alex (D. C. 1905) 141 Fed. 483, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 450; In re Cochran (D. C. 1911) 185 Fed. 913, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 459; In re Leverton (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 925, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 426; In re Sussman (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 331, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 909; In re Boorstin (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 696, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 89; In re Stephens (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 192, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 53; In re Williamson (D. C. 1901) 114 Fed. 190, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 42; In re West (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 767, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 564; In re Waxelbaum (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 228, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 120; In re Morris (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 260; In re Magota (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 456. And see In re Woollcott (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 460, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 386; In re Simon & Sternberg (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 507, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 204. Where the amount of assets which the bankrupt has concealed cannot be ascertained, the trustee should not allow his personal property exemption until all of the personal property has been accounted for. In re Ansley Bros. (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 983, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 457. It is only for gross fraud on the part of the bankrupt that a claim for exemptions should be denied. In re Irwin (D. C. 1909) 177 Fed. 284, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165.

The provision of Code Ga. § 2830, that "it shall be the duty of each and every person who claims the benefit of the exemption allowed in this article to act in perfect good faith," and that the exemption shall not be allowed to a claimant who is guilty of fraud, has reference to the $1,600 homestead exemption, and not to the $300 exemption. In re West (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 767, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 564. And the good faith required of a debtor by this statute consists in making a full and fair disclosure of his property, and a court of bankruptcy would not be justified in denying his exemption because of his fraud in other respects. In re Castleberry (D. C. 1905) 143 Fed. 1018, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 159. The fact that the bankrupt has squandered money in gambling and other wasteful practices does not establish such fraud as will deprive him of his exemptions. In re Berman (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 383, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 139. Nor can he be denied the right to his homestead exemption because he once conveyed the land claimed to his wife in a vain attempt to evade a debt, where it was reconveyed prior to the bankruptcy proceedings and was scheduled by him as his property. In re Thompson (D. C. 1902) 115 Fed. 924, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 283.

Where, under the law of the bankrupt's domicile, fraud does not deprive a debtor of his exemptions, the making of a false financial statement to mercantile agencies by the bankrupt does not prevent him from claiming and holding his exemptions. In re Ziff (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 323.

A bankrupt who made a grossly false statement of his financial condition to a mercantile agency held not entitled to exemption from property not paid for, and which was presumably obtained on credit by reason of such statement. In re Peacock (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 191.

A bankrupt who is a fugitive from justice, and who has failed to account to his trustee for a large amount of property in his hands, has no right, after years of acquiescence, to claim an exemption out of cash in the hands of the trustee, the proceeds of property sold by him. In re Moyer (D. C. 1883) 15 Fed. 598. And a bankrupt who has made way with the greater part of his assets and gotten them out of the jurisdiction, cannot ask to have an exemption set apart to him out of such property as is in the court's possession. In re Taylor (D. C. 1901) 114 Fed. 607, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 410.

Under Code Ga. 1910, § 3380, a bankrupt who conceals personal property, omitting it from his schedule, is not entitled to the exemption provided by the statute. In re Anderson (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 790.

Since, under the laws of Pennsylvania, a debtor's exemption is a personal privilege, which he may waive or lose, failure of a Pennsylvania bankrupt to surrender all his property to his trustee deprived him of the right to exemptions out of that which he did surrender. In re Liby (D. C. 1914) 218 Fed. 90.

Since title to a bankrupt's exempt property does not vest in the trustee, except sub modo, the trustee cannot deprive the bankrupt of his exemptions because he has withheld assets. In re Elkin (D. C. 1914) 218 Fed. 971. Without denying the claim of exemptions in toto, it is proper to deduct from the sum allowed by the state law any cash which the bankrupt has converted to his own use after the filing of the petition and before the property is taken into the custody of the court. In re Ansley Bros. (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 983, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 457.

A bankrupt may lose his exemptions by abandoning his claim thereto or abandoning the premises occupied as a homestead. In re Mayer (1901) 108 Fed. 599, 47 C. C. A. 512, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 117; In re Baughman (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 668, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 167.

Where an owner of a business homestead assigned it for the benefit of creditors, and the assignee conducted the business and the owner for nearly two years, until adjudged a bankrupt, did not engage in any business in which the premises would have been useful to him, he could not claim the property as a business homestead. In re Martin (D. C. 1914) 214 Fed. 1012.

15. Abandonment and waiver of exemptions.—A bankrupt may be deemed to have abandoned or waived his right to exemptions when he fails to assert it and make claim for what the state law allows him in due and proper time, but not where the omission results from mere oversight, misunderstanding, or inattention, or in consequence of the trustee's unjustifiable demand for a bond of indemnity. In re Brown (D. C. 1899) 100 Fed. 441, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 46; In re Osborn (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 780, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 111; Harrelson v. Webb (1909) 124 La. 1007, 50 South. 833, 134 Am. St. Rep. 529; In re Eash (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 996, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 738; In re Maxson (D. C. 1909) 170 Fed. 356, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 424. And see Meyer v. Perkins (Cal. App. 1913) 130 Pac. 206.

A bankrupt is not precluded from claiming a homestead as exempt because prior to adjudication he had failed to designate the same under the state laws, if he perfects his claim thereunder within a reasonable time after claiming the homestead. Brandt v. Mayhew (1914) 218 Fed. 422, 134 C. C. A. 210. That a bankrupt fails to claim his exemption in the probate court as provided by Code Ala. 1907, § 4168, does not disentitle him to such exemptions, where his entire personal property is of less value than the exemptions. In re Ziff (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 323. Bankrupt held entitled to exemption, notwithstanding failure to claim it in deed of trust for benefit of creditors, which under the state law deprived him of such exemption. In re Gorman (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 361.

The claim of a bankrupt to exemption, being a personal right, is waived unless asserted in due time. In re Exum (1913) 209 Fed. 716; In re Webb (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 349; In re Harrington (D. C. 1912) 200 Fed. 1010.

Where the exemption to which a bankrupt is entitled under the law of the state is in specific property, the property claimed must be particularly described in his schedule, and, if not, he cannot subsequently claim an exemption out of the proceeds of property sold by his trustee. In re Exum (D. C. 1913) 209 Fed. 716.

Bankrupt's right to an exemption in lieu of homestead, conferred by Gen. Code Ohio, § 11,738, held lost by his failure to select the property out of which he would claim his exemption before sale of his assets by his trustee. In re Stern (D. C. 1913) 208 Fed. 488.

A bankrupt's wife, having been made a party to the bankruptcy proceedings, was bound to exercise as great diligence as the bankrupt in making any claims to homestead or other exemptions under the state law. In re Burnham (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 762.

Where a homestead, perfected and identified under the state law, has not been claimed in the bankrupt's schedules through inadvertence, the bankruptcy courts will not be strict in determining the question of diligence in claiming the homestead in bankruptcy. In re Burnham (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 762.

That a bankrupt failed to schedule a life insurance policy is not ground for disallowing his exemptions, where the omission was without fraudulent intent, but through mistake, and there was no concealment. In re Strauch (D. C. 1913) 208 Fed. 842.

That a bankrupt has failed to itemize the articles claimed by him as exempt in his claim filed in the bankrupt court does not, under Code Ala. 1907, § 4164, disentitle him to such exemptions, where his entire personal property is of less value than the exemptions. In re Ziff (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 323.

Under Civ. Code Cal. § 3440, providing that transfers of personal property, not accompanied by delivery and change of possession, shall be presumed fraudulent, except as to property exempt from execution, held, that an insolvent person, transferring property without such delivery or possession, did not waive the exemption by failure to claim it at the time of sale, or in his bankruptcy schedule. Meyer v. Perkins (Cal. App. 1913) 130 P. 206, rehearing denied by Supreme Court Id. 208.

Where the law of the state permits a debtor to waive the benefit of the exemption law with respect to any particular debt, such a waiver will be recognized in the bankruptcy proceedings, and will affect particular property in the hands of the trustee before setting it apart to the bankrupt, or in the hands of the latter after allotment. In re Hoover (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 136, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 330; Sharp v. Woolslare (1904) 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 251; First Nat. Bank v. Bartlett (1908) 35 Pa. Super. Ct. 593; In re Pfeiffer (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 892, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 230; Citizens' Bank v. Hargraves (C. C. A. 1908) 164 Fed. 613, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 323; Jackson v. Edwards (1911) 136 Ga. 888, 72 S. E. 341; In re Harber (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 449. But see In re Garner (D. C. 1902) 115 Fed. 200, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 263. Under a statute which, in case of a sale in bulk of a stock of merchandise, makes the purchaser responsible for the application of the purchase price on the seller's debts, the seller by making such sale must be deemed to have assented to such application, and on his adjudication as a bankrupt he cannot claim his statutory exemptions out of the money due from the purchaser. In re Connor (D. C. 1906) 146 Fed. 998, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 784.

A mortgage on the bankrupt's homestead will be respected and enforced in the bankruptcy proceedings, if otherwise valid, and the mortgagee will be required to exhaust the mortgage security before coming upon the general estate of the bankrupt. In re Sauthoff (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 12,379.

A discharge in bankruptcy does not release the lien of a judgment obtained within four months prior to the adjudication upon a note waiving the homestead exemption allowed by the state law. McKenney v. Cheney (1903) 118 Ga. 387, 45 S. E. 433; Smith v. Zachry (1904) 121 Ga. 467, 49 S. E. 286.

A bankrupt, who wrote his creditors after a fire, promising to pay to them the insurance money when collected held to them created an equitable lien on the fund, and not entitled to hold as a homestead property bought with the money. Parlin & Orendorff Implement Co. v. Moulden (C. C. A. 1915) 228 Fed. 111.

General assignment of all of a bankrupt's property, including property on which he and his wife lived, for the benefit of all of their creditors, held not to preclude him from claiming the property on which they lived as an exempt homestead. Brandt v. Mayhew (C. C. A. 1914) 218 Fed. 422, 134 C. C. A. 210.

Where, though bankrupt in purchasing jewelry signed memorandum in the form of a conditional bill of sale, the seller did not rely thereon, but relied on the bankrupt's employment and the possibility of protecting himself from the bankrupt's salary, the pawning of the jewelry held not to defeat the granting of an order enabling the bankrupt to collect his salary against which a garnishee execution was filed. In re Collins (D. C. 1914) 213 Fed. 543.

Where a creditor's attempt to collect a note containing a waiver of exemptions results in giving him an unlawful preference, which is frustrated by the proceedings in bankruptcy, the waiver will fall with the preference. In re Bolinger (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 374, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 171.

A creditor holding a judgment note against the bankrupt, but who has not reduced his note to judgment, is not entitled to take advantage of a waiver of exemptions provided in such note. In re Brown, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 230.

A waiver of the debtor's statutory exemption in favor of a particular creditor does not inure to the benefit of the trustee in bankruptcy, nor confer any special rights upon the other creditors, nor operate in their favor so as to throw the whole property, exempt and unexempt, open to the satisfaction of their claims, nor will it prevent the bankrupt from claiming any balance of the exemption which may remain after the discharge of the particular debt as to which the waiver of exemption was made. In re Nye (1904) 133 Fed. 33, 66 C. C. A. 139, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 142; Hallman v. Hallman (1889) 124 Pa. 347, 16 Atl. 871; Hall v. Fulgham (1888) 86 Tenn. 451, 7 S. W. 121; In re Poleman (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 376, Fed. Cas. No. 11,247; In re Becker (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 202.

16. —— Rights and remedies of creditors holding waivers.—The fact that the obligation evidencing the debt due to a particular creditor contains a waiver of the benefit of the exemption laws does not create any such lien on specific property as will be preserved by the bankruptcy act. In re Moran (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 901, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 472; Coffey v. Mitchell (1913) 139 Ga. 430, 77 S. E. 561. Nor does it make that creditor a "secured" creditor within the meaning of the law. First Nat. Bank v. Hollinsworth (1889) 78 Iowa, 575, 43 N. W. 536, 6 L. R. A. 92. It merely gives the creditor an individual right of recourse against the property which is or will be set apart to the bankrupt as his exemption. Scott v. Cheatham (1883) 78 Va. 82.

Before the exempt property of a bankrupt is ascertained and set apart to him, a creditor having recourse against it by virtue of a waiver will not be allowed to attach it or levy an execution on it. Byrd v. Harrold (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 433, Fed. Cas. No. 2,269; In re Sorg (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 550. See In re McKissic (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 259, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 817. Although, where he holds a mortgage waiving exemptions and coupled with a delegation of authority to him to select the exempt property, which is permitted under the law of the particular state, the mortgagee will be entitled to select and hold the property which the bankrupt might otherwise have chosen as his exemption. In re National Grocer Co. (1910) 181 Fed. 33, 104 C. C. A. 47, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 360.

Where the bankrupt's exemption is to be set apart to him, not in the form of specific articles of property, but as so much out of a fund in court realized from the sale of his assets, the court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to determine the claims of creditors holding waivers and to order their payment out of the sum which otherwise would have been turned over to the bankrupt. In re MacKissic (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 259, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 817; In re Highfield (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 924, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 92; In re Renda (D. C. 1906) 149 Fed. 614, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 521; In re Sloan (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 873, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 435. Compare In re Grimes (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 529, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 730.

When the bankrupt has no other property except such as is exempt under the state law, or when the property which he is entitled to hold as exempt has been set apart to him, or is definitely ascertained and ready for relinquishment to him, then the court of bankruptcy has no jurisdiction or authority to retain the possession or control of such property for the purpose of administering it for the benefit of creditors holding waivers, or of adjudicating and enforcing their claims against it. Lockwood v. Exchange Bank (1903) 190 U. S. 294, 23 Sup. Ct. 751, 47 L. Ed. 1061, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 107; In re Remmerde (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 822, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 701; In re Batten (D. C. 1909) 170 Fed. 688; Bell v. Dawson Grocery Co. (1904) 120 Ga. 628, 48 S. E. 150; In re Black (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 289, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 776; Woodruff v. Cheeves (1901) 105 Fed. 601, 44 C. C. A. 631, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 296; In re Moore (D. C. 1901) 112 Fed. 289, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 285; In re Swords (D. C. 1901) 112 Fed. 661, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 436; In re Hill (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 185, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 798; In re Camp (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 745, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165; In re Bass (C. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 453, Fed. Cas. No. 1,091; In re Webb (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 349.

Where no rent was due when petition in bankruptcy was filed, but under the lease it immediately became due and the lessor entered judgment, bankruptcy court held to have no jurisdiction to determine a claim of the lessor against exempt property under a waiver of exemptions in the lease, notwithstanding a sale of the property by a receiver prior to the adjudication. In re Haas (D. C. 1914) 213 Fed. 694.

To enable such creditors to obtain redress in the state courts, the court of bankruptcy may stay the proceedings in bankruptcy until their rights shall have been determined in the proper court. In re W. C. Allen & Co. (D. C. 1904) 134 Fed. 620, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 518. Or it may withhold the bankrupt's discharge until the waiver creditors have opportunity to resort to such remedies as may be granted by the state courts. Lockwood v. Exchange Bank (1903) 190 U. S. 294, 23 Sup. Ct. 751, 47 L. Ed. 1061, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 107; Bell v. Dawson Grocery Co. (1904) 120 Ga. 628, 48 S. E. 150; H. S. Meinhard & Bro. v. Pincus (C. C. A. 1912) 200 Fed. 736, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 619. And the bankruptcy court will not enjoin such a creditor from prosecuting an attachment suit in a state court against property claimed by the bankrupt as exempt, or at any rate, not longer than until the property shall have been set apart as exempt by the trustee. B. F. Roden Grocery Co. v. Bacon (1904) 133 Fed. 515, 66 C. C. A. 497, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 251.

According to the law and decisions in Georgia, the creditor holding a waiver has no remedy at law, not being allowed to sue the debtor while the proceedings in bankruptcy are pending. But he has a remedy in equity, by means of a bill praying a special decree (in the nature of a judgment in rem) against the exempt property, together with the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the property if it is perishable or in danger of being wasted, and also an injunction to forbid the debtor from demanding and receiving it from the hands of his trustee in bankruptcy. Fidelity Produce Co. v. Perdue (1910) 134 Ga. 778, 68 S. E. 503; Arnwine v. Beaver (1910) 134 Ga. 377, 67 S. E. 937; Perry v. Britt-Carson Shoe Co. (1907) 129 Ga. 560, 59 S. E. 216, 121 Am. St. Rep. 232; Bell v. Dawson Grocery Co. (1904) 120 Ga. 628, 48 S. E. 150; Hudson v. Lamar, Taylor & Riley Drug Co. (1905) 121 Ga. 835, 49 S. E. 735; Wright v. Horne (1905) 123 Ga. 86, 51 S. E. 30. And the creditor is not precluded from taking this course by the fact that he filed his claim in the court of bankruptcy and had notice of the setting apart of the exemption and did not object thereto. Jackson v. Edwards (1911) 136 Ga. 888, 72 S. E. 341.

In Pennsylvania, a judgment creditor holding a waiver may have the sheriff levy upon and sell the exempt property at any time before the final discharge of the bankrupt. First Nat. Bank v. Bartlett (1908) 35 Pa. Super. Ct. 593; Greenfield v. Golder (1910) 42 Pa. Super. Ct. 462. But he must first file his claim in the bankruptcy proceedings. Claster v. Soble (1903) 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 631.

Where a debtor has waived his right of exemption as to one of his creditors, but not as to others, the equitable principle of marshalling assets will require the creditor having a right to resort to the exempt property to exhaust his remedies against that fund before coming upon the general estate of the debtor in competition with the creditors who have no such rights against the exempt estate. Hallman v. Hallman (1889) 124 Pa. 347, 16 Atl. 871; Shelley's Appeal, 36 Pa. St. 373; In re Sauthoff (D. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 364, Fed. Cas. No. 12,379.

17. Liens on and claims against exempt property.—Proceedings in bankruptcy do not destroy existing liens on the bankrupt's exempt property. On the contrary, such liens, attaching before the commencement of the proceedings, and whether created by legal proceedings or by the act of the debtor, follow the property into the bankruptcy and are not obliterated or extinguished by the setting apart to him of such property as exempt. In re J. E. Maynard & Co. (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 823, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 732; Northern Shoe Co. v. Cecka (1912) 22 N. D. 631, 135 N. W. 177; Powers Dry Goods Co. v. Nelson (1901) 10 N. D. 580, 88 N. W. 703, 58 L. R. A. 770; Dozier v. McWhorter (1901) 113 Ga. 584, 39 S. E. 106; Currier v. King (1908) 81 Vt. 285, 69 Atl. 873; Gregory Co. v. Cale (1911) 115 Minn. 508, 133 N. W. 75, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 156; Newberry Shoe Co. v. Collier (1910) 111 Va. 288, 68 S. E. 974; Thole v. Watson (1879) 6 Mo. App. 592; Dixon v. Lawson (1880) 65 Ga. 661; Hiley v. Bridges (1878) 60 Ga. 375; Bush v. Lester (1876) 55 Ga. 579, 15 N. B. R. 36; Robinson v. Wilson (1875) 15 Kan. 595, 22 Am. Rep. 272, 14 N. B. R. 565; Bank of Mendon v. Mell (1915) 185 Mo. App. 510, 172 S. W. 484. In granting an exemption to a bankrupt, the court will order that it shall not affect or prejudice the wife's rights to alimony chargeable upon real estate claimed as a homestead. In re Garrett (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 493, Fed. Cas. No. 5,252. But a lien by attachment, garnishment, etc., which is avoided by the adjudication of the debtor as a bankrupt within four months after its creation, is none the less avoided because it concerns or attaches to exempt property. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Hall (1913) 229 U. S. 511, 33 Sup. Ct. 885, 57 L. Ed. 1306, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 619.

Under section 67f (post. § 9651), declaring liens obtained against an insolvent within four months of his adjudication in bankruptcy void, held, that a state district court had no power to condemn the wages of an insolvent in the hands of a garnishee, against his claim of exemption, within four months of the filing of his petition in bankruptcy. Southern Pac. Co. v. I. X. L. Furniture & Carpet Installment House (Utah, 1914) 140 P. 665. A judgment on three notes, one usurious, and all waiving homestead, the waiver being invalid in the usurious note, held enforceable against property set aside as exempt in bankruptcy for the amount of the two notes. Floyd v. Johnson (1914) 83 S. E. 943, 142 Ga. 833.

Real property was not exempt from lien of a judgment by adoption of Const. Ga. 1868, with provisions as to homestead exemptions, nor by Act March 3, 1873, amendatory of Bankr. Act March 2, 1867, preserving exemptions under state laws. Kener v. La Grange Mills (1913) 34 Sup. Ct. 83, 231 U. S. 215, 58 L. Ed. 189, affirming judgment Keener v. Same (1911) 70 S. E. 245, 135 Ga. 730.

Liens lawfully attaching to exempt property of a bankrupt are not extinguished by his discharge in bankruptcy. Long v. Bullard (1886) 117 U. S. 617, 6 Sup. Ct. 917, 29 L. Ed. 1004; In re Weaver (D. C. 1904) 144 Fed. 229, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 265; Fowler v. Wood (1887) 26 S. C. 169, 1 S. E. 597; F. Mayer Boot & Shoe Co. v. Ferguson (1910) 19 N. D. 496, 126 N. W. 110. Compare Groves v. Osburn (1905) 46 Or. 173, 79 Pac. 500.

The mortgaging of exempt property to a creditor is not against public policy, and a mortgage of such property, good against the debtor under the laws of the state, will be good as against his trustee in bankruptcy. In re National Grocer Co. (1910) 181 Fed. 33, 104 C. C. A. 47, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 360. It is no defense to an action to foreclose a mortgage that the mortgaged premises were allotted to the mortgagor as a homestead by proceedings in the court of bankruptcy. Brady v. Brady (1883) 71 Ga. 71; Brown v. Hoover (1877) 77 N. C. 40. But if a mortgage covers an aggregate of property, only a part of which is exempt from execution, and its lien is avoided by the subsequent institution of proceedings in bankruptcy, and the bankrupt waives his right of exemption, the lien is divested as to all the property, for the mortgagee cannot claim for the debtor a benefit which he waives for himself. In re Schuller (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 591, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 278. And see In re Tune (D. C. 1902) 115 Fed. 906, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 285. And one taking a mortgage on a parcel of land claimed as a homestead, after a decree declaring that it is not exempt as such, may be summarily ordered to release his security, and without the formality of a plenary proceeding at law or in equity. In re Boothroyd (D. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 368, Fed. Cas. No. 1,653.

The fact that homestead or other exempt property has been mortgaged to certain creditors does not make it assets to be administered in bankruptcy. In re Bailey (D. C. 1910) 176 Fed. 990, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 201. In re Sinnett (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 12,907. And a court of bankruptcy has no authority to allot the bankrupt's exemption in specie, or order the payment of the amount of his exemption in money, to a mortgagee or to any one but the bankrupt himself. In re Blanchard & Howard (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 797, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 422; In re Paramore & Ricks (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 211, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 130. But the court may, in a proper case, adjudicate the question whether or not a legal or equitable lien claimed by a creditor upon exempt property is valid. In re Lucius (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 455, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 653; Smalley v. Laugenour (1902) 30 Wash. 307, 70 Pac. 786. Compare In re Little (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 621, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 681.

Where it is necessary to send the creditor to the state court for relief, the court of bankruptcy may so far aid him as to withhold the granting of a discharge to the bankrupt until the creditor shall have been afforded a reasonable opportunity to test his rights. In re Brumbaugh (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 971, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 204. Or direct the trustee in bankruptcy to hold the fund out of which the exemption is claimed until proceedings to determine the right thereto can be instituted in a court of competent jurisdiction. In re Castleberry (D. C. 1905) 143 Fed. 1018, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 159.

Where no materialman's lien was secured for materials used by a debtor in repair of his homestead, but, judgment having been recovered thereon, the debtor duly scheduled the same as a part of his indebtedness in bankruptcy, he was entitled to a stay of execution on the judgment until one year after adjudication, notwithstanding Const. Minn. art. 1, § 12, provides that a homestead shall not be exempt from liability for such debts. In re Hassler (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 139.

The court of bankruptcy has no authority to hold in custody the exempt property of a bankrupt to await the determination of an action in tort against him in a state court, since his discharge would not be a bar to a recovery therein. In re Hartsell & Son (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 30, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 177. Neither will it entertain the bankrupt's petition for an injunction to restrain a creditor from selling the exempt property on an execution issued before the bankruptcy, the remedy, if any, being in the state court. In re Hunt (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 493, Fed. Cas. No. 6,883.

Where a homestead exemption is claimed out of property of larger value than the limit of the exemption as fixed by the state law, or where the lien of a creditor covers both exempt and nonexempt property, the circumstances of the case may make it proper for the bankruptcy court to partition the property, incidentally adjudging the creditor's lien to attach to the specific parcel set apart as exempt, or to order its sale as a whole and satisfy the lien creditor out of the proceeds. In re Gordon (D. C. 1902) 115 Fed. 445, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 255; In re Thomas (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 828, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 99; In re Betts (C. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 536, Fed. Cas. No. 1,371; Blood v. Munn (1909) 155 Cal. 228, 100 Pac. 694; In re Stout (D. C. 1900) 109 Fed. 794, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 505. But compare Ingram v. Wilson (1903) 125 Fed. 913, 60 C. C. A. 618, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 192. Or, if the homestead has been sold under foreclosure of a mortgage upon it, and it is thought that the property is more valuable than the amount allowed by the state law as exempt, the court may authorize the trustee in bankruptcy to redeem from the foreclosure, and in that case the bankrupt will have the same right to redeem from the trustee that he would have had to redeem from the foreclosure purchaser. Swenson v. Halberg (C. C. 1880) 1 Fed. 444.

A mortgage covering both exempt and nonexempt property, and which constitutes an unlawful preference, is voidable by the mortgagor's trustee in bankruptcy only as to the nonexempt property. In re Bailey (D. C. 1910) 176 Fed. 990, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 201; Morris v. Covey (Ark. 1912) 148 S. W. 257.

Where it appeared that the debtor, shortly before filing his voluntary petition in bankruptcy, and in contemplation thereof, had sold property which was not exempt from execution and applied the proceeds in part payment of a debt secured by a mortgage on property claimed to be exempt as a homestead, it was held that the transaction was in fraud of the bankruptcy law, and that the trustee in bankruptcy, for the benefit of the creditors, should be subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee to the extent of the money so paid. In re Boston (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 587, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 388. But compare In re Henkel (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 6,362. And see In re Jackson (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 46, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 594. But generally, when the trustee has set apart property to the bankrupt as exempt, and his action has been approved, and the bankrupt has taken possession, such property passes out of the jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy, and that court cannot thereafter entertain proceedings either to defend the property against adverse claims or liens or to subject it to liens or adjudicate the rights of claimants thereto. In re Little (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 621, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 681; In re Grimes (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 529, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 730; In re Hatch (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 280. But see In re Hassler (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 139, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 502.

State courts have jurisdiction to enforce any specific lien upon exempt property of a bankrupt. Robinson v. Wilson (1875) 15 Kan. 595, 22 Am. Rep. 272. And proceedings for the foreclosure of a mortgage on property which the bankrupt claims as a homestead should be brought against the bankrupt himself, and not against his trustee. Dendel v. Sutton (C. C. 1884) 20 Fed. 787. On the other hand, the action of a federal court in bankruptcy in setting apart to a bankrupt the exemption which the state law allows him has exactly the same effect as if it had been granted and allowed by the proper state court in a proceeding before it, and the property is not any more subject to levy and sale on the part of subsequent creditors in the one case than in the other. Smith v. Zachry (1902) 115 Ga. 722, 42 S. E. 102; Evans v. Rounsaville (1902) 115 Ga. 684, 42 S. E. 100; Collier v. Simpson (1885) 74 Ga. 697.

The state courts have jurisdiction to enforce a chattel mortgage given prior to bankruptcy on property set apart to the mortgagor as exempt under the state law. Bank of Mendon v. Mell (1915) 172 S. W. 484, 185 Mo. App. 510. A homestead exemption, set apart by a court of bankruptcy, cannot be levied on. Murphey v. Smith (Ga. App. 1915) 85 S. E. 791.

18. —— Claims for unpaid purchase money.—Where the law of the state provides that the grant of an exemption of property to a debtor shall not prevail as against a claim for the unpaid purchase money of the property in question, a bankrupt cannot claim to have property set apart to him as exempt when he has not paid for it. Mullinix v. Simon (1912) 196 Fed. 775, 116 C. C. A. 399, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1; Cannon v. Dexter Broom & Mattress Co. (1903) 120 Fed. 657, 57 C. C. A. 119, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 724; McGahan v. Anderson (1902) 113 Fed. 115, 51 C. C. A. 92, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 641; In re Wells (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 762, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 308; In re Perdue (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 183, Fed. Cas. No. 10,975; In re Whitehead (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 599, Fed. Cas. No. 17,-562; In re Brown (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 250, Fed. Cas. No. 1,980; Camp v. Young (1904) 119 Ga. 981, 47 S. E. 560; In re Peacock (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 191, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 179. See In re Hammonds (D. C. 1912) 198 Fed. 574, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 811; In re Nunemaker (D. C. 1913) 208 Fed. 491; In re Phillips (D. C. 1913) 209 Fed. 490.

An indebtedness for borrowed money which was used in the purchase of the property claimed as exempt is not an "obligation contracted for its purchase," within the meaning of the state law. In re Bailes (D. C. 1909) 176 Fed. 460, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 789. Under Gen. Code Ohio, § 11,738, and section 47, as amended by Act June 25, 1910, § 8 (post, § 9631), where a bankrupt purchased a stock of goods with money borrowed, and also incurred debts for goods purchased to renew the stock, he was not entitled to exemptions as against creditors for the goods so purchased, but only as against the claimants for money borrowed. In re Stern (D. C. 1913) 208 Fed. 488. A bankrupt is entitled to goods exempted by the state statute, although they were paid for out of the proceeds of goods which were not paid for. In re Tobias (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 68, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555.

A creditor opposing the bankrupt's claim to exempt property on the ground that it has not been paid for must have taken the steps required by the state law, such as reducing his claim to a judgment. In re Butler (D. C. 1902) 120 Fed. 100, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 539. And the unpaid creditor is the only proper person to raise the objection, not the trustee in bankruptcy. In re Boyd (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 999, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 337. But see In re Campbell (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 417, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723.

An allowance of exemptions in bankruptcy out of a stock of goods cannot be defeated on the theory that the stock, being made up by commingling goods paid for with goods not paid for, must be treated as a unit, and that since it is not all paid for no part of it can be exempted, or that, since the assets are less than the liabilities, presumably nothing has been paid for, but in this case it is for the creditor to point out the items not paid for. In re Rippa (D. C. 1909) 180 Fed. 603. But compare In re Tobias (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 68, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555.

The fact that a claim of exemptions is opposed by the claim that the property has not been paid for does not bring such property within the jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy, nor entitle the creditor to have the trustee take possession of it and administer it for his benefit. In re Seydel (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 207, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 255. See In re Boyd (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 999, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 337. Nor has the creditor a right to enforce his vendor's lien in the court of bankruptcy. In re Wells (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 762, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 308. But the trustee will be directed to surrender the property to the bankrupt in order that it may be taken on attachment or other process from the state court. In re Durham (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 231, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 760. And the fact that the goods in question have been set apart to the bankrupt as exempt is no ground for quashing an attachment in an action for their price. Northern Shoe Co. v. Cecka (1912) 22 N. D. 631, 135 N. W. 177. But in some states it is held that the remedy of the creditor in this situation is in equity. Brooks v. Britt-Carson Shoe Co. (1909) 133 Ga. 191, 65 S. E. 411.

19. Transfer and assignment of exempt property.—One who purchases from a bankrupt before the goods are set apart, as exempt under the state law, by the ordinary, gets a good title, unless the sale was made to delay or defraud creditors, who had the right to subject the exemption, and this intention was known to the purchasers. Pincus v. S. H. Meinhard & Bro. (1913) 77 S. E. 82, 139 Ga. 365.

Where a bankrupt assigns a fund in the hands of his trustee in bankruptcy which had been set apart to him under his exemption claim, and notice of such assignment is given to the trustee and to the attorney of a debtor of the bankrupt who subsequently issued an attachment against the fund under a judgment waiving exemption, the assignee has priority in the distribution of the fund over the attaching creditor, and the attachment will be dissolved. La Barre v. Doney (1913) 53 Pa. Super. Ct. 435.

The homestead exemption claimed by a bankrupt cannot be transferred until approved by the referee or 20 days have elapsed without objections by creditors being filed. In re Anderson (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 790.

20. Jurisdiction of bankruptcy court.—It is the duty of a bankruptcy court to determine claims of a bankrupt to exemption, and to sever the exempt property from the bankrupt's estate, but not to grant exemptions. In re Elkin (D. C. 1914) 218 Fed. 971.

Exempt property is never really in the bankruptcy court, as the bankruptcy court has no jurisdiction of it except to set it aside as exempt property, and as the rights of the lien creditors with reference to it must be determined in the state courts. Bogart v. Cowboy State Bank & Trust Co. (Tex. Civ. App. 1916) 182 S. W. 678.

The jurisdiction of a court of bankruptcy to "determine all claims of bankrupts to their exemptions," and to set apart to them the property which they are entitled to claim as exempt, includes the consideration of preliminary questions as to the right of the bankrupt to claim the property and as to whether he has taken the steps required by the state law to make his claim effective. In re Highfield (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 924, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 92. And the action of the trustee in setting apart property to the bankrupt as exempt is not final, but is subject to the determination of the court on the application of the bankrupt or any party in interest. In re White (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 774, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 613. Jurisdiction to make such determination will be exercised originally by the referee, but subject to review by the judge if desired by the bankrupt or the creditors. In re Dobbs (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 319, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 569. This jurisdiction to determine claims to exemptions is exclusive, and in the performance of this duty the court of bankruptcy will not be interfered with by any other court, nor can any independent proceedings in a state court for the same purpose be lawfully taken. McGahan v. Anderson (1902) 113 Fed. 115, 51 C. C. A. 92, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 641; In re Gibbs (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 782, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 619; Smalley v. Laugenour (1902) 30 Wash. 307, 70 Pac. 786; In re Overstreet, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 408; In re Askew (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 575, Fed. Cas. No. 585; Woolfolk v. Murray (1871) 44 Ga. 133, 10 N. B. R. 540. A wrongful allowance by the bankruptcy court of the property claimed as exempt by the bankrupt cannot be remedied in the state courts. Brengle v. Richardson (1884) 78 Va. 406. Nor can the order of the court of bankruptcy in that behalf be collaterally questioned. Where the trustee sells property to which the bankrupt had title at the time of the adjudication, no state court can entertain any inquiry as to whether such property was exempt to the bankrupt. Steele v. Moody (1875) 53 Ala. 418, 16 N. B. R. 558.

The action of the court of bankruptcy has the same effect, in removing specific property from the reach of ordinary judicial process, that would attend the judgment of a state court setting apart such property as exempt, under the course of procedure prescribed by the state statute. Evans v. Rounsaville (1902) 115 Ga. 684, 42 S. E. 100; Smith v. Zachry (1902) 115 Ga. 722, 42 S. E. 102; Collier v. Simpson (1885) 74 Ga. 697; Ross v. Worsham (1880) 65 Ga. 624; Brady v. Brady (1883) 71 Ga. 71. Compare Felker v. Crane (1883) 70 Ga. 484; Adams v. Dickson (1884) 72 Ga. 846; Youngblood v. Lathen (1884) 20 S. C. 370.

When the bankrupt's exempt property has been designated and set apart to him by the trustee in bankruptcy, with the approval of the court, it has been administered, so far as the proceedings in bankruptcy are concerned, and passes out of the control of the bankruptcy court, and thereafter such court has no jurisdiction either to defend such property from adverse claims or liens or to enforce liens or claims against it. Sullivan v. Mussey (C. C. A. 1910) 184 Fed. 60, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 781; In re Yeager (D. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 951, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 51; In re MacKissic (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 259, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 817; In re Culwell (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 828, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 614; In re Sorg (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 550; In re Reese (D. C. 1902) 115 Fed. 993, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 411; In re Grimes (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 529, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 730; Jeffries v. Bartlett (C. C. 1884) 20 Fed. 496; In re Fetherston (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 4,-753; King v. Neill (C. C. 1885) 26 Fed. 721; Phillips v. Bass (1880) 65 Ga. 427; Lathrop v. Pate (1911) 136 Ga. 36, 70 S. E. 569; McKenney v. Cheney (1903) 118 Ga. 387, 45 S. E. 433; Brooks v. Eblen (1908) 106 S. W. 308, 32 Ky. Law Rep. 543; Powers Dry Goods Co. v. Nelson (1901) 10 N. D. 580, 88 N. W. 703, 58 L. R. A. 770; Newberry Shoe Co. v. Collier (1910) 111 Va. 288, 68 S. E. 974.

A bankruptcy court, having determined the property that is exempt generally to the bankrupt and set it apart to him, has exhausted its jurisdiction over such property; and creditors claiming that for any reason, as waiver, it is not exempt from their claims, must resort to a state court for enforcement of payment therefrom. In re Remmerde (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 822. A court of bankruptcy is without jurisdiction to order the sale for any purpose of property which it has set apart to a bankrupt as his homestead exemption. In re Yungbluth (C. C. A. 1915) 220 Fed. 110.

If exempt property is under an attachment at the time of the adjudication in bankruptcy, the lien of which is dissolved by the adjudication, the attaching creditor cannot hold the property on the theory that, being exempt, it is not subject to be administered in the bankruptcy proceedings, but the court should require the officer having possession under the attachment to surrender the property to the trustee, in order that he may set it apart to the bankrupt. In re Stevens (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 13,392.

21. Claim of exemptions.—It is the duty of a bankrupt desiring to claim exemptions, to insert in his schedule a particular statement of the property claimed as exempt, giving each item of property and its value, and, if any portion of it is real estate, its location, description, and present use. In re Duffy (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 926, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 358; In re J. E. Maynard & Co. (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 823, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 732; In re Irwin (1909) 174 Fed. 642, 98 C. C. A. 396, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 487; In re Kelly (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 984, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 730; In re Diamond (D. C. 1908) 158 Fed. 370, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 811. But it has been held that it is not necessary for the bankrupt to specify the articles specially claimed to be exempt, as the official form is not intended to be mandatory, but to be altered to suit the circumstances of the particular case. Burke v. Guarantee Title & Trust Co. (1905) 134 Fed. 562, 67 C. C. A. 486, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 31. But a claim by a bankrupt of an exemption out of a stock of goods, claiming the stock in bulk, is not a sufficient compliance. In re Wilson (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 197, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 287. So, where a bankrupt is possessed of property capable of being divided, from which he could make his selection, he must do so in his schedule, and a claim to the exemption from "proceeds of personal property" to the amount limited is not sufficient. In re Donahey (D. C. 1910) 176 Fed. 458, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 796. So if a bankrupt includes in his schedule all his lands, claiming, as a homestead exemption therein, "real estate to the value of $500," but without designating any particular portion, it is a defect, but one which is amendable, and of which advantage cannot be taken in a subsequent collateral proceeding. Walker v. Carroll (1880) 65 Ala. 61.

While the bankrupt's right to exemptions must be deduced from the state law, his claim must be made at the time and in the manner pointed out by the bankruptcy law, which is exclusive and controlling on these points. In re Crum (D. C. 1913) 221 Fed. 729; Lipman v. Stein (1905) 134 Fed. 235, 67 C. C. A. 17, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 30; In re Andrews & Simonds (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 776, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 116; In re Le Vay (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 990, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 114; In re Kane (1904) 127 Fed. 552, 62 C. C. A. 616, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 533; In re W. S. Jennings & Co. (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 639, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 160; In re Burnham (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 762, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 270. But compare in re Fisher (D. C. 1905) 142 Fed. 205, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 652; In re Garner (D. C. 1902) 115 Fed. 200, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 263; Northern Alabama Ry. Co. v. Feldman (1911) 1 Ala. App. 334, 56 South. 16. The only question to be determined on a bankrupt's application for his exemptions under the state law is whether he is entitled to the same against general creditors. In re Brumbaugh (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 971, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 204. Ordinarily it is sufficient if he makes his claim to exemptions in his schedule, and an extension of time for filing the schedule will also extend the time for making such claim. In re O'Hara (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 325, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 714. It is the ordinary method, and the one sanctioned by the rules and forms in bankruptcy, for a bankrupt to claim her homestead exemption in the schedule attached to her voluntary petition. Sheridan State Bank v. Rowell (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 529. Where a bankrupt claimed a homestead exemption at the time of filing his schedules and as a part thereof, as he was authorized to do, the schedules having been filed in time, his claim of exemption was in time. Brandt v. Mayhew (1914) 218 Fed. 422, 134 C. C. A. 210.

If the bankrupt makes an erroneous claim to property mentioned in the schedule as being exempt, it is the duty of the trustee to correct or disregard it. In re Whetmore (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 17,508. But a mere claim made by a bankrupt to his trustee, asserting a right to a homestead exemption, but not incorporated in the schedule nor allowed by the trustee or the court, will not be available against a purchaser of the property at the trustee's sale. Steele v. Moody (1875) 53 Ala. 418.

It is in the power of the bankrupt to waive the exemption, and he will generally be taken to have done so if he omits to set up the claim in his schedule, either originally or by seasonable amendment. In re Gerber (1911) 186 Fed. 693, 108 C. C. A. 511, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 608; In re Moran (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 901, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 472; In re Von Kerm (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 447, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 403; In re Harrington (D. C. 1912) 200 Fed. 1010, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 666.

A mortgagee of the bankrupt cannot set up the latter's rights of exemption in the mortgaged property, in order to validate his mortgage against the charge that it constituted a preference or a fraudulent conveyance. Mitchell v. Mitchell (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 280, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 382; Edmondson v. Hyde (C. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 4,285. A bankrupt's wife, after his adjudication, having filed a declaration of homestead on real property on which they had been living, as she was authorized to do by the state law, held entitled to enforce her claim in the bankruptcy proceedings. Brandt v. Mayhew (1914) 218 Fed. 422, 134 C. C. A. 210.

The failure of the bankrupt to claim his exemptions in his original petition will not be taken as a waiver of his right afterwards to claim the property which is exempt, by an amendment properly filed, provided, that the amendment can be allowed without causing any loss or injury to persons who have acquired rights in the property in question in consequence of the bankrupt's neglect seasonably to assert his claims. In re Fisher (D. C. 1905) 142 Fed. 205, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 652; In re Berman (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 761, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 463; In re Moran (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 901, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 472; In re Kaufmann (D. C. 1906) 142 Fed. 898, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 118; In re White (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 513, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 556; Goodman v. Curtis (1909) 174 Fed. 644, 98 C. C. A. 398, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 504; In re Lenters (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 878; In re Crum (D. C. 1913) 221 Fed. 729. An amendment will be refused where it is avowedly sought for the purpose of preferring certain creditors to whom the bankrupt had given notes containing a waiver of the exemption law. Moran v. King (1901) 111 Fed. 730, 49 C. C. A. 578, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 176; In re Merry (D. C. 1913) 201 Fed. 369, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 829. The bankruptcy court does not favor the extension by amendment of exemptions of the bankrupt where such extension will work solely for the benefit of a creditor, though the court as a rule exercises great liberality in permitting amendments. In re Merry (D. C. 1913) 201 Fed. 369, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 829.

If a bankrupt, instead of incorporating a claim for his exemptions in his schedule, goes into a state court and there sets up a claim and has the exemption allowed, he will not be entitled to have the exemption set off to him by the trustee in bankruptcy on his filing a record of the proceedings in the state court. Gayle v. Randall (1882) 71 Ala. 469; In re Nunn, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 427. But where a homestead exemption is seasonably claimed in a bankruptcy proceeding, it may thereafter be perfected under the state law, if the claimant proceeds expeditiously. In re Burnham (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 762.

If the bankrupt omits to claim his exemptions in the proceedings in bankruptcy, as required by the law, but allows the trustee to sell the property, he cannot afterwards assert his right to it as exempt in a proceeding to set aside the sale or in a suit against the purchaser. In re Oderkirk (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 779, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 617; In re Wunder (D. C. 1905) 133 Fed. 821, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 701; Steele v. Moody (1875) 53 Ala. 418, 16 N. B. R. 558. But the right of the bankrupt to the property exempted by the law of the state is a fixed and determinate right, not dependent upon the discretion of the trustee, and where it is claimed and illegally refused before the trustee's sale of the property, it may be asserted against the proceeds of the property while in the hands of the court for distribution. In re Jones (C. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 7,445. And see In re Rodenhagen (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 674.

Since the statute expressly grants to an involuntary bankrupt a period of ten days after the adjudication in which to claim his exemptions, if such claim is made before the expiration of the ten days, it is in time, and the bankrupt cannot be deprived of his exemptions by the fact that, in the meantime, the property has been sold and converted into money by a receiver in bankruptcy appointed at the time of filing the petition. Lipman v. Stein (1905) 134 Fed. 235, 67 C. C. A. 17, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 30; In re Coddington (D. C. 1904) 126 Fed. 891, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 122.

While the bankrupt must claim his exemption as prescribed by the statute, a severance of the exempted articles or property is not to be made by the debtor before adjudication, but by the trustee when appointed; and the valuation of exempt property is to be made in the first instance by the trustee. The bankruptcy act, while allowing to debtors the exemptions provided by the state law, itself regulates the manner in which such exemptions are to be claimed, set apart, and awarded. In re Friedrich (1900) 100 Fed. 284, 40 C. C. A. 378, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 801; Burke v. Guarantee Title & Trust Co. (1905) 134 Fed. 562, 67 C. C. A. 486, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 31; Cowan v. Burchfield (D. C. 1910) 180 Fed. 614.

22. Setting apart exempt property.—The provision of the statute that the trustee shall set apart the bankrupt's exemptions and report the items and estimated value thereof is mandatory and these duties cannot be performed by any one else. An agreement between a bankrupt and his creditors that the exemptions shall be valued and allotted by three appraisers, whose decision shall be final and not subject to exception, is void, and an order made by the referee, by consent of parties, in the terms of such agreement, will be set aside. In re Grimes (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 529, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 730.

Where a claim has been duly and properly made for the exemption allowed by the law of the state, the trustee has no right to refuse to set the property apart. If he sells it, the court has jurisdiction to award the proceeds to the bankrupt. In re Finkelstein (D. C. 1912) 192 Fed. 738, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 229. The bankruptcy court has no control over a bankrupt's exemption for the purpose of distributing it among creditors holding notes waiving the exemption, and will pay over the fund claimed as exempt to the bankrupt or some one duly appointed to receive it. In re Anderson (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 790.

The determination of a bankrupt's claim to a homestead exemption by the referee before the appointment of a trustee, though informal and not in accordance with the regular course of procedure, may be sanctioned by the court in the exercise of its equity powers, where it appears that the bankrupt has no property except that claimed as exempt, so that, if the exemption should be allowed, there would be no occasion for the appointment of a trustee. In re W. C. Allen & Co. (D. C. 1904) 134 Fed. 620, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 518; Snalley v. Laugenour (1902) 30 Wash. 307, 70 Pac. 786. When a trustee has been appointed and qualified, the referee has no authority to set apart the bankrupt's exemptions, nor to direct the trustee in the matter. In re Peabody (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 243, Fed. Cas. No. 10,866.

The trustee has no right to demand from the bankrupt, as a condition upon his delivering to him the property claimed as exempt and appraised for that purpose, a bond of indemnity, and where, upon demand and refusal of such a bond, the trustee sells the property in question, the bankrupt may claim the amount of his exemptions from the proceeds. In re Brown (D. C. 1899) 100 Fed. 441, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 46.

The setting apart of exempt property to the bankrupt, and the sale of real estate in which a homestead is claimed, if indivisible, should always be done promptly, and the referee should see that this is done. In re Brown (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 533.

If exemptions have recently been claimed and allowed to the bankrupt in proceedings under the state law, it is permissible for the trustee to adopt and sanction the allotment, if no circumstances of fraud or mistake appear. In re Vogler (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 16,986. See In re Wilson (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 571, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 260. But it is not the duty of the trustee to wait until exemptions have been allowed and set apart by state officers according to the procedure prescribed by the laws of the state. In re Camp (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 745, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165. If the state law withholds the exemption from the bankrupt until he shall have complied with certain requirements as to the mode of claiming and securing its allowance, he must pursue the same course before he can make good his claim to the exemptions in the bankruptcy proceeding. In re Farish (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 168, Fed. Cas. No. 4,647; In re Jackson (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 508, Fed. Cas. No. 7,127.

Property exempted in the bankruptcy court, but which bankrupt did not have set aside by state court as exempt, held subject to a fi. fa. levied on it more than three years after the adjudication in bankruptcy, where no discharge had been granted to the bankrupt. Baltimore Bargain House v. Busby (1915) 85 S. E. 875, 143 Ga. 734. A bankrupt, to whom personalty claimed as exempt has been set apart, may thereafter execute and file for record a declaration of homestead, as required by state law, and have the same set apart as exempt. In re Lehfeldt (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 681.

23. —— Valuation, selection, and delivery of property.—The trustee in bankruptcy, in valuing and setting apart the exemptions of the bankrupt, should conform as nearly as may be to the method provided by the state law for that purpose. In re McCutchen (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 779, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 81; In re Woodard (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 955, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 692. But compare In re Lynch (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 579, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 262. Where the state statute provides that the homestead shall be appraised by three persons, chosen respectively by the debtor, the creditor, and the officer holding the writ, a trustee in bankruptcy, when a claim of homestead is made by the bankrupt, should cause the property to be appraised by three persons, one named by himself, one by the bankrupt, and one by the creditors, and an appraisement made by three persons all chosen by the trustee, the bankrupt not being represented in their selection, will be set aside on objections by the latter, and a new appraisement ordered. In re McCutchen (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 779, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 81. But it has been ruled that there is no provision of the bankruptcy law authorizing the valuation by appraisers of the property claimed by the bankrupt as exempt, and that, where the appraisers value the entire estate of the bankrupt, as provided by law, their inventory is not binding on the trustee as respects the exempt property nor can he adopt it as his own. In re Grimes (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 529, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 730. And see In re Andrews & Simonds (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 776, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 116; Bank of Nez Perce v. Pindel (1912) 193 Fed. 917, 113 C. C. A. 545, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 69, holding that the time and manner of setting apart the bankrupt's exemptions must be determined by and in accordance with the bankruptcy act.

Where the state law exempts to a debtor personal property to a certain value, "to be selected by him," the debtor, on being adjudged bankrupt, has the right to select specific personal property, to that value, from the estate in the hands of his trustee, even though the property is not divisible without loss nor salable except as a whole. In re Grimes (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 529, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 730. On the other hand, where the state law provides that the exempt property shall be selected by the debtor, it is not permissible to allow the bankrupt to select a trifling amount of personal property and receive the entire difference in cash from the trustee. In re Woodard (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 955, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 692. But when property claimed by the bankrupt as exempt has been sold by the trustee, the exemption should be set apart out of the proceeds of the sale. In re Park (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 602, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 432.

A mistake made by the trustee in valuing or setting off the property may be corrected by amendment, or by a revaluation of the property, where that is the proper course. Brady v. Brady (1883) 71 Ga. 71. Where a trustee in bankruptcy, in setting off to the bankrupt the property claimed as his homestead, has adopted the value placed upon it by appraisers fifteen years before, when it was allotted to the bankrupt as a homestead under process of a state court, but it appears that the property has since increased in value beyond the amount allowed as exempt by the laws of the state, the court of bankruptcy will direct the trustee to re-value the property and set apart to the bankrupt so much thereof as shall not exceed in value the amount so allowed. In re McBryde (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 686, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 729.

When the trustee has set apart the property to be allowed as exempt and made report of his doings, and his action is either approved by the court or passes without exceptions being taken, it is then his further duty to deliver the possession to the bankrupt. In re Soper (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 116, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 868. But he is not authorized to dispense with the requirements of the statute and simply pay the bankrupt a sum of money equivalent to the value of the exemptions, where no proper steps have been taken to select and set apart the exempt property, and especially where it does not appear that the money was placed in a designated depository and drawn out according to the rules in bankruptcy. In re Hoyt (D. C. 1903) 119 Fed. 987, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 574.

The bankrupt is entitled to receive the full amount of his exemption, and it cannot be diminished by deducting from it any costs and expenses made in the proceedings, even the necessary cost of selling perishable property. In re Le Vay (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 990, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 114; In re Hopkins (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 781, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 619. But storage charges on the specific property, pending its delivery to the bankrupt, may be deducted. In re Grimes (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 529, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 730.

24. —— Report, exceptions, and confirmation.—General Order in Bankruptcy No. 17 (post, § 9614), providing that "the trustee shall make report to the court within twenty days after receiving the notice of his appointment, of the articles set off to the bankrupt by him, with the estimated value of each article," requires a specification of items and a separate appraisal of the property set apart to the bankrupt. And under the laws of Pennsylvania, a trustee in bankruptcy, in setting aside as exempt household goods and book accounts, must itemize them and value each item separately. In re Manning (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 948, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 571. The time thus limited may be extended by the court for good cause shown, and leave given to the trustee to make a later or further report. In re Shields (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 603, Fed. Cas. No. 12,785.

The mere setting apart by the trustee in bankruptcy of exempt property to the bankrupt, as required by section 47, par. 11 (post, § 9631), is not an adjudication. Seedig v. First Nat. Bank of Clifton (Tex. Civ. App. 1914) 168 S. W. 445. The decision of the court of bankruptcy on the allowance of exemptions to the bankrupt and exceptions thereto will be accepted as conclusive by the state courts. Morton v. Jones (1910) 136 Ky. 797, 125 S. W. 247; McKinley v. Morgan (1905) 36 Wash. 561, 79 Pac. 45. The action of the court of bankruptcy on the trustee's report cannot be impeached collaterally, and if it wrongfully allows and sets apart to the bankrupt property which he claims as exempt, the remedy is not in the state courts. Brengle v. Richardson's Adm'r (1884) 78 Va. 406; Brady v. Brady (1883) 71 Ga. 71.

A judgment of the bankruptcy court, setting apart mortgaged property as a homestead, held conclusive on the parties to an action to foreclose the mortgage, where the debt secured was duly scheduled, and plaintiff appeared and objected to its being set apart. McCurry v. Sledge (Okl. 1915) 149 P. 1124. A creditor not a party to the debtor's bankruptcy proceedings was not bound by the decree of the federal court setting aside to the bankrupt and his wife certain lands as a homestead. Bogart v. Cowboy State Bank & Trust Co. (Tex. Civ. App. 1916) 182 S. W. 678.

The action of the trustee in bankruptcy, in allotting to the bankrupt the property exempt under the state law, may be excepted to and the propriety of his action, either as to whether the exemption was lawful or whether too much or too little was set apart, may be finally determined by the bankruptcy courts. In re Cheatham (D. C. 1914) 210 Fed. 370. If the bankrupt is dissatisfied with the allowance made by the trustee, he may except to the latter's decision and have the question heard by the referee, and if necessary certified to the court. In re Sloan (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 873, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 435; Richardson v. Trubey (1911) 250 Ill. 577, 95 N. E. 971; In re Pryor (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 11,457; In re Thiell (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 13,882; In re Smith (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 791, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 190. Any creditor may take exceptions to the determination of the trustee within twenty days after the filing of the report. McGahan v. Anderson (1902) 113 Fed. 115, 51 C. C. A. 92, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 641; E. B. Taylor Co. v. Williams (Ga. 1913) 77 S. E. 386. To be entitled to take exceptions, it is not necessary that the creditor should be armed with any process. In re Campbell (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 417, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723. The trustee, on behalf of all the creditors, may object to the bankrupt's claim of exemptions, or take exceptions to the decision of the referee thereon. In re Rice (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 589, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 202.

Where a bankrupt, before confirmation of a homestead exemption allowance, required by general order No. 17 (post, § 9614), assigned the same to a creditor, and after objections filed by other creditors moved to amend his schedules so as to withdraw his application for a homestead exemption, the application was properly allowed. In re Herrin & West (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed. 250. Creditors of bankrupt husband and wife, who failed to object to improper allowance in lieu of homestead to the husband, held not precluded from objecting to a similar allowance to the wife. In re Crum (D. C. 1913) 221 Fed. 729.

Though exceptions should be taken within the limited time of 20 days, it is in the discretion of the court to consider objections presented by creditors after the expiration of that time, in cases of fraud or mistake or for other good cause. In re Perdue (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 183, Fed. Cas. No. 10,975. But compare In re Cotton & Preston (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 190, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 532. And see In re Gainey (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 525, Fed. Cas. No. 5,181. Where the trustee has not filed his report within the time limited for that purpose, creditors are not bound to except to the same within twenty days after its filing. In re Peabody (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 243, Fed. Cas. No. 10,866. A creditor seeking to present objections after the time limited must excuse his delay and clear himself of the imputation of laches. In re Reese (D. C. 1902) 115 Fed. 993, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 411.

Where an insolvent is adjudged a bankrupt on his voluntary petition, and a trustee sets aside property as exempt and files his report, to which no exception is taken, the bankrupt may assign the property, in good faith, for pre-existing debts, though made within the 20 days allowed, under general order in bankruptcy No. 17 (post, § 9614), in which to file exceptions. E. B. Taylor Co. v. Williams (1913) 77 S. E. 386, 139 Ga. 581.

An exception to the allowance of exemptions to a bankrupt is not strictly speaking a pleading, and the want of a verification is not a jurisdictional defect. In re Campbell (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 417, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723.

Where the bankrupt makes out a prima facie case in support of his claim of exemptions, the burden is on the objecting creditors to show that he is not entitled to what he demands. In re Rippa (D. C. 1909) 180 Fed. 603; In re Grimes (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 800, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 160. CONTRA, that the burden is on the bankrupt to prove his right to the exemptions claimed, by conclusive evidence, see In re Rainwater (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 738, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 419; In re Campbell (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 417, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723.

On hearing exceptions to the allowance of exemptions to a bankrupt, the court will not enter upon an inquiry as to whether he has made a fraudulent conveyance such as would bar his right to a discharge. In re W. C. Allen & Co. (D. C. 1904) 134 Fed. 620, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 518. Rulings of the referee on questions of fact in allowing exemptions will not be reversed unless clearly erroneous. In re Rutland Grocery Co. (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 765, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 942.

25. Sale of property and allowance of exemptions out of proceeds.—Where the law of the state exempts to the debtor personal property to a certain value, "to be selected by him," the debtor, on being adjudged bankrupt has the right to select specific personal property to that value from the estate in the hands of his trustee, and although his personal estate consists of a stock of goods not divisible without loss, nor salable except as a whole, yet the court cannot order the trustee to sell the whole stock and pay the bankrupt the value of his exemptions out of the proceeds. In re Grimes (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 529, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 730; In re Shrimer (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 794; In re Crum (D. C. 1913) 221 Fed. 729. Where the exemption law of the state does not exempt money, or any sum in money, but only property to a certain value, the trustee has no right, where the bankrupt's property has been seized and sold under execution and distress for rent, leaving him no property to claim as exempt, to allow money, the proceeds of debts due to the bankrupt, for the purpose of making good the property which would have been exempted if it had not been sold. In re Lawson (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 54, Fed. Cas. No. 8,149.

Though the statute requires a debtor to select the specific personal property which he claims as exempt, a court of bankruptcy is not bound to require such selection, and where it is to the best interest of all concerned, or where, by reason of its being mortgaged, specific property cannot be selected and set apart as exempt, it may properly permit such property to be sold as an entirety by the trustee, and award the bankrupt his exemption from the proceeds. In re Kane (1904) 127 Fed. 552, 62 C. C. A. 616, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 533.

If the trustee takes the goods selected by the bankrupt and mixes them with others and sells the whole indiscriminately, the bankrupt will not be entitled to claim out of the proceeds the maximum value allowed by the exemption law, but only the price brought by the specific goods which he had selected. In re Arnold (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 1000, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 392; In re Friend (C. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 5,120. If the bankrupt, after making the selection, allows the selected articles to be sold with the rest, by an agreement to that effect with his trustee, that course being for the benefit of the estate, in that it makes the stock as a whole more salable, the trustee should allow to the bankrupt, as his exemption, out of the proceeds of the sale, a sum of money equal to the value of the goods originally selected. In re Richard (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 633, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 506; In re Hutchinson (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 1021, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 405; In re Hargraves (D. C. 1907) 160 Fed. 758, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 186; In re Renda (D. C. 1906) 149 Fed. 614, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 521. Where personal property which the bankrupt was entitled to claim as exempt was sold, on his request that cash should be allowed him instead of the property, he should be charged with his percentage of the difference between the proceeds of the property and its appraised value as against the amount of his exemptions. In re Ansley Bros. (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 983, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 457. But under the laws of Pennsylvania, the trustee cannot set apart as exempt cash out of the proceeds of a future sale of the bankrupt's personal property. In re Manning (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 948, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 571.

If, before the appointment of a trustee, the property has come into the hands of a receiver in bankruptcy, who proposes to sell the same, the proper course is for the court to direct the receiver to set aside the specific property which the bankrupt claims as exempt, to await the determination of his claim. In re N. Shaffer & Son (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 986, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 717; In re Joyce (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 985, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 716. But if the receiver has sold the property (as being perishable or for other good reasons) before the appointment of a trustee, and the bankrupt has duly made his claim for his exemptions, it will be his right to receive the proper amount out of the proceeds of the sale. In re Zack (D. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 909, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 138; In re Le Vay (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 990, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 114; In re Haskin (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 789, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 485; In re Bolinger (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 374, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 171; In re Sloan (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 873, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 435.

Where the state law does not give the debtor the right to select specific property as exempt, but fixes the value in money of the exemption to be allowed, if the property in the hands of the trustee is not capable of division into parts without injury to the whole, or if it is of such a nature that it cannot advantageously be sold except as a whole, the court may order a sale of the whole and an allowance to the bankrupt of the value of his statutory exemption to be paid to him out of the proceeds. In re Yeager (D. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 951, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 51; In re Diller (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 931, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 45; In re Beede (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 68, Fed. Cas. No. 1,226; In re Poleman (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 11,247.

Where a bankrupt's exemption allowed by the state law for the benefit of his family will be defeated unless its allowance be made in cash out of the proceeds of a sale, it will, if practicable, be ordered paid out of such proceeds. In re Luby (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 659, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 801.

Where a bankrupt claims the property on which he resides as a homestead, but it is alleged that it exceeds in value the limit fixed by the homestead law of the state, and the evidence on the subject of value is conflicting, or responsible parties offer to bid a larger sum for the property, the proper course is to order the property sold by the trustee at public sale after due advertisement. At such sale, the bankrupt will be considered as bidding the amount fixed by the statute as the maximum value of a homestead exemption, and it will be knocked down to him at that price if no better offer is made. But if the property brings more than that amount, the bankrupt will be allotted a sum of money, out of the proceeds, equal to the value of a homestead exemption under the statute, and this will be considered as his exemption. In re Lynch (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 579, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 262; In re Watson (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 570, Fed. Cas. No. 17,271; Bank of Nez Perce v. Pindel (C. C. A. 1912) 193 Fed. 917, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 69; In re Paramore & Ricks (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 208, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 126. And see Dunlap Hardware Co. v. Huddleston (C. C. A. 1909) 167 Fed. 433, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 731; Smith v. Thompson (1914) 213 Fed. 335, 129 C. C. A. 637; In re Crum (D. C. 1913) 221 Fed. 729.

Where a mortgage, recognized as valid in the bankruptcy proceedings, covers an undivided fractional part of the real estate out of which the bankrupt claims his homestead exemption, the court will not order the trustee to partition the land as between the bankrupt and the mortgagee, and set apart to the former a designated portion to be held by him as his homestead in severalty and free from the mortgage, as this would change, and might impair, the security of the mortgagee. But the bankrupt may apply for an order to sell portions of the land not actually occupied as a homestead, and apply the proceeds in payment of the mortgage. In re Thomas (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 828, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 99. Upon the sale of a homestead set apart to a bankrupt to satisfy a purchase-money lien, any surplus should be paid to the bankrupt. Sheridan State Bank v. Rowell (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 529.

26. Exemptions in partnership cases.—A partnership cannot be a "head of a family" or a "housekeeper," within the meaning of these and similar terms used in the state exemption laws, and therefore cannot, as such, claim exemptions out of the firm assets. In re Lentz (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 486; In re Smith (C. C. & D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 12,979.

Where the individual members of a bankrupt partnership claim the right to receive, each for himself, the statutory exemption out of the assets of the firm, there being no individual estates sufficient to yield the amount allowed as exempt, the court of bankruptcy will follow the rule established by the decisions of the highest court of the state, if any have been rendered. In re Beauchamp (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 106, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 151; In re Camp (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 745, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165; In re Stevenson (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 789, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 230. If no rule has been thus established in the particular state, the individual partners are not entitled to exemptions out of the partnership property, unless there should be a surplus after paying all firm debts. Jennings v. Stannus (1911) 191 Fed. 347, 112 C. C. A. 91, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 384; In re Scheier (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 744, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 739; In re Beauchamp (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 106, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 151.

In case of the bankruptcy of a partnership, where the individual partners have no separate estates, but there are assets of the firm in bankruptcy, each partner is held entitled to receive, out of the partnership assets, the exemption allowed by law, under the statutes of the following states, as construed and applied by the courts of bankruptcy: North Carolina. In re Gartner Hancock Lumber Co. (C. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 153, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 898; In re Seabolt (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 766, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 57; In re Stevenson (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 789, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 230; In re Grimes (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 800, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 160; In re Duguid (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 274, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 794; In re Wilson (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 571, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 260. Georgia. In re Rutland Grocery Co. (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 765, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 942; In re Camp (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 745, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165. Wisconsin. In re Zimmerman (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 812; In re Friedrich (1900) 100 Fed. 284, 40 C. C. A. 378, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 801; In re Friederick (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 282; Ex parte Robinson (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 11,933. Missouri. In re Young (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 440, Fed. Cas. No.

18,148; In re Richardson (D. C. 1874) 11 N. B. R. 114, Fed. Cas. No. 11,776. New York. Stewart v. Brown (1867) 37 N. Y. 350, 93 Am. Dec. 578. Michigan. In re Andrews & Simonds (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 776, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 116; In re Parks (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 270, Fed. Cas. No. 10,765.

In the following states, the individual members of a bankrupt partnership are not entitled to claim any separate exemption out of the partnership assets: Ohio. In re Tonne (D. C. 1875) 13 N. B. R. 170, Fed. Cas. No. 14,095; In re Rosenbaum, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 541. South Dakota. In re Abrams (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 271; In re Novak (D. C. 1907) 150 Fed. 602, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 236; In re Lentz (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 486; In re I. S. Vickerman & Co. (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 589, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 298. Compare In re McKercher, 8 N. B. R. 409. Pennsylvania. In re Prince & Walter (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 546, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 675; In re Hafer (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 547, Fed. Cas. No. 5,896. Arkansas. In re Head (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 489, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 556; In re Meriwether (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 102, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 435; In re Handlin (C. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 6,018. Alabama. In re McCrary Bros. (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 485, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 161. New Jersey. In re Demarest (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 638, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 232. Vermont. In re Mosier (D. C. 1901) 112 Fed. 138, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 268. Washington. Jennings v. Staunus (1911) 191 Fed. 347, 112 C. C. A. 91, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 384. Mississippi. In re H. W. Bundy & Co. (D. C. 1914) 218 Fed. 711.

A partner having an equal interest with his copartner in the firm property is entitled to claim his statutory exemption therefrom, in case of the bankruptcy of the firm, although the amount contributed by him to the capital of the firm was less than the amount of such exemption. In re Grimes (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 800, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 160. But compare In re Rutland Grocery Co. (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 765, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 942.

A surviving partner may have his personal exemption set apart to him out of the partnership effects with the consent of the administrator of deceased partner. In re Seabolt (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 766, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 57; In re Dinglehoef (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 866, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 242.

Where a firm consists of several partners, all must consent to the allowance of exemptions out of the firm property, and if any object, it cannot be done. In re J. M. Monroe & Co. (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 216, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 255.

A partner cannot be allowed an exemption out of the firm's property unless it appears that he has no individual estate out of which to claim and receive the exemption. In re Steed (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 682, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 73.

To be entitled to claim his individual exemption out of assets of a firm in bankruptcy, the claimant must establish his status as a member of the firm. In re E. M. Fowler & Co. (D. C. 1906) 145 Fed. 270, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 580; In re Wilson (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 571, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 260; In re W. J. Floyd & Co. (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 757, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 827. An alleged partner who escapes adjudication on the ground of his being an infant cannot claim exemptions as a partner. In re Ellenbecker (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 396, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 537.

One is not deprived of his right to exemptions by the mere fact that he has conducted his business under a name indicating that it was owned by a firm or a corporation, if in fact he was the sole owner of it. In re Carpenter (1901) 109 Fed. 558, 48 C. C. A. 545, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 465.

Where, by agreement between the partners, the partnership property is turned over to one of the partners, to become his individual property, he is entitled to claim his exemption out or such property in bankruptcy proceedings subsequently brought against him. In re Kolber (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 281, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 414, citing Sargent v. Blake (1908) 160 Fed. 57, 87 C. C. A. 213, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 115, 17 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1040. And see In re Bjornstad (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 382, Fed. Cas. No. 1,453.

Where members of partnership the day preceding the adjudication in bankruptcy took $200 each from the partnership assets, held, that the money became their separate property and subject to claims of exemption, under Kirby's Dig. Ark. § 3903. Crawford v. Sternberg (1915) 220 Fed. 73, 135 C. C. A. 641.

Where a firm which is insolvent dissolves, but there is no transfer of the property by the retiring partner to the liquidating partner, but the former simply abandons his interest in the firm, the liquidating partner will not be allowed to claim an individual exemption out of the assets of the firm, on the theory that he is now the sole owner. In re Abrams (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 271.

§ 9591. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 7.) Duties of bankrupts.

Duties of Bankrupts.—a The bankrupt shall (1) attend the first meeting of his creditors, if directed by the court or a judge thereof to do so, and the hearing upon his application for a discharge, if filed; (2) comply with all lawful orders of the court; (3) examine the correctness of all proofs of claims filed against his estate; (4) execute and deliver such papers as shall be ordered by the court; (5) execute to his trustee transfers of all his property in foreign countries; (6) immediately inform his trustee of any attempt, by his creditors or other persons, to evade the provisions of this Act, coming to his knowledge; (7) in case of any person having to his knowledge proved a false claim against his estate, disclose that fact immediately to his trustee; (8) prepare, make oath to, and file in court within ten days, unless further time is granted, after the adjudication, if an involuntary bankrupt, and with the petition if a voluntary bankrupt, a schedule of his property, showing the amount and kind of property, the location thereof, its money value in detail, and a list of his creditors, showing their residences, if known, if unknown, that fact to be stated, the amounts due each of them, the consideration thereof, the security held by them, if any, and a claim for such exemptions as he may be entitled to, all in triplicate, one copy of each for the clerk, one for the referee, and one for the trustee; and (9) when present at the first meeting of his creditors, and at such other times as the court shall order, submit to an examination concerning the conducting of his business, the cause of his bankruptcy, his dealings with his creditors and other persons, the amount, kind, and whereabouts of his property, and, in addition, all matters which may affect the administration and settlement of his estate; but no testimony given by him shall be offered in evidence against him in any criminal proceeding.

Provided, however, That he shall not be required to attend a meeting of his creditors, or at or for an examination at a place more than one hundred and fifty miles distant from his home or principal place of business, or to examine claims except when presented to him, unless ordered by the court, or a judge thereof, for cause shown, and the bankrupt shall be paid his actual expenses from the estate when examined or required to attend at any place other than the city, town, or village of his residence. (30 Stat. 548.)

Notes of Decisions

I. Status and duties of bankrupt

1. Status of bankrupt during proceedings.
2. Duties of bankrupt with relation to estate.
3. —— Assistance to trustee.

II. Schedule of assets and list of creditors

4. Schedule of assets—Preparation and filing.
5. —— Privilege against self-crimination.
6. Form and contents of schedule.
7. Mistakes and omissions in schedule.
8. List of creditors.
9. —— Addresses of creditors.
10. Statement and description of debts.
11. Amendment of schedule and list.
12. —— Time of allowing amendments.

III. Surrender of money or assets to trustee

13. Jurisdiction and power to order.
14. Petition, order, and proceedings thereon.
15. Evidence to sustain order.
16. Excuses, defenses, and allowances.
17. Commitment for contempt.

IV. After-acquired property and surplus of estate

18. After-acquired property.
19. Right to surplus of estate.

I. STATUS AND DUTIES OF BANKRUPT

1. Status of bankrupt during proceedings.—During the pendency of the proceedings, the bankrupt is regarded as "civiliter mortuus" so far as concerns all his property and estate which is subject to administration in bankruptcy. From the date of the adjudication in bankruptcy, he loses all power of disposing of any portion of such property, and any subsequent deed, conveyance, incumbrance, transfer, or agreement which he may make is a nullity and absolutely void as against his trustee in bankruptcy. In re Anderson (D. C. 1885) 23 Fed. 482; In re Gregg (D. C. 1868) 3 N. B. R. 529, Fed. Cas. No. 5,796; Johnson v. Geisriter (1870) 26 Ark. 44; Hamilton v. Smith (1907) 36 Mont. 1, 92 Pac. 32, 122 Am. St. Rep. 330; Redman v. Gould (1845) 7 Blackf. (Ind.) 361. He can make no binding agreement with creditors or others as to the distribution of his estate. In re Anderson (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 351. If he executes a mortgage on his property, pending the proceedings, the trustee may have it set aside summarily on petition, and need not resort to a bill in equity. In re Sims (D. C. 1878) 16 N. B. R. 251, Fed. Cas. No. 12,888. If the bankrupt undertakes to make an assignment of a judgment standing in his name, it passes no right or title available against the trustee. Harris v. England (1880) 1 Ky. Law Rep. 271. Even a transfer of promissory notes by the payee, pending bankruptcy proceedings against him which result in an adjudication and an injunction against disposing of his property, vests no title in the purchaser, though he had no actual notice of the proceedings. In re Lake (D. C. 1872) 6 N. B. R. 542, Fed. Cas. No. 7,992.

All persons are so far affected with constructive notice of a proceeding in bankruptcy that they cannot deal with the bankrupt or his estate to the prejudice of the proceedings or in derogation of the title of the trustee. Page v. Waring (1879) 76 N. Y. 463.

Payment of a debt made to a bankrupt after the commencement of proceedings against him, though made in good faith and in the usual course of business, and without any knowledge or actual notice of the bankruptcy proceedings, is not effectual to discharge the debt, but the debtor may be required to pay the money again to the trustee in bankruptcy, unless, indeed, the bankrupt should surrender the amount of it. Howard v. Crompton (C. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 6,758; In re Hayden (D. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 192, Fed. Cas. No. 6,257; Mays v. Manufacturers' Nat. Bank (1870) 64 Pa. 74, 3 Am. Rep. 573. See Babbitt v. Burgess (C. C. 1873) 7 N. B. R. 561, Fed. Cas. No. 693; Ex parte Goodwin, 1 Atk. Ch. 100.

The bankrupt has the right to deal as he sees fit with property which is of such a character that it is not affected by the bankruptcy proceedings and does not pass to the trustee. Tallman v. Tallman (1850) 5 Cush. (Mass.) 325. Such is the rule in regard to a right of action for a purely personal tort against the bankrupt, such as libel or slander or malicious prosecution and false arrest. In re Haensell (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 355, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 286; Stanly v. Duhurst (1793) 2 Root (Conn.) 52; Noonan v. Orton (1874) 34 Wis. 259, 17 Am. Rep. 441, 12 N. B. R. 405; In re Crockett (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 208, Fed. Cas. No. 3,402; Dillard v. Collins (1874) 25 Grat. (Va.) 343.

The individual bankruptcy of a person who is a stockholder and director and officer of a corporation (which is not in bankruptcy) does not prevent him from voting on stock still standing in his name, nor incapacitate him from exercising his functions as such officer of the corporation, nor render void as to third persons the acts and conveyances of the corporation done and executed through him as its representative. Atlas Nat. Bank v. Gardner (C. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 635; State v. Ferris (1875) 42 Conn. 560.

2. Duties of bankrupt with relation to estate.—Prior to the appointment of a trustee, the bankrupt has sufficient title to the personal property included in his schedule of assets to enable him to bring, and in case the trustee neither sues nor intervenes, to prosecute to judgment, a suit for damages occasioned by the alleged unlawful judicial sale of such property after he had filed a claim of exemption. Johnson v. Collier (1912) 222 U. S. 538, 32 Sup. Ct. 104, 56 L. Ed. 306; Hickcock v. Bell (1877) 46 Tex. 610.

A corporation in bankruptcy must deliver to its trustee its corporate records and stock books, and the court of bankruptcy has power to compel it to do so, there being no adverse holding, on petition and rule to show cause. Babbitt v. Dutcher (1910) 216 U. S. 102, 30 Sup. Ct. 372, 54 L. Ed. 402. A bankrupt refusing to turn over his books of account to his trustee may be punished as for contempt. In re Wilson (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 419, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 612.

The court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to require the bankrupt to do whatever is necessary to make valid and effectual the legal transfer of his property to the trustee. In re Lattimer (D. C. 1909) 174 Fed. 824, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 388; In re Hudson River Water Power Co. (D. C. 1906) 148 Fed. 877, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 778. The bankrupt may be compelled to join in an application for the transfer of a liquor license formerly belonging to him and sold by the trustee. In re Wiesel (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 718, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 59. Or in such proceedings as are necessary to transfer a seat on the stock exchange. In re Hurlbutt, Hatch & Co. (1905) 135 Fed. 504, 68 C. C. A. 216, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 50. Where a devise has been made to a bankrupt and accepted by him, it is a fraud upon his creditors for him to disclaim or renounce it, and the court of bankruptcy will compel him to do all acts necessary to perfect his title to the devised estate. Ex parte Fuller (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 5,147.

The fact that no trustee has yet been appointed will not relieve the bankrupt from the duty, or deprive him of the right, of objecting to the allowance of any false or unjust claim against his estate, or of moving for its expunction. In re Ankeny (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 614, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 72.

3. —— Assistance to trustee.—A claim by a bankrupt for compensation for rendering extraordinary services and assistance to his trustee, beyond what was required to make the property, rights, credits, and effects available, cannot be allowed by the court, though it may be allowed by the creditors as an act of grace on their part. In re Barnes (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 1,-013.

A bankrupt is under no obligation to render services, in his capacity as an attorney at law, in proceedings to realize his estate for the benefit of his creditors, and if he does so, he will be entitled to the payment of a fair compensation therefor out of the funds so secured. Blythe v. Thomas (1893) 55 Fed. 961, 5 C. C. A. 356.

II. SCHEDULE OF ASSETS AND LIST OF CREDITORS

4. Schedule of assets—Preparation and filing.—Under General Order in Bankruptcy No. 8, where a partnership and one member of it are adjudged bankrupt, and the other member is not so adjudged, the latter must file a schedule and inventory within ten days. Armstrong v. Fisher (1915) 224 Fed. 97, 139 C. C. A. 653.

Where proceedings in bankruptcy against a corporation are pending in the federal court in one state, and the treasurer of the corporation, who alone is competent to prepare its schedules, resides in another state, ancillary proceedings may be instituted in the latter state to compel him to prepare and file such schedules. In re Brockton Ideal Shoe Co. (1912) 200 Fed. 745, 119 C. C. A. 189.

The court may compel the bankrupt to file satisfactory schedules by withholding his discharge until this is done. In re Walther (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 941, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 702; In re Schulman & Goldstein (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 440, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 76.

5. —— Privilege against self-crimination.—A bankrupt is not relieved from the duty of filing a schedule on the ground that its contents would tend to incriminate him, or could be used in evidence against him in a criminal prosecution; but even though he is under indictment at the time, he is required in good faith to make an effort to file a schedule which will comply with the requirements of the bankruptcy act, up to the point where the court can see that further obedience would violate his constitutional privilege. But he will be excused from making any statement in his schedule with reference to a transaction between himself and a third person, where it is apparent that there is immediate danger of a criminal prosecution against the bankrupt arising out of such transaction. In re Podolin (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 1014, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 406.

Where bankrupts sent through the mail in June, 1911, a false financial statement, and, after proceedings in bankruptcy were instituted, they were indicted for misuse of the mails in sending out such statement, there was no such connection between their condition in June and that in October, when they were adjudged bankrupt, as would entitle them to refuse to file schedules in bankruptcy, on the theory that to do so would tend to incriminate them. Where a bankrupt claims that to furnish information will tend to incriminate him, it must appear from the character of the information sought that his claim is justified, or he must produce facts on which he bases such claim, that the court may judge of their sufficiency. Podolin v. Lesher Warner Dry Goods Co. (1914) 210 Fed. 97, 126 C. C. A. 611, affirming judgment In re Podolin (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 563.

6. Form and contents of schedule.—Corporate stock standing in the name of a bankrupt should be included in his schedule, although hypothecated for its full value. In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715. Growing crops unmatured must be entered on the schedule. In re Schumpert (D. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 415, Fed. Cas. No. 12,491. So also must a claim of the bankrupt for damages on a contract for the sale of goods. In re Orne (C. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 57, Fed. Cas. No. 10,581. If the bankrupt has property in his possession and has the actual use of it as his own, although his title to it may be defeasible, he must set it out in his schedule and turn it over to his trustee. In re Beal (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 587, Fed. Cas. No. 1,156. The bankrupt's willful omission from his schedule of his interest in a vested estate in remainder to take effect in possession after the termination of a precedent life estate, is such a fraud as will vitiate his discharge. Edwards v. Gibbs (1860) 39 Miss. 166. A grantor in an unrecorded deed, who becomes bankrupt, properly includes in his schedule the property conveyed thereby. Davis v. Pursel (Colo. 1913) 134 Pac. 107.

Where the bankrupt has no property except what he claims as exempt, and his creditors are all of one class, he is required, in making up his schedule, to use only such forms as are appropriate to and descriptive of the debts and property he is required to list. Anonymous (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 122, Fed. Cas. No. 457.

Property or rights of action which are of such a character that they will not vest in the trustee are not to be included in the schedule of the bankrupt. In re Brick (D. C. 1880) 4 Fed. 804.

As the schedule speaks from the date of the filing of the petition, the bankrupt is bound to set forth in it only such property as he has a right or interest in at the commencement of the proceedings. Ex parte Robertson (C. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 11,921. The proceedings in bankruptcy are not constructive notice to any one of facts not necessary to appear therein, and this is true of a statement in the bankrupt's as to property formerly, but , owned by him. Page v. War- 9) 76 N. Y. 463.

ty which the bankrupt has ed, assigned, or conveyed away fraudulent design to hinder or his creditors is not to be in- his schedule, since, as to the t himself, such a transfer or nt is valid and binding. In re w (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 632, 2 kr. Rep. 623; In re Schreck, 1 nkr. News, 334; In re Warne 882) 12 Fed. 431; In re Free- C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 64, Fed. 5,082; Ex parte Robertson (C.) Fed. Cas. No. 11,921. But In re Skinner (D. C. 1899) 97 , 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 163.

a proposed voluntary bank- o has no property except such empt, borrows $50 wherewith he fees and costs of his attor- before filing his petition, he is ired to list the sum so bor- his schedule of assets, and his to do so is no ground of op- to his discharge. Sellers v. C. A. 1899) 94 Fed. 801, 2 kr. Rep. 529. An interest in profits of a business as addi- mpensation for the services of upt need not be scheduled by re Brown (D. C. 1842) Fed. 1,978.

received from the United s a pension, and remaining in sioner's hands at the time of petition in bankruptcy, should in his schedule of assets un- heading of "cash on hand," with nent that he claims it as ex- If omitted without fraudulent e may be permitted to insert endment. In re Bean (D. C. 0 Fed. 262, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep.

ct that property of the bank- hen previously sold at judicial s bought by members of his ea not afford presumptive evi- an ownership remaining in the which will require him to ac- r the property in his schedule. iley (D. C. 1842) 18 Fed. Cas. In re Pomeroy (D. C. 1868) R. 14, Fed. Cas. No. 11,258; mmitsch (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. ed. Cas. No. 6,866.

chedule should set forth the items of household furniture ring apparel, but a defect in ticular may be remedied by nt. In re Hill (D. C. 1867) R. 16, Fed. Cas. No. 6,481. ers v. Bell (C. C. A. 1899) 94 1, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529. ts in favor of the bankrupt e entered under the heading l property" in the schedule, under the head of "unliquidat- s." In re Sallee (D. C. 1868) R. 228, Fed. Cas. No. 12,256. ing forth interests in real es- tate, it is not necessary that the schedule should describe the property with all the particularity of a deed or mortgage, but there must be a sufficient description to fix the location of the property and enable the trustee to identify it with certainty. See In re Shenberger (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 978, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 487; Woods v. Little (1905) 134 Fed. 229, 67 C. C. A. 157, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 742; In re Gailey (1904) 127 Fed. 538, 62 C. C. A. 336, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 539; In re Frisbee (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 5,130; In re Dodge (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 3,946a.

7. Mistakes and omissions in schedule.—If an omission or other error in the bankrupt's schedule was the result of mere mistake, accident, or inadvertence on his part or of the attorney who prepared the schedule, without fraudulent design, it will not sustain a prosecution against him nor be a reason for refusing his discharge. In re Crenshaw (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 632, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 623; In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715; Sellers v. Bell (C. C. A. 1899) 94 Fed. 801, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529; In re Bushnell, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 528; In re Winsor (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 152, Fed. Cas. No. 17,885. Nor can a criminal prosecution or the refusal of a discharge be based on the omission of property from the schedule, when the bankrupt's reason for not including it was his honest, though mistaken, belief that he had no title to it or interest in it, or that it was worthless, or that the incumbrances upon it were so great as to leave no margin of value for the general creditors. In re Barrow (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 582, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 414; In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715; In re Winsor (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 152, Fed. Cas. No. 17,885; In re Cushman (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 3,512. But if the bankrupt describes a claim as worthless when he knows it to be of considerable value, or has reason to believe it valuable, a purchase made by him, or for his benefit, of his assets for a nominal sum, even after his discharge, at a sale by the trustee, would be considered fraudulent and void. Phelps v. McDonald (1876) 2 MacArthur (9 D. C.) 375. An erroneous claim of certain articles mentioned as exempt does not affect the truth of the affidavit to the schedule which states that it contains a statement of all the bankrupt's estate. In re Whetmore (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 17,508.

Neither the adjudication of bankruptcy nor the decree of the court upon the bankrupt's application for discharge can be impeached collaterally by reason of anything contained in the schedule or anything omitted from it, as the jurisdiction of the court is not founded upon it. Fuller v. Pease (1887) 144

Mass. 390, 11 N. E. 694; Graves v. Wright (1884) 53 Mich. 425, 19 N. W. 129.

8. List of creditors.—If the names and addresses of creditors are so illegibly written that the referee cannot determine with certainty who are the persons entitled to notice of the first meeting and where they are to be served, it is his duty to refuse to take any action until he has been furnished with a fair and legible copy of the list. In re Hall (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 192, Fed. Cas. No. 5,922.

A debt of a bankrupt due William J. Davidson is not discharged by scheduling it in the name of William F. Davison. Collins v. Davidson (1908) 34 Ohio Cir. Ct. R. 668.

The listing of a creditor by an initial instead of by his Christian name is not such an insufficient compliance with the requirements of the bankruptcy act as to deprive the bankrupt of the benefit of the order discharging provable debts. Kreitlein v. Ferger (1915) 238 U. S. 21, 35 Sup. Ct. 685, 59 L. Ed. 1184.

The list is to be deemed sufficient if the exercise of reasonable intelligence and common sense, brought to bear upon it, will prevent mistake as to the persons of the creditors or their addresses. Gatliff v. Mackey (1907) 31 Ky. Law Rep. 947, 104 S. W. 379; In re Orne (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 10,582.

A creditor objecting that the bankrupt does not set forth a full list of his creditors, with their residences and the amounts due, must point out the omission. In re Plimpton (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 11,227.

Under section 17 (post, § 9601), relating to the effect of discharge, held, that notice to mortgage creditor, who was not included in the bankrupt's schedule, by a third person, was not such as to discharge the debt. Wheeler v. Newton (1915) 154 N. Y. S. 431, 168 App. Div. 782.

A bankrupt is not estopped from alleging the invalidity of a judgment because he has placed it on his schedule in the list of claims against him. King v. Pickett (1880) 32 La. Ann. 1006.

9. —— Addresses of creditors.—The statements of the residences of creditors in the bankrupt's list should be such as will insure due delivery of notices to them by mail or service in person. In re Pulver (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 11,466.

A schedule listing a creditor's residence as "Indianapolis, Ind.," without giving a street and house number, is prima facie at least a sufficient compliance with the requirement of the act in regard to showing the residences of creditors in the list, and such omission does not, as a matter of law, render the bankrupt's discharge inoperative. Kreitlein v. Ferger (1915) 238 U. S. 21, 35 Sup. Ct. 685, 59 L. Ed. 1184.

A question of diligence in ascertaining the correct residence of a creditor of a bankrupt enters into the question as to whether the debt has been properly scheduled only so far as it affects the good faith of the debtor's statement in the schedule that such residence is unknown. Lutz v. Kalmus (Sup. 1909) 115 N. Y. Supp. 230.

Where a creditor's address is erroneously given in the list filed, and notice is sent to that address, and his true address might easily have been ascertained from the city directory, no proper notice has been given. In re Quackenbush (1907) 122 App. Div. 456, 106 N. Y. Supp. 773.

Where a schedule in voluntary bankruptcy stated the present residences of certain creditors to be unknown, but gave their former residences, it was held that the statement as to the present residences was sufficient, and that the statement as to their former residences was surplusage, but the bankrupt could show, either in the list or by separate affidavit, what efforts he had made to ascertain the residences of such creditors. In re Pulver (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 11,466.

10. Statement and description of debts.—The statement of the amount due to each creditor is sufficient if the sum and the date of the debt or judgment is given. In re Hill (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 6,481.

A judgment due to a firm should be listed in the firm's name, without setting forth the names of its members, but giving their individual names will not vitiate the list. Anonymous (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 122, Fed. Cas. No. 457. And see New York Institution for Instruction of Deaf and Dumb v. Crockett (1907) 117 App. Div. 269, 102 N. Y. Supp. 412.

In listing a debt due to a newspaper, the name of its proprietor should be given, and not merely the name of the newspaper. Anonymous (D. C. 1843) 2 N. B. R. 141, Fed. Cas. No. 462.

Where a bankrupt in his schedule sets forth a debt represented by a promissory note to be due to one who is the equitable owner thereof though not the legal payee, it is sufficient. Ross-Lewin v. Goold (1904) 113 Ill. App. 499.

Where a judgment previously recovered against the bankrupt still appears of record as an unsatisfied obligation against him in favor of the judgment creditor, it is rightly included in his schedule as a debt due to that creditor, although it has actually been sold to another creditor, and the bankrupt is chargeable with knowledge of the sale. Sellers v. Bell (1899) 94 Fed. 801, 36 C. C. A. 502, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529.

The bankrupt must state whether or not any note has been given, or any judgment rendered, for each of the debts listed, and whether or not any person is liable with him as a partner or joint contractor. In re Orne (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 10,582.

ngent liability need not be list- it does not appear that the rimarily liable will not pay in re Greenebaum (D. C. 1878) No. 5,769.

endment of schedule and list.— reditors are omitted from the ebts, or property omitted from lule of assets, or either wrong- but as the result of accident, or inadvertence, or where lack of form or of compliance statutory requisites, General o. 11 authorizes corrections to in the manner prescribed. In ell (D. C. 1915) 222 Fed. 160; erry (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. l. Cas. No. 10,998; In re Hill 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 6,481; In ee (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No.

bankrupt, without any fraud- ent, has omitted from his sched- erty which he means to claim pt, he will be allowed to insert nendment. In re Bean (D. C. 0 Fed. 262, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. rrelson v. Webb (1909) 124 7, 50 South. 833, 134 Am. St. 9.

editor who has proved his claim right to ask that the bankrupt ired to amend defects in his . In re Jones (D. C. 1868) R. 59, Fed. Cas. No. 7,447.

eferee in bankruptcy has au- to allow amendments to the and list. In re Morford (D.) Fed. Cas. No. 9,796; In re D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 10,- der authorizing or requiring an ent in the bankrupt's schedule specify particularly the respects h it is to be amended. In re D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 79, Fed. o. 10,582.

the former bankruptcy law it ld that an application by the t for leave to amend and cor- list of creditors, by inserting ne of a creditor inadvertently , was ex parte and grantable of and required no notice to cred- nd that creditors had no right ct to such amendment, and no f fact or law could be raised or ed in regard to it. In re Hill 1881) 5 Fed. 448; In re Watts 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 17,293; In er (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 46, Cas. No. 6,339. The right of nent may be conditioned on such as will prevent any injustice or ity. In re Ratcliffe (D. C. 1867) as. No. 11,578.

e the names of creditors are y amendment of the bankrupt's es after the election of a trus- nose votes would have changed ction, a new meeting of cred- ould be held and a new election tee held, and if this results in oice of a different trustee from first chosen, he may be remov- ed. In re Perry (D. C. 1873) 1 N. B. R. 220, Fed. Cas. No. 10,998; In re Ratcliffe (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 400, Fed. Cas. No. 11,578; In re Morgenthal (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 402, Fed. Cas. No. 9,813; In re Carson (D. C. 1868) 5 N. B. R. 290, Fed. Cas. No. 2,460.

12. —— Time of allowing amendments.—As to the time or stage of the proceedings at which amendments may be allowed, it is held that they do not come too late if made after the filing of specifications of opposition to the discharge of the bankrupt (based on errors or omissions in the schedules), and even though a hearing may have been had on such specifications, yet if it can be shown to the court that the bankrupt was guilty of no greater fault than inadvertence or mistake, and that there is no ground for withholding the discharge by reason of any fraud or perjury, proper amendments may be ordered and the case continued, with leave to renew the application for discharge at a future time. In re Preston (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 103, Fed. Cas. No. 11,392; In re Heller (D. C. 1875) 5 N. B. R. 46, Fed. Cas. No. 6,339; In re Townsend (D. C. 1880) 2 Fed. 559. But see In re Kittler (D. C. 1910) 176 Fed. 655, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 585. It is said that the allowance of an amendment to the schedule, by adding property omitted, does not preclude a creditor from availing himself of any ground of opposition to the bankrupt's application for discharge arising out of such omission. In re Watts (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 447, Fed. Cas. No. 17,293.

Where, after the bankrupts and their trustees were discharged, the bankrupts, acting in good faith, assisted by their counsel, found additional assets of which they had hitherto been ignorant, resulting in a credit to the estate of each of about $2,000, the bankrupts, not having received the full amount of their exemptions under the state statute, were each entitled within a reasonable time to leave to amend his schedule of exempt property, and to an allowance out of the fund so obtained of an amount necessary to complete the exemption. In re Irwin (D. C. 1909) 177 Fed. 284, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165.

Where a considerable time has elapsed since the granting of a discharge, the bankrupt will not be permitted to reopen the proceedings and amend the schedule for the purpose of including an omitted creditor who had not been made a party to the proceedings, and had no notice or knowledge of them. In re Spicer (D. C. 1906) 145 Fed. 431, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 802.

III. SURRENDER OF MONEY OR ASSETS TO TRUSTEE

13. Jurisdiction and power to order. —When the court of bankruptcy is satisfied, either from the examination of the bankrupt himself or from other evidence, that he has in his possession and control money or other property which belongs to his estate in bankruptcy and should be administered by the trustee, and if the bankrupt has neglected or refused to surrender such money or property to his trustee, or fails or refuses to give any account of his disposition of it, or attempts to account for its loss by a story which is incredible in itself or is contradicted by trustworthy evidence, then it is within the power and jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy summarily to order the bankrupt to pay the money or surrender the property to the trustee, and his obedience to this order may be enforced by committing him to prison, as for a contempt of court, where he may be held until he will comply with the command of the court, or until it becomes evident that it is impossible for him to yield such obedience. In re Kalmanowitz (D. C. 1914) 211 Fed. 167; Schweer v. Brown (C. C. A. 1904) 130 Fed. 328, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 178; In re Rosser (1900) 101 Fed. 562, 41 C. C. A. 497, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 153; In re Schlesinger (1900) 102 Fed. 117, 42 C. C. A. 207, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 361; In re Purvine (1899) 96 Fed. 192, 37 C. C. A. 446, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 787; In re Shachter (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 1010, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 499; In re Gerstel (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 166, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 411; Ripon Knitting Works v. Schreiber (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 810, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 299; In re Mayer (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 839, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 533; In re Logan (D. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 678, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 543; Wayne Knitting Mills v. Nugent (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 714; In re Schlesinger (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 930, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 342; In re Wilson (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 419, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 612; In re Shaffer & Stern (D. C. 1911) 185 Fed. 549, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 54; Cummings v. Synnott (C. C. A. 1911) 184 Fed. 718, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 859; In re De Gottardi (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 328, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723; In re Greenberg (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 496, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 840; In re Felson (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 288, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 716; In re Tudor (D. C.) 96 Fed. 942, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 808; In re Pevear (D. C. 1884) 21 Fed. 121; In re Salkey (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 423, Fed. Cas. No. 12,253, affirmed (C. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 516, Fed. Cas. No. 12,254; In re Peltasohn (C. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 265, Fed. Cas. No. 10,912; In re Kempner (D. C. 1873) 6 N. B. R. 521, Fed. Cas. No. 7,689; In re Speyer (D. C. 1871) 6 N. B. R. 255, Fed. Cas. No. 13,239; In re How (D. C. 1879) 18 N. B. R. 565, Fed. Cas. No. 6,747; In re Dresser (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 557, Fed. Cas. No. 4,077.

The fact that a bankrupt who knowingly and fraudulently conceals from his trustee any property belonging to his estate in bankruptcy thereby commits a crime, for which he is liable to be prosecuted and punished by imprisonment, does not deprive the court of jurisdiction to order him to surrender the property and to deal with him as for contempt if he does not obey. Ripon Knitting Works v. Schreiber (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 810, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 299. And since such an order is not an order for the payment of a debt, it cannot be said that a commitment of the bankrupt to jail to enforce his obedience to it is in any sense imprisonment for debt. In re Rosser (1900) 101 Fed. 562, 41 C. C. A. 497, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 153.

Two essential facts condition the lawful exercise of this power by the court; first, that the money or property directed to be delivered to the trustee shall be a part of the bankrupt's estate, and second, that the bankrupt has it in his possession or under his control at the time the order for delivery is made. In re Rosser (1900) 101 Fed. 562, 41 C. C. A. 497, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 153.

In speaking of the "court," in this connection, it is to be understood that the referee is included. That officer has jurisdiction of an application for an order requiring such a surrender of property, and to make an order in accordance with his findings on such application. In re Mayer (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 839, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 533; In re Oliver (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 85, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 783.

Where the bankrupts absconded from the state where original bankruptcy proceedings were instituted, and carried large sums of money into Louisiana, the federal court of that state, sitting in bankruptcy, had ancillary jurisdiction to assist the domiciliary receiver to recover the money. Musica v. Prentice (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 326, affirming decree In re A. Musica & Son (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 413. Appeal dismissed Lazarus, Michael & Lazarus v. Prentice (1914) 34 S. Ct. 851, 234 U. S. 263, 58 L. Ed. 1305.

Where a bankrupt, within a few days before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, sold property and handed the proceeds over to his wife, she will be regarded as holding the same as his agent, and the facts will warrant an order requiring him to pay the money over to his trustee. In re Eddleman (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 160, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 45. So where the owner of patents for inventions has assigned them to a corporation in exchange for its stock, he holds them thereafter merely as an agent or officer of the company, and must surrender them to its trustee. In re Cantelo Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 158, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 704.

It is the duty of the bankrupt to surrender to the trustee any money which have collected from his debtors e commencement of the bankroceedings, and he may be ord required to do so. Howard pton (C. C. 1877) Fed. Cas.

8; In re Ettinger (D. C. 1878)
R. 222, Fed. Cas. No. 4,543.
, after commencement of bankroceedings, but before receiver ointed, the bankrupt transferrance policies to a state court the court should require the to be transferred to the bank-receiver. Davis v. Williams 16) 87 S. E. 1050.
there was evidence that parer than bankrupts were inter-alleged dummy corporation, t trustee should have proceed-st corporation for surrender of erty in order that such parties e protected. Cohen v. Bach-C. C. A. 1916) 229 Fed. 385.

tition, order, and proceedings —In order to obtain a surren-property or money by a bank-is not necessary to resort to a suit, but the matter may be del summarily, that is, on a pe-the trustee and a rule on the t to show cause why he should ordered as prayed. In re Adler 1904) 129 Fed. 502, 12 Am.
Rep. 19; In re Pevear (D. C.
1 Fed. 121; In re McKenna (D.
) 9 Fed. 27; In re Thompson 876) 13 N. B. R. 300, Fed. Cas.
938.
al Order 37 (post, § 9614), pro-hat the rules of equity proceed-all be followed, does not ap-summary proceeding to compel t to turn over property to his
In re Cunney (D. C. 1904)
l. 426. The application can be ly by the trustee in bankrupt-g for the benefit of the cred-large; a motion will not be ned if made by a creditor inde-y of the trustee. In re Elio-
D. C. 1906) 148 Fed. 510, 17
nkr. Rep. 419.
money or property in quesupposed to be in the possession third person, holding as an r bailee of the bankrupt, the t should be dealt with first, oceedings cannot be taken the alleged agent to compel him nt for the property until it has ecifically traced into his hands.
ogelman (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed.
Am. Bankr. Rep. 742. It is before applying to the court, demand upon the bankrupt property in question, but he complain of the omission of demand if the order for its deserved on him in ample time of his compliance before steps en to punish him. In re D.
Co. (1905) 142 Fed. 442, 73
C. C. A. 558, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 166.

The trustee's petition for such an order should contain definite averments and state specifically what sum of money or what particular property the bankrupt is alleged to be concealing or withholding. In re Ruos (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 749, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 257; In re Greer (D. C. 1911)189 Fed. 511, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 811; Ripon Knitting Works v. Schreiber (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 810, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 299. But the petition need not allege affirmatively that the bankrupt is able to comply with an order requiring its surrender. In re Stavrahn (1909) 174 Fed. 330, 98 C. C. A. 202, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 168.

In a petition by the trustee of a bankrupt corporation for an order requiring an officer to turn over property of the corporation, it is sufficient to allege that it is in his possession, leaving him to set up any adverse claim he may have thereto. In re Brockton Ideal Shoe Co. (1913) 202 Fed. 199, 120 C. C. A. 447.

Where, in a proceeding by a trustee to require a bankrupt to pay over to him certain sums of money which were found to be no longer under his control, the evidence disclosed a failure to account for a larger amount, and all the proceedings were thereafter conducted as if the bankrupt was charged with the secretion of the entire amount, and the issues were contested with reference to the entire balance unaccounted for, rather than any particular items, an order requiring the bankrupt to pay to the trustee money unaccounted for, other than the items sought to be recovered when the proceeding was instituted, was not unauthorized. In re Vyse (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 727.

The bankrupt must have notice of the application and an opportunity to be heard in his own behalf, to make his defense, produce evidence, and cross-examine witnesses, and an order made without such notice and opportunity being given is unlawful and void. In re Atwater (D. C. 1915) 227 Fed. 511; In re Rosser (1900) 101 Fed. 562, 41 C. C. A. 497, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 153; In re Frank (C. C. A. 1910) 182 Fed. 794, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 486; Boyd v. Glucklich (1902) 116 Fed. 131, 53 C. C. A. 451, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 393; In re Cole (C. C. A. 1907) 163 Fed. 180, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 761; In re Baum (1909) 169 Fed. 410, 94 C. C. A. 632, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 295.

The bankrupt may either answer or demur to the trustee's petition. In re Koplin (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 1013, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 534. But his answer, although under oath, is not conclusive on the court, but it may proceed to inquire into all the facts and circumstances. In re Gerstel (D. C. 1903)

123 Fed. 166, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 411.

Proceedings on the petition are usually had before the referee, but the court may refer the matter to a special master for hearing and an examination of the bankrupt. In re Herskovitz (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 316, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 247.

The referee in bankruptcy in a proceeding by the trustee to compel a bankrupt to turn over money in his possession or under his control should in the first instance have merely found that such money was in his possession or under his control at the date of bankruptcy, leaving its subsequent disposition for inquiry under such further proceedings as might be taken. In re Pennell (1914) 214 Fed. 337, 130 C. C. A. 645.

A referee's finding that the bankrupt had in his possession money which he unlawfully withheld from his trustee deduced merely from a statement of account held not conclusive on the court which was authorized to review the evidence and make an independent finding as to whether the bankrupt had in his possession money or property which he willfully or intentionally withheld. In re Holden (1913) 203 Fed. 229, 121 C. C. A. 435, affirming order In re Haring (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 168.

If money is found to be withheld by the bankrupt, the order should require it to be paid over to the trustee, and not into the registry of the court. In re Baum (1909) 169 Fed. 410, 94 C. C. A. 632, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 295. If property other than money is involved, the order should describe it with reasonable certainty and as particularly as practicable, though in such a case as a stock of merchandise a general description will be sufficient, and should require its surrender in specie. Samel v. Dodd (1906) 142 Fed. 68, 73 C. C. A. 254, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 163; In re Lesaius (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 614, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 23.

Where an order of a referee requiring a bankrupt thus to surrender or turn over property to his trustee was based on a mistake of fact, the referee has power, on the petition of the bankrupt, filed within the time limited for a review of his decision, and the mistake being shown, to reconsider and set aside such order. In re Brenner (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 209, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 646.

15. Evidence to sustain order.—In a a proceeding to compel a bankrupt to surrender money or property alleged to be withheld or concealed by him, it is first of all necessary for the trustee to make out a prima facie case by showing that the bankrupt had such money or property in his possession or under his control at or about the time of his bankruptcy, and that it was not included in his schedule and has not since been turned over to the trustee. In re Cunney (D. C. 1904) 225 Fed. 426; In re Reynolds (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 967, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 200; In re Barton Bros. (D. C. 1907) 149 Fed. 620, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 98. In proceedings to recover withheld assets from a bankrupt, the creditors must clearly prove at least a minimum value of the property. In re Kalmanowitz (D. C. 1914) 211 Fed. 167. When this fact is established either by evidence or by the admission of the bankrupt or his failure to deny it, the burden is then shifted to the bankrupt, and it is incumbent on him to give a satisfactory reason for his failure to produce the property, by explaining in a clear, explicit, and credible manner what became of it, what disposition he made of it, or how it passed out of his possession or control. Power v. Fuhrman (1915) 220 Fed. 787, 136 C. C. A. 393; In re Ricciardelli (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 638; Good v. Kane (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 956; In re Graning (C. C. A. 1916) 229 Fed. 370; In re Stavrahn (1909) 174 Fed. 330, 98 C. C. A. 202, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 168; In re Deuell (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 633, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 60; In re Nisenson (D. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 912, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 915; In re Lesaius (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 614, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 23; In re Schlesinger (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 930, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 342; In re Averick (D. C. 1909) 170 Fed. 521, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 518; In re De Gottardi (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 328, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723; In re Rosenthal (D. C. 1912) 200 Fed. 190, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 515.

Recent possession of property by a bankrupt, failing to account for it, justifies an order for its delivery to his trustee. In re Dixon (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 624. If he fails to appear before the referee when cited for this purpose, or if, when under examination, he refuses to give any account of the money or property in question, there is sufficient ground for an order requiring him to surrender it to the trustee in bankruptcy. In re Smith (D. C. 1911) 185 Fed. 983, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 399; In re D. Levy & Co. (1905) 142 Fed. 442, 73 C. C. A. 558, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 166; In re Rosser (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 308, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 746.

The bankrupt's mere denial under oath that he has the money or property is not conclusive, and does not prevent the court from proceeding to a further investigation and making the order for surrender if sufficient contrary evidence is adduced. Kirsner v. Taliaferro (1912) 202 Fed. 51, 120 C. C. A. 305, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 832; In re Stanny (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 517; In re Kramer (D. C. 1914) 210 Fed. 977; Good v. Kane (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 956; In re Cunney the only reasonable conclusion rawn from the evidence before ree is that the bankrupt has ossession or under his control which belongs to the estate, and destroyed the books which how the facts, his mere denial ntitled to weight. In re Good- C. 1912) 196 Fed. 566, 27 Am. Rep. 697. Or where his testi- is entirely uncorroborated, he was given ample opportuni- btain corroborating testimony t this could easily have been his own testimony were true. enderson (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. Am. Bankr. Rep. 351; In re er (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 641, Bankr. Rep. 175.

1904) 225 Fed. 426; In re Stern 1914) 215 Fed. 979; Moody v. . C. 1906) 148 Fed. 295, 17 Am. Rep. 818; Schweer v. Brown 130 Fed. 328, 64 C. C. A. 574, Bankr. Rep. 178.

nscript of the testimony of the t when under examination at a of his creditors is admissible him at the hearing on an ap- for an order requiring him ender assets to the trustee. Kane (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. re Cunney (D. C. 1904) 225 6; In re Wiesen Bros. (D. C. 35 Fed. 442, 14 Am. Bankr. 7.

h trustee, in proceeding to pun- krupt for contempt for refusal over assets has burden of prov- cealment of assets, held, that roof is usually established by tions drawn from the facts, itive proof is not required. In ing (C. C. A. 1916) 229 Fed.

nstances showing a general dis- on the part of the bankrupt to etive and unfair towards his s, or to entertain a fraudulent of overreaching them or con- assets from them, may be ad- as tending to discredit his ry of the loss or disappearance property in question. In re De (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 328, Bankr. Rep. 723.

an inventory taken by a bank- rchant prior to his bankruptcy made the basis of an order re- him to turn over property, it e used with caution on account very probable unreliability. v. Taliaferro (1912) 202 Fed. C. C. A. 305.

oceedings to punish bankrupts empt in failing to comply with r requiring them to pay over funds to the trustee, they hav- fied that they did not have pos- or control of the money, the as authorized to examine the y taken by the referee to de- whether such testimony was false. In re Kramer (D. C. 1914) 210 Fed. 977.

A petition by the trustee to compel the bankrupt to surrender assets to him will be granted where, by a fair preponderance of the evidence, it appears that the bankrupt has the assets. In re Dixon (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 624; In re Cramer (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 879, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 637.

A court of bankruptcy is without authority to make an order adjudging a bankrupt guilty of contempt for failure to obey an order of a referee requiring him to turn over property or money of the estate to his trustee, except on clear and convincing proof that he has present possession or control of the property or money and the ability to comply with the order. Stuart v. Reynolds (1913) 204 Fed. 709, 123 C. C. A. 13, affirming order In re Reynolds (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 967.

It is held by the great majority of the decisions that the court must be satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that the bankrupt has the present possession or control of the money or property in question and the present ability to comply with an order for its surrender. In re Krueger (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 124, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 890; In re Krall (D. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 191, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 941; In re Berman (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 383, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 139; In re Sax (D. C. 1905) 141 Fed. 223, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 455; In re Adler (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 502, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 19; Moody v. Cole (D. C. 1906) 148 Fed. 295, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 818; Boyd v. Glucklich (1902) 116 Fed. 131, 53 C. C. A. 451, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 393; In re Walder (D. C. 1906) 142 Fed. 784, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 41; Samel v. Dodd (1906) 142 Fed. 68, 73 C. C. A. 254, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 163; In re De Gottardi (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 328, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723; In re Anderson (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 854, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 640; Ripon Knitting Works v. Schreiber (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 810, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 299; In re Mayer (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 839, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 533; In re McCormick (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 566, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 340; In re Thiessen (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 625; Kirsner v. Taliaferro (C. C. A. 1912) 202 Fed. 51, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 832; In re Holden (C. C. A. 1913) 203 Fed. 229, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 387; Shea v. Lewis (C. C. A. 1913) 206 Fed. 877, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 436; Stuart v. Reynolds (C. C. A. 1913) 204 Fed. 709, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 412; In re Mitchell (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 806.

Such an order will not be justified when based on circumstances which merely create a strong suspicion that he is concealing assets. In re Switzer (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 976, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 468; In re Adler (D. C. 1908) 170

Fed. 634, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 371. Or even a strong probability to that effect. In re Goldfarb Bros. (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 643, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 386. Where the issue turns upon comparative estimates of the value of a stock of goods at different times, an order of surrender will not be made unless the discrepancy is great and such as cannot be explained except on the theory that the bankrupt is keeping back a part. In re Reese (D. C. 1909) 170 Fed. 986, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 521.

Although the bankrupt's explanation of the loss or disappearance of his property is entirely uncontradicted by any testimony, yet the court is not bound to believe him, but may refuse to accept the explanation and make its order for the surrender of the property, when the story told by the bankrupt is so evidently manufactured for the occasion or so incredible that it would not deceive any person of reasonable sagacity. In re Stokes (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 994, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 255; In re Lippman (D. C. 1910) 184 Fed. 551, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 874; In re Robert Greenberg & Bro. (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 413, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 943; In re Weinreb (1906) 146 Fed. 243, 76 C. C. A. 609, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 702; In re Kane (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 984, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 478; In re Frankfort (D. C. 1905) 144 Fed. 721, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 210; In re Chamelin (D. C. 1911) 184 Fed. 553, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 570; In re De Gottardi (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 328, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723; In re Levin (D. C. 1901) 113 Fed. 498, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 743; Schweer v. Brown (1904) 130 Fed. 328, 64 C. C. A. 574, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 178.

Where the bankrupt attempts to explain the loss of the money or property in question by a story which, though difficult to believe, is not impossible nor an obvious fabrication, he may be ordered before the judge or referee for further examination as to whether or not he has made a full disclosure of the facts. In re McCormick (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 566, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 340.

Evidence in particular cases held sufficient to sustain an order requiring the bankrupt to surrender money or property. Shea v. Lewis (1913) 206 Fed. 877, 124 C. C. A. 537; In re Pennell (1914) 214 Fed. 337, 130 C. C. A. 645; In re Katz (D. C. 1914) 216 Fed. 949; In re Greenblatt (D. C. 1914) 216 Fed. 985; In re Dixon (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 624; In re Mitchell (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 806.

An application to compel bankrupts to turn over concealed property was not maintainable, where neither the report of the commissioner nor the proof accurately showed just what or how much property had been concealed. In re Kalmanowitz (D. C. 1914) 211 Fed. 167.

16. Excuses, defenses, and allowances.—An order requiring a bankrupt to deliver property alleged to have been withheld from his trustee should not be granted unless it appears that the bankrupt is physically able to deliver the property. Epstein v. Steinfeld (1914) 210 Fed. 236, 127 C. C. A. 54; In re Stern (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed. 979; In re Cummings (D. C. 1911) 186 Fed. 1020, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 130; In re Richards (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 501, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 176; In re Davison (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 673, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 337.

The bankrupt may show that, since the time the money in question is shown to have been in his hands, it has passed into the possession of others and is no longer under his control. American Trust Co. v. Wallis (1903) 126 Fed. 464, 61 C. C. A. 342, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 360. That members of bankrupt partnership had paid out money withdrawn from the firm assets, and had no other money with which to repay it, held a sufficient defense to an application for its repayment. Crawford v. Sternberg (1915) 220 Fed. 73, 135 C. C. A. 641.

Member of bankrupt firm, who was in fact a mere clerk, held not to be ordered to pay to trustee money which he had turned over to his partner. Trustee held not entitled to proceed directly against bankrupt to require payment of money which he had delivered to his sister, even though claim that it was delivered in payment of a debt was preposterous. In re Vyse (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 727.

This method of proceeding cannot be employed to reach property which is in the hands of third persons, claiming title thereto by conveyance or transfer from the bankrupt prior to the bankruptcy, though such transfer was manifestly fraudulent. In re Mayer (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 839, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 533.

Money of a married woman received by her husband, but which by the law of the state is her separate property and subject to her absolute control, is presumably held by him as her agent, and the fact of his possession furnishes no excuse for her failure to deliver it to her trustee in bankruptcy, unless she shows as a matter of fact that she is unable to obtain the actual possession of it. In re Cole (1906) 144 Fed. 392, 75 C. C. A. 330, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 302.

The bankrupt cannot escape the duty of turning over to his trustee money which he has invested in his business on the pretense that he holds it as a trustee. In re Smith Longbottom & Sons (D. C. 1905) 142 Fed. 291, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 437.

In a proceeding to compel the bankrupt to surrender money alleged to be withheld, it is a good defense that he has paid it away to his creditors, al-uch payments were not justified ulted in giving preferences. In ıey (D. C. 1904) 225 Fed. 426; yse (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 727; aplume Condensed Milk Co. (D.) 145 Fed. 1013, 16 Am. Bankr. 9; In re Smith Longbottom & D. C. 1905) 142 Fed. 291, 15 nkr. Rep. 437; In re Kane (D.) 125 Fed. 984, 10 Am. Bankr. 8; In re Anderson (D. C. 1900) l. 854, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 640. upt's admission that he gambled rything upon which he could lay l held not a sufficient account- several thousand dollars, to pre- order for its delivery to the In re Vyse (D. C. 1915) 220 .

termining what sum of money krupt should be ordered to pay his trustee, he may be allowed or so much as he has spent in onable cost of his living, if he lucted himself economically and , but not for sums spent in a nor in journeying to a remote search of employment. In re D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 796, 4 Am. Rep. 78.

the bankrupt had an interest ing crops, but omitted to list his schedule under the honest at they would not vest in the and he completed their cul- and harvesting after his adjudi- nd was then ordered to surren- crops, or the proceeds of their the trustee, it was held that d be allowed a reasonable com- n for his work and care be- on them from the date of the tion. In re Barrow (D. C. 8 Fed. 582, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep.

, in proceedings against two in- owners of a bankrupt corpora- refusing to turn over the pro- a certain note, one of the de- took up and relieved the other payment thereof and furnished of the existence and where- of the note, the other was not le. In re Jamaica Slate Roof- pply Co. (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed.

ors of a bankrupt corporation, een ordered to return $822.94 o have been wrongfully receiv- the bankrupt's assets, could not claim of another corporation d by them against the trustee.

mmitment for contempt.— bankrupt fails or refuses to vith a lawful order of the court uptcy, requiring him to surren- signated sum of money or cer- cified property to his trustee, contempt of the court, and his e to the order may be enforced nitting him to prison until he e his contempt by obedience to r. In re Cole (C. C. A. 1907) 163 Fed. 180, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 761; Clay v. Waters (1910) 178 Fed. 385, 101 C. C. A. 645, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 293; In re Gerstel (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 166, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 411; In re Rosser (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 308, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 746; In re Salkey (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 423, Fed. Cas. No. 12,253; In re Speyer (D. C. 1873) 6 N. B. R. 255, Fed. Cas. No. 13,239. See Mallory Mfg. Co. v. Fox (C. C. 1884) 20 Fed. 409; In re Fogelman (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 351, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 348; In re Star Spring Bed Co. (C. C. A. 1913) 203 Fed. 640, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 208; Power v. Fuhrman (1915) 220 Fed. 787, 136 C. C. A. 393; In re Heyman (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 1000; In re Stanny (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 517; In re Stern (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed. 979. Such an order is not a judgment for the payment of a debt, and therefore the commitment of the bankrupt for failure of compliance with it is not "imprisonment for debt" within the meaning of the state and federal laws abolishing that method of collecting debts. Samel v. Dodd (1906) 142 Fed. 68, 73 C. C. A. 254, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 163; Schweer v. Brown (1904) 130 Fed. 328, 64 C. C. A. 574, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 178; Ripon Knitting Works v. Schreiber (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 810, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 299; In re Schlesinger (C. C. A. 1900) 102 Fed. 117, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 361; In re Anderson (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 854, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 640.

When the bankrupt is brought before the court to be dealt with for his disobedience, the proceedings need not be formal, but may be based on a petition of the trustee setting forth the facts and informing the bankrupt of the charge he is to meet. In re Cole (C. C. A. 1907) 163 Fed. 180, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 761. The bankrupt is not entitled to a trial by jury. Ripon Knitting Works v. Schreiber (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 810, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 299. The purpose of a contempt proceeding of this kind is to reach and compel the surrender of money or property in the bankrupt's possession or control, and not to punish him for concealing his assets. In re Kane (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 984, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 478. A motion to commit the treasurer of a bankrupt corporation for contempt for failure to obey an order of the referee requiring him to turn over money to the trustee will not be considered where he is under bail to appear and answer to indictments in the state court for the embezzlement of such money from the corporation, until after the indictments are disposed of. In re Hooks Smelting Co. (D. C. 1906) 146 Fed. 336, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 141.

Punishment for failure to satisfactorily account for assets, except where prosecution is under criminal statutes, can only be imposed as a result of contempt proceedings for violating an order for delivery of specified described assets. In re Kalmanowitz (D. C. 1914) 211 Fed. 167. A proceeding to compel a bankrupt to turn over assets to his trustee and a contempt proceeding to enforce such an order are distinct. In re Ricciardelli (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 638.

The order requiring the bankrupt to surrender the property will be conclusive of the fact that, at the time it was made, the bankrupt had in his possession or control money or property which he was then able to surrender to the trustee, and this question will not be reviewed or re-examined. In re Frankel (D. C. 1911) 184 Fed. 539, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 920; In re Marks (D. C. 1910) 176 Fed. 1018, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 911; In re Richards (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 501, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 176. But it is not conclusive that he still is able to make the payment or surrender, because he may in the meantime have paid away the money or lost the property; and on this question the bankrupt is entitled to a hearing and cannot be committed until he has had an opportunity to present this defense. In re Hausman (1903) 121 Fed. 984, 58 C. C. A. 260, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 64; In re Davison (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 673, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 337; In re Cole (1906) 144 Fed. 392, 75 C. C. A. 330, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 302.

Whatever may have been the state of the case when the order for surrender was made, the court will not send the bankrupt to jail unless it is shown that he still continues in a position of present and continuous ability to make the surrender. In re Dickens (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 808, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 660; In re Davison (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 673, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 337; In re Marks (D. C. 1910) 176 Fed. 1018, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 911; In re Richards (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 501, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 176; In re Mize (D. C. 1909) 172 Fed. 945, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577; In re Reynolds (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 967, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 200; In re Ruos (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 749, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 257; In re Holden (C. C. A. 1913) 203 Fed. 229, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 387; In re Heyman (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 1000; In re McNaught (D. C. 1903) 225 Fed. 511; Freed v. Central Trust Co. of Illinois (C. C. A. 1914) 215 Fed. 873.

Of the bankrupt's present ability to make the surrender the court must be satisfied by clear and convincing proof, or beyond a reasonable doubt. In re Heyman (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 1000; In re Stanny (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 517; In re Dixon (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 624; In re Dickens (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 808, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 660; McNeil v. McCormack (C. C. A. 1910) 182 Fed. 808; In re Davison (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 673, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 337; In re Mize (D. C. 1909) 172 Fed. 945, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577. If the contempt proceeding follows close on the heels of the order for surrender, it may be presumed that the ability to pay or surrender continues, and then the bankrupt must overcome this presumption by proof. In re Banzai Mfg. Co. (C. C. A. 1910) 183 Fed. 298, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 497; First Nat. Bank v. Cole (1906) 144 Fed. 392, 75 C. C. A. 330, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 302; In re Stavrahn (1909) 174 Fed. 330, 98 C. C. A. 202, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 168; In re Marks (D. C. 1910) 176 Fed. 1018, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 911; In re Haring (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 168, 174, 175, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 285; In re Reynolds (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 967, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 200.

In such cases, the bankrupt's contempt is a continuing contempt, and therefore the court is not confined to committing him for a definite and limited time, as it would be in the case of a specific act, complete in itself, constituting a contempt. And if he is released on bail, he may be recommitted by order of the court, on the trustee's showing that his contumacy still continues, and if he leaves the district, he may be pursued and arrested on warrant and again recommitted until the further order of the court or until he complies. United States v. Sowles (D. C. 1883) 16 Fed. 536; In re Krichevsky (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 347. But as the object is not punishment, but only to enforce obedience, the imprisonment should not be continued indefinitely, and the bankrupt should be discharged after a reasonable time when it appears that he is really unable to comply with the order. In re Karp (D. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 998, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559; In re Taylor (D. C. 1901) 114 Fed. 607, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 410; In re Cummings (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 767, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 477.

IV. AFTER-ACQUIRED PROPERTY AND SURPLUS OF ESTATE

18. After-acquired property.—Property acquired in any way by the bankrupt after the commencement of the proceedings in bankruptcy, though before the discharge, belongs to him personally, and is not within the jurisdiction of the court in bankruptcy nor liable to be administered in the proceedings, nor can it be subjected to the claims of creditors holding provable debts, except in case the bankrupt fails to obtain his discharge (or as to debts not released by the discharge), and then only by the ordinary processes of law, and without relation to the bankruptcy proceedings. Sparhawk v. Yerkes (1891) 142 U. S. 1, 12 Sup. Ct. 104, 35 L. Ed. 915; Traer v. Clews (1885) 115 U. S. 528, 6 Sup. Ct. 155, 29 L. Ed. 467; Clay v. Waters (C. C. A. 1908) 161 Fed. 815, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 561; In re Harper (1907) 155 Fed. 105, 83 C. C. A. 565, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 741;

Rennie, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 335; Grant (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. 93; In re Levy (D. C. 1867) 1 R. 136, Fed. Cas. No. 8,296; In terson (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. ed. Cas. No. 10,815; Day v. Su-Court (1882) 61 Cal. 489; Bond lwin (1850) 9 Ga. 91; Mays v. acturers'. Nat. Bank (1870) 64 3 Am. Rep. 573; Sosnowski v. (1882) 69 Ga. 548; Bank of ri v. Franciscus (1846) 10 Mo. urner v. Gatewood (1848) 8 B. Ky.) 613; McLendon v. Turner 65 Ga. 577.

title of the trustee in bankruptcy limited to such property as the pt possessed at the time of the f the petition, any property ac-by the bankrupt after that date, before the adjudication of bank-is made, is after-acquired prop-nd does not vest in the trustee. Judson (1912) 192 Fed. 834, 113 A. 158, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 704; Burka (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 326, Bankr. Rep. 12; Sibley v. Nason 196 Mass. 125, 81 N. E. 887, R. A. (N. S.) 1173, 124 Am. St. 20, 12 Ann. Cas. 938.

bankrupt may maintain trover recovery of his after-acquired y. Webb v. Fox, 7 Durn. & E. If his creditors seize upon it his application for discharge is , a court of equity will interfere nction to protect his rights, and train proceedings until the ques-his discharge has been decided. v. Steele (1845) 7 Ala. 299.

bankrupt may become a pur-at the trustee's sale of his own y and assets, and is not dis-d from buying back as much of e can pay for out of his exempt r-acquired property. Sparhawk kes (1891) 142 U. S. 1, 12 Sup. 1, 35 L. Ed. 915; Traer v. Clews 115 U. S. 528, 6 Sup. Ct. 155, Ed. 467; Phelps v. McDonald 2 MacArthur (9 D. C.) 375, 16 R. 217; Gates v. Fraser (1882) pp. 624. A bankrupt who, after charge, becomes the bona fide of a note payable to himself, had been returned in his sched-l sold by the assignee, is remit-his original title, and may trans-y indorsement so as to vest the f action in his indorsee. Birch tson (1849) 16 Ala. 387.

e value of property claimed by nkrupt as after-acquired is so s to make it improbable that it rned since the commencement of roceedings in bankruptcy, the pt must show how he acquired n his discharge is impeached for ent and willful concealment of Hargroves v. Cloud (1845) 8 3; Mays v. Manufacturers' Nat. 1870) 64 Pa. 74.

e an estate was conveyed to a d and wife to be held in en-and the husband went into bankruptcy, and, between the adjudication and his discharge, he obtained a divorce from his wife, it was held that, when the adjudication was made, he had no interest in the real estate which could pass to the trustee, and if he gained an alienable interest by the divorce, it was a new acquisition which could not be claimed by the trustee. In re Benson (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 1,328. Where a wife, being possessed of a separate estate, procured a policy of insurance on her own life, payable on her death to her husband, and paid the premiums out of her own estate for a year, before the end of which time he was adjudicated a bankrupt, and she paid out of her own estate the premiums for the two following years and then died, it was held that the husband was entitled to the proceeds of the policy, and not his trustee in bankruptcy. In re Murrin (C. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 9,968. Where a devise or bequest, vesting by the death of the testator after the filing of a petition in bankruptcy against the heir, is coupled with a provision for the deduction of any indebtedness then existing from the heir to the testator, this does not prevent the bankrupt from being entitled to the benefit of the bequest in full so far as concerns his general creditors, subject only to the contingency of his not obtaining a discharge. In re Woods (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 82, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 240.

Crops planted by a bankrupt after the filing of the petition in bankruptcy do not pass to the trustee as assets for the use of creditors. Conley v. Nelin (Tex. Civ. App. 1910) 128 S. W. 424; In re Barnett (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 1,024; Jackson v. Jetter (Iowa, 1913) 142 N. W. 431. A liquor license granted to one after he has been adjudicated a bankrupt belongs to him personally, and not to his receiver or trustee in bankruptcy. In re Whitlock's License (1909) 39 Pa. Super. Ct. 34.

Income or profits accruing to the bankrupt after the adjudication, but from property in which he had a fixed and vested interest before the bankruptcy, is not to be regarded as after-acquired property. In re Baudouine (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 536, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 55; In re Wright (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 578, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 437. The share of a bankrupt in a trust estate is not after-acquired property, though it was decreed to him after the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, the rights of the parties in the trust estate being adjudicated by such decree as of a date prior to the filing of such petition. McNaboe v. Marks (1906) 51 Misc. Rep. 207, 99 N. Y. Supp. 960. But where the conditions upon which the bankrupt was to become entitled to a trust fund were not performed until after his adjudication, his trustee had no title thereto for the use of the creditors. Hull v. Palmer (1913) 155 App. Div. 636, 140 N. Y. Supp. 811. Where one held land by an unrecorded deed prior to his bankruptcy, and his grantor thereafter sold the land to another, his right of action against the grantor for the proceeds of such sale is not property acquired after the bankruptcy so as to entitle him to sue therefor in his own name. Simpson v. Miller (1908) 7 Cal. App. 248, 94 Pac. 252.

19. Right to surplus of estate.— Where all the claims duly proved against the bankrupt's estate have been paid in full, together with the costs and expenses of the proceedings and the fees and commissions of the officers, if there remains any surplus in money, or any property not disposed of by the trustee, it belongs to the bankrupt, and upon the closing of the estate and the discharge of the trustee, such surplus will be ordered turned over to the bankrupt. In re Hoyt (D. C. 1873) 3 N. B. R. 55, Fed. Cas. No. 6,806; Colie v. Jamison (1875) 4 Hun (N. Y.) 284, 13 N. B. R. 1; Dewey v. Moyer (1877) 9 Hun (N. Y.) 473, 16 N. B. R. 1; Jones v. Pyron (1882) 57 Tex. 43; Herndon v. Davenport (1889) 75 Tex. 462, 12 S. W. 1111; Steevens v. Earles (1872) 25 Mich. 40; Boyd v. Olvey (1882) 82 Ind. 294; Page v. Waring (1879) 76 N. Y. 463; Hunter v. Hodgson (Tex. Civ. App. 1906) 95 S. W. 637; Wade v. Goza (1906) 78 Ark. 7, 96 S. W. 388; Robertson v. Schard (1909) 142 Iowa, 500. 119 N. W. 529, 134 Am. St. Rep. 430; Robertson v. Howard (1910) 82 Kan. 588, 109 Pac. 696; Bracklee Co. v. O'Connor (1910) 67 Misc. Rep. 599, 122 N. Y. Supp. 710; Johnson v. Norris (1911) 190 Fed. 459, 111 C. C. A. 291, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 107. A conveyance by the bankrupt alleged to be fraudulent as to creditors will not be set aside at the suit of the trustee, when there are no provable debts, as the estate, after satisfying the claims against it, belongs to the bankrupt. Nicholas v. Murray (C. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 469, Fed. Cas. No. 10,223.

If necessary, the trustee should execute a formal conveyance or assignment of such surplus property to the bankrupt. Scruby v. Norman (1902) 91 Mo. App. 517; Kempner v. Bauer (1907) 53 Misc. Rep. 109, 104 N. Y. Supp. 76; Kruegel v. Murphy & Bolanz (Tex. Civ. App. 1910) 126 S. W. 680. But see Frazier v. Desha's Adm'r (1897) 40 S. W. 678, 19 Ky. Law Rep. 407.

Where no trustee was appointed, a chose in action belonging to the bankrupt will revert to him after his creditors have been satisfied out of his other property. Griffin v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. (1904) 119 Ga. 664, 46 S. E. 870. Where a bankrupt filed his petition in bankruptcy, but no trustee was ever appointed and the estate was administered, and the bankrupt discharged without disposition of his land, the title of the bankrupt to the land was never divested. Roberts v. Martin (1914) 164 S. W. 369, 158 Ky. 124.

After the trustee in bankruptcy has paid in full the debts proved against the estate, the surplus, instead of being returned to the bankrupt, should be applied in payment of debts which, though not proved, were listed by the bankrupt in his schedule. In re Haynes (D. C. 1867) 2 N. B. R. 227, Fed. Cas. No. 6,269; In re James (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 227, Fed. Cas. No. 7,175. CONTRA, In re Hoyt (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 55, Fed. Cas. No. 6,806.

Where a preference, voidable under the act, has been wrested from the creditor at the suit of the trustee, and the creditor then makes proof of his debt, and the assets are enough to pay all the other creditors in full and leave a surplus, in this case the preferred creditor's proof may be allowed to stand, and he may be paid out of such surplus; for, as between the bankrupt and himself, he is entitled to the money. In re McGuire (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 8,813.

The surplus remaining after the payment of all proved claims, with interest thereon to the date of adjudication, should not be returned to the bankrupt until there has been further paid out of it interest on the proved claims from the date of adjudication to the day of payment. In re Town (D. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 40, Fed. Cas. No. 14,112; In re Hagan (D. C. 1873) 10 N. B. R. 383, Fed. Cas. No. 5,898; In re Bank of North Carolina (D. C. 1879) 12 N. B. R. 130, Fed. Cas. No. 895.

The discharge of the bankrupt and the closing of the estate in bankruptcy do not transfer to the bankrupt the title to any unadministered assets, the title to which had vested in the trustee. In re Lighthall (D. C. 1915) 221 Fed. 791.

Plaintiff, after discharge of defendants in bankruptcy held not entitled to subject land, of which the trustee declined to take possession as an asset, to the lien of a judgment, scheduled as a liability by the bankrupts. People's Nat. Bank of Independence v. Maxson (Iowa, 1915) 150 N. W. 601.

After the estate has been closed, the trustee discharged, and the bankrupt himself discharged, property which comes to light, not having been discovered in time to be administered in the bankruptcy proceedings, belongs to the bankrupt as a surplus of his estate, and if there are no representations of fraud or concealment on his part, or of such mistake as would vitiate the discharge, the court has no authority to appoint a new trustee to take possession of such surplus. Hanson v. First Nat. Bank (Tex. Civ. App. 1910) 128 S. W. 1147; Lasater v. First Nat. Bank (1903) 96 Tex. 345, 72 S. W. 1057; Mayer v. Gourden (D. C. 1885) 26 Fed. 742; Burton v. Perry (1893) 146

34 N. E. 60; In re Pintard 359) Fed. Cas. No. 11,170.
arged bankrupt can assert no can he maintain any action, t to property which he will- ealed from his trustee or fail- hedule or surrender for the of the creditors. Jones v. (Miss. 1914) 66 South. 212; First Nat. Bank v. Lasater (1905) 196 U. S. 115, 25 Sup. Ct. 206, 49 L. Ed. 408, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 698; Laing v. Fish (1905) 119 Ill. App. 645; Hunt v. Doyal (1907) 128 Ga. 416, 57 S. E. 489. See Rand v. Iowa Cent. Ry. Co. (1904) 96 App. Div. 413, 89 N. Y. Supp. 212; Rand v. Sage (1905) 94 Minn. 344, 102 N. W. 864.

(Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 8.) Death or insanity of bankts.

n or Insanity of Bankrupts.—a The death or insanity of a ot shall not abate the proceedings, but the same shall be ed and concluded in the same manner, so far as possible, gh he had not died or become insane: Provided, That in death the widow and children shall be entitled to all rights of nd allowance fixed by the laws of the State of the bankrupt's ce. (30 Stat. 549.)

Notes of Decisions

h or Insanity of bankrupt be- dication.—When a petition in cy has been duly filed, the gs are saved from discontin- on the subsequent death of the , even though that occurs be- service of process, or, after at any time before adjudica- re Spalding (1905) 139 Fed. C. C. A. 370, 14 Am. Bankr. ; In re Hicks (D. C. 1901) 910, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 182; Patterson (1906) 147 Fed. C. C. A. 75, 17 Am. Bankr. In re Agnew (D. C. 1915) 650.

he death of an alleged bank- r the filing of the petition, his nd personal representatives e brought in and made parties n adjudication. Shute v. Pat- 1906) 147 Fed. 709, 78 C. C. Am. Bankr. Rep. 99.

he death of the bankrupt, his rator may file an application charge. In re Agnew (D. C. 5 Fed. 650.

Death of partner.—After a nas been filed against partners, of one of them prior to any ion upon the question of bank- no legal cause for dismissing ion. Hunt v. Pooke (D. C. N. B. R. 161, Fed. Cas. No.

Distribution of estate.—Sub- he proviso of this section as to s of the widow and children, e of a deceased bankrupt is to buted according to the bank- aw, and not according to the which otherwise would be ap- In re Devlin (D. C. 1910) 170, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 863.

Insanity of bankrupt.—Where d bankrupt commits an act of cy while sane, and by reason tion founded on such act, the bankruptcy obtains jurisdiction of a proceeding against him, it will continue the proceedings notwithstanding his supervening insanity; but if the bankrupt was insane when the alleged act of bankruptcy was committed, no adjudication of bankruptcy can be made against him. In re Kehler (1908) 159 Fed. 55, 86 C. C. A. 245, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 513; In re Ward (D. C. 1911) 194 Fed. 174, 28 Am. Bankr Rep. 29.

5. Dower and allowances to widow and children.—The provision of this section with reference to rights of dower and allowance to the widow and children of the bankrupt does not create or extend any right of dower or allowance, but makes the right of a bankrupt's widow, and its nature and extent, depend upon the local law. In re McKenzie (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 986, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 227. And see Kelly v. Strange (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 8, Fed. Cas. No. 7,676; In re Hester (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 285, Fed. Cas. No. 6,437. Compare Hurley v. Devlin (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 919, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 627. The widow will have the same right of dower and the same allowances as are granted by the laws of the state of the bankrupt's domicile under similar circumstances. In re McKenzie (1905) 142 Fed. 383, 73 C. C. A. 483, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 679. See In re Dicks (D. C. 1912) 198 Fed. 293, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 845.

If the bankrupt dies seised of realty in various states, the court of bankruptcy of the bankrupt's residence will have exclusive jurisdiction after his death to determine the right of the widow to dower in such lands. Hurley v. Devlin (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 919, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 627.

The right of the widow and children of a deceased bankrupt to the dower and allowances they are entitled to from his estate under the state law is not lost or defeated by the vesting of title in the bankrupt's trustee before the death of the bankrupt. Hull v. Dicks (1915) 235 U. S. 584, 35 Sup. Ct. 152; Thomas v. Woods (1909) 173 Fed. 585, 97 C. C. A. 535, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 132; In re Slack (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 523, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 121; Cravens v. Shippen (1904) 25 Ky. Law Rep. 1322, 77 S. W. 929; Warford v. Noble (C. C. 1880) 2 Fed. 202. The right of the widow of a deceased bankrupt, under this section, to allowance from his estate under state law, was not affected by his assignment for the benefit of creditors within four months of his adjudication. In re Scott (C. C. A. 1915) 226 Fed. 201.

The trustee in bankruptcy may not sell the real estate free from the widow's rights, after the death of the bankrupt, nor divest her of her dower right without her consent. Porter v. Lazear (1883) 109 U. S. 84, 3 Sup. Ct. 58, 27 L. Ed. 865; In re McKenzie (1905) 142 Fed. 383, 73 C. C. A. 483, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 679; Smith v. Smith (1800) 5 Ves. 189; In re Angier (D. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 619, Fed. Cas. No. 388; In re Bartenbach (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 61, Fed. Cas. No. 1,068.

After personal property has been delivered into the possession of a duly qualified trustee, the bankrupt ceases to be "seised or possessed" of it, so that his subsequent death will not entitle the widow to claim a third of it, as she might have done if he had not been adjudged bankrupt. In re McKenzie (1905) 142 Fed. 383, 73 C. C. A. 483, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 679; In re McKenzie (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 986, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 227; In re Slack (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 523, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 121. But it is not the duty of a trustee in bankruptcy to protect the dower rights of the bankrupt's wife against the consequences of her own acts prior to the bankruptcy. Dudley v. Easton (1881) 104 U. S. 99, 26 L. Ed. 668.

In Connecticut, the judge of the court of bankruptcy may make a reasonable allowance to the bankrupt's widow, from his estate in bankruptcy, for her support during the settlement of the estate. In re Newton (D. C. 1903) 122 Fed. 103, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 345. Compare In re Seabolt (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 766, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 57.

In Ohio, the widow of a bankrupt having his domicile in that state is entitled to reside for a year in the mansion house of her deceased husband, if dower is not sooner assigned, and also to the allowance of a year's support for herself and children, these grants being in lieu of the exemptions which the husband would have been entitled to claim from the estate in bankruptcy if he had lived. In re Parschen (C. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 976, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 389.

The widow must assert her claims in some proper way before the court of bankruptcy. To entitle her to dower it is not sufficient for her merely to intervene in a suit by the trustee in bankruptcy to set aside an alleged fraudulent conveyance, and file a suggestion of her husband's death without any further action. Gray v. Chase (1903) 184 Mass. 444, 68 N. E. 676. And where a state statute provides that a wife who is granted a divorce shall be entitled to one-third of the husband's personal property absolutely, a wife who has begun an action for divorce has no such claim upon the husband's personalty, before decree, as will entitle her to enjoin the distribution of the proceeds of the property in the hands of his trustee in bankruptcy. Hawk v. Hawk (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 679, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 463.

§ 9593. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 9.) Protection and detention of bankrupts.

Protection and Detention of Bankrupts.—a A bankrupt shall be exempt from arrest upon civil process except in the following cases: (1) When issued from a court of bankruptcy for contempt or disobedience of its lawful orders; (2) when issued from a State court having jurisdiction, and served within such State, upon a debt or claim from which his discharge in bankruptcy would not be a release, and in such case he shall be exempt from such arrest when in attendance upon a court of bankruptcy or engaged in the performance of a duty imposed by this Act.

b The judge may, at any time after the filing of a petition by or against a person, and before the expiration of one month after the qualification of the trustee, upon satisfactory proof by the affidavits of at least two persons that such bankrupt is about to leave the district in which he resides or has his principal place of business to avoid examination, and that his departure will defeat the proceedings in bankruptcy, issue a warrant to the marshal, directing him to bring such bankrupt forthwith before the court for examination. If upon hearing the evidence of the parties it shall appear to the court or a judge thereof that the allegations are true and that it is necessary, he shall order such marshal to keep such bankrupt in custody not ng ten days, but not imprison him, until he shall be examined eased or give bail conditioned for his appearance for examina-om time to time, not exceeding in all ten days, as required by rt, and for his obedience to all lawful orders made in reference

. (30 Stat. 549.)

Notes of Decisions

ntion of bankrupt.—The pro- this section, relating to the nd detention of the bankrupt, require the warrant to state bankrupt is to be brought before for examination, and the writ e vacated for failure to include tatement, if it was issued upon petition setting forth the facts, and the bankrupt, be- with brought before the judge, emand an examination or make ction, but immediately offered ch was accepted. In re Lipke 00) 98 Fed. 970, 3 Am. Bankr. .

wer of a court of bankruptcy the detention of a bankrupt bout to abscond from the ju- with his assets is not limit- e particular circumstances and purposes covered by this sec- under other provisions of the court has authority to issue an the nature of a ne exeat, when st of the bankrupt is shown to ssary for the enforcement of as applied to his case. In re . C. 1900) 98 Fed. 970, 3 Am. Rep. 569; In re Berkowitz (D. 173 Fed. 1012.

ourt has no authority to issue t for the arrest of a bankrupt not within the district. In re usch (1901) 108 Fed. 35, 47 177, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 532.

Privilege from arrest on civil —This section and General Or- 30 are in pari materia and e construed as a whole. U. S. s (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 613, Bankr. Rep. 177. But whereas ute exempts the bankrupt from cases where the debt or claim h the process is founded is of nature that it will be released discharge in bankruptcy, while eral order exempts him from cases where the debt or claim able in bankruptcy, it is held this conflict, the order must y to the statute, the latter be- iperior authority. In re Baker 899) 96 Fed. 954, 3 Am. Bankr. 1.

section exempts the bankrupt rest only during the pendency e bankruptcy proceedings. nan v. Bolster (1915) 220 Mass. N. E. 543.

laws of the state so provide, krupt may be arrested in an ac- a claim from which his dis- would not release him, and the bankruptcy court will not interfere to prevent the enforcement, by arrest and imprisonment, of a judgment founded on such a claim, unless such action is necessary to enable the bankruptcy court to exercise its proper authority and jurisdiction in the case. In re Pettis (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 44, Fed. Cas. No. 11,046; In re Baker (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 954, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101. On this principle it is held that, if the laws of the state authorize the arrest and detention of a defaulting taxpayer, a bankrupt in that plight will not be released on habeas corpus, since taxes due to a state or municipality are not affected by a discharge in bankruptcy. Aldrich v. Aldrich (Mass. 1844) 8 Metc. 102. The same is true of claims sounding in tort, when the torts are of the nature excepted by the statute from the effects of a discharge. In re Devoe (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 27, Fed. Cas. No. 3,843; In re Simpson (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 47, Fed. Cas. No. 12,879; In re Whitehouse (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 63, Fed. Cas. No. 17,564. And if the debtor is held under arrest in a civil action in a state court founded on a debt contracted by his defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, that is a claim from which his discharge in bankruptcy would not release him, and therefore he is not entitled to be released on habeas corpus from the court of bankruptcy. In re Seymour (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 29, Fed. Cas. No. 12,684; Kavanaugh v. McIntyre (1908) 128 App. Div. 722, 112 N. Y. Supp. 987. But a bankrupt arrested and held on a capias in an action to recover from him the value of property which he is alleged to have embezzled and fraudulently converted to his own use, is entitled to release on habeas corpus, where no facts are pleaded which show such embezzlement to have been committed while he was acting in a fiduciary capacity. Barrett v. Prince (1906) 143 Fed. 302, 74 C. C. A. 440, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 64. A judgment in a bastardy proceeding, brought against the putative father in the name of the state and by the public prosecutor, according to the state law, adjudging him to pay a certain sum monthly to the mother of the child for the period of ten years, and to secure such payment by a bond with sureties, is not such a debt as will be released by his discharge in bankruptcy, and hence, if he is arrested, during the bankruptcy proceedings, for failure to furnish the bond required, and committed, the court of bankruptcy will not set him at liberty on habeas corpus. In re Baker (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 954, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101.

A state court cannot lawfully cause the bankrupt to be arrested and imprisoned for a contempt of its authority in omitting to pay instalments of alimony due under a decree of such court. In re Houston (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 119, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 107. See In re Van Orden (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 86, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 801; In re Smith, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 471; In re Lachemeyer (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 270, Fed. Cas. No. 7,966; In re Foye (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 5,021. The arrest of the bankrupt under a capias on a judgment recovered against him in a suit for breach of promise of marriage is unlawful in view of this provision of the bankruptcy act. In re Fife (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 880, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 258. A bankrupt cannot be held in the custody of a sheriff of the county on account of a judgment obtained against him for costs in an action in a state court. In re Borst (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 171, Fed. Cas. No. 1,665. Except in cases where the judgment for costs was not rendered until after the adjudication in bankruptcy. In re Marcus (1901) 105 Fed. 907, 45 C. C. A. 115, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 365.

Where a bankrupt, who resided in another state, on being required to appear and testify before a referee, was given an order of protection prohibiting any person from arresting him on civil process while in the state in attendance on the hearing and for a stated time thereafter, an arrest on such a process before the expiration of the time is a violation of such order, and he will be discharged by the court of bankruptcy on writ of habeas corpus, regardless of whether or not the claim on which he was arrested is dischargeable in bankruptcy. U. S. v. Flynn (D. C. 1909) 179 Fed. 316, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 270; In re Kimball (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 7,767. The provision of this section that the bankrupt shall be exempt from arrest "while in attendance upon a court of bankruptcy or engaged in the performance of a duty imposed by this act" is to be construed liberally, and the bankrupt's exemption is not restricted to particular occasions when his physical attendance in court is required or when he is actually engaged in performing some required duty. In re Dresser (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 915, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 270.

The bankrupt's exemption from arrest begins at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy. State v. Rollins (1850) 13 Mo. 179; In re Winthrop (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 17,900. See Robb v. Powers (1845) 7 Ala. 658; Gibson v. Holmes (1905) 78 Vt. 110, 62 Atl. 11, 4 L. R. A. (N. S.) 451; Turgeon v. Bean (1912) 109 Me. 189, 83 Atl. 557. The exemption continues until the final decision on the bankrupt's application for discharge. U. S. v. Peters (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 613, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 177.

Where a state statute authorizes a judgment creditor, upon alleging that his debtor has fraudulently disposed of his property, to institute proceedings which begin with the arrest and imprisonment of the debtor, but such arrest is not intended as a punishment of the debtor, but as a means of obtaining a full disclosure as to his property, the proceeding is not criminal but civil, and its primary object is the collection of the creditor's judgment. Such proceedings are therefore in direct conflict with the bankruptcy law, as respects any property which has passed to a trustee in bankruptcy, and a bankrupt cannot be arrested in proceedings founded on such statute. Goodwin v. Sharkey (N. Y. 1868) 5 Abb. Prac. N. S. 64.

The bankruptcy law does not prevent a state court from committing the bankrupt to prison for a contempt, where such commitment is intended as a punishment and not as a means of collecting a debt. In re Fritz (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 562. 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 244; In re Collins (1903) 39 Misc. Rep. 753, 80 N. Y. Supp. 1119; In re Meggett (1900) 105 Wis. 291, 81 N. W. 419.

The court of bankruptcy, in granting the bankrupt a protection against a arrest, may impose terms, and may, in a proper case, require him to furnish a bond with sureties, conditioned that during its continuance he will obey all orders of the court and not meanwhile depart from its jurisdiction. In re Lewensohn (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 73, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 594.

3. —— Release from Imprisonment.— A court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to enforce the protection against arrest on civil process accorded to bankrupts by the statute, and for this purpose may issue the writ of habeas corpus, requiring the production of the bankrupt before it in order that it may inquire and determine whether or not the case is one within the statute, and in the former alternative, discharge the bankrupt. In re Glaser (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 5,474; U. S. v. Dobbins (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 14,971. The authority thus given to the bankruptcy courts can be exercised only by that court in which the particular bankruptcy proceedings are pending. In re Seymour (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 12,684.

Where a bankrupt is under arrest under process from a state court, he should first apply to that court, before coming into the court of bankruptcy to obtain his release. In re O'Mara (D.

Fed. Cas. No. 10,509. Where was arrested on process is- m a state court on a charge violated a penal statute of against fraudulent insolvency, wards, on petition of his cred- he proper federal court, was bankrupt, and the state court, ng, then committed him for he thereupon applied to the urt for his release on habeas n the ground that the state as superseded by the bank- w, held, that the state courts petent to decide the federal thus raised, and that, no cir- es of special urgency being e federal courts should not s determination until the pris- exhausted his remedy in the ts. U. S. v. McAleese (1899) 56, 35 C. C. A. 529.

state court, being applied to ankrupt's release from arrest, he application, the court of y is not bound by its deci- may order his release if sat- t his detention is in violation hts under the bankruptcy law. Putnam (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. n. Bankr. Rep. 80; In re Wig- C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 17,623.

e purpose of releasing the from a detention which is in of the provisions of the bank- w, it is immaterial whether the n which the arrest was effect- from a state court or a fed- . In re Wenham (D. C. 1906) 910, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 690.

lease of the bankrupt may be y means of an order to show y he should not be released tody. This being an order in y, the court may compel to it by the process of at- as for contempt. In re Glas- . 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 5,474; oby (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. Cas. No. 7,165.

urt of bankruptcy has power t the bankrupt from imprison- a case where the law exempts arrest, not only by releasing actual custody, by means of of habeas corpus, but also by aying further proceedings in court, or staying the issue of s or attachment against the or by enjoining the creditor g out such a writ, or forbid- to execute a writ already out. Putnam (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. n. Bankr. Rep. 80; In re Pet- C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 44, Fed. 11,046; In re Jacoby (D. C. N. B. R. 118, Fed. Cas. No. n re Migel (D. C. 1869) 2 N. 1, Fed. Cas. No. 9,538; In re (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No.

application for the release of pt who is held under arrest cess from a state court, if a has been rendered in the state court and the record shows that the debt was one contracted by the fraud of the bankrupt, or in a fiduciary capacity, or otherwise was of such a nature as not to be affected by his discharge in bankruptcy, the federal court will accept the record as importing absolute verity and will not inquire further into the question, and will refuse the application. In re Robinson (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 11,939; In re Patterson (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 10,-817. If the case has not proceeded to judgment, and the record contains only the declaration, complaint, or affidavit on which process for the arrest of the bankrupt was issued, the court of bankruptcy has only to decide the question of law whether the debt, assuming it to be of the nature shown by such papers, is dischargeable in bankruptcy, and should not enter upon an inquiry as to the truth of the facts alleged. In re Kimball (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 204, Fed. Cas. No. 7,768, affirmed (C. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 354, Fed. Cas. No. 7,769; In re Valk (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 278, Fed. Cas. No. 16,814; In re Devoe (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 27, Fed. Cas. No. 3,843. Evidence cannot be received to contradict the declaration in the action in which the order of arrest was granted and to show that no such cause of action really exists as is therein set forth, for the bankruptcy court cannot undertake to decide whether the plaintiff's claim is well or ill founded; that must be left to the determination of the court where the suit is pending. In re Devoe (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 3,843. But certain cases maintain that the bankruptcy court is not bound by the case made by the pleadings or affidavits in the proceedings in the state court, nor obliged to accept the plaintiff's allegations as conclusive on the question of fact, but may inquire whether or not the debt is one liable to be released by the discharge of the bankrupt, and to this end may consider all legal evidence brought before it. In re Alsberg (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 116, Fed. Cas. No. 261; In re Glaser (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 336, Fed. Cas. No. 5,474; In re Williams (C. C. 1874) 11 N. B. R. 145, Fed. Cas. No. 17,700; In re Jacoby (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 118, Fed. Cas. No. 7,165.

4. Arrest prior to bankruptcy proceedings.—A bankrupt who was arrested under process from a state court, civil or criminal, before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, and is held in custody under such arrest, cannot obtain his release from such imprisonment by application to the federal court, on petition for the writ of habeas corpus; and in this case it makes no difference whether the debt or claim for which he was arrested is of such a character as to be provable in bankruptcy or released by the discharge, for irrespective of any such question, the pending arrest will not be superseded by the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Claiborne (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 74, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 812; Ex parte Ziegenfuss (1842) 24 N. C. 463; Ex parte Rank (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 11,566; In re Walker (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 318, Fed. Cas. No. 17,060; Hazleton v. Valentine (C. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 31, Fed. Cas. No. 6,287; Minon v. Van Nostrand (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 108, Fed. Cas. No. 9,642, affirmed (C. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 9,641; Brandon Nat. Bank v. Hatch (1876) 57 N. H. 460, 16 N. B. R. 468. CONTRA, see Turgeon v. Emery (D. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 1016, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 694; People v. Erlanger (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 883, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 197. If the claim sought to be enforced by the arrest is one which is affected by the discharge in bankruptcy, the defendant will be entitled to regain his liberty after the discharge is granted and on application to the proper state court. Brandon Nat. Bank v. Hatch (1876) 57 N. H. 460.

§ 9594. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 10.) Extradition of bankrupts.

Extradition of Bankrupts.—a Whenever a warrant for the apprehension of a bankrupt shall have been issued, and he shall have been found within the jurisdiction of a court other than the one issuing the warrant, he may be extradited in the same manner in which persons under indictment are now extradited from one district within which a district court has jurisdiction to another. (30 Stat. 549.)

Compare § 2, cl. 14, ante, § 9586, providing that the courts of bankruptcy shall have authority to "extradite bankrupts from their respective districts to other districts." See also R. S. § 1029, ante, § 1695, providing that "only one writ or warrant is necessary to remove a prisoner from one district to another. One copy thereof may be delivered to the sheriff or jailer from whose custody the prisoner is taken, and another to the sheriff or jailer to whose custody he is committed, and the original writ, with the marshal's return thereon, shall be returned to the clerk of the district to which he is removed."

§ 9595. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 11.) Suits by and against bankrupts.

Suits by and against Bankrupts.—a A suit which is founded upon a claim from which a discharge would be a release, and which is pending against a person at the time of the filing of a petition against him, shall be stayed until after an adjudication or the dismissal of the petition; if such person is adjudged a bankrupt, such action may be further stayed until twelve months after the date of such adjudication, or, if within that time such person applies for a discharge, then until the question of such discharge is determined.

b The court may order the trustee to enter his appearance and defend any pending suit against the bankrupt.

c A trustee may, with the approval of the court, be permitted to prosecute as trustee any suit commenced by the bankrupt prior to the adjudication, with like force and effect as though it had been commenced by him.

d Suits shall not be brought by or against a trustee of a bankrupt estate subsequent to two years after the estate has been closed. (30 Stat. 549.)

Notes of Decisions

1. Effect of bankruptcy on pending suits.
2. Stay of pending suits by state court.
3. Stay by injunction or order of court of bankruptcy.
4. —— Courts in which proceedings may be stayed.
5. —— Application for injunction or stay.
6. —— Dissolution of injunction.
7. Leave to continue suit in state court.
8. What actions may be stayed.
9. —— Proceedings to collect alimony.
10. —— Proceedings subsequent to judgment.
11. —— Proceedings supplementary to execution.
12. —— Proceedings on appeal.
13. —— Contempt proceedings.
14. Effect of the stay.
15. Effect of grant or denial of discharge.
16. Pending actions by bankrupt as plaintiff.
17. Intervention of trustee in pending suits.
18. —— Effect of trustee declining to intervene.
19. —— Right dependent on nature of action.
20. —— Time to intervene.
21. —— Form of application and pleadings.
22. Suits begun after adjudication.

1. Effect of bankruptcy on pending suits.—A state court is not deprived, by the mere force of an adjudication in bankruptcy, of jurisdiction over suits at the time against the bank-, unless the action is stayed or by the court of bankruptcy, court is not required to dis-ending action, but may proceed r a valid judgment therein.

Farmers' & Mechanics' Nat.
913) 121 C. C. A. 262, 202
4, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 200; avis (D. C. 1820) 4 N. B. R.
l. Cas. No. 3,620; Hewett v.
(C. C. 1870) 13 N. B. R. 276,
. No. 6,441; First Nat. Bank
(1874) 1 MacArthur (8 D. C.)
re Davis (D. C. 1870) 8 N.
7, Fed. Cas. No. 3,619; Cutter
(1874) 115 Mass. 27, 11 N.
8; Munson v. Boston, H. & E.
(1876) 120 Mass. 81, 21 Am.
; Seymour v. Browning (1848)
362; Serra é Hijo v. Hoffman
9 La. Ann. 17; Brown v. New-80) 66 Ala. 275; Sutherland (1873) 42 Ind. 26, 10 N. B.
Brandon Mfg. Co. v. Frazer
7 Vt. 88, 19 Am. Rep. 118, 13 362; U. S. v. Mackoy (C. C. d. Cas. No. 15,696; Friedman er (1911) 74 Misc Rep. 448, Y. Supp. 320; Hardesty v.
(1885) 7 Ky. Law Rep. 447;
v. Dayton (1885) 34 Minn.
N. W. 348; Lewis v. Higgins
2 Md. 616; Hobart v. Haskell
4 N. H. 127; McCormick v.
(1882) 13 Neb. 306, 14 N. W. erbrook Steel Pen Mfg. Co. v.
879) 31 N. J. Eq. 3; Bowman er (1910) 144 Mo. App. 100, . 848; Sively v. Campbell (Va.
Grat. 893; Williams v. Lane 158 Cal. 39, 109 Pac. 873;
v. Bishop (C. C. 1868) Fed.
7,373; Irving Nat. Bank v.
1882) 90 N. Y. 682; Nonotuck
v. Pritzker (1908) 143 Ill.
4. Compare Fellows v. Hall 844) Fed. Cas. No. 4,723.

udication in bankruptcy under ruptcy act of 1898, as amended, put the creditor under a "legal ," within the meaning of Rev.
l. 1910, § 4658, as to an aca state court on a provable
Simpson v. Tootle, Wheeler & Mercantile Co. (1914) 141 P.
kl. 275. Where, pending appeal decree restraining defendants osecuting actions on certain e of them became a bankrupt, l interest in the notes, though duled, and the appeal as to be dismissed. Jones v. Barnes 914) 66 So. 212.

nkruptcy of some or all of the ts is no cause for dismissing equity prior to the hearing, he complainant admits the cy and concedes that it bars all prayed for. Ballin v. Ferst 5 Ga. 546.

ion of a decree for partition in court is not arrested because e parties to the suit becomes , for his share of the property
vests in his trustee. Baum v. Stern (1870) 1 S. C. 415.

A judgment entered after the adjudication in bankruptcy, on a default entered before the petition was filed, without fraud, mistake, or surprise, where the bankrupt had no defense, will not be set aside. Fiske v. Hunt (C. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 4,831. See American Wood Working Machinery Co. v. Furbush (1907) 193 Mass. 455, 79 N. E. 770. Where, after judgment on a note for plaintiff, it is discovered that he had been adjudged bankrupt, and that the note had not been scheduled, such facts constitute ground for a new trial. Juden v. Nebham (Miss. 1912) 60 South. 45.

Bankruptcy of the defendant in an action is not a bar to a motion to amend the minutes of the court, by entering nunc pro tunc a verdict rendered against him some years before. Woolfolk v. Gunn (1872) 45 Ga. 117.

In the case of several joint defendants in a pending suit in a state court, one or more of whom are in bankruptcy, but not all, the suit will not be stayed on the application of those not affected by the bankruptcy proceedings. Johnson v. Waxelbaum Co. (1907) 1 Ga. App. 511, 58 S. E. 56; Ex parte Canada (1910) 151 Mo. App. 704, 132 S. W. 754.

Though the trustee in bankruptcy is the proper person to assume and carry on litigation in which the bankrupt is concerned, yet a bankrupt who is defendant in a pending suit may defend it, if the trustee refuses to do so. Lane v. Moore (1879) 59 N. H. 80.

While a valid judgment may be rendered against the bankrupt if the proceedings are not enjoined or stayed, it cannot, if rendered after the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, create any lien upon his estate. McLean v. Rockey (C. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 8,-891.

If an attaching creditor, who knows that proceedings in bankruptcy have been instituted, proceeds in his suit against the bankrupt to judgment before a trustee is appointed, it is a fraud on the law and he will not be allowed to retain the fruits of his writ. Acme Harvester Co. v. Beckman Lumber Co. (1911) 222 U. S. 300, 32 Sup. Ct. 96, 56 L. Ed. 208; Ex parte Foster (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 4,960; Everett v. Stone (C. C. 1844) Fed. Cas. No. 4,-577. Partnership creditors may attach partnership assets, though one member of the firm is a bankrupt. Pelzer Mfg. Co. v. Pitts & Hartzog (1907) 76 S. C. 349, 57 S. E. 29, 11 Ann. Cas. 665.

2. Stay of pending suits by state court.—It is the duty of the state court to grant a stay of proceedings when the suit pending against the bankrupt is founded on a debt or claim from which his discharge would release him, and when application therefor is duly made.

In re Tune (D. C. 1902) 115 Fed. 906, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 285; Maas v. Kuhn (1909) 130 App. Div. 68, 114 N. Y. Supp. 444; First Nat. Bank v. Flynn (1902) 117 Iowa, 493, 91 N. W. 784; McIntyre v. Malone (1902) 3 Neb. (Unof.) 159, 91 N. W. 246; Stone v. Brookville Nat. Bank (1872) 39 Ind. 284; Turner v. Gatewood (Ky. 1848) 8 B. Mon. 613; Dickens v. Dickens (1911) 174 Ala. 305, 56 South. 806. But some courts, particularly in Massachusetts, do not admit this rule to the fullest extent, but hold that it is entirely within their discretion whether or not to stay the suit. See Rosenthal v. Nove (1900) 175 Mass. 559, 56 N. E. 884, 78 Am. St. Rep. 512; Feigenspan v. McDonnell (1909) 201 Mass. 341. 87 N. E. 624; St. Louis World Pub. Co. v. Rialto Grain & Securities Co. (1904) 108 Mo. App. 479, 83 S. W. 781. Although the court of bankruptcy has the power to order a stay of such proceedings, and may, if necessary, enjoin the plaintiff from further prosecution of his suit, it has been ruled that the application for a stay should not be made to the federal court in the first instance. but to the state court. In re Geister (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 322, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 228; McIntyre v. Malone (1902) 3 Neb. (Unof.) 159, 91 N. W. 246; Delavergue v. Farrand (1869) 1 Mich. N. P. 90; Stone v. Brookville Nat. Bank (1872) 39 Ind. 284; Smith v. Soldiers' Business Messenger & Dispatch Co. (1871) 35 N. J. Law, 60. CONTRA, see Garrett v. Carrow (Del. 1868) 3 Houst. 652.

To warrant the state court in taking this action it is necessary that the fact of the bankruptcy should be brought to its judicial attention in some proper manner, generally by a formal answer or plea. Holden v. Sherwood (1876) 84 Ill. 92; Red River Nat. Bank v. Bray (Tex. Civ. App. 1910) 132 S. W. 968; State v. Broaddus (1911) 234 Mo. 358, 137 S. W. 268. See Reynolds v. Pennsylvania Oil Co. (1907) 150 Cal. 629, 89 Pac. 610. A defendant who desires to plead his subsequent discharge in bankruptcy as a bar, should move for a continuance to see if he shall obtain it, and if he does, he should then plead it. Rogers v. Abbot (1910) 206 Mass. 270, 92 N. E. 472, 138 Am. St. Rep. 394. A petition by trustees to vacate an attachment of the bankrupt's realty, after the adjudication, is the appropriate method of procedure. Ward v. Hargett (1909) 151 N. C. 365, 66 S. E. 340. A mere statement of defendant's counsel at the trial that his client is in bankruptcy will not be sufficient to operate as a stay of proceedings. McGowan v. Bowman (1906) 79 Vt. 295, 64 Atl. 1121. And evidence of the fact of the defendant's bankruptcy cannot be introduced under the plea of the general issue. Styles v. Fuller (1886) 101 N. Y. 622, 4 N. E. 348.

The mere filing of a petition in bankruptcy, without any adjudication thereon, does not bar the prosecution of a suit against the debtor in a state court; and is no ground for staying the proceedings. Rennebaum v. Atkinson (1899) 21 Ky. Law Rep. 587, 52 S. W. 828; Givens v. Robbins (1843) 5 Ala. 676; Stewart v. Sonneborn (1874) 51 Ala. 126; Murphy v. Young, 6 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa. 1878) 317.

A state court need not grant a stay of an action brought therein against the bankrupt jointly with others; it will order that proceedings on any judgment which may be obtained against him shall be stayed until the further order of the court. Friedman v. Zweifler (1911) 74 Misc. Rep. 448, 132 N. Y. Supp. 320; Hoyt v. Freel (N. Y. 1869) 8 Abb. Prac. N. S. 220.

Where, after the verdict but before the entry of a judgment thereon, in a cause pending in a state court, the defendant files his petition in bankruptcy, the court, on the filing of a certificate of his having been adjudged bankrupt, and on motion of the defendant, should stay further proceedings until the bankruptcy court passes upon his application for discharge; and on a showing that the discharge was granted, the state court will render judgment on the verdict against the defendant, but with a perpetual stay of execution. Hill v. Harding (1886) 116 Ill. 92, 4 N. E. 361. See Rosenthal v. Nove (1900) 175 Mass. 559, 56 N. E. 884, 78 Am. St. Rep. 512.

A defendant who is adjudged bankrupt pending a suit against him in a state court may allow the action to proceed to judgment without pleading his bankruptcy, and if a judgment is entered, he may apply to the court to vacate it, or set up the bankruptcy in defense to proceedings to enforce the judgment. Whyte v. McGovern (1888) 51 N. J. Law, 356, 17 Atl. 957. Compare Darnall v. Cline (1882) 4 Ky. Law Rep. 537. The levy of an execution issued after the defendant has made application for the benefit of the bankruptcy law, will be quashed by the court out of which it issued, on motion. McDougald v. Reid (1843) 5 Ala. 810.

If the debt or claim in suit is one which would not be affected by the defendant's discharge, no stay is necessary or proper. But if there is doubt on this point, a continuance may be ordered. Thus, where the complaint states a cause of action for embezzlement, but the defendant asserts that his liability, if any, is on contract, it is proper for the state court to postpone the action, pending a determination against the defendant in the court of bankruptcy. Ex parte Butler-Keyser Mfg. Co. (1911) 174 Ala. 237, 56 South. 960.

an equitable petition was filed, to enjoin the enforcement of a t and have an equitable set-off it established, it was held that that defendant had been ad- l a bankrupt and no trustee had pointed, was not ground for a hearing on a demurrer to the Miller v. Smith (1911) 136 70 S. E. 887.

y by injunction or order of f bankruptcy. — When a suit in a state court against a de- who is adjudged bankrupt is upon a debt or claim which e released by his discharge in tcy, it is within the jurisdic- he court of bankruptcy to order l or enjoin its further prosecu- itchell Storebuilding Co. v. Car- 12) 193 Fed. 616, 113 C. C. A. Am. Bankr. Rep. 894; Moore (1906) 145 Fed. 472. 76 C. C. 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 648; v. Dillon (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. Fed. Cas. No. 5,000. But a f bankruptcy has no jurisdic- enjoin a sale of property on a t rendered in a state court en- a mortgage lien of date long four months preceding the ad- n of the mortgagor as a bank- Sample v. Beasley (1908) 158 7, 85 C. C. A. 429, 20 Am. Rep. 164. And see Pickens v. 901) 106 Fed. 653, 45 C. C. A. Am. Bankr. Rep. 644. This lies to cases of voluntary bank- as well as to involuntary pro- . In re Geister (D. C. 1899) 322, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 228. nmaterial that the state court viously denied a similar applica- a stay of proceedings on the round by the same petitioner. ver Coal Land Co. v. Ruffner 908) 165 Fed. 881. 91 C. C. A. Am. Bankr. Rep. 100.

this section the bankruptcy ay restrain the further prose- of actions pending against a t, provided the demand sued ne from which a discharge in tcy will be a release, or where secution of the action to judg- d the enforcement of the judg- ending bankruptcy proceedings erfere with the enforcement of In re Nuttall (D. C. 1912) 201 7.

h the pending action is not di- against the bankrupt himself, rt of bankruptcy has power to ts further prosecution, if the ngs in the state court, if al- continue, might interfere with ay the settlement of the bank- state, as, where the defendant action, though a solvent cor- and not in bankruptcy, is to be a mere department or of the business of the bank- nd therefore its assets are claimed by the trustee in bankruptcy. Mitchell Storebuilding Co. v. Carroll (C. C. A. 1912) 193 Fed. 616, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 894.

A judgment on a nondischargeable debt should not be stayed pending bankruptcy proceedings. In re Dowie (D. C. 1912) 202 Fed. 816.

A referee in bankruptcy has no jurisdiction to issue an injunction staying proceedings in a state court. In re Siebert (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 781, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 348.

The granting of an order staying proceedings pending against the bankrupt in a state court is in the discretion of the court of bankruptcy, and its action in this matter will not be interfered with by the appellate court, on petition for review, unless such discretion has been abused. In re Guanacevi Tunnel Co. (1912) 201 Fed. 316, 119 C. C. A. 554, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 229; In re Lesser (C. C. A. 1900) 99 Fed. 913, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 758. The rule that the granting or refusing of a preliminary injunction ordinarily rests in the sound discretion of the trial court, and that a review by an appellate court is limited to the question whether there has been an abuse of discretion in granting the writ, does not apply to an appeal from an order dissolving a preliminary injunction, in which case the appellate court is not limited to the question of abuse of discretion, but may inquire into all the circumstances connected with the proceedings as they appear of record and the effect the dissolution may have on the rights of the parties. Bothwell v. Fitzgerald (1915) 219 Fed. 408, 135 C. C. A. 212.

The courts of bankruptcy should incline against any unnecessary interference with the normal action of the state courts, and their power in this behalf should be sparingly exercised. In re United Wireless Telegraph Co. (D. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 153, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 394; In re Guanacevi Tunnel Co. (1912) 201 Fed. 316, 119 C. C. A. 554, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 229. It should be exercised only upon due and careful consideration of all the equities of the case. Henry v. Harris (D. C. 1912) 191 Fed. 868. And it should not be exercised where there is legitimate scope for the judgment of the state court without interfering with the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court. In re United Wireless Telegraph Co. (D. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 153, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 394.

Under R. S. § 720, ante, § 1242, and this section, the bankruptcy court could not enjoin a suit in a state court on a claim from which a discharge would be a release for more than 12 months after the adjudication, where the bankrupt did not within that time apply for a discharge. In re Federal Biscuit Co. (C. C. A. 1914) 214 Fed. 221.

The fact that the bankrupt has already received his discharge is no obstacle to an injunction from the court of bankruptcy directed against the enforcement of a collusive or fraudulent judgment or transfer of property. Southern Loan & Trust Co. v. Benbow (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 514, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 9.

4. —— Courts in which proceedings may be stayed.—A court of bankruptcy has no power to issue an injunction ex parte, and without notice or service of process, to restrain a creditor from suing the bankrupt in a state outside the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court; but such a proceeding can only have binding force upon the creditor if jurisdiction is obtained over him by ancillary proceedings in a court having jurisdiction, and upon service of process upon him. Acme Harvester Co. v. Beekman Lumber Co. (1911) 222 U. S. 300, 32 Sup. Ct. 96, 56 L. Ed. 208, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 262.

Where a resident of the western district of Virginia was not a party to bankruptcy proceedings pending in the eastern district, the bankruptcy court of the eastern district had no jurisdiction to enjoin such nonresident from enforcing an assignment of the bankrupt's wages. Progressive Building & Loan Co. v. Hall (1914) 220 Fed. 45, 135 C. C. A. 613.

The court of bankruptcy cannot stay or enjoin foreign creditors proceeding against the bankrupt in a foreign court; but if they seek the aid of the court of bankruptcy for the enforcement of their demands, they will not be allowed any advantage over other creditors. In re Bugbee (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 258, Fed. Cas. No. 2,115. Where the resident partners of a firm, having a partner residing abroad, prove a debt in bankruptcy, the firm becomes a party to the proceedings, and the resident partners may be restrained from prosecuting suits abroad to collect the claim. In re Schepeler (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 12,453.

Where proceedings in bankruptcy are pending against the owner of a vessel, the court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to enjoin or stay the prosecution of a libel against such vessel filed on the admiralty side of the same court. In re People's Mail S. S. Co. (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 10,970.

A federal district court cannot enjoin proceedings in a state court on the ground that proceedings in bankruptcy against the defendant are pending in some other federal district court. In re Richardson (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 11,774; Markson v. Heaney (C. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 9,098. And while the bankruptcy court has power to stay pending suits against the bankrupt, and also to empower the trustee to take the place of the bankrupt therein, it has no authority to withdraw from the state court a suit pending therein and compel its trial in the district court. Samson v. Burton (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 12,285.

5. —— Application for injunction or stay.—Application for an order staying a suit or enjoining further proceedings therein may be made by the trustee in bankruptcy, or by the bankrupt himself if no trustee has yet been appointed. Brock v. Terrell (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 643, Fed. Cas. No. 1,914; In re Tifft (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 78, Fed. Cas. No. 14,031.

6. —— Dissolution of injunction.—Any person who desires to obtain the dissolution of an injunction restraining the prosecution of proceedings against the bankrupt in a state court may apply therefor by motion. In re Wallace (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 17,094.

Since the bankruptcy act and the jurisdiction of the federal courts in bankruptcy, when properly invoked, is paramount in the administration of the affairs of bankrupts, and is essentially exclusive, bankruptcy proceedings having been instituted against an irrigation company, it was error for the federal court to dissolve a preliminary injunction restraining proceedings by creditors of the bankrupt in the state court, for the appointment of a receiver, to reconstruct a portion of the irrigation company's works with money to be collected from contract holders, which was claimed by the trustee to constitute assets of the bankrupt's estate. Bothwell v. Fitzgerald (1915) 219 Fed. 408, 135 C. C. A. 212.

7. Leave to continue suit in state court.—It is not necessary to obtain leave of the court of bankruptcy to continue to judgment a suit founded in tort, pending at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy against the defendant, since the claim would not be provable until the judgment was obtained. In re Hennocksburgh (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 6,367; Louisville Dry Goods Co. v. Lanman (1909) 135 Ky. 163, 121 S. W. 1042, 28 L. R. A. (N. S.) 363, 135 Am. St. Rep. 451.

A pending suit on a dischargeable debt, in which the bankrupts had been arrested and given bail more than four months prior to their bankruptcy, may be permitted to proceed to judgment to enable the plaintiff to enforce his demand against the surety in the undertaking, in case it is in form a security for the payment of the judgment. In re Ennis & Stoppani (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 755, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 679. See In re Martin (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 753, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 423.

Where several attachments were levied so far before the commencement of the bankruptcy proceedings as not to be affected by them, a state court may proceed to determine the question of priority of liens as between the several creditors. Davis v. Friedlander (1881) 104 U. S. 570, 26 L. Ed. 818.

Bankruptcy court's action in allow-ecution of suits in state courts er income of trust under Real Law N. Y. § 98, beyond sum for support held not improprosecution thereof beyond judg-to be allowed. In re Buchan-4) 219 Fed. 492, 135 C. C. A.

of proceedings against the
in a state court may be va-o as to permit creditors to e state court to punish the for contempt committed prior iling of the bankruptcy peti-re Sims (D. C. 1910) 176
, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 899.
case whatever will the court ruptcy permit property which custody and possession of a n bankruptcy to be seized on or other final process from court based on a judgment the bankrupt, or against the as his successor in interest.
Montgomery (1873) 48 Miss.

t actions may be stayed.—To an order staying pending pro-against a bankrupt, it is necat the claim in suit should be h is provable in the bankruptedings (as otherwise it would ffected by the discharge), and it should not be within the claims which are expressly ex-rom the operation of a dis-
In re Camelo (D. C. 1912) 195
, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 353.
imposed on a bankrupt by a urt for a civil contempt under Law N. Y. §§ 753, 773, for nce of an order of that court an action against him prohibfrom transferring his prop-disposing of it and shortly aftthe petition in voluntary banks not a provable debt, and a bankruptcy is without juriso interfere with its enforce-eople v. Sheriff of Kings Coun-
. 1913) 206 Fed. 566.
an order was granted staying for the bankrupt from enter-ment and further prosecuting in the state court to recover der the bond against the bank-fraudulent representations in the bond, and it was doubtful the surety's claim was dis-le in bankruptcy, a motion to he stay would be denied, to e bankrupt to move to vacate ult and try the question of the state court, with leave to otion on termination of such gs. In re Dunfee (D. C.
6 Fed. 745.
ithin the exclusive jurisdiction urt of bankruptcy to determine or not the claim in a pending nst the bankrupt is of such a that its further prosecution e stayed, annd its decision on t is final and conclusive, unless reversed on appeal. In re Mustin (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 506, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 147; American Graphophone Co. v. Leeds & Catlin Co. (C. C. 1909) 174 Fed. 158, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 337; Wagner v. U. S. (1900) 104 Fed. 133, 43 C. C. A. 445, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 596. The court of bankruptcy is not bound or concluded by any decision of the state courts on the same question. Knott v. Putnam (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 907, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 80. The court of bankruptcy is not required to enter into an investigation outside of the pleadings in the action to determine the character of the claim. In re Adler (1907) 152 Fed. 422, 81 C. C. A. 564, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 240.

An unliquidated claim, which might have been liquidated and proved against the bankrupt, should be treated as a provable debt, with reference to the question of staying an action upon it. In re Hilton (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 981, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 774. But compare In re New York Tunnel Co. (1908) 159 Fed. 688, 86 C. C. A. 556, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 25. And see Imbriani v. Anderson (1912) 76 N. H. 491, 84 Atl. 974. Where the debt is clearly provable in bankruptcy, an action based upon it should be stayed, although its object is not to enforce collection of the claim, but to remove the bankrupt from his position as a member of a municipal fire department because of his failure to pay the debt in question. In re Hicks (D. C. 1905) 133 Fed. 739, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 654. Generally speaking, suits which contemplate some other relief than the collection of a debt are not to be stayed, as their prosecution would not ordinarily interfere with the bankruptcy proceedings. In re United Wireless Telegraph Co. (D. C. 1911) 192 Fed. 238, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1.

Proceedings for an accounting before a master in a patent infringement suit, where an interlocutory judgment had been rendered before the adjudication in bankruptcy, are not of such a character that they should be stayed. In re Leeds & Catlin Co. (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 309, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 679. Nor is an action of forcible entry and detainer by a landlord under the state statute to recover possession of the leased premises. In re Van Da Grift Motor Car Co. (D. C. 1912) 192 Fed. 1015, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 474.

The prosecution of a pending action in a state court against the bankrupt should not be stayed or enjoined when the debt on which it is founded is one which will not be released by his discharge in bankruptcy. In re Camelo (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 632, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 353; A. Klipstein & Co. v. Allen-Miles Co. (1905) 136 Fed. 385, 69 C. C. A. 229, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 15; Continental Nat. Bank v. Katz (Ill.) 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 165; Black v. McClelland (C. C. 1875) 12

N. B. R. 481, Fed. Cas. No. 1,462; In re Dowie (D. C. 1912) 202 Fed. 816, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 338. Except in cases where the temporary suspension of the action is necessary to enable the court of bankruptcy fully to carry out the provisions of the law and to exercise without hindrance its plenary jurisdiction over the estate of the bankrupt. In re Nuttall (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 557, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 800.

Where the plaintiff is proceeding against the bankrupt for a debt "created by his fraud, embezzlement, misappropriation, or defalcation while acting as an officer or in any fiduciary capacity," the claim is one which will not be affected by a discharge, if granted, and therefore the action should not be stayed. In re Cole (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 837, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 780; In re Thaw (D. C. 1910) 180 Fed. 419, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 759; In re Lawrence (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 131, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 698; In re Gulick (D. C. 1911) 186 Fed. 350, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 362; In re Wollock (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 516, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 685; Mackel v. Rochester (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 904; In re Adler (1906) 144 Fed. 659, 75 C. C. A. 461, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 414; In re Ennis & Stoppani (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 755, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 679; Horter v. Harlan, 7 N. B. R. 238. See Gleason v. O'Mara (1909) 180 Fed. 417, 103 C. C. A. 563, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 832. Since a suit to require a defendant corporation to issue a certificate of stock, and for damages for refusing to issue it, involves a claim from which a discharge in bankruptcy would not be a release, the suit cannot be stayed. In re Clipper Mfg. Co. (1910) 179 Fed. 843, 103 C. C. A. 260, 24 Am. Bankr. 683. And wages earned by a bankrupt after his adjudication belong to him and not to his estate in bankruptcy, and the court has no jurisdiction to take action against a creditor who has wrongfully collected such wages on an assignment made prior to the bankruptcy. In re Karns (D. C. 1905) 148 Fed. 143, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 841.

A judgment in a bastardy proceeding, requiring the putative father to provide for the maintenance of the child is not a "debt" from which he will be released by his discharge in bankruptcy, and hence proceedings for its enforcement should not be stayed. In re Baker (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 954, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101; In re Cotton (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 3,269.

An action for breach of promise of marriage is an action on contract and not in tort, although seduction is also alleged, and a general verdict for the plaintiff, not specifically awarding any damages for the seduction, creates a debt provable and dischargeable in bankruptcy, so that a suit for its enforcement may be stayed. In re Warth (D. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 571, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 41; In re McCauley (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 223, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 122.

Where the bankrupt is a corporation, and a creditor has an action pending against it, but it appears that his ultimate object is to enforce a statutory liability against the directors and stockholders, and to do this he must first have recovered a judgment against the corporation, the bankruptcy court will refuse to enjoin him and will allow him to proceed to judgment against the bankrupt. In re Marshall Paper Co. (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 419, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 653; In re Remington Automobile & Motor Co. (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 441, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 285. So where the creditor's object is not to collect anything from the bankrupt, but to enforce the liability of the surety on a bail bond. In re Franklin (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 666, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 285.

The statute does not prevent the court of bankruptcy from restraining attaching creditors of the bankrupt from the further prosecution of their attachment suits in a state court, when the preference created by the levy of such attachments was the act of bankruptcy on which the adjudication was based, and the petition was filed within four months after the levy, even though the creditors' causes of action were such as would not be affected by a discharge of the debtor in bankruptcy. Bear v. Chase (1900) 99 Fed. 920, 40 C. C. A. 182, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 746.

The court of bankruptcy may interfere where proceedings between the bankrupt and another in a state court are collusive and intended to give such other an advantage over other creditors. Samson v. Burton (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 12,286; In re Clark (C. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 2,801.

The jurisdiction acquired before the proceedings in bankruptcy by a state court in proceedings for the partition of an estate in which the bankrupt is interested will not be interfered with by the bankruptcy court. In re Caldwell (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 2,300.

9. —— Proceedings to collect alimony.—Alimony awarded to a divorced wife by the judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction, to be paid in fixed periodical installments, and overdue at the time the husband is adjudged bankrupt, is not provable as a "debt" against his estate, and is not such a claim as will be released by his discharge; and therefore the wife will not be stayed or enjoined, pending the bankruptcy proceedings, from pursuing appropriate remedies for its collection. Audubon v. Shufeldt (1901) 181 U. S. 575, 21 Sup. Ct. 735, 45 L. Ed. 1009, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 829; In re Hubbard (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 710, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 528; Turner v. Turner (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 785, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 289; In re Shepard (D. C. 1899) 97

; In re Anderson (D. C. 1899) 321, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 858; ith, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 471; owell (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. Am. Bankr. Rep. 837; In re (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. ; In re Garrett (D. C. 1875) R. 493, Fed. Cas. No. 5,252; chemeyer (D. C. 1878) 18 N. 0, Fed. Cas. No. 7,966; Bar- Barclay (1900) 184 Ill. 375, 56 6, 51 L. R. A. 351; Welty v. 901) 96 Ill. App. 141; Mais- Maisner (1901) 62 App. Div. N. Y. Supp. 1107; Young v. 901) 35 Misc. Rep. 335, 71 N. . 944; Lemert v. Lemert 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. Rep. 253. A, Wagner v. U. S. (1900) 104 43 C. C. A. 445, 4 Am. Bankr. ; In re Houston (D. C. 1899) 119, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 107; an Orden (D. C. 1899) 96 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 801; In ner (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 82, 3 nkr. Rep. 442; Arrington v. n (1902) 131 N. C. 143, 42 S. 92 Am. St. Rep. 769; In re Estate (1909) 118 N. Y. 32. Installments of alimony due and payable under the decree after the date of the ion in bankruptcy are not debts against the bankrupt's nd therefore not affected by his e. In re Nowell (D. C. 1900) 931, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 837; alloner (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. m. Bankr. Rep. 442; In re (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. n re Lachemeyer (D. C. 1878) R. 270, Fed. Cas. No. 7,966.

— Proceedings subsequent to t.—Where a creditor has re- judgment and caused final pro- be issued and levied on prop- the debtor, before the latter's tion in bankruptcy, if no stay eedings is ordered, nor other s taken, in the court of bank- o arrest the action, the offi- ing the writ may proceed to sale of the property, and his ll give the purchaser a title annot be impeached collateral- e trustee in bankruptcy. Doe ress (1874) 21 Wall. 642, 22 549; In re Hufnagel (D. C. 2 N. B. R. 554, Fed. Cas. No. Thames v. Miller (C. C. 1873) s. No. 13,860; Elston v. Cas- 4) 101 Ind. 426, 51 Am. Rep. unter v. Porch (1883) 4 Ky. . 826; Fisher v. Lewis (1879) 629; Thompson v. Moses 43 Ga. 383; Wheeler v. Red- 75) 55 Ga. 87. But if the writ ued and levied within four before the institution of the ngs in bankruptcy, its lien is ex- ed by the adjudication in bank- and consequently the officer holds the property as a mere temporary custodian, and the trustee is entitled to recover possession of it, and the court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to order the surrender of the property, on a summary petition by the trustee. In re Francis-Valentine Co. (C. C. A. 1899) 94 Fed. 793, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 522; In re Fellerath (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 121, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 40; In re Richards (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 258, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 518; In re Francis-Valentine Co. (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 953, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 188; In re Schnepf (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 190, Fed. Cas. No. 12,471.

The court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction, by injunction, to forbid an execution creditor of the bankrupt from proceeding to sell property on which a levy has been made at the date of the adjudication, where the execution constitutes the act of bankruptcy found against the defendant, or is an unlawful preference and contrary to the provisions of the bankruptcy law. In re Lesser (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 433. 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 815; In re Kimball (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 29, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 161; In re Lady Bryan Min. Co. (D. C. 1870) 6 N. B. R. 252, Fed. Cas. No. 7,980; Beattie v. Gardner (D. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 323, Fed. Cas. No. 1,195; In re Mallory (D. C. 1871) 6 N. B. R. 22, Fed. Cas. No. 8,991; Blake v. Francis-Valentine Co. (D. C. 1898) 89 Fed. 691, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 372; Irving v. Hughes (C. C. 1867) 2 N. B. R. 61, Fed. Cas. No. 7,076; In re Metzler (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 38, Fed. Cas. No. 9,512; Southern Loan & Trust Co. v. Benbow (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 514, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 9. And though the judgment is not thus impeachable, the court of bankruptcy may enjoin the sale by the sheriff, until the trustee in bankruptcy can intervene, when this appears necessary for the protection of the general creditors. In re Lady Bryan Min. Co. (D. C. 1870) 6 N. B. R. 252, Fed. Cas. No. 7,980; In re Globe Cycle Works, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 421; Eastburn v. Yardley (C. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 4,252. An injunction restraining proceedings on execution under a judgment against the bankrupt will be dissolved where the trustee has taken no measures to recover the property levied on, and the bankrupt declares that the property does not belong to him. In re Olcott (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 10,478.

That property is perishable is no ground for dissolving an injunction which restrained a sale thereof on execution prior to the adjudication. In re Metzler (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 38, Fed. Cas. No. 9,512.

When a sheriff holding a writ against the bankrupt is allowed to proceed with the sale, the sheriff will be directed to bring the entire proceeds, less costs, into the court of bankruptcy; or he may be directed to satisfy the execution creditor (if the latter's claim is valid and not affected by the adjudication), and to pay over the remainder to the trustee in bankruptcy. In re Bernstein (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 1,350; O'Brien v. Weld (1875) 92 U. S. 81, 23 L. Ed. 675.

If a sheriff, acting under a writ the lien of which was dissolved by the adjudication in bankruptcy of the debtor, because levied within four months before the commencement of the proceedings in bankruptcy, had already made a sale before the adjudication, and has the proceeds in his hands, he may be enjoined from disposing of such proceeds, and ordered to surrender the same to the trustee in bankruptcy, and this may be done in summary proceedings, without a plenary suit. Clark v. Larremore (1903) 188 U. S. 486, 23 Sup. Ct. 363, 47 L. Ed. 555, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 476; In re Kenney (1900) 105 Fed. 897, 45 C. C. A. 113, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 355; In re English (1904) 127 Fed. 940, 62 C. C. A. 572, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 674; In re Franks (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 635, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 634; Schmilovitz v. Bernstein (1901) 22 R. I. 330, 47 Atl. 884; In re Duguid (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 274, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 794; Bear v. Chase (1900) 99 Fed. 920, 40 C. C. A. 182, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 746; Miller v. O'Brien (C. C. 1871) 9 N. B. R. 26, Fed. Cas. No. 9,586; In re Grinnell (D. C. 1873) 9 N. B. R. 29, Fed. Cas. No. 5,830; Pennington v. Lowenstein (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 570, Fed. Cas. No. 10,938; In re Richards (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 258, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 518; In re Fellerath (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 121, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 40; In re Francis-Valentine Co. (C. C. A. 1899) 94 Fed. 793, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 522; Mills v. Davis (N. Y. Super. Ct. 1873) 10 N. B. R. 340; Kosches v. Libowitz (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 56 S. W. 613; Davis v. Jewett (1903) 17 S. Dak. 410, 97 N. W. 16. Compare In re Easley (D. C. 1898) 93 Fed. 419, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715; In re Campbell (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 165, Fed. Cas. No. 2,349.

If the sheriff has paid over the proceeds of the execution to the creditor, after the adjudication of the debtor as a bankrupt, the trustee will still have a remedy by action against the creditor to recover the fund, if the levy was dissolved by the bankruptcy proceedings or was voidable as a preference. Bradley v. Frost (C. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 1,780. But otherwise where the sale was made and the proceeds paid over to the creditor before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, though less than four months prior thereto, since the statute applies only to liens existing and unsatisfied at the commencement of the proceedings in bankruptcy. Davis v. Jewett (1903) 17 S. Dak. 410, 97 N. W. 16; Levor v Seiter (1902) 69 App. Div. 33, 74 N. Y Supp. 499; Greene v. Montana Brewing Co. (1903) 28 Mont. 380, 72 Pac 751; Farrell v. W. B. Lockett & Co (1905) 115 Tenn. 494, 91 S. W. 209.

An adjudication in bankruptcy bring the entire estate of the bankrupt within the custody and control of the cour of bankruptcy; and if a sheriff there after levies on goods of the bankrupt he may be enjoined from making a sale under his levy. The title to the goods vests in the trustee in bankruptcy, and he alone must make the sale the proceeds being subject to any valid liens or claims upon them. Leonard v Yohnk (1887) 68 Wis. 587, 32 N. W 702, 60 Am. Rep. 884; Pennington v Sale (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 572, Fed Cas. No. 10,939.

In a suit to revive a judgment against a bankrupt, his trustee is the proper person on whom to serve the citation if he is still in office. Grayson's Ex'r v. Norton (1881) 33 La. Ann. 1018.

11. —— Proceedings supplementary to execution.—Where proceedings supplementary to execution are pending in a state court at the time of the adjudication of the judgment debtor as a bankrupt, the judgment being a debt provable in bankruptcy, the court of bankruptcy, on the application of the bankrupt or his trustee, may order a stay of all proceedings in the state court to await the determination of the court of bankruptcy on the question of the bankrupt's discharge. In re Lesser (1900) 99 Fed. 913, 40 C. C. A. 177, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 758; In re Kletchka (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 901, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 479; In re Reed (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 1, Fed. Cas. No. 11,637.

When a judgment in a state court has been recovered against two defendants on their joint and several obligations, and one of them is afterwards adjudged bankrupt but not the other, proceedings in the state court supplementary to execution on such judgment may be stayed and enjoined as to the bankrupt, but not as to the other judgment debtor. In re Burke (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 703, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 51.

A bankrupt who has omitted to apply for a stay of proceedings in an action against him, pending the question of his discharge, may nevertheless apply to the state court after judgment to have supplementary proceedings against him thereon stayed, on the ground that he has been discharged, if the plaintiff's demand is of such a nature as to be released by the discharge. World Co. v. Brooks (N. Y. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 588.

The adjudication in bankruptcy will not affect the state court's jurisdiction of the supplementary proceedings, nor authorize the debtor to refuse to comply with its order directing his examination, in the absence of an application plaintiff has procured the ap-nt of a receiver in his supple-proceedings, and the latter has tual possession of the proper-ill not, under any ordinary cir-ces, be interfered with by the tcy court, but leave will be giv-e trustee to intervene in the s action, for the purpose of g his claim, if there is any o do so, and for the protection nterests of the general cred-n re Whipple (D. C. 1876) . No. 17,512.

ederal court for a stay of such ngs. In re William E. De Lan-. (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 280, Bankr. Rep. 634.

— Proceedings on appeal.—The cy of a party does not prevent ng and determination of an ap-n a judgment of a state court ppellate court of the state, and t of bankruptcy will not order f the proceedings on appeal. Meisenheimer (1898) 104 Ky. 3. W. 1087; Flanagan v. Pear-5) 42 Tex. 1, 19 Am. Rep. 40; . Glidden (1870) 39 Cal. 559, tep. 479; Alston v. Wingfield 3 Ga. 18; Booker v. Adkins 48 Ala. 529; In re Hirsch 868) 2 N. B. R. 3, Fed. Cas.); Booker v. Blythe (1909) 90 , 118 S. W. 401; Bennett v. (1901) 65 S. W. 12, 23 Ky. . 1281. Compare In re Met-C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 201, Fed. 9,494; In re Leszynsky (D. C. d. Cas. No. 8,278. See United Telegraph Co. v. National Signaling Co. (1912) 198 Fed. C. C. A. 261, 28 Am. Bankr.

nt against defendant and his on appeal from justice court , rendered prior to bankrupt-not void though pending ap-ndant was adjudged a bank-bankruptcy court having au-plaintiff to proceed to judg-ohn, Weil & Co. v. Weinberg 15) 70 So. 353.

the bankrupt was the appel-rustee, on producing the prop-ce of his official character, motion, be substituted as ap-the case. Herndon v. How-) 9 Wall. 664, 19 L. Ed. 809; Exchange Bank (1870) 12 , 20 L. Ed. 287. See Sigler (1846) 15 Ohio, 471.

rustee does not intervene and e substituted, still the bank-r to his discharge, has suffi-rest in preventing the estab-of a claim against him to en-to maintain an appeal from nt thereon. Sanford v. San-4) 58 N. Y. 67, 17 Am. Rep. Weil v. Dougherty (1873) 46 Hughes v. Thweatt (1879) 376.

the judgment was not render-fter the adjudication in bank-ruptcy, yet the bankrupt may prosecute an appeal or writ of error thereon in his own name. Hill v. Harding (1880) 131 U. S. (Appendix) cc, 26 L. Ed. 310; O'Neil v. Dougherty (1873) 46 Cal. 575. But compare Parks v. Doty (1878) 13 Bush (Ky.) 727; Daugherty v. Ringo (1880) 1 Ky. Law Rep. 282. And see Jenkins v. International Bank (1881) 97 Ill. 568. Provided he obtains the written consent of the trustee in bankruptcy. Christy v. Des Moines City Ry. Co. (1905) 126 Iowa, 428, 102 N. W. 194.

After the bankrupt has received his discharge, he has no further interest in any action pending against him, and cannot prosecute an appeal from a judgment rendered against him before the discharge was granted, though his trustee may do so. Knox v. Exchange Bank (1870) 12 Wall. 379, 20 L. Ed. 287; Wilson v. McMullen (1883) 4 Ky. Law Rep. 895.

13. —— Contempt proceedings. — A fine imposed by a state court for a contempt, committed by willfully presenting to the court false affidavits, is not a debt which is released by a discharge in bankruptcy, and a court of bankruptcy will not stay proceedings against the bankrupt for its enforcement. In re Koronsky (1909) 170 Fed. 719, 96 C. C. A. 39, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 851. A fine imposed on a bankrupt, although after the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, by a state court for a criminal contempt is not a dischargeable debt in bankruptcy, and proceedings for its enforcement will not be stayed by the court of bankruptcy, if the contempt itself was committed before the filing of the petition. In re Hall (D. C. 1909) 170 Fed. 721, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 498.

It is the duty of a court of bankruptcy to stay contempt proceedings against a bankrupt, in a civil suit against him in a state court on a debt or claim from which his discharge would be a release, for twelve months or until his right to a discharge has been determined. In re Adler (1906) 144 Fed. 659, 75 C. C. A. 461, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 414.

14. Effect of the stay.—When the court of bankruptcy has exercised its power to order a stay of proceedings in a pending suit against the bankrupt, founded on a debt from which his discharge would be a release, this does not divest the state court of jurisdiction over the case, and the stay does not operate as a bar to the action, but only as a suspension of proceedings until the question of the bankrupt's discharge shall have been determined in the United States court sitting in bankruptcy. After the determination of that question in that court, the court in which the suit is pending may proceed to such judgment as the circumstances of the case may require. If the discharge is refused, the plaintiff, upon establishing his claim, may obtain a general judgment. Hill v. Harding (1882) 107 U. S. 633, 2 Sup. Ct. 404, 27 L. Ed. 493; Byers v. First Nat. Bank (1877) 85 Ill. 423; Tinkum v. O'Neale (1869) 5 Nev. 93.

A creditor enforcing an execution on a judgment recovered in the state court, in defiance of an injunction of the court of bankruptcy, in which the debtor has filed a voluntary petition, is guilty of contempt. In re Atkinson (D. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 143, Fed. Cas. No. 606. Where a bankrupt obtained an injunctive order from the bankruptcy court staying all suits and proceedings against him on the part of certain creditors, their agents and attorneys, to collect certain specified debts, and thereupon a suit by one of the creditors was discontinued, and afterwards a new suit was brought through the same attorney in the same court for the recovery of the same debt, with allegations of fraud, it was held that the last named suit was a violation of the injunction. In re Schwarz (D. C. 1882) 14 Fed. 787. The jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy to issue an injunction of this kind may be inquired into by the state court, and if the latter finds that the federal court has acted without authority, the injunction may be disregarded, or the parties may be enjoined from attempting to enforce it. Kittredge v. Emerson (1844) 15 N. H. 227.

A sale of property of the bankrupt on execution, after notice of an injunction granted by the court of bankruptcy staying further proceedings in the action, will render the officer liable. Stinson v. McMurray (1845) 6 Humph. (Tenn.) 339.

Where the suit is against the bankrupt and another jointly, and proceedings are stayed as to the bankrupt, judgment may be rendered against both defendants, and an order made staying execution as to the bankrupt until the question of his discharge is determined. Byers v. First Nat. Bank (1877) 85 Ill. 423.

Where a creditor has already recovered judgment against the bankrupt and a third person, though he is enjoined from enforcing execution as against the bankrupt, this does not affect his right to proceed against the other defendant. Penny v. Taylor (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 200, Fed. Cas. No. 10,957.

15. Effect of grant or denial of discharge.—An injunction issued by the court of bankruptcy, staying proceedings against the bankrupt in a state court until the question of his discharge shall have been determined, if not ipso facto dissolved by the granting of the discharge, should ordinarily be vacated as a matter of course on the application of the creditor who was stayed or enjoined. In re Rosenthal (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 368, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 799; In re Flanders (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 936, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 379; In r Thomas (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 3 Fed. Cas. No. 13,890; Kittredge v. Em erson (1844) 15 N. H. 227. The sam action should be taken by a state cour when the stay of proceedings wa granted by it. Wakeman v. Throckmo ton (1902) 74 Conn. 616, 51 Atl. 55

An injunction obtained ex parte i the bankruptcy court, after the dis charge has been granted, continuing th previous injunction, was held to hav been improvidently granted and was va cated. In re Herzberg (D. C. 1885) 2 Fed. 699.

If the defendant fails to obtain hi discharge, an action pending agains him in a state court at the time of th adjudication survives. American Wool en Co. v. Maaget (1912) 86 Conn. 234 85 Atl. 583.

16. Pending actions by bankrupt a plaintiff.—A pending action will no abate merely by reason of the bank ruptcy of the plaintiff. Thatcher v Rockwell (1881) 105 U. S. 467, 26 L Ed. 949; King v. Morrison (1844) Ark. 519; Pittsburgh, C. & St. L. R Co. v. Nuzum (1878) 60 Ind. 533 Springer v. Vanderpool (1844) 4 Edw Ch. (N. Y.) 362; Griffin v. Mutual Lif Ins. Co. (1904) 119 Ga. 664, 46 S. E 870.

The transfer of the right of action i a pending suit to a trustee in bankrupt cy is a matter of defense to be set u by the defendant, and the failure of th plaintiff to disclose the fact of his bank ruptcy is not a fraud nor ground for a new trial. Coulson v. Ferree (1904 26 Ky. Law Rep. 959, 82 S. W. 1000 Where no trustee has been appointed the bankrupt still retains title to hi property, and may maintain a suit on a chose in action. Rand v. Iowa Cent R. Co. (1906) 186 N. Y. 58, 78 N. E 574, 116 Am. St. Rep. 530, 9 Ann. Cas 452.

If the trustee in bankruptcy declines to prosecute an action begun by the bankrupt, or expressly or impliedly re nounces his claim to do so, the suit may be continued by the bankrupt in his own name and for his own benefit. Greenall v. Hersum (1915) 220 Mass 278, 107 N. E. 941; Hubbard v. Gould (1906) 74 N. H. 25, 64 Atl. 668; Grif fin v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. (1904) 119 Ga. 664, 46 S. E. 870; Towle v. Rowe (1878) 58 N. H. 394; Ramsey v. Fel lows (1879) 58 N. H. 607; Conner v. Southern Expr. Co. (1871) 42 Ga. 37, 5 Am. Rep. 543, 9 N. B. R. 138. But see Peters v. Wallace (1887) 4 S. W. 914 9 Ky. Law Rep. 215. Before a bank rupt can maintain an action on a claim which, under the adjudication in bank ruptcy, passed to his trustee, on the ground that the trustee elected not to take such claim, it devolves upon the bankrupt to show that the trustee was informed of the nature of the claim and that he elected not to take it.

m v. Buckingham (1880) 36 38. The trustee may consent bankrupt shall continue to the action in his own name, osing his right to whatever ecovered in the action, or dimself of the title passed to e adjudication in bankruptcy.
v. Rockwell (1881) 105 U.
L. Ed. 949; Gilmore v. Bangs
5 Ga. 403; Peck v. U. S.
Ct. Cl. 364; Mayhew v. Pen-80) 129 Mass. 332; Williams 1882) 132 Mass. 385; Thatchckwell (1878) 4 Colo. 375;
Paul (1881) 131 Mass. 129. of the trustee to receive the the judgment, and of the debe protected in paying the the proper party, may be proper steps taken for that Stone v. Jenkins (1900) 176
, 57 N. E. 1002, 79 Am. St.
Griffin v. Mutual Life Ins.
) 119 Ga. 664, 46 S. E. 870;
Exp. Co. v. Connor (1873)
5, 12 N. B. R. 53. rustee in bankruptcy has yet inted, the defendant may, in recovery, protect himself ability to another suit by a hen appointed, by an appli-the court of bankruptcy.
owa Cent. R. Co. (1906) 186
78 N. E. 574, 116 Am. St.
9 Ann. Cas. 542. been held that the court in action is tried may direct the hey find for the plaintiff, to he recover for the use of his bankruptcy. Woddail v. Hol-71) 44 Ga. 18. Or the court ptcy may make its order re-he defendant to pay the the judgment to the trustee.
Jones (D. C. 1848) 23 Vt.
Cas. No. 9,768.
e discharge of the trustee, or payment of all creditors and rge of the bankrupt, the latake up and continue the pros-any actions which were pend-time of his bankruptcy and ain unsettled. Bacon v. Ab-4) 137 Mass. 397; Peery v.
885) 86 Mo. 652.
ause of action, in a suit pende name of the bankrupt as the time of the adjudication, ch does not pass to the truskruptcy, the bankrupt himself nue to prosecute the action y reference to his trustee or proceedings in bankruptcy.
Davenport (1876) 57 N. H. ere the bankrupt before his on had begun an action in a t to recover damages for a prosecution and arrest, the ankruptcy has no jurisdiction him in the further conduct it, the right of action therein g in the trustee, and the needs no permission from the court of bankruptcy to prosecute such suit to judgment. In re Haensell (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 355, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 286.

Pending proceedings in bankruptcy and after the appointment of a trustee, the bankrupt has no standing to commence and prosecute an action in his own name, in relation to any of his property, unless it be exempt property. Pickens v. Dent (1901) 106 Fed. 653, 45 C. C. A. 522, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 644; Scheidt v. Goldsmith (1902) 103 Ill. App. 623; Simpson v. Miller (1907) 7 Cal. App. 248, 94 Pac. 252; Buckingham v. Buckingham (1880) 36 Ohio St. 68; Rand v. Sage (1905) 94 Minn. 344, 102 N. W. 864; Remmers v. Remmers (1909) 217 Mo. 541, 117 S. W. 1117. But the assignee of a chose in action may maintain a suit thereon in the name of his assignor, notwithstanding the fact that the latter has been adjudged a bankrupt. Hayes v. Pike (1845) 17 N. H. 564. And so, the purchaser of a chose in action from the trustee of a bankrupt's estate may maintain an action upon it in the name of such trustee. Rogers v. Union Stone Co. (1883) 134 Mass. 31.

17. Intervention of trustee in pending suits.—The trustee is entitled to be made a party to suits pending in state courts by or against the bankrupt, and to assume the control of them and be substituted in place of the bankrupt, and the latter, if necessary, will be enjoined from interfering with the litigation. Gates v. Goodloe (1879) 101 U. S. 612, 25 L. Ed. 895; Samson v. Burton (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 1, Fed. Cas. No. 12,285; New Orleans Acid & Fertilizer Co. v. Guillory (1906) 117 La. 821, 42 South. 329; Williams v. Lane (1910) 158 Cal. 39, 109 Pac. 873; Neill v. Barbaree (1911) 135 Ga. 771, 70 S. E. 638; Lee v. Pfeffer (1881) 25 Hun (N. Y.) 97. But see Jewett Bros. v. Huffman (1905) 14 N. D. 110, 103 N. W. 408. But some of the state courts maintain that, while the trustee is hereby authorized to apply to the court in which an action is pending to be made a party, yet it rests in the discretion of the state court to grant or refuse such an application, and that its authority is not abridged by the fact that the court of bankruptcy has directed or ordered the trustee to enter his appearance or intervene, and that, in deciding such an application, the state court will be governed by state laws and judicial policy. National Distilling Co. v. Seidel (1899) 103 Wis. 489, 79 N. W. 744; Bank of Commerce v. Elliott (1901) 109 Wis. 648, 85 N. W. 417. The right of a trustee in bankruptcy to intervene in a cause pending in a state court must be determined in and under the practice and rules of the state court. Drew v. Fort Payne Co. (Ala. 1914) 65 So. 71.

If leave of court is necessary to the trustee's intervention in a pending suit, the objection that it was not obtained comes too late after verdict. Jones v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. (1901) 25 Tex. Civ. App. 234, 61 S. W. 553.

If a trustee, after intervening in a pending suit has been inadvertently or improperly discharged, and is afterwards reinstated by the referee in bankruptcy, the suit may be revived in his name. Bunch v. Smith (1906) 116 Tenn. 201, 93 S. W. 80.

When the trustee intervenes and takes part in the prosecution or defense of the action, he submits himself to the jurisdiction of the state court, and becomes a party in the ordinary sense and with the ordinary consequences, and a judgment may be taken against him by default. Kingsbury v. Waco State Bank (1902) 30 Tex. Civ. App. 387, 70 S. W. 551. He may become liable for costs accruing after his entrance into the case. Kessler v. Herklotz (1909) 132 App. Div. 278, 117 N. Y. Supp. 45. And he will be bound by the judgment rendered, and if that judgment is unfavorable to the claims of the bankrupt, the court of bankruptcy will not, at the instance of the trustee, enjoin the state court's officers from executing the judgment, or from distributing its proceeds according to the orders of the state court. In re Van Alstyne (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 929, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 42; In re Neely (1902) 113 Fed. 210, 51 C. C. A. 167, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 312. The trustee may be authorized to compromise and settle a suit pending in a state court, in which the bankrupt is plaintiff, but not without consent of the latter's attorney, as he has a lien on any judgment recovered for his services. In re Adamo (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 716, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 180.

If the bankrupt was one of two joint plaintiffs on the record, the suit must be continued in the name of the trustee in bankruptcy and the other plaintiff, or, if a trustee has not yet been appointed, the action may be supported in the names of the bankrupt and the other plaintiff until a trustee comes in. Stinson v. Fernald (1885) 77 Me. 576, 1 Atl. 742. And see Toulmin v. Hamilton (1845) 7 Ala. 362.

18. —— Effect of trustee declining to intervene.—The trustee is not bound to intervene in a pending suit if satisfied that nothing is to be gained for the estate, and neither the parties to the action nor any court can compel him to intervene. In re Leeds & Catlin Co. (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 309, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 679; Griffin v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. (1904) 119 Ga. 664, 46 S. E. 870; Heckscher v. Blanton (1911) 111 Va. 648, 69 S. E. 1045, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 923; Serra-é Hijo v. Hoffman (1877) 29 La. Ann. 17. See Norton v. Switzer (1876) 93 U. S. 355, 23 L. Ed. 903. He may allow the action to proceed in the name of the bankrupt and claim for the estate the fruits o the litigation if it is successful. Kes ler v. Herklotz (1909) 132 App. Div 278, 117 N. Y. Supp. 45. Where patent infringement suit is pendin against the bankrupt, the court o bankruptcy may grant leave to th plaintiff to file a supplemental bill mak ing the trustee a party defendant, i order that he may be bound by the de cree; but this does not oblige him t make any defense or take anythin more than a nominal part in the pro ceedings; whether or not he shall inter fere actively is a matter to be deter mined by him and by the bankruptc court. Victor Talking Mach. Co. v Hawthorne & Sheble Mfg. Co. (C. C 1909) 173 Fed. 617, 23 Am. Bankr Rep. 234.

If the trustee declines to take up litigation begun by the bankrupt, th suit may proceed in the name of th bankrupt himself, or the bankrupt' surety may be allowed to continue it i the name of the bankrupt but for hi own protection. Bluegrass Canning Co. v. Steward (C. C. A. 1909) 175 Fed 537, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 726. But th trustee, by taking this course, will no lose his right to claim whatever ma be recovered. Peck v. U. S. (1879) 15 Ct. Cl. 364. But as the trustee oc cupies substantially the position of purchaser pendente lite, he will be con cluded by the judgment. Eyster v. Gaf (1875) 91 U. S. 521, 23 L. Ed. 403 Heckscher v. Blanton (1911) 111 Va 648, 69 S. E. 1045, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 923; Chickering v. Failes (1861) 2 Ill. 507; Mount v. Manhattan Co. (1887) 43 N. J. Eq. 25, 9 Atl. 114 Cleveland v. Boerum (1862) 24 N. Y 613.

Where plaintiff sued for an account ing and a decree that title to land wa in him and that defendant should exe cute title on payment of the amoun due, and pending action plaintiff becam bankrupt, a final decree should declar the amount to be due by the bankrup and authorize its payment, and that o making of such payment his truste should have title executed to him, o on termination of bankruptcy to per son succeeding to plaintiff's right t the land. Scott v. Lunsford (Ga. 1913 80 S. E. 316.

Where a pending action is against th bankrupt as defendant, and the trus tee declines to intervene, a judgmen recovered by the creditor may be prov ed in the bankruptcy proceedings as liquidation or judicial ascertainment of the amount due the creditor, an as a basis of dividends, but it is ef fective for that purpose only. Norto v. Switzer (1876) 93 U. S. 355, 23 L Ed. 903.

19. —— Right dependent on natur of action.—To entitle the trustee to in tervene in a pending action, it must b ich the estate of the bankrupt terest, and which may thererosecuted or defended by the or the benefit of the general

In re Haensell (D. C. 1899)
355, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 286.
nkrupt has an action pending he claims damages for a per-
, the trustee cannot claim to uted as plaintiff. Epstein v. er (1911) 29 Okl. 337, 116
If the bankrupt has dis-itle to the property in suit, e cannot come in and assert nmons v. Richards (1902) 28 App. 112, 66 S. W. 687. But appears on the face of the at the bankrupt, plaintiff in an s a prima facie right to sue roperty in question, his trus-lication to be substituted as cannot be defeated by the alleging that his wife is the in interest. Person v. U. S.
Ct. Cl. 543.

stee has the right to intervene brought by a judgment credi-bankrupt to set aside a fraudveyance and reach concealed Slick v. Nimmo (1913) 121 Md.
Atl. 116; In re Riker (D. C.
Fed. 96, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep.
vis v. Vandiver (1905) 143 38 South. 850; Kinmouth igam (N. J. Eq. 1904) 57 Atl. nch v. Smith (1906) 116 Tenn.
S. W. 80; Tharp v. Tharp's (Ky. 1909) 119 S. W. 814; Globe Bank & Trust Co. (Ky.
S. W. 879. And in such an recovery by the trustee is for t of all the creditors, and not r the original plaintiff, and the entitled to have turned over e entire proceeds of a sale of erty. Bunch v. Smith (1906) 201, 93 S. W. 80. The trusbe admitted to prosecute to ment a suit begun by a credivoid an unlawful preference.
New Orleans Acid & Fertili-1909) 211 U. S. 496, 29 Sup.
53 L. Ed. 300. Or a suit to n equitable lien on property of upt. Snyder v. Smith (1904) 58, 69 N. E. 1089. Or a suit se a mortgage, in order that ee may be enabled to claim us proceeds of the sale after the mortgage. In re Gerdes 1900) 102 Fed. 318, 4 Am.
ep. 346.

ction by a creditor of an incorporation on unpaid stock ons, the court had power, un-Code Ohio, § 11,363, to sub-e trustee in bankruptcy of the on as plaintiff, with leave to nended petition and bring in ubscriber as defendant. Van McCulley (Ohio, 1913) 104 N.

stee in bankruptcy has a legal status to attack a judgment illegally entered against the bankrupt. Garrison v. Seckendorf (1909) 79 N. J. Law, 203, 74 Atl. 311; Weil v. Simmons (1877) 66 Mo. 617. Or to move to set aside a judgment entered against the bankrupt by default. First Nat. Bank v. Flynn (1902) 117 Iowa, 493, 91 N. W. 784. Or to take the bankrupt's place in an action begun by him to obtain an injunction against the collection of a judgment on the ground that it had been paid. Brandon v. Cabiness (1846) 10 Ala. 155. A defendant's trustee in bankruptcy is entitled to move in the state court for vacation of an attachment on a bankrupt's property. C. Tennant Sons & Co. v. New Jersey Oil & Meal Co. (1912) 139 N. Y. S. 1023, 78 Misc. Rep. 497. CONTRA, Gray v. Arnot (N. D. 1915) 154 N. W. 268.

20. —— Time to intervene.—A trustee in bankruptcy, who assumes to proceed as a party in a cause in a state court before the court has either affirmatively or tacitly allowed him to intervene acts prematurely, and papers filed by him in the cause may be on motion stricken out. Drew v. Fort Payne Co. (Ala. 1914) 65 So. 71.

If the trustee wishes to intervene in a pending suit, he must act promptly, and an unreasonable delay, operating to the prejudice of others in interest, will justify a denial of his application. Freehold Const. Co. v. Bernstein (1908) 60 Misc. Rep. 363, 113 N. Y. Supp. 368. If he allows the suit to go to judgment in the court of first instance, he cannot intervene after it has been taken up on appeal. Weaver Mercantile Co. v. Thurmond (1911) 68 W. Va. 530, 70 S. E. 126, 33 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1061.

21. —— Form of application and pleadings.—The proper method for the trustee to intervene in a suit pending by or against the bankrupt is by his own petition or motion in the court where the suit in pending. Kent v. Downing (1871) 44 Ga. 116. A motion by the bankrupt himself, without any application on the part of the trustee, is not sufficient. Oscar Bonner Oil Co. v. Pennsylvania Oil Co. (1907) 150 Cal. 658, 89 Pac. 613.

The trustee's petition should contain allegations showing the fact and date of the adjudication in bankruptcy. Jones v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. (1901) 25 Tex. Civ. App. 234, 61 S. W. 553; A. Lehmann & Co. v. Rivers (1903) 110 La. 1079, 35 South. 296. And his own appointment as trustee. Jones v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. (1901) 25 Tex. Civ. App. 234, 61 S. W. 553. And such facts as show that he has an interest in the litigation as the representative of the creditors at large. Hackett's Ex'rs v. Hackett's Trustee (Ky. 1909) 118 S. W. 377; Kohout v. Chaloupka (1903) 69 Neb. 677, 96 N. W.

173. But he need not prove his appointment and qualification unless his right to recover in the capacity of a trustee in bankruptcy is challenged in such form as the state law requires. Jones v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. (1901) 25 Tex. Civ. App. 234, 61 S. W. 553.

The bankruptcy act does not undertake to regulate the practice in the state courts, but places on the trustee the official duty of appearing according to the rules and practice of such courts, so as to protect the interests of the general creditors. Bacon v. George (1910) 206 Mass. 566, 92 N. E. 721. The trustee is not exempt from the necessity of proper pleadings and evidence. Wikle v. Jones (1909) 133 Ga. 266, 65 S. E. 577. But he cannot set up either the bankrupt's adjudication or his discharge as a ground for staying the proceedings or in bar of the action, as that is a right personal to the bankrupt. Serra é Hijo v. Hoffman (1877) 29 La. Ann. 17.

Where the trustee is brought in as a defendant, it is not necessary that the plaintiff's pleadings, alleging the trustee's representative capacity, and the transfer to him of the title to the defendant's property, should also state a cause of action against him. Latimer v. McKinnon (1903) 85 App. Div. 224, 83 N. Y. Supp. 315. If the defendant in an action in a state court wishes to object to the substitution of the plaintiff's trustee in bankruptcy in place of the plaintiff himself, he must do so by objection or exception taken at the time; if he goes to trial, it will then be too late to object to any irregularity. Chicago Legal News Co. v. Browne (1882) 103 Ill. 317; Brandon v. Cabiness (1846) 10 Ala. 155.

A bankrupt's trustee, substituted as complainant in a pending suit by the bankrupt to recover personal property, held to occupy the same position that the bankrupt would have occupied in the absence of adjudication. Earl v. Jacobs (Mich. 1913) 142 N. W. 1079.

22. Suits begun after adjudication.—As a general rule, no suit can lawfully be commenced against a bankrupt, in any court, after the adjudication of bankruptcy and until the question of his discharge is determined. Greenwald v. Appell (C. C. 1883) 17 Fed. 140; In re Williams (C. C. 1874) 11 N. B. R. 145, Fed. Cas. No. 17,700; In re Archenbrown (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 149, Fed. Cas. No. 504; Woolfolk v. Murray (1871) 44 Ga. 133, 10 N. B. R. 540; Wilson v. Capuro (1871) 41 Cal. 545, 4 N. B. R. 714; Rogers v. Wentworth (1878) 58 N. H. 318; Collins v. Scheeline (1877) 52 Cal. 450. Compare Hackett v. Supreme Council A. L. H. (1910) 206 Mass. 139, 92 N. E. 133; Davidson v. Fisher (1889) 41 Minn. 363, 43 N. W. 79; Thompson v. Massie (1884) 41 Ohio St. 307. The court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to stay the prosecution of an action against the bankrupt in a state court, on a de from which his discharge would be release, pending the determination the question of his discharge, althou the action was not begun until after t filing of the petition in bankruptcy. re Basch (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 761, Am. Bankr. Rep. 235; In re Cohen (C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 133, Fed. Cas. N 2,961. But on the application of creditor the court of bankruptcy m grant him leave to begin a suit again the bankrupt in a state court, whe there are special circumstances re dering such a proceeding necessar But when the creditor has brought b suit, pursuant to such leave, and sav his rights thereby, the court of ban ruptcy will then order a stay of furth proceedings to await the determinati of the question of discharge. In Ghirardelli (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. N 5,376; Brooks v. Bates (1884) 7 Col 576, 4 Pac. 1069; In re Whiting (C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 17,574; In Scott (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 12 520.

A creditor holding a promissory not valid and enforceable against the mak at the date of the latter's adjudicati in bankruptcy, but against which t statute of limitations has nearly ru may reduce the same to judgment b suit brought in a state court after su adjudication, and such judgment will e tablish the claim and stop the runni of the statute, though it will not gi the creditor any lien or priority nor e title him to levy on the bankrupt's pro erty. In re McBryde (D. C. 1899) Fed. 686, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 729. Th same principle applies where it is ne essary to begin a suit in order to pr serve a mechanic's lien. Clifton v. Fo ter (1869) 103 Mass. 233.

Creditors permitted to recover jud ments against the bankrupt after b adjudication can acquire no lien on a of the property in the custody or co trol of the trustee in bankruptcy b such judgments nor by executions ther on. In re Franklin Lumber Co. (D. 1906) 147 Fed. 852, 17 Am. Bank Rep. 443; McLean v. Rockey (C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 8,891; In re D (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 305, Fed. Ca No. 3,870; In re Tifft (D. C. 1879) N. B. R. 201, Fed. Cas. No. 14,03 Sicard v. Buffalo, N. Y. & P. R. C (C. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 12,831; St art v. Hines (1871) 33 Iowa, 61, 6 B. R. 416; Manwarring v. Kouns (187 35 Tex. 171; Clifton v. Foster (186 103 Mass. 233, 4 Am. Rep. 539; Wi liams v. Merritt (1869) 103 Mass. 18 4 Am. Rep. 521, 4 N. B. R. 706. N can they interfere with the possessi of the trustee in bankruptcy by attac ments. In re Renda (D. C. 1906) 14 Fed. 614, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 521; In John L. Nelson & Bro. Co. (D. C. 1907 149 Fed. 590, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 6 Williams v. Merritt (1869) 103 Mas 184, 4 Am. Rep. 521, 4 N. B. R. 70 arnishment. In re Cunning-

C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 276, Fed.
3,478; McAfee v. Arnold
55 Ala. 561, 46 South. 870. replevin. White v. Schloerb
8 U. S. 542, 20 Sup. Ct. 1007,
1183, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 178;
atteville Foundry & Machine
C. 1906) 147 Fed. 828, 17 Am.
ep. 291. But the proceedings uptcy do not bar an action he bankrupt by one who was editor at the time of the ad-
, though of course his judgment will not entitle him to levy execution upon any property except such as the bankrupt may have acquired since the adjudication. Miller v. Warden (1886) 111 Pa. 300, 2 Atl. 90.

Where a promissory note due to a bankrupt, or a judgment recovered thereon, is set apart to him by the trustee in bankruptcy as a part of his exemption, the bankrupt can sue thereon in a state court in his own name. Robinson v. Hall (1858) 11 Gray (Mass.) 483.

(Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 12, as amended, Act June 25, 0, c. 412, § 5.) Compositions, when confirmed.

ositions, when confirmed.—a A bankrupt may offer, either r after adjudication, terms of composition to his creditors ut not before, he has been examined in open court or at a of his creditors, and has filed in court the schedule of his and the list of his creditors required to be filed by bankrupts. ositions before adjudication the bankrupt shall file the re-chedules, and thereupon the court shall call a meeting of cred- the allowance of claims, examination of the bankrupt, and tion or conduct of estates, at which meeting the judge or shall preside; and action upon the petition for adjudication delayed until it shall be determined whether such composition confirmed.

application for the confirmation of a composition may be the court of bankruptcy after, but not before, it has been ac-in writing by a majority in number of all creditors whose ave been allowed, which number must represent a majority nt of such claims, and the consideration to be paid by the t to his creditors, and the money necessary to pay all debts ave priority and the cost of the proceedings, have been de-in such place as shall be designated by and subject to the order udge.

late and place, with reference to the convenience of the par-nterest, shall be fixed for the hearing upon each application confirmation of a composition, and such objections as may be its confirmation.

judge shall confirm a composition if satisfied that (1) it is best interests of the creditors; (2) the bankrupt has not been f any of the acts or failed to perform any of the duties which e a bar to his discharge; and (3) the offer and its acceptance good faith and have not been made or procured except as rovided, or by any means, promises, or acts herein forbidden. on the confirmation of a composition, the consideration shall ibuted as the judge shall direct, and the case dismissed. er a composition is not confirmed, the estate shall be admin-in bankruptcy as herein provided. (30 Stat. 549. 36 Stat.

this section, as originally enacted, subdivision a was as follows:
A bankrupt may offer terms of composition to his creditors after, but not e, he has been examined in open court or at a meeting of his creditors and n court the schedule of his property and list of his creditors, required to ed by bankrupts."
was amended by Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, § 5, cited above, to read as rth here.
tion 14 of said amendatory Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, 36 Stat. 842, provided that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending when it took effect, but that such cases should be adjudicated and disposed of conformably to the provisions of the original act as previously amended.

Notes of Decisions

1. Nature of composition in bankruptcy.
2. Right to offer composition.
3. Examination of bankrupt.
4. Offer of terms.
5. Acceptance by creditors.
6. —— Creditors entitled to vote.
7. —— Secured creditors.
8. —— Fraudulent inducement to consent.
9. Deposit for payment.
10. Application for confirmation.
11. Notice to creditors.
12. Objections and hearing thereon.
13. Confirmation and proceedings thereon.
14. —— Grounds for refusing confirmation.
15. Performance and distribution.
16. Effect of failure of performance.
17. Operation and effect of composition.
18. —— What debts released.
19. —— Effect on rights of secured creditors.
20. —— Joint liability of others with bankrupt.
21. New promise to pay debt.

1. Nature of composition in bankruptcy.—A composition of a bankrupt with his creditors is at once a settlement and a discharge. In re Ullman (D. C. 1910) 180 Fed. 944, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 755. It is in the nature of an accord and satisfaction. Harrison v. Gamble (1888) 69 Mich. 96, 36 N. W. 682. The theory of a composition is that the cash value of the bankrupt's estate is substantially divided among the creditors in proportion to their respective claims. In re Lissburger (D. C. 1880) 2 Fed. 153. In the absence of any expressed restrictions in the law, it should not be held that any act or omission of a bankrupt can operate to prejudice the creditors from entering into a composition whenever they deem it best to do so. In re Joseph (C. C. 1885) 24 Fed. 137. But see In re Rider (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 808, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 178, where it is said that the provisions of the bankruptcy act prescribing the requisites of a composition are to be strictly construed as against those who seek by this means to deprive non-assenting creditors of their right to have the debtor's property administered upon and distributed in the ordinary course of bankruptcy proceedings.

The court of bankruptcy may enjoin creditors from harassing the debtor by proceedings at law, while his composition proceeding is pending, except as to proceedings to enforce a valid security. In re Hinsdale (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 6,526.

2. Right to offer composition.—A corporation, as well as a natural person, may avail itself of the right to offer a composition to creditors. In re Weber Furniture Co. (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 529, Fed. Cas. No. 17,330. One member of a firm which has been adjudged bankrupt may submit an offer of composition to the firm creditors and his individual creditors. Pool v. McDonald (C. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 560, Fed. Cas. No. 11,268. The refusal or neglect of one of the partners in a bankrupt firm to sign a proposition for composition, unless fraudulent, will not render the proceedings invalid as against the other partners, though he will be deprived of all benefit of it. In re Henry (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 6,370.

To authorize any step to be taken for the offer and acceptance of a composition, there must first be a pending case in bankruptcy. In re Reiman (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 11,673. Until the amendment of the bankruptcy act in 1910, a debtor was not entitled to offer a composition to his creditors until after there had been an adjudication of bankruptcy entered in his case. In re Back Bay Automobile Co. (D. C. 1907) 158 Fed. 679, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 835.

The proceeding for a composition will not be vitiated by a statement in the bankrupt's schedule that the value of his real estate is unknown. In re Welles, 18 N. B. R. 525, Fed. Cas. No. 17,377. Nor by an innocent mistake in stating the amount due to a particular creditor. Ex parte Trafton (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 14,133.

A bankrupt will not be permitted to trade with his creditors by increasing an offer of composition after he finds his first offer was rejected as insufficient. But a bankrupt who in good faith made an insufficient offer of composition, because of lack of opportunity to examine the property, may be permitted to amend his offer. In re Cockshaw (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 239.

Where there is a fatal defect in the proceedings relating to an offer of composition, and a majority of the creditors are apparently willing to accept the offer made, the court will reject such offer, but may permit the bankrupt to make a new offer, if he desires so to do. In re Kinnane Co. (D. C. 1914) 217 Fed. 488, confirmation denied (D. C. 1915) 221 Fed. 762.

If a trustee in bankruptcy has not been appointed before the offer of a composition, none will be appointed after its acceptance by the creditors since his services are not needed. But in that case, the bankrupt himself stands in the place of a trustee, so far as regards such matters as the set-off of mutual debts. Ex parte Howard Nat. Bank (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 6,764.

3. Examination of bankrupt.—In the provision of this section that the bankrupt cannot offer terms of composition until after "he has been examined in nination here contemplated is amination of the bankrupt as on the issues of insolvency ommission of acts of bank- rged, but the examination to bankrupt is required to sub- present at the first meeting editors, and hence should be an examination into his re- d liabilities. In re Back Bay e Co. (D. C. 1907) 158 Fed. m. Bankr. Rep. 835; In re C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 175, No. 11,439. And the referee thority to require any other an the bankrupt to testify. oins (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. Cas. No. 3,943.

: or at a meeting of his cred- phrase "in open court" re- oceedings before the referee. odworth-Stembridge Co. (D. .78 Fed. 372, 24 Am. Bankr.

tor may be required to attend at an adjourned meeting of ors, but he may be excused oing if he presents a satis- ason therefor, and it is ac- a sufficient vote of the cred- re Tifft (D. C. 1878) 17 N. Fed. Cas. No. 14,029.

ority creditors may insist up- amination of the bankrupt, al- e majority are willing to take the proposition offered with- xamination. In re Little (D. .9 N. B. R. 234, Fed. Cas. No. here creditors conducting the on of the bankrupt in an ap- arnest opposition to the com- uddenly cease, without dis- ause, it is proper for the ref- low another creditor to take ontinue the examination. In hoef (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas.).

isal of the referee to proceed examination until his fees are ecured is not ground of op- the recording of a resolution the composition. In re Tifft 878) 18 N. B. R. 227, Fed. 14,033.

of terms.—The consideration l to creditors on a composi- ankruptcy is not necessarily may be something equivalent or convertible into money easonable time, including any safe securities or indorsed re Hurst (C. C. 1876) Fed. 6,925; In re Reiman (D. C. d. Cas. No. 11,673. But the notes of the bankrupt, not in- secured in any way, will not a consideration which the feel bound to approve. In re (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. re Langdon (D. C. 1875) No. 8,058. And if a creditor nd objects, the court will not composition where the alleg- ration is preferred stock in a corporation which the bankrupt has organized for the purpose of continuing his business, and it does not appear that the stock represents any value except the supposed good will of the business, and the effect would be to leave the bankrupt in control of the business and the creditors, in the capacity of stockholders, liable for the corporate debts. In re Woodend (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 593, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 768.

It is not necessary that the consideration of the composition should be immediately payable; the question as to the time for its payment is one for the creditors to settle, and their judgment will not be reversed except for valid reasons. In re Wilson (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 300, Fed. Cas. No. 17,785. Ordinarily it is not a sufficient objection to the confirmation of a composition that it is payable in instalments secured by notes. In re Wilson (C. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 17,781; In re McNab & H. Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 388, Fed. Cas No. 8,906; In re Wronkow (C. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 81, Fed. Cas. No. 18,105.

A composition agreement to pay more than the estate is able to pay, where the balance is made up by the relatives or friends of the bankrupt, is not evidence of fraud. In re Snelling (D. C. 1878) 19 N. B. R. 120, Fed. Cas. No. 13,140. But a contract by a bank to advance the money to pay a composition made by a bankrupt, in part consideration for which it was to receive payment of its own debt in full, is illegal. McCormick v. Solinsky (1907) 152 Fed. 984, 82 C. C. A. 134, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 540.

A composition may take the form of ratifying an assignment for the benefit of creditors made by the bankrupt under the state statute. In re Dumahaut (C. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 4,124. Or it may include the adjustment of controversies which a trustee in bankruptcy would have been authorized to compromise. In re Doyle (C. C. A. 1915) 220 Fed. 434; In re Linderman (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 593, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 131. Or it may be conditioned upon the surrender of all the bankrupt's property to him and the discontinuance of all pending suits. In re Cavan (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 303, Fed. Cas. No. 2,528.

The bankruptcy law does not provide or imply that compositions, though informal or even preferential, shall be void as between the parties. In re Black Diamond Copper Min. Co. (1908) 11 Ariz. 415, 95 Pac. 117.

Since the aim of the bankrupt law is equality between creditors, a composition must be for the best interest of all of the creditors, and not of certain ones of a certain class. An offer of composition by a bankrupt corporation held not entitled to confirmation because it gave an unfair preference to certain creditors, gave the individual creditors no evidence of the deferred payments, and required them to be governed by the vote of the majority of the creditors in enforcing their security. In re Kinnane Co. (D. C. 1915) 221 Fed. 762.

5. Acceptance by creditors.—All of the creditors must have notice of the proposed composition, whether or not they have proved their claims at the time of the offer, and the proposition must be offered and explained to all, and they must have a reasonable opportunity to consider it. In re Rider (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 808, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 178. These conditions being fulfilled, the decision of the majority will be binding upon all, where their judgment is exercised in good faith, and there is no evidence of fraud, accident or mistake. In re Weber Furniture Co. (C. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 559, Fed. Cas. No. 17,331.

Creditors who have signed an acceptance of the composition will not be permitted afterwards to defeat it by withdrawing their signatures, where it is not alleged that they were procured by fraud or misrepresentations. In re Levy (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 744, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 299. But the fact that a former offer of composition, confirmation of which was refused because of irregularity in proceedings, was accepted by a creditor, does not preclude him from objecting to a subsequent offer in substantially the same terms. In re Kinnane Co. (D. C. 1915) 221 Fed. 762.

Mere delay, without laches, in obtaining the requisite number of signatures, will not be sufficient ground for refusing to confirm the composition. In re Cavan (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 303, Fed. Cas. No. 2,528.

Under this section, a proposed composition between a bankrupt and his creditors must be accepted in writing by a majority of the creditors, both in number and amount, before the court can order confirmation. And where a proposed composition between a bankrupt and his creditors has not been assented to by a majority, both in number and amount, of the bankrupt's creditors, the court cannot compel those who have not consented to accept the proposition. In re Goldstein (D. C. 1914) 213 Fed. 115.

Those creditors signing the acceptance must constitute a majority in number and amount of the claims at the time of the hearing on the application to confirm the composition; it is not enough that they constituted a majority at the time the composition was offered or accepted. In re Rider (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 808, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 178.

An assignee holding a large number of claims should be counted as only one creditor in making up this majority, and he is not entitled to as many votes as the creditors whom he represents, nor are his assignors to be counted in d termining the number necessary make a majority. In re Messengill (1 C. 1902) 113 Fed. 366, 7 Am. Bank Rep. 669.

A partnership being a creditor, ar one of the partners may bind the fir by accepting the terms of compositio Bruen v. Marquand (1819) 17 John (N. Y.) 58. But in the case of th bankruptcy of a firm and its member a partner who desires to make a con position with his individual creditor must obtain the acceptance of a ma jority of those creditors; it is no enough that he obtains the acceptanc of a majority of the firm creditor even though the consenting creditor may be more than a majority of a the creditors, both firm and individua In re Ullman (D. C. 1910) 180 Fe 944, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 755; In r Spades (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 13, 196.

6. —— Creditors entitled to vote.—Only those creditors are entitled t vote on a composition agreement, o be counted in ascertaining the neces sary majority, who have claims tech nically provable in bankruptcy. E parte Trafton (D. C. 1876) Fed. Ca No. 14,133. This does not include th holder of a merely uncertain or con tingent claim. In re Kahn (D. C. 1902 121 Fed. 412, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 107 Nor the accommodation maker of note for the bankrupt's benefit. Liebk v. Thomas (1886) 116 U. S. 605, Sup. Ct. 496, 29 L. Ed. 744. Nor on whose claim is for damages for a tort not assessed or liquidated in any way In re Bailey (C. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No 729. But for this purpose the cour may allow the ascertainment of a unliquidated claim by permitting th prosecution of a pending suit in a stat court, or by ordering an inquiry befor itself. Ex parte Trafton (D. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 507, Fed. Cas. No. 14.133 But where, in composition proceedings the amount of the claim of one of the creditors is disputed by the debtor, and an estimate is made to be used merely as showing on what sum the creditor is entitled to vote, such estimate does not estop the debtor from questioning the amount of the claim on which the percentage of the composition shall be calculated in paying the composition. In re Holmes (C. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 230, Fed. Cas. No. 6,632a.

To give a valid consent to the acceptance of a composition, it is necessary that the creditor should have proved his claim and secured its allowance. In re Ennis (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 859, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 383; American Woolen Co. v. Cohen (1911) 142 App. Div. 880, 127 N. Y. Supp. 787; In re Keller (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 331, Fed. Cas. No. 7,654; In re Bryce (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 287, Fed. Cas. No. 2,069.

tor whose claims are more t by the claims of the bank- ıst him cannot be counted in urpose of a composition. In l (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. Cas. No. 11,470.

ction to a creditor's vote on f composition, on the ground claim is invalid, cannot be the first time on an appli- confirm the composition. In (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 328, No. 1,551. The vote or con- person who is not lawfully to ted a creditor will not nulli- ceedings, if the elimination of would not change the result. lshe (C. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. 3.

tor who has bought a claim, intention of preventing the of a pending offer of com- may refuse his acceptance unted in determining the nec- ajority, if he had no fraudu- erely oppressive motive in the n. Ex parte Jewett (D. C. d. Cas. No. 7,303.

n acting under a power of at- voting on a proposed com- must keep strictly within its cannot vary his instructions. xander (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas.

a married woman votes her against the bankrupt's estate nposition proceedings, an af- her husband that he has giv- uthority to vote in favor of osition validates the wife's e principle of ratification and In re Bailey (C. C. 1876) No. 729.

Secured creditors.—A secur- r, who is fully protected by ty and willing to rest upon to be counted in. In re Van . C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 425, No. 16.828; In re Snelling 78) 19 N. B. R. 120, Fed. Cas. 0.

tor whose lien or other secu- not fully cover his claim may security valued or foreclosed, e allowed to prove a claim for ce or deficiency, and to this may participate in the com- roceedings. Flower v. Greene- C. 1880) 50 Fed. 190; In re D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 12,- et v. Ticknor (C. C. 1877) 16 315, Fed. Cas. No. 10,711.

f a bankrupt which are se- by the personal indorsement r may be included as unse- ts in a composition with cred- d the confirmation of such on will discharge the bankrupt of the notes without affecting ty of the indorser. Stauffer- Co. v. Abington Hardware & Co. (1912) 131 La. 715, 60 2.

8. —— Fraudulent inducement to consent.—A payment of money to a creditor of a bankrupt, to induce him to consent to a pending offer of composition, or to induce him to forbear an active or threatened opposition, will invalidate the entire composition arrangement; and this rule applies although the required number of creditors accepted the offer of composition, without counting the one to whom payment was made, and even though it does not appear that their action was in any way influenced by the transaction. In re Bennett (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 1,312; Fairbanks v. Amoskeag Nat. Bank (C. C. 1889) 38 Fed. 630; In re Sawyer (D. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 241, Fed. Cas. No. 12,395; Bullene v. Blain (C. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 2,124; Brownsville Mfg. Co. v. Lockwood (C. C. 1882) 11 Fed. 705. And money so paid may be recovered back by the trustee in bankruptcy, or by the bankrupt himself or by injured creditors. Fairbanks v. Amoskeag Nat. Bank (C. C. 1889) 38 Fed. 630; Bean v. Brookmire (C. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 1,169. Except in cases where the payment was made out of property which was not included in the bankrupt's schedule and was not available as assets in the bankruptcy. National Park Bank v. People's Bank (C. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 10,049.

A composition is vitiated where the consent of a creditor is obtained by the bankrupt's secret promise to pay him a larger share of his debt than the other creditors will receive under the composition. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Kerney (Ind. App. 1915) 108 N. E. 139; Carey v. Hess (1887) 112 Ind. 398, 14 N. E. 235. And see Claflin v. Torlina (1874) 11 N. B. R. 521, 56 Mo. 369; Bean v. Amsinck (C. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 228, Fed. Cas. No. 1,167; In re Keller (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 331, Fed. Cas. No. 7,654; Woodman v. Stow (1882) 11 Ill. App. 613; Russell v. Rogers (1833) 10 Wend. (N. Y.) 473, 25 Am. Dec. 574; Bullene v. Blain (C. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 2,124; Cullingworth v. Loyd (1840) 2 Beav. 385. See Jacobs v. Siff (1911) 74 Misc. Rep. 58, 131 N. Y. Supp. 656.

A composition will be vitiated where the inducement offered to a creditor to procure his consent is that the bankrupt will give him security for the remainder of his debt, or additional security or better security than he now holds. Chuck v. Mesritz (C. C. 1817) Fed. Cas. No. 2,710; Bean v. Brookmire (C. C. 1873) 7 N. B. R. 568, Fed. Cas. No. 1,170; Howell v. Todd (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 6,783; Way v. Langley (1864) 15 Ohio St. 392; Mallouck v. American Exchange Nat. Bank (1912) 75 Misc. Rep. 285, 135 N. Y. Supp. 78. Where an insolvent debtor, desiring to obtain his release in bankruptcy by a composition with his creditors, agrees to execute his notes to one of the creditors for the balance of his debt, the notes so given are void. Tinker v. Hurst (1888) 70 Mich. 159, 38 N. W. 16, 14 Am. St. Rep. 482.

A composition may be set aside on account of a fraudulent or secret advantage given to one creditor, though it does not appear that the bankrupt himself procured it or was a party to it. In re Sawyer (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 12,395. Where an offer of money was made to two creditors, by the bankrupt's bookkeeper, to induce them to consent to a composition, and the bankrupt had no actual knowledge of the offer, but the bookkeeper was employed generally to see the creditors and procure their consent, held, that the bankrupt was chargeable with what his representative did in the matter, and the proceeding was vitiated and the composition must fail. In re Bennett (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 1,312. Where a creditor was induced to consent to the composition by an undefined expectation of advantage held out to him by the indorser of the note which the creditor held, the composition was properly set aside, though it did not appear that the bankrupt had anything to do with it. In re Sawyer (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 12,395. The signature of a creditor to the composition agreement, obtained upon the promise of another creditor to give him the promisor's trade in the future will invalidate the composition. In re Shine (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 12,788.

That creditors holding notes of a bankrupt corporation, indorsed by individuals connected with the bankrupt, before accepting a composition, obtained an agreement by such indorsers that they should not thereby be discharged, does not invalidate the composition, since that would be the legal result of it without any promise. In re B. Jacobson & Son Co. (C. C. A. 1912) 196 Fed. 949, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 492.

A bankrupt may use his credit to acquire the money required for the purposes of a composition offered conformably to the bankruptcy act to his creditors, and what inducement he gives to the person loaning him the money is a matter which does not concern the existing creditors, and hence does not affect the validity of the composition. And extortion or attempted extortion as a consideration for acting or forbearing to act in bankruptcy proceedings (which is expressly forbidden by the statute) cannot be inferred from a promise by the bankrupt, after adjudication, that if certain creditors would loan him a specified sum to be used in paying the consideration of an offered composition, he would pay them the balance of their claim when such composition was confirmed, after deducting their share of the consideration of the composition, which promise they accepted, making the loan for the said purpose. Zavelo v. Reeves (1913) 227 U. S. 625, 33 Sup. Ct. 365, L. Ed. 676, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 49 And see Hickman v. Galveston D Goods Co. (1906) 42 Tex. Civ. Ap 582, 94 S. W. 157.

When a bankrupt has proposed ter of composition and the same have be approved by a majority of the creditor such creditors and their attorneys ha an interest in common in securing acceptance of the composition offere and thereafter may properly participa in securing the necessary consent And it is not improper for the attorn for the receiver, having secured po ers of attorney to that end, to repr sent and vote for creditors in favor the composition, so long as no fal statements are made, and there is trickery or collusion between creditor and the bankrupt, and no fraud pra ticed. In re McLellan (D. C. 191 204 Fed. 482, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 32

9. Deposit for payment.—The r quirement of this section as to the d posit of money on a composition agre ment is imperative, and if it is n complied with, the composition wi not be confirmed, although the applic tion is not opposed by any creditor. I re Frear (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 97 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 199. Confirmatio of the composition will be withhe where the money deposited to cov the cost of the proceedings is not su ficient in amount. In re Rider (D. 1899) 96 Fed. 808, 3 Am. Bankr. Re 178. The "cost of the proceedings" i cludes any fees which may be payab under the statute in disbursing t money. In re Mayer (D. C. 1900) Nat. Bankr. News, 527.

Where a bankrupt obtained from third person and deposited funds carry out a composition which was su sequently withdrawn, expenses incu red pending the composition, whic would not have been incurred if t proceedings had gone forward as ori inally contemplated, were payable o of the deposit. In re Wiener (D. 1914) 215 Fed. 278. Where a thi person advances money to a bankrup to be deposited to perform an offer composition, such deposit is liable f expenses incurred by reason of the st secured by the bankrupt by the comp sition proceedings, if they fail, thoug not for delay occasioned by the opp sition of a creditor to the offer of co position. In re Wiener (D. C. 191 217 Fed. 173.

On petition to the court of bankrup cy, the bankrupt may be relieved fro the necessity of depositing the sum ne essary to pay the costs and fees of t proceedings, on filing a stipulation, a ceptable to the court, that it will p all such costs and fees as if the mon were actually in court. In re J. White & Co. (D. C. 1915) 225 Fe 796.

The "debts which have priority," f the purposes of this section, include a from the bankrupt or on his In re Flynn (D. C. 1905) 145, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 720. he consideration to be paid to tors, it is held that the bank- required to deposit the per- offered, not only on all claims re confirmation, but also on claims listed by him in his but he is not required to ufficient to cover such per- n secured claims, nor for any deficiency thereon, if it has een ascertained and filed. In y (D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 901, Bankr. Rep. 345; In re Atlan- . Co. (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed.

lication for confirmation.—An composition may be presented eeting of creditors and exam- f bankrupt provided that no- the offer will be made is given rs. In re Fox (D. C. 1915) 135, petition to revise denied 23 Fed. 1022, 138 C. C. A.

after a composition has been creditors, a new or amend- is made, the court is without to confirm it until it has been omitted in the same manner iginal offer and all creditors an opportunity to accept or In re Kinnane Co. (D. C. 7 Fed. 488, confirmation de- C. 1915) 221 Fed. 762.

nfirmation or rejection of a on must be passed upon and y the judge of the court of cy; it is not within the ju- of the referee. In re Blood- embridge Co. (D. C. 1910) 178 , 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 156. referee may appoint a day for the composition before the hearing, and may issue the notices to creditors. In re (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 866, 4 kr. Rep. 741. And it is proper issible for the judge to send to the referee to ascertain and e facts, when objections are the approval of the composi- h depend on disputed matters r even in an unopposed case, judge has not sufficient facts m to form a clear judgment as opriety of confirming the com- Adler v. Jones (1901) 109 48 C. C. A. 761, 6 Am. Bankr. ; In re Levy (D. C. 1908) 780, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 769; alshe (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. 8; In re Scott (D. C. 1876) R. 73, Fed. Cas. No. 12,519.

ice to creditors.—All creditors notified of a proposed compo- ether or not they have proved ims and honestly advised of condition of the debtor's af- re Kinnane Co. (D. C. 1914) 488, confirmation denied (D. 221 Fed. 762; In re Cadenas & Coe (D. C. 1910) 178 Fed. 158, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 135; In re Hilborn (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 866, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 741.

12. Objections and hearing thereon.—Objecting creditors, irrespective of number or amount, may successfully oppose confirmation of a composition, by alleging and proving one or more of the provisions of the bankruptcy act made a sufficient ground for denial of confirmation. In re Rivkin (D. C. 1914) 216 Fed. 218.

Only those creditors who have proved their claims are entitled to object to the confirmation of a composition. In re Scott (D. C. 1876) 15 N. B. R. 73, Fed. Cas. No. 12,519; In re Keller (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 331, Fed. Cas. No. 7,654; In re Mathers (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 225, Fed. Cas. No. 9,274; In re Bryce (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 287, Fed. Cas. No. 2,069.

It is immaterial that the opposing creditor bought up a claim against the bankrupt for the very purpose of using it in opposition to the proposed composition, if he had no motive in so doing that was fraudulent or oppressive, but only a desire to realize as much as possible from the estate. Ex parte Morris (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 170, Fed. Cas. No. 7,303; In re Comstock (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 747, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 65.

Objections may be based on the commission of acts by the bankrupt which would bar his application for a discharge. In re Cohen (D. C. 1907) 149 Fed. 908, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 84. And on matters peculiar to the composition, such as irregularities in the offer or its acceptance, the genuineness of signatures purporting to accept, fraudulent practices in inducing creditors to accept, or the acceptance by a sufficient proportion of the creditors. In re Rivkin (D. C. 1914) 216 Fed. 218; In re Scott (D. C. 1876) 15 N. B. R. 73, Fed. Cas. No. 12,519; In re Asten (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 594. But a general objection, to the effect that the estate could pay more than the percentage offered by the bankrupt, will not avail unless the disparity is great and evident. In re Welles (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 525, Fed. Cas. No. 17,377.

Facts known to creditors when they accepted the offer of composition, or when the composition was confirmed, cannot afterwards be used to vitiate or destroy it. In re South Boston Iron Co. (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 13,183.

Creditors desiring to oppose the application for confirmation should be required to enter their appearance and to file written specifications of the grounds of their opposition. Adler v. Jones (1901) 109 Fed. 967, 48 C. C. A. 761, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 245; City Nat. Bank v. Doolittle (1901) 107 Fed. 236, 46 C. C. A. 258, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 736.

The burden of sustaining specifications of objection to the confirmation of an offer of composition rests on the objecting creditors. Bolles v. Kelley (1915) 222 Fed. 63, 137 C. C. A. 601; In re Rivkin (D. C. 1914) 216 Fed. 218; In re H. J. Arrington Co. (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 498, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 64; City Nat. Bank v. Doolittle (1901) 107 Fed. 236, 46 C. C. A. 258, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 735.

The court will not permit objections to an offer in composition which had been heard and sustained to be withdrawn. In re Levenson (D. C. 1914) 223 Fed. 874.

The bankrupt has the right and capacity to appear and controvert the objections offered by creditors. In re French (D. C. 1909) 181 Fed. 583, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 77.

13. Confirmation and proceedings thereon.—It is the duty of the court to confirm a composition if it is for the interest of creditors, and the bankrupt has not done or omitted to do anything to prevent a discharge, and the offer and acceptance are in good faith, and have not been procured by improper means. In re McLellan (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 482, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 325; In re Silberstein (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 665.

As this section contemplates that dissenting creditors may be compelled to accept the percentage which is satisfactory to the majority, and may be deprived of their remedies on the balance of their claims, it should be strictly construed. Broadway Trust Co. v. Manheim (1905) 47 Misc. Rep. 415, 95 N. Y. Supp. 93.

The court can inquire whether a composition offered by a bankrupt conforms to the requirements of subdivision "d" of this section though it has been approved by a majority of the creditors and there is no objection made thereto. In re Kinnane Co. (D. C. 1915) 221 Fed. 762. Denying confirmation (D. C. 1914) 217 Fed. 488.

Refusal to confirm composition offered by bankrupt and recommended by referee, and remand of matter to referee, in order that claimant, denied a hearing because of delay in filing and serving specifications, might have its day in court, held within the discretion of the trial judge. In re Soloway & Katz (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 333.

To justify the confirmation of a composition, it must appear to the court to be for the best interest of all the creditors, not merely for the advantage of certain creditors or of a certain class. In re Hannahs (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 6,033; In re Purcell (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 447, Fed. Cas. No. 11,470. Though it is opposed by only a small minority of the creditors, yet the court has power to reject it if satisfied that a settlement of the estate through the agency of a trustee in bankruptcy would be more for their interest. In re Whipple (C. C. 1858) Fed. Cas. No. 17,513.

The approval of a majority of th creditors is prima facie evidence th the acceptance of the offer will be fo the best interest of all concerned, an the burden of proof will rest upo those who oppose the confirmation o this ground. In re Goldstein (D. C 1914) 213 Fed. 115; In re Barde (D C. 1913) 207 Fed. 654; In re Hoxi (D. C. 1910) 180 Fed. 508, 25 An Bankr. Rep. 32; In re Waynesbor Drug Co. (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 10 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 487; In re Josep (C. C. 1885) 24 Fed. 137.

If objection is interposed by a minor ity, it becomes the duty of the court t make an independent investigation an determination. In re Waynesboro Dru Co. (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 101, 19 An Bankr. Rep. 487; In re Keiler (D. C 1878) 18 N. B. R. 36, Fed. Cas. No 7,648.

In determining this question, the of fer of composition should be compare with what the creditors would probabl receive upon a settlement of the estat by a trustee in bankruptcy, and no with what the debtor might possibly b able to pay them. In re Whipple (D C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 17,513. Onl those assets should be considere which have been surrendered or can b recovered and made available for dis tribution. In re Linderman (D. C 1909) 166 Fed. 593, 22 Am. Bankr Rep. 131.

14. —— Grounds for refusing confir mation.—As to the objection that th bankrupt has been guilty of acts o omissions which would bar his dis charge, if it is clearly made out thi objection must prevail, and the com position must be rejected, however ad vantageous to creditors it might hav been, and though it will result in thei securing a smaller percentage of thei debts than they would have receive under the composition. In re Griffi (D. C. 1910) 180 Fed. 792, 25 Am Bankr. Rep. 206; In re Comstock (D C. 1907) 154 Fed. 747, 19 Am. Bankr Rep. 65; In re Godwin (D. C. 1903) 122 Fed. 111, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 252

An objection of this kind will not b sustained unless it appears that th conduct of the bankrupt to which ex ception is taken was willfully and inten tionally false, fraudulent, or deceitful This applies to the objection that h failed to keep proper books of accoun or concealed or destroyed his books o accounts. In re Barde (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 654; In re Silberstein (D. C 1915) 225 Fed. 665; In re Rivkin (D C. 1914) 216 Fed. 218; In re Sabse vitz (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 109, 28 Am Bankr. Rep. 623; In re Olman (D. C 1902) 134 Fed. 681, 13 Am. Bankr Rep. 395; In re Wilson (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 83, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 849; In re Barde (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 654 Or that he omitted to include in his schedule property which belonged to his estate. In re B. Jacobson & Son 12) 196 Fed. 949, 116 C. C. A. Am. Bankr. Rep. 492; In re (C. C. 1875) 13 N. B. R. 128, s. No. 11,675. Or that he obnoney or property on credit s of a materially false financial nt. In re Witman (D. C. 1914) . 286; In re Levenson (D. C. 23 Fed. 874; In re Sabsevitz 1912) 197 Fed. 109, 28 Am. Rep. 623; In re O'Callaghan 1912) 199 Fed. 662, 29 Am. Rep. 304; In re Seligman (D.) 163 Fed. 549, 20 Am. Bankr. 4. Or that he concealed, reor misappropriated property or d it in fraud of creditors. In rstein (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. re Burman (D. C. 1913) 210 2; In re Bloch (D. C. 1878) . R. 328, Fed. Cas. No. 1,551. he gave fraudulent preferences. Rivkin (D. C. 1914) 216 Fed. re McLellan (D. C. 1913) 204 2; In re Jacobs (D. C. 1879) . R. 48, Fed. Cas. No. 7,159. ing by a master that he was not that the bankrupt had not ilty of knowingly and fraduaking a false oath in proceed- the bankruptcy court held int to sustain objections to con-, on the ground that the bankad committed perjury in the ings. In re Rivkin (D. C. 1914) . 218.

lso proper for the court to con- y irregularities in the previous ings, and to refuse to confirm ular composition. In re Frear 1903) 120 Fed. 978, 10 Am. Rep. 199. But irregularities re the effect of mere mistake, of fraud, are not necessarily n re Henry (D. C. 1878) Fed. . 6,370.

proper to refuse to confirm a tion when there is evidence proceedings are collusive. In r (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 36, s. No. 7,658; In re Allen (D. 17 N. B. R. 157, Fed. Cas. No. ut though there are indicia of he court should not refuse to the composition without giving rupt and the majority creditors ortunity to be heard. In re Furniture Co. (C. C. 1876) 13 559, Fed. Cas. No. 17,331.

mation should be refused when rs that the creditors have not nestly and fully advised of the ndition of the debtor's affairs. eiler (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. Cas. No. 7,648; In re Greene-D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 5,- questions of policy and expedi- ve been fairly before the cred- nd disposed of by them, and tion has been approved by the court, it will not be interfered appeal. In re Wilson (C. C. Fed. Cas. No. 17,781.

appears that the creditors will receive under the composition less than may reasonably be expected by an administration of the assets of the bankrupt in due course, the composition should be denied, as not being for their best interest; otherwise it should be confirmed. Adler v. Jones (1901) 109 Fed. 967, 48 C. C. A. 761, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 245; In re Rider, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 483; In re Keiler (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 36, Fed. Cas. No. 7,648; In re H. J. Arrington Co. (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 498, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 64. And see In re Waynesboro Drug Co. (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 101, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 487; Riley v. Pope (D. C. 1911) 186 Fed. 857, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 618.

The court should refuse to confirm a composition when it clearly appears that there have been preferential payments, and there is reasonable cause to believe that they, or any substantial part of the same, may be recovered by the trustee, and it also appears that the estate in hand, with such preferences recovered and added, will net the creditors a greater percentage than is offered in the proposed composition. In re McLellan (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 482, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 325. And the court may also consider the relations of the creditors favoring the composition to the debtor, and the relative number of creditors whose individual opinions are expressed in person in the acceptance of the offer as compared with those who dissent. In re Weber Furniture Co. (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 529, Fed. Cas. No. 17,330.

15. Performance and distribution.—A summary order for the enforcement of a composition agreement will not be made where it does not appear that the creditors are willing and desirous to proceed with it. In re Remsen (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 11,698.

Money payable to a creditor on a composition cannot be attached or its payment obstructed by proceedings in another court, and the court of bankruptcy will not suspend or deny the creditor's right to receive it, except in favor of one who claims a specific lien thereon, or who has procured the appointment of a receiver to take the creditor's title. In re Kohlsaat (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 570, Fed. Cas. No. 7,918.

The court has no power to require the bankrupt to pay the composition percentage to a creditor whose claim was not scheduled or filed, or proved within a year after the adjudication. In re Abrams & Rubins (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 430, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 25; In re Lane (D. C. 1902) 125 Fed. 772, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 136.

Creditors receiving their respective shares of a composition are not bound to see that other creditors receive their shares. Ex parte Hamlin (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 5,993.

A fee cannot be allowed to the bank-rupt's attorney for his services in securing the confirmation of the composition, when it was opposed by creditors in good faith and on reasonable grounds. In re Martin (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 582.

A composition proceeding will be regarded as pending until all notes become due which were given by the debtor to effect the same. In re Hinsdale (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 6,526.

Even after the confirmation of a composition, the estate may be reopened for the purpose of recovering or receiving the surrender of a preference, though it will enure to the benefit of the bankrupt himself by reason of the composition. In re B. Feinberg & Sons (D. C. 1910) 187 Fed. 283, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 587.

Where money deposited by the bankrupt with the clerk pursuant to an offer in composition, during litigation by minority creditors, earned interest, on final confirmation of the composition the bankrupt is entitled to the return of such interest. In re Kelley (D. C. 1915) 223 Fed. 383.

16. Effect of failure of performance.—The acceptance of a composition and its confirmation by the court will not operate as a discharge or release of the debtor from any given debt, unless the distributive share of that creditor under the composition agreement is actually paid or unconditionally tendered to him. In re Hurst (C. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 455, Fed. Cas. No. 6,925; Harrison v. Gamble (1888) 69 Mich. 96, 36 N. W. 682; Whittemore v. Stephens (1882) 48 Mich. 573, 12 N. W. 858. And the question whether such payment or tender has been made is open to trial in any court in which the debt may be sued for. Whittemore v. Stephens (1882) 48 Mich. 573, 12 N. W. 858. Upon failure of performance of the condition of a composition, the creditor may pursue his appropriate remedies for the recovery of his original debt (not merely for the percentage offered under the composition) in any proper court. In re Maytag-Mason Motor Co. (D. C. 1915) 223 Fed. 684; Ransom v. Geer (C. C. 1882) 12 Fed. 607; Harrison v. Gamble (1888) 69 Mich. 96, 36 N. W. 682; Page v. Carton (1909) 64 Misc. Rep. 645, 120 N. Y. Supp. 277. Compare In re Bayly (C. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 73, Fed. Cas. No. 1,144.

If the debtor is subsequently adjudged bankrupt in a fresh proceeding on his own petition, having paid the cash part of a composition previously effected, but not the notes which were given for the remainder of the percentage offered, the creditors may prove their original claims, giving credit for the cash received. In re A. B. Carton & Co. (D. C. 1906) 148 Fed. 63, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 343; Brookmire v. Bean (C. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 217, Fed. Cas. No. 1,942.

Mere delay in paying composition notes, occasioned by legal or other difficulties, does not ipso facto avoid the composition, nor does failure to pay one creditor according to the composition forfeit the bankrupt's rights as to creditors punctually paid. In re Kohlsaat (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 570, Fed. Cas. No. 7,918.

Where a bankrupt executes composition notes with an agreement that if any note shall be in default all shall become due, and a creditor taking the notes assigns his claim to a third person, and takes the latter's notes in payment and retains the composition notes as security, he cannot proceed on the composition notes until after default on the other notes. Willey v. Browne (1903) 206 Pa. 322, 55 Atl. 1029.

One who has agreed to become a surety on a composition will not be summarily compelled to give security, where it appears that the bankrupt has abandoned the composition, and has not given the notes agreed upon as a part of it. In re Remsen (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 11,698.

17. Operation and effect of composition.—The confirmation and performance of a composition operate as a discharge by operation of law, and release the bankrupt from all of his debts which would be barred by a discharge and in like manner terminate all remedies of creditors for the enforcement of their claims against either the bankrupt or his property. Herrington v. Davitt (Sup. 1914) 145 N. Y. Supp 452; In re Bjornstad (D. C. 1881) 5 Fed. 791; In re Becket (C. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 201, Fed. Cas. No. 1,210; Taylor v. Skiles (1904) 113 Tenn 288, 81 S. W. 1258; Broadway Trust Co. v. Manheim (1905) 47 Misc. Rep 415, 95 N. Y. Supp. 93; Mandell v Levy (1905) 47 Misc. Rep. 147, 93 N Y. Supp. 545; Harrison v. Gamble (1888) 69 Mich. 96, 36 N. W. 682 Denny v. Merrifield (1880) 128 Mass 228; Turner v. Hudson (1909) 105 Me 476, 75 Atl. 45, 18 Ann. Cas. 600 Where an offer of composition was accepted by creditors of a firm adjudged a bankrupt without a proviso that the partners individually should be discharged from partnership debts or without any agreement that they should remain liable, the mere fact that the referee and court and the parties had a mistaken view as to what the law was did not affect the legal liability of the partners. Abbott v. Anderson (1914) 106 N. E. 782, 265 Ill. 285, affirming judgment (1914) 184 Ill. App. 598.

The effect of the confirmation of a composition is to supersede the bankruptcy proceedings and reinvest the bankrupt with title to his property free from the claims of creditors. Cumberland Glass Mfg. Co. v. De Witt (1915) 237 U. S. 447, 35 Sup. Ct. 636, 59 L. Ed. 1042; Ligon v. Allen (1879) 56 Miss. 632; McDonald v. H. E. Taylor & Co. (1911) 144 App. Div. 329, 128

Supp. 1048. On confirmation of osition, money belonging to the t in the hands of a third per- ich had not been reduced to on by the trustee, at once re- in the bankrupt, free of any r right of the trustee. In re necht (1915) 223 Fed. 417, 139 . 11. After confirmation of a tion, the court of bankruptcy jurisdiction of a petition by the t for an order requiring the s of property claimed by him id over to him, when the prop- s not in the custody or control court of bankruptcy when the tion was confirmed. In re Hol- C. A. 1916) 229 Fed. 349.

a composition has been con- the bankrupt is at liberty to h his assets as he may please. haw (D. C. 1881) 9 Fed. 495. y prosecute suits in his own r may consent to the further tion of an action in the name rustee in bankruptcy, after the tion, and in that case the court h the suit is pending will not ed to dismiss it on account of ing of the estate in bankruptcy. Jenkins (1900) 176 Mass. 544, . 1002.

djudication setting off against ved claim of a creditor a claim it which was listed among the t's unliquidated assets was in- in bankruptcy proceedings ter- g in a decree in composition, such creditor, though objecting composition, made no attempt the set-off adjudicated in the tcy court, made no opposition confirmation of the composition, and holds its composition divi- the full amount of its claim in e manner as other creditors. land Glass Mfg. Co. v. De 915) 237 U. S. 447, 35 Sup. Ct. L. Ed. 1042.

bankrupt recovers his title in e condition in which it was be- bankruptcy, and a merely de- title to certain property is not by the confirmation of a com- agreement. Zavelo v. Cohen 1908) 156 Ala. 517, 47 South.

confirmation of a composition s the functions of the trustee dministering the estate. In re (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 161, as. No. 645. The requirement case shall be "dismissed" up- confirmation of a composition t forbid such further proceed- the case as are necessary to te it, and proceedings may be fore the referee to pass upon unts of the trustee, and to dis- him and close the estate. Unit- es v. Sondheim (D. C. 1910) d. 378. But no new claims the estate can be filed or al- In re Cooper Bros. (D. C. 1908) 166 Fed. 932, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 634. But a question as to what amount the trustee shall pay over to the bankrupt, as the balance in his hands, should be determined by the referee under a special order of the court. In re August (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 161, Fed. Cas. No. 645.

The trustee cannot be held personally liable to a creditor for the difference between the dividend received under the composition agreement and the greater dividend which the trustee assured the creditor he would receive, such assurance being merely an expression of opinion that the larger dividend could be realized. Bossak v. Siff (1911) 147 App. Div. 177, 132 N. Y. Supp. 109.

All creditors who have proved their claims will be regarded as parties to the bankruptcy proceeding so as to be bound and concluded by the composition. Clairmonte v. Napier Motor Co. (1909) 11 Cal. App. 265, 104 Pac. 712; In re Rodger (D. C. 1831) 18 N. B. R. 381, Fed. Cas. No. 11,992. After the confirmation of a composition it is too late for creditors to claim that a conveyance made by the debtor before the bankruptcy was fraudulent as against them. McMaster v. Campbell (1879) 41 Mich. 513, 2 N. W. 836.

A composition prevents creditors from maintaining any suit or action for the enforcement of a claim or the collection of a debt which would be released by a discharge in bankruptcy. Taylor v. Skiles (1904) 113 Tenn. 288, 81 S. W. 1258; Hem v. Allen (1913) 179 Ill. App. 223. A suit against the bankrupt in a state court by a creditor included in the composition may be enjoined pending the completion of the composition. In re Shafer (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 116, Fed. Cas. No. 12,695. But after the confirmation of the composition, the court of bankruptcy will not interfere by injunction, as the debtor has a complete defense by pleading the composition and his consequent discharge. In re Negley (D. C. 1884) 20 Fed. 499.

A creditor who receives a composition with full knowledge of the facts cannot afterwards require a set-off to be enforced against the debtor in a court of equity, which he had opportunity to assert at the time the composition was effected. Hunt v. Holmes (D. C. 1878) 16 N. B. R. 101, Fed. Cas. No. 6,890.

Where the assignee of a creditor, party to a composition agreement, sued on the debt, the burden was upon the debtor to prove tender to the plaintiff or its assignor of the proportion of the debt called for by the composition. Ocean Accident & Guarantee Corporation Limited of London, England, v. Beck (Sup. 1915) 153 N. Y. S. 932.

A composition in bankruptcy must be pleaded in order to be a bar to an action. Consolidated Rubber Tire Co. v.

Vehicle Equipment Co. (1907) 121 App. Div. 764, 106 N. Y. Supp. 599. If set up after the time for final performance of the terms of the composition, the plea must not only aver the proceedings leading up to the composition and its confirmation by the court, but also performance on the part of the debtor, or a sufficient excuse for failure to perform. Harrison v. Gamble (1888) 69 Mich. 96, 36 N. W. 682; Dobson v. Noyes (1888) 39 Kan. 471, 18 Pac. 697.

A composition confirmed by the court of bankruptcy cannot be impeached in any collateral proceeding in a state court. Loeffler v. Wright (1910) 13 Cal. App. 224, 109 Pac. 269; Farwell v. Raddin (1880) 129 Mass. 7.

18. —— What debts released.—A bankrupt, having effected a composition, is released from all his provable debts. Herschman v. Bolster (1915) 220 Mass. 137, 107 N. E. 543. All debts to which a bankrupt might plead in bar a discharge obtained in the ordinary course of administration will be equally released by the confirmation of a composition. In re Jersey Island Packing Co. (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 839, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 417; Consolidated Rubber Tire Co. v. Vehicle Equipment Co. (1907) 121 App. Div. 764, 106 N. Y. Supp. 599. An action on a debt or claim will not be barred by composition proceedings if it would not be discharged by the debtor's discharge in bankruptcy. Wilmot v. Mudge (1880) 103 U. S. 217, 26 L. Ed. 536; Bayly v. Washington & Lee University (1882) 106 U. S. 11, 1 Sup. Ct. 88, 27 L. Ed. 97; Zavello v. J. S. Reeves & Co. (1911) 171 Ala. 401, 54 South. 654; Mudge v. Wilmot (1878) 124 Mass. 493. Compare Wells v. Lamprey (N. H.) 16 N. B. R. 205.

A composition will not affect the debtor's liability on a debt contracted by his fraud. In re Tooker (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 14,096. Or a debt contracted while acting in a fiduciary capacity. In re Rodger (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 252, Fed. Cas. No. 11,991; In re Shafer (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 116, Fed. Cas. No. 12,695; Succession of Bayly (1878) 30 La. Ann. 75. Or a claim founded on one of the kinds of torts mentioned in the statute as not being released by a discharge. In re Coe (1910) 183 Fed. 745, 106 C. C. A. 181, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 352.

A creditor whose claim was shown on the bankrupt's schedule, and who was given due notice of the offer of composition, but paid no attention to it and made no proof of his claim, is chargeable with laches, and in the absence of fraud will not be allowed to come in and prove a larger claim, after the composition has been confirmed, and he has received his dividend on the amount shown by the schedule. In re Wilkens (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 94, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 235; In re Abrams & Rubins (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 430, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 25; In re Sta (C. C. 1893) 56 Fed. 142; Troy Rudnick (1908) 198 Mass. 563, 85 E. 177; Glover Grocery Co. v. Dor (1902) 116 Ga. 216, 42 S. E. 347.

A judgment liquidating claim n proved and filed within the statuto time is barred, where there has bee confirmation of a composition, and t bankrupt is entitled to return of s curities deposited as part of an off of composition. In re Maytag-Mas Motor Co. (D. C. 1915) 223 Fed. 68

A creditor whose claim is not list by the bankrupt nor included in t composition arrangement, and who do not of his own motion come in a prove his claim, will not be affected bound by the composition, provided at all times lacked that notice or actu knowledge of the bankruptcy proceed ings which would have charged hi with the duty of intervening for t protection of his own interests. In Blackmore (D. C. 1882) 11 Fed. 41 Flower v. Greenbaum (C. C. 1880) Fed. 897; Broadway Trust Co. v. Ma heim (1905) 47 Misc. Rep. 415, 95 Y. Supp. 93; Robinson v. Soule (187 56 Miss. 549; Collins & Toole v. Cre (1907) 3 Ga. App. 238, 59 S. E. 72 Shulman v. Graves (1879) 63 A 402; Smith v. Rucker (1908) 88 A 615, 114 S. W. 1181; In re Black Di mond Copper Min. Co. (1906) 10 Ar 42, 85 Pac. 653.

Where a creditor's address was sta ed in the bankrupt's schedule as "u known," and he took no part in t composition proceedings, he is not a fected or bound thereby. Harrison Gamble (1888) 69 Mich. 96, 36 N. 682. Nor is a debt discharged by composition where it was stated in t schedule at less than its true amou and the creditor did not join in t composition, and objected to its co firmation, and refused to accept a money under it. Hewes v. Rand (188 129 Mass. 519.

Creditors whose claims are barred failure to file or present the same wit in the year allowed for that purpo have no standing before the bankrupt court in composition proceedings. In French (D. C. 1909) 181 Fed. 583, Am. Bankr. Rep. 77.

The fact that a corporation has bee adjudged bankrupt and has effected composition with its creditors will n prevent creditors from maintaining a action against its directors, to enfor a liability imposed on them personal by statute for failing to report t condition of the company, since such statutory liability is entirely indepen ent of the cause of action against t corporation. Wood & Selick v. Va derveer (1900) 55 App. Div. 549, 6 N. Y. Supp. 371.

19. —— Effect on rights of secur creditors.—Liens and other securiti which would be valid and unassailab in the ordinary course of bankrupt ngs are equally protected in ion arrangements and are not ed or affected. In re Cyclopean C. A. 1909) 167 Fed. 971, 21 nkr. Rep. 679; In re Stowell 1885) 24 Fed. 468. If the wishes to bring the claims of creditors under the operation composition, it is his duty to securities valued as the law Flower v. Greenebaum (C. C. Fed. 190. But, the other con- xisting, a composition confirm- e court has the effect to con- cured creditor to his security, ischarge the debtor from per- bility for the debt. In re Ly- C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 8,650. Cavanna v. Bassett (C. C. Fed. 215. After the confirma- composition, a mortgage credi- ot recover a deficiency judg- the foreclosure of his mort- merican Woolen Co. v. Cohen 42 App. Div. 880, 127 N. Y. 7.

as concerns the property af- y a lien, the court of bank- oses all control over it when osition is confirmed, and can- after protect it, by injunction, izure under process from a rt. In re Lytle (D. C. 1876) . No. 8,650.

litor of a bankrupt corpora- ming a lien for part of his o refused to accept securities rganized corporation, tendered pursuant to a composition nt confirmed by the court, and ed a suit to establish and his lien, is not entitled to h securities impounded pend- uit, so that he may have them cessful, especially when the issuing the same is not a the suit. York Mfg. Co. v. ts' Refrigerating Co. (C. C. 8 Fed. 108.

of a bankrupt which are se- ly by the personal indorse- a third person may be included ured debts in a composition, confirmation of such composi- discharge the bankrupt as the notes. Stauffer-Eshleman Co. v. Abington Hardware & Furniture Co. (1912) 131 La. 715, 60 South. 202.

An attachment levied about a month before the adjudication in bankruptcy, on a debt included in and released by the composition, will be dissolved thereby. Miller v. Mackenzie (1876) 43 Md. 404, 20 Am. Rep. 111.

20. —— Joint liability of others with bankrupt.—While the release of one joint debtor usually discharges the other, this rule does not apply to a discharge by a composition in bankruptcy. Hem v. Allen (1913) 179 Ill. App. 223.

A composition in bankruptcy, while it discharges the bankrupt himself from any further liability for his debts, does not operate to exonerate or release any person who is jointly liable with him for the payment of the same debt, or who is collaterally liable therefor, in the character of a surety, guarantor, or otherwise. Easton Furniture Mfg. Co. v. Caminez (1911) 146 App. Div. 436, 131 N. Y. Supp. 157; Guild v. Butler (1877) 122 Mass. 498, 23 Am. Rep. 378; In re Burchell (D. C. 1880) 4 Fed. 406; Mason & Hamlin Organ Co. v. Bancroft (1876) 1 Abb. N. C. (N. Y.) 415; Moore v. Stanwood (1881) 98 Ill. 605.

21. New promise to pay debt.—A confirmation of a composition offered by a bankrupt operates as a discharge of the bankrupt, but it destroys the remedy only, not the indebtedness. In re Kinnane Co. (D. C. 1915) 221 Fed. 762, denying confirmation (D. C. 1914) 217 Fed. 488.

A new promise will not revive a debt included in and settled by a composition in bankruptcy, though it would in the case of a discharge for a composition is an accord and satisfaction and extinguishes the debt. Taylor v. Skiles (1904) 113 Tenn. 288, 81 S. W. 1258.

Since a dismissal of a bankrupt's debts by composition is by operation of law, there remains subsisting a moral obligation which may furnish the consideration of a new promise to pay. Herrington v. Davitt (Sup. 1914) 145 N. Y. S. 452.

(Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 13.) Compositions, when set de.

ositions, when Set Aside.—a The judge may, upon the ap- n of parties in interest filed at any time within six months composition has been confirmed, set the same aside and e the case if it shall be made to appear upon a trial that as practiced in the procuring of such composition, and that wledge thereof has come to the petitioners since the confirma- such composition. (30 Stat. 550.)

Notes of Decisions

sdiction. — A composition in cy can be set aside only by t of bankruptcy. No state n annul or disregard a discharge in bankruptcy, whether obtained in the ordinary way or as the result of a composition. Turner v. Hudson (1909) 105 Me. 476, 75 Atl. 45, 18

Ann. Cas. 600. But compare Mallouk v. American Exchange Nat. Bank (1912) 75 Misc. Rep. 285, 135 N. Y. Supp. 78.

Authority to set aside a composition is confided by this section only to the "judge" of the court of bankruptcy, which term, in this instance, does not include the referee. See, ante, § 9585, cl. 16, and post, § 9622.

2. Petition and notice.—Application to set aside a composition in bankruptcy should take the form of a petition, and leave to file such a petition should not be refused unless the petition shows on its face that, upon the facts stated, the petitioner could not in any circumstances be entitled to relief. In re Allen B. Wrisley Co. (1904) 133 Fed. 388, 66 C. C. A. 450, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 193.

The petition should show by proper averments sufficient grounds why the court should revoke the order confirming the composition or set it aside. City Nat. Bank v. Doolittle (1901) 107 Fed. 236, 46 C. C. A. 258, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 736.

The petition should allege that the fraud charged was not known to the petitioner until after the composition was confirmed, but need not allege the time or manner of acquiring such knowledge, and it is not demurrable for omitting to allege that the petitioner restored or offered to restore the consideration immediately on discovery of the fraud, nor for want of tender of the consideration into court. In re Roukous (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 645, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 128.

The petition should be verified in the usual form for a bill in equity, but verification by an agent is not sufficient when the principal allegations are made on information and belief and the agent is not shown to have any personal knowledge of the facts. Id.

Notice of a petition to set aside a composition should be given to the bankrupt and to all the creditors. Ex parte Hamlin (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 320, Fed. Cas. No. 5,993.

3. Parties entitled to apply.—A creditor who has assigned his claim, receiving a consideration therefor, is no longer a "party in interest," though the assignment was procured by the fraud and misrepresentation of the trustee and the bankrupt. In re Allen B. Wrisley Co. (1904) 133 Fed. 388, 66 C. C. A. 450, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 193.

The fact that a creditor has commenced an action at law against the bankrupt will not prevent him from also maintaining a petition to set aside the composition. In re Roukous (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 648, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 169.

Evidence held to entitle a judgment creditor of a bankrupt, whose case was pending on appeal at the time of the bankruptcy and of a composition, to have such composition set aside on the ground of fraud, unless the bankrupt placed him on an equality with the other creditors. In re Ballance (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 505.

4. Limitation of time.—An application to set aside a composition cannot be considered by the court unless filed within the six months allowed by the statute. In re Ennis (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 859, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 383; In re Jersey Island Packing Co. (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 839, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 417; In re Eisenberg (D. C. 1906) 148 Fed. 325, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 776. And the time allowed is not enlarged by the provision found in another section of the act, that a discharge may be revoked within a year after it is granted, for this relates only to a discharge obtained in the ordinary way, not to a discharge resulting by operation of law from the confirmation of a composition. In re Jersey Island Packing Co. (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 839, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 417.

5. Grounds for setting aside composition.—This section defines exclusively the ground upon which a composition may be set aside, and operates as a limitation upon the general grant of authority given to the courts of bankruptcy by section 2, cl. 9 (ante, § 9586), to "set aside compositions and reinstate the cases." In re Rudnick (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 787, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 114; In re Cooper Bros. (D. C. 1908) 166 Fed. 932, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 634.

A composition cannot be set aside merely because the petitioning creditor's address was erroneously stated in the bankrupt's schedule, in consequence of which he had no notice of the proceedings, and did not prove his debt, and the same was not included in the composition. In re Rudnick (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 787, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 114. Nor can a composition be set aside on account of inadequacy nor because the estate might have paid a larger dividend. In re Shaw (D. C. 1881) 9 Fed. 495. Nor because the bankrupt has failed to carry out his part of the composition agreement. In re Eisenberg (D. C. 1906) 148 Fed. 325, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 776. Nor because some creditors fraudulently obtained notes for more than their pro rata share, where it appears that the applicant for the order also obtained a preference. In re Sacharoff & Kleiner (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 664, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 814.

The fact that the bankrupt made a false schedule or a false oath to his schedule constitutes ground for setting aside a composition subsequently effected, as the schedule is supposed to inform the creditors of the extent and nature of his assets and to influence them in accepting terms of composition, and act that the trustee joins with krupt to effect a composition to riment of creditors by means of presentations as to the assets, is not only for his removal, but r vacating the composition. In n B. Wrisley Co. (1904) 133 88, 66 C. C. A. 450, 13 Am. Rep. 193.

raud in the schedule is fraud d in procuring the composition. oukous (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. Am. Bankr. Rep. 128.

nposition accepted by the requiember of creditors of a bankrupt be set aside on the ground that procured by fraud, where all the elied on to constitute the fraud sclosed at the examination which d the composition, and were nown to the creditors accepting. Furniture Co. v. Walker-Cooley ure Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed.

emurrer to petition to set aside compositions in bankruptcy for fraud, court, having found fraud, held to have erred in dismissing the petition on condition that the bankrupt pay a specified part of the petitioner's claim. In re Ballance (1914) 219 Fed. 537, 135 C. C. A. 287, reversing order (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 505.

6. Effect of setting aside composition.—All acts regularly done in pursuance of the composition, the same having been partly performed, remain valid though the composition is afterwards set aside, and the rights and title of the trustee are subject thereto. Ex parte Hamlin (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 320, Fed. Cas. No. 5,993.

A workman, employed by the bankrupt during the period intervening between the confirmation of a composition and the order setting it aside, is entitled to payment in full of his wages earned during that period. In re Wells (D. C. 1880) 4 Fed. 68.

3. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 14, as amended, Act Feb. 5, 903, c. 487, § 4, and Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, § 6.) Discharg-, when granted.

charges, when Granted.—a Any person may, after the expira- f one month and within the next twelve months subsequent ng adjudged a bankrupt, file an application for a discharge court of bankruptcy in which the proceedings are pending; if ll be made to appear to the judge that the bankrupt was unbly prevented from filing it within such time, it may be filed but not after the expiration of the next six months.

he judge shall hear the application for a discharge and such and pleas as may be made in opposition thereto by the trustee er parties in interest, at such time as will give the trustee or in interest a reasonable opportunity to be fully heard, and igate the merits of the application and discharge the applicant he has (1) committed an offense punishable by imprisonment ein provided; or (2) with intent to conceal his financial condi- estroyed, concealed, or failed to keep books of account or rec- rom which such condition might be ascertained; or (3) obtained or property on credit upon a materially false statement in writ- ade by him to any person or his representative for the purpose aining credit from such person; or (4) at any time subsequent first day of the four months immediately preceding the filing petition transferred, removed, destroyed, or concealed, or per- to be removed, destroyed, or concealed, any of his property, ntent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors; or (5) in vol- proceedings been granted a discharge in bankruptcy within ars; or (6) in the course of the proceedings in bankruptcy re- to obey any lawful order of, or to answer any material ques- pproved by the court: Provided, That a trustee shall not inter- bjections to a bankrupt's discharge until he shall be authorized lo at a meeting of creditors called for that purpose.

he confirmation of a composition shall discharge the bank- rom his debts, other than those agreed to be paid by the terms e composition and those not affected by a discharge. (30 550. 32 Stat. 797. 36 Stat. 839.)

n this section, as originally enacted, subdivision b was as follows:

b The judge shall hear the application for a discharge, and such proofs and as as may be made in opposition thereto by parties in interest, at such time will give parties in interest a reasonable opportunity to be fully heard, and investigate the merits of the application and discharge the applicant unless he has (1) committed an offense punishable by imprisonment as herein provided; or (2) with fraudulent intent to conceal his true financial condition and in contemplation of bankruptcy, destroyed, concealed, or failed to keep books of account or records from which his true condition might be ascertained."

It was amended by Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 4, cited above, by changing the first words of clause 2 of said subdivision, "with fraudulent intent to conceal his true financial condition and in contemplation of bankruptcy," to read, "with intent to conceal his financial condition," and by adding to said subdivision four further clauses, as follows:

"or (3) obtained property on credit from any person upon a materially false statement in writing made to such person for the purpose of obtaining such property on credit; or (4) at any time subsequent to the first day of the four months immediately preceding the filing of the petition transferred, removed, destroyed, or concealed, or permitted to be removed, destroyed, or concealed any of his property with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors; or (5) in voluntary proceedings been granted a discharge in bankruptcy within six years; or (6) in the course of the proceedings in bankruptcy refused to obey any lawful order of or to answer any material question approved by the court."

Said subdivision b was further amended by Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, § 6, last cited above, to read as set forth here.

Section 19 of said first amendatory Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, 32 Stat. 801, provided that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending when it took effect, but that such cases should be adjudicated and disposed of conformably to the provisions of the original act.

Section 14 of said second amendatory Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, 36 Stat. 842, also provided that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending when it took effect, but that such cases should be adjudicated and disposed of conformably to the provisions of the original act as previously amended.

Notes of Decisions

I. Right to discharge

1. In general.
2. Responsibility for acts of partner, agent, or employé.
3. Effect of prior application or decision.

II. Persons entitled to oppose discharge

4. Creditors.
5. Estoppel of creditors.
6. Trustee in bankruptcy.

III. Grounds for refusal of discharge

7. Existence of statutory grounds.
8. Want of jurisdiction.
9. Transactions prior to enactment of bankruptcy law.
10. Purchasing consent of creditor.
11. Fraudulent or preferential transfers.
12. —— Conclusiveness of prior decision.
13. Creation of fiduciary, fraudulent, or tortious debts.
14. Concealment of property.
15. Omissions in schedule and list of creditors.
16. —— Knowledge and fraudulent purpose.
17. —— Omission by mistake or by advice of counsel.
18. —— Omission of property without value.
19. —— Omission of doubtful claims or assets.
20. —— Omission of debts or creditors.
21. False oath or testimony.
22. Refusal to testify.
23. Obtaining credit by false statements.
24. —— Intention or knowledge of falsity.
25. —— By whom false statements made.
26. —— To whom false statements made.
27. —— Falsity in substance of statements.
28. Failure to keep books of account.
29. Destruction, mutilation, or concealment of books.
30. —— Intent to conceal financial condition.
31. —— Contemplation of bankruptcy.
32. —— What are proper books of account.

IV. Application for discharge and proceedings thereon

33. Time of application.
34. —— Extension for unavoidable delay.
35. Petition for discharge.
36. Notice of application for discharge.
37. Proceedings in opposition to discharge.
38. Withdrawal of opposition.
39. —— Corrupt inducement to withdraw opposition.
40. Want or failure of opposition.
41. Time to file specifications in opposition.
42. Form and sufficiency of specifications.
43. —— Allegations as to concealment of property.
44. —— Allegations of knowledge, falsity, and fraudulent intent.
45. —— Allegations as to failure to keep books or destruction or concealment of books.
46. Signature and verification of specifications.
47. —— By attorney at law or in fact.
48. Amendment of specifications.
49. Exceptions to sufficiency of specifications.
50. Dismissal for want of prosecution.
51. Evidence on application for discharge.
52. —— Admissibility.
53. —— Burden of proof.
54. —— Weight and sufficiency of evidence.
55. Hearing and determination of application.
56. —— Powers and duties of judge and referee.
57. Staying or suspending discharge.
58. Order of discharge.

ɔclusiveness and effect of discharge usiveness of discharge.
t of discharge.
As to property fraudulently transed or not scheduled.
teral impeachment of discharge.
ing discharge in bankruptcy.
Necessity of pleading.
Who may plead discharge.
Form and effect of plea.
ence as to discharge.
t of refusal of discharge or failto apply.

I. Discharge of partners arge of partners separately.
arge of partnership as such.

Discharge of corporations neral.

RIGHT TO DISCHARGE

general.—One seeking a disfrom his debts under the bankaw must comply strictly with sions of the statute. In re Lev- (D. C. 1910) 180 Fed. 957, 24 nkr. Rep. 822. And he must proper steps to expedite the ngs. In re Wollowitz (1911) l. 105, 112 C. C. A. 445, 27 nkr. Rep. 558.

ions to a bankrupt's discharge founded on statutory grounds, bankrupt cannot be punished, holding his discharge, for imt or reckless financial transwhich occurred long before the the petition. In re Boner (D. 169 Fed. 727, 22 Am. Bankr.

the referee, without the ge of the bankrupt, entered an scharging the trustee, there beassets and no claims proved, not such a final disposition of as to deprive the bankrupt of t to a discharge. In re For- C. 1880) 4 Fed. 629.

ponsibility for acts of partner, r employé.—Where one of the in a bankrupt firm has been an act or omission such as to the granting of a discharge to to the firm, this will not be for refusing a discharge to anrtner who did not participate rongful act and had no knowlit. Ragan, Malone & Co. v. & Preston (1912) 200 Fed. C. C. A. 640, 29 Am. Bankr. 7; Hardie v. Swafford Bros. ds Co. (1908) 165 Fed. 588, 91 426, 20 L. R. A. (N. S.) 785, Bankr. Rep. 457; Frank v. Paper Co. (1910) 179 Fed. C. C. A. 268, 24 Am. Bankr. 1; In re Cotton & Preston (D. 183 Fed. 181, 25 Am. Bankr. ; In re Schachter (D. C. 1909) 683, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 389. aking of a statement for credit partner, from facts stated to his copartner, who was to furnish the entire capital for the business, though in fact untrue, will not defeat the right of the partner making it to his discharge in bankruptcy, where the falsity of the material statements so made was unknown to him. W. S. Peck Co. v. Lowenbein (1910) 178 Fed. 178, 101 C. C. A. 498, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 138.

The fraud of a partner in so keeping the firm books, of which he had sole charge, as to conceal withdrawals of money by himself from his partner as well as from creditors cannot be imputed to the innocent partner, so as to bar his right to a discharge. In re Schultz (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 264, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 91.

Where a business belonging to a married woman is conducted wholly by her husband, to whom she confides its entire management, and he, without her knowledge or privity, conceals property from the creditors, and the wife becomes bankrupt, she is not to be deprived of her right to a discharge by reason of her husband's misconduct, being herself guiltless of any actual fraudulent intent, and her negligence in relation to the business not being equivalent to fraud, for the purposes of a penal statute, though her discharge may be made conditional upon her using all reasonable means within her power to discover to the bankruptcy court the assets so concealed. In re Hyman (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 195, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 169; In re Meyers (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 353, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 4.

One appointed by a duly executed writing as manager and attorney in fact for the owner in conducting a mercantile business has such authority that a materially false property statement made by him for the purpose of obtaining goods for sale in such business on credit is one made by the owner, so as to bar the latter's discharge. In re Reed (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 920, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 286.

Where the manager of a bankrupt firm (not himself a member of the firm), acting within the scope of his authority, signed a false statement of the firm's financial condition for the purpose of obtaining credit, this was held sufficient to prevent the discharge of either of the partners, though one of them was a woman advanced in years, who took no part in the business, but intrusted her interests to such manager, who was her son. In re Schwartz & Co. (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 166, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 670.

A merchant who has failed to keep proper books of account is not entitled to his discharge in bankruptcy, though the fault was wholly with his bookkeeper, as the law puts upon the merchant the duty of seeing that his books are properly kept. In re Hammond (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 5,999.

A bankrupt was not entitled to a discharge where he signed a blank statement of his financial condition, which, at his direction, his bookkeeper filled out and sent to a bank, which lent the bankrupt money on the faith thereof, though, relying on the bookkeeper's honesty and accuracy, the bankrupt did not actually know that the statement was materially false and did not consciously intend to deceive the bank. In re Gilpin (D. C. 1908) 160 Fed. 171, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 374.

Where the bankrupt did business through the medium of a corporation, which was merely a form of business activity, a concealment of assets belonging to him will be sufficient to bar his discharge, though the assets would first be applicable to the creditors of the corporation. In re Berger (D. C. 1912) 200 Fed. 325, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 712.

3. Effect of prior application or decision.—An order refusing to grant a discharge to a bankrupt, if in the nature of a final determination on the merits of the controversy, is a bar to any second application for discharge in the same proceedings, and must be regarded as res judicata as to the matters involved. In re Brockway (C. C. 1882) 23 Fed. 583; In re Royal (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 140, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 636. Otherwise if the refusal of a discharge was based merely on some irregularity in the proceedings. In re Connelly (C. C. 1823) Fed. Cas. No. 3,111.

A subsequent proceeding in bankruptcy for the sole purpose of obtaining a discharge, to which a prior proceeding has determined that the bankrupt is not entitled; presents no ground for relief, is vexatious, and cannot lawfully be maintained. Kuntz v. Young (1904) 131 Fed. 719, 65 C. C. A. 477, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 505; In re Fiegenbaum (1903) 121 Fed. 69, 57 C. C. A. 409, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 595; In re Kuffler (1909) 168 Fed. 1021, 93 C. C. A. 671, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 289. But compare In re Claff (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 506, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 128. And see In re Farrell (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 125, Fed. Cas. No. 4,680, as to a new proceeding in bankruptcy where the discharge was formerly refused only on the ground that it was not applied for in due time. See, also, Bluthenthal v. Jones (1906) 51 Fla. 396, 41 South. 533, 13 L. R. A. (N. S.) 629, 120 Am. St. Rep. 181, as to the effect of failure on the part of creditors to raise any objection to the second application for discharge, though notified thereof. This rule applies where the bankrupt's application for a discharge in the earlier proceeding was dismissed for want of prosecution. Pollet v. Cosel (1910) 179 Fed. 488, 103 C. C. A. 68, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 678.

Although the question of a discharge was not tried or determined in the first proceeding, the bankrupt's failure to apply for it within the time limited is substantially equivalent to a judgment by default in favor of his creditors, and renders the question of his right to receive it res judicata, and so will constitute sufficient ground for refusing to discharge him in a subsequent proceeding in bankruptcy, at least so far as concerns the debts which were provable under the earlier petition, though he may be discharged in the later case as against new debts. Siebert v. Dahlberg (1914) 218 Fed. 793, 134 C. C. A. 460; In re Bacon (1912) 193 Fed. 34, 113 C. C. A. 358, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 736 (writ of error denied in Bacon v. Buffalo Cold Storage Co. [1912] 225 U. S. 701, 32 Sup. Ct. 836, 56 L. Ed. 1264); Kuntz v. Young (1904) 131 Fed. 719, 65 C. C. A. 477, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 505; In re Richter (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 905, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 215; In re Springer (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 294, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 96; In re Westbrook (D. C. 1911) 186 Fed. 414, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 181; In re Stone (D. C. 1909) 172 Fed. 947, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 24; In re Von Borries (D. C. 1909) 168 Fed. 718, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 849; In re Weintraub (D. C. 1905) 133 Fed. 1000, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 711.

An order refusing to discharge a bankrupt under the bankruptcy act of 1867 does not estop the bankrupt from applying for a discharge in a proceeding instituted under the act of 1898, on the same facts and as to the same debts. In re Herrman (1901) 106 Fed. 987, 46 C. C. A. 77; Id. (D. C. 1900) 134 Fed. 566.

A judgment denying a debtor a discharge from a debt under a state insolvency law is not an adjudication of his right to a discharge from such debt in bankruptcy, where it does not appear upon what grounds the judgment was based. In re Bybee (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 1011, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 761.

The provision of this section that a discharge may not be granted to a bankrupt if he has, "in voluntary proceedings, been granted a discharge in bankruptcy within six years," has no application to cases in which a discharge was applied for before its enactment, but it applies to all cases in which the application for discharge is made after its passage, and such application does not expose it to the objection of being retroactive legislation. In re Neely (D. C. 1904) 134 Fed. 667, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 407; In re Seaholm (1905) 136 Fed. 144, 69 C. C. A. 142, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 292. The words "in voluntary proceedings" refer to the proceedings in which the prior discharge was granted, and not to the proceedings in which the second discharge is sought, so that it makes no difference in the application of the provision whether the second proceeding is based on a voluntary or an involuntary petition. In re Seaholm (1905)

l. 144, 69 C. C. A. 142, 14 Am. Rep. 292; In re Neely (D. C. 34 Fed. 667, 12 Am. Bankr. 7. The period of six years is easured backward from the time hearing on the application for ond discharge, and not from the the commencement of the sec- ceeding. In re Haase (C. C. A. 64 Fed. 1022, 21 Am. Bankr. 8; In re Jordan (D. C. 1905) l. 292, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 449; ittle (1905) 137 Fed. 521, 70 C. 105, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 640. re Dunphy (D. C. 1913) 206 0, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 760.

SONS ENTITLED TO OP- POSE DISCHARGE

ditors.—Any creditor of the t who has a provable claim is in interest and entitled to op- e application for discharge, al- he has not proved his claim red its allowance. In re Na- (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 645, 19 nkr. Rep. 56; In re Frice (D.) 96 Fed. 611, 2 Am. Bankr. 4; In re Groome (D. C. 1880) 464; In re Murdock (D. C. N. B. R. 146, Fed. Cas. No. In re Shepard (D. C. 1868) 1 R. 439, Fed. Cas. No. 12,753; ook (C. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. In re Smith (C. C. 1871) Fed. 12,977; In re Boutelle (D. C. ed. Cas. No. 1,705; Haxtun v. 1848) 2 Barb. Ch. (N. Y.) 506. e Talcott v. Friend (1910) 179 6, 103 C. C. A. 80, 24 Am. Rep. 708. But in that case he ove his claim or it must clearly y the evidence before the court is really a creditor. In re Bou- . C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 129, Fed. . 1,705. Specifications of ob- iled by one not shown to be a should state facts showing how he is a party in interest. In y (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 572, Bankr. Rep. 312.

ion to allowance of claim bankrupts held not to estop g creditor from opposing dis- for omission of such liability financial statement on which as extended. In re Waite (D. 223 Fed. 853.

who has a suit pending against rupt for the recovery of a debt s contested, is entitled to op- e application for discharge, the claim has not been proved bankruptcy proceeding. In re (D. C. 1905) 134 Fed. 764, 14 nkr. Rep. 249.

ct that a person is named as a in the bankrupt's schedule is acie evidence that he has the appear in opposition to the e, though he may not have is claim. Haley v. Pope (1913) 206 Fed. 266, 124 C. C. A. 330; In re Barrager (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 247, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 366. But if the bankrupt, in pursuance of an arrangement with a creditor, omits the debt from his schedule, the creditor will not be permitted to object to the discharge, at least on the ground of such omission. In re Whetmore (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 17,508.

The term "creditor," as descriptive of one having the right to oppose the discharge in the character of a party in interest, will include one having an equitable claim against the estate. In re Tebbetts (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 13,817. Or a claim secured by a mortgage. In re Ely (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 4,428. Or a contingent and unliquidated claim which for that reason, is not provable in the bankruptcy proceeding. Ex parte Traphagen (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 14,140. Or a debt barred by the statute of limitations at the time when the creditor filed his specification of objections. In re Westbrook (D. C. 1911) 186 Fed. 414, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 181.

Opposition cannot be made by a creditor whose claim is not provable in the bankruptcy proceedings or is of such a character that it would not be affected by the discharge. In re Nathanson (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 645, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 56. A claim which is illegal does not constitute the holder a creditor for this purpose, but if the bankrupt has allowed it to be filed and proved, without objection, he will be estopped to deny the standing of the creditor when the question of his discharge comes up. In re A. B. Carton & Co. (D. C. 1906) 148 Fed. 63, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 343.

Where the creditor is a corporation, its stockholders are not parties in interest in such sense as to be entitled individually to oppose the bankrupt's discharge. In re Tallmadge (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 13,738. Where a partnership which had proved a claim against the estate is afterwards dissolved, without any disposition being made of the claim as between the partners, neither of them can maintain opposition to the bankrupt's discharge without showing affirmatively that all consent. In re Hendrick (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 647, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 218.

Where the ground of opposition is fraud on the part of the bankrupt, or concealing property, or obtaining credit on false statements, the right to oppose the discharge is not confined to the person defrauded, but objection may be made by any other creditor or party in interest. In re Kretz (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 784; In re A. B. Carton & Co. (D. C. 1906) 148 Fed. 63, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 343; In re Harr (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 421, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 213.

The right of creditors to oppose the bankrupt's discharge on the ground of alleged fraudulent transactions does not depend on their having taken any legal proceedings, through the trustee or otherwise, to recover the property affected. In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715.

5. Estoppel of creditors.—A creditor will be estopped from setting up in opposition to the bankrupt's application for discharge matters which have already been litigated between them to final decree in a state court, the decision therein having been adverse to the contention of the creditor. In re Antisdel (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 289, Fed. Cas. No. 490. And a similar estoppel is raised against a creditor who participated in a previous general assignment by the bankrupt, to the extent of ratifying it and taking measures under it to secure his claim, or accepting a preference which it gave him. In re Jones (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 48, Fed. Cas. No. 7,452; In re Schuyler (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 12.494. But the mere acceptance of a dividend under such an assignment will not estop the creditor if he had no power to dissent from the assignment or to repudiate or avoid it. In re Kraft (D. C. 1880) 3 Fed. 892.

A creditor may be estopped from setting up in opposition to the discharge a false financial statement made by the bankrupt, and on which he obtained credit from such creditor, where the creditor has expressly waived the fraud, by admitting in writing that any inaccuracies in the statement were inadvertent and without wrongful intent. In re Russell (1910) 176 Fed. 253, 100 C. C. A. 77, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 850.

6. Trustee in bankruptcy.—The trustee in bankruptcy derives his right to contest a bankrupt's application for discharge from the creditors, and has no authority to object unless authorized by them. In re Hockman (D. C. 1912) 205 Fed. 330, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 921.

When the trustee has obtained authority from the creditors, neither the referee nor the court has power to withhold from him the right to file objections. or to prescribe as conditions to its exercise that no expense shall be imposed on the estate or that it shall not delay settlement beyond a stated time. In re Churchill (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 114, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 603.

The requirement of the statute that authority to the trustee to file objections must be given at a meeting of the creditors called for that purpose is satisfied if the authority is given at a meeting called by the referee: it is not necessary that the judge should issue the call and hold the meeting, or that he should specially authorize such call and meeting. In re Reiff (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 399, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 753.

III. GROUNDS FOR REFUSAL OF DISCHARGE

7. Existence of statutory grounds.—The precedent conditions having been complied with, the grant or refusal of a discharge does not rest in the discretion of the judge, but the applicant is entitled to a discharge as a matter of right, unless he is found guilty of some one of the prescribed acts or omissions. In re Marshall Paper Co. (1900) 102 Fed. 872, 43 C. C. A. 38, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 468.

The court is without jurisdiction unless there are dischargeable debts, and where the only claims listed by a bankrupt, or filed, are stated in his schedule to be disputed, and are in fact in litigation, the court has no power to grant him a discharge. In re Gulick (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 52, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 632.

A discharge can be refused only on one or more of the specific grounds mentioned in the statute, not on account of any acts or conduct on the part of the bankrupt, however reprehensible, which do not clearly come within the words of the law. Woodruff v. Cheeves (1901) 105 Fed. 601, 44 C. C. A. 631, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 296; Strause v. Hooper (D. C. 1901) 105 Fed. 590, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 225; In re Clark (D. C. 1868) 3 N. B. R. 16, Fed. Cas. No. 2,800; In re Elliott (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 110, Fed. Cas. No. 4,391. But in a case where the bankrupt's financial transactions showed that his financial difficulties were the result of suspicious and fraudulent dealings, and he had been guilty of gross misrepresentations as to his solvency, and his assets in bankruptcy were purchased by a pawnbroker, who at once installed the bankrupt as manager of the business, with the same apparent control thereof as before, the court held, with severe animadversions, that the bankrupt was not entitled to a discharge. In re Miller (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 591, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 329.

The specified grounds for denying a discharge are not in the nature of offenses or forfeitures of the right to a discharge, but are rather in the nature of violations of conditions precedent. In re Seeley (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 1, Fed. Cas. No. 12,628.

It is not sufficient ground for refusing to discharge the bankrupt that he misused and wasted his estate before the filing of the petition. In re Rogers (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 12,001. Or that his petition was filed merely for the purpose of defeating the claims of the judgment creditor who objects. In re Taylor (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 479, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 143. But the court is not obliged to grant a discharge to a bankrupt, knowing at the time that facts exist which would render such discharge revocable for fraud had they first come to light after it ted. In re Luftig (D. C. 2 Fed. 322, 15 Am. Bankr.

ication for discharge is an in- proceeding, in which juris- nd the validity of the prior gs are not involved. In re (D. C. 1910) 175 Fed. 243, 24 r. Rep. 541. And a discharge denied on account of an ir- in the former proceedings, n error in the name of the in giving notices to creditors. ind (C. C. A. 1909) 175 Fed. . Bankr. Rep. 166.

arge cannot be denied to a because he has violated a statute of the state not de- the particular offenses made by the bankruptcy act. In lan (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. m. Bankr. Rep. 325. Nor be- the alleged offense of larceny, as bailee, committed by the against the objecting creditor a year before the petition is re Wolf (D. C. 1908) 159 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 304.

ive a bankrupt of his right to ge, it is not necessary that he been convicted of one of the numerated in the act, but it if it is shown by clear and evidence that he has been such offense. In re Shear (D. 201 Fed. 460, 29 Am. Bankr. In re George (D. C. 1869) No. 5,325.

ctions making the offense of and fraudulently making a by the bankrupt in the bank- oceedings, in respect to his a ground for denying him a do not extend to previous transactions which are mere- lent as to creditors and not inal. Fellows v. Freudenthal 1900) 102 Fed. 731, 4 Am. ep. 490. And see In re Warne 82) 10 Fed. 377.

anity of a bankrupt, though it nted his examination by the and still continues, is not a s discharge, as it is not one ounds specified for refusing a and especially in view of the the statute provides that the f a bankrupt shall not abate edings, but the same shall be and concluded in the same o far as possible, as if in- l not supervened. In re Mil- 1904) 133 Fed. 1017, 13 Am. ep. 345.

of jurisdiction.—Where an on in bankruptcy has been e, upon a petition sufficient face, and without any chal- he jurisdiction of the court, it d conclusive, not only in col- oceedings, but also in the fur- eedings in the same case, and not been appealed from, re- r set aside, creditors cannot oppose the bankrupt's application for discharge on the ground of an original want of jurisdiction over him. In re Clisdel (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 246, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 95; In re Goodale (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 783, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 493; In re Walrath (D. C. 1910) 175 Fed. 243, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 541; In re Ives (C. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 97, Fed. Cas. No. 7,115. And see In re Tinker (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 79, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 580.

Objections on the ground of a want of jurisdiction cannot be made by a creditor who has recognized the validity of the adjudication by filing and proving his claim, participating in the election of a trustee, and sharing in the distribution of the estate. In re Mason (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 256, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 599.

9. Transactions prior to enactment of bankruptcy law.—A discharge in bankruptcy cannot be refused on account of acts or omissions occurring, or transactions completed, before the enactment of the bankruptcy law, although the same things would have constituted good grounds of opposition to the discharge if done after the statute came into force, for the contrary construction would give the act an ex post facto operation, or at least make it objectionably retrospective. In re Goodale (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 783, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 493; In re Webb (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 404, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 386; Paxton v. Scott (1902) 66 Neb. 385, 92 N. W. 611; Schreck v. Hanlon (1905) 74 Neb. 264, 104 N. W. 193; In re Webb (D. C. 1899) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 11; In re Moore (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 9,751; In re Keefer (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 389, Fed. Cas. No. 7,636.

The failure of the bankrupt to keep proper books of account or records from which his financial condition could be known, or his wrongful acts in concealing, destroying, or mutilating such books or records, will not warrant the court in refusing to grant him a discharge, unless such omission or offense occurred since the date of the enactment of the bankruptcy law. In re Marx (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 676, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 521; In re Phillips (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 844, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 542; In re Dews (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 181, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 483; In re Carmichael (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 594, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 815; In re Holman (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 512, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 600; In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715; In re Shorer (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 90, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165; In re Stark (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 88, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 785; In re Lieber (D. C. 1899) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 21; In re Friedberg (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 302, Fed. Cas. No. 5,116.

As to the offense of concealing property from his trustee "while a bankrupt," it is held that the act of concealment may be continuous, and that if a concealment of goods or money is begun before the enactment of the bankruptcy law, with intent to defraud creditors, and is continued after the adjudication of bankruptcy, by failure to list it in the schedule or to disclose it to the trustee, it is a concealment from the trustee "while a bankrupt," within the meaning of the statute, and ground for refusing a discharge. In re Jacobs & Verstandig (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 797, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 470; In re Quackenbush (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 282, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 274.

10. Purchasing consent of creditor.—Although a creditor whose assent to the discharge of the bankrupt has been corruptly procured is estopped from afterwards setting up the fraud as a ground of opposition to the discharge, yet other creditors, on learning of the fraud, may object on that ground. In re Bright (D. C. 1881) 9 Fed. 491. The fact of bribery being established, it is no defense to say that the assent of that creditor was not necessary. In re Dougless (D. C. 1882) 11 Fed. 403.

A promise by a debtor to pay his creditor "all he ever owed him when he got able," on condition that he would assent to his discharge in bankruptcy, constitutes a pecuniary consideration or obligation sufficient to defeat the right of the bankrupt to be discharged. In re Ekings (D. C. 1881) 6 Fed. 170. But this rule does not apply to a payment by the bankrupt of the fees of an attorney and of a notary and the register in making proofs of claims against his estate, though his only motive in so doing was to obtain the consent of the creditors to his discharge. In re Svenson (C. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 13,659.

If the bankrupt pays money to a creditor to induce him to forbear opposition to the discharge, or procures the buying up of the creditor's claim for the like purpose, and the creditor knows whence the money comes and its purpose, not only is the creditor guilty of the offense denounced by the statute, but the bankrupt also is guilty as a participant therein, and this is ground for refusing to grant the discharge. In re Luftig (D. C. 1905) 162 Fed. 322, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 773. And see In re Sanborn (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 397, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 428.

11. Fraudulent or preferential transfers.—The provision of this section requiring the refusal of a discharge to a bankrupt who has transferred, etc., any of his property, with intent to defraud creditors, is to be strictly construed, and a fraudulent conveyance of property will not affect his right to a discharge unless strictly within the statute. Ashley v. Robinson (1856) 29 Ala. 112, 65 Am. Dec. 387.

The making of such fraudulent conveyance is immaterial with respect to the bankrupt's discharge unless it was made within the four months before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy. In re Schickerling (C. C. A. 1913) 204 Fed. 592, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 312; In re Jacobs (D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 868, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 482; In re Brumbaugh (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 971, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 204; In re Wakefield (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 180, 31 Am. Bankr. Rep. 42; In re Hennebry (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 882. Otherwise in the case of an instrument which must be recorded to be effective, and which was recorded within the four months, though executed some time before. In re McKane (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 674, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 621.

To bar the discharge on this ground, there must have been a fraudulent intent on the part of the bankrupt. Pirvitz v. Pithan (C. C. A. 1912) 194 Fed. 403, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 621. An intention to dispose of his property in such a way as to keep it beyond the reach of his creditors is an intention to hinder, delay, and defraud them, and will bar the discharge. In re Nelson (D. C. 1909) 179 Fed. 320, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 37.

Where a bankrupt, within four months prior to the filing of a bankruptcy petition, sold his stock of merchandise, which was within the Rhode Island bulk sales act, and to avoid giving a list of creditors made oath that he had no creditors connected with his business, which was false, in an objection to his discharge on the ground that he had transferred his property with intent to defraud his creditors will be sustained. In re De Nomme (D. C. 1914) 214 Fed. 671.

A preferential payment or transfer of property, as distinguished from a fraudulent transfer, though it may be voidable in the bankruptcy proceedings, will not constitute ground for refusing the bankrupt's discharge. In re Friedrich (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 193, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 656; In re Bouck (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 453, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 378; In re Battle (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 741, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 40; In re Maher (D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 503, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 340. And see In re Steed (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 682, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 73.

The provision of Bankr. Act § 14b (4), making a transfer of property by a debtor, within four months prior to bankruptcy, with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors, ground for denying a discharge, includes two classes of transfers: First, those made with actual fraudulent intent; and, second, those where from the terms of the agreement, or the nature of the transaction itself, the fraudulent intent is presumed as an inference of law. But a bona fide transfer of property for a valuable consideration is not within the provision, although it may in fact hinder and delay creditors, or result in a preference; the statute recognizing the distinction between an in-defraud and an intent to pre-

:h latter is not made ground l of a discharge. In re Julius 914) 217 Fed. 3, 133 C. C. A.
R. A. 1915C, 89, reversing de-
C. 1913) 209 Fed. 371.

le and transfer by the mem-an insolvent mercantile part-within four months prior to cy proceedings against them, eir property for its full value poration organized by friends, e not creditors, for the pur-making the purchase, and the of the proceeds in the hands
:orney to be used in discharg-indebtedness as far as pos-thout preference, by payment o rata share to each creditor ld accept the same in com-of his claim, was not a transintent to hinder, delay, or de-editors, which barred the right rtners to a discharge. Id.

a broker pledges stock which hands, but which belongs to a
, as security for a loan to it is not a transfer of "his"
with intent to defraud cred-ch as to bar his discharge in cy. In re Jacob Berry & Co.
1906) 146 Fed. 623, 15 Am.
Rep. 360.

reement between a bankrupt vife, by which he undertook to certain property to her as a e, but which was void under of the state for want of power arties to contract with each d which was not accompanied actual transfer or removal of erty, which in fact passed into s of the trustee in bankruptcy, defeat the bankrupt's right to ge. In re Brown (D. C. 1905)
383, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 350.
re Hedley (D. C. 1907) 156
, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 409.

ts made to a creditor from ime, to enable the bankrupt to in business, and to induce the to continue supplying material usiness, and which do not re-assets available to creditors, raudulent in this sense. In re
D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 503, 15
kr. Rep. 786.

t of $4,500 by a bankrupt to within four months prior to cy in settlement of a debt for aned by her to him held not er or concealment made with hinder, delay, or defraud cred-as to bar a discharge on that
In re Marcus (1913) 203
121 C. C. A. 393, affirming or-
C. 1911) 192 Fed. 743.

y a bankrupt to his wife and previous to the bankruptcy, they may be voidable by the do not necessarily warrant sal of a discharge. In re C. C. 1882) 12 Fed. 431. But insolvent debtor, just before ruptcy, so manipulates his property as to get it into the possession and apparent ownership of his wife or children, it is generally such a fraudulent transfer or concealment as will prevent him from obtaining a discharge. In re Schenck (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 554, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 727; In re Skinner (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 190, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 163; In re Kamsler (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 194; In re Eldred (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 256, Fed. Cas. No. 4,328.

12. —— Conclusiveness of prior decision.—If the validity of a transfer of property by a bankrupt has previously been tried and determined in the bankruptcy proceeding, the decision will be conclusive on that question on subsequent opposition to his discharge. In re Miller (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 591, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 329.

If the rights of third persons as adverse claimants are involved, it is not proper to attempt their determination in such a collateral proceeding as the statutory hearing on the bankrupt's application for discharge. Fellows v. Freudenthal (1900) 102 Fed. 731, 42 C. C. A. 607, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 490.

The judgment of a state court, in a suit brought by the bankrupt's trustee, refusing to set aside a transfer of property made by the bankrupt as fraudulent, is conclusive on the creditors, and they cannot thereafter set up the same transfer as a ground of opposition to the discharge of the bankrupt. In re Tiffany (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 314, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 296; In re McGurn (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 743, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 459.

13. Creation of fiduciary, fraudulent, or tortious debts.—It is no ground for refusing a bankrupt's application for discharge that the creditor objecting thereto holds a judgment against him for willful and malicious injury to property, or a claim founded upon the fraud of the bankrupt, or for obtaining property by false pretenses, or for the embezzlement or defalcation of the bankrupt while acting as an officer or in any fiduciary capacity. Such debts will not be released by the discharge when granted, but they do not defeat the bankrupt's right to be discharged, as they are not among the enumerated grounds for refusing a discharge. In re Carmichael (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 594, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 815; In re Peacock (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 560, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 136; In re Gara (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 112, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 573; In re Rhutassel (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 597, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 697; In re Mussey (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 71, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 592; In re Black (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 493; In re Thomas (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 912, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 515; In re Lieber (D. C. 1899) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 21; In re Rosenfield (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 575, Fed. Cas. No. 12,058; In re Rathbone (D. C. 1868)

Fed. Cas. No. 11,580; In re Tallman (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 13,739; In re Elliot (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 110, Fed. Cas. No. 4,391; In re Tracy (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 298, Fed. Cas. No. 14,124.

If there are any other claims, though they may be inconsiderable in comparison with the nondischargeable debts, the discharge cannot be withheld. In re Brumbaugh (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 971, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 204.

In a case where the only debt scheduled against the bankrupt was a judgment of a state court, and, as the law then stood, it was doubtful whether or not it would be affected by the discharge, the court held that it had jurisdiction of the bankrupt's application, and would grant him a discharge if he was otherwise entitled to it, leaving the question as to its effect on the judgment to be determined elsewhere and in a more appropriate proceeding. In re Tinker (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 79, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 580.

14. Concealment of property.— Though there may have been an actual concealment of property by the bankrupt, it is not ground for refusing his discharge if it was not willful, but the result of mere accident or mistake. In re Conn (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 525, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 217; In re De Leeuw (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 408, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 418; In re Pierce (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 64, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 554; In re Boynton (D. C. 1882) 10 Fed. 277; In re Smith (C. C. 1871) 13 N. B. R. 256, Fed. Cas. No. 12,995; In re Scott (D. C. 1880) 11 Fed. 133. Failure of bankrupt to account for $385 received four years before bankruptcy, he having been working on a salary in the meantime and out of employment a part of the time, held not to justify the denial of a discharge. In re Miller (1914) 212 Fed. 920, 129 C. C. A. 440, reversing decree (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 170. Refusal of bankrupt to assign income of trust fund liable to creditors under Real Property Law N. Y. § 98, held not ground for denying a discharge. In re Buchanan (1914) 219 Fed. 492, 135 C. C. A. 204.

A fraudulent intent to conceal property is not alone sufficient ground for refusing a discharge, but there must be an actual concealment or withholding of assets of the estate. Vehon v. Ullman (1906) 147 Fed. 694, 78 C. C. A. 82, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 435. There is no concealment where the claim is openly made that the property in question does not belong to the bankrupt, but to another. In re Marsh (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 602, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 537. The concealment of title to the property may be urged in bar of the bankrupt's discharge, as well as the hiding from view of the property itself. In re Hussman (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 437, Fed. Cas. No. 6,951. Though the trustee may have actual knowledge that the bankrupt owns cer tain property which he has not liste in his schedule, it is none the less con cealed from the trustee if he does no know where the property is or how t find it. In re Beal (D. C. 1869). Fe Cas. No. 1,156.

The act of concealment may be con tinuous, and a bankrupt who hid prop erty from his creditors while insolven though more than four months befor the filing of the petition, is not entitle to his discharge if he kept the sam concealed until after his adjudicatio Kaufman v. United States (1914) 21 Fed. 613, 129 C. C. A. 149; In r James (C. C. A. 1910) 181 Fed. 47 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 288.

To constitute the offense of concea ing property in violation of section 2 (post, § 9613), the concealment mu have been made after the filing of a p tition, and must have been knowing and fraudulently made. In re Agne (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 650.

It is necessary that the property co cealed should have been property "b longing to his estate in bankruptcy and creditors objecting to the discharg must show that the property in que tion was of such a character that would constitute assets of the estate bankruptcy, that the bankrupt own it at the time of the adjudication, a that it was then in his possession, or least that it was then in such a situ tion that he could have claimed it f himself. Vehon v. Ullman (1906) 1 Fed. 694, 78 C. C. A. 82, 17 Am. Bank Rep. 435; In re Isaac Prager & S (D. C. 1905) 134 Fed. 1006, 13 A Bankr. Rep. 527; In re Fritchard (1 C. 1900) 103 Fed. 742, 4 Am. Bank Rep. 609; In re Locks (D. C. 190 104 Fed. 783, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 13 In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 46 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715. See In Fleishman (D. C. 1902) 120 Fed. 96 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 557. Property a quired after the adjudication belon to the bankrupt and not to the estat and therefore he is not bound to di close it. In re Parish (D. C. 1903) 1 Fed. 553, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 54 And the concealment of a claim again his wife on account of a gift made her several years before his bankrup cy, and which was valid as to him a all his creditors except one, who mig have maintained a suit to set it asid is not enough to forfeit the right to discharge. In re House (D. C. 190 103 Fed. 616, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 60

Where the bankrupt has property his possession and has the use of it his own, and willfully omits it from h schedule and keeps it from his truste it is no answer to a charge of concea ment thereof that the property belong of right to his assignee under a prev ous assignment under the state inso vency law. In re Beal (D. C. 186 Fed. Cas. No. 1,156.

If the bankrupt was a member of firm (not in bankruptcy) and has t possession of joint estate and s of the firm, he must disclose his individual trustee in bank-In re Beal (D. C. 1869) Fed.

. 1,156. So if he has mingled money with funds of an estate he is administrator, he must bankruptcy court a correct and le account of his affairs, so can be determined what propngs to the estate in bankrupt-until he does this his discharge vithheld. In re Walther (D. C.
5 Fed. 941, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep.

title to the property in question upon the validity of a certain mortgage and its foreclosure, stion will not be determined ly on the application for dis-but the discharge will not be until it shall have been deter-a proper proceeding. In re (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 428,
Bankr. Rep. 780.

the bankrupt, after having his schedules, delivered his checks to the trustee's son, ced them at the command of , it was held that he had not d them from his trustee. In (D. C. 1909) 174 Fed. 867, 23
nkr. Rep. 414.

not necessary to constitute the y ground for withholding the e that the concealment of propuld have been successful. It the less a concealment though erty is finally discovered by the and recovered for the benefit state. In re Quackenbush (D.
) 102 Fed. 282, 4 Am. Bankr.
.

bankrupt knowingly and fraudonceals assets from his trustee fense within section 29b (post, though he has disposed of it n order requiring payment to tee. In re Stern (D. C. 1914)
. 979.

ankrupt cannot obviate objecthe granting of his discharge, round of his having concealed
, by the fact that he listed perty on his schedule after it discovered by the trustee or itors. In re Sussman (D. C.
90 Fed. 111, 26 Am. Bankr.

nkrupt's interest in a business, s under a will or a trust, his in an insurance policy, or other n action, may constitute assets state, and he "conceals" such he keeps silence in relation to mits them from his schedule, lse evidence concerning them, es that they do not exist or do ng to him. In re Bacon (D. C.
05 Fed. 545, 30 Am. Bankr.
4; In re Cohen (D. C. 1912)
. 188, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 698; wne (D. C. 1903) 122 Fed. 313, Bankr. Rep. 284; In re Otto 1902) 115 Fed. 860, 8 Am.
Bankr. Rep. 305; In re Wood (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 972, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 572; In re Hammond (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 273, Fed. Cas. No. 5,999.

It is not technically a concealment of an asset if the bankrupt lists or discloses it, although he attempts to divert attention from it by pretending that it has only a nominal value, or assigns it a value much below its actual worth in the market. In re McBryde (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 686, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 729; In re Semmel (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 487, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 351.

It is a concealment of assets if the bankrupt conducts a business, of which he is the real owner, in the name of his wife or a relative, pretending himself to act only as agent or manager. In re Miller (1914) 212 Fed. 920, 129 C. C. A. 440; In re Freund (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 81, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 418; In re Welch (D. C. 1899) 100 Fed. 65, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 93; In re Rathbone (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 536, Fed. Cas. No. 11,583; In re Hill (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 431, Fed. Cas. No. 6,483; In re Rathbone (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 260, Fed. Cas. No. 11,581.

In order to establish a concealment of assets such as will defeat the bankrupt's right to a discharge, it must be shown that the property in fact belonged to him at the time of the bankruptcy. And if it had previously been transferred to another, the transfer being actual and not merely colorable and such as to place the property beyond the reach of the bankrupt, the bankrupt's omission of it from his schedule or his denial that he owns it is not a concealment of assets, although the transfer would be voidable at the suit of creditors or of the trustee. In re Hammerstein (1911) 189 Fed. 37, 110 C. C. A. 472, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 757; In re Dauchy (1904) 130 Fed. 532, 65 C. C. A. 78, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 511, affirming (D. C. 1903) 122 Fed. 688, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 527; Fields v. Karter (1902) 115 Fed. 950, 53 C. C. A. 432, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 351; In re Wermuth (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 1009, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 785.

If a pretended transfer was colorable only and not real, and the property continues to be held for the benefit of the bankrupt and subject to his control, or under a secret trust for him, or he retains a secret interest in it or use of it, it continues to be his property in such sense that his failure to disclose it or surrender it to the trustee will constitute a concealment of assets. In re Hagy (C. C. A. 1915) 220 Fed. 665; In re Graves (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 847, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 633; Hudson v. Mercantile Nat. Bank (1902) 119 Fed. 346, 56 C. C. A. 250, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 432; In re Wilcox (1900) 109 Fed. 628, 48 C. C. A. 567, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 362; In re Welch (D. C. 1899) 100 Fed. 65, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 93; In re Holstein (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 794, 8 Am.

Bankr. Rep. 147; In re Berner (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 268; In re Wakefield (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 180, 31 Am. Bankr. Rep. 42.

Where a voluntary bankrupt claimed to have no assets, but it appeared that he had been in business and had successfully disposed of three different concerns using his sister to hold the proceeds, he was not entitled to a discharge. In re Miller (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 170.

Where a bankrupt received $2,000 from his brokers shortly before bankruptcy, which amount he concealed and used for his own purposes and in the name of his wife, such concealment constituted ground for the denial of a discharge, whether the money was his or was borrowed from his brokers. In re De Mauriac (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 358.

The concealment by a bankrupt, during the four months preceding the filing of the petition, of the fact that a deed previously executed by him was a mortgage, is a concealment of property, which may defeat his discharge, under Bankr. Act, § 14b(4). In re White (D. C. 1915) 222 Fed. 688.

Facts and circumstances showing a fraudulent concealment of assets by a bankrupt, which will defeat his right to a discharge, must be proved and will not be deduced, as a matter of doubtful inference, from other facts and circumstances. In re Conn (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 525, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 217.

Where the established facts show a very large shrinkage or disappearance of assets within a short period, such assets being definitely shown to have existed, and the discrepancy being too great to be accounted for by the ordinary vicissitudes of business, it is a fair presumption that the bankrupt is concealing some or all of such assets, and this presumption he must overcome by giving a credible account of the loss or shrinkage, and if he fails to do so, it will be just cause for refusing to discharge him. In re Coppleman (D. C. 1913) 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 414; In re Schwartz (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 166, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 670; In re Simon & Sternberg (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 507, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 204; In re Jacobs & Verstandig (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 797, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 470; In re Boyden (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 991, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 269; In re Becker (1901) 112 Fed. 1020, 50 C. C. A. 666; In re Leslie (D. C. 1903) 119 Fed. 406, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 561; In re Cashman (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 67, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 326; In re Hoffman (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 979, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 331; In re Morgan (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 982, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 402; In re O'Gara (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 932, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 349; In re Grossman (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 507, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 510. Compare In re Lesser (1902) 114 Fed. 83, 52 C. C. A. 31, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 15. And see In re Allendorf (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 981, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 320.

15. Omissions in schedule and list of creditors.—If a bankrupt knowingly, intentionally, and dishonestly omits from his schedule of assets property which should have been listed therein and turned over to his trustee, and swears to the schedule thus fraudulently incomplete, he is guilty both of concealing property from his trustee and of making a false oath in a proceeding in bankruptcy, and on both grounds forfeits his right to a discharge. Osborne v. Perkins (1901) 112 Fed. 127, 50 C. C. A. 158, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 250; In re McCann (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 575, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 789; In re Guilbert (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 149, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 221; In re Breiner (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 155, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 684; In re Bullwinkle (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 364, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 756; In re Semmel (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 487, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 351; In re Lowenstein (D. C. 1899) 106 Fed. 51; In re Lewin (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 852, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 636; In re Gammon (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 312, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 482; In re Wood (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 972, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 572; In re Roy (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 400, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 37. This is the case where he makes a willfully false statement in his schedule that all his property has gone into the possession of a receiver appointed by a state court, when in fact he has property which he did not turn over to the receiver nor list in his schedule. In re Lesser (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 205, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 330.

The fact that the bankrupt amends his schedule and lists the omitted property, after the discovery of the fact that he has concealed assets and made a false oath, will not relieve him from the consequences of his original fault nor entitle him to a discharge. In re Breiner (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 155, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 684.

The rule applies only to the omission of property in which the creditors can claim an interest or which could be made available for the satisfaction of their claims through the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Winchester (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 505, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 227. And hence it is not ground for denying the discharge that the bankrupt failed to place any valuation on the property which he listed and claimed as exempt. In re Reed (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 920, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 286. Or did not specify a valuable gold watch as included in the "personal wearing apparel" which he claimed to be exempt. Sellers v. Bell (1899) 94 Fed. 801, 36 C. C. A. 502, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529. Or omitted a portion of his monthly salary as a public state officer which was earned but not at the time of filing the peti-

re Doherty (D. C. 1904) 135
, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 549. Or previously transferred by a ce which was valid as against ugh voidable at the suit of
. In re Hennebry (D. C. 1913) 882; In re Crenshaw (D. C.
Fed. 632, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep.
re Wakefield (D. C. 1913) 207
, 31 Am. Bankr. Rep. 42. Or hich he gave to his wife nine fore. In re Howell (D. C.
5 Fed. 594. Or property which reviously transferred to a cred-hom it had been pledged as ser a debt of equal or greater In re Webb (D. C. 1899) 98
, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 386.
the bankrupt omits from his a contract under which he was o receive money, though it was assigned to another, and was ssigned to the amount he owed nee, it being otherwise treated ankrupt, the assignee, and the rty thereto, as the bankrupt's this amounts to a false oath his discharge. In re Semmel 1902) 118 Fed. 487, 9 Am.
ep. 351.
subdivision b (4) of this sec-conveyance by the bankrupt rty was not absolute, but a ust existed, or if the convey-in fact a mortgage, the fail-port this interest by the bank-is schedule would be a fraudcealment under the act, which revent a discharge. In re (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 180. pt having purchased and paid tock of a corporation largely ng checks on funds on deposit in his own name and not havded the same in his schedules uptcy, it was no answer to an to his discharge for alleged ent of assets and because of d false oath to his schedule corporation was purchased funds of his wife. In re Dia-
C. 1913) 204 Fed. 137.

Knowledge and fraudulent
—The mere fact that the banktted from his schedule of aserty which he ought to have rein is not alone sufficient to ischarge. To constitute such e against the bankruptcy law arrant the court in refusing privilege of a discharge, it ther be made to appear that ssion was made with a clear ite knowledge on his part of ence of the property in quesof the nature of his right to it t in it, and for the fraudulent f keeping it from the knowlis trustee and the creditors enting its administration as a s estate in bankruptcy. Smith (1901) 111 Fed. 157, 49 C.
, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 4; In re Eaton (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 731, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 531; In re Slingluff (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 502; Fellows v. Freudenthal (1900) 102 Fed. 731, 42 C. C. A. 607, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 490; In re De Leeuw (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 408, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 418; In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715; In re Marsh (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 593; In re Parker (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 10,720; In re Burk (D. C. 1868) 3 N. B. R. 296, Fed. Cas. No. 2,156; In re Wyatt (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 288, Fed. Cas. No. 18,106; In re Tebbetts (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 13,817; Allen v. Hickling (1882) 11 Ill. App. 549.

17. —— Omission by mistake or by advice of counsel.—The omission of a bankrupt to include particular property in his schedule of assets will not be ground for refusing his application for discharge, where such omission was not caused by a fraudulent intent to conceal the property from his trustee, but was the result of a mistake of law or fact, or of an honest though erroneous belief that he had no available interest in the property. In re Morrow (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 574, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 263; In re Crenshaw (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 632, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 623; In re Freund (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 81, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 418; In re Huber, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 431; In re Finan (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 872; In re Boynton (D. C. 1882) 10 Fed. 277; In re Smith (C. C. 1871) 13 N. B. R. 256, Fed. Cas. No. 12,995; In re Scott (D. C. 1880) 11 Fed. 133; In re Woodward (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 18,001.

A discharge should not be refused because the schedule states that the bankrupt owns a half interest in certain property, when the truth is that he has a life interest in the whole of it, where he testifies that he did not know exactly what his interest was. In re Blalock (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 679, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266.

Bad faith will not be inferred because of slight understatements and overstatements of debts, which practically counteract each other. In re Miner (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 998, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 248.

The defense or excuse of mistake must be clearly made out, and cannot be accepted in the face of plain facts, where it is incredible that the omission could have been due to inadvertence. In re Royal (D. C. 1901) 112 Fed. 135, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 106.

It is permissible for the bankrupt to show, as negativing any fraudulent purpose on his part, that he acted under the advice of his counsel in omitting to list any particular item of property in his schedule. In re Stafford (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 127; Klein v. Powell (1909) 174 Fed. 640, 98 C. C. A. 394, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 494; In re Schofield (D. C. 1905) 147 Fed. 862, 15 Am.

Bankr. Rep. 824; In re Neely (D. C. 1904) 134 Fed. 667, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 407; In re Shenberger (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 978, 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 783. But to excuse the omission on this ground, it is necessary to show that the counsel's advice related to matter of law only, that there was at least some substantial reason in law to question the necessity of including the property in the schedule, that the bankrupt stated all the facts to his attorney fully and fairly, and that the advice was given and accepted in good faith. Remmers v. Merchants' Laclede Nat. Bank (1909) 173 Fed. 484, 97 C. C. A. 490, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 78; In re Breitling (1904) 133 Fed. 146, 66 C. C. A. 212, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 126; In re Alleman (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 693, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 745; In re Stoddart (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 486, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 762; In re Berner (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 268; In re Headley (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 684.

18. —— Omission of property without value.—The bankrupt should not be denied a discharge on account of the omission from his schedule of items of property which have no value, or could not be made to realize anything for the creditors, or which he honestly believes to be worthless. In re Le Claire (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 654, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 733; In re Dews (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 181, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 483; In re Bryant (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 789, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 114; Sellers v. Bell (1899) 94 Fed. 801, 36 C. C. A. 502, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529.

A fraudulent concealment of property or the making of a false oath cannot be predicated on the omission from the schedule of stocks or bonds of an insolvent or dissolved corporation. In re McCrea (C. C. A. 1908) 161 Fed. 246, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 412; In re Eaton (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 731, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 531. Or of debts due to the bankrupt from persons who cannot be made to pay. In re Pearce (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 10,873. Or a leasehold interest in realty under a yearly lease, where there is nothing to show that the use of the property is worth more than the rent. In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 571, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 344. Or an option to purchase leased premises under a lease which the bankrupt had surrendered. In re Kolster (D. C. 1906) 146 Fed. 138, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 52. Or a contract to purchase land, on which a payment equal only to the accrued interest had been made, and which the vendor had a right to cancel for nonperformance. In re Miner (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 998, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 248. Or a small amount of furniture, which eventually sold for $15, there being no fraudulent intent to conceal it, and the key to the room containing it having been turned over to the trustee. Baker v. Bishop-Babcock-Becker Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 220 Fed. 657.

It is no ground for refusing a discharge to a bankrupt that he failed to list property which was hypothecated or pledged for its full value, if he acted under the honest belief that, being so pledged, it was no longer his, or was not worth including. In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715; In re Hamilton (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 823, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 333; In re Adams (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 72, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 696.

The bankrupt may be excused for failing to list a small sum of money on deposit with a person who has a claim against him of equal or greater amount. In re Miner (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 998, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 248.

19. —— Omission of doubtful claims or assets.—If the right of the bankrupt to a particular item of property, or his interest in it, depends on the solution of doubtful questions of law, that is, if there is substantial reason in law to doubt whether the property should constitute an asset of his estate in bankruptcy or could be made available for creditors through the medium of the bankruptcy proceedings, and if, for this reason, the bankrupt omits to list it in his schedule, it cannot be said that his purpose in so doing was fraudulent, and therefore he should not be refused his discharge. In re McCrea (C. C. A. 1908) 161 Fed. 246, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 412; In re Brumbaugh (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 971, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 204; In re Countryman (D. C. 1903) 119 Fed. 639, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 572; In re Todd (D. C. 1901) 112 Fed. 315, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 770; In re McAdam (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 409, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 417; In re Freund (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 81, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 418; In re Webb (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 404, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 386; In re Dews (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 181, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 483.

Where the question whether the bankrupt's interest in his grandfather's estate was vested or contingent was difficult of solution, and the bankrupt had previously been advised by counsel that he had no interest in such estate on which he could raise money, his failure to schedule such interest as a part of his estate in bankruptcy should not preclude his right to a discharge. Woods v. Little (1905) 134 Fed. 229, 67 C. C. A. 157, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 742.

In another case, it appeared that a testator bequeathed a sum of money to trustees, in trust to pay the income to his wife during her life, and with power to her to dispose of the principal by will, and added that, in default of such disposition by her, "I give the said trust fund, upon her decease, to my own then surviving next of kin." After the death of the testator, his son was l bankrupt, and thereafter the 's wife died, having exercised er of appointment by bequeath-fund to the bankrupt uncondi-The bankrupt did not list this in his schedule of assets, nor surrender it to his trustee. It l that, in view of the doubtful s of law, whether the bank-nterest in the trust fund at the the adjudication was a vested such as would pass to his truswhether his title thereto, after ner's decease, was derived from or from the prior will of his t could not be said that he had gly and fraudulently" concealerty from his trustee, so as to his right to a discharge. In re e (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 703, 3

nkr. Rep. 700.

e of bankrupt to schedule inf trust fund liable to creditors Real Property Law N. Y. § 98, ground for denying discharge, of the doubt as to the trustee's such income. In re Buchanan
219 Fed. 492, 135 C. C. A. 204.

e a bankrupt has received a rporting to convey an interest and has acted upon it by ob-a loan secured by a mortgage interest, which is outstanding ime of the adjudication in bank-he has no right to omit the or the debt from his schedules theory that in fact the conveysted no interest in him, that be-atter to be determined by the and his entire omission of any of the property is ground for to grant him a discharge. In y (1904) 127 Fed. 538, 62 C. C.
11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 539.

— Omission of debts or cred-
The omission of creditors from edule of a bankrupt is not for refusing his discharge. In ck (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 679, Bankr. Rep. 266.

e a bankrupt at the time of his tion owed certain debts to his s, which were not scheduled erred to in a written statement obtain credit, the existence of ebts would not prejudice the t's right to discharge, provid-creditors would release the t from the debts or consent ey be scheduled nunc pro tunc.
Josephs (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed.

e a proposed voluntary bank-ho has no property except such xempt, borrows a small sum of to pay the fees and costs of his y, just before filing his peti-e is not required to list the so borrowed in his schedule of and his omission to do so is no of opposition to his application charge. Sellers v. Bell (1899)
94 Fed. 801, 36 C. C. A. 502, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529.

21. False oath or testimony.—It is statutory ground for refusing to discharge a bankrupt if he shall have "made a false oath in, or in relation to, any proceeding in bankruptcy." This offense may be committed by his making a material and intentionally false statement in his voluntary petition for adjudication, or in the poverty affidavit accompanying it. Sellers v. Bell (1899) 94 Fed. 801, 36 C. C. A. 502, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529. Or by swearing to a schedule of assets which is false, and known to be so, in respect to particular items of property, or which intentionally omits to mention property which should have been included. In re Herrman (1904) 136 Fed. 767, 69 C. C. A. 413, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 778; In re Goodman (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 287, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 570; In re Kamsler (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 194; In re Roy (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 400, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 37. Or by giving willful false testimony in the course of his examination before the referee, provided the evidence is material and relates to a subject which is a legitimate matter of inquiry on such examination. In re Luftig (D. C. 1905) 162 Fed. 322, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 773; In re Conroy (D. C. 1905) 134 Fed. 764, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 249; In re Kamsler (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 194.

Where a bankrupt, on examination before a special commissioner, falsely testified that he had never made a financial statement to any one, when in fact he had made a false financial statement to a commercial agency, he was guilty of making a false oath which was punishable by imprisonment under Bankr. Act 1898, § 29b2, which was ground for denial of a discharge under section 14b(1). In re Zoffer (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 936.

It is not enough to justify the refusal of a discharge that the bankrupt's testimony was evasive, misleading, or unsatisfactory, or that his behavior was disrespectful and contumacious. In re Cohen (D. C. 1907) 149 Fed. 908, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 84; In re Fanning (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 701, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 55.

That a bankrupt in the course of an extended examination made a misstatement concerning his want of knowledge of his insolvency at a particular time was insufficient to warrant a denial of a discharge on the ground that he made a false oath. In re Marcus (C. C. A. 1913) 203 Fed. 29.

Any pleading, verified and filed in the bankruptcy proceeding, may contain such a "false oath" as to forfeit the right to a discharge. But the verification of an answer by the bankrupt containing a false statement of fact, does not constitute the making of a false oath in this sense, where the answer was filed too late and was not in fact considered. In re Young (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 728, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 477.

While the perjury of a bankrupt in his testimony on proceedings for his discharge will not prevent the granting of the discharge, where the other evidence shows him to be entitled to it, such perjury is a contempt of court for which he may be punished. In re Kretsch (D. C. 1909) 172 Fed. 523, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 284. Compare In re Dews (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 549.

Where a petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed against a corporation, and one who was an officer of it and a stockholder in it gave testimony on the hearing of the petition, which was false, and afterwards he was himself adjudged bankrupt, it was held that his right to a discharge was not prejudiced by such false testimony. In re Blalock (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 679, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266.

Testimony given by the bankrupt in prior proceedings under the state insolvency law, even if materially false, cannot prejudice his right to a discharge, and this holds true even where such testimony is read into the record on the bankrupt's examination in the bankruptcy proceedings, where this is done by agreement of counsel, without the concurrence of the bankrupt and without his making any oath in respect to the truth of it. In re Goldsmith (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 570, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 234.

The falsity of an oath taken by the bankrupt does not affect his right to a discharge where it was not made in connection with the administration of his estate or in any way affecting such estate. Bauman v. Feist (1901) 107 Fed. 83, 46 C. C. A. 157, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 708. Or where the statement was not material to any issue in the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Chamberlain (D. C. 1910) 180 Fed. 304, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 37. False and evasive testimony concerning statement to mercantile agency held not immaterial, but to justify denial of discharge, though no creditor relied on the statement. In re Sheinberg (D. C. 1915) 223 Fed. 218.

The statute cannot be extended so as to embrace previous conduct or transactions which are merely fraudulent as to creditors, but not made criminal. Fellows v. Freudenthal (1900) 102 Fed. 731, 42 C. C. A. 607, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 490.

A false statement made by the bankrupt upon his examination, touching the existence of certain books of account, will not prevent his discharge if it appears that such statement was against his own interest, and apparently without motive, and the circumstances indicate that it was innocently and not willfully made. In re Warne (C. C. 1882) 12 Fed. 431.

To bar his right to a discharge, the oath or testimony of the bankrupt must have been knowingly and fraudulently false. Kentucky Nat. Bank v. Carle (1904) 127 Fed. 686, 62 C. C. A. 41 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 119; In re Hal (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 856, 31 An Bankr. Rep. 88.

The false oath or testimony whic will deprive a bankrupt of his right t a discharge must be such as would sus tain an indictment for perjury. In r Strouse (D. C. 1899) 2 Nat. Bank News, 64. But if this condition is ful filled, it is immaterial that the bank rupt could not be convicted of perjur on account of the protection given t him by another provision of the statut In re Gaylord (1901) 112 Fed. 668, 5 C. C. A. 415, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1 In re Dow's Estate (D. C. 1900) 10 Fed. 889, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 400; I re Leslie (D. C. 1903) 119 Fed. 406, Am. Bankr. Rep. 561. But compar In re Marx (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 67 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 521; In re Loga (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 876, 4 An Bankr. Rep. 525.

The objecting creditors must sustai the burden of proving that the oath statement was not only false, but wa knowingly and intentionally so. Ba man v. Feist (1901) 107 Fed. 83, 4 C. C. A. 157, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 70 In re Gaylord (1901) 112 Fed. 668, 5 C. C. A. 415, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1; I re Slingluff (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 50 In re Marcus (C. C. A. 1913) 203 Fe 29, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 176.

A bankrupt's discharge should not b denied because of an alleged false oat where he corrected his testimony b fore the close of his examination. I re Doyle (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 24 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 102. CONTR In re Marcus (D. C. 1911) 192 Fe 743, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 164.

22. Refusal to testify.—The bank rupt's refusal to answer material que tions approved by the court will b ground for refusing his discharge, a though his refusal was based on claim of his constitutional privile against incriminating himself. In Dresser (1906) 146 Fed. 383, 76 C. A. 655, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 561; In Schwartz & Co. (D. C. 1912) 201 Fe 166, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 670.

Refusal of a bankrupt to answer m terial questions on his examination b fore creditors will bar his discharg although he subsequently offers to a swer the particular questions or a swers the same or similar questions the hearing of specifications of obje tion to his discharge. In re Weinr (1907) 153 Fed. 363, 82 C. C. A. 43 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 387; In Schwartz & Co. (D. C. 1912) 201 Fe 166, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 670.

23. Obtaining credit by false stat ments.—A transfer of corporate sto to a bankrupt for which he gave h notes secured by a pledge of the stoc and a further agreement by the sell to extend the time for payment of the corporation then due, with ional security except the bank-romise to pay the debt, constiobtaining of property on crede bankrupt, and, where it was by a materially false statement g made by the bankrupt as to cial ability, is a bar to his dis-

In re Wylly (D. C. 1913) 210
4.

otaining of a surety or indemni-by means of false financial ats is not the obtaining of y" on credit, within the mean-his section. In re Tanner (D.
192 Fed. 572, 27 Am. Bankr.
5.

n statements made by a bank-procure credit will not bar a e, unless there is substantial that money or property has ained on the faith thereof, and wn that the statements were in e when made. In re McLellan 1913) 204 Fed. 482.

not necessary that a statement a bankrupt to obtain goods on hould have been made or the elivered within four months prie bankruptcy, in order to bar charge. In re Simon (D. C.
01 Fed. 1004, 29 Am. Bankr.
8. A false financial statement ghteen months before a sale of the bankrupt cannot be con-a proximate cause of the sale, entitle the seller to object to nkrupt's application for dis-on account of it. In re Braver-
. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 863, 28 Am.
Rep. 513; In re Allendorf (D.
) 129 Fed. 981, 12 Am. Bankr.
0. An objecting creditor could up the claim that it relied on atements as to the bankrupt's l condition made by the banka commercial agency three after goods have been sold and dit extended. In re Main (D.
) 205 Fed. 421.

charge will not be refused where own that the creditor first remake the loan to the bankrupt the latter asked for, and for e submitted the alleged false nt, and afterwards made the security given at the time and e then deemed sufficient. In re (D. C. 1905) 141 Fed. 463, 15
nkr. Rep. 534.

e a bank loaned money to the t on certain warehouse receipts teral, but only after a false statement had been presented, ppears that the loan would not een made without such state-e loan was a credit within the of this provision. In re Sav-1913) 209 Fed. 830, 126 C. C.

— Intention or knowledge of
-To bar a bankrupt's discharge, statement made to obtain prop-credit must have been false to his knowledge and made with an intention to deceive. Gilpin v. Merchants' Nat. Bank (1908) 165 Fed. 607, 91 C. C. A. 445, 20 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1023, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 429; In re Josephson (D. C. 1916) 229 Fed. 272; In re Cloutier Bros. (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 569; In re Simon (D. C. 1913) 201 Fed. 1004; Hamlin v. J. M. Radford Grocery Co. (Tex. Civ. App. 1915) 182 S. W. 716. Or it must have been either knowingly false or made so recklessly as to warrant a finding that the bankrupt acted fraudulently in making it. In re Collins (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 120, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 688.

Where a bankrupt made a full disclosure of his financial condition to an objecting creditor's agent, and depended on him to enter the facts according to the disclosure, and signed the statement so made without reading it, it was not "false," so as to bar the bankrupt's discharge, though it was inaccurate. International Harvester Co. of America v. Carlson (1914) 217 Fed. 736, 133 C. C. A. 430.

If the statement was made for the purpose of obtaining credit and brought about that result, and was false in fact, it is none the less a bar to the bankrupt's discharge because the inaccuracy was due to a mistake made in good faith. In re Aldridge (D. C. 1909) 168 Fed. 93; In re Shaffer (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 724, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 147. Or because it was made and given as a mere matter of form and with no actual intention to defraud. In re Arenson (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 609, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 113; In re Terens (D. C. 1909) 172 Fed. 938, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 895.

Intent to deceive being included in "false," within this section, barring right to discharge of bankrupt obtaining credit on false statements, his signing as president statements of financial condition of a corporation, wholly relying on advice of his financial adviser, will not have the effect. In re Stafford (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 127.

The word "false," as used, in this section, means false, coupled with an intention to deceive, "intentionally untrue," and was not satisfied by a financial statement made by the bankrupt while away from home, omitting $4,300 of his debts and also assets of an equal or greater amount. Franklin v. Monning Dry Goods Co. (1914) 217 Fed. 929, 133 C. C. A. 601.

25. —— By whom false statements made.—A false statement in writing of the assets and liabilities of a bankrupt firm, made by the firm's managing agent, to obtain credit for the firm, held available to bar a discharge in bankruptcy of the members of the firm. In re Schwartz & Co. (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 166; In re Cloutier Bros. (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 569.

Statement of firm to mercantile agency held the statement of the firm, though made by the bookkeeper and not on the personal investigation of either copartner. In re Cloutier Bros. (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 569.

Where a bankrupt knew that a financial statement was being prepared by his bookkeeper to be used as the basis of credit from a bank, as he was authorized to do, and copies of the statement, which was materially false with reference to matters concerning which the bankrupt was entirely familiar were called to his attention, though he testified that he left such work to the bookkeeper and other office clerks and relied implicitly on them, and thought the statement was correct such testimony was untrue or he was recklessly negligent; and he being bound by the acts of the bookkeeper in preparing and submitting such statement was therefore not entitled to a discharge under the provision that a bankrupt shall not be entitled to a discharge if he has obtained money on credit on a materially false statement in writing to the person from whom such credit is obtained. In re Savarese (1913) 209 Fed. 830, 126 C. C. A. 554.

A false financial statement will bar the bankrupt's discharge though it was filled out by a representative of the creditor from figures given by the bankrupt. In re Puschkin (D. C. 1911) 183 Fed. 882, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 742.

Where one member of a firm makes a false statement of its assets and liabilities, for the purpose of obtaining credit, this will prevent the discharge of that partner and also of the firm, but not of a partner who did not know of it and took no part in the fraud. Ragan, Malone & Co. v. Cotton & Preston (1912) 200 Fed. 546, 118 C. C. A. 640, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 597; In re Neyland & McKeithen (D. C. 1910) 184 Fed. 144, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 879; In re Josephson (D. C. 1916) 229 Fed. 272.

The effect of false statements made by a bankrupt to obtain credit, as barring his right to a discharge, is not different because the credit was obtained by a corporation of which the bankrupt owned a majority of the stock. In re Dresser & Co. (D. C. 1905) 144 Fed. 318, affirmed (1906) 145 Fed. 1021, 74 C. C. A. 680.

A materially false financial statement made by a bankrupt as to the solvency of a corporation of which he was president, on the faith of which he obtained $15,000 from a bank on notes of the corporation indorsed by him, the proceeds of which he largely used himself, held a sufficient basis for the denial of his discharge. In re Bleyer (C. C. A. 1914) 215 Fed. 896, affirming order In re Bleyer (D. C. 1913) 210 Fed. 391.

26. —— To whom false statemen made.—For the purpose of barring bankrupt's right to discharge, a fal financial statement is made to the pe son furnishing property on credit in r liance on such statement, when it w given to an agent for the purpose using it in obtaining property for t bankrupt, and if its contents were co municated by the agent to such pe son. In re Dresser (1906) 146 Fe 383, 76 C. C. A. 655, 16 Am. Ban Rep. 561.

A financial statement made by t bankrupt to a mercantile or comme cial agency, in response to its reque therefor or in answer to its inquiri though materially false, is not a bar his discharge, where creditors mere relied on his rating thus obtained a furnished him goods on credit, b without direct communication with t bankrupt himself. In re Russ (1910) 176 Fed. 253, 100 C. C. A. 7 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 850; Novick v. P. Reed & Co. (1911) 192 Fed. 20, Am. Bankr. Rep. 521; In re Fost (D. C. 1910) 186 Fed. 254, 24 A Bankr. Rep. 368; In re Steed (D. 1901) 107 Fed. 682, 6 Am. Bankr. Re 73; In re Zoffer (C. C. A. 1914) 2 Fed. 936; In re Kretz (D. C. 191 212 Fed. 784. False statement of a sets and liabilities by a merchant a commercial agency merely to conti ue a business rating will not bar discharge in bankruptcy. In re Sim (D. C. 1913) 201 Fed. 1004, 29 A Bankr. Rep. 805. But such a stat ment, made to a commercial agency, r citing that it is made as a basis f credit with the associate members such agency, and which is communica ed to members, who extend credit the faith of it, is equivalent to o made directly to them. In re Pinc (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 621, 17 A Bankr. Rep. 331. And the result the same where the bankrupt, havi made such a statement to a merca tile agency, refers to it in his applic tion for credit with a particular cre itor, and is granted credit in relian on it. In re Cloutier Bros. (D. 1915) 228 Fed. 569; In re Kyte (1 C. 1909) 174 Fed. 867, 23 Am. Bank Rep. 414.

27. —— Falsity in substance of stat ments.—A "materially false statemen made by a bankrupt, which is grou for the denial of a discharge, is a d rect statement, either negative or po itive, which is false, and is not sati fied by blanks left under a schedule liabilities in a statement made by t bankrupt. International Harvester C of America v. Carlson (1914) 217 Fe 736, 133 C. C. A. 430.

The falsity of a statement which wi bar a bankrupt's right to discharge ms consist in a claim of assets which d not exist, or which, though real, a roperty of the bankrupt. In le (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 782, ankr. Rep. 380. Or in a gross ate of the value of land or perty. In re Ellerbee (D. C. 8 Fed. 952, 29 Am. Bankr.

rupt not having objected to a a special commissioner that emoved goods had not been be goods of the bankrupt, he resist an objection to his dis- r obtaining credit on a mate- se statement on the ground he value of such goods were his other assets, it would t the statement was not ma- false. In re Nadel (D. C. 1 Fed. 767.

rially false statement, made to operty on credit, will bar a s right to discharge, where ty consists in the omission, ent, or understatement of his n re Waite (D. C. 1915) 223 ; In re Josephson (D. C. 9 Fed. 272; In re Miller (D. 192 Fed. 730, 27 Am. Bankr. ; In re Augspurger (D. C. 1 Fed. 174, 25 Am. Bankr. In re Brener (D. C. 1907) 930, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep.

o, to obtain credit, made false s as to his financial condition, by concealed the fact that he lessly insolvent, was guilty a false statement, barring his in bankruptcy, though sub- the concealed debts were paid ed, and though he believed debtors would not press him ent. Josephs v. Powell & (1914) 213 Fed. 627, 130 C. , reversing order In re Jos- C. 1913) 205 Fed. 548.

two bankers in the same in the habit of "clearing" or their accounts against each the close of each day's busi- debtor bank for the day giv- t on a third bank, and num- uch drafts drawn by one of rs (the bankrupt in this case) provided for, although he had in the hands of the drawee e of making the drafts, the the last two drafts, so drawn vas insolvent, are dishonored, make them "materially false s in writing" given for the obtaining property on credit. v. Harvey (1909) 174 Fed. . C. A. 420, 23 Am. Bankr.

clearly shown that any one of in the bankrupt's financial was materially false, though y be open to dispute or ques- may be successfully defend- he plain duty of the court to ischarge. In re Darevski (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 288, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 571.

28. Failure to keep books of account. —To bar a bankrupt's discharge, it is necessary that his omission to keep books or accounts should have been due to a wish to conceal his financial condition from his creditors and in pursuance of an intent to do so. In re Brockman (D. C. 1908) 168 Fed. 1015, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 251; In re Keefer (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 885.

The fact that the bankrupt kept no books of account will not warrant a refusal of his discharge where the business in which he was engaged was such that ordinarily books of account would not be kept. In re Corn (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 143, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 478. Or where the bankrupt was an employé and not engaged in any business of his own. In re McCrea (C. C. A. 1908) 161 Fed. 246, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 412. Or where, for several years before, he had not been engaged in any business in which the keeping of books would be necessary or appropriate. Sellers v. Bell (1899) 94 Fed. 801, 36 C. C. A. 502, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529. Or where he was a farmer and not a business man, and showed entire willingness to give evidence as to facts and transactions alleged to constitute a concealment of assets. In re Marsh (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 593. Or where the bankrupt was a building contractor in a small way and had never kept any books while engaged in that business. In re Tanner (D. C. 1911) 192 Fed. 572, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 615; In re Arnold (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 75.

The failure to keep proper books of account in a business which had been entirely closed out before the bankruptcy, there being no debts or assets arising out of such business, will not prevent a discharge. In re Friedberg (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 302, Fed. Cas. No. 5,116; In re Keach (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 7,629. But in this situation, the bankrupt must show that everything in relation to the discontinued business had been so fully ended that no account therein can in any way affect the interests of his creditors at the time of his bankruptcy. Tyler v. Angevine (C. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 14,306.

The sale of firm assets to a new firm composed of the same members and one other, without any entry of the transaction on the books of the old firm, is a failure to keep books within the meaning of the bankruptcy act. In re Colcord (D. C. 1880) Fed. Cas. No. 2,970a.

A bankrupt, who sold for cash lumber not paid for shortly before the bankruptcy, and failed to keep any record of the disposition of the proceeds, held to be denied a discharge. In re Sims (D. C. 1914) 213 Fed. 992.

Where the bankrupt fails to enter on his books a transfer of property made about the time when his affairs became embarrassed, it is cause for refusing a discharge. In re Grieves (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 5,809. Or a transfer of his business to his wife, which is thereafter supposed to be continued by her, but with no visible difference in the conduct of it. In re Bemis (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 672, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 36. Or a sale of his stock of goods in bulk for about half its cost, and under circumstances indicating haste and secrecy. In re Morgan (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 982, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 402.

A discharge must be denied where the bankrupt mingled his wife's money and his own and deposited it all in a bank in his wife's name and kept no account or record to show how much of it was his. Bragassa v. St. Louis Cycle (1901) 107 Fed. 77, 46 C. C. A. 154, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 700. And where there was a very great shrinkage of the bankrupt's assets, and his books entirely failed to show what had become of his property. In re Brod (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 1011, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 426, affirmed (1909) 173 Fed. 1019, 97 C. C. A. 667.

The mere fact that the partners in the bankrupt firm sometimes drew out for personal use equal sums, without entering the same on the books, is not enough to show an intention to conceal their financial condition. In re Mackenzie (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 114, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 605.

A merely temporary and accidental omission in good faith and for a reasonable time to make the proper entries would not be a failure to keep the books, although a cessation to keep them, on purpose, or for an unreasonable length of time, would be. In re Hammond (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 5,999; In re Burgess (C. C. 1855) 3 N. B. R. 196, Fed. Cas. No. 2,153.

That a bankrupt kept no books except a cash book and a check book in which the entries had been made by a young woman who acted as his clerk, and who, after the bankruptcy, could not be located as a witness, was not sufficient to sustain an objection to his discharge on the ground of a failure to keep books. In re Mintzer (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 647, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 743.

Where the books of a firm were kept by a competent bookkeeper, who was not interfered with by either member of the firm, and were not so kept as to conceal the bankrupt's financial condition, the fact that they were inaccurate on account of misunderstanding, inadvertence, or mistake was insufficient to bar a discharge. In re Marcus (C. C. A. 1913) 203 Fed. 29.

A bankrupt residing in New York, and being a member of a firm doing business in Michigan, is not prevented from obtaining his discharge either by the failure of the firm to keep proper books of account or by his neglect to see that proper books were kept. In re Garrison (1906) 149 Fed. 178, 79 C. C. A. 126, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 831.

A bankrupt, who had intrusted the entire conduct of his business to an agent, may be denied a discharge for the agent's failure to keep books with intent, in which the bankrupt did not participate, to conceal the condition of the business. In re Janavitz (1915) 219 Fed. 876, 135 C. C. A. 546.

Where the bankrupt did business through a corporation which he owned and controlled, his failure to keep books, either individually or through the corporation, so as to show his business transactions, will constitute a good objection to his discharge. In re Berger (D. C. 1912) 200 Fed. 325, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 712.

29. Destruction, mutilation, or concealment of books.—Destruction or concealment of books of account, to constitute ground of objection to a bankrupt's discharge, must appear to have been done by the bankrupt himself, or at least with his knowledge and connivance. In re Brice (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 114, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 355.

A bankrupt's discharge will not be barred by the fact that the account books of a corporation for which he was bookkeeper, and in which he had no interest, had been mutilated before they came into the possession of the corporation. Bauman v. Feist (1901) 107 Fed. 83, 46 C. C. A. 157, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 703.

Where a debtor has kept books of account or records of his business carried on before the enactment of the bankruptcy law, their destruction or concealment, after the passage of the act, will be ground for refusing his discharge, if done with the fraudulent intent denounced by the statute. In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715.

The mutilation of books of account, either by tearing out leaves or by changing the entries, may constitute a "destruction" or a "concealment" of them, according to the circumstances. In re Mendelsohn (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 119, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 103. Such a mutilation may be explained, and condoned if done without any fraudulent intent. In re Nooman (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 267, Fed. Cas. No. 10,291.

Where it appears that erasures in the bankrupt's books arose from errors in the original entries, which were corrected by erasing the figures and substituting the correct ones therefor, and there was no suggestion of a fraudulent intent, a discharge will not be refused because of such erasures. In bankrupt testifies that he does where his books of account n they are in fact in the cus- ne of his creditors, where he em to be and where he has them, he is guilty of conceal- In re Kamsler (D. C. 1899) 194. As also where he first ving kept any books, and then, estigation has shown their ex- produces only one, and that most important. In re Mc- (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 783, ankr. Rep. 732.

lel (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. Cas. No. 490.

harge was granted where the of the bankrupt was that, ne of his failure, thinking the re of no further value to him, ng no place to keep them, he lying in the store and sup- y had been lost or mislaid in y unknown to him. In re D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 kr. Rep. 715. And in a case e books were in a safe in the en the sheriff levied, and the said he had never seen the nce and did not know what ne of them. In re Stark (D. 96 Fed. 88, 2 Am. Bankr. And in another case, where s had been turned over to a n-law when the latter bought ness, and no effort was made m as a witness or require the n of the books. In re Shorer 99) 96 Fed. 90, 2 Am. Bankr.

harge was refused in a case e books were needed to ex- arge shrinkage of assets, and rupts had turned them over litor along with the stock in on a bill of sale, but never for the books nor made any recover them. In re Ablo- C. 1900) 99 Fed. 81, 3 Am. ep. 586. And in a case where rupt testified that his wife the books, but that they could be found. In re Wiedmann 911) 188 Fed. 684, 26 Am. ep. 697.

struction by a bankrupt, who books of account, of his can- cks and stubs shortly before ruptcy and when insolvent, er the evidence a destruction ds" with intent to conceal his condition which debarred him right to a discharge under n b (2), as amended by Act 03. In re Hodge (D. C. 1913) 824, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 522. arge should be refused where rupt kept no accounts at all in loose memoranda of sales, estroyed these. In re Hirsch- . C. 1912) 194 Fed. 562, 27 kr. Rep. 701.

- Intent to conceal financial —If a bankrupt's failure to keep books, or their destruction or concealment, was with an intent to conceal his financial condition, it is not necessary to show, in order to bar his discharge, that such intent was also fraudulent. In re Newbury & Dunham (1913) 209 Fed. 195, 126 C. C. A. 207; In re Hodge (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 824, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 522; In re Hanna (C. C. A. 1909) 168 Fed. 238, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 843.

To justify the denial of a discharge to a bankrupt, it is necessary to show that his failure to keep books, or his destruction or concealment of them, was with intent to conceal his financial condition. The mere failure of the bankrupt to keep any books is not enough. In re Brown (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 356, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 73. Nor is it enough to show that the books have disappeared. In re Phillipps (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 844, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 542. Or that they were kept in a negligent or careless manner. In re Haskell (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 301, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 914. Or that the true state of the bankrupt's affairs or his real financial condition cannot be ascertained from the books as kept. In re Brice (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 114, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 355; In re Lafleche (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 307, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 483.

It is necessary to show that the failure to keep books, or their destruction or concealment, or the manner of keeping them resulted from the bankrupt's intention to use this means of concealing his financial condition. Van Ingen v. Schophofen (1904) 129 Fed. 352, 64 C. C. A. 22, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 24; In re Allendorf (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 981, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 320; In re Idzall (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 314, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 741; In re Carmichael (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 594, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 815; In re Spear (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 779, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 617; In re Boasberg, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 133.

Where a transaction alleged to have been fraudulent was fully entered on the books, although the entries were made to deceive the general creditors, yet if they were not made with an intent to falsify the books, the particular intention denounced by the statute is not present. In re Hamilton (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 823, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 333.

If the bankrupt meant to conceal his financial condition, and for that reason kept no books, it is immaterial what the actual effect on creditors may have been. In re Schachter (D. C. 1909) 170 Fed. 683, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 389.

Objecting creditors must assume the burden of proving an intent on the part of the bankrupt to conceal his financial condition by failing to keep books of account or by destroying or concealing them. In re Forth (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 951, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 185; In re Shertzer (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 706, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 699.

Such intent may be proved by the bankrupt's own admissions. In re Feldstein (1902) 115 Fed. 259, 53 C. C. A. 479, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 160.

Proof of various circumstances supporting the theory that the bankrupt intended to conceal his financial condition, or all pointing to such an intent as the only explanation of his conduct, will raise a presumption that such an intent existed, and this will justify the refusal of a discharge unless the facts are satisfactorily explained by the bankrupt. In re Weston (1913) 206 Fed. 281, 124 C. C. A. 345; In re Janavitz (1915) 219 Fed. 876, 135 C. C. A. 546; In re Shrimer (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 794; In re Linker (D. C. 1914) 222 Fed. 173; McKibbon, Driscoll & Dorsey v. Haskell (1912) 198 Fed. 639, 117 C. C. A. 343, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 588; In re Alvord (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 236, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 264; In re Feldstein (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 794, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 458; In re Studebaker (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 945, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 205; In re Kenyon (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 658, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 527; In re Cashman (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 67, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 326; In re Morgan (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 982, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 402.

Where the bankrupt was a dealer in pianos, and his books showed all receipts from customers who had taken pianos on lease or conditional sale or time sales, but not receipts for pianos sold for cash, and his explanation was that he did not want his salesmen to know that he was selling pianos at cost for cash, held, that no "intent to conceal his financial condition" had been established, for concealment can exist only when it obtains with reference to persons entitled to know the facts. In re Barthier (D. C. 1910) 188 Fed. 394.

It was held a reasonable excuse for failure to enter certain loans on the bankrupt's books that he was afraid that, if the objecting creditor knew that he got money outside, he would close him up, whereas the bankrupt hoped that he could work along from season to season and eventually pay his debts. Van Ingen v. Schophofen (1904) 129 Fed. 352, 64 C. C. A. 22, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 24.

A discharge should not be refused where it appeared that the bankrupt had not kept such books or records as would be sufficient to disclose his true financial condition, but that his system or method of keeping his accounts, incomplete and insufficient as it was, had been persisted in by him during the whole time he had been in business (about nine years) and had not been in any respect changed after the passage of the present bankruptcy act. In re Idzall (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 314, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 741.

A bankrupt is not entitled to a discharge where he admittedly destroy his books of account with intent to c ceal the record of his business, thou he testified that his motive was to stroy evidence that might have be used in a criminal prosecution agai him for violating a state statute. In Wolf (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 543, Am. Bankr. Rep. 70.

It is proper to refuse a dischar where the bankrupt concealed or stroyed his books in order to thwart investigation into his financial con tion. Ablowich v. Stursberg (190 105 Fed. 751, 45 C. C. A. 31, 5 A Bankr. Rep. 403. Or where he stroyed them when he was preparing file a petition in bankruptcy, and books were material to a proper und standing of the state of his affairs. re Conley (D. C. 1902) 120 Fed. 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 496.

A bankrupt's omission to make pr er entries in his books is not excu by his saying that he thought it unn essary for his creditors to know t he was getting money from his wi In re Koelle (D. C. 1909) 171 F 257, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 515.

31. —— Contemplation of bankru cy.—Under the provision of the Ba ruptcy Act for the discharge of a ba rupt unless he has, with intent to c ceal his financial condition, destroy concealed, or failed to keep books account or records from which s condition might be ascertained, the f ure to keep such books of account w intent to conceal his financial conditi prevents a discharge, though the ba rupt's intent was not fraudulent, a though his acts were not done in c templation of bankruptcy. In re L ker (D. C. 1914) 222 Fed. 173.

32. —— What are proper books account.—The question, whether or the bankrupt has kept proper books account, is in every case a question evidence, and it depends largely up the nature and extent of the busine which he has carried on. In re Ne man (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 302, F Cas. No. 10,175.

If a competent accountant can, fr an examination of the books produc and in the possession of the trust determine the true financial conditi of the debtor, they are sufficient justify granting him a discharge. In Gay (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 5,27 In re Bellis (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. N 1,275; In re Schumpert (D. C. 187 Fed. Cas. No. 12,491; In re Bartenba (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 1,068; re Vernia (D. C. 1880) 5 Fed. 723; re Frey (D. C. 1881) 9 Fed. 376; re Graves (D. C. 1885) 24 Fed. 55 In re Simon (D. C. 1913) 201 F 1004, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 808.

The law does not require that t bankrupt shall have kept any particul kind of books, or that his books sh have been kept according to any speci mode or system of bookkeeping, or scientific and approved mannly that they shall disclose l condition. In re Simon (D.

01 Fed. 1004, 29 Am. Bankr.
In re Frey (D. C. 1881) 9
In re Idzall (D. C. 1899)
14, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 741; mberlain (D. C. 1903) 125
11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 95; In hy (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas.

bankrupt stockbrokers kept dividual accounts of custom-ir general ledger by number, by the name of the customer, kept other records, such as instruction or powers of atm which such accounts might identified, it cannot be said had failed to keep books of om which their financial conld be ascertained. In re A.
& Co. (1913) 204 Fed. 63,
A. 377, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep.

bankrupt's stock consisted a stock of goods which he had ver from a former business, artners in the new business ble to agree on the discount de from the cost price, the nch stock were valued at cost wn in lead pencil in the ino that by making a proper rom the items so entered, the s of the firm at any particuould be determined, held, that to take stock and inventory of all the assets at the end ear did not show that the ks were improperly kept for se of concealing its financial
In re Marcus (C. C. A.
Fed. 29, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep.

nistakes in the books of a will not prevent the granting arge. In re Winsor (D. C.
N. B. R. 152, Fed. Cas. No.
or the fact that the books, n in charge of a competent r, were inaccurate on account erstanding, inadvertence, or In re Marcus (C. C. A.
Fed. 29, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep.
on account of obscurities l explanation, when they are plained. In re Townsend (D.
Fed. 559. But if the books lligible, and the intent to conde out, a discharge cannot be the bankrupt. In re Mackay 70) 4 N. B. R. 66, Fed. Cas.

fy the requirements of the law, a tradesman must gen-p an invoice or stock book.
ite (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R.
Cas. No. 17,532. But the n invoice book will not pre-discharge where he has so his invoice bills that a comunt of all goods received by e made out from them. In
D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 390,

Fed. Cas. No. 11,639. See In re Josephson (D. C. 1916) 229 Fed. 272. The failure to keep a cash book may be a bar to the bankrupt's discharge, if the consequence is that it is impossible to determine the state of his affairs. In re Bellis (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 1,275. But not where cash receipts and payments may be shown from other books. In re Hannahs (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 6,032. As from a bank book and an account book of receipts and expenditures. In re Marsh (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 297, Fed. Cas. No. 9,109.

Books showing only the aggregate monthly purchases and sales are not proper books of account. In re Anketell (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 268, Fed. Cas. No. 394. And so, where the books of a firm doing an extensive business do not show the state of accounts between the partners, they are not entitled to a discharge. In re Jorey (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 7,530.

A custom of keeping no proper books, but making entries of various transactions on as many slips of paper, which are not elsewhere recorded or otherwise co-ordinated, has generally been regarded as not enough to satisfy the statute. In re Hammond (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 5,999; In re Perry (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 10,999; In re Hunt (D. C. 1886) 26 Fed. 739. But a mere pocket memorandum book may be a sufficient "record" to disclose the bankrupt's financial condition. In re Howard (1910) 180 Fed. 399, 103 C. C. A. 545, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 841. Though not if it is so loosely kept that he himself cannot tell from it the amount of his business or the particulars of his debts. In re Newman (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 10,175; In re Garrison (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 5,254. And the practice of entering transactions of a particular kind only in a private memorandum book, always carried by the bankrupt himself and shown to no one, is evidence of an intent to conceal his financial condition. In re Pomerantz & Hopkins (1909) 168 Fed. 444, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 857; In re Feldstein (1902) 115 Fed. 259, 53 C. C. A. 479, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 160.

IV. APPLICATION FOR DISCHARGE AND PROCEEDINGS THEREON

33. Time of application.—An objection by a creditor that the petition for discharge was prematurely filed cannot be waived by him, since the court is bound, for the protection of all the creditors, to see that all the statutory conditions of granting the discharge are fulfilled. In re Wheeler (D. C. 1881) 5 Fed. 299.

Under the provision of this section that a bankrupt may file his application for discharge "after the expiration of one month and within the next twelve months subsequent to being adjudged a bankrupt," the twelve months' period begins to run, not from the date of the adjudication, but from the expiration of the one month. In re Walters (D. C. 1913) 209 Fed. 133; In re Daly (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 263. CONTRA, In re Holmes (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 225, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 339. One additional day may be added where the last day of the twelve months is a public holiday. In re Lang (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 480, Fed. Cas. No. 8,056.

The court has no power to open an adjudication entered on default in involuntary proceedings, and make a new one, to permit the bankrupt to file an application for discharge, which he neglected to do within the time prescribed. In re Morse (D. C. 1909) 168 Fed. 157, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 709.

It is no part of the referee's duty to notify the bankrupt or his attorney of the time when the application may be filed or of the expiration of the year for filing it; the bankrupt himself must take notice of these matters. In re Knauer (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 805, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 503.

If the twelve months have expired without the filing of an application (saving the case where the bankrupt was "unavoidably prevented" from acting in time), it is not within the discretion or authority of the court to entertain the application or to grant a discharge, but its jurisdiction and authority in this particular are at an end. In re Knauer (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 805, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 503; In re Sloan (C. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 59, Fed. Cas. No. 12,945; In re Wilmott (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 214, Fed. Cas. No. 17,778; In re Greenfield (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 298, Fed. Cas. No. 5,774; In re Martin (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 548, Fed. Cas. No. 9,153; In re Schenck (D. C. 1872) 5 N. B. R. 93, Fed. Cas. No. 12,447; In re Barrett (D. C. 1874) 11 N. B. R. 527, Fed. Cas. No. 1,044. See In re Canady (D. C. 1868) 3 N. B. R. 11, Fed. Cas. No. 2,377; In re Daly (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 263. And a bankrupt who has failed to apply for his discharge within the time limited cannot thereafter file a second petition in bankruptcy, and obtain a discharge from the debts which were scheduled and provable in the previous bankruptcy. In re Loughran (1914) 218 Fed. 619, 134 C. C. A. 377; In re Silverman (C. C. A. 1907) 157 Fed. 675, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 460.

Where the bankrupt filed his application sixteen months after the adjudication, but without obtaining leave to do so and without showing cause excusing his delay, and afterwards, but more than eighteen months after the adjudication, he presented a verified petition setting forth the reasons for his delay, and praying for leave to file his application, and that the order granting such leave might be entered nunc pro tunc as of the date when the application was originally presented, his petition wa denied, on the ground that the failur seasonably to obtain leave to file th application was attributable to the lach es of the party and not to the act of th court. In re Wolff (D. C. 1900) 10 Fed. 430, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 74.

A court of bankruptcy cannot on nunc pro tunc order, extend the statu tory period for filing an application fo discharge. In re Taunton (D. C. 1914 216 Fed. 987.

The court, for cause shown, may ex tend the time in which an applicatio for a discharge may be filed by the ad ministrator of the bankrupt, dyin pending the bankruptcy proceedings. I re Agnew (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 650.

34. —— Extension for unavoidabl delay.—After the expiration of th twelve months, the bankrupt has n absolute right to apply for a discharge but he may be allowed to do so withi the next six months, by an order o court, based on a petition to the judg for leave to file such application, ac companied by satisfactory evidence tha the bankrupt was unavoidably prevent ed from making his application withi the year. In re Wolff (D. C. 1900) 10 Fed. 430, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 74. Se In re Donaldson (C. C. 1873) 11 N. B R. 460, Fed. Cas. No. 3,982; In r Lowenstein (C. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R 479, Fed. Cas. No. 8,573. But this pe tition must absolutely be presented be fore the end of the additional si months; if not, the court has no juris diction to act upon it. In re Levenstei (D. C. 1910) 180 Fed. 957, 24 Am Bankr. Rep. 822; In re Wagner (D C. 1905) 139 Fed. 87, 15 Am. Bankr Rep. 100; In re Fahy (D. C. 1902) 11 Fed. 239, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 354.

An application for leave to file a pe tition for discharge after the time lim ited by law, on the ground that th bankrupt was "unavoidably prevented' from applying in due time, is addresse to the discretion of the judge and ma be made without notice to creditors o formalities of practice or procedure except such as the judge may at th time direct, and in the exercise of hi discretion the judge may give a libera construction to the term "unavoidabl prevented," so as to make it include ex cusable neglect, reasonable grounds fo delay, mistake, and possibly inadver tence. In re Churchill (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 111, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 607 In re Chase (D. C. 1910) 186 Fed 408, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 456; In r Fritz (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 560, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 84.

Where delay in applying for leave to file petition for discharge is due to fault of attorney's clerk or employé, or postal employés, nunc pro tunc order allowing filing held to be made. In re Daly (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 263.

Nothing can be considered sufficient cause for delay which could have been avoided by ordinary diligence and at-n the part of the bankrupt, was informed by his attorney me when he must file his ap- and had plenty of time to pre- re Daly (D. C. 1913) 205 2, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 475. e bankrupt or members of his ere sick and he had no money r preparing his application for , this may be an acceptable or delay beyond the year al- n re Casey (D. C. 1912) 195 , 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 359. where it appears that there ing to prevent his attorney paring the petition for his sig- nd verification within the ap- time. In re Lewin (D. C. 5 Fed. 252, 14 Am. Bankr. . And merely to say that the of filing the petition was over- ing to press of business is no t all. In re Anderson (D. C. 4 Fed. 319, 14 Am. Bankr. .

the fact is such that, if the had applied for his discharge he twelve months, it would ly have been refused, because scharge in voluntary proceed- in six years previously, this s not "unavoidably prevent" n taking action within the onths, and therefore does not extension of time until after ear period shall have expired. ne (D. C. 1911) 186 Fed. 535; ase (D. C. 1910) 186 Fed. 408, Bankr. Rep. 456.

court grants an extension of an insufficient showing, cred- y move to vacate the order. ynes & Sons (D. C. 1903) 122 , 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 13.

eave to file the application out has been granted, and the or- not been vacated or with- ts propriety is judicially set- when the application comes on ng, creditors can oppose the only on the statutory grounds.

ition for discharge.—If the 's petition for discharge is de- ither in respect to the allega- fact or the prayer for relief, may permit its amendment. ufman (D. C. 1905) 136 Fed. m. Bankr. Rep. 393.

one member of a bankrupt es to apply separately for his , the petition therefor should adjudication of the firm and titioner as a member of it, and ay for a discharge from both ndividual debts. In re Meyers 99) 97 Fed. 757, 3 Am. Bankr. . But if it is faulty in these s, it may be amended. In re (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 186, Bankr. Rep. 498; In re Bid- C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 229, Fed. 1,392.

tition for discharge should be considered as a pleading, within the meaning of the bankruptcy law and therefore should be verified under oath, but if no objection to a want of verification is made until after the evidence on the application has been heard before the referee, it will then be too late. In re Taylor (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 479, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 143.

As the petition is addressed to the judge, and is a matter for his personal consideration, it must be filed with the clerk of the court, and not with the referee. In re Hockman (D. C. 1912) 205 Fed. 330, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 921; In re Taylor (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 479, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 143. But see In re Pincus (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 621, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 331. But in a case where the application, although erroneously filed with the referee in the first place, instead of the clerk, was, with the other proceedings thereon before the referee, filed with the clerk within a year after the adjudication, and no objection had been taken by creditors to the improper original filing with the referee, it was held that the petition would be regarded as properly filed. In re Taylor (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 479, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 143.

36. Notice of application for discharge.—The prescribed notice to creditors of the bankrupt's application for discharge is jurisdictional, and no petition for discharge will be considered without proof that the prescribed notice has been given. In re Sykes (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 669, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 264; Lathrop v. Stuart (C. C. 1850) Fed. Cas. No. 8,113.

Notice to creditors of a hearing on application for a bankrupt's discharge and fixing the date should be on order of the judge of the bankruptcy court in accordance with Supreme Court form 57. In re Hockman (D. C. 1912) 205 Fed. 330, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 921.

For the purpose of mailing the notice to creditors, a notice printed on the back of a postal card and duly mailed is sufficient. In re Downing (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 329, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 778.

It is not improper to add to the notice of the bankrupt's application for discharge, a notice of a meeting of creditors for the purpose of examining the bankrupt. In re Price (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 635, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 419.

Notice by mail should be given to all creditors who have proved their debts, or whose names are included by the bankrupt in his list of creditors. In re McIntire (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 8,822. If no proofs of claims have been filed, and no assets have come into the hands of the trustee, notice may be given by publication only. Anonymous (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 122, Fed. Cas. No. 457. But this course is not proper where there are known creditors, unless the bankrupt shows that the addresses of such creditors are unknown to him and cannot be ascertained after diligent search and inquiry. In re Dvorak (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 76, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 66.

Notice sent by mail to a judgment creditor, directed to his address as known at the beginning of the bankruptcy proceedings, will be sufficient, although the creditor has died in the meantime, at least if the will has not been admitted to probate and no steps have been taken to substitute the executor as a creditor in the bankruptcy. Lent v. Farnsworth (1904) 180 N. Y. 503, 72 N. E. 1144.

37. Proceedings in opposition to discharge.—Objections to the bankrupt's application for discharge call for action by the judge, and must be filed with the clerk of the court of bankruptcy, and not with the referee. In re C. H. Kendrick & Co. (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 980.

The judge may, in his discretion, extend the time for entering an appearance, as well as the time for filing specifications, and may grant leave to do so after the time has expired as well as before; but the creditor has no right to enter an appearance after the return day, and generally should not be allowed to do so except for good cause shown excusing his delay. In re Levin (1910) 176 Fed. 177, 99 C. C. A. 531, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 845; In re Ginsburg (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 627, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 459; In re Chase (D. C. 1910) 186 Fed. 408, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 456; In re Grant (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 889, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 398.

Creditors who appear and file objections on the merits to the granting of a discharge thereby waive objections to any error or irregularity in the granting of an extension of time for filing the petition for discharge. In re Churchill (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 111, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 607.

A creditor who does not enter his appearance at the time specified (or within a further time granted to him by the court) has no standing in court on the hearing of the petition for discharge, and cannot be heard in opposition to it, but, on the contrary, will be understood as assenting to it. In re Sutherland (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 13,640; In re Smith (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 20, Fed. Cas. No. 12,935; In re Seabury (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 90, Fed. Cas. No. 12,573; In re Schuyler (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 549, Fed. Cas. No. 12,494.

The entry of an appearance by one or more creditors for the purpose of opposing the application for discharge suspends all further proceedings until the filing of the specifications; but if the specifications are not filed within the ten days (or within an extension of the time specially granted by the court), then the case proceeds as if no opposition had been entered. In re McVey (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 257, Fed. Cas. No. 8,932; In re Frizelle (D. C 1871) 5 N. B. R. 119, Fed. Cas. No 5,132.

One creditor may adopt and prosecute the objections filed by another creditor, when the latter has declared his intention to abandon the same. In re Guilbert (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 676 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 830. But not after the claim of the creditor originally objecting has been stricken out. In re McDonald (D. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R 477, Fed. Cas. No. 8,753.

The fact that creditors who proposed to contest the granting of a discharge on the ground that the bankrupt had defrauded them have abandoned their opposition is entitled to consideration by the court. In re Hammerstein (1911) 189 Fed. 37, 110 C. C. A. 472 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 757.

Creditor, whose partnership with bankrupt was terminated prior to pretended sales of interest in another firm held not estopped from objecting to the bankrupt's discharge because of the concealment of such interest. In re Hagy (C. C. A. 1915) 220 Fed. 665.

The provision of the bankruptcy act (added by the amendment of 1910) that a trustee shall not interpose objections to a bankrupt's discharge until he shall be authorized to do so at a meeting of creditors called for that purpose, is satisfied if the authority be given at a meeting called by the referee In re Reiff (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 399

38. Withdrawal of opposition.—A creditor who has entered opposition to a bankrupt's application for discharge may withdraw the same without the consent of the other creditors. Brangan v. His Creditors (1883) 64 Cal. 394 1 Pac. 477. But this cannot be done without notice to other creditors who have adopted the specifications as representing their own objections and propose to prosecute them. In re Dietz (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 563, 3 Am Bankr. Rep. 316. When a creditor who has filed specifications of objection is about to withdraw them, other creditors may be substituted and carry on the opposition. In re Houghton (D. C 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 6,730.

39. —— Corrupt inducement to withdraw opposition.—Any agreement or arrangement by which a creditor is to be paid in full, on consideration of his withdrawing opposition to the discharge, or is to receive a larger share of his debt than other creditors, or to receive other property or a bonus or present, is corrupt, illegal, and contrary to public policy, and cannot be enforced in any form of proceeding Blasdel v. Fowle (1876) 120 Mass. 447 21 Am. Rep. 533. See Fox v. Paine (1846) 10 Ala. 523. If a promissory note is given to the creditor in pursuance of such an agreement, it is invalid and cannot be collected by law. Bell v. Leggett (1852) 7 N. Y. 176; Marble

v. Grant (1882) 73 Me. 423; Rice v. Maxwell (1850) 13 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 289, 53 Am. Dec. 85. If the consideration is the bankrupt's promise to pay him in full, no action can be maintained on such promise. Austin v. Markham (1871) 44 Ga. 161.

Where the bankrupt's wife executes a mortgage on her separate property, at his request, in pursuance of an agreement by which he was to pay the debt of his creditor in full if the latter would assent to his discharge, the mortgage is without consideration and tainted with the illegality of the transaction, notwithstanding it was executed after the discharge and though the wife did not know of the agreement. Blasdel v. Fowle (1876) 120 Mass. 447, 21 Am. Rep. 533.

A corrupt bargain with a creditor to withdraw opposition to the bankrupt's discharge will invalidate the discharge if granted, or constitute sufficient ground for revoking and annulling it. Coates v. Blush (1848) 1 Cush. (Mass.) 564.

It is ground for vacating a discharge in bankruptcy that a creditor's withdrawal from opposition was purchased, though it was done by a friend of the bankrupt, without the procurement or participation of the bankrupt, where the latter was privy to the arrangement and consented to it. In re Dietz (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 563, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 316.

Where a surety of the bankrupt paid the debt of a creditor who was opposing the discharge, merely for his own purposes, and because the granting of the discharge would put him (the surety) in a better position, and this was done without consulting with the bankrupt or informing him of the transaction until long afterwards, and the latter had no part in it nor made any promise to repay the amount, it was held that this would not vitiate the discharge. Ex parte Briggs (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 1,868.

40. Want or failure of opposition.—If no specifications of objection to the bankrupt's application for discharge are filed, or if those filed are withdrawn, ruled out, or found in favor of the bankrupt, the court will not, of its own motion, refuse a discharge, although it may appear that the bankrupt has committed some act which would deprive him of the right to a discharge if properly specified and proved. In re McDuff (1900) 101 Fed. 241, 41 C. C. A. 316, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 110; In re Hixon (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 440, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 610; In re Thomas (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 912, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 515; In re Holman (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 512, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 600; In re Antisdel (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 289, Fed. Cas. No. 490; In re Clark (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 301, Fed. Cas. No. 2,812; In re Fowler (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 4,999. CONTRA, In re Sohoo (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 215, Fed. Cas. No. 13,162; In re Wilkinson (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 286, Fed. Cas. No. 17,667.

Where there is no opposing party to the discharge, the proceeding may be continued from time to time to suit the convenience of the bankrupt. In re Sutherland (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 13,640.

41. Time to file specifications in opposition.—Creditors desiring to oppose the bankrupt's application for discharge are required (by General Order No. 32) to enter their appearance on the day when creditors are required to show cause, and to file their specifications within ten days thereafter. But though the notice to show cause usually designates not only the return day, but a particular hour of that day, creditors are not restricted to the hour so appointed, but have the entire day in which to enter their appearance and ten days thereafter for filing the specifications. In re Barrager (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 247, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 366. The general order does not operate as a statute of limitations, so as to cut off absolutely the right of creditors to file opposition if not exercised within the ten days, or prevent the court from granting an extension of time for good reasons shown. In re Nathanson (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 585, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 252.

Specifications of opposition filed after the expiration of the prescribed time, without leave of court first obtained or valid excuse for the delay, will be disregarded, or may be dismissed on motion of the bankrupt. In re Albrecht (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 974, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 223; In re Buxbaum (D. C.) 13 N. B. R. 477, Fed. Cas. No. 2,259.

After the expiration of the ten days, no creditor can claim any absolute right to file specifications. Whether he shall be allowed to do so rests entirely in the discretion of the court. It may be granted as a privilege by the judge, but not without good cause shown, and not unless the creditor clears himself of the imputation of laches. In re Young (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 912, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 697; In re Frice (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 611, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 674; In re Morgan (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 982, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 402; In re Marsh (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News 649; In re Levin (C. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 385, Fed. Cas. No. 8,291; In re Jacobs (D. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 7,160; In re Grefe (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 329, Fed. Cas. No. 5,794.

42. Form and sufficiency of specifications.—Specifications must present adequate statements of issuable facts, and mere statements of conclusions of law are not sufficient. In re Holman (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 512, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 600; In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715; Stewart v. Hargrove (1853) 23 Ala. 429.

The allegations of the specifications must be clear, distinct, specific, and circumstantial, and they must be so precise and full as to inform the bankrupt of the exact charge which he is called upon to refute, and to inform the court of the exact issue to be tried. In re Wittenberg (D. C. 1908) 160 Fed. 991, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 398; In re Servis (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 222, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 271; In re Frice (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 611, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 674; In re Parish (D. C. 1903) 122 Fed. 553, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 548; In re Waggoner (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 17,037; In re White (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 107, Fed. Cas. No. 17,533; In re Rathbone (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 294, Fed. Cas. No. 11,580; In re Burk (D. C. 1868) 3 N. B. R. 296, Fed. Cas. No. 2,156; In re Eidom (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 106, Fed Cas. No. 4,314; In re Freeman (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 64, Fed. Cas. No. 5,082; In re Hill (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 275, Fed. Cas. No. 6,482; In re Tyrrel (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 200, Fed. Cas. No. 14,314; In re Hansen (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 211, Fed. Cas. No. 6,039.

A specification is insufficient which alleges that the bankrupt made "various contradictory statements" in the course of the proceedings. In re Blalock (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 679, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266.

Specifications in opposition to a bankrupt's application for discharge must be in writing. In re Shoemaker (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 12,799. They must disclose the name of the objecting party, and must allege that he is a party in interest, and, if he is a creditor, that he has a debt provable in bankruptcy, or that it has been proved and allowed if such is the case, and further that his claim is one which will be affected by the discharge if granted. In re Main (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 421, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 547; In re Chandler (1905) 138 Fed. 637, 71 C. C. A. 87, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 512; In re Servis (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 222, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 271; In re Palmer (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 301, Fed. Cas. No. 10,682.

Specifications must distinctly allege at least one of the statutory grounds for refusing the discharge, objections not specified in the act being unavailable. In re Griffin Bros. (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 537, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 78; In re McGurn (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 743, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 459; In re Rhutassel (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 597, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 697. Where specifications of opposition to a discharge wholly fail to state any statutory ground for refusal, their insufficiency is not waived by failing to except thereto, and they may be disregarded. In re McCarthy (D. C. 1909) 170 Fed. 859, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 499.

A specification which merely follows the general language of the statute, without attempting to set forth particular facts, transactions, or details, is not sufficient. In re Main (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 421, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 547; In re Mintzer (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 647, 28 Am. Bankr. 743; In re Lewis (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 137, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 711; In re Bromley (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 493, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 227; In re Ginsburg (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 627, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 459; In re Peck (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 972, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 747; In re Graves (D. C. 1885) 24 Fed. 550; In re Son (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 310, Fed. Cas. No. 13,174. An exception exists in the case of alleging the failure to keep books of account, or the destruction or concealment of books, where, from the nature of the case, it may be impossible for the objecting creditor to particularize. Here an allegation in the language of the statute may suffice. See In re Magen Bros. Co. (1912) 192 Fed. 883, 113 C. C. A. 207, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 729.

The specifications should be of such a character that their sufficiency may be tested by demurrer or by exceptions analogous to those allowed in equity. Troeder v. Lorsch (1906) 150 Fed. 710, 80 C. C. A. 376, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723.

The specifications must set forth the facts with the same particularity and exactness that are required in an indictment or a criminal information. In re Levey (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 572, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 312; In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715; In re Butterfield (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 2,247.

Specifications in opposition to a discharge, especially where attempting to charge some criminal act, should be pleaded with greater particularity than ordinary civil actions, though the strict rules as to indictments do not apply. In re White (D. C. 1915) 222 Fed. 688.

A specification which states the facts only on information and belief is insufficient. Id.

A specification, in opposition to the discharge of a bankrupt, that he knowingly made a false oath, for the purpose of deceiving the trustee and concealing his assets, sufficiently states the materiality of the oath. Id.

Where the specifications filed are too vague and indefinite to be triable, the case stands as if there were no opposition and no specifications filed, and the bankrupt must receive his discharge if otherwise entitled to it. In re Son (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 13,174.

Where time is an essential part of the act charged in opposition to the bankrupt's discharge, it must be alleged particularly, and an allegation that the act was done "a short time" prior to the filing of the petition is not sufficient. In re Steed (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 682, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 73; In re Peacock (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 560, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 136.

A specification in opposition to the bankrupt's application for discharge, on the ground that he obtained money or property on credit by means of a false statement, must allege that it was made in writing. In re Lewis (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 137, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 711. And it must state the substance of the false statement and the name of the person defrauded by it. E. H. Godshalk Co. v. Sterling (1904) 129 Fed. 580, 64 C. C. A. 148, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 302; In re Levey (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 572, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 312. See In re Main (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 421, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 547.

43. —— Allegations as to concealment of property.—A specification which states the facts only on information and belief is insufficient. In re White (D. C. 1915) 222 Fed. 688. An allegation which merely states the creditor's belief that the bankrupt owns property which he is concealing and has not listed in his schedule is insufficient. In re Thomas (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 912, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 515.

Where fraudulent payments are charged, it is not necessary to state that the persons receiving such payments were creditors. In re Smith (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 20, Fed. Cas. No. 12,985.

The specification must distinctly allege a concealment of property or that the trustee has been prevented from taking possession of it. In re Taplin (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 861, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 360. It must be alleged that the property has been concealed from the trustee, a charge that it has been concealed "from his estate in bankruptcy" being insufficient. In re Adams (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 599, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 613. A statement that the bankrupt has placed his property in the hands of his wife is insufficient. In re Hill (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 6,482.

The objection must specify and describe the particular property alleged to have been concealed, with as much certainty as the nature of the case admits, it being insufficient to allege that the bankrupt has "concealed a part of his effects," "concealed his estate and effects," or "concealed certain papers." In re Agnew (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 650; In re White (D. C. 1915) 222 Fed. 688; In re Parish (D. C. 1903) 122 Fed. 553, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 548; In re Mawson (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 437, Fed. Cas. No. 9,318; In re Hixon (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 440, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 610; In re Condict (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 142, Fed. Cas. No. 3,094; In re Carrier (D. C. 1891) 47 Fed. 438; In re Dreyer (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 212, Fed. Cas. No. 4,082. But see In re Milgraum & Ost (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 827, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 306, as to an allegation that bankrupts had concealed "large quantities of merchandise" in a certain house.

44. —— Allegations of knowledge, falsity, and fraudulent intent.—A specification in opposition to a bankrupt's application for discharge, on the ground of his having concealed property from his trustee, is fatally defective if it fails to allege that the offense was committed "knowingly and fraudulently," these words being included in the statute as a necessary part of the crime or ground for refusing a discharge. In re Kaiser (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 689, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 767; In re Pierce (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 64, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 554; In re Griffin Bros. (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 537, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 78. An allegation that he has "not offered to surrender all of his property for the benefit of his creditors" and that he is "withholding property from his creditors" is not sufficient. In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715. Nor is an allegation that the bankrupt, "with a fraudulent intent, has failed to include in his schedules property belonging to him." In re Adams (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 72, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 696. Nor a charge that, at the time of filing the petition, he owned and possessed property which he has fraudulently concealed and fraudulently failed to inventory. In re Taplin (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 861, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 360. Nor an allegation that he fraudulently disposed of a part of his property and in his petition concealed the fact, and has converted the proceeds of the property to his own use. In re Patterson (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 921, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 371.

The making of a false oath in a proceeding in bankruptcy, considered as a ground for refusing a discharge, must have been done knowingly and fraudulently," and if this is not distinctly alleged, the specifications will be insufficient. In re Patterson (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 921, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 371; In re Beebe (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 48, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 597; In re Blalock (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 679, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266; In re Mayer (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 571, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 342; In re Smith (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 20, Fed. Cas. No. 12,985.

A charge that the bankrupt has concealed his books of account or destroyed them is defective if it fails to allege that this was done with intent to conceal his financial condition. In re Griffin Bros. (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 537, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 78.

Where the ground of opposition is that the bankrupt omitted the name and claim of the objecting creditor from his schedule, it must be alleged that it was willfully and fraudulently done. Symonds v. Barnes (1871) 59 Me. 81, 8 Am. Rep. 418.

If the act of the bankrupt objected to is a transfer of his property made within four months before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, it must be alleged to have been made with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors, though in this case the words "knowingly and fraudulently" need not be used. In re Gift (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 230, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 244.

Where it is specified that the bankrupt has committed perjury in his testimony before the referee, the objection must set out the testimony alleged to be false, together with the facts relied on to prove its falsity, so as to present a specific issue. In re Goodale (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 783, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 493.

A specification stating that the bankrupt procured the assent of certain creditors to the granting of the discharge, without alleging that he did so by means of a pecuniary consideration or otherwise corruptly, is not sufficient. In re Mawson (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 9,318.

A specification that the bankrupt has falsely set forth in his petition and schedule that he had no property is defective and insufficient; it must specify what property he had. In re Beardsley (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 304, Fed. Cas. No. 1,183; In re Rathbone (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 324, Fed. Cas. No. 11,582.

45. —— Allegations as to failure to keep books or destruction or concealment of books.—Where the ground of objection to the bankrupt's discharge is that he has failed to keep books of account from which his financial condition could be ascertained, or that he has destroyed or concealed his books, the specifications of objection may state the charge generally, following the language of the statute, and without giving particulars, since these matters are peculiarly within the bankrupt's own knowledge and cannot ordinarily be specified in detail. In re Magen Bros. Co. (1912) 192 Fed. 883, 113 C. C. A. 207, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 729; In re Ginsburg (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 627, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 459; In re Randall (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 298, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 305; In re Nathanson (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 645, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 56; In re Patterson (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 921, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 371; In re Bellis (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 496, Fed. Cas. No. 1,275. Compare In re Milgraum & Ost (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 827, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 306; In re Dreyer (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 212, Fed. Cas. No. 4,082.

A specification of objection on this ground is not defective for uncertainty because it alleges, in the disjunctive, that the bankrupt, with intent to conceal his financial condition, either de stroyed or failed to keep books of ac count. In re Magen Bros. Co. (1912 192 Fed. 883, 113 C. C. A. 207, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 729; In re Brod (D C. 1909) 166 Fed. 1011, 21 Am. Bankr Rep. 426, affirmed Brod v. J. K. Or Shoe Co. (1909) 173 Fed. 1019, 97 C C. A. 667.

It is not sufficient to allege that th bankrupt failed to keep books of ac count "and hence the true status of hi affairs cannot be ascertained." It mus be specifically charged that his failur to keep books, or his destruction o concealment of them, was in pursuanc of an intent to conceal his financial sit uation. In re Blalock (D. C. 1902 118 Fed. 679, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266 In re Bradin (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed 768, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 793; In r Marston (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No 9,142.

If the ground of objection is that th bankrupt gave false testimony befor the referee in regard to the book which he kept or did not keep, or i regard to the disposition which he ha made of them, the specifications mus be definite and certain and must se forth such particulars as will raise distinct issue. In re Nathanson (D. C 1907) 155 Fed. 645, 19 Am. Bankr Rep. 56.

If the specification charges that h failed to keep books of account or rec ords from which his financial conditio could have been ascertained, it is no necessary to proceed further and enu merate or describe the books or rec ords which the bankrupt ought to hav kept in order to disclose the state o his affairs. E. H. Godshalk Co. v Sterling (1904) 129 Fed. 580, 64 C C. A. 148, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 302 Or if the particular charge is that th bankrupt, intending to conceal hi financial condition, destroyed his can- celed checks and their stubs, it is no necessary more definitely to describe the checks and stubs alleged to hav been destroyed. E. H. Godshalk Co. v Sterling (1904) 129 Fed. 580, 64 C. C A. 148, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 302.

A specification of objection against bankrupt's discharge that he failed t keep books, with full and complet knowledge of the importance and ne- cessity thereof, in the brokerage busi- ness, and with intent to defraud an deceive the undersigned objecting cred- itors and others, while inapt, was suf- ficient to sustain an amendment, so a to conform it to the statute. In r Weston (1913) 206 Fed. 281, 124 C C. A. 345.

46. Signature and verification o specifications.—If the objecting creditor is a partnership, its signature may b affixed to the specifications by one o the partners having authority to sig the firm name. If the creditor is a corporation, the specification may b signed by a duly authorized officer who will also affix the corporate seal

In re Glass (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 509, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 391.

If several creditors desire to urge the same objections to the bankrupt's application for discharge, they may join in one specification. In re Milgraum & Ost (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 827, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 306. But each of them must sign and swear to the specification. In re Glass (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 509, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 391.

Specifications of objection to the bankrupt's application for discharge must be verified under oath by the objecting creditor. In re Brown (1901) 112 Fed. 49, 50 C. C. A. 118, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 252; In re Baerncopf (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 975, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 133; In re Gift (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 230, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 244; In re Servis (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 222, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 271. Compare In re Jamieson (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 697, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 681. The want of a verification is an irregularity which will be considered waived if the bankrupt does not object to the specification on this ground. In re Main (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 421, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 547. The want of a verification may be supplied by amendment. In re Meurer (D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 445, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 823; In re Gift (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 230, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 244.

Where, on taking of testimony before special master, it was agreed to submit objection to verification of objections to discharge to the judge, verification on the last day on which briefs were filed held in time, and hence it was immaterial whether the original verification was sufficient. In re Kretz (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 784.

The proper form for the verification of specifications is that by which the objecting creditor "does hereby make solemn oath that the statements of fact contained" in the specification "are true according to the best of [his] knowledge, information, and belief." In re Nathanson (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 645, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 56; In re Glass (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 509, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 391; In re Milgraum & Ost (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 827, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 306; In re Peck (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 972, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 747.

47. —— By attorney at law or in fact.—Specifications of objection should not ordinarily be signed and verified by attorneys at law or in fact for objecting creditors, instead of by the creditors themselves, but may be so signed under exceptional circumstances. In re Milgraum & Ost (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 827, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 306. In this case, the reason why the verification is made by counsel instead of by the creditor in person should be explicitly stated in the affidavit. In re Randall (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 298, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 305; In re Baerncopf (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 975, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 133.

Attorneys, solicitors, or other agents should not be allowed to verify the specifications, unless in pursuance of a previous order of court allowing them so to do, and in that event both the order and the oath must state the reasons. In re Glass (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 509, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 391.

48. Amendment of specifications.—It is within the authority and discretion of the court to permit the amendment of specifications in opposition to the bankrupt's discharge, as, for the purpose of supplying a necessary allegation which was originally omitted. In re Miller (D. C. 1912) 192 Fed. 730, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 606; In re Knaszak (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 503, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 187; In re Glass (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 509, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 391; In re Kaiser (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 689, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 767; In re Holman (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 512, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 600; In re Bellis (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 496, Fed. Cas. No. 1,275; In re Jacobs (D. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 7,160; Ashley's Adm'r v. Robinson (1856) 29 Ala. 112, 65 Am. Dec. 387. This may be done if the specification, as first drawn, contains enough of substance to warrant an amendment according to the usual rules in such cases. In re Weston (C. C. A. 1913) 206 Fed. 281, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 647; In re Nathanson (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 645, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 56.

The courts should be liberal in allowing amendments in these cases, where no laches or unfairness on the part of the creditor appears, and no injustice to the bankrupt will result nor any unreasonable delay in the progress of the case. In re Carley (1902) 117 Fed. 130, 55 C. C. A. 146, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 720.

Creditors who desire to oppose the bankrupt's discharge must act with reasonable promptness and will not be allowed to amend their specifications if chargeable with laches. Kentucky Nat. Bank v. Carley (1903) 121 Fed. 822, 58 C. C. A. 158, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 375; In re Mudd (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 348, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 242.

Leave to amend can only be granted by the judge of the bankruptcy court, and application for such leave should be made to him and not to the referee. In re Peck (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 972, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 747; In re Kaiser (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 689, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 767.

After the expiration of the ten days allowed for filing specifications of opposition, they can be amended only upon application to the court; and amended specifications filed without leave of court first obtained will be stricken from the files, if the bankrupt so moves. In re Clothier (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed.

199, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 203. But it is in the power of the judge, on application duly made, to allow amendments after the end of the ten days, provided the amendments are merely enlargements of the specifications already on file, in the way of supplying details, or improving allegations already made, and do not change the substantial nature of the objections urged. In re Osborne (1902) 115 Fed. 1, 52 C. C. A. 595, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165; In re Gift (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 230, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 244; In re Hendrick (D. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 473, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 795. But when the time has run, it is too late to permit an amendment setting out an entirely new and separate ground of objection. In re Johnson (D. C. 1911) 192 Fed. 356, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 644.

Specifications of objections to a bankrupt's discharge, on the ground of his having procured credit by false representations, may be amended when, during a hearing on the specifications, another instance of the same general character as those charged came to the knowledge of the objecting creditors, and where an application for leave to amend was promptly made. In re Pechin (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 798.

An amendment may be allowed for the purpose of inserting a necessary allegation after the evidence has been taken. In re Pierce (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 64, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 554. But not for the purpose of introducing an entirely new ground of objection and presenting a separate and distinct issue for the consideration of the court. In re Graves (D. C. 1885) 24 Fed. 550; In re Pierce (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 64, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 554.

The bankrupt's failure to demur to such specifications is not an admission of their legal sufficiency. In re Crist (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 1007, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1.

49. Exceptions to sufficiency of specifications.—Where a bankrupt presents his application for discharge in due form, and specifications in opposition thereto are filed by creditors, no further pleading on the part of the bankrupt is necessary, and that the allegations of the specifications cannot be taken as confessed for want of an answer by the bankrupt. In re Logan (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 876, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 525; In re Hendrick (D. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 473, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 795.

The bankrupt is entitled to raise the question of the sufficiency of specifications filed in opposition to his discharge, by demurrer, or by exceptions analogous to those allowed in equity. In re Walker (D. C. 1913) 209 Fed. 144; In re Burk (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 2,156; In re Duncan (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 42, Fed. Cas. No. 4,-133.

Defects or irregularities in the execution of the specifications will deemed waived if not seasonably o jected to by the bankrupt. In re Baer copf (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 975, 9 A Bankr. Rep. 133; In re Robinson (C. 1903) 123 Fed. 844, 10 Am. Bank Rep. 477; In re Wakefield (D. C. 191 207 Fed. 180, 31 Am. Bankr. Rep. 4 Even the objection of the lack of essential averment will be deemed wai ed, and will not be considered on a peal, if an exception was not proper taken in the court below. In re O borne (1902) 115 Fed. 1, 52 C. C. 595, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165.

Under the court rule that, when demurrer or motion attacking the sufficiency is interposed to specific tions of objection to a discharge, un the hearing or reference to the maste they will be deemed to present eve question fairly suggestive, specificatio of objection to discharge of a bankru held to sufficiently present the questi of fraudulent concealment of propert In re Wakefield (D. C. 1913) 207 Fe 180.

50. Dismissal for want of prosecution.—Delay by a bankrupt in bringi on for a hearing his application f discharge, which was filed in due tim is not a legal ground for refusing hi a discharge, where no objections we filed. In re Glasberg (1912) 197 Fe 896, 117 C. C. A. 235, 28 Am. Bank Rep. 826; In re Wolff (D. C. 190 132 Fed. 396, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 9

Any creditor may apply to the cou to require the bankrupt to have th question of his discharge determine or may move to set the case down fo hearing. In re Fowler (D. C. 1872 Fed. Cas. No. 4,999; In re Sutherlan (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 13,64 The court may order that creditors an all others who have proved their debt shall have leave to prosecute any an all suits, as if there had been no adjudi cation of bankruptcy. In re Kelly (D C. 1880) 3 Fed. 219.

A bankrupt who delays unreasonabl to press his application for discharge i guilty of abusing the proceedings for th sake of hindering creditors, and a mo tion to dismiss for want of prosecutio is proper in such cases and should b granted. Lindeke v. Converse (1912 198 Fed. 618, 117 C. C. A. 322, 28 Am Bankr. Rep. 596; In re Lederer (D C. 1903) 125 Fed. 96, 10 Am. Bankr Rep. 492; In re Kuffler (D. C. 1906 144 Fed. 445, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 305 The case last cited was reversed on ap peal, but on other grounds, the review ing court agreeing with the court belo as respects the point to which the deci sion is here cited. In re Kuffler (1907 151 Fed. 12, 80 C. C. A. 508, 18 Am Bankr. Rep. 16.

The court has authority to allow th bankrupt to withdraw his petition fo discharge, no adjudication having pass ed upon it, and to file a new one at later day. In re Svenson (C. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 13,659.

51. Evidence on application for discharge.—On the trial of a bankrupt's application for discharge, to which creditors have filed specifications of opposition, the testimony must be strictly confined to the issues raised by the specifications, and evidence will not be received which relates to grounds of objection not set forth in the specifications, or which relates to transactions outside the scope of the matters alleged. In re Felts (D. C. 1909) 205 Fed. 983; In re Bouck (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 453, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 378; In re Kaiser (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 689, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 767; In re Rosenfeld (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 116, Fed. Cas. No. 12,057; Tenny v. Collins, 4 N. B. R. 477, Fed Cas. No. 13,833.

Where the ground of opposition specified is that the bankrupt had conveyed his property with intent to defraud creditors, evidence that he concealed his property is immaterial and must be excluded. In re Bouck (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 453, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 378.

Where the specifications allege the making of a false oath by the bankrupt during his examination before the referee, it is not a question of his general truthfulness, but a question as to some specific matter which can be framed into an issue material to the bankruptcy proceedings. Troeder v. Lorsch (1906) 150 Fed. 710, 80 C. C. A. 376, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723.

It is necessary, not only that the opposing creditors should specify some one or more of the statutory grounds for refusing a discharge, but that the particular charge should be sustained by the evidence, that is, each of the constituent elements of the offense or wrongful act alleged against the bankrupt must be supported by proper evidence and satisfactorily proved. In re Brockman (D. C. 1908) 168 Fed. 1015, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 251; In re Holman (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 512, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 600; In re Thomas (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 912, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 515; In re Rhutassel (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 597, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 697; In re McGurn (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 743, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 459; In re Cornell (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 29, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 172; In re Phillips (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 844, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 542; In re Royal (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 140, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 636.

An application to examine a witness who is a resident of another state, in support of the creditors' specifications, should be made to the federal district court of the district wherein the witness resides. In re Robinson (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 724, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 617.

52. —— Admissibility.—The schedule of property prepared and filed by the bankrupt is evidence against him in proceedings in opposition to his discharge, but not an inventory or return by the trustee of the property which came into his hands. Stevens v. Thompson (1845) 17 N. H. 103. The bankrupt's sworn answer in a chancery case is admissible against him. Anonymous (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 463. So is his deposition made in a suit by the trustee against him and others, and the decree in such suit. In re Leland (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 8,232. But not a statement filed in a state court by a creditor. In re Williams (C. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 17,700. Nor the record of proceedings by the trustee in a suit against a third person. In re Leland (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 8,232.

Declarations made by a debtor, at the time of his failure, that he had means to pay all his debts, may be admissible as tending to show a fraudulent concealment of assets, though not alone sufficient for that purpose. In re Delavan (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 3,758.

The allegations contained in the creditors' petition in involuntary bankruptcy, on which the adjudication was made, are not evidence against the bankrupt on his subsequent application for discharge, even though he suffered the adjudication to go by default. In re Lathrop (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 46, Fed. Cas. No. 8,105.

The testimony given by the bankrupt on his examination by creditors before the referee is admissible against him on the hearing of his application for discharge, if the correctness of the record produced is properly established. Shaffer v. Koblegard Co. (1910) 183 Fed. 71, 105 C. C. A. 363, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 898; In re Goodhile (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 782, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 380; In re Bard (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 208, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 810; In re Logan (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 876, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 525; In re Malschick (D. C. 1914) 217 Fed. 492.

Where a partnership was dissolved by bankruptcy proceedings, evidence on the examination of the bankrupts in the general administration of the estate was only admissible against the partner testifying, when offered in a subsequent proceeding by the bankrupts for discharge. In re Malschick (D. C. 1914) 217 Fed. 492.

Where specifications of objections against a bankrupt's discharge did not allege prior fraudulent conveyances of property by the bankrupt through a third person to his wife within four months prior to bankruptcy, questions to the bankrupt's wife as to the consideration paid by her for certain conveyances made by her husband to her through a third person some 10 years before bankruptcy were irrelevant. In re Felts (D. C. 1909) 205 Fed. 983.

The testimony of third persons, taken on examinations before the referee, is not admissible. In re Goodhile (D. C.

1904) 130 Fed. 782, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 380; In re Wilcox (1900) 109 Fed. 628, 48 C. C. A. 567, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 362. Compare In re Cooke (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 631, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 434. But where the bankrupt's first or original petition for discharge was denied (not on the merits), and he made another application, it was held that the testimony of a witness taken on the hearing under the first petition was competent evidence on the hearing on the second application, the witness having died in the meantime. In re Brockway (D. C. 1882) 12 Fed. 69.

A creditor of a voluntary bankrupt is a competent witness for other creditors opposing the bankrupt's discharge. In re Day (D. C.) Fed. Cas. No. 3,-671a. One who appeared as counsel in an equity suit brought by the trustee against the bankrupt and others may be compelled to testify as a witness for the creditors. In re Leland (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 8,232.

Where the charge is the obtaining of goods on credit by means of a materially false statement in writing, the fact that the creditor parted with his property in reliance on such statement may be shown circumstantially. In re Reed (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 920, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 286.

The intent with which the bankrupt failed to keep books of account is provable by the same methods of proof as any other fact, and inferences from conceded or established facts may be resorted to. In re Shrimer (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 794; In re Josephson (D. C. 1916) 229 Fed. 272.

Evidence of concealment of assets claimed by the bankrupt to be exempt, though irrelevant as evidence in support of the specifications, may be competent on the question of knowledge, to show methods of concealment by the bankrupt with a view to bankruptcy. In re Isaacson (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 292, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 665.

53. —— Burden of proof.—Creditors objecting to the bankrupt's application for discharge have the burden of proof, and must sustain the allegations of their specifications by satisfactory and convincing evidence, so as to show clearly the existence of one or more of the statutory grounds for refusing a discharge. Poff v. Adams, Payne & Gleaves (1915) 226 Fed. 187, 141 C. C. A. 185; In re Miller (1914) 212 Fed. 920, 129 C. C. A. 440; In re Shrimer (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 794; In re Johnson (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed. 748; In re Cohen (C. C. A. 1913) 206 Fed. 457, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 653; In re Main (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 421, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 547; Hardie v. Swafford Bros. Dry Goods Co. (1908) 165 Fed. 588, 91 C. C. A. 426, 20 L. R. A. (N. S.) 785, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 457; In re Eades (1905) 143 Fed. 293, 74 C. C. A. 431, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 30; In re Garrison (1906) 149 Fed. 178, 79 C. C. A. 126, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 831; re Walder (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 48 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 419; In re Kolst (D. C. 1906) 146 Fed. 138, 17 A Bankr. Rep. 52; In re Keefer (D. 1905) 135 Fed. 885, 14 Am. Bank Rep. 290; In re Hamilton (D. C. 190 133 Fed. 823, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 33 In re McGurn (D. C. 1900) 102 Fe 743, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 459; In Chamberlain (D. C. 1903) 125 Fe 629, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 95; In Fitchard (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 74 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 609; In re Wetmo (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 703, 3 Am. Bank Rep. 700; In re Phillips (D. C. 190 98 Fed. 844, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 54 In re Shertzer (D. C. 1900) 99 Fe 706, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 699; In Hixon (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 440, 1 A Bankr. Rep. 610; In re Idzall (D. 1899) 96 Fed. 314, 2 Am. Bankr. Re 741; In re Finan (D. C. 1900) 2 N Bankr. News, 872; In re Boasberg, Nat. Bankr. News, 133; In re Her (D. C. 1880) 1 Fed. 242; In re Ban (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 958; In Nooman (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 2 Fed. Cas. No. 10,291; In re Maws (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 548, Fed. C No. 9,319; In re Doyle (D. C. 187 3 N. B. R. 782, Fed. Cas. No. 4,05 In re Orcutt (D. C. 1871) 4 N. B. 538, Fed. Cas. No. 10,550; Larsen Hyman, 126 N. Y. Supp. 100.

If objecting creditors fail to susta the burden of proof, the specificatio of objection will be overruled and d missed and the discharge will be gra ed. In re Corn (D. C. 1901) 106 Fe 143, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 478; In Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 571, Am. Bankr. Rep. 344; In re O'K (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 105, Fed. C No. 10,475; In re Harris (D. C. 186 2 N. B. R. 105, Fed. Cas. No. 6,11 In re May (D. C. 1899) 2 Nat. Ban News, 93.

Where the ground of opposition the concealment of property from t trustee, and the creditors have sho the recent existence of assets whi have not been scheduled or surrender and their disappearance or large shrin age within a short time prior to t bankruptcy, the burden is on the ban rupt to account for the disappearan or diminution of his estate, and if fails to give a reasonable and credil explanation, the court will be justifi in inferring a fraudulent concealme of assets, such as to forfeit his rig to a discharge. In re Diamond (D. 1913) 204 Fed. 137, 30 Am. Ban Rep. 363; In re Miller (D. C. 191 203 Fed. 170, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 11 In re McCann (D. C. 1910) 179 Fe 575, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 789; Sei v. Cartel (C. C. A. 1908) 164 Fed. 6 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 140; In re Les (D. C. 1903) 119 Fed. 406, 9 A Bankr. Rep. 561; In re Finkelstein (C. 1900) 101 Fed. 418, 3 Am. Ban Rep. 800; In re Meyers (D. C. 189 96 Fed. 408, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 70

In re Wood (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 972, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 572.

An objecting creditor has the burden of showing that a materially false statement made by the bankrupt as a basis for credit was known by him to be untrue when made; but when that fact is proved, the burden shifts to the bankrupt to show that it was not made with intent to deceive. In re Arenson (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 609, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 113.

The presumption that the failure of a bankrupt to keep books was with intent to conceal his financial condition may be rebutted, either by direct evidence or by the circumstances of the case. In re Arnold (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 75. Testimony that there was no intent to conceal the condition of the business by the failure to keep books is admissible to refute the presumption of such an intent. In re Janavitz (1915) 219 Fed. 876, 135 C. C. A. 546. To entitle a partner to a discharge notwithstanding the fact that the firm failed to keep proper books of account, with intent on the part of some member to conceal its financial condition, the burden rests on him to prove that he was innocent of any participation therein. In re Schachter (D. C. 1909) 170 Fed. 683, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 389.

The rule does not apply in cases where there can be no burden of proof one way or the other, as where the question presented is one of law and not of fact, as, for example, upon the construction of the statute. In re Gilpin (D. C. 1908) 160 Fed. 171, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 374.

54. —— Weight and sufficiency of evidence.—Creditors objecting to the bankrupt's application for a discharge are only required to prove their allegations by a preponderance of evidence, not necessarily to prove them beyond a reasonable doubt, even though the ground of objection may be a criminal offense. In re Atlas (D. C. 1914) 219 Fed. 783; Troeder v. Lorsch (1906) 150 Fed. 710, 80 C. C. A. 376, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723; In re Delmour (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 589, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 405; In re Greenberg (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 773, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 94; In re Polakoff, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 232; In re Berner (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 268. But see In re Moore (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 9,751. And compare In re Hennebry (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 882.

Where it is charged that the bankrupt swore falsely in verifying his schedule or in the proceedings in bankruptcy, the evidence must be sufficiently clear and convincing to overcome the presumption of his honesty; but it is not required to be of the high degree necessary to sustain a conviction for perjury. Remmers v. Merchants'-Laclede Nat. Bank (1909) 173 Fed. 484, 97 C. C. A. 490, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 78.

It is only necessary that there should be a fair preponderance of the credible evidence supporting the case of the objecting creditors. In re Bacon (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 545, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 584; In re Doyle (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 247, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 102; In re Dauchy (1904) 130 Fed. 532, 65 C. C. A. 78, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 511; In re Leslie (D. C. 1903) 119 Fed. 406, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 561. But this preponderance must exist, for an evenly balanced condition of the proof will warrant a decision in favor of the bankrupt. In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715.

The objecting creditors are required to produce clear and convincing proof. In re Agnew (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 650; In re Taylor (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 479, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 143; In re Salsbury (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 833, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 771; In re Howden (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 723, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 191. Or strict and convincing evidence. Garry v. Jefferson Bank (1911) 186 Fed. 461, 108 C. C. A. 439, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 511. Or satisfactory and sufficient evidence. In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 571, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 344. Or clear and satisfying evidence. In re Berner (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 268. Or indisputable proof. In re Banks (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 958. A bankrupt's intent to conceal his financial condition by failing to keep books of account can only be inferred from facts proved clearly and almost irresistibly leading to such conclusion, notwithstanding the amendment of 1903 to the Bankruptcy Act. In re Hindin (D. C. 1914) 219 Fed. 605.

In regard to questions of fraud, motive, and intent, it is not sufficient to prove merely suspicious circumstances or conduct which wears a sinister aspect. In re Howard (1910) 180 Fed. 399, 103 C. C. A. 545, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 841.

A fraudulent conveyance of property must be shown affirmatively, and it is not sufficient that the bankrupt's evidence on his examination tends indirectly to support the contention of the creditors. In re Ferris (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 356, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 246.

While evasive and disingenuous testimony is not a ground for refusing his discharge, it is a material consideration in determining his credibility when testifying as to what became of certain money or property. In re Leslie (D. C. 1903) 119 Fed. 406, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 561.

The case may be such that the bankrupt's testimony alone will be sufficient to rebut the case of the creditors, where it is clear and positive and is not discredited by any fact proved. In re Eades (1905) 143 Fed. 293, 74 C. C. A. 431, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 30.

For decisions upon the weight and sufficiency of the evidence on a contest of the bankrupt's application for discharge in particular cases, see Poff v. Adams, Payne & Gleaves (1915) 226 Fed. 187, 141 C. C. A. 185; In re Cohen (1913) 206 Fed. 457, 124 C. C. A. 363; In re Atlas (D. C. 1914) 219 Fed. 783; In re Hindin (D. C. 1914) 219 Fed. 605; In re Magen (D. C. 1914) 218 Fed. 692; Bloomfield v. Lehman (C. C. A. 1914) 215 Fed. 97; In re Wakefield (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 180; In re Simon (D. C. 1913) 201 Fed. 1004; Troeder v. Lorsch (1906) 150 Fed. 710, 80 C. C. A. 376, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723; In re Taylor (D. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 187, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 945; In re Margolis (D. C. 1909) 181 Fed. 591, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 934; In re Chamberlain (D. C. 1910) 180 Fed. 304, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 37; In re Tillyer (D. C. 1905) 147 Fed. 860, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 125; In re Burstein (D. C. 1908) 160 Fed. 765, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 399; In re Goldich (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 882, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 249; In re Guilbert (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 149, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 221; Barton Bros. v. Texas Produce Co. (1905) 136 Fed. 355, 69 C. C. A. 181, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 502; In re Doherty (D. C. 1904) 135 Fed. 432, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 549; In re Harr (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 421, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 213; In re Jacobs (D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 868, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 482; In re Leslie (D. C. 1903) 119 Fed. 406, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 561; In re Young (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 728, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 477; In re Miner (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 953, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 100; In re Baerncopf (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 975, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 133; In re Boyden (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 991, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 269; In re Blalock (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 679, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266; In re Murray (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 983, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 700; In re Hedley (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 314, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 409; In re Lewin (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 501, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 72; In re Moore (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 9,751.

55. Hearing and determination of application.—Objections to a bankrupt's discharge constitute the beginning of a new suit or action, the hearing of which is in effect a trial in equity. In re Malschick (D. C. 1914) 217 Fed. 492.

The order of court designating the time and place for hearing the bankrupt's application for discharge, and directing that creditors and other parties in interest may then and there appear and show cause against the same, must be signed by the clerk and bear the seal of the court. In re Bellamy (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 1,268.

The proceedings may be continued from day to day if necessary, but an adjournment without day will put an end to them, unless a new order is issued. In re Seckendorf (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 12,600.

Where the record of an order extending the time in which to file excep tions to the report of a special mas ter on objections to a bankrupt's dis charge had never been entered of rec ord, and had been lost or destroye the court at a subsequent term ha power to supply the record. Interna tional Harvester Co. of America Carlson (1914) 217 Fed. 736, 133 C. C A. 430.

Creditors opposing the bankrupt' application for discharge have the a firmative of the issue, and consequent ly the right to begin. Anonymous (D C. 1845) Fed. Cas. No. 464.

The bankrupt must attend the hea ing upon his application for discharg although he may have removed fro the district pending the proceeding In re Curle (D. C. 1914) 217 Fed. 68 His presence cannot be dispensed wit by the referee if it is demanded by th creditors. In re Shanker (D. C. 1905 138 Fed. 862, 15 Am. Bankr. Re 109.

The creditors have the right to ex amine the bankrupt, when so in at tendance at the hearing, for the pur pose of eliciting evidence which wi support their objections, and the fac that he has already been examined a an earlier stage of the proceedings wi not excuse him from this duty. In r Mellen (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 326, Am. Bankr. Rep. 226. On this hearin only such grounds of objection to th bankrupt's discharge may be heard an considered as have been set forth i the specifications of the opposing cred itors, and the evidence will be confine to the material facts alleged in th specifications. In re Taplin (D. C 1905) 135 Fed. 861, 14 Am. Bank Rep. 360; In re Adams (D. C. 190 104 Fed. 72, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 69 In re Kaiser (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 689, Am. Bankr. Rep. 767; In re Baldwi (D. C. 1903) 119 Fed. 796, 9 An Bankr. Rep. 591. See In re Marsha Paper Co. (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 41 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 653. The que tion whether or not the debt of a par ticular creditor is such as to be ex cepted from the operation of a dis charge in bankruptcy cannot proper be raised or tried on the bankrupt application for discharge. In re Rhu tassel (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 597, 2 An Bankr. Rep. 697. And the propriet or validity of an order extending th time for filing the application for dis charge cannot be reviewed on the hea ing of the application itself. In r Casey (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 322, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 359.

A creditor cannot object to the actio of the court in granting the discharg on the ground that the issue fou in favor of the bankrupt, and on whic the case turned, was inconclusiv where that issue was distinctly raise by the creditor's own allegations. Ke tucky Nat. Bank v. Carley (1904) 12

Fed. 686, 62 C. C. A. 412, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 119.

In determining on the application, the court must be governed solely and entirely by the admissible evidence produced on the hearing of the application and objections. In re Murray (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 983, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 700; In re Walder (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 489, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 419; In re Halsell (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 562, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 106. The referee has no legal right to consider evidence which has been previously offered before him as referee, if it is not repeated at the present hearing or made a part of the record. In re Walder (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 489. 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 419.

The specifications in opposition may be rejected for insufficiency, or they may be overruled and dismissed if not sustained by the evidence, but in some way they must be disposed of, and a motion to grant the discharge cannot be granted by the court until this has been done. In re Randall (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 298, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 305.

When final action has been taken on the case, it may perhaps be reopened for good cause shown, but not for the purpose of letting in additional evidence when the original hearing was full and complete and the proofs were then formally closed. Kentucky Nat. Bank v. Carley (1904) 127 Fed. 686, 62 C. C. A. 412, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 119; In re Royal (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 140, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 636.

Costs are not usually awarded to the prevailing party, unless the objections filed were found to be frivolous or vexatious, or, on the other hand, the bankrupt is shown to have the means of paying costs. In re George (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 5,326.

56. —— Powers and duties of judge and referee.—Under the explicit language of the bankruptcy act, the bankrupt's application for discharge must be heard and determined by the judge of the court of bankruptcy, not by the referee. The latter officer has no jurisdiction either to grant or to refuse a discharge, but this duty is cast upon the judge, who must either hear the case originally or upon the report and recommendations of the referee or a special master, and render the decision. In re Taylor (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 479, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 143; In re Randall (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 298, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 305; In re Johnson (D. C. 1908) 158 Fed. 342, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 814; In re McDuff (1900) 101 Fed. 241, 41 C. C. A. 316, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 110; In re Mawson (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 265, Fed. Cas. No. 9,317. All questions on application for discharge are originally for the court and not the referee. In re Hockman (D. C. 1912) 205 Fed. 330. While this duty cannot be delegated, yet, when specifications in opposition to the bankrupt's application are filed, it is in the power of the judge to refer the issues raised thereby to the referee, in the character of a special master, with instructions to ascertain and report the facts. Fellows v. Freudenthal (1900) 102 Fed. 731, 42 C. C. A. 607, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 490; In re McDuff (1900) 101 Fed. 241, 41 C. C. A. 316, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 110; In re Daugherty (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 239, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 550; In re Eldred (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 491, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 243.

While it is customary to select and appoint the referee who has acted in the proceedings as special master to hear the application for discharge, yet any other person may be appointed in the discretion of the judge, and, when so appointed, is entitled to a reasonable compensation. In re Gillardon (D. C. 1911) 187 Fed. 289, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 103. The proceeding on an application for discharge is a separate proceeding, jurisdiction of which is not conferred on the referee by the original reference. In re C. H. Kendrick & Co. (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 980.

The referee has authority to pass upon objections to the sufficiency of specifications filed in opposition to the discharge, and should refuse to receive evidence on specifications which are clearly insufficient. In re Kaiser (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 689, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 767; In re Mudd (D. C. 1900) 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 710; In re Hendrick (D. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 473, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 795. Compare In re Brockman (D. C. 1908) 168 Fed. 1015, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 251; In re Puffer (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 43, Fed. Cas. No. 11,459. The proper course in such a case is to report back to the court that nothing has been filed with him in the way of objections which would require the taking of testimony. In re Hendrick (D. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 473, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 795.

When questions arise as to the admissibility of evidence, the referee has no power to exclude it, but must require and receive an answer to the question objected to, and incorporate in his report to the court the question challenged, the objections made thereto, his ruling on its admissibility, and the answer given. In re Isaacson (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 292, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 665; In re Knaszak (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 503, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 187.

A master to whom specifications of objection to a bankrupt's discharge are referred cannot properly make a finding of fact concerning an instrument which is not before him and as to which there is no secondary evidence. In re Rubin & Lipman (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed. 669.

Where specifications of objection to a bankrupt's discharge were referred to a master who died before being able to make his report and a second master was appointed, it was improper for him to make a report on the evidence taken before the first master without again hearing the witnesses. Id.

The functions of the referee are not limited to taking and reporting the evidence adduced on the hearing, but he should also find and report the facts as he deduces them from the evidence and state his conclusions of law and his recommendation as to whether the discharge should be granted or refused. In re Kaiser (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 689, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 767; In re Steed (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 682, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 73; In re Hughes (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 226, Fed. Cas. No. 6,841. And in so doing, he should exercise an independent judgment on the facts brought out before him. In re Mayer (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 571, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 342. If his report is incomplete or defective, it will be sent back to him with directions to proceed according to the statute. Mahoney v. Ward (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 278, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 770.

Under General Bankruptcy Orders, Nos. 12, 37 (post, § 9614), and equity rule 66, (ante, § 1536), where an application for a discharge is referred to the master to take testimony and report, exceptions to his report must be filed within 20 days, if at all, after the filing of the report. In re Pierce (D. C. 1914) 210 Fed. 389. Delay of several months in certifying to the judge contested application for discharge held unreasonable. In re Shrimer (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 794.

The referee's findings of fact are entitled to the very highest consideration, and while the judge is not technically concluded thereby, but must bring his own mind to bear on the evidence, yet the report of the referee will be accepted as correct, unless very plainly shown to be wrong. International Harvester Co. of America v. Carlson (1914) 133 C. C. A. 430, 217 Fed. 736; Baker v. Bishop-Babcock-Becker Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 220 Fed. 657; In re McCann (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 575, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 789; In re Wheeler (C. C. A. 1908) 165 Fed. 188, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 262; In re Knaszak (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 503, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 187; In re Shriver (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 511, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 746; In re Lafleche (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 307, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 483; In re McKane (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 674, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 103; In re Covington (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 143, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 373.

The district judge held bound to pass an independent judgment on an application for a bankrupt's discharge, regardless of the report of a referee. International Harvester Co. of America v. Carlson (1914) 217 Fed. 736, 133 C. C. A. 430.

Where the evidence as to whether a bankrupt obtained property on credit on a false statement in writing was conflicting, it was the province of the master to determine the credibility of the witnesses. In re Hindin (D. C. 1914) 219 Fed. 605.

The referee's recommendations will also be considered as entitled to great weight. But a recommendation that the discharge should be granted, when the referee has found that one of the specifications of objection was supported by the evidence, is erroneous and will be disregarded. In re Cohen (D. C. 1911) 192 Fed. 751, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 544.

57. Staying or suspending discharge—It is within the authority of the court of bankruptcy to adjourn the hearing on a bankrupt's application for discharge or temporarily to stay proceedings thereon, if it appears that the decision thereon may be affected by the result of pending and uncompleted proceedings, or by the intervention of new parties who desire to come in. In re Ketchum (D. C. 1880) 1 Fed. 838; In re Mawson (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 271, Fed. Cas. No. 9,320; In re Thompson (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 323, Fed. Cas. No. 13,935. And see In re Steed (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 682, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 73.

A creditor may be entitled to a reasonable postponement of the bankrupt's discharge to enable him to enforce rights in a state court. In re J. L. Philips & Co. (D. C. 1915) 22[illegible] Fed. 628.

An application for discharge may be stayed until there has been a definite settlement of the rights of creditors who claim the privilege of enforcing their demands against property which has been set apart to the bankrupt as exempt. In re Woodruff (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 317, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 678; In re McBryde (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 686, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 729; In re Mitchell (D. C. 1910) 175 Fed. 877, 2[illegible] Am. Bankr. Rep. 707.

A claimant holding a lien against garnishees indebted to the bankrupt is entitled to a stay of the discharge for a reasonable time, to enable him to enforce his rights against the garnishees and the sureties on a bond to dissolve the garnishment. In re Maher (D. C. 1909) 169 Fed. 997, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 290.

The court of bankruptcy will not stay its decision on the discharge to await the result of a pending action in a state court wherein creditors of the bankrupt seek to set aside a transfer of property made by him before the adjudication of bankruptcy, and which they allege to have been fraudulent as to creditors, the same plaintiffs opposing the bankrupt's discharge on the ground of the same alleged fraud; for the issues are not identical, nor would the decree of the state court determine the right of the bankrupt to be discharged. In re Cornell (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 29, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 172.

Under the 1910 amendment to the bankruptcy act, arming the trustee with the rights of a judgment creditor, he is qualified to sue under a state statute to reach surplus revenue to which the bankrupt will be entitled under a testamentary trust, and his recovery will be for the benefit of all the creditors; and since such right will not be affected by the bankrupt's discharge, a judgment creditor is not entitled to have the granting of the discharge postponed to enable him to prosecute such a suit for the benefit of judgment creditors only. In re Morris (1913) 204 Fed. 770, 123 C. C. A. 220, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 319.

58. Order of discharge.—The court of bankruptcy has power to amend an order of discharge at any time before the proceedings in the case have been closed, provided such amendment will not affect vested rights. In re Diamond (1906) 149 Fed. 407, 79 C. C. A. 227, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 563.

An order granting or refusing a discharge may be entered nunc pro tunc, where the parties have acted on the theory that such an order was in force, and the rights of third persons will not be prejudiced. In re Drisko (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 4,090.

A discharge in bankruptcy is not void because granted after the death of the bankrupt. Robinson v. Butler (1882) 4 Ky. Law Rep. 449. In such a case it should be entered as of a date prior to his death. Young v. Ridenbaugh (C. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 18,173.

Where specifications in opposition to the discharge have been overruled, and the discharge ordered, the bankrupt's certificate of discharge will not issue until the expiration of ten days after the order, or until the expiration of any extension of the time allowed to creditors to appeal from such order. In re Hirsch (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 468, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715.

The court will order a discharge of a bankrupt on conditions which will protect a creditor procuring by garnishment funds of the bankrupt more than four months before bankruptcy. In re J. L. Philips & Co. (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 628.

On the application for discharge, the character of any particular debt is not in issue, nor will the court undertake to decide whether or not it will be released by the discharge. Hence creditors having claims which they allege to be within the excepted classes cannot ask the court to frame its order of discharge in such a way as to make specific exceptions in favor of their debts. The court will grant a discharge in the usual form, leaving its scope for future determination when the question shall properly arise. In re Mussey (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 71, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 592.

V. CONCLUSIVENESS AND EFFECT OF DISCHARGE

59. Conclusiveness of discharge.—A state court is bound to take notice of a discharge in bankruptcy under the federal law when it is properly pleaded. Wood v. Carr (1903) 115 Ky. 303, 73 S. W. 762. Where a trustee of a bankrupt opposes his discharge on the ground that he has failed to turn over the property standing in his wife's name, and the United States court holds that the property is not that of the bankrupt, the trustee is concluded thereby. Andrus v. Cornwell (1914) 64 So. 221, 134 La. 403.

An order of discharge is a judgment and is supported by the same presumptions which attach to any other; and therefore it is conclusive evidence of all facts appearing on the record or deducible therefrom by necessary inference, and of the fact that the bankrupt has been lawfully discharged from all of his provable debts save those specifically excepted by the statute. Palmer v. Hussey (1886) 119 U. S. 96, 7 Sup. Ct. 158, 30 L. Ed. 362; Crouse v. Whittlesey (1893) 66 Hun, 629, 20 N. Y. Supp. 965; Ruckman v. Cowell (1848) 1 N. Y. 505; Blake v. Bigelow (1848) 5 Ga. 437; Boas v. Hetzel (1846) 3 Pa. 298; Belknap v. Davis (1849) 21 Vt. 409; Tichenor v. Allen (Va. 1855) 13 Grat. 15; Jones v. Knox (1874) 51 Ala. 367; Norris v. Goss (S. C. 1843) 2 Speer 80. See In re Krall (D. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 402, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 452.

The proper time and place for the determination of the effect of a discharge is when the same is pleaded or relied on by the debtor as a defense to the enforcement of a particular claim, and that issue cannot properly arise or be considered in determining the right to a discharge, and therefore the discharge is not evidence on the question whether or not a particular claim is within the excepted classes. In re Marshall Paper Co. (1900) 102 Fed. 872, 43 C. C. A. 38, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 468; In re McCarty (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 151, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 40; U. S. v. Peters (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 613, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 177.

60. Effect of discharge.—A discharge in bankruptcy operates only as a bar to an action for the recovery of the debt, and not as a payment of the debt or as a release or extinguishment of it. Herrington v. Davitt (1914) 145 N. Y. Supp. 452; Lanier v. Tolleson (1883) 20 S. C. 57; Craig v. Seitz (1886) 63 Mich. 727, 30 N. W. 347; Citizens' Loan Ass'n v. Boston & M. R. Co. (1907) 196 Mass. 528, 82 N. E. 696, 14 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1025, 124 Am. St. Rep. 584, 13 Ann. Cas. 365. Compare J. B. Ellis & Co. v. Mobile, J. & K. C. R. Co. (1910) 166 Ala. 187, 51 South. 860; Needham v. Matthewson (1909) 81 Kan. 340, 105 Pac. 436, 26 L. R. A. (N. S.) 274, 135 Am. St. Rep. 374, 19 Ann. Cas. 146.

The discharge of a bankrupt has no necessary effect on the right or duty of the trustee in bankruptcy to continue the prosecution of an action already begun by him. In re Penn (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 10,928. A discharge in bankruptcy has no effect on the right of the trustee to recover property, unless all debts and expenses have been paid. Guernsey v. Douglas (Cal. 1915) 153 P. 227.

A discharge in bankruptcy will revoke a power of attorney to confess judgment. Dye v. Bartram (1877) 5 Ohio Dec. 508. And excuse the debtor from complying with the condition of a bond, before given, to take the benefit of the state insolvency law. Nesbit v. Graves (Pa. 1837) 6 Watts & S. 120; Hubert v. Horter (1870) 81 Pa. 39. And release him from liability on a note given before the adjudication, though it was expressly stated to have been given for cash advanced to enable him to file his petition in bankruptcy. Nelson v. Stewart (1875) 54 Ala. 115, 25 Am. Rep. 660.

A discharge in bankruptcy does not extinguish any valid lien. Reed v. Bullington (1873) 49 Miss. 223; Boone v. Revis (1876) 44 Tex. 384. Nor will it be a defense to an action for the breach of the bankrupt's bond as a public officer, occurring after the discharge. White v. Blake (1887) 79 Me. 114, 8 Atl. 457. A discharge in bankruptcy will not terminate a lease in which the bankrupt is the tenant, unless the landlord re-enters or the trustee has assumed the lease. Witthaus v. Zimmermann (1904) 91 App. Div. 202, 86 N. Y. Supp. 315.

In a suit to recover damages for personal injuries, plaintiff is not precluded from recovering reasonable charges incurred for the services of a physician and other like charges, necessarily resulting from his injury, because he included such claims in his schedule in bankruptcy and had been discharged from legal liability for the same. Sibley v. Nason (1907) 196 Mass. 125, 81 N. E. 887, 12 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1173, 124 Am. St. Rep. 520, 12 Ann. Cas. 938.

In an action of trover, neither the defendant nor his surety in the bail bond therein can set up as a defense the discharge of the defendant in bankruptcy pending the trial, the petition in trover being one of title and not of debt. Berry v. Jackson (1902) 115 Ga. 196, 41 S. E. 698, 90 Am. St. Rep. 102; Birmingham Fertilizer Co. v. John A. Cox & Son (1912) 10 Ga. App. 699, 73 S. E. 1090.

A discharge of a husband in bankruptcy will discharge his wife's li bility on a contract executed by hi and his wife to sell community pro erty. Bimrose v. Matthews (Wash 1914) 138 Pac. 319.

An adjudication and discharge i bankruptcy, pending an action again the bankrupt on a note which is du scheduled in the bankruptcy proceed ings, abates the action. Fort-Mims Haynes Co. v. Branan-Akers Co. (191 78 S. E. 721, 140 Ga. 131.

61. —— As to property fraudulent transferred or not scheduled.—A di charge in bankruptcy does not preclud the trustee from recovering propert previously transferred by the bankru in fraud of his creditors. In re Pierc (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 64, 4 Am. Bank Rep. 554; Nye v. Hart (1901) 2 Ohio Cir. Ct. R. 427; Stephenson Bird (1910) 168 Ala. 363, 53 South 92, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 249; McLeod Trustee v. McLeod (1905) 89 S. W 199, 28 Ky. Law Rep. 284; Blick Nimmo (1913) 121 Md. 139, 88 At 116.

After the discharge, creditors ma proceed in any proper form of actio or suit to subject to their claims an property of the bankrupt which h omitted to list in his schedule of assets whether such omission was fraudulent ly planned or was the result of mer oversight. Horn v. Bates (Ky. 1908 114 S. W. 763; Card v. Walbridg (1849) 18 Ohio, 411. See Rand Iowa Cent. Ry. Co. (1906) 186 N. Y 58, 78 N. E. 574, 116 Am. St. Rep 530, 9 Ann. Cas. 542. Compare Boy v. Olvey (1882) 82 Ind. 294.

Since the bankruptcy law expressl confers on a trustee in bankruptcy th right to avoid any transfer by th bankrupt of his property which an creditor might have avoided, and to re cover the property so transferred o its value, a judgment creditor of th bankrupt, after the latter's discharge cannot levy on and sell the bankrupt' property because of fraud in securin the discharge, but the rights of cred itors must be worked out through th trustee. Hibbard v. Henderson (1904 44 Or. 318, 75 Pac. 889.

62. Collateral impeachment of dis charge.—A state court can neither an nul nor disregard a discharge dul granted by a court of bankruptcy hav ing jurisdiction, nor allow it to be im peached in any collateral proceedin for any cause which would have pre vented the granting of the discharge o which would have been sufficient groun for revoking the discharge in the bank ruptcy court. U. S. v. Griswold (C C. 1881) 8 Fed. 556; Lathrop v. Stuar (C. C. 1850) Fed. Cas. No. 8,113 Custard v. Wigderson (1907) 130 Wi 412, 110 N. W. 263, 10 Ann. Cas. 740 Young v. Stevenson (1905) 73 Ark 480, 84 S. W. 623; Lutz v. Kalmu (1909) 115 N. Y. Supp. 230; Delt County Bank v. McGranahan (1905

37 Wash. 307, 79 Pac. 796; First Nat. Bank v. Masterson (1911) 29 Okl. 76, 116 Pac. 162; Parker v. Atwood (1872) 52 N. H. 181; Corey v. Ripley (1869) 57 Me. 69, 2 Am. Rep. 19, 4 N. B. R. 503; Alston v. Robinett (1873) 37 Tex. 56, 9 N. B. R. 74; Howland v. Carson (1876) 28 Ohio St. 625, 16 N. B. R. 372; Milhous v. Aicardi (1874) 51 Ala. 594; Fuller v. Pease (1887) 144 Mass. 390, 11 N. E. 694; Talbott v. Suit (1888) 68 Md. 443, 13 Atl. 356; Way v. Howe (1871) 108 Mass. 502, 11 Am. Rep. 386, 4 N. B. R. 677; Blair v. Hanna (1882) 87 Ind. 298; Brown v. Covenant Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1885) 86 Mo. 51; Brady v. Brady (1883) 71 Ga. 71; Begein v. Brehm (1890) 123 Ind. 160, 23 N. E. 496; Lawver v. Gladden (Pa. 1885) 1 Atl. 659; Thurmond v. Andrews (Ky. 1873) 10 Bush, 400; Stetson v. Bangor (1868) 56 Me. 286; Smith v. Ramsey (1875) 27 Ohio St. 339; Seymour v. Street (1876) 5 Neb. 85; Oates v. Parish (1872) 47 Ala. 157; Sheets v. Hawk (Pa. 1826) 14 Serg. & R. 173; Thomas v. Jones (1875) 39 Wis. 124.

Where a United States district court has discharged a bankrupt, an action to set aside the discharge must be brought in the court that granted it, unless the discharge is an absolute nullity. Andrus v. Cornwell (1914) 64 So. 221, 134 La. 403.

All legal presumptions must be indulged in favor of the order of discharge, and it cannot be held void in a collateral proceeding unless want of jurisdiction in the court which granted it appears affirmatively on the face of the record. Ross-Lewin v. Goold (1904) 211 Ill. 384, 71 N. E. 1028; Williams v. Scott (1898) 122 N. C. 545, 29 S. E. 877. If the bankruptcy court had jurisdiction of the subject-matter, by reason of the filing of a petition which (aided by every presumption and inference) can be held sufficient to confer jurisdiction, then the discharge must be conclusively presumed valid. Ross-Lewin v. Goold (1904) 211 Ill. 384, 71 N. E. 1028; Jones v. Knox (1874) 51 Ala. 367.

A discharge granted by a court having jurisdiction of the estate cannot be treated by any other court as void as to any particular creditor, on the theory that the court never acquired jurisdiction of his person because he was not served with notice of the proceedings, and this, although his name was purposely omitted from the list of creditors, or although the omission to serve him with notice was fraudulent and intentional. Allen v. Thompson (D. C. 1882) 10 Fed. 116; Benedict v. Smith (1886) 48 Mich. 593, 12 N. W. 866; Thornton v. Hogan (1876) 63 Mo. 143; Williams v. Butcher, 12 N. B. R. 143; Sawyer v. Rector (1888) 5 Dak. 110, 37 N. W. 741; Brown v. Kroh (1877) 31 Ohio St. 492; Bailey v. Corruthers (1880) 71 Me. 172; Black v. Blazo (1875) 117 Mass. 17, 18 N. B. R. 195. CONTRA, see Batchelder v. Low (1871) 43 Vt. 662, 5 Am. Rep. 311, 8 N. B. R. 571; Jones v. Knox (1874) 51 Ala. 367.

It is not permissible, in any collateral proceeding, to impeach a discharge in bankruptcy on the ground of fraud practised by the bankrupt in obtaining it (though directed against the particular creditor who complains) or on the ground of a fraudulent concealment of assets or other fraudulent conduct of the bankrupt, since the remedy for these matters is to be sought in the court of bankruptcy and there alone. Ocean Nat. Bank v. Olcott (1871) 46 N. Y. 12; Smith v. Ramsey (1875) 27 Ohio St. 339, 15 N. B. R. 447; Rayl v. Lapham (1875) 27 Ohio St. 452, 15 N. B. R. 508; Oates v. Parish (1872) 47 Ala. 157; Ewell v. Pitman (Ky. 1894) 27 S. W. 870; Farr v. Evans (Pa.) 26 Pittsb. Leg. J. 141; Morris v. Creed (Tenn. 1872) 11 Heisk. 155; Brown v. Causey (1882) 56 Tex. 340; Seymour v. Street (1851) 5 Neb. 85; Wiley v. Pavey (1878) 61 Ind. 457, 28 Am. Rep. 677; Wales v. Lyon (1876) 2 Mich. 276. CONTRA, see Gupton v. Connor (Tenn. 1850) 11 Humph. 287; Bond v. Baldwin (1850) 9 Ga. 9; Shelton v. Pease (1847) 10 Mo. 473.

A creditor who has unsuccessfully opposed the bankrupt's application for discharge is thereby estopped, in a suit which he afterwards brings to recover his debt, and to which the defendant pleads his discharge, from showing that the discharge was fraudulently obtained. Wales v. Lyon (1851) 2 Mich. 276.

No mere irregularities of practice or errors of law alleged to have been committed by the court of bankruptcy can be set up to avoid the effect of the discharge. It cannot be questioned in any other court for any lack of conformity to the provisions of the bankruptcy law, or as having been wrongly, improperly, or irregularly allowed. Grover v. Fox (1877) 36 Mich. 463; Marshall v. Sumner (1879) 59 N. H. 218, 47 Am. Rep. 194; Hudson v. Bigham (Tenn. 1873) 12 Heisk. 58, 8 N. B. R. 494; Dusenbury v. Hoyt (N. Y. 1873) 45 How. Prac. 147; Sinclair v. Smyth (S. C. 1804) 1 Brev. 402. If the plea setting up the discharge shows the court to have had jurisdiction of the petition, and to have proceeded, on the petition, to grant the discharge, all the intermediate steps will be presumed to have been duly and regularly taken. Morrison v. Woolson (1854) 29 N. H. 510; Hubbell v. Cramp (N. Y. 1844) 11 Paige, 310.

An action brought by a creditor on his debt against a discharged bankrupt is not a collateral attack upon the discharge in bankruptcy. Collins v. Davidson (1908) 34 Ohio Cir. Ct. R. 668. It is permissible for a creditor, in such a suit, to show that his debt is one of the kind excepted from the operation of a discharge, as, where it was created by the bankrupt by fraud or while acting in a fiduciary capacity. Sutherland v. Lasher (1903) 41 Misc. Rep. 249, 84 N. Y. Supp. 56; Santa Rosa Bank v. White (1903) 139 Cal. 703, 73 Pac. 577; Stevens v. Brown (1873) 49 Miss. 597, 11 N. B. R. 568; Linn v. Hamilton (1870) 34 N. J. Law, 305; Broadnax v. Bradford (1874) 50 Ala. 270. Or the creditor may show that he had no knowledge of the proceedings in time to file his claim for proof and allowance. Fields v. Rust (1904) 36 Tex. Civ. App. 350, 82 S. W. 331.

Where, in proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction for the discharge of a debtor on a composition, the decree is based on a finding that the bankrupt has not been guilty of any of the acts which would bar his discharge, nor of a failure to perform any of the duties necessary to secure it, which finding was essential to the exercise of the court's jurisdiction, the decree will be binding as to such matters on all parties to the proceeding until properly set aside, and cannot be collaterally impeached. Hoskins v. Velasco Nat. Bank (1908) 48 Tex. Civ. App. 246, 107 S. W. 598.

63. Pleading discharge in bankruptcy.—A discharge in bankruptcy is a plea in bar. House v. Schnadig (1908) 138 Ill. App. 498. It is a perfect defense to a suit on a debt barred thereby. Craig v. Seitz (1886) 63 Mich. 727, 30 N. W. 347. The plea of a discharge in bankruptcy is a legitimate and meritorious defense, which is not regarded with any disfavor by the courts. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Branden (1910) 19 N. D. 489. 126 N. W. 102, 27 L. R. A. (N. S.) 858.

The plea of a discharge in bankruptcy may be interposed in a suit begun before the bankruptcy and still pending after the discharge, as, in a creditor's suit, where it may be set up in a supplemental answer. Stewart v. Isador (N. Y. 1868) 5 Abb. Prac. N. S. 68.

On a rule to set aside a writ of fieri facias, the defendant cannot allege that he was discharged as a bankrupt prior to the date when the judgment was entered. Such a defense was available only at the trial. People's Trust Co. v. Ehrhart (1914) 56 Pa. Super. Ct. 101.

The plaintiff in any pending suit may anticipate the plea of a discharge in bankruptcy, and may, by leave of court and before defendant has pleaded his discharge, discontinue the action, without costs; or if the defendant pleads his discharge, no terms being imposed, and recovers judgment, he will be entitled to his costs the same as in other cases; for the principle that, where a cause of action is extinguished, the action cannot proceed for the mere purpose of recovering costs does not apply to the status of an action to recover a debt after it has been discharged in bankruptcy, the action having been commenced before the discharge. Bank of Commerce v. Elliott (1901) 1 Wis. 648, 85 N. W. 417.

64. —— Necessity of pleading.—T bankrupt, if he wishes to avail himse of the benefit of his discharge in a particular suit, must plead it proper and seasonably, and if he omits to so, it constitutes no bar to the rend tion of a valid judgment against hi In re Nuttall (D. C. 1912) 201 Fe 557, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 800; Fow v. Park (C. C. 1892) 48 Fed. 78 Doggett v. Emerson (C. C. 1846) Fe Cas. No. 3,962; Fellows v. Hall (C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 4,722; City Newark v. Stout (1889) 52 N. J. La 35, 18 Atl. 943; Schreiber v. Sch macker Piano Forte Mfg. Co. (1912) 1 App. Div. 817, 137 N. Y. Supp. 74 Griffith v. Adams (1902) 95 Md. 17 52 Atl. 66; McDougald v. Chattanoog Medicine Co. (1912) 10 Ga. App. 65 73 S. E. 1089; Friedman v. Zweifl (1911) 74 Misc. Rep. 448, 132 N. Y Supp. 320; Broadway Trust Co. Manheim (1905) 47 Misc. Rep. 415, 9 N. Y. Supp. 93; Bank of Commerce Elliott (1901) 109 Wis. 648, 85 N. W 417; Lovell v. Sneed (1906) 79 Ar 204, 95 S. W. 157; Lane v. Holcom (1903) 182 Mass. 360, 65 N. E. 79 Collins v. McWalters (1901) 35 Mis Rep. 648, 72 N. Y. Supp. 203; Bailey Kraus (1903) 39 Misc. Rep. 845, 81 N Y. Supp. 492; Collins v. Hammoc (1877) 59 Ala. 448; Brown v. J. & P Stevens Co. (1884) 52 Conn. 110; Smit v. Cook (1883) 71 Ga. 705; Horner Spelman (1875) 78 Ill. 206; Jenks Opp (1873) 43 Ind. 108; Palmer Moore (1848) 3 La. Ann. 208; Ludelin v. Felton (1877) 29 La. Ann. 710 Jones v. Coker (1876) 53 Miss. 195 Bank of Missouri v. Franciscus (1851) 15 Mo. 303; Cronell v. Dakin (1868) 38 N. Y. 253; Gardner v. Hengehol (1880) 6 Ohio Dec. 997; Park v. Case (1872) 35 Tex. 536; Bellamy v. Wood son (1848) 4 Ga. 175, 48 Am. Dec 221; Finney v. Mayer (1878) 61 Ga 500; Gallaher v. Michel (1874) 26 La Ann. 41; Hollister v. Abbot (1855) 31 N. H. 442, 64 Am. Dec. 342; Steward v. Green (N. Y. 1845) 11 Paige, 535; Paschall v. Bullock (1879) 80 N. C. 329; Bell v. Cunningham (1879) 81 N. C. 83; First Nat. Bank of Broadway, Va., v. Cootes (W. Va. 1914) 81 S. E. 844.

If the defendant in an action fails to plead his discharge in bankruptcy and permits a judgment to go against him, he cannot afterwards, on the ground of the discharge, have relief in equity against any proceedings founded on the judgment, as, by enjoining the levy of execution thereunder. Goodrich v. Hunton (C. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 5,544; Stone v. Schneider-Davis Co. (1908) 51 Tex. Civ. App. 517, 112 S. W. 133; Marsh v. Mandeville (1854) 28 Miss. 122; Rahm v. Minis (1870) 40 Cal. 421; White v. Powell (1905) 38 Tex. Civ. App. 38, 84 S. W. 836.

Nor can he have the judgment set aside, in order to enable him to plead his discharge. Mack Mfg. Co. v. Van Duerson (C. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 953.

A discharge in bankruptcy must be pleaded affirmatively in a proceeding by scire facias to revive a judgment, as well as in an original suit. In re Wesson (D. C. 1881) 88 Fed. 855; Spring Run Coal Co. v. Tozier (1883) 102 Pa. 342; Stewart v. Colwell (1854) 24 Pa. 67; Duncan v. Hargrove (1853) 22 Ala. 150.

Where a suit is pending against several defendants, and one of them obtains his discharge in bankruptcy, but does not plead it, and judgment is rendered against them all and the amount is paid by one of the other defendants, the latter is entitled to enforce contribution from the bankrupt. Brown v. J. & E. Stevens Co. (1882) 52 Conn. 110.

The court of bankruptcy cannot and will not do anything to relieve a defendant who, failing to plead his discharge in a suit in another court on a dischargeable debt, suffers a judgment. In re Ferguson (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 4,738.

Laches in making an application for leave to plead a discharge in bankruptcy is a sufficient ground for denying such application. Medbury v. Swan (1871) 46 N. Y. 200. Where the defendant in a suit filed an answer which made no reference to the fact that he had been discharged in bankruptcy, and first brought that fact to the attention of the court by a motion in arrest of judgment, three weeks after a verdict had been returned against him, and did not attempt to plead his discharge in bar until nearly seven months after the verdict, it was held that he had waived his right to do so. Lane v. Holcomb (1903) 182 Mass. 360, 65 N. E. 794.

Where the bankrupt has had no opportunity to plead his discharge before judgment goes against him, he does not lose its protection by the rendition of a judgment on a dischargeable debt. Ewing v. Peck (1850) 17 Ala. 339; Brown v. Branch Bank of Montgomery (1852) 20 Ala. 420; Milhous v. Aicardi (1874) 51 Ala. 594.

Where the failure to plead the discharge was due to the fact that the attorney representing the defendant in that litigation was unaware of it, it was held that leave might be granted to vacate the judgment given against him and for him to plead the discharge, but only on terms including the payment of costs and disbursements. De Marco v. Mass (1900) 31 Misc. Rep. 827, 64 N. Y. Supp. 768.

65. —— Who may plead discharge.— A plea of discharge in bankruptcy is personal to the debtor, and he may waive the benefit of his discharge by failing to plead it, and no one can plead it for him. Taber v. Donovan (1909) 156 Mich. 652, 121 N. W. 481; Ludeling v. Felton (1877) 29 La. Ann. 719; Manwarring v. Kouns (1872) 35 Tex. 171; Horner v. Spelman (1875) 78 Ill. 206; Goodrich v. Hunton (C. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 5,544; Bush v. Stanley (1887) 122 Ill. 406, 13 N. E. 249; Bank of Commerce v. Elliott (1901) 109 Wis. 648, 85 N. W. 417; First International Bank v. Lee (N. D. 1913) 141 N. W. 716.

The plea of a discharge in bankruptcy of one defendant in an action cannot be set up by a codefendant. George Bohon Co. v. Moren & Sipple (1913) 151 Ky. 811, 152 S. W. 944. Nor by one who is in possession of property of the debtor, transferred with an intent to defraud creditors, in an action to set aside such transfer. Dewey v. Moyer (N. Y. 1877) 9 Hun, 473.

The plea of a discharge in bankruptcy may be made by the personal representatives of the bankrupt, and his administrator cannot waive the benefit of the discharge by failing to plead it. Parker v. Grant (1884) 91 N. C. 338. A discharge may be pleaded by the heirs of the bankrupt, or by his widow in an action to recover land formerly belonging to the bankrupt and transferred to her through the agency of a third person. Upshur v. Briscoe (1891) 138 U. S. 365, 11 Sup. Ct. 313, 34 L. Ed. 931.

A surety of the bankrupt may plead the latter's discharge in bankruptcy, in respect to the transaction out of which the surety's liability is supposed to grow. McDonald v. State (1881) 77 Ind. 26; Bouie v. Pucket (Tenn. 1846) 7 Humph. 169.

Where the question respects the discharge in bankruptcy as affecting a lien on property, it may be pleaded by any one claiming an interest in the property adverse to the lien asserted. Fleitas v. Mellen (C. C. 1889) 39 Fed. 129.

Where the object of the plea is not to show the bankrupt's immunity from liability for his past debts, but to show (as a fact relevant to the issue on trial) that the claim of a particular creditor was released or extinguished by the discharge, it may be alleged as matter of fact by any party who finds it a necessary part of his claim or defense. Fleitas v. Richardson (1893) 147 U. S. 550, 13 Sup. Ct. 495, 37 L. Ed. 276.

66. —— Form and effect of plea.— The mode of pleading a discharge in bankruptcy is to be determined by the mode of pleading in the state courts. Landly & Co. v. Cummins (1883) 5 Ky. Law Rep. 511.

A state court has the right to proceed with any case pending before it until the discharge in bankruptcy is brought to its notice by a proper and sufficient plea. Bennett v. Lewis (1902) 66 S. W. 523, 23 Ky. Law Rep. 2037. Whether a judgment against one who is thereafter adjudged a bankrupt is thereby discharged is a question properly raised by pleading the discharge in a proceeding to enforce the judgment, and not by a petition in the bankruptcy court to enjoin the judgment creditor from enforcing it. Hellman v. Goldstone (1908) 161 Fed. 913, 88 C. C. A. 604, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 539.

A plea of a discharge in bankruptcy is not sufficient unless it sets forth the facts on which jurisdiction both of the subject-matter and of the person depend. Bailey v. Kraus (1903) 39 Misc. Rep. 845, 81 N. Y. Supp. 492; Ruckman v. Cowell (1848) 1 N. Y. 505; Sackett v. Andross (N. Y. 1843) 5 Hill, 327; Stephens v. Ely (N. Y. 1844) 6 Hill, 607; Stow v. Parks (Wis. 1849) 1 Chand. 60; Wiggins v. Shapleigh (1846) 20 N. H. 444; Morse v. Presby (1852) 25 N. H. 299; Landly v. Cummins (1883) 5 Ky. Law Rep. 511. CONTRA, Rowan v. Holcomb (1847) 16 Ohio, 463; Mount v. Manhattan Co. (1886) 41 N. J. Eq. 211, 3 Atl. 726; Bryant v. Kinyon (1901) 127 Mich. 152, 86 N. W. 531, 53 L. R. A. 801; Hays v. Ford (1876) 55 Ind. 52; Cromwell v. Burr (N. Y. 1880) 59 How. Prac. 93.

Where the state law provides that a judgment may be pleaded by stating that it was duly given or made, a plea alleging that the defendant was "duly adjudged" a bankrupt in a designated federal court sufficiently alleges the jurisdiction of that court. Broadway Trust Co. v. Manheim (1905) 47 Misc. Rep. 415, 95 N. Y. Supp. 93.

The plea of a discharge in bankruptcy should name the court in which the discharge was granted. Morrison v. Woolson (1854) 29 N. H. 510; Bailey v. Kraus (1903) 39 Misc. Rep. 845, 81 N. Y. Supp. 492. And it should aver the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, that being a fundamental jurisdictional fact. Cutter v. Folsom (1845) 17 N. H. 139; Wiggins v. Shapleigh (1846) 20 N. H. 444; Price v. Bray (1848) 21 N. J. Law, 13; McCormick v. Pickering (1850) 4 N. Y. 276. It should state the date of the filing of such petition, if it has any bearing on the availability of the discharge as a defense to the claim in suit. House v. Johnson (1904) 19 Colo. App. 524, 76 Pac. 743; Stephenson v. Bird (1910) 168 Ala. 363, 53 South. 93. And it should allege the residence or domicile of the bankrupt within the territorial jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court for the requisite length of time. Cutter v. Folsom (1845) 17 N. H. 139; Wiggins v. Shapleigh (1850) 20 N. H. 444; McCormick v. Pickering (1850) 4 N. Y. 276; Price v. Bray (1847) 21 N. J. Law, 13.

A defect in a plea of a discharge in bankruptcy, in failing to set forth such facts as will show the jurisdiction of the court, may be waived by pleading over. Price v. Bray (1847) 21 N. J. Law, 13.

It is necessary to show the jurisdiction of the court, and to allege that the defendant has been discharged by the judgment of the proper court, and h received his certificate of dischar Hayes v. Flowers (1852) 25 Miss. 16 City of Newark v. Stout (1889) 52 J. Law, 35, 18 Atl. 943. But not allege all the different proceedings ta en to entitle him to his dischar White v. How (C. C. 1843) Fed. Ca No. 17,549; Lathrop v. Stuart (C. 1850) Fed. Cas. No. 8,113; Johnson Ball (1844) 15 N. H. 407; Wiggins Shapleigh (1846) 20 N. H. 444; M Cormick v. Pickering (1850) 4 N. 276; Preston v. Simons (S. C. 184 1 Rich. L. 262; Downer v. Chamberl (1849) 21 Vt. 414. It is not necessa to allege that the requisite notices h been given to the creditors and othe before the discharge was grante Weld v. Locke (1836) 8 N. H. 14 Wiggins v. Shapleigh (1846) 20 N. 444; State v. Gaston (1890) 52 N. Law, 321, 19 Atl. 608; McCormi v. Pickering (1850) 4 N. Y. 276. T plea will be good if it sets out the o der of discharge after a "talliter pr cessum est" or other equivalent for of allegation. Price v. Bray (184 21 N. J. Law, 13. In passing on a d murrer to a plea or answer setting a discharge in bankruptcy, the cou will assume that every step in t bankruptcy proceedings prior to and the time of the discharge was in respects regular and complied with e ery requirement of the statute. Jarec Mfg. Co. v. McElwaine (C. C. 190 107 Fed. 249, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 75

It is necessary for the plea of a di charge in bankruptcy to show that t claim or debt in suit, and to which it interposed as a defense, was a provab debt in the bankruptcy proceeding and this should be done by alleging th it was listed in the bankrupt's schedul or, if not so listed, that the credit had notice or knowledge of the ban ruptcy proceedings in time to prove h claim and have it allowed. Currier King (1908) 81 Vt. 285, 69 Atl. 87 Balk v. Harris (1902) 130 N. C. 38 41 S. E. 940; Johnson v. Waxelbau Co. (1907) 1 Ga. App. 511, 58 S. 56; Bennett v. Lewis (1902) 66 S. 523, 23 Ky. Law Rep. 2037; Biela Urbanczyk (1905) 38 Tex. Civ. Ap 213, 85 S. W. 451. But compare B. Roden Grocery Co. v. Leslie (1910) 1 Ala. 579, 53 South. 815; Morrison Woolson (1851) 23 N. H. 11; Ha rington v. McNaughton (1848) 20 293. And the plea should show th the demand in suit was not contract after the defendant was adjudicated bankrupt. Fowler v. Michael (Te Civ. App. 1904) 81 S. W. 321. But is not necessary for the defendant allege or show that the debt in questi is not one of those excepted from t operation of the bankruptcy act. the plaintiff contends that the debt w of a fiduciary character, contracted fraud, for willful injury to the perso etc., it is for him to allege this fact reply, but not for the defendant to negative it in advance. Rowan v. Holcomb (1847) 16 Ohio, 463; State v. Beck (1911) 175 Ind. 312, 93 N. E. 664; McNeil v. Knott (1852) 11 Ga. 142; Donald v. Kell (1887) 111 Ind. 1, 11 N. E. 782; Wiggins v. Shapleigh (1846) 20 N. H. 444; McCabe v. Cooney (N. Y. 1849) 2 Sandf. Ch. 314; Stow v. Parks (Wis. 1849) 1 Chand. 60. CONTRA, see Jordan v. Gatewood (Ind. 1848) Smith, 82; Bivens v. Newcomb (1850) 2 Ind. 98; Frost v. Tibbetts (1849) 30 Me. 188; Hayes v. Flowers (1852) 25 Miss. 169; Sackett v. Andross (N. Y. 1843) 5 Hill 327; Maples v. Burnside (N. Y. 1845) 1 Denio, 332.

A plea of the defendant's bankruptcy should conclude with a verification. Kirby v. Garrison (1847) 21 N. J. Law, 179; Stoll v. Wilson (1875) 38 N. J. Law, 198; Patrick v. Brown (Pa. 1870) 7 Phila. 133; Mayer v. Gimbel (Pa. 1873) 9 Phila. 90; Downer v. Chamberlin (1849) 21 Vt. 414. And a certificate of the discharge should be filed with the plea. Stoll v. Wilson (1875) 38 N. J. Law, 198. But the court cannot dismiss the action merely on the filing of such a plea, but must submit the issue to the jury. Austin v. Markham (1871) 44 Ga. 161; Cooper v. Cooper (1853) 9 N. J. Eq. 566. And a debtor will be estopped from pleading in bar, in a suit in a state court, a discharge in bankruptcy obtained pendente lite, where he fraudulently concealed from his creditor the pendency of the proceedings in bankruptcy until after the discharge was granted, and the creditor had no actual notice of the pendency of such proceedings. Batchelder v. Low (1871) 43 Vt. 662, 5 Am. Rep. 311. A defective plea of discharge in bankruptcy is amendable on terms. McNeil v. Knott (1852) 11 Ga. 142; Stoll v. Wilson (1875) 38 N. J. Law, 198; Bailey v. Kraus (1902) 39 Misc. Rep. 845, 81 N. Y. Supp. 494.

In an action at law, if the suit was begun before the discharge in bankruptcy and is pending, the discharge should be pleaded in bar by a plea "puis darrein continuance," or by such form of answer as is equivalent thereto. Reeves v. McCracken (1905) 69 N. J. Eq. 203, 60 Atl. 332; Platt v. Cole (C. C. 1880) 5 Fed. 260; Penn v. Edwards (1873) 50 Ala. 63; Keene v. Mould (1847) 16 Ohio, 12; Humble v. Carson, 6 N. B. R. 84. If the proceeding is in equity, the discharge, granted since the commencement of the suit, may be set up by a supplemental answer. Kahn v. Casper (1900) 51 App. Div. 540, 64 N. Y. Supp. 838; Holyoke v. Adams (N. Y. 1874) 1 Hun, 223. Or by a cross-bill. Banque Franco-Egyptienne v. Brown (C. C. 1885) 24 Fed. 106. Where a defendant, before judgment against him, has suggested his bankruptcy, and filed a written motion for a continuance, he may, on subsequently obtaining a review, plead his discharge in bankruptcy in bar of the action. Todd v. Barton (1875) 117 Mass. 291.

In a proper case, the court may impose terms on granting an application for leave to plead a discharge in bankruptcy obtained pending the suit, as a waiver of any costs up to the time of setting up the defense. Bank of Commerce v. Elliott (1901) 109 Wis. 648, 85 N. W. 417.

If the defendant in an action pleads his discharge in bankruptcy, and the plaintiff means to contend that the discharge does not release his claim, because it belongs to one of the classes of debts expressly excepted by the statute, he should set up this matter by a replication. Kellogg v. Kimball (1885) 138 Mass. 441; Cooper Grocery Co. v. Blume (Tex. Civ. App. 1913) 156 S. W. 1157; Cogburn v. Spence (1849) 15 Ala. 549, 50 Am. Dec. 140; Stewart v. Hargrove (1853) 23 Ala. 429; Brereton v. Hull (N. Y. 1845) 1 Denio, 75. Compare Shelton v. Pease (1847) 10 Mo. 473. And the same course is proper where he means to avoid the effect of the discharge by showing a new promise on the part of the defendant to pay the debt in suit. Young v. Denslinger (1878) 2 Ill. App. 22. But where, in a suit on a note, the answer sets up a discharge in bankruptcy before suit, it does not justify a reply that the money for which it was given was obtained on false pretenses. Strauch v. Flynn (1909) 108 Minn. 313, 122 N. W. 320.

67. Evidence as to discharge.—When a discharge in bankruptcy is pleaded in defense to an action, and the plaintiff contends that the discharge is not operative as to his debt, or that, for any reason, he is not bound by it, the burden is on him to establish this fact. Broadway Trust Co. v. Manheim (1905) 47 Misc. Rep. 415, 95 N. Y. Supp. 93. It is not incumbent on the bankrupt, in the first instance, to show that the claim sued on was provable in the bankruptcy proceedings, where it appears on its face to be so provable. Bailey v. Gleason (1903) 76 Vt. 115, 56 Atl. 537. But see Baker v. Hughes (1909) 5 Ga. App. 586, 63 S. E. 587.

A bankrupt pleading his discharge as a defense to an action, or as a basis for affirmative relief, must assume the burden of showing either that the debt was duly listed in his schedule, or that the creditor had notice or actual knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings in time to have filed his claim and procured its allowance. Weidenfeld v. Tillinghast (1907) 54 Misc. Rep. 90, 104 N. Y. Supp. 712; Graber v. Gault (1905) 103 App. Div. 511, 93 N. Y. Supp. 76; Bailey v. Gleason (1903) 76 Vt. 115, 56 Atl. 537; Fields v. Rust (1904) 36 Tex. Civ. App. 350, 82 S. W. 331. CONTRA, See Alling v. Straka (1905) 118 Ill. App. 184; Laffoon v. Kerner (1905) 138 N. C. 281, 50 S. E. 654. The bankrupt's evidence must identify the claim in suit with the one listed in the schedule. Kreitlein v. Ferger (Ind. App. 1912) 97 N. E. 819; B. F. Roden Grocery Co. v. Leslie (1910) 169 Ala. 579, 53 South. 815; Anthony v. Sturdivant (1911) 174 Ala. 521, 56 South. 571.

If the debt was scheduled and is identified, it is not incumbent on the bankrupt to show that the creditor had notice or knowledge of the proceedings in bankruptcy, as that will be presumed. New York Institution for Instruction of Deaf and Dumb v. Crockett (1907) 117 App. Div. 269, 102 N. Y. Supp. 412; Stevens v. King (1897) 16 App. Div. 377, 44 N. Y. Supp. 893; Claflin v. Wolff (N. J. 1915) 96 Atl. 73.

While a debt or claim omitted from the schedule may still be barred by the discharge, yet the burden in this case is on the bankrupt to show that the creditor had such timely notice or actual knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings as is necessary under the statute to bring about this result. George F. Sloan & Bro. v. Grollman (1910) 113 Md. 192, 77 Atl. 577; Wineman v. Fisher (1904) 135 Mich. 604, 98 N. W. 404.

The presumption is that all scheduled debts are released by the discharge, and hence if a creditor, suing after the discharge, contends that his particular claim is not affected, because within one of the classes specially excepted by the statute, as having been created by fraud, embezzlement, defalcation of a trustee, etc., then he must assume the burden of proving this contention. Bailey v. Gleason (1903) 76 Vt. 115, 56 Atl. 537; In re Peterson (1910) 137 App. Div. 435, 121 N. Y. Supp. 738; Tompkins v. Williams (1910) 137 App. Div. 521, 122 N. Y. Supp. 152; Culver v. Torrey (1901) 34 Misc. Rep. 793, 69 N. Y. Supp. 919; In re Peterson's Estate (1909) 64 Misc. Rep. 217, 118 N. Y. Supp. 1077; Van Norman v. Young (1907) 228 Ill. 425, 81 N. E. 1060; Gatliff v. Mackey (1907) 104 S. W. 379, 31 Ky. Law Rep. 947; Hallagan v. Dowell (Iowa, 1913) 139 N. W. 883; Gregory v. Edgerly (1885) 17 Neb. 374, 22 N. W. 703; Sherwood v. Mitchell (N. Y. 1847) 4 Denio, 435.

A certified copy of an order granting a discharge, not revoked, shall be evidence of the jurisdiction of the court, the regularity of the proceedings, and of the fact that the order was made. Bankruptcy Act 1898, § 21f. And see Nation v. Jones (1907) 3 Ga. App. 83, 59 S. E. 330; United Society of Shakers v. Underwood (1875) 74 Ky. (11 Bush) 265, 21 Am. Rep. 214; Hays v. Ford (1876) 55 Ind. 52, 15 N. B. R. 569.

Where the claim in suit, and against which the discharge is pleaded, consists of a judgment, and it is contended that the judgment is excepted from the operation of the discharge because rendered in an action for fraud, this qu tion must be determined by an insp tion of the record of the action which the judgment was rendered, a the showing made by such record conclusive. Louisville & N. R. Co. Bryant (1912) 149 Ky. 359, 149 S. 830; Forsyth v. Vehmeyer (1898) 1 Ill. 359, 52 N. E. 55. If it is claim that the judgment in question was "willful and malicious injury to person or property," the fact of being based on such a cause of acti may be shown by record eviden Flanders v. Mullin (1907) 80 Vt. 1 66 Atl. 789, 12 Ann. Cas. 1010.

It is for a jury to determine, up competent and sufficient eviden whether or not the plaintiff's cla against the bankrupt, not having be reduced to judgment, was created the fraud of the bankrupt. Culver Torrey (1901) 34 Misc. Rep. 793, N. Y. Supp. 919. Or by his false rep sentations or false pretenses. Atla Skirt Mfg. Co. v. Jacobs (1910) 8 App. 299, 68 S. E. 1077. And wheth or not the creditor had notice or kno edge of the proceedings in bankrupt Troy v. Rudnick (1908) 198 Mass. 5 85 N. E. 177; Bergmann v. Ma (1910) 141 App. Div. 102, 125 N. Supp. 973; Fields v. Rust (1904) Tex. Civ. App. 350, 82 S. W. 3 Armstrong v. Sweeney (1905) 73 N 775, 103 N. W. 436. And it is a qu tion of fact for a jury when the ba rupt's contention is that a certain p son was acting as the creditor's age so that his knowledge of the proce ings should be imputed to the credit Atkinson v. Elmore (1903) 103 M App. 403, 77 S. W. 492.

68. Effect of refusal of discharge failure to apply.—If the bankrupt d not obtain his discharge, none of t proceedings in the bankruptcy case w in any way affect the demands of creditors against him. Whitney Crafts (1813) 10 Mass. 23; Chandler Windship (1810) 6 Mass. 310; Lu mus v. Fairfield (1809) 5 Mass. 2 And a creditor who has proved claim and accepted and received dividend thereon is not estopped fr collecting the remainder of his debt any proper way, if the bankrupt is discharged, but the dividend will me ly reduce his cause of action pro tan Hamlin v. Hamlin (1857) 56 N. 191; American Woolen Co. v. Maa (1912) 86 Conn. 234, 85 Atl. 583.

If the bankrupt fails to apply for discharge, the order of the court proving the record and closing the c without granting a discharge is equiv lent to a judgment by default in fav of the bankrupt's then existing cre tors, and is res judicata in any sub quent bankruptcy proceeding, precl ing him from obtaining a dischar therein from any debts previou scheduled. In re Bramlett (D.

1908) 161 Fed. 588, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 402; In re Elby (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 935, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 734. And the fact that a claim so scheduled is afterwards reduced to judgment does not create a new debt which could form the basis for a subsequent bankruptcy proceeding and discharge therein. In re Schnabel (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 383, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 22; In re Kuffler (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 1018, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 181.

When the bankrupt's application for a discharge is denied, the right to sue him upon any existing claim revives. Storrs v. Plumb (N. Y. 1883) 30 Hun, 319. And the refusal of a discharge renders the issue of his right to a discharge from any debts provable in that proceeding res judicata, so that he is not entitled to retry it in a second proceeding. In re Kuffler (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 1018, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 181.

A creditor who desires to rely upon the order refusing a discharge, as res judicata in a second proceeding instituted some years later, must prove it or otherwise call it to the attention of the court of bankruptcy, and if he fails to do so, and a general discharge is granted in the second proceeding, a state court must give effect to it in any proceedings thereafter brought to enforce the creditor's claim. Youngman v. Salvage (1911) 21 N. D. 317, 130 N. W. 930, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1181.

VI. DISCHARGE OF PARTNERS

69. Discharge of partners separately.—Where a firm and its members have been adjudged bankrupt on the voluntary petition of the partners composing it, either partner, without reference to the others, may present his individual petition for a separate discharge; and the petition should recite the adjudication of the firm and of the petitioner as a member of it, and should pray for a discharge from both firm and individual debts, and the notice to creditors should advise them of the same facts. In re Meyers (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 757, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 260. Where a member of a firm filed a petition individually to be adjudged a bankrupt, and the petition was silent as to any partnership assets or liabilities, though the schedule disclosed individual and partnership debts, and the creditors of the firm were not notified, the bankrupt was not entitled to a discharge from firm debts, though the firm had been dissolved and was without assets, and the firm debts were barred by limitation. In re Morrison (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 186, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 498.

When the partnership as such is not in bankruptcy, but only the individual partners on their separate voluntary petitions, they are not entitled to a discharge which will release them from the debts of the firm. In re Meyers (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 408, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 707.

A discharge purporting on its face to release one member of a firm from his individual debts will not discharge him from the firm liabilities. Honegger v. Wettstein (1881) 47 N. Y. Super. Ct. 125.

A discharge in bankruptcy granted to a member of a firm in proceedings based on a voluntary petition in which both the firm and the individual partners joined, and on which the petitioners were adjudged bankrupt as prayed, should be made to cover his liability on the debts of the firm and also his individual debts. In re Gay (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 870, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529.

The discharge of one partner cannot be made operative in favor of the other, and it will not release such other from the indebtedness of the firm. Payne v. Able (1870) 7 Bush (Ky.) 344, 3 Am. Rep. 316.

A discharge in bankruptcy of two general partners cannot be set up in favor of a special partner in an action against the three as general partners, on the ground that the special partner had made himself liable as a general partner. Abendroth v. Van Dolsen (1889) 131 U. S. 66, 9 Sup. Ct. 619, 33 L. Ed. 57.

The failure to keep proper books of account may prevent the discharge of both partners, though the fault was wholly that of one of them. In re George (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 5,325.

While the trial of objections to the discharge of partners may be joint, the decrees thereon must be several. Id.

70. Discharge of partnership as such.—When the proceeding in bankruptcy is against the firm as a legal entity, but does not include adjudications against the partners separately, it is only the firm which is entitled to a discharge, and the court cannot grant discharges to the partners as individuals. In re Neyland (D. C. 1910) 184 Fed. 144, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 879; In re Hale (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 432, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 35.

VII. DISCHARGE OF CORPORATIONS

71. In general.—A corporation is entitled to a discharge in bankruptcy in the same circumstances as a natural person, but such discharge will not prevent creditors from subsequently taking a judgment against the corporation in a state court, in such limited form as may enable them to enforce the secondary liability of the directors under the state statute, to which, by the terms of the statute, a judgment against the corporation is a prerequisite. In re Marshall Paper Co. (1900) 102 Fed. 872, 43 C. C. A. 38, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 468.

§ 9599. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 15.) Discharges, when revoke Discharges, when Revoked.—a The judge may, upon the applic tion of parties in interest who have not been guilty of undue lache filed at any time within one year after a discharge shall have be granted, revoke it upon a trial if it shall be made to appear th it was obtained through the fraud of the bankrupt, and that t knowledge of the fraud has come to the petitioners since the grantin of the discharge, and that the actual facts did not warrant the di charge. (30 Stat. 550.)

Notes of Decisions

1. Revocation of discharge.—A petition for the revocation of a discharge may be referred to the referee as special commissioner, to ascertain and report upon the matters of fact alleged in the petition. In re Meyers (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 775.

The jurisdiction to revoke or cancel a discharge is vested exclusively in the court of bankruptcy which granted it, and a federal court of equity in a district other than that in which the discharge was granted, has no jurisdiction to set it aside for fraud. Atlantic Dynamite Co. v. Reger (D. C. 1912) 200 Fed. 1002, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 659; Nicholas v. Murray (C. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 10,223.

The court of bankruptcy has power, on motion of a proper party, or even on its own motion, to set aside or recall an order of discharge for such causes (aside from the charge of fraud in obtaining it) as would justify that action in any other case, as, for instance, mistake, surprise, or unavoidable accident. In re Louisville Nat. Banking Co. (1908) 158 Fed. 403, 85 C. C. A. 513; In re Bimberg (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 942, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 601; In re Dupee (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 4,183. But this power cannot be exercised after the expiration of a year from the time of granting the discharge. In re Cuthbertson (D. C. 1912) 202 Fed. 266, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 923.

A petition for the revocation of a discharge which merely alleges that the petitioner is a "creditor" does not sufficiently show that he is a "party in interest," but it must allege that he had a provable debt which would be affected by a discharge. In re Chandler (1905) 138 Fed. 637, 71 C. C. A. 87, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 512. A creditor whose claim is entirely wiped out by the bankrupt's discharge is a party in interest and may attack the discharge for fraud. The cash surrender value of the life policies assigned in good faith by bankrupt being only $17, in which the objecting creditor could not participate, the discharge will not be revoked, as for fraud. In re Levy (D. C. 1915) 227 Fed. 1011.

A creditor's right to apply to vacate a bankrupt's discharge is not affected by the creditor's failure to file proof of its scheduled claim. In re Walsh (D. C. 1914) 213 Fed. 643; In re Bimberg (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 942, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 601. But see Arringt v. Arrington (D. C. 1904) 132 F 200, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 89.

A creditor who neglects to file o jections to the bankrupt's discharge due time, and afterwards discove fraud, may require the bankrupt take his discharge and then apply revoke it. In re Fowler (D. C. 187 Fed. Cas. No. 4,999.

The bankrupt himself is a party interest, and may move to have t discharge set aside, for the purpose amending his schedules by includi debts which were originally omitt through mistake or inadvertence. re McKee (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 2 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 309.

A petition to vacate a discharge the statutory ground of fraud must forth distinctly each one of the fa necessary to sustain it and to just the action asked for. In re Cuthbe son (D. C. 1912) 202 Fed. 266, 29 A Bankr. Rep. 823; Vary v. Jacks (1908) 164 Fed. 840, 90 C. C. A. 6 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 334; In re Ba (D. C. 1886) 27 Fed. 604. Moving p pers on an application to set aside bankrupt's discharge should set o facts which, if proved, would require denial of the discharge and show th the creditor has reasonable pro prima facie sufficient to require a d nial of an application for dischar In re Walsh (D. C. 1914) 213 Fed. 6

The law does not authorize a rehe ing or new trial on specifications ready filed in opposition to the d charge, and which were heard and d termined before the discharge, even the opposing creditor can adduce n facts, happening since the dischar which would be competent evidence a new trial were authorized by t statute. In re Corwin (D. C. 1880) Fed. 847.

The burden of proof is on a petitio er seeking to have the discharge vac ed, and he must prove, by sufficient e dence, every fact essential to the j risdiction of the court and to its e ercise in the particular case. In Cuthbertson (D. C. 1912) 202 Fed. 2 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 823; In re St son (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 13,3

2. —— Time for application—Lach —The period of one year within whi an application to revoke a bankrup discharge must be filed begins to r from the date of the order granting t discharge, and not from the discovery of the fraud on which the application is based. Mall v. Ulrich (D. C. 1888) 37 Fed. 653; Pickett v. McGavick (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 11,126; In re Brown (D. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 1,-983; In re Herzig (N. Y. 1884) 16 Abb. New Cas. 179.

An action to set aside the discharge of a bankrupt must be brought within a year from the discharge, and a state court, if it had jurisdiction, could not set it aside where more than a year had elapsed. Andrus v. Cornwell (1914) 64 So. 221, 134 La. 403.

The requirement that the application shall be presented within the year is a limitation directly on the power or jurisdiction of the court, as distinguished from a limitation on the cause of action, so that, if this provision of the law is not complied with, it is beyond the power of the court to revoke the discharge. In re Howard (D. C. 1913) 201 Fed. 577; In re Cuthbertson (D. C. 1912) 202 Fed. 266, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 823.

Application for leave to amend a petition for the revocation of a bankrupt's discharge will be refused when the year has fully run, when the petition as originally presented was insufficient, though filed in due time. In re Howard (D. C. 1913) 201 Fed. 577; In re Sims (D. C. 1881) 9 Fed. 440.

A creditor who had ample opportunity during the pendency of the proceedings to examine the bankrupt fully as to all matters regarded as fraudulent or suspicious, and who appeared in opposition to his discharge, and was given time to file specifications of opposition, but failed to do so, and permitted the discharge to be granted without further objection, is not entitled to be heard on a subsequent application to revoke the discharge, being guilty of laches. In re Upson (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 980; In re Mauzy (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 900, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 59. The case may be otherwise where the petitioner had no opportunity either to discover the fraud in question before the discharge was granted or to allege it in opposition to the discharge. In re Griffin Bros. (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 537, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 78. But one in this position must show very clearly how and when he acquired information of the fraud, and that he failed to receive notice of the application for discharge or was otherwise prevented from setting it up at that time. In re Howard (D. C. 1913) 201 Fed. 577.

An unexplained delay of eight months will be ground for refusing to entertain a petition for the revocation of a discharge. In re Downing (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 329, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 778.

Where the interest of the creditors who petitioned for a review of the discharge was small in comparison with the aggregate of the debts, and the bankrupt had resumed his business on the faith of his discharge, and had entered into extensive contracts, held, that five months was too unreasonable a delay on the part of the creditors, no sufficient excuse being offered and the petition must be dismissed. In re Murray (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 9,953.

Where a bankrupt was discharged October 20, 1904, and an application filed by a creditor January 5, 1905, to revoke the discharge, was not brought on for hearing for over seven years, during which time the bankrupt died, the creditor's right to prosecute his application was barred by laches as against heirs and legal representatives of the bankrupt. Drees v. Waldron (1914) 212 Fed. 93, 128 C. C. A. 609.

A creditor is not barred by laches from attacking the discharge, having acted in a month after ascertaining the facts. In re Levy (D. C. 1915) 227 Fed. 1011.

3. —— Grounds for revoking.—Fraud practiced in obtaining a discharge in bankruptcy, as a ground for revoking it, means bad faith, involving moral turpitude or intentional wrong, as distinguished from fraud in law. In re Cuthbertson (D. C. 1912) 202 Fed. 266, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 823; In re Griffin Bros. (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 537, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 78. It must be actual fraud knowingly practiced by the bankrupt. In re Wright (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 578, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 437. And it must have been practiced in obtaining the discharge, and fraud committed by the bankrupt at any earlier stage of the proceedings should be set up in opposition to his application for discharge, but cannot be presented as a ground for revoking it. In re Hoover (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 354, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 247; In re Adams (D. C. 1887) 29 Fed. 843.

The willful and fraudulent concealment of property, practiced by the bankrupt throughout the whole proceedings, and continued up to and through the proceedings on his application for discharge, constitutes the suppression of a fact which, if it had been known, would have barred his right to a discharge, and therefore may be considered as fraud in the obtaining of the discharge, so that, if it comes to the knowledge of parties in interest only after the discharge has been granted, and they act promptly, it will furnish ground for revoking the discharge. In re Meyers (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 775; In re Paine (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 246, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 351; In re Augenstein (D. C. 1875) 2 MacArthur, 322, 16 N. B. R. 252; In re Rainsford (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 381, Fed. Cas. No. 11,537. See, also, In re Hansen (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 252, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 747; Throop v. Griffin (1897) 180 Pa. 452, 36 Atl. 865. Failure of a bankrupt to schedule an interest in certain real property which had been conveyed to a trustee held not fraud in fact, sufficient to justify a vacation of the discharge. In re Cuthbertson (D. C. 1912) 202 Fed. 266, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 823.

The willful and intentional omission of a creditor's name or address from the bankrupt's schedule may be ground for annulling the discharge, when done with the purpose of keeping the proceeding secret from that creditor and preventing him from opposing the discharge. In re Herrick (D. C. 1873) 7 N. B. R. 341, Fed. Cas. No. 6,419. But the omission by a bankrupt of a debt from the schedule annexed to his petition is not ground for setting aside the discharge, where there was no fraudulent purpose, although the omitted creditor had no notice of the bankruptcy proceedings in time to have proved his claim, since in this case the creditor is not prejudiced by the discharge. In re Monroe (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 398, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 706.

It is fraud practiced in obtaining a discharge if the bankrupt, though knowing the correct address of a creditor, causes the notice of his application for discharge to be sent to a wrong address, so that the creditor has no knowledge of the application for discharge in time to oppose it. In re Roosa (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 542, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 531. But see In re Fritz (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 560, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 84. A bankruptcy court has no jurisdiction to set aside a discharge on the ground that the objecting creditor did not receive his notice of the application for discharge, which was duly mailed. In re Walsh (D. C. 1914) 213 Fed. 643.

It is a fraud upon the law and ground for revoking a discharge where a creditor who has filed specifications of opposition thereto is induced, by a pecuniary consideration, to withdraw hi opposition and permit the discharge t be granted as unopposed, and thi though the payment was not made b the bankrupt but by a third person, i the bankrupt knew of and consented t the arrangement. In re Dietz (D. C 1899) 97 Fed. 563, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep 316. Compare Heim v. Chapman (1898 171 Mass. 347, 50 N. E. 529. Wher certain of the objecting creditors with drew their opposition without any cor rupt motive, but without notifying othe creditors who had relied on the specifi cations filed as representing their ow objections and instructed their attor neys to co-operate with the attorney of the objecting creditors, it was fraud on the law and a ground for re voking the discharge. In re Dietz (D C. 1899) 97 Fed. 563, 3 Am. Bankr Rep. 316.

Knowledge of the fraud alleged mus have come to the objecting creditor "since the discharge was granted," since, if they knew of it in time to se it up in opposition to the applicatio for discharge, they are estopped fron alleging it as a ground of revocation In re Fowler (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas No. 4,999. A discharge will not be se aside when the fraudulent acts relie on by the creditors were suspected an believed to exist, though not positivel known, before the discharge was grant ed. Marrionneaux's Case (C. C. 1870 Fed. Cas. No. 9,088. Nor where th facts in question, though not within th creditor's personal knowledge, wer well known to the trustee in bankrupt cy before the discharge, since the trus tee is the representative of the credi tors and his knowledge is imputable t them. In re Hansen (D. C. 1901) 10 Fed. 252, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 747.

§ 9600. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 16.) Co-debtors of bankrupts.

Co-Debtors of Bankrupts.—a The liability of a person who is a co-debtor with, or guarantor or in any manner a surety for, a bankrupt shall not be altered by the discharge of such bankrupt. (30 Stat. 550.)

Notes of Decisions

1. Effect of discharge as to codebtors and persons jointly liable.—Under this section, the liability of a person who is jointly liable with the bankrupt for a debt, or liable as a guarantor or surety of the bankrupt, is not in any way canceled, released, or impaired by the discharge of the bankrupt. Polk v. Stephens (Ark. 1915) 176 S. W. 689; Daniel v. Browder-Manget Co. (Ga. App. 1913) 79 S. E. 237; Elder v. Prussing (1902) 101 Ill. App. 655; Ward v. Johnson (1816) 13 Mass. 148; Edwards v. Coleman (Ky. 1820) 2 A. K. Marsh. 249; Hill v. Trainer (1880) 49 Wis. 537, 5 N. W. 926. It is the intention of the statute to make a discharge personal to the debtor, and not to release any other parties liable with him or liens not declared to be releas ed. Holland v. Cunliff (1902) 96 Mo App. 67, 69 S. W. 737. As to this, i is immaterial whether or not the credi tor proves his claim in the bankruptcy proceedings. Gurley v. Robertson (Ala. 1912) 59 South. 643. It is immaterial that the creditor participated in a composition and consented to the discharge of the bankrupt thereby. Hill v. Trainer (1880) 49 Wis. 537, 5 N. W. 926.

Bankruptcy proceedings do not deprive a creditor of any right of action against third persons. Mattone v. Illinois Surety Co. (1910) 123 N. Y. Supp. 236. And the effect of the discharge in bankruptcy of one of the defendants in a pending suit is substantially the same as if he had died. Seymour v. O. S. Richardson Fueling Co. (1902) 103 Ill. App. 625.

In a suit brought after the discharge, on a joint obligation of the bankrupt with others, the bankrupt is a necessary party to the action, because his discharge is a personal privilege which may be waived, and which must be pleaded if he means to take advantage of it. Jenks v. Opp (1873) 43 Ind. 108.

Where several persons jointly execute an undertaking in the name of a corporation, the fact that the creditor proved his claim in bankruptcy against the corporation does not estop him to sue on the individual liability of the persons executing the instrument. Ridenour v. Mayo (1876) 29 Ohio St. 138.

If one of two joint judgment debtors is discharged in bankruptcy, this does not affect the liability of the other. Love v. McGill (1906) 41 Tex. Civ. App. 471, 91 S. W. 246. Nor does it affect the right of the creditor to revive the judgment by scire facias against the defendant not discharged. Simpson v. Minnix (1908) 30 App. D. C. 582. But where a contractor, to whom material has been furnished, is discharged in bankruptcy prior to a judgment creating a lien for such material, the lien cannot thereafter be foreclosed against the property of the owner and a judgment rendered against him. Philip Carey Mfg. Co. v. Viaduct Place (1907) 1 Ga. App. 707, 58 S. E. 274.

Where a discharged bankrupt applies for the cancellation of record of a judgment standing against him on a discharged debt, the court has no power to discharge the judgment as against the other defendants in the action. In re Quackenbush (1907) 122 App. Div. 456, 106 N. Y. Supp. 773.

Where one mortgages his land to secure the debt of another, the latter's discharge in bankruptcy does not affect the mortgage or release the mortgagor. Post v. Losey (1887) 111 Ind. 74, 12 N. E. 121; Security Sav. Bank v. Scott (1906) 3 Cal. App. 687, 86 Pac. 903.

The discharge in bankruptcy of the maker of a note does not release an indorser or co-maker, and vice versa. Buchholz v. Feustel (1913) 179 Ill. App. 396; Commercial Bank of Boonville v. Varnum (1914) 176 Mo. App. 78, 162 S. W. 1080; Guild v. Butler (1877) 122 Mass. 498, 23 Am. Rep. 378; King v. Central Nat. Bank (1849) 6 Ga. 257; Pratt v. Chase (1877) 122 Mass. 262; Harwell v. Steel (1850) 17 Ala. 372.

Under Rem. & Bal. Code Wash. § 5918, and section 47 (post, § 9631), an adjudication of bankruptcy against a married man constitutes also an adjudication against the community, and his discharge discharges the community. Gibbons v. Dexter Horton Trust & Savings Bank (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 424.

A discharge obtained by a joint debtor is a bar to an action by his codebtor for contribution. Dean v. Speakman (Ind. 1844) 7 Blackf. 317; Frentress v. Markle (Iowa, 1850) 2 G. Greene, 553.

2. Sureties and guarantors.—Under this section, the liability of a guarantor or surety for a bankrupt is not in any way released, changed, or diminished by the discharge of the principal debtor. Leader v. Mattingly (1904) 140 Ala. 444, 37 South. 270; Boyd v. eral Union Surety Co. (1911) 156 Mo. Agricultural Ins. Co. (1904) 20 Colo. App. 28, 76 Pac. 986; State v. Fed- App. 603, 137 S. W. 613; D. C. Wise Coal Co. v. Columbia Lead & Zinc Co. (1907) 123 Mo. App. 249, 100 S. W. 680. This rule also prevailed under the bankruptcy act of 1867. See Cochrane v. Cushing (1878) 124 Mass. 219; Lewis v. Brown (1856) 41 Me. 448; Bowery Sav. Bank v. Clinton (1848) 4 N. Y. Super. Ct. 113; Jones v. Hagler (1859) 51 N. C. 542; Commercial Nat. Bank v. Simpson (1884) 90 N. C. 467; Garnett v. Roper (1846) 10 Ala. 842.

The surety on an appeal bond is not released by the discharge in bankruptcy of the principal debtor, though the judgment was upon a debt provable and dischargeable in bankruptcy, and that, in such a case, a judgment may be rendered against the bankrupt, but with a perpetual stay of execution, which will preserve the liability of the surety. Brown & Brown Coal Co. v. Antezak (1910) 164 Mich. 110, 128 N. W. 774, 130 N. W. 305, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 778; Oberreich v. Foster (1910) 152 Ill. App. 302; Sandusky v. Exchange Bank (1876) 81 Ill. 353; Fisse v. Einstein (1878) 5 Mo. App. 78; Hall v. Fowler (N. Y. 1844) 6 Hill, 630; Knapp v. Anderson (1877) 71 N. Y. 466; James v. Harry Kitzinger & Co. (Ala. App. 1915) 68 South. 582. Where the liability of the surety has become fixed before the discharge is granted to the principal, by the affirmance of the judgment appealed from or by the rendition of a judgment on the bond, then the liability of the surety is not released or affected, even though the judgment becomes inoperative as against the principal debtor. Slusher v. Hopkins (1906) 97 S. W. 1128, 30 Ky. Law Rep. 257; St. Louis World Pub. Co. v. Rialto Grain & Securities Co. (1904) 108 Mo. App. 479, 83 S. W. 781; Williams & Freeman v. Bosworth (Miss. 1912) 59 South. 6; Bailey v. Reeves (Miss. 1912) 59 South. 802. But where the appeal bond is conditioned on the affirmance of the judgment or the dismissal of the appeal, and no final judgment is rendered in the action because it is terminated by the principal's discharge in bankruptcy (as, where the appeal is taken from the judgment of a justice of the peace and the bankrupt pleads his discharge in the higher court), then the liability of the surety is extinguished along with that of the principal, or rather, there is no breach of the condition of the bond on which the surety could be held liable. James v. Harry Kitzinger & Co. (Ala. App. 1915) 68 South. 582; Lafoon v. Kerner (1905) 138 N. C. 281, 50 S. E. 654; Goyer Co. v. Jones (1901) 79 Miss. 253, 30 South. 651; Otto Young & Co. v. Howe (1907) 150 Ala. 157, 43 South. 488; House v. Schnadig (1908) 235 Ill. 301, 85 N. E. 395; Odell v. Wootten (1868) 38 Ga. 224, 4 N. B. R. 183; Payne v. Able (Ky. 1870) 7 Bush, 344, 3 Am. Rep. 316, 4 N. B. R. 220. The remedy of the surety on supersedeas bond of appellants becoming bankrupt after judgment must be sought in the bankruptcy court. Vandiver v. American Can Co. (Ala. 1914) 67 So. 299.

A surety on an attachment bond is released where the defendant is adjudicated a bankrupt within four months after the attachment and subsequently discharged. Simon Casady & Co. v. Hartzell (Iowa, 1915) 151 N. W. 97. Where the proceeding in bankruptcy is not begun until more than four months after the laying of the attachment, the court may render a special judgment against the defendant, to enable the plaintiff to enforce the surety's liability on the bond, such judgment containing a stipulation for a perpetual stay of execution against the defendant. Schunack v. Art Metal Novelty Co. (1911) 84 Conn. 331, 80 Atl. 290; Crook Horner Co. v. Gilpin (1910) 112 Md. 1, 75 Atl. 1049, 28 L. R. A. (N. S.) 233, 136 Am. St. Rep. 376; United States Wind Engine & Pump Co. v. North Penn Iron Co. (1910) 227 Pa. 262, 75 Atl. 1094; Butterick Pub. Co. v. E. F. Bowen Co. (1911) 33 R. I. 40, 80 Atl. 277; Rice v. Nirdlinger (1909) 41 Pa. Super. Ct. 238; Wolf v. Stix (1878) 99 U. S. 1, 25 L. Ed. 309.

The statute does not apply to the liability of the bankrupt's surety on a bond to dissolve on a garnishment given in a suit against the bankrupt on a provable debt, pending at the time the bankruptcy proceedings were instituted. A. Klipstein & Co. v. Allen-Miles Co. (1905) 136 Fed. 385, 69 C. C. A. 229, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 15. But see National Surety Co. v. Medlock (1907) 2 Ga. App. 665, 58 S. E. 1131.

A surety on an injunction bond given in a suit to restrain the enforcement of a judgment is not released from liability by the discharge of his principal in bankruptcy. Stull v. Beddeo (1907) 78 Neb. 119, 112 N. W. 315, 14 L. R. A. (N. S.) 507. Nor the surety on a claimant's bond given for goods taken on execution. Pinkard v. Willis (19 24 Tex. Civ. App. 69, 57 S. W. 8 The liability of a surety on a p debtor's recognizance cannot be red ed to nominal damages by reason of subsequent adjudication of the deb as a bankrupt. Carpenter v. Godd (1906) 191 Mass. 54, 76 N. E. 9 The discharge in bankruptcy of principal in a bail bond given by in a civil action, before the liability the bail became fixed, is a discharge the bond. Keyes v. Bennett (1905) Ill. 625, 75 N. E. 1075, affirming (19 122 Ill. App. 60. And see Almon Fogg Co. v. Bartlett (1909) 106 122, 75 Atl. 380, 138 Am. St. Rep. 3 Jones v. State (1873) 28 Ark. 119.

The provision of this section app so as to prevent the release of a su ty on a note by the discharge of principal debtor. Mace v. Wells (18 7 How. 272, 12 L. Ed. 698; Hardy Carter (Tenn. 1847) 8 Humph. 1 Wolfboro Loan & Banking Co. v. B lins (1907) 195 Mass. 323, 81 N. 204; Cilley v. Colby (1881) 61 N. 63. One who has guaranteed the p ment of rent reserved in a lease m to the bankrupt is not released by latter's discharge. Witthaus v. Z mermann (1904) 91 App. Div. 202, N. Y. Supp. 315; Dersch v. Wal (1905) 28 Ky. Law Rep. 325, 89 S. 233. The surety on a bond given b contractor for the erection of a nicipal bridge is not released by contractor's discharge. Empire St Surety Co. v. City of Des Moi (1911) 152 Iowa, 531, 131 N. W. 87

Where a partnership is dissolved, one of the partners assumes the de of the firm, he becomes the princi debtor and the other partner a su ty, and if the principal debtor is charged in bankruptcy, this will release the other partner. Schmitt Greenberg (1908) 58 Misc. Rep. 5 109 N. Y. Supp. 881.

Where a wife executes a mortgage her own real estate for the purp of securing the individual debt of husband, she is his surety to the tent of the property which she mo gages, and the mortgage is not relea by the husband's discharge in ba ruptcy from the debt secured. Bu v. Wait (1885) 33 Kan. 478, 6 P 783.

3. Contribution between sureties. discharge in bankruptcy cannot pleaded in defense to an action brou by one cosurety against another contribution, when the entire debt the principal, for which the part were jointly bound as sureties, was p by the plaintiff, thus founding his ri to contribution, after the discharge the defendant. Dunn v. Sparks (18 1 Ind. 397, 50 Am. Dec. 473; (1856) 7 Ind. 490; Dole v. War (1850) 32 Me. 94, 52 Am. Dec. 6 Wyckoff v. Gardner (N. J. 1886) 5

801; Goss v. Gibson (Tenn. 1847) 8 Humph. 197; Liddell v. Wiswell (1887) 59 Vt. 365, 8 Atl. 680; Byers v. Alcorn (1880) 6 Ill. App. 39; Smith v. Hodson (1880) 50 Wis. 279, 6 N. W. 812.

§ 9601. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 17, as amended, Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 5.) Debts not affected by a discharge.

Debts not Affected by a Discharge.—a A discharge in bankruptcy shall release a bankrupt from all of his provable debts, except such as (1) are due as a tax levied by the United States, the State, county, district, or municipality in which he resides; (2) are liabilities for obtaining property by false pretenses or false representations, or for willful and malicious injuries to the person or property of another, or for alimony due or to become due, or for maintenance or support of wife or child, or for seduction of an unmarried female, or for criminal conversation; (3) have not been duly scheduled in time for proof and allowance, with the name of the creditor if known to the bankrupt, unless such creditor had notice or actual knowledge of the proceedings in bankruptcy; or (4) were created by his fraud, embezzlement, misappropriation, or defalcation while acting as an officer or in any fiduciary capacity. (30 Stat. 550. 32 Stat. 798.)

In this section, as originally enacted, clause 2 was as follows:

"(2) are judgments in actions for frauds, or obtaining property by false pretenses or false representations, or for willful and malicious injuries to the person of another."

The section was amended by Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 5, cited above, by changing said clause 2 to read as set forth here.

Section 19 of said amendatory Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, 32 Stat. 801, provided that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending when it took effect, but that such cases should be adjudicated and disposed of conformably to the provisions of the original act.

Notes of Decisions

I. Debts affected by discharge

1. Debts and liabilities discharged.
2. Stockholders' and directors' liabilities.
3. Claims of sureties for bankrupt.
4. Claims against bankrupt as surety.
5. Claims for alimony.
6. Claims for support of wife or children.
7. Claims of alien creditors.
8. Liabilities to state or United States.
9. Claims for taxes.
10. Debts and claims not provable.
11. Debts not duly scheduled.
12. —— Creditor's notice or knowledge of proceedings.
13. Debts contracted in fiduciary capacity.
14. —— Trustees.
15. —— Executors, administrators, and guardians.
16. —— Agents.
17. —— Attorneys.
18. —— Bailees.
19. —— Bankers and brokers.
20. —— Factors and commission merchants.
21. —— Auctioneers.
22. —— Partners and joint adventurers.
23. —— Public and other officers.
24. —— Sureties on bonds of fiduciary debtors.
25. Liabilities for willful and malicious injuries.
26. Liabilities for seduction and criminal conversation.
27. Debts contracted by fraud.
28. —— Deceit and false representations.
29. —— Conversion of property.
30. Effect of proving debt and receiving dividend.
31. Partnership and individual debts.
32. Effect of discharge of corporation on liabilities of officers and stockholders.
33. Effect of discharge as to securities and liens.
34. —— Attachment and garnishment.
35. —— Lien by creditor's suit.
36. —— Mortgages.
37. Effect of discharge on rights as to judgment and execution.
38. —— Cancellation of judgment of record.

II. Revival of debts barred by discharge

39. Validity and consideration of new promise.
40. To whom promise may be made.
41. Time of making promise.
42. Sufficiency of new promise.
43. —— Part payment.
44. —— Written or oral promise.
45. Conditional promise.
46. Promise to pay when able.
47. Remedies of creditor.
48. Burden of proof and evidence.

I. DEBTS AFFECTED BY DISCHARGE

1. Debts and liabilities discharged.—Subject only to the exceptions specified in this section, a discharge in bankruptcy releases the debtor and his after-acquired property from all debts and liabilities which were provable in bankruptcy and which existed at the commencement of the proceedings. A. Klipstein & Co. v. Allen-Miles Co. (1905) 136 Fed. 385, 69 C. C. A. 229, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 15; In re American Vacuum Cleaner Co. (D. C. 1911) 192 Fed. 939, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 621; Ruhl-Koblegard Co. v. Gillespie (1907)

61 W. Va. 584, 56 S. E. 898, 10 L. R. A. (N. S.) 305, 11 Ann. Cas. 929; Meyer v. Bartels (1907) 56 Misc. Rep. 621, 107 N. Y. Supp. 778; Nelson v. Petterson (1907) 229 Ill. 240, 82 N. E. 229, 13 L. R. A. (N. S.) 912, 11 Ann. Cas. 178; Alling v. Straka (1905) 118 Ill. App. 184; Drake v. Vernon (1910) 26 S. D. 354, 128 N. W. 317; Thornburgh v. Madren (1872) 33 Iowa, 380; Fleming v. Lullman (1881) 11 Mo. App. 104; Lefler v. Hunt (Ind. 1846) 8 Blackf. 195; Magoon v. Warfield (Iowa, 1851) 3 G. Greene, 293; Talbott v. Suit (1888) 68 Md. 443, 13 Atl. 356; Withers v. Stinson (1878) 79 N. C. 341; Glasco v. Cooper (Ga. App. 1916) 87 S. E. 1095.

If a creditor, having a provable claim, had an opportunity to prove it, his omission to do so will not withdraw it from the operation of the discharge. In re Kuffler (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 667, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 587.

A provable debt is none the less barred by a discharge granted without opposition because the bankrupt had been refused a discharge in a prior proceeding, on the objection of the same creditor, in respect of the same indebtedness, where the ground of the refusal does not appear. Bluthenthal v. Jones (1908) 208 U. S. 64, 28 Sup. Ct. 192, 52 L. Ed. 390, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 288. And the refusal of a discharge in an insolvency proceeding does not necessarily withdraw a debt proved therein from the operation of a discharge in a later bankruptcy proceeding, though the debt is not proved. Dean v. Justices of Municipal Court (1899) 173 Mass. 453, 53 N. E. 893. Debts existing under the bankruptcy act of 1867, and kept alive by subsequent judgments, are not excepted from the operation of the present bankruptcy law. In re Herrman (1901) 106 Fed. 987, 46 C. C. A. 77.

The claim or liability must be a provable debt at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy. Hence if it does not accrue or mature until after that date, it is not affected by the discharge. Rice v. Murphy (1912) 109 Me. 101, 82 Atl. 842; Wight v. Gottschalk (Tenn. Ch. App. 1897) 48 S. W. 140.

The discharge does not release the bankrupt from a claim which was not provable because not a "fixed liability absolutely owing." Phœnix Nat. Bank v. Waterbury (1910) 197 N. Y. 161, 90 N. E. 435. Or because it was uncertain or contingent. Leader v. Mattingly (1904) 140 Ala. 444, 37 South. 270. Or because it was a claim for damages not liquidated in time for proof and allowance. Jim Pearce & Co. v. Fisher (1911) 170 Ala. 456, 54 South. 164.

The exemptions from the operation of a discharge in bankruptcy, made by this section, do not rest upon any theory of the exclusion of the creditor from the bankruptcy act, or of deprivation of the right to participate in th distribution, but solely on the groun that, although such rights are enjoy ed, an exemption from the effect of th discharge is superadded. Friend v Talcott (1913) 228 U. S. 27, 33 Sup Ct. 505, 57 L. Ed. 718.

A discharge in bankruptcy does no operate to prevent the prosecution o an appeal. Stockwell v. Sillowa (1870) 105 Mass. 517.

A discharge will release the bank rupt from liability for breach of a cove nant of warranty in his deed, th breach occurring before the bankrupt cy. Sweaney v. Baugher (1906) 16 Ind. 557, 77 N. E. 1083; Mackenzie v Miller (1886) 7 Ky. Law Rep. 831 Bradford v. Russell (1881) 79 Ind. 6 And from his liability as the maker o a note. Blackwell v. Farmers' & Mer chants' Nat. Bank (Tex. Civ. App 1903) 76 S. W. 454. And from all per sonal liability on a judgment recovere against him. J. B. Ellis & Co. v. Mo bile, J. & K. C. R. Co. (1910) 16 Ala. 187, 51 South. 860; Otto Youn & Co. v. Howe (1907) 150 Ala. 15 43 South. 488; Branes Cycle Co. v Haines (1905) 69 N. J. Eq. 651, 6 Atl. 515. It is the nature of the trans action, and not the form of actio which is looked to in order to deter mine whether a cause of action is re leased by a discharge in bankruptc Nelson v. Petterson (1907) 131 Il App. 443. And a court will look be hind a judgment in order to ascertai whether the claim on which it wa founded was of a nature to be provabl in bankruptcy and therefore discharge able. Bever v. Swecker (1908) 13 Iowa, 721, 116 N. W. 704. A judg ment creditor has the burden of show ing that the judgment is such a liabi ity as is not released by the discharg in bankruptcy. In re Levitan (D. C 1915) 224 Fed. 241.

The court of bankruptcy, in grantin a discharge, will not undertake to lim it it to any particular debts nor under take to decide upon what claims it sha operate and what shall be excepte from it. Hanan v. Long (1912) 15 App. Div. 327, 134 N. Y. Supp. 78 But where a bankrupt was not entitle to a discharge as to certain debt scheduled in a former proceeding, th court has power to limit a subsequen discharge so as to exclude such claim In re Westbrook (D. C. 1911) 186 Fe 414, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 181.

2. Stockholders' and directors' li bilities.—The liability of one who ha subscribed for stock in a corporatio or to whom stock not fully paid ha been issued, to make good the unpa balance of his subscription is a del provable against him in bankruptc and therefore will be released by h discharge, even though the call o which the action is based is not mad until after the discharge. Carey Mayer (1897) 79 Fed. 926, 25 C. C. A 239; Burke v. Maze (1909) 10 Cal. App. 206, 101 Pac. 438, 440. Compare Glenn v. Howard (1886) 65 Md. 40, 3 Atl. 895. But it is otherwise in regard to the liability imposed by some state statutes on the stockholders or directors of insolvent corporations to be answerable for the debts of the company, or for debts contracted under certain circumstances or within a particular time. A liability of this kind is statutory and not contractual, and therefore is not released by the discharge of the stockholder or director in bankruptcy. Old Colony Boot & Shoe Co. v. Parker-Sampson-Adams Co. (1903) 183 Mass. 557, 67 N. E. 870; First Nat. Bank v. Hingham Mfg. Co. (1879) 127 Mass. 563. Unless it has been reduced to judgment before the granting of the discharge, or the extent of the liability of the bankrupt, as a stockholder or director, has been fixed by a decree against the company and its stockholders, in which case it appears that it becomes a provable debt in the bankruptcy proceedings, and therefore will be extinguished by the discharge. Dight v. Chapman (1904) 44 Or. 265, 75 Pac. 585, 65 L. R. A. 793. And see Philadelphia & R. Coal & Iron Co. v. Hotchkiss (1880) 82 N. Y. 471.

3. Claims of sureties for bankrupt.—A person who is responsible for the bankrupt's debt or undertaking, in the character of a surety, guarantor, or indorser, has no provable claim against the bankrupt's estate until he has paid or in some way discharged the obligation on which he is liable, and hence if there is no breach of the obligation and no payment by the surety or indorser before the bankrupt's discharge, he may, notwithstanding the discharge, have recourse against the bankrupt for any sum which he is thereafter compelled to pay. Goding v. Roscenthal (1901) 180 Mass. 43, 61 N. E. 222.

Discharge in bankruptcy acquits obligation of bankrupts to indemnify surety on their building contract bond, though surety did not pay damage until after bankruptcy proceedings, it being a provable debt, released by discharge. Williams v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. (1915) 35 Sup. Ct. 289, 236 U. S. 549, 59 L. Ed. 713, reversing judgment R. P. Williams & Co. v. Same (1912) 75 S. E. 1067, 11 Ga. App. 635.

Under section 57i (post, § 9641), a surety or indorser, not having yet paid the debt, has a provable claim in bankruptcy in the event that the principal creditor omits to prove the claim, and if his demand or claim thus becomes provable, it will also be released by the discharge granted to the bankrupt. Hayer v. Comstock (1901) 115 Iowa, 187, 88 N. W. 351; Smith v. Wheeler (1900) 55 App. Div. 170, 66 N. Y. Supp. 780.

4. Claims against bankrupt as surety.—Where the surety on an appeal bond becomes bankrupt and receives his discharge, after the rendition of a judgment on such appeal bond, the discharge is a defense to the enforcement of the judgment, and likewise to any debt or claim for the costs incurred by the judgment creditor in obtaining the judgment and defending the appeal. Coe v. Waters (1901) 16 Colo. App. 311, 64 Pac. 1054.

5. Claims for alimony.—Even before the amendment of 1903, expressly excepting from the operation of a discharge in bankruptcy "liabilities for alimony due or to become due," it was decided that a claim for alimony due to a divorced wife was not a debt within the meaning of the bankruptcy law, and, not being provable as a debt, was not released by the bankrupt's discharge. Audubon v. Shufeldt (1901) 181 U. S. 575, 21 Sup. Ct. 735, 45 L. Ed. 1009, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 829; Turner v. Turner (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 785, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 289; In re Anderson (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 321, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 858; Lemert v. Lemert (1905) 72 Ohio St. 364, 74 N. E. 194, 106 Am. St. Rep. 621, 2 Ann. Cas. 914; Barclay v. Barclay (1900) 184 Ill. 375, 56 N. E. 636, 51 L. R. A. 351; Dunbar v. Dunbar (1901) 180 Mass. 170, 62 N. E. 248, 94 Am. St. Rep. 623; In re Williams (1913) 208 N. Y. 32, 101 N. E. 853.

A discharge in bankruptcy is no bar to a claim based on a contract or agreement of the bankrupt to pay an annuity or fixed periodical sum to his divorced wife during her lifetime or until her remarriage. Dunbar v. Dunbar (1903) 190 U. S. 340, 23 Sup. Ct. 757, 47 L. Ed. 1084, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 139; Schlessinger v. Schlessinger (1907) 39 Colo. 44, 88 Pac. 970, 8 L. R. A. (N. S.) 863.

6. Claims for support of wife or children.—The discharge cannot be pleaded as a defense to a claim upon the bankrupt based on his liability to make an allowance or pay a fixed sum for the support of his minor children, where such liability is imposed upon him by an order or decree of court. Wetmore v. Markoe (1904) 196 U. S. 68, 25 Sup. Ct. 172, 49 L. Ed. 390, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1; In re Hubbard (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 710, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 528; Rush v. Flood (1902) 105 Ill. App. 182; In re Baker (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 954, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101. Nor where it is based upon his voluntary agreement to contribute to the support of his children remaining in the custody of his divorced wife. Dunbar v. Dunbar (1903) 190 U. S. 340, 23 Sup. Ct. 757, 47 L. Ed. 1084, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 139.

The obligation of a man to recompense his former wife for expenditures made, after she had remarried, for the benefit of their child, is like his obligation to recompense any other person who had contributed to the support of the child; it is merely a civil debt and is extinguished by the father's discharge in bankruptcy. Rush v. Flood (1902) 105 Ill. App. 182.

The expression in the statute, "liabilities for maintenance or support of wife and child," does not refer to debts for goods purchased by the husband or parent, and used by the wife or child. Schellenberg v. Mullaney (1906) 112 App. Div. 384, 98 N. Y. Supp. 432. Nor to a debt for medical attendance furnished to the wife or child of the bankrupt at his request, and while the normal family relations subsist between him and the recipient of the services. In re Ostrander (D. C. 1905) 139 Fed. 592, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 96.

Where the father of a bastard child has been ordered by the court to pay a monthly stipend for its support, and, on his refusal, a final money judgment has been rendered for the total amount due, the rights of the person entitled to recover under the order of filiation are merged in the judgment, and the judgment, being a provable debt in bankruptcy and not expressly excepted from the operation of the discharge, will be released by it. McKittrick v. Cahoon (1903) 89 Minn. 383, 95 N. W. 223, 99 Am. St. Rep. 606.

7. Claims of alien creditors.—A discharge in bankruptcy under the act of congress will constitute a bar to the claim of an alien creditor suing in any court within the United States, in the same manner and to the same extent as though he were a citizen of the United States. Ruiz v. Eickerman (C. C. 1881) 5 Fed. 790; Pattison v. Wilbur (1873) 10 R. I. 448, 12 N. B. R. 193; In re Zarega's Case (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 18,204; Murray v. De Rottenham (N. Y. 1822) 6 Johns. Ch. 52. Compare Moore v. Horton (N. Y. 1884) 32 Hun, 393.

8. Liabilities to state or United States.—Claims or debts due to a state are not extinguished or released by the debtor's discharge in bankruptcy. State v. Shelton (1879) 47 Conn. 400; Commonwealth v. Hutchinson (1849) 10 Pa. 466; Saunders v. Commonwealth (Va. 1853) 10 Grat. 494; Commonwealth v. McMillen (1880) 1 Ky. Law Rep. 270.

A debt due to the United States is not barred by the debtor's discharge in bankruptcy, although the government may prove its debt and may have priority of payment over other creditors. U. S. v. Herron (1873) 20 Wall. 251, 22 L. Ed. 275; U. S. v. Rob Roy (C. C. 1870) 13 N. B. R. 235, Fed. Cas. No. 16,179; U. S. v. King (C. C. 1801) Fed. Cas. No. 15,536; Hamilton v. Reynolds (1882) 88 Ind. 191; Smith v. Hodson (1880) 50 Wis. 279, 6 N. W. 812. CONTRA, see U. S. v. Davis (C. C. 1844) Fed. Cas. No. 14,929; U. S. v. Throckmorton (C. C. 1872) 8 N. B. R. 309, Fed. Cas. No. 16,516; U. S. v. Zerega (D. C. 1856) Fed. Cas. 1 16,786.

A claim against a bankrupt on bond as a contractor with the gove ment, if a "fixed liability absolut owing," is a provable debt and d chargeable in bankruptcy. U. S. v. linois Surety Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 2 Fed. 653.

9. Claims for taxes.—A judgment costs in a criminal prosecution is a debt "due as taxes" levied by t state, and therefore it is released the discharge of the judgment debtor bankruptcy. Olds v. Forrester (190 126 Iowa, 456, 102 N. W. 419.

10. Debts and claims not provable If a debt or claim was not proval in bankruptcy, it is not affected by t discharge of the bankrupt, whether not it was properly scheduled. Smi v. McQuillin (1906) 193 Mass. 289, N. E. 401; National Mt. Wollast Bank v. Porter (1877) 122 Mass. 30 Pierce v. Wilcox (1872) 40 Ind. 70.

If a particular debt did not matu or a particular liability did not atta until after the filing of the petition, is not provable and not dischargeal though it grows out of a contract obligation antedating the petition bankruptcy and which continues in fect. Colman Co. v. Withoft (C. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 250, 28 Am. Banl Rep. 328; In re Burka (D. C. 190 104 Fed. 326, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1 Holbrook v. Foss (1847) 27 Me. 44 Robinson v. Pesant (1873) 53 N. 419, 8 N. B. R. 426; Cohen v. Pecha sky (1910) 67 Misc. Rep. 72, 121 N. Supp. 602; Stern v. Nussbaum (N. 1874) 47 How. Prac. 489; Jersey Ci Ins. Co. v. Archer (1887) 7 N. Y. S Rep. 326.

Where the bankrupt is surety on bond, and no breach of the condition the bond has occurred until after b adjudication and discharge in ban ruptcy, his liability on a subseque breach is not affected by the discharg Paddleford v. State (1879) 57 Mis 118; Eastman v. Hibbard (1874) N. H. 504, 20 Am. Rep. 157.

Where he has given a deed with cov nants of warranty, his liability on breach occurring before the commenc ment of the bankruptcy proceedings w constitute a provable debt, and so released by the discharge. Merrill Schwartz (1878) 68 Me. 514; Dow Davis (1882) 73 Me. 288. But t mere probability, existing at the tin of the bankruptcy, that a breach m occur does not make a provable deb Baker v. Hooks (1909) 6 Ga. App. 12 64 S. E. 573. And a breach actual occurring after the filing of the pet tion in bankruptcy creates a liabili which is not affected by the discharg Bush v. Cooper (1855) 18 How. 82, L. Ed. 273; Abercrombie v. Conn (1846) 10 Ala. 293; French v. Mor (Mass. 1854) 2 Gray, 111; Murray De Rottenham (N. Y. 1822) 6 John

Ch. 52. Compare Bates v. West (1857) 19 Ill. 134.

A promissory note given by a debtor after he has been adjudged a bankrupt, although before he is discharged, and although given for a debt which existed before the filing of the petition, is not released by his discharge. Jersey City Ins. Co. v. Archer (1890) 122 N. Y. 376, 25 N. E. 338; Donnell v. Swain (Pa. 1844) 2 Clark, 134.

A discharge in bankruptcy does not release a grantor or mortgagor from the estoppel created by the covenants in his conveyance. Kezer v. Clifford (1879) 59 N. H. 208. Nor will it release a defendant in replevin, who has given a forthcoming bond, from a judgment requiring him to restore the property. Robinson v. Soule (1879) 56 Miss. 549. An action on the case for deceit is not barred by a discharge in bankruptcy, although the measure of damages is ascertainable by reference to a contract. Hughes v. Oliver (1848) 8 Pa. 426. A discharge in bankruptcy is no defense to an action for unliquidated damages arising solely from a tort. Hun v. Cary (N. Y. 1880) 59 How. Prac. 426, affirmed (1880) 82 N. Y. 65. But where a claim is founded on an open account or on a contract express or implied, and may be proved, if the creditor waives any tort and files his claim, the claim is barred by the discharge. In re Nuttall (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 557.

A discharge is no bar to a claim which, at the time of the bankruptcy, was too uncertain or contingent to constitute a provable debt. Clemmons v. Brinn (1901) 36 Misc. Rep. 157, 72 N. Y. Supp. 1066; Lesser v. Gray (1911) 8 Ga. App. 605, 70 S. E. 104; Johnson v. Worden (1874) 47 Vt. 457. The discharge is no bar to a claim for subsequently accruing rent under a lease held by the bankrupt as tenant, and which is not terminated by the adjudication in bankruptcy. Bernhardt v. Curtis (1902) 109 La. 171, 33 South. 125, 94 Am. St. Rep. 445; Scott v. Demarest (1912) 75 Misc. Rep. 289, 135 N. Y. Supp. 264; Shapiro v. Thompson (1909) 160 Ala. 363, 49 South. 391; Hamilton v. McCroskey (1901) 112 Ga. 651, 37 S. E. 859.

A discharge in bankruptcy will not release the bankrupt from the payment of a fine imposed upon him by a court as part of the punishment for an offense of which he has been convicted. Ex parte O'Donnell, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 59. Nor from a fine imposed as punishment for violation of an injunction or other contempt of court. Spalding v. New York (1846) 4 How. 21, 11 L. Ed. 858; People v. Spalding (N. Y. 1843) 10 Paige, 284.

An obligation on a forfeited bail bond is not provable in bankruptcy, and therefore is not released by the bankrupt's discharge. In re Weber (1914) 212 N. Y. 290, 106 N. E. 58.

Where the claim of a creditor was inherently of such a nature as to be provable in the bankruptcy proceedings, the mere fact that it was subject to objection on the ground of the statute of limitations having run against it, and that it was disallowed on that ground, does not take it out of the class of provable claims so as to prevent the pleading of the discharge in bar of any subsequent proceeding to collect it. Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Hudson (1903) 122 Fed. 232, 58 C. C. A. 596, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 225.

II. Debts not duly scheduled.—A discharge in bankruptcy will not release the bankrupt from any debt which was omitted from his schedule, or which was so incorrectly set forth as not to be "duly" scheduled, unless it is shown that the creditor, notwithstanding the omission or error, had notice or actual knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings in time to have proved his claim. Hilton v. White (Sup. 1915) 156 N. Y. Supp. 9; Lown v. Casselman (N. D. 1913) 141 N. W. 73; Bogart v. Cowboy State Bank & Trust Co. (Tex. Civ. App. 1916) 182 S. W. 678; In re Monroe (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 398, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 706; Karter v. Fields (1904) 140 Ala. 352, 37 South. 204; Hughes v. Clark (1902) 109 Ill. App. 107; Reynolds v. Whittemore (1904) 99 Me. 108, 58 Atl. 415; Tyrrel v. Hammerstein (1900) 33 Misc. Rep. 505, 67 N. Y. Supp. 717; Lutz v. Kalmus (1909) 115 N. Y. Supp. 230; Bernheim v. Bloch (1904) 45 Misc. Rep. 581, 91 N. Y. Supp. 40; Kreitlein v. Ferger (Ind. App. 1912) 97 N. E. 819; Gilmore v. Farmer (1910) 156 Ill. App. 70; Custard v. Wigderson (1907) 130 Wis. 412, 110 N. W. 263, 10 Ann. Cas. 740; Wineman v. Fisher (1904) 135 Mich. 604, 98 N. W. 404.

Under the provision of this section that a bankrupt will not be released from debts not duly scheduled in time for proof and allowance, unless the creditors had actual knowledge of the proceedings in bankruptcy, a discharge in bankruptcy will not release a grantee of land from liability for payment of vendor's lien notes which he assumed when acquiring the land where he concealed his assumption of the debt and scheduled neither the debt nor the land. Raley v. D. Sullivan & Co. (Tex. Civ. App. 1913) 159 S. W. 99.

A discharge will not release a bankrupt from a claim omitted from his schedule, although the reason of its omission was that he was ignorant of its existence at the time the schedule was made up. Santa Rosa Bank v. White (1903) 139 Cal. 703, 73 Pac. 577. Or because he failed to remember it. Jones v. Walter (1903) 115 Ky. 556, 74 S. W. 249. Or where he omitted it at the request of the creditor himself. Davis v. Barwick (1911) 88 S. C. 355, 70 S. E. 1007. Or where he omitted it in pursuance of an understanding with the claimant's attorney, subsequently employed by the bankrupt himself. Webster City Steel Radiator Co. v. Chamberlin (1908) 137 Iowa, 717, 115 N. W. 504.

If a mortgage was executed by the bankrupt and his wife together, it cannot be said to be "duly" scheduled when it is described as having been given by the wife alone. Fifth Ave. Building & Loan Ass'n v. Goldberg (1903) 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 197.

The operation of the discharge will not be defeated by the fact that an obligation represented by a note was scheduled as upon an open account. Matteson v. Dewar (1909) 146 Ill. App. 523.

Small variations in the bankrupt's own name, comparing that signed to the note or other evidence of the debt with that signed to the petition in bankruptcy, do not make the scheduling of the debt insufficient so as to exempt it from the operation of the discharge. Northern Commercial Co. v. Hartke (1910) 110 Minn. 338, 125 N. W. 508; Finnell v. Armoura (1911) 39 Utah, 316, 117 Pac. 49.

The name of the creditor must be correctly stated in the schedule, and a misnomer will be ground for holding that the debt was not "duly" scheduled, though the variance is comparatively unimportant. Custard v. Wigderson (1907) 130 Wis. 412, 110 N. W. 263, 10 Ann. Cas. 740; Marshall v. English-American Loan & Trust Co. (1907) 127 Ga. 376, 56 S. E. 449; Wright-Dalton-Bell-Anchor Store Co. v. Sanders (1910) 142 Mo. App. 50, 125 S. W. 517; Cohen v. Pinkus (1908) 126 App. Div. 792, 111 N. Y. Supp. 82; Haack v. Theise (1906) 51 Misc. Rep. 3, 99 N. Y. Supp. 905; Liesum v. Kraus (1901) 35 Misc. Rep. 376, 71 N. Y. Supp. 1022.

The listing of a creditor by an initial, instead of by his Christian name, is not such an insufficient compliance with the requirements of the bankruptcy act as to the listing of creditors, as to deprive the bankrupt of the benefit of the order discharging provable debts. Kreitlein v. Ferger (1915) 238 U. S. 21, 35 Sup. Ct. 685, 59 L. Ed. 1184.

Where a bankrupt, after filing his schedules and before discharge, ascertains the transfer of a debt, he is required by amendment to include the transferee as a creditor in his schedules and give notice to him, unless the creditor is shown to have notice of the bankruptcy proceedings, and otherwise the debt will not be barred by the discharge. Hein v. Liberman (1913) 141 N. Y. S. 314.

A note is not duly scheduled in the name of the payee, if the bankrupt knows at the time that it has been discounted by a bank. Columbia Bank v. Birkett (1903) 174 N. Y. 112, 66 N. E. 652, 102 Am. St. Rep. 478. CONTRA, Broadway Trust Co. v. Manheim (1905) 47 Misc. Rep. 415, 95 N. Y. Supp. 93. A claim is not correctly listed in the name of the original creditor, if the bankrupt knows that the creditor dead and that the claim has been d tributed among his heirs. Fible Crabb (1908) 129 Ky. 461, 112 S. 576. But if the bankrupt has no know edge that a mortgage given by him h been assigned, he does not forfeit t benefit of his discharge by listing it the name of the original mortgag Mueller v. Goerlitz (1907) 53 Mi Rep. 53, 103 N. Y. Supp. 1037.

The surviving partner of a credit firm is correctly named as the credit in the schedule. Kaufman v. Schre (1905) 108 App. Div. 298, 95 N. Supp. 729. If the original creditc are named in the schedule, it is imm terial that their interests have be committed to a receiver. Longfield Minnesota Sav. Bank (1905) 95 Mi 54, 103 N. W. 706. If a debt due to bank is correctly listed in the name the bank, the schedule is not vitiat by the fact that it does not mention t cashier of the bank, who is the nomi holder of the note by which the debt secured. Ross-Lewin v. Goold (190 211 Ill. 384, 71 N. E. 1028.

It is also essential to the due listi of a debt that the address of the cre itor should be given, if known to t bankrupt. The address required is th of the creditor's residence, and it is n proper to state his business or offi address, if the residence address known or can be ascertained. A mi take of this kind will prevent the di charge from releasing the particul debt. McKee v. Preble (1912) 1 App. Div. 156, 138 N. Y. Supp. 91 Weidenfeld v. Tillinghast (1907) Misc. Rep. 90, 104 N. Y. Supp. 712.

If the creditor's address is not know it may be so stated in the schedu and, in the absence of fraud, this w be a sufficient compliance with the st ute to bring the debt within the oper tion of the discharge. Steele v. Th heimer (1905) 74 Ark. 516, 86 S. 305; In re Mollner (1902) 75 A Div. 441, 78 N. Y. Supp. 281.

It is a fraud to state a creditor's a dress as unknown, when in fact it known to the bankrupt, and in this ca the claim will not be affected by t discharge. Miller v. Guasti (1912) 2 U. S. 170, 33 Sup. Ct. 49, 57 L. E 173, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 201. And t same is true where the bankrupt i serts a certain street number as t residence of the creditor, when in fa he does not know where the credit resides. Sutherland v. Lasher (190 41 Misc. Rep. 249, 84 N. Y. Supp. 5 And the bankrupt cannot state t creditor's residence as "unknown," a so bar the creditor's claim by his di charge, until he has made at least re sonably diligent efforts to discover by proper inquiries. Feldmark Weinstein (1904) 45 Misc. Rep. 329, N. Y. Supp. 478; Schiller v. Weinste (1905) 47 Misc. Rep. 622, 94 N. Supp. 763; In re Boom (1905) 48 Mi

Rep. 632, 96 N. Y. Supp. 204; Cagliostro v. Indelli (1907) 53 Misc. Rep. 44, 102 N. Y. Supp. 918. If the name and address of the creditor are correctly given in the city directory, but are not stated in the bankrupt's schedule, the debt is not released. In re Quackenbush (1907) 122 App. Div. 456, 106 N. Y. Supp. 773; Murphy v. Blumenreich (1908) 123 App. Div. 645, 108 N. Y. Supp. 175. The debtor is not allowed to state the creditor's address as unknown, when he could learn it from a draft drawn on him by the creditor which contained the latter's post office address. Guasti v. Miller (1911) 203 N. Y. 259, 96 N. E. 416. Or from a writ served on him at the suit of the creditor. Parker v. Murphy (1913) 215 Mass. 72, 102 N. E. 85.

The bankrupt is justified in relying on information given to him by the creditor's attorney, as, where the attorney states that notice sent to a given address will reach the creditor. Vaughn v. Irwin (1905) 49 Misc. Rep. 611, 96 N. Y. Supp. 742. Or where the attorney states that all communications in the matter should be addressed to the attorney's office. In re David (1904) 44 Misc. Rep. 516, 90 N. Y. Supp. 85.

12. —— Creditor's notice or knowledge of proceedings.—The claim of a given creditor will be released by the discharge (being otherwise dischargeable) if the creditor had notice or actual knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings, although his debt was altogether omitted from the bankrupt's schedule, or was incorrectly described therein, or the creditor's name or address was wrongly stated. First Nat. Bank of Enosberg Falls v. Bamforth (Vt. 1916) 96 Atl. 600; Kaufman v. Schreier (1905) 108 App. Div. 298, 95 N. Y. Supp. 729; Morrison v. Vaughan (1907) 119 App. Div. 184, 104 N. Y. Supp. 169; Thomson v. Caverley (1909) 148 Ill. App. 295; Alling v. Straka (1905) 118 Ill. App. 184; Zimmerman v. Ketchum (1903) 66 Kan. 98, 71 Pac. 264; Fider v. Mannheim (1899) 78 Minn. 309, 81 N. W. 2; Armstrong v. Sweeney (1905) 73 Neb. 775, 103 N. W. 436; Perry Naval Stores Co. v. Caswell (1912) 63 Fla. 552, 57 South. 660; Delta County Bank v. McGranaham (1905) 37 Wash. 307, 79 Pac. 796; Briggs v. Angus (1889) 52 Hun, 613, 5 N. Y. Supp. 313.

The notice here intended is actual notice, and not such constructive notice as might be implied from the publication of the orders and proceedings in the bankruptcy case. Santa Rosa Bank v. White (1903) 139 Cal. 703, 73 Pac. 577.

Actual notice or knowledge possessed by the creditor's authorized agent may be imputed to the creditor. Atkinson v. Elmore (1903) 103 Mo. App. 403, 77 S. W. 492. The knowledge of a receiver may be imputed to the creditors whom he represents. Dight v. Chapman (1904) 44 Or. 265, 75 Pac. 585, 65 L. R. A. 793. Where notice of bankruptcy proceedings was given to an attorney of a judgment creditor employed to collect the judgment, and the same was duly scheduled, the notice was sufficient, though no notice was given to the creditor's attorneys of record. Keefauver v. Hevenor (1914) 148 N. Y. S. 434, 163 App. Div. 531. But an attorney employed to represent the creditor in an appeal from a judgment of a state court against the bankrupt, but not in any way employed in the bankruptcy proceedings, is not the creditor's agent in this sense or for this purpose. Strickland v. Capital City Mills (1906) 74 S. C. 16, 54 S. E. 220, 7 L. R. A. (N. S.) 426.

An unscheduled debt cannot be brought within the operation of the discharge, on the ground that the creditor had actual notice of the proceedings, where his knowledge was not acquired until after the discharge had been granted, though he acquired it within the year allowed for proving claims and in time to have moved for the revocation of the discharge. Birkett v. Columbia Bank (1904) 195 U. S. 345, 25 Sup. Ct. 38, 49 L. Ed. 231, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 691.

The question of notice or want of it is one to be tried when the discharge in bankruptcy is set up in defense to a suit by the creditor. When this is done, the creditor is entitled to show that he did not receive any notice, and had no actual knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings. Westheimer v. Howard (1905) 47 Misc. Rep. 145, 93 N. Y. Supp. 518. And all facts, whether occurring before or after the commencement of the proceedings, tending to establish notice or the want of it, are competent evidence in determining the question. Knapp v. Harold (1903) 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. R. 213.

The burden of proving that a creditor's debt was duly scheduled in the debtor's bankruptcy proceeding, and that the creditor had either statutory or other actual notice of the proceeding, rested upon the bankrupt. Bogart v. Cowboy State Bank & Trust Co. (Tex. Civ. App. 1916) 182 S. W. 678.

13. Debts contracted in fiduciary capacity.—Debts created by the fraud, embezzlement, misappropriation, or defalcation of the bankrupt while acting in a fiduciary capacity are not released by his discharge. Forbes v. Keyes (1906) 193 Mass. 38, 78 N. E. 733; Treadwell v. Holloway (1873) 46 Cal. 547; Herman v. Lynch (1881) 26 Kan. 435, 40 Am. Rep. 320; Ruff v. Milner (1901) 92 Mo. App. 620; Gerner v. Yates (1900) 61 Neb. 100, 84 N. W. 596.

The words "fiduciary capacity," as here used, are to be limited to cases of technical trusts expressly created, not merely such as the law implies from the contract or the relation of the parties, but actually and expressly constituted; and hence the phrase cannot be extended so as to apply to cases where the law regards the relation of the parties simply as that of debtor and creditor, though the nature of the transaction between them is such that more or less confidence is necessarily reposed in the debtor. Lewis v. Shaw (1907) 122 App. Div. 96, 106 N. Y. Supp. 1012; American Surety Co. v. Spice (1912) 119 Md. 1, 85 Atl. 1031; Palmer v. Hussey (1882) 87 N. Y. 303; Keime v. Graff (C. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 7,650; Gibson v. Gorman (1882) 44 N. J. Law, 325; Goddin v. Neal (1884) 99 Ind. 334; First Nat. Bank of Enosburg Falls v. Bamforth (Vt. 1916) 96 Atl. 600; Martin v. Starrett (1915) 97 Neb. 653, 151 N. W. 154.

To bring a debt within this exception in the statute, the fiduciary relation must have existed previously to or independently to the transaction from which the debt arises. First Nat. Bank of Enosburg Falls v. Bamforth (Vt. 1916) 96 A. 600.

The position of one who owes money, including accounts collected for the creditor, is not one of trust within the meaning of this clause of the statute. Hanan v. Long (1912) 150 App. Div. 327, 134 N. Y. Supp. 786. A mere conversion of money or property does not put the bankrupt in the position of a fiduciary debtor. Watertown Carriage Co. v. Hall (1901) 66 App. Div. 84, 72 N. Y. Supp. 466; Glasco v. Cooper (Ga. App. 1916) 87 S. E. 1095.

A contract consigning goods for sale, with a stipulation that the consignee will "hold in trust" for the consignor all goods remaining unsold and the proceeds of his sales, does not create a technical trust nor make the debtor a fiduciary in respect to the proceeds of sales. In re Butts (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 966, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 16.

There is no fiduciary relation between a buyer and seller of merchandise, in respect to the unpaid price of the goods, although the sale was induced by the fraudulent representations of the buyer. Harrington & Goodman v. Herman (1903) 172 Mo. 344, 72 S. W. 546, 60 L. R. A. 885.

The liability of a subscriber for corporate stock for an amount due on his subscription is not a fiduciary debt. Morrison v. Savage (1881) 56 Md. 143. Although a conveyance of property by the bankrupt was intended to delay and defraud his creditors, the grantee therein does not hold the property in a fiduciary capacity. Reeves v. McCracken (1905) 69 N. J. Eq. 203, 60 Atl. 332.

Courts will look behind a note, a mortgage, or even a judgment, to ascertain the nature of the debt; and if it is discovered to be one which is not released by a discharge in bankruptcy, it will be so adjudged. Donald v. Kell (1887) 111 Ind. 1, 11 N. E. 782. If the debt was created by the bankrupt while acting in a fiduciary capacity, it is immaterial that it has been reduced to judgment; the judgment will not be barred or affected by the discharge in bankruptcy any more than the original debt would be. Wade v. Clark (1879) 52 Iowa, 158, 2 N. W. 1039; Brooks v. Yocum (1890) 42 Mo. App. 516; Simpson v. Simpson (1879) 80 N. C. 332. And a discharge in bankruptcy is no more a defense to a petition for a personal decree for a deficiency after mortgage sale, where the mortgage was given to secure the loan of trust funds misappropriated by the defendant, than it would be in a proceeding brought against him in his fiduciary capacity. Field v. Howry (1903) 132 Mich. 687, 94 N. W. 213. But in the case of a judgment, the courts will not go back of the record to inquire into the nature of the debt. Thus, if the record shows on its face that the judgment was obtained in a suit on a promissory note, it shows that there was no fiduciary relation between the parties, and the discharge in bankruptcy will be a good defense. Donald v. Kell (1887) 111 Ind. 1, 11 N. E. 782.

There may be a novation of the debt such as to extinguish its fiduciary character, as where a debt due from a guardian is formally released on his giving his individual note for the amount due. Coleman v. Davies (1872) 45 Ga. 489.

Embezzlement is an act which can be committed only by a person who holds funds in a fiduciary character, so that an allegation that the defendant "wrongfully embezzled" the plaintiff's money necessarily implies that he became possessed of it in a fiduciary capacity, and therefore his answer setting up a discharge in bankruptcy as a defense is demurrable as insufficient. Watertown Carriage Co. v. Hall (1903) 176 N. Y. 313, 68 N. E. 629.

14. —— Trustees.—A trustee under an express trust (whether created by deed, will, or otherwise) acts in a fiduciary capacity, and his discharge in bankruptcy will not release him from liability for any claims against him on account of his loss, misappropriation, or conversion of the trust funds. Warren v. Robinson (1900) 21 Utah, 429, 61 Pac. 28; Crisfield v. State (1880) 55 Md. 192.

A receiver acts in a fiduciary capacity, within the meaning of this section. Field v. Howry (1903) 132 Mich. 687, 94 N. W. 213. And an assignee under a deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors. Pinkston v. Brewster (1848) 14 Ala. 315. And a husband's liability as trustee under an antenuptial contract to account to the deceased wife's personal representative for trust moneys is a fiduciary debt. Donovan v. Haynie (1880) 67 Ala. 51.

Where a sum of money to which a wife was entitled, on the sale of certain land in partition proceedings, was decreed to be paid to her husband, he to apply the interest to his own use and to give bonds for the payment of the principal sum at his death, or whenever so required by the court, it was held that the liability of the husband to pay over the principal sum was incurred in a fiduciary capacity. Mock v. Howell (1888) 101 N. C. 443, 8 S. E. 167.

Where one of two parties who contemplated the formation of a partnership paid over to the other a sum of money for the benefit of the firm, and shortly afterwards died, and during his sickness, the recipient of the money deposited it in a bank in his own name, and after the death of his intended partner, he converted the money to his personal use, held, that the partnership was dissolved by the death of one of the parties to it, and that the other thereafter became a trustee of the money for the benefit of the decedent's estate, so that his liability to account for it was contracted in a "fiduciary capacity" and was not released by his discharge in bankruptcy. Haggerty v. Badkin (1907) 72 N. J. Eq. 473, 66 Atl. 420.

This provision of the statute applies only to cases of technical trust, not to implied trusts. Johnson's Adm'r v. Parmenter (1901) 74 Vt. 58, 52 Atl. 73; Ehrhart v. Rork (1904) 114 Ill. App. 509; Williamson v. Dickens (1844) 5 Ired. (27 N. C.) 259.

A bankrupt was not released from a debt created by the collection of certain notes for defendant under an agreement reciting their receipt as trustee for collection. Williams v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. (Ala. 1913) 62 So. 755.

This provision does not include the obligation of one to whom, as a creditor, the debtor has delivered property with directions to sell it and apply so much of the proceeds as may be necessary to pay the debt, and pay over the balance to the debtor; the liability of the creditor to account for such balance involves no breach of trust, but only of contract. Cronan v. Cotting (1870) 104 Mass. 245; Bissell v. Couchaine (1846) 15 Ohio, 58. And so, a debt arising out of an implied understanding had on a conveyance in the ordinary form of an absolute deed from A. to B. of certain parts of A.'s real estate, no trust being expressly declared, is not excepted from the operation of a discharge in bankruptcy. Reeves v. McCracken (1905) 69 N. J. Eq. 203, 60 Atl. 332.

Where A. directed B. to pay to the plaintiff $700 a year during her natural life, or during her good behavior, and to that end he delivered to B. the sum of $10,000, declaring that such annual payments should be considered as interest thereon, and he directed that, in certain contingencies, the principal sum should be paid to the plaintiff, but that, if the plaintiff died without issue, it should revert to A. and his heirs, and the plaintiff and B. each executed a written acceptance of these directions, held that, although, in the instruments embodying it, the transaction was called a "trust" and B. a "trustee" for the plaintiff, yet the obligation assumed by him was not a debt created in a fiduciary capacity, within the meaning of the bankruptcy law. Upshur v. Briscoe (1891) 138 U. S. 365, 11 Sup. Ct. 313, 34 L. Ed. 931.

15. —— Executors, administrators, and guardians.—An executor or administrator is a technical trustee, and holds the funds of the estate in a fiduciary capacity, and debts and liabilities growing out of his administration of the estate are not affected by his discharge in bankruptcy. If he mingles the funds of the estate with his own money, he is guilty of a wrongful misappropriation thereof within the meaning of the bankruptcy law. Johnson's Adm'r v. Parmenter (1901) 74 Vt. 58, 52 Atl. 73. And so if he deposits the money in a bank in his own name and for his own benefit, and it is lost through the insolvency of the bank or through his own misconduct with respect to it. Brown v. Hannagan (1911) 210 Mass. 246, 96 N. E. 714; Morris v. Covey (1912) 104 Ark. 226, 148 S. W. 257.

Though part of the debt due from an executor or administrator may be made up of interest, it is none the less true that the whole debt is excepted from the operation of a discharge in bankruptcy, for the interest is a mere incident of the principal and cannot be separated from it. Johnson's Adm'r v. Parmenter (1901) 74 Vt. 58, 52 Atl. 73.

A debt due from an executor to the residuary legatee is of the fiduciary character excepted from the operation of a discharge in bankruptcy. Crisfield v. State (1880) 55 Md. 192.

It is not only in his dealings with the beneficiaries that a personal representative acts in a fiduciary character. If he has so administered the estate as to render himself personally liable to creditors, his debt to them is also a fiduciary debt. Laramore v. McKinzie (1878) 60 Ga. 582. But an agreement by an executor guarantying the payment of a demand against the estate, and admitting the possession of sufficient assets, does not constitute a debt of this kind. Amoskeag Mfg. Co. v. Barnes (1870) 49 N. H. 312. And where he settles with the distributees of the estate by giving them his personal notes, and they release him, there is a novation of the debts, and claims founded on the notes have no fiduciary character. Elliott v. Higgins (1880) 83 N. C. 459; Light v. Merriam (1882) 132 Mass. 283.

Where a party paid an executor for a portion of the assets of the estate which he purchased at a discount, but without any actual fraud, and was, with the executor, held liable for a devastavit, his subsequent discharge in bankruptcy was held a complete defense to an action against him for the devastavit. Neal v. Clark (1877) 95 U. S. 704, 24 L. Ed. 586.

The liability of a guardian to his ward, with respect to the ward's property or money, is also a fiduciary debt, and not released by the guardian's discharge in bankruptcy. In re Maybin (D. C. 1876) 15 N. B. R. 468, Fed. Cas. No. 9,337; Simpson v. Simpson (1879) 80 N. C. 332; Cromer v. Cromer (Va. 1877) 29 Grat. 280. And so, where a guardian makes default, and his surety is forced to pay the deficit, the debt of the guardian to the surety for reimbursement is one contracted in a fiduciary capacity and is not affected by the former's discharge in bankruptcy. Halliburton v. Carter (1874) 55 Mo. 435.

16. —— Agents.—The relation of an agent to his principal is not an express or technical trust, so as to make a debt from the agent to the principal a fiduciary debt such as will not be released by the agent's discharge in bankruptcy. Keefauver v. Hevenor (1914) 163 App. Div. 531, 148 N. Y. Supp. 434; Boyd v. Agriculture Ins. Co. (1904) 20 Colo. App. 28, 76 Pac. 986; Young v. Clark (1907) 7 Cal. App. 194, 93 Pac. 1056.

In the case of an agent employed to collect periodical payments or other sums of money for his principal, there is no technical fraud in his mingling money so collected with his own funds, and if he misappropriates it or simply fails to account for it, it is not a breach of a technical trust, but only of a contract, and hence the claim against him is provable in bankruptcy and will be released by his discharge. Noble v. Hammond (1889) 129 U. S. 65, 9 Sup. Ct. 235, 32 L. Ed. 621; Grover & Baker Sewing Machine Co. v. Clinton (C. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 312, Fed. Cas. No. 5,845; Green v. Chilton (1874) 57 Miss. 598, 34 Am. Rep. 483; Guilfoyle v. Anderson (N. Y. 1880) 9 Daly, 64; Kaufman v. Alexander (1880) 53 Tex. 562; Hanan v. Long (1912) 150 App. Div. 327, 134 N. Y. Supp. 786. But compare Fulton v. Hammond (C. C. 1882) 11 Fed. 291; Shipley v. Platts (1903) 17 S. D. 357, 97 N. W. 1. And see Williams v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. (Ala. 1913) 62 South. 755. An agent employed to collect rents due to his principal and remit the proceeds, does not act in the character of a trustee, and a debt created by his failure to account for money so collected is not excepted from the operation of his discharge in bankruptcy. In re Benoit (1909) 194 N. Y. 549, 87 N. E. 1115; Byrnes v. Byrnes (1891) 129 N. Y. 23, 29 N. E. 244; Stull v. Beddeo (1907) 78 Neb. 119, 112 N. W. 315, 14 L. R. A. (N. S.) 507.

An agent employed to sell and deliver goods of his principal (or simply to deliver goods sold) and collect and remit the proceeds, less his commission or other compensation, is not a trustee nor does he act in a fiduciary capacity. In re Camelo (D. C. 1912) 198 Fed. 632, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 353; In re Hale (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 387, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 633; American Agricultural Chemical Co. v. Berry (1913) 110 Me. 528, 87 Atl. 218; Barber v. Sterling (1877) 68 N. Y. 267.

A judgment obtained by a railroad company against a ticket agent for money collected by him for tickets sold and converted to his own use is not for a fiduciary debt. In re Wenham (D. C. 1906) 153 Fed. 910, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 690.

An agent who retains money of his principal, which was sent to him with directions that he should take it to another place and there pay the note of his principal, cannot be treated as a defaulting trustee, but his liability will be discharged in bankruptcy. Pankey v. Nolan, 6 Humph. (Tenn. 1845) 154; Phillips v. Russell (1856) 42 Me. 360. Compare Matteson v. Kellogg (1854) 15 Ill. 547.

In the case of one who is intrusted with the funds of another for the purpose of loaning them on real estate security, and who is authorized to receive payment of the interest as due and of the principal of such loans, and directed to remit the same to his principal, when borrowers pay into his hands either the interest or the principal, he does not receive the money in the capacity of a trustee, and his failure to pay it over creates a simple debt which is dischargeable in bankruptcy. Bracken v. Milner (C. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 522, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 23. But if, instead of investing the money sent to him, as directed, he converts it to his own use and employs it in his own business, it is considered that such a misapplication of the funds is a breach of trust, so that the debt thereby created will not be barred by his discharge in bankruptcy. Flagg v. Ely (N. Y. 1846) 1 Edm. Sel. Cas. 206. And the same result follows where he lends the principal's money to himself, or where, on lending it to a third person, he takes security in the form of a trust deed to himself as trustee. In the latter case, if the property or its proceeds come into his hands through foreclosure, he is technically a trustee and holds the property in a fiduciary capacity. Bracken v. Milner (C. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 522, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 23.

An assignment of money to grow due in the future puts the assignor in the position of a trustee, so that if he collects the money when due and misappropriates it, he cannot plead his discharge in bankruptcy against the assignee's claim. J. L. Mott Ironworks

v. Toumey (1904) 94 App. Div. 216, 87 N. Y. Supp. 1020.

17. —— Attorneys.—The relation of attorney and client is one of trust, and a violation of duty by the attorney is an act done in a fiduciary capacity under the bankruptcy law, and a debt growing out of the conversion or embezzlement by an attorney of his client's money or property, while in his hands, is a debt created while he is acting in a fiduciary capacity and therefore not released by his discharge in bankruptcy. Flanagan v. Pearson (1875) 42 Tex. 1, 19 Am. Rep. 40; Heffren v. Jayne (1872) 39 Ind. 463, 13 Am. Rep. 281. CONTRA, Wolcott v. Hodge (Mass. 1860) 15 Gray, 547, 77 Am. Dec. 381; Woodward v. Towne (1879) 127 Mass. 41, 34 Am. Rep. 337.

18. —— Bailees.—Unless expressly constituted a trustee, a bailee of personal property does not hold it in a fiduciary capacity, nor act in such a capacity when dealing with it, so that a debt or claim against him for the loss, destruction, or conversion of the property is simply founded on his breach of contract and will be released by his discharge in bankruptcy. Sumner v. Richie (1880) 54 Iowa, 554, 6 N. W. 752; Phillips v. Russell (1856) 42 Me. 360; Grannis v. Cubbedge (1883) 71 Ga. 582. Compare Herman v. Lynch (1881) 26 Kan. 435, 40 Am. Rep. 320. And see Burnham v. Noyes (1878) 125 Mass. 85; Stokes v. Mason (1872) 10 R. I. 261, 12 N. B. R. 498.

Where one is intrusted with the effects of another to sell and dispose of them for the benefit of the latter, and to account to him therefor, the mere fact that such bailee has failed to account does not create a debt which is exempted from his discharge in bankruptcy. Georgia R. R. v. Cubbedge (1885) 75 Ga. 321.

Where the bankrupts pledged accounts due them for merchandise sold to secure a loan, and also agreed to hold any goods returned by customers whose accounts were assigned as the property of the creditor or resell the same as his agents and account for the proceeds, it was held that a failure to pay over the proceeds of goods so resold did not create a liability for "willful and malicious injury" to the property of the creditor, nor a debt created by the bankrupts while acting in a fiduciary capacity. In re Toklas Bros. (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 377, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 709.

A claim against a pledgee of a certificate of stock, based on his pledging the stock for an amount in excess of the pledgor's indebtedness, shortly before his adjudication in bankruptcy, and a refusal to deliver the certificate to the pledgor on tender of payment of his debt, is predicated merely on the pledgee's breach of contract, and is a liability discharged in bankruptcy. Wood v. Fisk (1913) 156 App. Div. 497, 141 N. Y. Supp. 342.

Where plaintiff sold personal property to defendant, under an agreement that the title should remain in the seller until the purchase price was paid, but defendant sold the property and appropriated the proceeds, it was held that his liability therefor was not created while he was acting in a fiduciary capacity. Bryant v. Kinyon (1901) 127 Mich. 152, 86 N. W. 531, 53 L. R. A. 801.

19. —— Bankers and brokers.—A banker does not occupy the position of a trustee with respect to funds placed in his hands on general deposit. The relation of the parties is simply that of debtor and creditor. Hence a claim against the banker for the loss or conversion of the money will be a provable debt against him in bankruptcy and will be barred by his discharge. Lewis v. Shaw (1907) 122 App. Div. 96, 106 N. Y. Supp. 1012; Sheldon v. Clews (N. Y. 1883) 13 Abb. New Cas. 40; Shaw v. Vaughan (1884) 52 Mich. 405, 18 N. W. 126; Maxwell v. Evans (1883) 90 Ind. 596, 46 Am. Rep. 234; Hervey v. Devereux (1875) 72 N. C. 463.

The dealings between a stockbroker and his customers are not of a fiduciary character, and the broker's discharge in bankruptcy will release him from claims against him growing out of his conversion or misappropriation of money placed in his hands by a customer as margin or for the purchase of stocks. In re Ennis & Stoppani (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 755, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 679; Halpine v. May (1868) 100 Mass. 498; Lawrence v. Harrington (1890) 122 N. Y. 408, 25 N. E. 406; Clarke v. Milliken (1911) 70 Misc. Rep. 492, 127 N. Y. Supp. 339. And from claims growing out of his failure or refusal to return securities deposited with him as collateral. Palmer v. Hussey (1886) 119 U. S. 96, 7 Sup. Ct. 158, 30 L. Ed. 362; Hennequin v. Clews (1884) 111 U. S. 676, 4 Sup. Ct. 576, 28 L. Ed. 565; Crosby v. Miller, Vaughn & Co. (1903) 25 R. I. 172, 55 Atl. 328; Hennequin v. Clews (1879) 77 N. Y. 427, 33 Am. Rep. 641. And from a claim based on his unauthorized sale of stock purchased for a customer. Stratford v. Jones (1885) 97 N. Y. 586.

20. —— Factors and commission merchants.—A factor or commission merchant is not technically a trustee with respect to the goods of his principal in his hands or with respect to the proceeds of sales, and his failure to pay over money due to his principal is not a breach of trust. It creates a simple debt, which is provable and dischargeable in bankruptcy, and not a fiduciary debt. Chapman v. Forsyth (1844) 2 How. 202, 11 L. Ed. 236; Crawford v. Burke (1904) 195 U. S. 176, 25 Sup. Ct. 9, 49 L. Ed. 147, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 659; In re Adler (1907) 152 Fed. 422, 81 C. C. A. 564, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 240; In re Gulick (1911) 186 Fed. 350, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 362;

Mathieu v. Goldberg (C. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 541, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 191; In re Basch (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 761, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 235; In re Benedict (1902) 37 Misc. Rep. 230, 75 N. Y. Supp. 165; Zeperink v. Card (C. C. 1882) 11 Fed. 295; Owsley v. Cobin (C. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 489, Fed. Cas. No. 10,636; In re Smith (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 12,976; Hayman v. Pond (Mass. 1843) 7 Metc. 328; Scott v. Porter (1880) 93 Pa. 38, 39 Am. Rep. 719; Falkland v. Bank (N. Y. 1880) 21 Hun, 450; Austill v. Crawford (1845) 7 Ala. 335; Woolsey v. Cade (1875) 54 Ala. 378, 25 Am. Rep. 711; Maxwell v. Evans (1883) 90 Ind. 596, 46 Am. Rep. 234; Du Pont v. Beck (1881) 81 Ind. 271; Grover & Baker S. M. Co. v. Clinton (C. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 312, Fed. Cas. No. 5,845; Keime v. Graff (C. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 319, Fed. Cas. No. 7,650; Kaufman v. Alexander (1880) 53 Tex. 562.

In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, a principal has the right at any time to retake possession of goods consigned to a factor on payment of advances and liens; and where a factor, without legal excuse, refuses to return goods on demand of the consignor, his liability therefor is a debt created by his fraud, embezzlement, or misappropriation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, from which he is not released by a discharge in bankruptcy. Mathieu v. Goldberg (C. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 541, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 191.

21. —— Auctioneers.—An auctioneer acts in a fiduciary capacity in respect to goods placed in his hands for sale, and that his liability for their proceeds will therefore not be released by his discharge in bankruptcy. Jones v. Russell (1871) 44 Ga. 460, 11 N. B. R. 478; In re Lord (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. 8,501; Crowther v. Elgood, L. R. 34 Ch. Div. 691.

A deposit of money made by the purchaser at a sale by auction is not received by the auctioneer in a fiduciary capacity. Gibson v. Gorman (1882) 44 N. J. Law, 325.

22. —— Partners and joint adventurers.—A claim of one partner against the other for fraud or mismanagement of the partnership business, or for misappropriation of the firm's assets, is not a debt contracted while acting in a fiduciary capacity so as to be excepted from the operation of a discharge in bankruptcy. Gee v. Gee (1901) 84 Minn. 384, 87 N. W. 1116; Karger v. Orth (1911) 116 Minn. 124, 133 N. W. 471; Inge v. Stillwell (1912) 88 Kan. 33, 127 Pac. 527, 42 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1093.

During a partnership between two persons, formed to conduct a banking business, the managing partner is not an officer, within the meaning of this section, neither does he act in any fiduciary capacity. Martin v. Starrett (1915) 97 Neb. 653, 151 N. W. 154.

Where one receives money from another to be invested on their joint account in the purchase of land or commodities, with an agreement that it is to be returned if no investment is made, or that the profits of any successful purchase and sale shall be divided between them, no fiduciary debt is thereby created. Such an arrangement does not constitute the party receiving the money a trustee for the other, but merely a partner with him, and a debt growing out of the joint adventure will be dischargeable in bankruptcy. Hill v. Sheibley (1882) 68 Ga. 556; Pierce v. Shippee (1878) 90 Ill. 371.

23. —— Public and other officers.—A debt created by the bankrupt's fraud while acting as an officer, or one created by his embezzlement while acting as an officer, or by his misappropriation of funds while acting as an officer, will be excepted from the operation of his discharge, in the same manner and to the same extent as a debt created by a technical "defalcation." Tindle v. Birkett (1907) 205 U. S. 183, 27 Sup. Ct. 493, 51 L. Ed. 762, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 121; In re Harper (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 970.

Among the public officers who are within this provision of the statute, so that money debts due from them in their official capacity are not affected by a discharge in bankruptcy, are collectors of taxes. Morse v. Lowell (Mass. 1843) 7 Metc. 152; Richmond v. Brown (1876) 66 Me. 373; Town of Grantham v. Clark (1882) 62 N. H. 426. Sheriffs, in so far as they receive or handle public money. Johnson v. Auditor (1879) 78 Ky. 282; Councill v. Horton (1883) 88 N. C. 222. Official auctioneers of cities. Jones v. Russell (1871) 44 Ga. 460. Any municipal officer whose duty requires him to collect and account for license fees. In re Johnson (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 7,365a. Registers and receivers of the land office. Ex parte Wright (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 18,064.

Debts created in their official capacity by officers of private corporations, such as presidents and cashiers of banks, treasurers of other corporations, and all officers who share in the management of the finances, are excepted from the operation of a discharge in bankruptcy. Harper v. Rankin (1905) 141 Fed. 626, 72 C. C. A. 320, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 608; Shepard v. Morgan (1908) 123 App. Div. 128, 108 N. Y. Supp. 379; Tatum v. Leigh (1911) 136 Ga. 791, 72 S. E. 236, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 216; Peterborough R. R. v. Wood (1881) 61 N. H. 418.

Where a defaulting public officer gives his note for the amount due (whether to his successor in office or to the officers authorized to demand the money in his hands), there is such a novation or change in the character of the debt that it loses its preferred character in bankruptcy, and becomes dischargeable like any ordinary claim founded on a note. Wilkes County Com'rs v. Staley (1880) 82 N. C. 395. CONTRA, Madison Tp. v. Dunkle (1888) 114 Ind. 262, 16 N. E. 593.

24. —— Sureties on bonds of fiduciary debtors.—The obligation of a surety on the bond of a principal who acts in a fiduciary capacity is contractual and not in the nature of a trust, and if the surety become bankrupt, and his liability on the bond is so far fixed as to constitute a provable debt against his estate, it will be released by his discharge in bankruptcy. Jones v. Knox (1871) 46 Ala. 53, 7 Am. Rep. 583; Reitz v. People (1874) 72 Ill. 435, 16 N. B. R. 196; McDonald v. State (1881) 77 Ind. 26; Simpson v. Simpson (1879) 80 N. C. 332; Davis v. McCurdy (1880) 50 Wis. 569, 7 N. W. 665; Harmon v. McDonald (1905) 187 Mass. 578, 73 N. E. 883, 3 Ann. Cas. 64; Fowler v. Kendall (1858) 44 Me. 448; Saunders v. Commonwealth (Va. 1853) 10 Grat. 494; McMinn v. Allen (1872) 67 N. C. 131; Steele v. Graves (1880) 68 Ala. 21; Ex parte Taylor (C. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 40, Fed. Cas. No. 13,773.

A surety on an administrator's bond occupies no fiduciary relation that will prevent his discharge in bankruptcy from operating as a release from liability for contribution to his cosurety, who has been compelled to pay the debt of the administrator. Miller v. Gillespie (1881) 59 Mo. 220.

If a surety gives his personal note for the debt due from his principal, and pays the note at maturity, his claim against the principal for reimbursement is not of such a fiduciary character as to be excepted from the operation of the principal's discharge in bankruptcy. Light v. Merriam (1882) 132 Mass. 283; Cromer v. Cromer (Va. 1877) 29 Grat. 280; Leinkauf v. Wellhouse (1907) 1 Ga. App. 670, 57 S. E. 961.

25. Liabilities for willful and malicious injuries.—It is not necessary that a liability for willful and malicious injury to the person or property of another should have been reduced to judgment, in order to except it from the operation of a discharge in bankruptcy. Bever v. Swecker (1908) 138 Iowa, 721, 116 N. W. 704. But the fact that judgment has been obtained upon such a liability does not change the character of the claim so as to make it dischargeable in bankruptcy. Thompson v. Judy (1904) 169 Fed. 553, 95 C. C. A. 51, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 154; Stefanini v. Sroka (1904) 43 Misc. Rep. 614, 88 N. Y. Supp. 167; Woehrle v. Canclini (1910) 158 Cal. 107, 109 Pac. 888.

Where a defendant, against whom a judgment has been obtained for an assault and who has been arrested on execution, makes application to take the poor debtor's oath, and gives a recognizance under the local statute, such recognizance is merely a cumulative security for the original judgment, and a judgment subsequently rendered on the recognizance is a liability for willful and malicious injury, and not released in bankruptcy. In re Cololuca (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 255, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 292.

As used in this section, the phrase "willful and malicious injury" does not necessarily involve hatred or ill will as a state of mind, but arises from a wrongful act done intentionally and without cause or excuse. In re Halper (1913) 82 Misc. Rep. 205, 143 N. Y. Supp. 1005; Peters v. U. S. (1910) 177 Fed. 885, 101 C. C. A. 99, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 206; McChristal v. Clisbee (1906) 190 Mass. 120, 76 N. E. 511, 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 702, 5 Ann. Cas. 769; Kavanaugh v. McIntyre (1908) 128 App. Div. 722, 112 N. Y. Supp. 987.

Where a judgment had been recovered, in an action of trespass vi et armis in a state court, against a school-teacher for an assault upon a pupil alleged to have consisted in the infliction of corporal punishment with excessive severity, held, that the liability was for a willful and malicious injury, from which the defendant would not be released by his discharge in bankruptcy. Peters v. U. S. (1910) 177 Fed. 885, 101 C. C. A. 99, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 206.

A judgment against a landlord for a personal injury inflicted by a vicious dog owned by the tenant and kept on the leased premises is not one for a willful and malicious injury, but is based on negligence only, and the debt is one from which the defendant is released by his discharge in bankruptcy. In re Lorde (D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 320, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 201.

Negligence alone does not constitute either such malice or such willfullness as is contemplated by this provision of the act. In re Wakefield (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 181, 31 Am. Bankr. Rep. 42; Weisfield v. Beale (1910) 44 Pa. Super. Ct. 386. A discharge in bankruptcy does not bar an action in tort for the death of a servant caused by the bankrupt's negligence. Pearlman v. Booth (1914) 160 App. Div. 219, 145 N. Y. Supp. 539.

A judgment against an innkeeper for causing the death of plaintiff's husband while a guest at the inn, in consequence either of failing to take proper care of the decedent or of administering to him a dangerous drug when decedent was in a state of excited alcoholic intoxication, is not for a willful and malicious injury, and therefore is released by a discharge in bankruptcy. Tompkins v. Williams (1910) 137 App. Div. 521, 122 N. Y. Supp. 152.

A liability or a judgment for damages for slander or libel is for such an injury to the person as is not released or affected by a discharge in bankruptcy. In re Dowie (D. C. 1912) 202 Fed.

816, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 338; McDonald v. Brown (1902) 23 R. I. 546, 51 Atl. 213, 58 L. R. A. 768, 91 Am. St. Rep. 659; National Surety Co. v. Medlock (1907) 2 Ga. App. 665, 58 S. E. 1131; Parker v. Brattan (1913) 120 Md. 428, 87 Atl. 756; Sanderson v. Hunt (1903) 116 Ky. 435, 76 S. W. 179, 3 Ann. Cas. 168; Drake v. Vernon (1910) 26 S. D. 354, 128 N. W. 317. A judgment for damages for slander not being dischargeable in bankruptcy, a judgment against the plaintiff for costs in such an action partakes of the same character and is not released by the discharge. In re Dowie (D. C. 1912) 202 Fed. 816, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 338.

A discharge in bankruptcy does not release the bankrupt from a judgment in an action for false arrest or malicious prosecution. Mason v. Perkins (1904) 180 Mo. 702, 79 S. W. 683, 103 Am. St. Rep. 591; Taylor v. Marshall (1910) 153 Ill. App. 409. CONTRA, Johnston v. Bruckheimer (1909) 133 App. Div. 649, 118 N. Y. Supp. 189. Or a judgment in forcible detainer against a landlord based on his wrongfully and forcibly removing an assignee of the lessee under a judgment for dispossession against the lessee alone. In re Munro (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 817, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 369. Or a judgment for personal injuries resulting from the sale of pure carbolic acid for a 2 per cent. solution. In re Halper (1913) 82 Misc. Rep. 205, 143 N. Y. Supp. 1005.

A fraudulent appropriation of the money or property of another is a "willful and malicious injury" to such property, within the meaning of the bankruptcy law. Hallagan v. Dowell (Iowa, 1913) 139 N. W. 883. An intentional sale by a brokerage firm of stock held by it upon an account and depositing the proceeds in bank in the firm name held to create a liability for willful and malicious "injury to the property of another." Kavanaugh v. McIntyre (1914) 104 N. E. 135, 210 N. Y. 175, affirming judgment (1912) 135 N. Y. S. 1120, 151 App. Div. 910, which affirms judgment (1911) 133 N. Y. S. 679, 74 Misc. Rep. 222. Liability of maker of a note converting to his own use the proceeds of a note deposited with the payee as collateral, held not to arise from willful and malicious injury to the property of the payee within Bankruptcy Act, § 17. First Nat. Bank of Enosburg Falls v. Bamforth (Vt. 1916) 96 A. 600.

A judgment against defendant for taking plaintiff's cattle without his consent, and appropriating them to his own use, is not released by defendant's discharge in bankruptcy. Bever v. Swecker (1908) 138 Iowa, 721, 116 N. W. 704.

26. Liabilities for seduction and criminal conversation.—A liability for the seduction of a woman or for criminal conversation or alienating the affecti of a husband or wife is not released a discharge in bankruptcy. Tinker Colwell (1904) 193 U. S. 473, 24 S Ct. 505, 48 L. Ed. 754, 11 Am. Ban Rep. 568; Colwell v. Tinker (1902) N. Y. 531, 62 N. E. 668, 58 L. R. 765, 98 Am. St. Rep. 587; Leicester Hoadley (1903) 66 Kan. 172, 71 P 318, 65 L. R. A. 523; In re Freche C. 1901) 109 Fed. 620, 6 Am. Ban Rep. 479; In re Maples (D. C. 19 105 Fed. 919, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 4 Exline v. Sargent (1901) 23 Ohio Ct. R. 180. Compare In re Tinker C. 1900) 99 Fed. 79, 3 Am. Ban Rep. 580; In re Sullivan, 1 Nat. Ban News, 380; Howland v. Carson (18 28 Ohio St. 625, 16 N. B. R. 372.

A judgment rendered against bankrupt in an action for breach promise of marriage, where there is proof of seduction of the plaintiff, or malice or any injury to character, for a mere contract debt, and con within the operation of the discharge bankruptcy. Finnegan v. Hall (19 35 Misc. Rep. 773, 72 N. Y. Supp. 3 Bond v. Milliken (1906) 134 Iowa, 4 109 N. W. 774, 120 Am. St. Rep. 4 And the same rule obtains where sed tion is shown as an element of da ages, but not made a substantive p of the cause of action. Disler v. M Cauley (1901) 66 App. Div. 42, 73 Y. Supp. 270.

A judgment obtained by an unm ried woman for breach of marri promise, accompanied by seduction, be regarded as entirely for the sed tion, and therefore not dischargeable bankruptcy, in the absence of a sho ing as to what part of the damages w awarded for the breach of promi In re Warth (1912) 200 Fed. 408, 1 C. C. A. 560, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 2 In re Grounds (D. C. 1914) 215 F 280.

27. Debts contracted by fraud Debts created by the fraud of the ba rupt are not excepted from the ope tion of the discharge, unless so crea while he was acting as an officer or a fiduciary capacity. Crawford Burke (1904) 195 U. S. 176, 25 S Ct. 9, 49 L. Ed. 147, 12 Am. Ban Rep. 659; Bullis v. O'Beirne (19 195 U. S. 606, 25 Sup. Ct. 118, 49 Ed. 340, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1 Tindle v. Birkett (1907) 205 U. S. 1 27 Sup. Ct. 493, 51 L. Ed. 762, 18 A Bankr. Rep. 121; In re Ennis & St pani (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 755, 22 A Bankr. Rep. 679; Gee v. Gee (19 84 Minn. 384, 87 N. W. 1116; J. Smith & Wallace Co. v. Lambert (19 69 N. J. Law, 487, 55 Atl. 88; Cros v. Miller, Vaughn & Co. (1903) 25 I. 172, 55 Atl. 328; Morse v. Kaufm (1902) 100 Va. 218, 40 S. E. 9 Jewett Bros. & Jewett v. Bents (1905) 20 S. D. 175, 105 N. W. 1 Dilley v. Simmons Nat. Bank (A 1913) 158 S. W. 144; Martin v. St rett (1915) 97 Neb. 653, 151 N. W. 154.

A cause of action does not become merged in a judgment thereon so as to preclude the creditor from showing that the original debt was created by fraud, and if it is established that the original debt would not have been dischargeable in bankruptcy, neither will the judgment recovered upon it be so dischargeable. Dilley v. Simmons Nat. Bank (Ark. 1913) 158 S. W. 144; Forsyth v. Vehmeyer (1898) 176 Ill. 359, 52 N. E. 55, affirmed (1900) 177 U. S. 177, 20 Sup. Ct. 623, 44 L. Ed. 723, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 807; Gee v. Gee (1901) 84 Minn. 384, 87 N. W. 1116; Packer v. Whittier (1899) 91 Fed. 511, 33 C. C. A. 658, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 621; In re Pettis (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 11,046; Warner v. Cronkhite (C. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 17,180; Horner v. Spelman (1875) 78 Ill. 206; Freiberg v. Popper (N. Y. 1851) 12 Hun, 658; Kaufman v. Lindner (N. Y. 1884) 67 How. Prac. 322; Young v. Grau (1884) 14 R. I. 340; In re Patterson (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 307, Fed. Cas. No. 10,817. CONTRA, see Shuman v. Strauss (1871) 34 N. Y. Super. Ct. 6; Kames v. Fox (Pa. 1880) 14 Phila. 208; Palmer v. Preston (1872) 45 Vt. 154, 12 Am. Rep. 191; Ford v. Blackshear Mfg. Co. (1913) 140 Ga. 670, 79 S. E. 576. This fact need not appear on the face of the judgment, but it is proper to look behind it and examine the entire record in order to ascertain the character of the debt on which it was founded. Ames v. Moir (1891) 138 U. S. 306, 11 Sup. Ct. 311, 34 L. Ed. 951; In re Bullis (1902) 171 N. Y. 689, 64 N. E. 1119; Donald v. Kell (1887) 111 Ind. 1, 11 N. E. 782; Moody v. Muscogee Mfg. Co. (1910) 134 Ga. 721, 68 S. E. 604, 20 Ann. Cas. 301; Ziegler v. Suggit (1912) 118 Minn. 74, 136 N. W. 411. If it appears that fraud was the gravamen or gist of the action, the judgment will be held not affected by the discharge. Oberreich v. Foster (1909) 148 Ill. App. 397; In re Benoit (1908) 124 App. Div. 142, 108 N. Y. Supp. 889; In re Blumberg (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 476, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 633; Collins v. McWalters (1901) 35 Misc. Rep. 648, 72 N. Y. Supp. 203. The record is conclusive, and if it contains nothing to show the alleged fraudulent character of the claim sued on, it will not be sufficient to repel the plea of a discharge in bankruptcy. Barnes Mfg. Co. v. Norden (1902) 67 N. J. Law, 493, 51 Atl. 454; Barnes Cycle Co. v. Haines (1905) 69 N. J. Eq. 651, 61 Atl. 515; Quaker City Watch Co. v. Lamoreaux (1902) 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 493.

Where a plaintiff sued for money had and received and also on an indebtedness alleged to have been created by the bankrupt's embezzlement of trust funds, and the verdict was general, and there was nothing to show that it included the latter indebtedness alone, there is no ground for holding the judgment to be excepted from the operation of the discharge in bankruptcy. Cooke v. Plaisted (1902) 181 Mass. 82, 62 N. E. 1054.

If a plaintiff sues on a promissory note, an account stated, a written contract, a bond, or the like, it is an election to waive any fraud which induced or entered into the creation of the indebtedness, and such fraud cannot be brought up again and insisted on for the purpose of withdrawing the judgment from the effect of defendant's discharge in bankruptcy. Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Hudson (1903) 122 Fed. 232, 58 C. C. A. 596, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 225; In re Rhutassel (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 597, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 697; In re Blumberg (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 476, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 633; Mulock v. Byrnes (1891) 59 Hun, 623, 13 N. Y. Supp. 190; Palmer v. Preston (1872) 45 Vt. 154, 12 Am. Rep. 191; Harrington & Goodman v. Herman (1903) 172 Mo. 344, 72 S. W. 546, 60 L. R. A. 885. CONTRA, Stewart v. Emerson (1872) 52 N. H. 301, 8 N. B. R. 462.

In this connection, the word "fraud" means positive fraud or fraud in fact, involving moral turpitude or intentional wrong, and not implied fraud or fraud in law, which may exist without the imputation of bad faith or immorality. Bullis v. O'Beirne (1904) 195 U. S. 606, 25 Sup. Ct. 118, 49 L. Ed. 340, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 108; Neal v. Clark (1877) 95 U. S. 704, 24 L. Ed. 586; Strang v. Bradner (1885) 114 U. S. 555, 5 Sup. Ct. 1033, 29 L. Ed. 248; Noble v. Hammond (1889) 129 U. S. 65, 9 Sup. Ct. 235, 32 L. Ed. 621; Western Union Cold Storage Co. v. Hurd (C. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 442, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 633; Lund v. Bull (1911) 76 N. H. 132, 80 Atl. 141, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 819; Ely v. Curtis (1881) 60 N. H. 513; Hennequin v. Clews (1879) 77 N. Y. 427, 33 Am. Rep. 641; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bryant (1912) 149 Ky. 359, 149 S. W. 830; Cooper Grocery Co. v. Gaddy (Tex. Civ. App. 1911) 141 S. W. 825; Brenner v. Duard (1879) 126 Mass. 400; Curtis v. Waring (1880) 92 Pa. 104; Allen v. Hickling (1882) 11 Ill. App. 549; Rowe v. Guilleaume (N. Y. 1879) 18 Hun, 556; In re Shepardson (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 186.

A legal fraud can be committed only by fraudulent representations of fact or by such conduct or artifice for a fraudulent purpose as will throw one off his guard and cause him to omit inquiry or examination which he would otherwise make. In re Nuttall (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 557, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 800.

Where a purchaser receives goods knowing himself to be insolvent, and with the intention of disposing of them without paying the price, this constitutes such fraud as will take the case out of the operation of his discharge in bankruptcy. Ames v. Moir (1891) 138 U. S. 306, 11 Sup. Ct. 311, 34 L. Ed. 951; Strauss v. Abrahams (C. C. 1887) 32 Fed. 310; Classen v. Schoenemann (1875) 80 Ill. 304, 16 N. B. R. 98; Ames v. Moir (1889) 130 Ill. 582, 22 N. E. 535. So a discharge will not release a bankrupt who was a public warehouseman from a claim or judgment arising by reason of his fraudulently removing property from his warehouse contrary to the provisions of a state statute. Halsey v. Jordan (1910) 155 Ill. App. 144. Nor can a discharge be set up by one who, after the sale of property and delivery of warehouse receipts for it, sells the same property to another. Taylor v. Farmer (1883) 81 Ky. 458. Nor by a debtor who, at the time of contracting the debt, pledges as security for it collateral which he knows to be worthless. Bank of North America v. Crandall (1885) 87 Mo. 208.

One who accepts a transfer of another's property, knowing that it is made for the purpose of defrauding the latter's creditors, is himself guilty of such actual fraud that a claim or judgment against him for the restoration of the property is not barred by his discharge. Mackel v. Rochester (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 904, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 429.

Where plaintiff undertook to guaranty defendant's honesty in his capacity as an insurance agent, the liability of defendant to indemnify plaintiff for the amount plaintiff was compelled to pay under such guaranty is not a debt created by fraud in this sense. American Surety Co. v. Spice (1912) 119 Md. 1, 85 Atl. 1031. And so of a transaction by which one induced another to dismiss an action on a note by representing that he would pay it if not molested, and thereafter went into bankruptcy. Jenkins v. Pilcher (1910) 160 Mich. 349, 125 N. W. 355, 28 L. R. A. (N. S.) 423.

A debt, to be fraudulent within the meaning of the bankruptcy law, must be tainted with fraud in its inception. If the contract was fair and honest when made, although the debtor may subsequently be guilty of fraudulent conduct in respect to it, yet such conduct will not destroy the benefit of his discharge in bankruptcy. Brown v. Broach (1876) 52 Miss. 536.

28. —— Deceit and false representations.—A discharge in bankruptcy does not release a bankrupt from liability for obtaining property by false pretenses or false representations. J. K. Orr Shoe Co. v. Upshaw & Powledge (Ga. App. 1913) 79 S. E. 362. And see Nelson v. Petterson (1907) 131 Ill. App. 443; Atlanta Skirt Mfg. Co. v. Jacobs (1910) 8 Ga. App. 299, 68 S. E. 1077; Lee v. Tarplin (1907) 194 Mass. 47, 79 N. E. 786; Morse v. Hutchins (1869) 102 Mass. 439.

A claim against the bankrupt for obtaining property by false representations is not merged in the judgment recovered upon it in such sense as to bring the judgment within the operation of the discharge where the claim would not be. In re Lewensohn (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 73, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 594; Nichols v. Doak (1908) 48 Wash. 457, 93 Pac. 919, 125 Am. St. Rep. 942; In re Lewensohn (1900) 104 Fed. 1006, 44 C. C. A. 309; In re Shepardson (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 186; Chambers v. Kirk (Okl. 1914) 139 Pac. 986.

A judgment in favor of plaintiff in an action for deceit is conclusive that the debt was the result of fraud, and not discharged in bankruptcy. In re Shepardson (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 186.

If the creditor, having parted with his property in reliance on false pretenses or representations, accepts a note for the amount due, no fraud being practised upon him to induce his acceptance of the note, neither the note nor a judgment recovered upon it will be excepted from the defendant's discharge. In re Rhutassel (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 597, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 697; Blackman v. McAdams (1908) 131 Mo. App. 408, 111 S. W. 599. And this provision of the statute does not embrace a case where the bankrupt obtained the property in question as a loan in the first instance, though he afterwards converted it. Maxwell v. Martin (1909) 130 App. Div. 80, 114 N. Y. Supp. 349.

As to the character of the pretenses or representations intended by the statute, it may be said that a representation as to a fact, made knowingly, falsely, and fraudulently, for the purpose of obtaining money or property from another, and by means of which such money or property is so obtained, is a legal fraud and within the statute. Forsyth v. Vehmeyer (1900) 177 U. S. 177, 20 Sup. Ct. 623, 44 L. Ed. 723, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 807.

The overruling of objections to a discharge, based on the bankrupt's false representations to a commercial agency, held not an adjudication, precluding subsequent suit on the ground that the bankrupt had obtained credit by misrepresentations. E. I. Du Pont De Nemours Powder Co. v. Schwenger (1915) 154 N. Y. S. 186, 90 Misc. Rep. 678.

It is an obtaining of property by fraud when an intending buyer procures the sale and delivery of it to him without payment by means of false statements as to the nature and extent of his financial resources, or as to his ownership of particular property. Friend v. Talcott (1913) 228 U. S. 27, 33 Sup. Ct. 505, 57 L. Ed. 718; Forsyth v. Vehmeyer (1900) 177 U. S. 177, 20 Sup. Ct. 623, 44 L. Ed. 723, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 807; Id. (1898) 176 Ill. 359, 52 N. E. 55; Talcott v. Friend (1910)

ed. 676, 103 C. C. A. 80, 24 Am. . Rep. 708; In re Taff & Con- (D. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 899, 25 Bankr. Rep. 600; In re Alsberg & D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 116, Cas. No. 261; Broadnax v. Brad- 1874) 50 Ala. 270; Turner v. At- (1878) 124 Mass. 411. So also the purchaser falsely represents e is that day to receive a check certain amount and that he will ce turn it over to the creditor. l v. Ricker (1907) 79 Vt. 552, 66 69. Or where he lies as to the situation, or condition of proper- ch he really owns, as, by stating is free from incumbrances, that covered with valuable timber, or te. In re Bullis (1902) 171 N. , 64 N. E. 1119; Peel v. Bryson 72 Ga. 331. Or where he un- es to turn over to the seller, as f the consideration, a note of a person, knowing at the time that te is in the hands of an assignee, whom he cannot procure it. v. Thomas (1887) 22 Neb. 541, W. 411. Or where he fraudu- causes the owner of property to that he intends to pay for it g no such intention) or fraudu- conceals his intention not to pay. rt v. Emerson (1872) 52 N. H. Or where he obtains goods on with the intention of setting over ods to certain other favored per- leaving himself nothing with he could pay for them. Louis- ry Goods Co. v. Lanman (1909) y. 163, 121 S. W. 1042, 28 L. R. S.) 363, 135 Am. St. Rep. 451. cing a creditor to surrender a y promising immediately to take nefit of the bankruptcy law and fter to pay the amount of it in as been held not such a "false entation" as the statute contem- Landgraf v. Griffith (1908) 41 pp. 372, 83 N. E. 1021.

ey is property, and a liability for ng money by false representa- s not dischargeable in bankrupt- Callagan v. Dowell (Iowa, 1913) W. 883. Nor is a liability in- by obtaining another surety for nkrupt by his false representa- Gaddy v. Witt (Tex. Civ. App. 142 S. W. 926.

ansaction wherein a husband and ointly executed notes in settle- of a debt and agreed to procure lorsement of a person financially sible, but failed to do so, held btaining property by false pre- or false representations," where f retained the old notes and part- h no property or rights in reli- pon the agreement to procure lorsement; and hence the wife's ge in bankruptcy released her ability on the notes. Rudstrom ridan (1913) 142 N. W. 313, 122 262.

services and advice of an attor- law are not "property," and though they were procured by the client by false pretenses, yet the attorney's claim for a fee is barred by the client's discharge in bankruptcy. Gleason v. Thaw (1915) 236 U. S. 558, 35 Sup. Ct. 287, 59 L. Ed. 717, affirming judgment (1912) 196 Fed. 359, 116 C. C. A. 179.

It is not necessary that the false pretenses or representations should have been made in writing. Katzenstein v. Reid, Murdock & Co. (1906) 41 Tex. Civ. App. 106, 91 S. W. 360. A false representation by one partner, by means of which property was obtained by the firm, will be imputed to the other partners to the extent of holding them civilly liable for the debt. Frank v. Michigan Paper Co. (1910) 179 Fed. 776, 103 C. C. A. 268, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 261.

It is necessary that the creditor should have been induced actually to part with property or rights in reliance upon the representations made to him. Rudstrom v. Sheridan (Minn. 1913) 142 N. W. 313. And that he should not have any actual knowledge or notice of their falsity. Hoskins v. Velasco Nat. Bank (1908) 48 Tex. Civ. App. 246, 107 S. W. 598.

29. —— Conversion of property.—A judgment recovered in an action for the conversion of property, or of the proceeds of its sale, is not a judgment for fraud, nor for false pretenses, nor for willful and malicious injuries, and therefore is not excepted from the operation of a discharge in bankruptcy. In re Ennis & Stoppani (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 755, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 679; Fechter v. Postel (1906) 114 App. Div. 776, 100 N. Y. Supp. 207; Burnham v. Pidcock (1900) 33 Misc. Rep. 65, 66 N. Y. Supp. 806; Crosby v. Miller, Vaughn & Co., (1903) 25 R. I. 172, 55 Atl. 328; Ex parte Peterson (1905) 77 Vt. 226, 59 Atl. 828; State v. Beck (1911) 175 Ind. 664, 93 N. E. 664; Ulner v. Doran (1915) 167 App. Div. 259, 152 N. Y. Supp. 655.

The action of plaintiff, who had consigned goods to defendants for sale on commission, for converting the goods or their proceeds, was barred by defendants' discharge. Butler-Kyser Mfg. Co. v. O. D. Mitchell & Co. (Ala. 1915) 70 So. 665.

A wrongful repledge of security held not a willful and malicious injury to the property of another, so that the pledgor's claim was not barred by discharge in bankruptcy. Wood v. Fisk (N. Y. 1915) 109 N. E. 177, affirming judgment (1913) 141 N. Y. S. 342, 156 App. Div. 497.

A claim against a pledgee of certificate of stock based on his pledging the stock for an amount in excess of the pledgor's indebtedness a month before his adjudication as a bankrupt, and a refusal to deliver the certificate to the pledgor on tender of payment of his debt, is predicated on the pledgee's liability of the stockholders or officers. In re Marshall Paper Co. (1900) 102 Fed. 872, 43 C. C. A. 38, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 468; Id. (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 419, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 653; Elsbree v. Burt (1902) 24 R. I. 322, 53 Atl. 60; Way v. Barney (1911) 116 Minn. 285, 133 N. W. 801, 38 L. R. A. (N. S.) 648, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 719.

The fact that creditors may have proved their claims in bankruptcy against the corporation, and received dividends thereon, does not prevent them from collecting the unpaid balance in this way. First Nat. Bank v. Hingham Mfg. Co. (1879) 127 Mass. 563.

The fact that a corporation has been adjudged bankrupt does not relieve stockholders of debts contracted as partners. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Fisher (1909) 58 Fla. 377, 50 South. 504.

33. Effect of discharge as to securities and liens.—While a discharge in bankruptcy releases the debtor from personal liability for the debts proved and frees his after-acquired property from the claims of creditors, it does not divest or in any way affect a valid lien existing on property of the bankrupt, provided, first, that the lien is not of the kind stricken down by the commencement of bankruptcy proceedings within four months after its inception, and second, that the property has not been brought within the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court and administered by it. Wills v. E. K. Wood Lumber & Mill Co. (Cal. App. 1915) 154 Pac. 613; Frey v. McGaw (Md. 1915) 95 Atl. 960; Paxton v. Scott (1902) 66 Neb. 385, 92 N. W. 611; Mallin v. Wenham (1904) 209 Ill. 252, 70 N. E. 564, 65 L. R. A. 602, 101 Am. St. Rep. 233; Taylor v. Marshall (1910) 153 Ill. App. 409; Morganstein v. Commercial Nat. Bank (1906) 125 Ill. App. 397; McDonald v. H. E. Taylor & Co. (1911) 144 App. Div. 329, 128 N. Y. Supp. 1048; Wyckoff v. Williams (1910) 136 App. Div. 495, 121 N. Y. Supp. 189; Stevenson v. Bird (1910) 168 Ala. 422, 53 South. 93; Newberry Shoe Co. v. Collier (1910) 111 Va. 288, 68 S. E. 974; John Leslie Paper Co. v. Wheeler (1912) 23 N. D. 477, 137 N. W. 412, 42 L. R. A. (N. S.) 292; Causey Lumber Co. v. Connor (1909) 6 Ga. App. 444, 65 S. E. 194; McCall v. Herring (1902) 116 Ga. 235, 42 S. E. 468; Philmon v. Marshall (1902) 116 Ga. 811, 43 S. E. 48; Evans v. Rounsaville (1902) 115 Ga. 684, 42 S. E. 100; Smith v. Zachry (1902) 115 Ga. 722, 42 S. E. 102; Darling v. Woodward (1881) 54 Vt. 101.

Where a debt is discharged in bankruptcy pending an action in a state court to recover the same, and there is a lien created by law incident to such debt, a plea in bar of further proceedings in the case will not preclude the court from rendering such a judgment as may be necessary to enable the plaintiff to enforce the lien. Bank of Commerce v. Elliott (1901) 109 Wis. 648, 85 N. W. 417.

A discharge in bankruptcy does not extinguish a judgment lien, except in so far as it imposes a separate liability on the bankrupt. Olsen v. Nelson (Minn. 1914) 146 N. W. 1097; In re Levitan (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 241.

Where a judgment creditor proved his claim against the estate of a bankrupt, but got nothing thereon, and there was nothing to show that he had surrendered or waived the lien of his judgment on land not sold by the trustee, such lien was not affected by the discharge in bankruptcy of the judgment debtor. McCarty v. Light (1913) 139 N. Y. S. 853, 155 App. Div. 36.

Where pending appeal from justice court judgment against W., he was adjudged a bankrupt, and circuit court rendered judgment against him and his sureties, held that subsequent discharge in bankruptcy did not relieve sureties. Kohn, Weil & Co. v. Weinberg (Miss. 1915) 70 So. 353.

A discharge in bankruptcy does not release or dissolve a mechanic's lien. Holland v. Cunliff (1902) 96 Mo. App. 67, 69 S. W. 737; Jensen v. Dorr (1911) 159 Cal. 742, 116 Pac. 553; McCullough v. Caldwell (1843) 5 Ark. 237. Or a vendor's lien for purchase money. Graves v. Coutant (1879) 31 N. J. Eq. 763. See Graham v. Richerson (1902) 115 Ga. 1002, 42 S. E. 374; White v. Hartman (Colo. App. 1915) 145 Pac. 716. Or an equitable lien. Eisman v. Whalen (1874) 39 Ind. App. 350, 79 N. E. 514, 1072. Or a lien arising from a suit by a creditor to enforce a trust in land held by the debtor's wife. Evans v. Staalle (1903) 88 Minn. 253, 92 N. W. 951.

Under a state statute giving a lien for services or materials furnished in the construction, etc., of a vessel enforceable directly against the vessel, the fact that no personal judgment could be obtained against the owner by reason of his discharge in bankruptcy held not to prevent enforcement of the lien against the vessel. Jensen v. Dorr (1914) 139 P. 659, 23 Cal. App. 701.

A discharge in bankruptcy secured by the debtor in a judgment, without notice to an attorney, who had filed a lien against the judgment for his fee, no mention of the lien having been made in the schedule of debts, does not discharge the attorney's interest in the judgment or bar his right to use the judgment to collect the amount of his lien. Lown v. Casselman (N. D. 1913) 141 N. W. 73.

The right created by the assignment, as security, of one's expectancy in the estate of his living ancestor is a lien enforceable against him after his discharge in bankruptcy. Bridge v. Ke-right of a judgment creditor to d under a state statute to reach cess above the statutory home- valuation of the homestead of ebtor is destroyed by the lat- lischarge in bankruptcy, if the ent was based on a claim le in bankruptcy, and no pro- gs to reach the homestead had begun at the time of the dis- . Boggs v. Dunn (1911) 160 Cal. 16 Pac. 743.

912) 163 Cal. 493, 126 Pac. 149, R. A. (N. S.) 404.

egard to an assignment of wages, ears that a discharge in bank- will not defeat the right of the ee to recover the wages in so the same have been earned and ed before the discharge. Wa- R. Co. v. Meyer (1905) 119 Ill. 08. But it will release the bank- rom personal liability. Mitchell and (1906) 190 Mass. 258, 76 670. See Ulner v. Doran (1915) pp. Div. 259, 152 N. Y. Supp. An assignment, as security for of wages thereafter to be earn- the debtor, either under a gen- specific employment, creates no ntil the wages have been earned, here, before that time, the debtor udged a bankrupt and is subse- y discharged the debt is extin- d from the date of the adju- n, and no lien arises as to wages thereafter, but the same be- he property of the bankrupt free he claims of all his creditors, in- the assignee. In re West (D. 4) 128 Fed. 205, 11 Am. Bankr. 782; In re Home Discount Co. . 1906) 147 Fed. 538, 17 Am. Rep. 168; In re Ludeke (D. C. 171 Fed. 292, 22 Am. Bankr. 467; Leitch v. Northern Pac. o. (1905) 95 Minn. 35, 103 N. W. Ann. Cas. 63; Levi v. Loeven- Co. (1910) 138 Ky. 133, 127 S. 8, 30 L. R. A. (N. S.) 375, 137 t. Rep. 377. But compare Mallin nham (1904) 209 Ill. 252, 70 N. , 65 L. R. A. 602, 101 Am. St. 33; Citizens' Loan Ass'n v. Bos- M. R. R. (1907) 196 Mass. 528, E. 696, 14 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1025, m. St. Rep. 584, 13 Ann. Cas.

validity of the bond of a receiv- not affected by his discharge as a upt, nor are his sureties dis- d or released thereby. (1843) 4 tty. Gen. 253.

— Attachment and garnish- -Where an attachment was lev- ithin four months prior to the uptcy proceedings, its lien will be ved by the adjudication in bank- and the discharge of the bank- and the liability of sureties on d given to dissolve the attachment likewise be released. Windisch-Muhlhauser Brewing Co. v. Simms (1911) 129 La. 134, 55 South. 739.

Where the attachment was levied more than four months before the bankruptcy and is otherwise valid, it will not be dissolved or released by the discharge of the bankrupt, though the original debt may be extinguished thereby. In re Blumberg (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 476, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 633; Grandin v. First Nat. Bank (1904) 70 Neb. 730, 98 N. W. 70; Powers Dry Goods Co. v. Nelson (1901) 10 N. D. 580, 88 N. W. 703, 58 L. R. A. 770; Sims v. Jacobson (1874) 51 Ala. 186. In that case, the plaintiff in attachment is entitled to the entry of a special judgment enforceable only against the attached property and an execution in accordance therewith. Stickney & Babcock Coal Co. v. Goodwin (1901) 95 Me. 246, 49 Atl. 1039, 85 Am. St. Rep. 408; American Agricultural Chemical Co. v. Huntington (1904) 99 Me. 361, 59 Atl. 515; Johnson v. Collins (1874) 116 Mass. 392; Stockwell v. Silloway (1873) 113 Mass. 382; Bosworth v. Pomeroy (1873) 112 Mass. 293; Bates v. Tappan (1868) 99 Mass. 376; Davenport v. Tilton (Mass. 1845) 10 Metc. 320.

A judgment against the bankrupt which is specified to be enforceable against certain attached property and not otherwise, though in form a judgment for money, sufficiently recognizes the effect of his discharge and protects him against any unsatisfied balance of the debt after execution sale. F. Mayer Boot & Shoe Co. v. Ferguson (1910) 19 N. D. 496, 126 N. W. 110.

If the attached property has already been released, on the execution of a forthcoming bond, recognizance, or other obligation permitted by the local practice, there is nothing in the bankruptcy act to prevent the rendition of a formal judgment against the bankrupt defendant, with a perpetual stay of execution, so as to enable the plaintiff to proceed against the sureties on such bond or obligation. Hill v. Harding (1889) 130 U. S. 699, 9 Sup. Ct. 725, 32 L. Ed. 1083; C. D. Smith & Co. v. Lacey (1905) 86 Miss. 295, 38 South. 311, 109 Am. St. Rep. 707; Barnstable Sav. Bank v. Higgins (1878) 124 Mass. 115; Danforth Mfg. Co. v. M. L. Barrett & Co. (1907) 138 Ill. App. 244. See Hamilton v. Bryant (1874) 114 Mass. 543, 14 N. B. R. 479; Carpenter v. Turrell (1868) 100 Mass. 450.

Where the interest which the plaintiff acquires in the property or credits of the defendant, by service of garnishee process on a person liable to the defendant as a debtor or a custodian of his property, is recognized as a lien, an action pending to recover a debt which has been discharged in bankruptcy, having a garnishee action incidental thereto, will survive the dis-force an execution on such judgment against the debtor's property acquired after the discharge. Ford v. Blackshear Mfg. Co. (1913) 79 S. E. 576, 140 Ga. 670.

Where a third person holds title to land derived from the bankrupt, and the attempt is made to subject it to the lien of a judgment recovered against the bankrupt after his adjudication, but before his discharge, the owner of the property may set up the discharge in bankruptcy in defense. Blair v. Carter's Adm'r (1884) 78 Va. 621.

Whenever the attempt is made to escape liability on a judgment so rendered, the creditor may show, if such is the fact, that the debt or claim in suit was of such a character as to be excepted from the operation of the discharge. Linn v. Hamilton (1870) 34 N. J. Law, 305.

If the action is still pending at the time of the granting of a discharge in bankruptcy, it is the right of the defendant to plead the discharge in bar of its further prosecution, and the effect is to preclude the court from entering any personal decree against him. Phelps v. Curts (1875) 80 Ill. 109, 16 N. B. R. 85.

An order on a discharge in bankruptcy providing that it shall not affect a certain pending case until final judgment therein, and that as to such judgment the discharge shall have the same force as it would have had if the judgment had been recovered after the application for discharge and before the granting of the same, permits the prosecution of such suit. Standard Sewing Mach. Co. v. Alexander (1904) 68 S. C. 506, 47 S. E. 711. And even as against a plea of discharge, it is permissible for the court to enter a special judgment against the bankrupt with a perpetual stay of execution, where this course is necessary to enable the plaintiff to take measures against persons secondarily liable, such as sureties on bonds. Kendrick & Roberts v. Warren Bros. Co. (1909) 110 Md. 47, 72 Atl. 461; Rosenthal v. Nove (1900) 175 Mass. 559, 56 N. E. 884, 78 Am. St. Rep. 512. See House v. Schnadig (1908) 138 Ill. App. 498. And where the defendant, in an action on a judgment, had the right when the action was brought to set off against the plaintiff's judgment his own judgment against the plaintiff, such right is not affected by the plaintiff's subsequent discharge in bankruptcy. Wyckoff v. Williams (1910) 136 App. Div. 495, 121 N. Y. Supp. 189.

38. —— Cancellation of judgment of record.—A statute authorizing a person, a certain length of time after he has obtained a discharge in bankruptcy, to apply to a court in which a judgment was rendered against him, and obtain an order directing the judgment to be canceled, if it appears that he has been discharged from payment of the judgment or the debt on which it was recovered, is mandatory. Walker v. Muir (1908) 127 App. Div. 163, 111 N. Y. Supp. 465, affirmed (1909) 194 N. Y. 420, 87 N. E. 680; John Leslie Paper Co. v. Wheeler (1912) 23 N. D. 477, 137 N. W. 412, 42 L. R. A. (N. S.) 292. Delay of the debtor in applying for his discharge is not ground for refusing to cancel such a judgment. Eberspacher v. Boehm (1890) 58 Hun, 603, 11 N. Y. Supp. 404. Costs should not be imposed on a bankrupt on granting his motion to cancel a judgment. Briefer v. Johnsen (1900) 32 Misc. Rep. 764, 66 N. Y. Supp. 477. The bankrupt is entitled to avail himself of such a statute, although he had an opportunity to plead his discharge in bar of the action in which the judgment was rendered, when leave to do so was coupled with conditions and he declined to avail himself of it. Hussey v. Judson (1904) 43 Misc. Rep. 370, 87 N. Y. Supp. 499. But not where his counsel consented to the entry of judgment for the amount claimed. Stevens v. Meyers (1902) 72 App. Div. 128, 76 N. Y. Supp. 332.

Such statute applies only to judgments entered before the granting of the discharge. Howe v. Noyes (1905) 47 Misc. Rep. 338, 93 N. Y. Supp. 476. The court, on such a motion, will look behind the judgment in order to determine the character of the liability on which it was founded, and refuse the motion if the debt was one from which a discharge would not release the bankrupt. Maier v. Maier (1912) 77 Misc. Rep. 145, 135 N. Y. Supp. 1038; Balliett v. Dearborn (D. C. 1886) 27 Fed. 507. The statute does not require the cancellation of a judgment not duly scheduled by the bankrupt, as it would not be affected by the discharge. Feldmark v. Weinstein (1904) 45 Misc. Rep. 329, 90 N. Y. Supp. 478; Woodward v. Schaefer (1904) 91 N. Y. Supp. 104. See West Philadelphia Bank v. Gerry (1887) 106 N. Y. 467, 13 N. E. 453.

If the judgment is a lien on real estate and not annulled by the adjudication in bankruptcy, an order for its cancellation will contain a reservation of the creditor's right to enforce his lien. Olsen v. Nelson (Minn. 1914) 146 N. W. 1097; Pickert v. Eaton (1903) 81 App. Div. 423, 81 N. Y. Supp. 50; In re David (1904) 44 Misc. Rep. 516, 90 N. Y. Supp. 85; Popham v. Barretto (1880) 20 Hun (N. Y.) 299; Arnold v. Treviranus (1903) 78 App. Div. 589, 79 N. Y. Supp. 732.

The benefit of a statutory provision of this kind may be claimed, not only by the bankrupt himself, but also by an owner of land on which a judgment against the bankrupt is an apparent lien. Graber v. Gault (1905) 103 App. Div. 511, 93 N. Y. Supp. 76.

The failure of the bankrupt to avail himself of the statute does not in any manner authorize the enforcement of a ment which was discharged by the ruptcy proceedings. Leo v. Joseph 0) 56 Hun, 644, 9 N. Y. Supp. 612. the judgment creditor is aggrieved ne granting of a motion for cancel- n, the proper practice is for him ppeal from the order, or ask leave eargue, but not to move to vacate McKee v. Preble (1912) 154 App. 156, 138 N. Y. Supp. 915.

REVIVAL OF DEBTS BARRED BY DISCHARGE

Validity and consideration of new ise.—The moral obligation of a rupt to pay his debts furnishes a cient consideration for a new prom- to pay a debt provable and dis- geable in bankruptcy, and such a ise, given unequivocally, is binding ne debtor. Zavelo v. Reeves (1913) U. S. 625, 33 Sup. Ct. 365, 57 L. 876, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 493; Mu- Reserve Fund Life Ass'n v. Beatty C. A. 1899) 93 Fed. 747, 35 C. C. 73, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 244; Lam- v. Schmalz (1897) 118 Cal. 33, 50 13; Old Town Nat. Bank v. Par- (1913) 121 Md. 61, 87 Atl. 1105; e Burton (D. C. 1886) 29 Fed. German Exchange Bank v. Schnit- (1911) 72 Misc. Rep. 362, 130 N. upp. 223; Stern v. Bradner, Smith o. (1906) 127 Ill. App. 640; An- y v. Sturdivant (1911) 174 Ala. 56 South. 571; McNair v. Gilbert 9) 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 344; Post v. y (1887) 111 Ind. 74, 12 N. E. 121, m. Rep. 677; Craig v. Seitz (1886) Mich. 727, 30 N. W. 347; Ogden v. l (1877) 13 Bush (Ky.) 581; Ford idebottom (1883) 5 Ky. Law Rep. Ross v. Jordan (1879) 62 Ga. Carey v. Hess (1887) 112 Ind. 14 N. E. 235; Succession of An- a (1892) 44 La. Ann. 103, 10 South. Way v. Sperry (1850) 6 Cush. s.) 238, 52 Am. Dec. 779; Ed- ls v. Nelson (1883) 51 Mich. 121, N. W. 261; Wislizenus v. O'Fallon 6) 91 Mo. 184, 3 S. W. 837; Sec- Nat. Bank v. Wood (1879) 59 N. 407; Hobaugh v. Murphy (1886) Pa. 358, 7 Atl. 139; Murphy v. wford (1886) 114 Pa. 496, 7 Atl. Wells v. Mace (1845) 17 Vt. 503; zens' Nat. Bank v. Kerney (Ind. 1915) 108 N. E. 139; Cauley v. n (N. C. 1914) 83 S. E. 16.

ch new promise may be enforced, vithstanding the discharge of the krupt, in an action at law or any r proper form of proceeding. Tor- . Krauss (1907) 149 Ala. 200, 43 h. 184; Hill v. Trainer (1880) 49 537, 5 N. W. 926; Egbert v. Mc- ael (1848) 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 44; iams v. Robbins (1850) 32 Me. Briggs v. Sutton (1846) 20 N. J. , 581; Hopkins v. Ward (1876) 67 o. (N. Y.) 452; Kearns v. Boyle 9) 13 Phila. (Pa.) 193; Katz v. ssenger (1884) 110 Ill. 372.

here a debtor, having been discharged in bankruptcy, gives his note to a particular creditor for the unpaid balance of the latter's claim, the moral obligation to pay constitutes a sufficient consideration for the note and will support an action on it. Wislizenus v. O'Fallon (1886) 91 Mo. 184, 3 S. W. 837; Succession of Andrieu (1892) 44 La. Ann. 103, 10 South. 388.

It is immaterial that the debtor's discharge was obtained by means of a composition with the creditors; there still remains a moral obligation to pay the balance of their claims which will support a new promise. In re Merriman (D. C. 1878) 44 Conn. 587, Fed. Cas. No. 9,479; Cohen v. Lachenmaier (1912) 147 Wis. 649, 133 N. W. 1099.

Where a new consideration is given by the creditor, such as his forbearance for a definite time to foreclose a mortgage, this will support a new promise to pay the original debt. Stapp v. Thomas (1884) 5 Ky. Law Rep. 603; Thornberry's Adm'r v. Dils (1882) 80 Ky. 241.

It is no objection to the enforcement of a promise to pay a debt discharged by bankruptcy that the debtor has selected some one or more of his creditors to be paid, to the exclusion of others. Thal v. Larmon (C. C. 1885) 25 Fed. 290.

The claim of a surety on a note which was not due at the time of the proceedings in bankruptcy may be revived by a new promise to pay it. Cheney v. Barge (1888) 26 Ill. App. 182.

The fact that the promisee had also been adjudged a bankrupt at the time the promise was made does not affect the validity of the promise. Swan v. Lullman (1882) 12 Mo. App. 584.

Where the partners in a firm had obtained their discharge in bankruptcy, and one of the partners, who had not surrendered a part of his separate property, agreed with a firm creditor to pay his claim, the partner, on paying it, cannot recover from his copartner unless the latter agreed to pay a moiety of the claim. Tyler v. Taylor (1872) 21 Grat. (Va.) 700.

40. To whom promise may be made.—A new promise to pay a debt discharged by bankruptcy is not enforceable or binding on the debtor unless made either to the creditor personally or to an accredited agent or attorney of his. Prewett v. Caruthers (1849) 12 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 491; Underwood v. Eastman (1847) 18 N. H. 582; Moseley v. Coldwell (1873) 3 Baxt. (Tenn.) 208; Stewart v. Reckless (1854) 24 N. J. Law, 427; Jones v. Talbott (1891) 13 Ky. Law Rep. 303.

Such a promise is equally binding and effective when made to a third person, —at least, a person who has some connection with the creditor and may be expected to repeat it to him, provided it identifies the debt intended with certainty and is definite and unequivocal. Bennett v. Everett (1855) 3 R. I. 152, 67 Am. Dec. 498; Evans v. Carey (1856) 29 Ala. 99; McKinley v. O'Keson (1847) 5 Pa. 369.

If the promise is made (whether verbally or in writing) to the creditor's attorney or to an agent authorized to act for him either in the particular matter or in similar matters in general, it may be enforced by the creditor. Underwood v. Eastman (1847) 18 N. H. 582; Hunt v. Jones (1891) 1 Ind. App. 545, 28 N. E. 98; Shaw v. Burney (1882) 86 N. C. 331, 41 Am. Rep. 461; Bolton v. King (1884) 105 Pa. 78; Hill v. Kendall (1853) 25 Vt. 528.

Where the agent of the holder of a note has the note in his possession, and does not know that a renewal note has been given therefor, a new promise to the agent will remove the bar of the discharge in bankruptcy. Jones v. Sennott (1885) 57 Vt. 355.

A collector to whom the debt has been committed for collection is the agent of the creditor for the purpose of receiving a new promise to pay it. Reith v. Lullman (1881) 11 Mo. App. 254. The wife of the creditor may act as his agent in such a matter, where the debt grew out of the sale of the wife's land. Jones v. Talbott (1891) 13 Ky. Law Rep. 303. The promise is considered as made to the creditor himself where it is transmitted to him by a person appointed for that purpose by the debtor. Hockett v. Jones (1880) 70 Ind. 227.

Where a bankrupt executed a written promise, intended to be binding on his executors as well as himself, to pay a note which had been released by his discharge, and handed the paper to his son, with directions to deliver it after his death, to the payee of the note, it was held that the latter, on receipt of the agreement, had a claim against the estate of the decedent, though he had no knowledge of the agreement when it was made. Hockett v. Jones (1880) 70 Ind. 227.

41. Time of making promise.—A new promise to pay a debt dischargeable in bankruptcy must have been made after the adjudication in bankruptcy. Stebbins v. Sherman (1850) 3 N. Y. Super. Ct. 510. But see Kingston v. Wharton (1816) 2 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 208. Or at least after the filing of the petition in bankruptcy. Katz v. Moessenger (1880) 7 Ill. App. 536; Stern v. Nussbaum (1874) 47 How. Prac. (N. Y.) 489. But a letter written by the debtor before the petition in bankruptcy was actually filed, but which, in the ordinary course of the mail, would not reach the creditor until after the adjudication, was held a sufficient new promise. Cheney v. Barge (1888) 26 Ill. App. 182.

A new promise to pay a debt dischargeable in bankruptcy is binding and sufficient if made after the filing of the petition in bankruptcy and pending the proceedings, though before the discharge is granted. Zavelo v. Reeves (1913) 227 U. S. 625, 33 Sup. Ct. 36 57 L. Ed. 676, 29 Am. Bankr. Re 493; Old Town Nat. Bank v. Parke (1913) 121 Md. 61, 87 Atl. 1105; Moor v. Trounstine (1906) 126 Ga. 116, 5 S. E. 810, 7 Ann. Cas. 971; Dicks v Andrews (1909) 132 Ga. 601, 64 S. E 788; Pearsall v. Tabour (1906) 9 Minn. 248, 108 N. W. 808; Wiggin v Hodgdon (1884) 63 N. H. 39; Jerse City Ins. Co. v. Archer (1890) 12 N. Y. 376, 25 N. E. 338; Fraley v Kelly (1872) 67 N. C. 78; Hornth v. McRae (1872) 67 N. C. 21; Gri v. Solomon (1886) 82 Ala. 85, 2 Soutl 322, 60 Am. Rep. 733; Lanagin v. Now land (1884) 44 Ark. 84; Knapp v. Ho (1881) 57 Iowa, 591, 10 N. W. 92 42 Am. Rep. 59; Corliss v. Shepher (1848) 28 Me. 550; Otis v. Gazli (1850) 31 Me. 567; Wheeler v. Whee er (1888) 28 Ill. App. 385; Thornberr v. Dils (1882) 3 Ky. Law Rep. 72 CONTRA, Thornton v. Nichols & Lem on (1903) 119 Ga. 50, 45 S. E. 78 Ogden v. Redd (1877) 13 Bush (Ky. 581; Graves v. McGuire (1881) 79 K 532; Chapman v. Pennie (Cal. 1895 39 Pac. 14; Holt v. Akarman (N. 1913) 86 Atl. 408.

It is necessary that the new promis should show distinctly that the bank rupt undertakes personally to pay th debt, and not to pay it out of his es tate in bankruptcy. Hornthal v. McRa (1872) 67 N. C. 21; Kirkpatrick v Tattersall, 13 Mees. & W. 766.

A defense of a discharge in bankrupt cy, set up in a pending action, may b waived by the making of a new promis to pay the debt, given after the institu tion of the suit and before verdic Decker v. Kitchen (1884) 33 Hun (N Y.) 268.

42. Sufficiency of new promise.—While no particular form of words i necessary in order to constitute an ef fective new promise to pay a debt bar red by a discharge in bankruptcy, ye it is required that the new promise shal be clear, distinct, and unequivocal, a well as certain and unambiguous. Al len v. Ferguson (1873) 18 Wall. 1, 2 L. Ed. 851; Stern v. Bradner Smit & Co. (1907) 225 Ill. 430, 80 N. E 307, 116 Am. St. Rep. 151; Brooks v Paine (1903) 77 S. W. 190, 25 K Law Rep. 1125; Apperson v. Stewar (1872) 27 Ark. 619; Shockey v. Mill (1880) 71 Ind. 288, 36 Am. Rep. 196 Hubbard v. Farrell (1882) 87 Ind. 215 Jersey City Ins. Co. v. Archer (1890 122 N. Y. 376, 25 N. E. 338; Ster v. Nussbaum (1874) 5 Daly (N. Y. 382; Riggs v. Roberts (1881) 85 N. C 151, 39 Am. Rep. 692; Turner v. Chris man (1851) 20 Ohio, 332; Huffma v. Johns (Pa. 1886) 6 Atl. 205; Mur phy v. Crawford (1886) 114 Pa. 49 7 Atl. 142; McDougall v. Page (1882 55 Vt. 187, 45 Am. Rep. 602; La Tour rette v. Price (1855) 28 Miss. 702 Wheeler v. Simmons (1891) 60 Hu 404, 15 N. Y. Supp. 462. Where th dant, some days after obtaining scharge in bankruptcy, wrote the iff a letter in which he said: "I end you the first 'V' or 'X' I ' it was held that the expression t fairly import an absolute prom- pay five or ten dollars, and did ke the plaintiff's debt out of the of defendant's discharge. Bige- . Norris (1886) 141 Mass. 14, 6 88. But a sufficient new promise ade out from the following words, n to a surety on a note given e bankrupt for borrowed money: live and am prospered, no man elped me (without remuneration) e the poorer for me, if not other- That is all there is of it." Che- . Barge (1888) 26 Ill. App. 182.

re must be an express promise to the specific debt. Needham v. ewson (1909) 81 Kan. 340, 105 436. There must be a distinct nition and renewal of the debt as ding obligation. Allen v. Fergu- 1873) 18 Wall. 1, 21 L. Ed. 851; n v. Lamon (1885) 103 Ind. 515, E. 159, 53 Am. Rep. 540; Brewer ynton (1888) 71 Mich. 254, 39 . 49; Canfield's Appeal (1874) 4 (Pa.) 457.

h statements as the following been held sufficient: "I am going y you every dollar I owe you by st of July." St. John v. Stephen- 1878) 90 Ill. 82. "I will pay him day; can't say when." Bolton g (1884) 105 Pa. 78. "Your debt pay if I live." Fraley v. Kelly) 79 N. C. 348. "I will pay the Hunt v. Jones (1891) 1 Ind. 545, 28 N. E. 98; Farmers' & anics' Bank v. Richards (1906) 119 App. 18, 95 S. W. 290. "I will he debt before I leave the state." v. Talbott (1891) 13 Ky. Law 303. "The creditor shall have her y, even if it is but a little at a Sundling v. Willey (1905) 19 293, 103 N. W. 38, 9 Ann. Cas.

sufficient new promise cannot be out from such expressions as that ebtor is "going" to pay the debt, xpects" to pay it, or means to e it all right," or does not intend the creditor shall lose anything. v. Ferguson (1873) 18 Wall. 1, Ed. 854; Dennan v. Gould (1886) Mass. 16, 6 N. E. 222; Brewer v. ton (1888) 71 Mich. 254, 39 N. W. Meech v. Lamon (1885) 103 Ind. 3 N. E. 159, 53 Am. Rep. 540; tts v. Cotherson (1879) 3 Ill. 644; Shockey v. Mills (1880) d. 288, 36 Am. Rep. 196; Jones lbott (1891) 13 Ky. Law Rep. Porter v. Porter (1850) 31 Me. Riggs v. Roberts (1881) 85 N. C. 39 Am. Rep. 692; Turner v. man (1851) 20 Ohio, 332; Yoxt- r v. Keyser (1849) 11 Pa. 364, n. Dec. 555; Coe v. Rosene (1911) ash. 73, 118 Pac. 881, 38 L. R. A. S.) 577, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 741; Bartlett v. Peck (1850) 5 La. Ann. 669. But compare Mordaunt v. Monroe (1906) 124 Ill. App. 306; Hubbard v. Farrell (1882) 87 Ind. 215.

A sufficient new promise cannot be made out from the recognition by the bankrupt of a moral obligation resting on him. Mandell v. Levy (1905) 47 Misc. Rep. 147, 93 N. Y. Supp. 545. Nor from his declaration that "when I am in position to pay, there is no one I would more cheerfully pay." Kiernan v. Fox (1899) 43 App. Div. 58, 59 N. Y. Supp. 330. Nor from his statement: "I will make a desperate effort to pay you something on the note." Moore v. Trounstine (1906) 126 Ga. 116, 54 S. E. 810, 7 Ann. Cas. 971. Nor from his saying: "I will do all I can to pay you." Holt v. Akarman (N. J. 1913) 86 Atl. 408; Lawrence v. Harrington (1890) 122 N. Y. 408, 25 N. E. 406.

The new promise must be express and cannot be made out by implication. Evans v. Carey (1856) 29 Ala. 99; Willetts v. Cotherson (1879) 3 Ill. App. 644; Katz v. Moessenger (1884) 110 Ill. 372; Porter v. Porter (1850) 31 Me. 169; Stark v. Stinson (1851) 23 N. H. 259; In re Heazelton (1874) 32 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 13; Bennett v. Everett (1855) 3 R. I. 152, 67 Am. Dec. 498. At least the promise must be so far unqualified as necessarily to authorize the implication of an undertaking to pay the debt. Craig v. Seitz (1886) 63 Mich. 347, 30 N. W. 347.

There must be a clear and certain identification of the particular debt which the bankrupt has in mind and means to revive. Landis v. Roth (1885) 109 Pa. 621, 1 Atl. 49, 58 Am. Rep. 747; Hobough v. Murphy (1886) 114 Pa. 358, 7 Atl. 139. A written promise to pay a debt due from a bankrupt, made after his being adjudged a bankrupt, but prior to his discharge, need not describe the debt, where there is only one debt. Goldstein v. Saur (Tex. Civ. App. 1913) 162 S. W. 441.

The giving of a new note by the bankrupt, after his discharge, in renewal of a previous note, or simply for the amount of a pre-existing debt, will revive the debt and take it out of the effect of the discharge. Christie v. Bridgman (1893) 51 N. J. Eq. 331, 25 Atl. 939, 30 Atl. 429; Bown v. Thompson (Pa. 1876) 34 Leg. Int. 305; Lawrence v. Harrington (1890) 122 N. Y. 408, 25 N. E. 406. But not a mere unfulfilled offer or promise to give a new note. Porter v. Porter (1850) 31 Me. 169; Stern v. Bradner Smith & Co. (1906) 127 Ill. App. 640.

Where the defendant in a pending suit pleads his bankruptcy, but afterwards withdraws the plea and confesses judgment, this will amount to a new promise binding him on the judgment. Anderson v. Clark (1883) 70 Ga. 362; Dewey v. Moyer (1878) 72 N. Y. 70.

The fact that the debtor, after his discharge, states an account running prior to such discharge and fixes a certain balance, and agrees that his debtor may apply certain demands in his favor, does not avoid the effect of the discharge. Warren v. Bishop (1850) 22 Vt. 607; In re Heazelton (1874) 1 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 67.

If there is contradictory evidence as to the making of the alleged new promise, or its terms, or as to the debtor's intention to bind himself to a specific promise to pay the debt, these questions must be left to the jury under proper instructions from the court. Pearsall v. Tabour (1906) 98 Minn. 248, 108 N. W. 808; Pratt v. Russell (1851) 7 Cush. (Mass.) 462; Shaw v. Burney (1882) 86 N. C. 331, 41 Am. Rep. 461.

43. —— Part payment.—Neither a payment of interest nor a part payment of the principal will suffice to revive a debt from which the debtor has been released by a discharge in bankruptcy or constitute a new promise to pay it. Allen v. Ferguson (1873) 18 Wall. 1, 21 L. Ed. 854; Meyer v. Bartels (1907) 56 Misc. Rep. 621, 107 N. Y. Supp. 778; Stern v. Bradner Smith & Co. (1907) 225 Ill. 430, 80 N. E. 307, 116 Am. St. Rep. 151; Wilson v. Chandler (1907) 133 Ill. App. 622; Jacobs v. Carpenter (1894) 161 Mass. 16, 36 N. E. 676; Heim v. Chapman (1898) 171 Mass. 347, 50 N. E. 529; Griel v. Solomon (1886) 82 Ala. 85, 2 South. 322, 60 Am. Rep. 733; Stark v. Stinson (1851) 23 N. H. 259; Wheeler v. Simmons (1891) 60 Hun, 404, 15 N. Y. Supp. 462; Lawrence v. Harrington (1890) 122 N. Y. 408, 25 N. E. 406; Viele v. Ogilvie (1849) 2 G. Greene (Iowa) 326; Tolle v. Smith (1895) 98 Ky. 464, 33 S. W. 410.

Where there is a distinct and unambiguous promise, together with a partial payment, it fully and in every particular complies with the rule for the revival of a discharged debt. Huffman v. Johns (Pa. 1886) 6 Atl. 205; Lawrence v. Harrington (1888) 48 Hun, 618, 1 N. Y. Supp. 577.

Under Kirby's Dig. Ark. § 3655, part payment and oral promise to pay balance of note held not a waiver of discharge in bankruptcy. Polk v. Stephens (Ark. 1915) 176 S. W. 689.

No such promise can be made out from the fact that the debtor, in authorizing the creditor to draw on him for part of the original debt, said that he "hoped" to pay the balance in full. Scheper v. Briggs (1898) 28 App. Div. 115, 50 N. Y. Supp. 869.

The fact of part payment is admissible to identify the debt in reference to which an express promise to pay, otherwise of uncertain application, may be proved. Willetts v. Cotherson (1879) 3 Ill. App. 644.

44. —— Written or oral promise.—At common law, it does not need a written promise to revive a debt discharged by bankruptcy, but a merely oral promise will be sufficient for the purpose if distinct and positive. Mut Reserve Fund Life Ass'n v. Bes (1899) 93 Fed. 747, 35 C. C. A. 573 Am. Bankr. Rep. 244; Smith v. Stan field (1901) 84 Minn. 343, 87 N. 917; Farmers' & Merchants' Bank Richards (1906) 119 Mo. App. 18, S. W. 290; Blanc v. Banks (18 10 Rob. (La.) 115, 43 Am. Dec. 1 Worthington v. De Bardlekin (18 33 Ark. 651; Ross v. Jordan (18 62 Ga. 298; Craig v. Seitz (1886) Mich. 727, 30 N. W. 347; Henley Lanier (1876) 75 N. C. 172, 15 N. R. 280; Kull v. Farmer (1878) 78 C. 339; Lanier v. Tolleson (1883) S. C. 57; Farmers' & Mechanics' B v. Flint (1845) 17 Vt. 508, 44 A Dec. 351; Barron v. Benedict (18 44 Vt. 518; Holt v. Akarman (N. 1913) 86 Atl. 408. Compare Grab v. Hunt (1847) 8 B. Mon. (Ky.) 7.

In several states, the statutes p vide that no agreement or promise revive a debt barred by a discharge bankruptcy shall be binding and eff tive unless contained in some writ signed by the party to be charged. Spooner v. Russell (1849) 30 Me. 4 Otis v. Gazlin (1850) 31 Me. 5 Kingley v. Cousins (1860) 47 Me. Nathan v. Leland (1907) 193 Ma 576, 79 N. E. 793; Jacobs v. Carp ter (1894) 161 Mass. 16, 36 N. 676; Elwell v. Cumner (1883) Mass. 102; Bair v. Hilbert (1903) App. Div. 621, 82 N. Y. Supp. 10 Meyer v. Bartels (1907) 56 Misc. R 621, 107 N. Y. Supp. 778; Gruenb v. Treanor (1903) 40 Misc. Rep. 2 81 N. Y. Supp. 675; Mandell v. L (1905) 47 Misc. Rep. 147, 93 N. Supp. 545.

45. Conditional promise.—It is necessary that a new promise to a debt barred by a discharge in ba ruptcy should be absolute, but it n be made upon a condition or coup with a condition. Allen v. Fergu (1873) 18 Wall. 1, 21 L. Ed. 8 Knapp v. Hoyt (1881) 57 Iowa, 5 10 N. W. 925.

Where the condition is in the nat of a proposition offered to the credit it must be alleged and shown that accepted it or assented to it. Sm v. Stanchfield (1901) 84 Minn. 343, N. W. 917; International Harves Co. v. Lyman (1903) 90 Minn. 275, N. W. 87. If the creditor expres refuses to agree to the condition, insists on the immediate and uncon tional payment of his claim, the d is not revived and no action can maintained on it. International H vester Co. v. Lyman (1903) 90 Mi 275, 96 N. W. 87.

A condition accepted by the credi will not at all impair the effect of agreement in reviving the debt, as, example, where the bankrupt und takes to pay the debt if time is gra ed to him for the purpose and it is cordingly granted. Comfort v. Eis romise to pay a particular cred- n full if he will refrain from op- g the bankrupt's application for a arge, or if he will dismiss a pro- g to set aside the discharge, is ulent and void. Tirrell v. Free- (1885) 139 Mass. 297, 1 N. E. Fell v. Cook (1876) 44 Iowa, 485. the condition was not in the na- of an election offered to the cred- but contained something personal e bankrupt, or involved the oc- nce of a future event or the fu- existence of a certain state of af- then it must be pleaded and n that the condition has been ful- or, as the case may be, that the has happened or that the con- lated state of affairs now exists. n v. Stanchfield (1901) 84 Minn. 87 N. W. 917; Stern v. Bradner h & Co. (1907) 225 Ill. 430, 80 N. 7, 116 Am. St. Rep. 151; Griel v. non (1886) 82 Ala. 85, 2 South. 60 Am. Rep. 733; Apperson v. art (1872) 27 Ark. 619; Tolle v. h (1895) 98 Ky. 464, 33 S. W. 410; v. Hollingsworth (1821) 5 Har. & Md.) 216; La Tourrette v. Price 5) 28 Miss. 702; Goldman v. Abra- (1880) 9 Daly (N. Y.) 223; er v. Tolleson (1883) 20 S. C. 57; man v. Hobart (1853) 26 Vt. 60; ing v. Moffitt (1844) 6 Ala. 776; ardson v. Bricker (1883) 7 Colo. Pac. 433, 49 Am. Rep. 344.

(1849) 11 Pa. 13. Or where the upt promises to pay the debt in f the creditor will pay the taxes year on certain property, which e. Thornberry v. Dils (1882) 80 41.

the bankrupt promises to pay the after the lapse of a certain time, ction can be maintained on the debt e new promise until such time has sed. Arnold v. Elliott (1846) 7 ph. (Tenn.) 354. The bankrupt's rtaking to pay the debt when he pletes a certain contract, when he cts certain claims due to him, when eturns from a contemplated jour- or the like, does not make the nise a conditional one, but is rather e regarded as a specification of the for payment. Eaton v. Yarbor- (1855) 19 Ga. 82; Swan v. Lull- (1882) 12 Mo. App. 584. A prom- o pay "as soon as possible," made r a discharge in bankruptcy, is not nditional promise. Sundling v. Wil- (1905) 19 S. D. 293, 103 N. W. 38, nn. Cas. 644. Where the bank- 's promise is that, if he had not a certain debt, contracted before bankruptcy, he would pay it, the itor has only to prove that the debt not been paid, and then the promise mes absolute. Hill v. Kendall 53) 25 Vt. 528. A promise that, if creditor should lose a certain case pending in the appellate court, the krupt would make it good to him, mes enforceable upon the deter- ation of the appeal adversely to the creditor. Herndon v. Givens (1849) 16 Ala. 261. A promise to do certain work and apply it on a debt discharged by bankruptcy cannot be construed into a promise to pay the debt in any other way. Lawrence v. Harrington (1890) 122 N. Y. 408, 25 N. E. 406. A promise to pay "as soon as I get through with that squaring up" is not sufficient to revive the debt, unless it is shown exactly what was meant by the "squaring up." Stern v. Nussbaum (1874) 5 Daly (N. Y.) 382.

A condition attached to the promise may be waived by the bankrupt, and will be considered as having been waived by his making payments on the debts prior to the happening of the condition. Tompkins v. Hazen (1898) 30 App. Div. 359, 51 N. Y. Supp. 1003. But see this case on appeal (1900) 165 N. Y. 18, 58 N. E. 762.

46. Promise to pay when able.—A promise by a discharged bankrupt to pay an antecedent debt as soon as he is able (or as soon as he can, or as soon as he has the money, or the like), though it is a conditional promise, is not void for uncertainty, but is capable of enforcement by suit. Kraus v. Torry (1905) 146 Ala. 548, 40 South. 956; Torry v. Krauss (1907) 149 Ala. 200, 43 South. 184; Griel v. Solomon (1886) 82 Ala. 85, 2 South. 322, 60 Am. Rep. 733; Egbert v. McMichael (1848) 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 44; Eckler v. Galbraith (1876) 12 Bush (Ky.) 71. Compare Bigelow v. Norris (1885) 139 Mass. 12, 29 N. E. 61; Elwell v. Cumner (1883) 136 Mass. 102.

In order to recover on such a promise, the creditor must plead and prove that the debtor is presently able to pay the debt. Patten v. Ellingwood (1850) 32 Me. 163; Green v. McGowan (1886) 7 Ky. Law Rep. 661; Taylor v. Nixon (1857) 4 Sneed (Tenn.) 352; Stern v. Gerber (Sup. 1912) 137 N. Y. Supp. 879; Torry v. Krauss (1907) 149 Ala. 200, 43 South. 184; Mason v. Hughart (1849) 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 480. It is, however, no ground of demurrer to the declaration in such a suit that it does not state in what the defendant's ability to pay consists. Horner v. Speed (1857) 2 Pat. & H. (Va.) 616.

To sustain the burden of proving the debtor's ability to pay, the creditor must show his present possession of sufficient and available means. Proof of his ability to borrow the money is not sufficient. The defendant is entitled to show what portion of his earnings it is necessary for him to use for the support of himself and his family, and if the residue is insufficient to pay the debt, ability to pay is not shown. Kraus v. Torry (1905) 146 Ala. 548, 40 South. 956. And the law does not require the debtor to reduce his family expenditures to such a point that enough will remain to satisfy the creditor. Torry v. Krauss (1907) 149 Ala. 200, 43 South. 184. Though the plaintiff may show that the defendant has sufficient property to pay the debt in suit, yet he cannot recover if it is shown that the payment of other just claims, contracted since his discharge in bankruptcy, would exhaust his estate and leave nothing for the plaintiff. Eckler v. Galbraith (1876) 12 Bush (Ky.) 71.

A promise clearly relating to financial ability at some future time will not sustain an immediate action. Samuel v. Cravens (1850) 10 Ark. 380.

The promise of an adjudicated bankrupt that, "just as soon as my counsel tells me my case is all cleaned up, I will place a policy * * * on my life in your favor, and as soon as I can get back in harness again will do all I can to pay you," falls short of an express promise to pay. Holt v. Akarman (N. J. 1913) 86 A. 408.

47. Remedies of creditor.—Where the new promise is made after the adjudication in bankruptcy, but before the end of the proceedings, the creditor cannot prove a claim on it in the bankruptcy. Kingston v. Wharton (1816) 2 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 208, 7 Am. Dec. 638. Nor sue on it until after the question of the bankrupt's discharge has been determined. Egbert v. McMichael (1848) 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 44.

The fact that the creditor has proved the original debt in the bankruptcy proceedings, and received a dividend, does not prevent him from recovering the balance in an action on the new promise. Kingston v. Wharton (1816) 2 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 208, 7 Am. Dec. 638. And an express promise to pay part of a debt, discharged by the proceedings in bankruptcy, will revive the debt pro tanto. Badger v. Gilmore (1856) 33 N. H. 361, 66 Am. Dec. 729.

The original debt is revived only as of the date of the new promise, and where judgment is obtained upon the latter, the debtor is entitled to claim the exemption provided by law in force at the latter date. Willis v. Cushman (1888) 115 Ind. 100, 17 N. E. 168. Where he has agreed that work done by him for the creditor shall go towards the payment of the discharged debt, this constitutes a new promise to pay the debt, and he cannot maintain an action to recover the value of such work. Sampson v. Curtis (1855) 39 Me. 398.

The creditor may also recover interest on the original debt as well as the principal of it, where the bankrupt promised full payment, as the promise revives the debt on the original consideration. Stern v. Bradner Smith & Co. (1907) 225 Ill. 430, 80 N. E. 307, 116 Am. St. Rep. 151.

Where the debt had been reduced to judgment, it is so far extinguished by the discharge in bankruptcy that the new promise to pay will not authorize the creditor at once to issue execution and sell the debtor's land, but he must first revive the judgment. Gra ham v. Dreutzer (1890) 75 Wis. 558, 4 N. W. 776, 17 Am. St. Rep. 205. No can he arrest the debtor and hold hi to bail. Glazier v. Stafford (1845) Har. (Del.) 240.

Where the original debt is in suc form as to be capable of assignment t a third person, the creditor may as sign the new promise with it, and s enable the assignee to sue on it. Wa v. Sperry (1850) 6 Cush. (Mass.) 23 52 Am. Dec. 779; Underwood v. East man (1847) 18 N. H. 582; Badger v Gilmore (1856) 33 N. H. 361, 66 An Dec. 729; Clark v. Atkinson (1853) E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 112; Wolffe v Eberlein (1883) 74 Ala. 99, 49 An Rep. 809. But compare White v. Cush ing (1849) 30 Me. 267; Wardwell v Foster (1850) 31 Me. 558; Moore v Viele (1830) 4 Wend. (N. Y.) 42 Walbridge v. Harroon (1846) 18 V 448.

Numerous cases hold that when th bankrupt has given a new promise suf ficient to revive a debt barred by hi discharge, the creditor, in bringing su for the recovery of the debt, must de clare on the original obligation or en gagement, and not on the new prom ise. Bush v. Stanley (1887) 122 Il 406, 13 N. E. 249; Gruenberg v Treanor (1903) 40 Misc. Rep. 232, 8 N. Y. Supp. 675; Turner v. Chrisma (1851) 20 Ohio, 332; Marshall v Tracy (1874) 74 Ill. 379; Apperso v. Stewart (1872) 27 Ark. 619; Badge v. Gilmore (1856) 33 N. H. 361, 66 An Dec. 729; Fraley v. Kelly (1872) 6 N. C. 78; Riggs v. Roberts (1881) 8 N. C. 151, 39 Am. Rep. 692; Duser bury v. Hoyt (1873) 53 N. Y. 521, 1 Am. Rep. 543. Other cases maintai that the original debt is extinguishe by the discharge, and the only caus of action is on the new promise. True man v. Fenton, 2 Cowp. 544; Post v Losey (1887) 111 Ind. 74, 12 N. E 121, 60 Am. Rep. 677; Murphy v Crawford (1886) 114 Pa. 496, 7 At 142; Hobough v. Murphy (1886) 11 Pa. 358, 7 Atl. 139; Bolton v. Kin (1884) 105 Pa. 78; Reeside v. Hadde (1849) 12 Pa. 243; Field's Estat (1830) 2 Rawle (Pa.) 351, 21 An Dec. 454; Chabot v. Tucker (1870 39 Cal. 434; Ross v. Jordan (187 62 Ga. 298; Fleming v. Lullman (1881 11 Mo. App. 104; Eckler v. Galbrait (1876) 12 Bush (Ky.) 71. Still othe decisions leave it to the election of th creditor which course he will pursu it being equally competent to him t sue directly on the new promise or t declare on the original debt and the plead the new promise in replication t the defendant's plea of his discharge i bankruptcy. Allen v. Ferguson (1873 18 Wall. 1, 21 L. Ed. 854; Torry v Krauss (1907) 149 Ala. 200, 43 Soutl 184; Horner v. Speed (1857) 2 Pa & H. (Va.) 616; Wolffe v. Eberlei ) 74 Ala. 99, 49 Am. Rep. 809; and v. Lanagan (1885) 45 Ark. Classen v. Schoenemann (1875) . 304, 16 N. B. R. 98; Turner v. man (1851) 20 Ohio, 332; Hub- v. Farrell (1882) 87 Ind. 215; er v. Russell (1849) 30 Me. 454; v. Seitz (1886) 63 Mich. 727, 30 . 347.

Burden of proof and evidence.— burden rests on the plaintiff in an , to prove a new promise to pay a released by the defendant's dis- e in bankruptcy, and this fact he establish by clear and satisfactory nce. Old Town Nat. Bank of more v. Parker (1913) 121 Md. 7 Atl. 1105; Goldstein v. Saur Civ. App. 1913) 162 S. W. 441; all v. Tabour (1906) 98 Minn. 248, . W. 808; Brooks v. Paine (1903) W. 190, 25 Ky. Law Rep. 1125; v. Solomon (1886) 82 Ala. 85, 2 . 322, 60 Am. Rep. 733; Badger lmore (1856) 33 N. H. 361, 66 Dec. 729; Spaulding v. Vincent) 24 Vt. 501; Haines v. Stauffer) 13 Pa. 541, 53 Am. Dec. 493; Dye v. Bertram, 6 Am. Law Rep. 355; Atwood v. Gillett (1846) 2 Doug. (Mich.) 206.

The proof must correspond with the allegations of the declaration, and if plaintiff alleges an unconditional promise of defendant to pay, proof of a conditional promise will not authorize a recovery. Buford v. Crigler (1886) 7 Ky. Law Rep. 662; Doom v. Snyder (1888) 10 Ky. Law Rep. 281. On any doubtful or conflicting testimony, the question whether a new promise was made must go to the jury. Bennett v. Bennett (1855) 3 R. I. 152, 67 Am. Dec. 498; United Society in Canterbury v. Winkley (1856) 7 Gray (Mass.) 460. If there is any doubt or ambiguity as to the debt to which the new promise was meant to apply, the plaintiff must identify it by strong and positive proof. Pearsall v. Tabour (1906) 98 Minn. 248, 108 N. W. 808. If the original debt was evidenced by a promissory note, the note itself may be given in evidence to show the consideration for the new promise. Egbert v. McMichael (1848) 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 44.

CHAPTER FOUR

Courts and Procedure Therein

Sec.
Process, pleadings, and adjudications.
Jury trials.
Oaths, affirmations.
Evidence.
Reference of cases after adjudication.
Jurisdiction of United States and State courts.
9608. Jurisdiction of appellate courts.
9609. Appeals and writs of error.
9610. Arbitration of controversies.
9611. Compromises.
9612. Designation of newspapers.
9613. Offenses.
9614. Rules, forms, and orders.
9615. Computation of time.
9616. Transfer of cases.

502. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 18, as amended, Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 6.) Process, pleadings, and adjudications.

rocess, Pleadings, and Adjudications.—a Upon the filing of a tion for involuntary bankruptcy, service thereof, with a writ ubpœna, shall be made upon the person therein named as de- ant in the same manner that service of such process is now had n the commencement of a suit in equity in the courts of the ted States, except that it shall be returnable within fifteen days, ss the judge shall for cause fix a longer time; but in case per- l service can not be made, then notice shall be given by publica- in the same manner and for the same time as provided by law for ce by publication in suits to enforce a legal or equitable lien in ts of the United States, except that, unless the judge shall other- direct, the order shall be published not more than once a week two consecutive weeks, and the return day shall be ten days after last publication unless the judge shall for cause fix a longer time. The bankrupt, or any creditor, may appear and plead to the tion within five days after the return day, or within such further as the court may allow.

All pleadings setting up matters of fact shall be verified under .

d If the bankrupt, or any of his creditors, shall appear, within t time limited, and controvert the facts alleged in the petition, the jud shall determine, as soon as may be, the issues presented by the plea ings, without the intervention of a jury, except in cases where a ju trial is given by this Act, and makes the adjudication or dismiss t petition.

e If on the last day within which pleadings may be filed none a filed by the bankrupt or any of his creditors, the judge shall on t next day, if present, or as soon thereafter as practicable, make t adjudication or dismiss the petition.

f If the judge is absent from the district, or the division of the di trict in which the petition is pending, on the next day after the la day on which pleadings may be filed, and none have been filed by t bankrupt or any of his creditors, the clerk shall forthwith refer t case to the referee.

g Upon the filing of a voluntary petition the judge shall hear t petition and make the adjudication or dismiss the petition. If t judge is absent from the district, or the division of the district in whi the petition is filed at the time of the filing, the clerk shall forthwi refer the case to the referee. (30 Stat. 551. 32 Stat. 798.)

Said subdivisions a and b were amended by Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 6, cit above, to read as set forth here.

In this section, as originally enacted, subdivisions a and b were as follow

"a Upon the filing of a petition for involuntary bankruptcy, service there with a writ of subpœna, shall be made upon the person therein named as fendant in the same manner that service of such process is now had upon t commencement of a suit in equity in the courts of the United States, exce that it shall be returnable within fifteen days, unless the judge shall for ca fix a longer time; but in case personal service can not be made, then noti shall be given by publication in the same manner and for the same time as p vided by law for notice by publication in suits in equity in courts of the Unit States.

"b The bankrupt, or any creditor, may appear and plead to the petiti within ten days after the return day, or within such further time as the co may allow."

Section 19 of said amendatory Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, 32 Stat. 801, p vided that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending when it to effect, but that such cases should be adjudicated and disposed of conformal to the provisions of the original act.

Notes of Decisions

1. Formal requisites of petition in bankruptcy.
2. —— In partnership cases.
3. Allegations of petition as to petitioning creditors and their claims.
4. —— Amenability of defendant to bankruptcy law.
5. —— Residence, domicile, or place of business.
6. —— Acts of bankruptcy.
7. —— Giving a preference.
8. —— Fraudulent transfer or concealment of property.
9. —— Suffering a preference through legal proceedings.
10. —— Appointment of receiver.
11. —— Multifarious and misjoined matter.
12. Signature and verification of petition.
13. —— By attorney or agent.
14. —— By officers or agents of corporation.
15. Amendment of petition.
16. —— Defects and omissions amendable.
17. —— Setting up new act of bankruptcy.
18. Filing and presenting petition.
19. Service of process.
20. Notice to creditors.
21. Parties.
22. —— Intervention and substitution of parties.
23. —— Persons entitled to oppose adju cation.
24. Answer and other pleadings.
25. —— Demurrer.
26. —— Replication.
27. —— Time for pleading.
28. Defenses and grounds of opposition.
29. —— Malicious or vexatious motives creditors.
30. Burden of proof and evidence.
31. Discontinuance and dismissal of p ceedings.
32. —— By consent or agreement of p ties.
33. —— Notice to creditors.
34. —— Reinstatement after dismissal.
35. Trial or hearing.
36. Adjudication.
37. —— Conclusiveness and effect.
38. —— Effect on status of bankrupt c poration.
39. —— Vacating and setting aside.

1. Formal requisites of petition bankruptcy. — A bankruptcy petiti must be addressed to the court auth ized by law to take cognizance of t case, as determined by the reside of the bankrupt. In re Mitchell (191

'ed. 690, 135 C. C. A. 362, affirmrder In re Mitchell & Co. (D. C.
211 Fed. 778.

itions in bankruptcy will not be l on file nor considered unless out on the prescribed printed , written or typewritten petitions returned to the parties without . Mahoney v. Ward (D. C.
100 Fed. 278, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep.

s not a sufficient reason for reg a petition in bankruptcy that etitioning creditor first wrote his in the petition in an abbreviated and that this was then erased he name written in full. In re m (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No.

petition in bankruptcy filed before romulgation of the official forms e Supreme Court should not be ssed for want of conformity there-it the court will order a new pe-, in the form prescribed, to be nunc pro tunc, the original peti-however, not to be withdrawn the files. In re Ogles (D. C.
93 Fed. 426, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep.

creditor's petition in bankruptcy, in fact an original petition, is not ved of its character as such mere-cause it contains a prayer by the oner to intervene in earlier pro-ngs, as a cautionary measure, in that he might not be unrepred in such earlier proceedings. In aff (1905) 136 Fed. 78, 68 C. C.
6, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 362.

e court will consider a petition in ruptcy as the joint act of all the oners, and willful falsehood in one oner's verification will cause the ary dismissal of the petition as raud of all, and no copetitioner's r for an amendment will be heard.
Keiler (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R.
'ed. Cas. No. 7,647.

— In partnership cases.—In edings in bankruptcy against a ership, the general form for a tors' petition should be used, with adaptations as will meet the exies of the particular case. Mather e (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 333, 1 Am.
r. Rep. 504. And see In re Far-
D. C. 1902) 115 Fed. 359, 5 Am.
r. Rep. 266; In re Gay (D. C.
98 Fed. 870, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep.
In re Russell (D. C. 1899) 97
32, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529.

ere a voluntary petition by part-prays that "the petitioners" may judged bankrupt, instead of "the firm," but otherwise follows the l form, the variance is not ma-. In re Meyers (D. C. 1899) 97
757, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 260.

ceedings to adjudge a partner-bankrupt, after its dissolution by eath of one of the partners, are nvalidated by the fact that the on did not refer to the deceased er, nor disclose that the partners named were surviving partners, when the business was being continued as provided in the partnership articles. In re Coe (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 308, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 618. And see Hawkins v. Quinette (1911) 156 Mo. App. 153, 136 S. W. 246.

A petition in bankruptcy, whether by or against the firm, should set out the individual names of all the partners. Adams v. May (C. C. 1885) 27 Fed. 907. This rule applies where one member of a firm files his own petition in bankruptcy, but with the object of obtaining a discharge from the firm debts as well as his individual debts. In re Laughlin (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 589, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1.

3. Allegations of petition as to petitioning creditors and their claims.—The allegation as to the number of the bankrupt's existing creditors need not be made as a direct assertion of fact, but may be made upon information and belief. In re Scammon (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 66, Fed. Cas. No. 12,430; In re Joliet Iron & Steel Co. (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 60, Fed. Cas. No. 7,436; In re Scammon (D. C. 1874) 11 N. B. R. 280, Fed. Cas. No. 12,429; In re Mann (C. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 572, Fed. Cas. No. 9,033; Perin & Gaff Mfg. Co. v. Peale (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 377, Fed. Cas. No. 10,981; In re Roberts (1880) 71 Me. 390.

The petition should allege that the claims of the petitioning creditors amount to the jurisdictional sum, but the want of such an averment may be cured by amendment. In re Pangborn (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 673, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 40; Roche v. Fox (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 461, Fed. Cas. No. 11,974; Ex parte Shouse (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 12,815.

An allegation that the proposed bankrupt owes a debt, but not that it is due to the petitioning creditor, is insufficient. In re Western Sav. & Trust Co. (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 17,442.

The particulars of the claims should be so far explained in the petition that the court may see, on the face of it, that they are provable debts. In re Farthing (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 557, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 732; In re Hadley (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 366, Fed. Cas. No. 5,894; In re Harmon (C. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 6,078; In re White (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 199, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 241.

The provision of section 9641, post, requiring the consideration of a claim to be set forth and sworn to, relates to the proof of the claim and not to the averments of the petition. In re Brett (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 981, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 492.

The description of the several debts need not state whether they are secured or unsecured. In re Harmon (C. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 6,078. An allegation that the indebtedness of the respondent to one of the petitioners was fraudulently contracted is impertinent and should be stricken out on motion. In re Ewing (1902) 115 Fed. 707, 53 C. C. A. 289, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 269.

Where it is alleged that the claim is due, but the proof shows that it is owing but not yet due, the variance is not fatal, as the allegation was not necessary. Linn v. Smith (C. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 46, Fed. Cas. No. 8,375.

An allegation is sufficient which sets forth that the petitioning creditor is the owner of a promissory note, giving its date, made by the alleged bankrupt, payable to the order of said creditor in three months after date at a specified bank. In re Brett (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 981, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 492.

An allegation is sufficient which avers that the claim of the creditor is for goods sold and delivered, and that the bankrupt purchased the same within a year from the date of the petition. In re Hark (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 603, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 400.

Allegation in petition that claim of petitioning creditor was for money due on open account upon a stated account held not defective because of claimed inconsistency as to the nature of the account. Sabin v. Blake-McFall Co. (1915) 223 Fed. 501, 139 C. C. A. 49.

A debt sufficient to sustain the petition is not shown where the petitioner merely counts upon a judgment from which an appeal has been taken and is pending, with nothing to show the nature of his original claim, or that he would still have a provable debt if the judgment should be reversed. In re R. L. Radke Co. (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 735, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 950.

The petition is demurrable if it shows on its face that the claim of the petitioning creditor is barred by the statute of limitations. Id.

A petition in involuntary bankruptcy held insufficient, where it failed to show that the debts to petitioners were in existence at the time of the commission of an alleged act of bankruptcy by transfer and concealment of property with intent to defraud creditors. In re Stone (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 356.

Where the act of bankruptcy alleged in an involuntary petition is the making of a general assignment by the debtor, it is especially requisite that the petition should set out fully all facts which respect to the claim of petitioners, and show when they became creditors. In re Farthing (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 557.

4. —— Amenability of defendant to bankruptcy law.—A petition in involuntary bankruptcy must affirmatively show that the respondent is not within the excepted classes; and this may be done either by words of express negation or by such an allegation as to the nature of his (or its) business a will show plainly that the responden is not exempt from the operation o the statute. Armstrong v. Fernande (1908) 208 U. S. 324, 28 Sup. Ct. 41 52 L. Ed. 514, 19 Am. Bankr. Re 746; Conway v. German (1908) 16 Fed. 67, 91 C. C. A. 653, 21 An Bankr. Rep. 577; Edelstein v. U. S (1906) 149 Fed. 636, 79 C. C. A. 32 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 649; In re Firs Nat. Bank (1907) 152 Fed. 64, 81 C. C. A. 260, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 265; I re Taylor (1900) 102 Fed. 728, 42 C. C. A. 1, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 515; I re Marion Contract & Const. Co. (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 618, 22 Am. Bank Rep. 81; In re Rutland Realty Co (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 296, 19 An Bankr. Rep. 546; Rise v. Bordner (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 506, 15 Am. Bank Rep. 297; In re Mero (D. C. 1904 128 Fed. 630, 12 Am. Bankr. Re 171; In re Callison (D. C. 1903) 13 Fed. 987, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 344; I re Bellah (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 69, Am. Bankr. Rep. 310; In re Bret (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 981, 12 An Bankr. Rep. 492; In re White (D. C 1905) 135 Fed. 199, 14 Am. Bankr. Re 241; McAfee v. Arnold & Mathi (1908) 155 Ala. 561, 46 South. 87 Sabin v. Blake-McFall Co. (1915) 22 Fed. 501, 139 C. C. A. 49.

The want of such an averment wi be ground for demurrer. Edelstein U. S. (1906) 149 Fed. 636, 79 C. C. A 328, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 649; In r First Nat. Bank (1907) 152 Fed. 6 81 C. C. A. 260, 18 Am. Bankr. Re 265; In re Taylor (1900) 102 Fe 728, 42 C. C. A. 1, 4 Am. Bankr. Re 515.

Such averment is not jurisdictiona In re Broadway Savings Trust C (1907) 152 Fed. 152, 81 C. C. A. 58, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 254; Conway v. Ge man (1908) 166 Fed. 67, 91 C. C. A 653, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577; In r Marion Contract & Const. Co. (D. C 1909) 166 Fed. 618, 22 Am. Bank Rep. 81. But compare In re Elmir (Steel Co. (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 45 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 484; In re Im perial Film Exchange (1912) 198 Fe 80, 117 C. C. A. 188, 28 Am. Bank Rep. 815.

The want of such averment may b cured by amendment. Armstrong Fernandez (1908) 208 U. S. 324, 2 Sup. Ct. 419, 52 L. Ed. 514, 19 An Bankr. Rep. 746; Conway v. Germa (1908) 166 Fed. 67, 91 C. C. A. 653, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577; In re Fir Nat. Bank (1907) 152 Fed. 64, 81 C. C. A. 260, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 26 In re Marion Contract & Const. C (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 618, 22 An Bankr. Rep. 81; In re Bellah (D. C 1902) 116 Fed. 69, 8 Am. Bankr. Re 310; In re White (D. C. 1905) 13 Fed. 199, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 241.

If the parties go to trial on a pet which is defective in this respect, out objection seasonably taken, an adjudication is made, the defect ured by the decree, and will not titute ground for setting aside the dication or impeaching it collater- In re First Nat. Bank (1907) Fed. 64, 81 C. C. A. 260, 18 Am. kr. Rep. 265; In re Stern (1902) Fed. 604, 54 C. C. A. 60, 8 Am. kr. Rep. 569.

a bankruptcy proceeding against m, a creditor's petition against an ed secret partner seeking to com- him to file schedules of assets and lities, but not alleging that he was vent, held not sustainable. In re uels (C. C. A. 1914) 215 Fed. 845, rsing decree In re Samuels & er (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 195.

e allegation that the respondent n involuntary petition owes debts e amount of $1,000 or over is in- ensable, and its omission leaves the t without jurisdiction. C. C. Taft v. Century Sav. Bank (1905) 141 369, 72 C. C. A. 671, 15 Am. kr. Rep. 594.

— Residence, domicile, or place usiness.—An allegation as to the or's "principal place of residence" not satisfy the statute, although a defect may be considered as aterial when the court has taken diction and granted a discharge. -Lewin v. Goold (1904) 113 Ill. 499, judgment affirmed (1904) Ill. 384, 71 N. E. 1028.

petition which states disjunctive- hat the respondent has had his cipal place of business, or has re- d, or has had his domicile, within district, is insufficient upon its face onfer jurisdiction. In re Laskaris, at. Bankr. News, 209.

a case of voluntary bankruptcy partnership, where the allegation esidence within the district as a nd of jurisdiction is false as to one he petitioning partners, the court have no jurisdiction as to any of . In re Beals (D. C. 1877) Fed. No. 1,165.

allegation, in a bankruptcy peti- as to the residence of three de- ants as individuals, held to suffi- ly show jurisdiction dependent on dence, both as to the individuals a partnership composed of them. e Mitchell & Co. (D. C. 1914) 211 778.

— Acts of bankruptcy.—It is ssary to allege the insolvency of respondent in all cases where in- ency is an essential element of the of bankruptcy charged and relied In re Lachenmaier (C. C. A. 1913) Fed. 32; In re Hammond (D. C.) 163 Fed. 548, 20 Am. Bankr. 776. In partnership cases it is enough to allege that the firm is vent, but there must also be an averment as to the solvency or insolvency of each of the partners. In re Blair (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 76, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 588. CONTRA, In re Everybody's Grocery & Meat Market (D. C. 1908) 173 Fed. 492, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 925.

A petition in bankruptcy is fatally defective if it fails to allege that the bankrupt has committed one or more of the acts of bankruptcy specified in the statute. In re Louisell Lumber Co. (1913) 209 Fed. 784, 126 C. C. A. 508. The petitioning creditors are not restricted to the allegation of a single act of bankruptcy, but they may include as many separate acts as they have knowledge of, provided they were all committed within the four months. Bradley Timber Co. v. White (1903) 121 Fed. 779, 58 C. C. A. 55, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 329; In re Nusbaum (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 835, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 598.

The petition is fatally defective if it does not show that the act of bankruptcy charged was committed within four months prior to the filing of the petition. In re Louisell Lumber Co. (1913) 209 Fed. 784, 126 C. C. A. 508; Bradley Timber Co. v. White (1903) 121 Fed. 779, 58 C. C. A. 55, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 329; In re Muller (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 9,912; Gross v. Potter (1860) 15 Gray (Mass.) 556.

It is not sufficient to charge the commission of an act of bankruptcy in the words of the statute, but there must be a specification of time, place, persons concerned, and other circumstances, such as to inform the respondent of the charge which he is to meet. In re Condon (1913) 209 Fed. 800, 126 C. C. A. 524; In re Pressed Steel Wagon Goods Co. (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 811, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 44; In re Cliffe (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 354, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 317; In re Hark (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 604, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 400; In re Randall (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 18, Fed. Cas. No. 11,551; In re Nelson (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 76, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 63; Clark v. Henne & Meyer (1904) 127 Fed. 288, 62 C. C. A. 172, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 583; In re Deer Creek Water & Water Power Co. (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 205, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 356; In re Stone (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 356, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 392; In re Sig. H. Rosenblatt & Co. (1912) 193 Fed. 638, 113 C. C. A. 506, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 401; In re Hallin (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 806, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 708.

Petitioning creditors are bound to as full a disclosure in their petition, in respect to the acts of bankruptcy charged, as their information enables them to make, supplemented by an explanation of its lack of completeness, so far as it may be thus lacking, and their case must rest on something more than rumor or vague hearsay or mere suspicion. In re Blumberg (D. C. 1904)

133 Fed. 845, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 343.

The statements made in a petition in involuntary bankruptcy in accordance with the form prescribed by the rules in bankruptcy, in which the petitioners "represent" certain facts to be true, are of matters which must necessarily be alleged on hearsay, and do not purport to be of facts to which the petitioners make oath as personal witnesses, and hence the statement in the petition that it is made on information and belief does not add to nor detract from the strength of the allegations made, nor is a statement, in the verification, that affiants believe the matters so alleged on information and belief to be true, ground for dismissing the petition, although improper in form. In re Ball (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 682, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 609.

7. —— Giving a preference.—Where the act of bankruptcy charged is the giving of a preference, it is necessary to aver that the transfer of property was made with the intent to prefer the particular creditor. In re Tupper (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 766, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 824; In re Hammond (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 548, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 776; In re Ewing (1902) 115 Fed. 707, 53 C. C. A. 289, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 269. The name of the preferred creditor must be alleged if known to the petitioners. In re Hadley (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 366, Fed. Cas. No. 5,894. Where a petition averred that the debtor, while insolvent, transferred and delivered a large number of good and collectible notes, of the value of over $5,000, to C. & Co. with intent to prefer them over other creditors, it was not objectionable for failure to charge that C. & Co. were creditors of the bankrupt. In re Vastbinder (D. C. 1903) 126 Fed. 417, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 118.

An averment that the respondent paid money to one or more creditors with intent to prefer them is insufficient. In re Pure Milk Co. (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 682, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 735. But if the petitioners do not know the name of the creditor preferred, the petition is good although it may only aver in general terms that the payment was made, adding a specific reason why a more particular allegation is not possible. In re Lackow (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 573, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 514.

The exact date of the preference should be alleged if known, but a petition which only shows that it was within the four months may be sustained as against a demurrer. In re Vastbinder (D. C. 1903) 126 Fed. 417, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 118.

The property transferred, if other than money, should be particularly described, but an insufficient description of it, if not objected to by demurrer, may be cured by the evidence. First State Bank v. Haswell (1909) 174 Fed. 209, 98 C. C. A. 217, 23 Am. Bank Rep. 330.

8. —— Fraudulent transfer or con cealment of property.—In alleging fraudulent transfer or concealment c property as an act of bankruptcy, th intent to hinder, delay, or defraud cred itors must be specifically charged. I re Heleker Bros. Mercantile Co. (I C. 1914) 216 Fed. 963; In re Tuppe (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 766, 20 An Bankr. Rep. 824. Or else facts an circumstances must be pleaded fro which such an intent may properly b inferred. In re White (D. C. 1905 135 Fed. 199, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 24

An allegation of a transfer of pro erty for an "improper consideration is not sufficient. In re Blumberg (I C. 1904) 133 Fed. 845, 13 Am. Bank Rep. 343. An allegation that claim due to the bankrupt were assigne without consideration, that suits there on have been commenced by the as signee, and that the assignments wer made to hinder and defraud creditor does not sufficiently charge an act c bankruptcy, because it does not ex clude the theory that the assignment were made merely for the purposes c collection. In re R. L. Radke Co. (I C. 1911) 193 Fed. 735, 27 Am. Bank Rep. 950.

The petition should state the partic ulars of any transfer alleged, describ ing the property transferred and whe and to whom the transfer was mad Conway v. German (1908) 166 Fe 67, 91 C. C. A. 653, 21 Am. Bank Rep. 577; In re Rosenblatt (C. C. A 1912) 193 Fed. 638, 28 Am. Bank Rep. 401. An act of bankruptcy b the fraudulent transfer of assets is suf ficiently charged by a petition whic alleges that, within four months befor the filing of the petition, the bankrup corporation permitted the two person who were its only stockholders to ap propriate portions of its property t their individual use. In re R. L. Radk Co. (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 735, 27 An Bankr. Rep. 950. So an averment i an involuntary petition that the de fendant, who was a merchant, commit ted an act of bankruptcy by conveyin a part of his property, consisting c real estate described, to a person nam ed, with intent to hinder, delay, an defraud his creditors, is sufficient. I re White (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 19 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 241.

If the petitioners cannot obtain ex act knowledge of the details of an a leged fraudulent transfer, it is enoug if their allegation is as specific as the can make it. In re Mero (D. C. 1904 128 Fed. 630, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 17 In a case of removal and concealmen of property, the petitioners may stat that they have been unable to ascer tain to what place the goods have bee removed. In re Hark (D. C. 1905) 13 Fed. 604, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 400.

Where the evidence of a fraudulen alment of assets is wholly circumial, it is unnecessary to set out recise details in the petition. In ellah (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 69, 8 Bankr. Rep. 310. A charge that espondent, at a certain time, red a specific sum of money, and he has ever since concealed it, intent to hinder, delay, and de-his creditors, is not defective for g to set forth the manner and ls of the concealment. In re Bel-D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 69, 8 Am.

r. Rep. 310.

—— Suffering a preference through proceedings.—Where the act of ruptcy alleged is the suffering a rence through legal proceedings, not sufficient to allege that the rupt suffered the recovery of a nent against him and had not "at five days before a sale or final sition of any property affected by preference vacated or discharged ame" (in the words of the stat- without alleging the issuance of an tion on the judgment, or the levy- thereof on any property of the r, and making no allegation of the of any proposed sale. In re ed Steel Wagon Goods Co. (D. 11) 193 Fed. 811, 27 Am. Bankr. 44. See In re Truitt (D. C. 203 Fed. 550, 29 Am. Bankr. 570.

is not enough to allege that at- nents have been issued and levied, "have not to the present time vacated." Seaboard Steel Cast- Co. v. William R. Trigg Co. (D. 03) 124 Fed. 75, 10 Am. Bankr. 594. It is not sufficient to al- that executions have been levied he bankrupt's property without g the further history of the ex- ons. In re Vastbinder (D. C. 126 Fed. 417, 11 Am. Bankr. 118.

bankruptcy petition alleging that lebtor was the owner of certain ibed real estate, and within four hs before the filing of the petition, insolvent, with intent to prefer in creditors, had transferred to by way of security his interest in by permitting confessed judg- s to be docketed against him, held fficiently charge the commission of econd act of bankruptcy. In re t (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 550.

petition which alleges that the rupt suffered and permitted certain tors to obtain a preference by ing a judgment to be rendered st him, and an attachment and ex- on issued thereon against the gar- e, and that judgment had been ned against the garnishee, is suffi- since the rendering of the judg- against the garnishee is as final position of the property as a sale execution. In re Fineman (D. 15) 223 Fed. 653.

10. —— Appointment of receiver.—Where the ground of the petition is the appointment of a receiver for the insolvent defendant on the ground of insolvency, it should allege the fact of the appointment, and show that it was made by a court of competent jurisdiction, and that the reason for the appointment was insolvency. In re Kennedy Tailoring Co. (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 871, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 656; Exploration Mercantile Co. v. Pacific Hardware & Steel Co. (1910) 177 Fed. 825, 101 C. C. A. 39, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 216; Doyle-Kidd Dry Goods Co. v. Sadler-Lusk Trading Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 813, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 604.

Where a petition alleges as an act of bankruptcy that because of insolvency a receiver was put in charge of defendant's property and the order appointing the receiver does not state the grounds therefor, the record on which it was made must be referred to. In re Maplecroft Mills (D. C. 1914) 218 Fed. 659.

Allegation in an involuntary bankruptcy petition against a corporation, that it had made an assignment by filing a petition admitting its insolvency and inability to pay its debts and asking the appointment of a receiver, held an allegation that the corporation, being insolvent, applied for a receiver of its property. Doyle-Kidd Dry Goods Co. v. Sadler-Lusk Trading Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 813.

Allegation that corporation permitted appointment of receiver because of insolvency, though its language was inartificial, held to allege an act of bankruptcy. In re Valentine Bohl Co. (1915) 224 Fed. 685, 140 C. C. A. 225.

11. —— Multifarious and misjoined matter.—It is improper to incorporate in a creditors' petition for an adjudication in bankruptcy allegations charging other creditors with having received voidable preferences, or a request for a warrant directing the marshal to seize and hold the debtor's property pending an adjudication, or a prayer for the seizure of property of the alleged bankrupt in the hands of adverse claimants, or for an injunction forbidding a third person having property of the respondent in his possession (such as a receiver appointed by a state court) to dispose of the same. All these are matters which can only be litigated in a separate proceeding. And hence such allegations and prayers are multifarious and will be stricken out, or treated as having been stricken. Mather v. Coe (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 333, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 504; In re Ogles (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 426, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 671; In re Kelly (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 504, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 306; In re Hadley (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 366, Fed. Cas. No. 5,894; Creditors v. Cozzens (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 281, Fed. Cas. No. 3,378; In re

Kintzing (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 217, Fed. Cas. No. 7,833.

12. Signature and verification of petition.—A petition in involuntary bankruptcy must be signed and verified in duplicate by the petitioning creditors. In re Bellah (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 69, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 310. It must be signed and verified by each of the petitioning creditors separately and not by one for all. In re Simmons (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 253, Fed. Cas. No. 12,864. But a petition in bankruptcy is not subject to a motion to dismiss for want of jurisdiction because of a failure of one of the petitioners to verify it. Green River Deposit Bank v. Craig (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 137, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 381. The verification of a petition must name the persons who swear to it, and although a creditor may have signed his name to the petition or to the verification, it is not sufficiently verified as to him unless his name is recited as being one of the persons who appeared and made the verification. In re Rosenfields (D. C. 1871) 11 N. B. R. 86, Fed. Cas. No. 12,061.

A petition in bankruptcy may be properly verified before a commissioner of deeds. In re Morse (D. C. 1914) 210 Fed. 900.

It is not a fatal defect that the notary public who took the verification was the bankrupt's own attorney. In re Kindt (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 403, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 443; In re Mauer (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 9,304. The date of the jurat is not an essential part of the verification. In re Houghton (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 6,727.

Jurisdiction attaches, upon the filing of the petition, and if the verification is insufficient or defective, the court may allow it to be amended, or, if it is not seasonably objected to, it will be cured by an adjudication. Green River Deposit Bank v. Craig (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 137, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 381; In re Simmons (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 253, Fed. Cas. No. 12,864; In re Donnelly (D. C. 1881) 5 Fed. 783; In re Getchell (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 5,371.

Verification of a petition in bankruptcy on information and belief is insufficient. Sabin v. Blake-McFall Co. (1915) 223 Fed. 501, 139 C. C. A. 49. But the defect is not jurisdictional and may be cured by amendment. In re Farthing (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 557, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 732. Where an involuntary bankruptcy petition is heard on the merits without objection to the pleadings, the fact that one or more of them is verified on information and belief only is immaterial. Lackawanna Leather Co. v. La Porte Carriage Co. (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 318.

An objection to a petition in involuntary bankruptcy, on the ground of informality or insufficiency in its verification is waived by the tender of a plea and answer on the merits, and t respondent cannot afterwards have t proceedings dismissed on account such defect. Simonson v. Sinshein (1899) 95 Fed. 948, 37 C. C. A. 33 Leidigh Carriage Co. v. Stengel (189 95 Fed. 637, 37 C. C. A. 210, 2 A Bankr. Rep. 383; In re Simonson (C. 1899) 92 Fed. 904, 1 Am. Ban Rep. 197; In re Herzikopf (D. C. 190 118 Fed. 101, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 9 In re Chequasset Lumber Co. (D. 1901) 112 Fed. 56, 7 Am. Bankr. R 87; In re McNaughton (D. C. 1873) N. B. R. 44, Fed. Cas. No. 8,912; parte Jewett (D. C. 1875) 11 N. R. 443, Fed. Cas. No. 7,303.

Where a partnership is one of t petitioning creditors, the signing a verifying may be done for the firm one of its members. Walker v. Woo side (C. C. A. 1908) 164 Fed. 680, Am. Bankr. Rep. 132.

Where petition in bankruptcy w signed in firm name by partner pu chasing other partner's interest, pr ceeding held to be regarded as ins tuted by him individually doing busine in the firm name. In re Baker & E wards (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 611.

13. —— By attorney or agent.— petition in bankruptcy may be sign and verified for a petitioning credit by an attorney at law retained to re resent him in the proceedings, provi ed that the attorney has person knowledge of the facts directly alleg in the petition. In re Vastbinder (C. 1903) 126 Fed. 417, 11 Am. Ban Rep. 118; In re Hunt (D. C. 190 118 Fed. 282, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 25 In re Herzikopf (D. C. 1902) 118 Fe 101, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 90; In Raynor (C. C. 1873) 7 N. B. R. 52 Fed. Cas. No. 11,597. But in this ca the petition must state some good a sufficient reason why the creditor do not appear in person to sign and ve fy it, as that he is a nonresident or absent from the district. Rogers v. I Soto Placer Min. Co. (1905) 136 Fe 407, 69 C. C. A. 251, 14 Am. Ban Rep. 252; In re Hadley (D. C. 187 12 N. B. R. 366, Fed. Cas. No. 5,89 No other evidence of the attorney's a thority to act for his client need a pear than the fact that he has been a mitted to practice in the federal court In re Herzikopf (D. C. 1902) 118 Fe 101, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 90. Compa In re Sargent (D. C. 1875) 13 N. B. 144, Fed. Cas. No. 12,361. The fa that the attorney for a voluntary ban rupt, who signed the petition as su attorney, had not at that time been a mitted to practice in the district cou where the proceedings are brought, not a ground for dismissing the pet tion, but for an order, on notice to t bankrupt and the attorney, that t latter will no longer be recognized attorney in the case. In re O'Hallor (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 10,463.

The petition may be signed and ve on behalf of a creditor by an at-ey in fact or an accredited agent.

d v. Wehl (C. C. 1881) 6 Fed. 163;
e California Pac. R. Co. (D. C.
) Fed. Cas. No. 2,315. But in case, proof of his agency or of his ess authority to do the particular s necessary. In re Rosenfields (D.
871) 11 N. B. R. 86, Fed. Cas. No.
31. But if the petition is defecfor failing to show such authority, ay be amended. In re California
R. Co. (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No.
5. Or supplementary proof may eceived nunc pro tunc in the dis-on of the court to establish the ority of the agent. In re Rosen-s (D. C. 1871) 11 N. B. R. 86, Fed.
No. 12,061.

—— By officers or agents of cor- tion.—Where a corporation is a ioning creditor, its name may be ed and the petition verified for it s attorney, by an agent, or by one s officers duly authorized to act t in this particular. In re Chequas-Lumber Co. (D. C. 1901) 112 Fed.
7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 87; Walker v. dside (C. C. A. 1908) 164 Fed.
21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 132; In re
h (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 69, 8 Am.
kr. Rep. 310; Merriam v. Sewall
7) 8 Gray (Mass.) 316. The auty of an officer of a corporation to and verify the petition must be ally conferred by statute, by-law, esolution of the directors, and must ar on the face of the petition or shown by evidence. In re Mcghton (D. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 44, Cas. No. 8,912; Roche v. Fox
C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 461, Fed.
No. 11,974.

e president of a company has no rent power to take the necessary s to have the corporation adjudged rupt, and hence a voluntary petifiled on behalf of the corporation, signed and verified by the presi-
, but which fails to show that any on had been taken by the board of ctors authorizing the filing of the ion, or empowering the president xecute the petition in the name of corporation, is insufficient to confer diction on the court of bankruptcy.
e Jefferson Casket Co. (D. C. 1910)
Fed. 689, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 663.

. Amendment of petition.—The ref-in bankruptcy has jurisdiction and retion to order amendments to be e in the petition and schedules of luntary bankrupt referred to him, articulars as to which he finds them ctive or insufficient. In re Brummp (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 814, 2
Bankr. Rep. 318.

a application for leave to amend is lly defective if it does not state the on for the error or defect sought e amended, but the applicant may granted time to supply this omis-
. In re Portner (D. C. 1907) 149
799, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 89.

The provision of General Order No. 11 (post, § 9614), with reference to allowing amendments, does not abrogate or restrict the general power of amendment in other respects vested in the courts of bankruptcy. In re Bellah (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 69, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 310; In re Hill (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 6,485.

The privilege of amending a petition in bankruptcy rests in the sound judicial discretion of the court, which will not be interfered with on review unless an abuse of discretion is shown. Armstrong v. Fernandez (1908) 208 U. S. 324, 28 Sup. Ct. 419, 52 L. Ed. 514; Sabin v. Blake-McFall Co. (1915) 223 Fed. 501, 139 C. C. A. 49; In re Rosenblatt (C. C. A. 1912) 193 Fed. 638, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 401; Woolford v. Diamond State Steel Co. (D. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 582, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 31.

Leave to amend a defective petition in involuntary bankruptcy should be denied where the amendment would not be in furtherance of justice nor in the interest of creditors. In re Farthing (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 557.

It is proper to refuse to allow an amendment as to jurisdictional facts, or one going to the very foundation of the proceeding. In re Wood (D. C. 1873) 13 N. B. R. 96, Fed. Cas. No. 17,935; In re Craft (C. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 111, Fed. Cas. No. 3,317; In re Farthing (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 557, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 732.

A creditor who has joined in the petition cannot object to an amendment thereof which is necessary to the prosecution of the same to final effect. In re Sargent (D. C. 1875) 13 N. B. R. 144, Fed. Cas. No. 12,361.

Amendments to a petition relate back to the time of the filing of the original petition, and have the same force and effect as if included in the petition itself. Millan v. Exchange Bank (1910) 183 Fed. 753, 106 C. C. A. 327, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 889; Ryan v. Hendricks (1908) 166 Fed. 94, 92 C. C. A. 78, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 570; Sherman v. International Bank (C. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 12,765. For this reason, where a petition, sufficient in form to give the court jurisdiction, is filed within four months after the commission of the act of bankruptcy alleged, it is no sufficient objection to the allowance of an amendment that the four months have more than elapsed at the time the amendment is applied for. In re Shoesmith (1905) 135 Fed. 684, 68 C. C. A. 322, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 645; International Bank v. Sherman (1879) 101 U. S. 403, 25 L. Ed. 866; Hark v. C. M. Allen Co. (1906) 146 Fed. 665, 77 C. C. A. 91, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 3; In re Brown Commercial Car Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 227 Fed. 387. A petition in bankruptcy is amendable, and if the amendment does not set up new matter, or a new cause of action, the amended pleading will be regarded as a continuation of the original, and will relate back so as to take effect as of the date the original was filed. In re Louisell Lumber Co. (1913) 209 Fed. 784, 126 C. C. A. 508. Where an involuntary bankruptcy petition was fatally defective prior to its amendment, the date of the amendment must be taken as the date from which the four months' period is to be calculated. In re Condon (1913) 209 Fed. 800, 126 C. C. A. 524, affirming judgment (D. C. 1912) 198 Fed. 947. If acts of bankruptcy charged in amended petition, filed more than four months after they were committed, were not mere enlargements and amendments, held, that they were not available. In re Brown Commercial Car Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 227 Fed. 387.

Amendments may be made in bankruptcy proceedings at any stage of the case, regardless of the time that has elapsed. In re Mercur (1903) 122 Fed. 384, 58 C. C. A. 472, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 505; In re Mercur (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 655, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 275. But where petitioning creditors have delayed for nearly a year, without sufficient excuse, to correct an averment in their petition as to the residence of the debtor, their application to amend should be refused. In re Freudenfels (D. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 5,112a. If otherwise meritorious, an amendment may be allowed after the sustaining of a demurrer to the petition. In re Riggs Restaurant Co. (1904) 130 Fed. 691, 66 C. C. A. 48, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 508; In re Brett (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 981, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 492. Amendments may be made after the adjudication, as, on the trial of the issue before a jury, when the court has power to permit amendments to be made to cover the case shown by the evidence. In re Bininger (C. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 1,420; In re Craft (C. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 3,317.

16. —— Defects and omissions amendable.—Amendments to a petition in bankruptcy may be allowed to correct a mistake in the name of the alleged bankrupt. Gleason v. Smith (1906) 145 Fed. 895, 76 C. C. A. 427, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 602. Or in the allegation concerning his place of residence. In re Vanderhoef (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 543, Fed. Cas. No. 16,841. Or in the statement in regard to the length of time he has resided within the jurisdiction of the court. In re Elmira Steel Co. (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 456, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 484. But a petition against a firm, naming only two of the three actual partners, cannot be amended so as to make the third a party after the testimony is taken and the cause is before the court on hearing. In re Pitt (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 11,188. And the pendency of simultaneous proceedings against the individual members of a partnership do not necessarily bring the firm itself into court, so as to authorize an amendment calling for an adjudication agains it. In re Mercur (1903) 122 Fed. 38 58 C. C. A. 472, 10 Am. Bankr. Re 505. Where the petition is brough against an alleged partnership and it two members, but it appears tha there was no partnership in fact, an that the business was owned and th act of bankruptcy committed by on defendant individually, it is in the dis cretion of the court to permit the pe tition to be amended by dismissing a to the partnership and the other de fendant. In re Richardson (D. C 1911) 192 Fed. 50, 27 Am. Bankr. Re 590. Petition in involuntary bankrupt cy against a firm and partners may b amended, so as to proceed against partner acquiring the property of th firm on its dissolution as against a co partner obtaining claims after filing o petition. In re Young (D. C. 1915 223 Fed. 659.

If the petition does not show that th proposed bankrupt, whether a corpo ration or a natural person, is not with in the classes exempted from the oper ation of the bankruptcy law, the omis sion may be supplied by amendment Armstrong v. Fernandez (1908) 208 U S. 324, 28 Sup. Ct. 419, 52 L. Ed. 514 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 746; Conway v German (1908) 166 Fed. 67, 91 C. C A. 653, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577; I re Marion Contract & Const. Co. (D C. 1909) 166 Fed. 618, 22 Am. Bankr Rep. 81; In re First Nat. Bank (1907 152 Fed. 64, 81 C. C. A. 260, 18 Am Bankr. Rep. 265; In re Plymouth Cordage Co. (1905) 135 Fed. 1000, 6 C. C. A. 434, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 665 In re Crenshaw (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed 638, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 502; Beach v. Macon Grocery Co. (1903) 120 Fed 736, 57 C. C. A. 150, 9 Am. Bankr Rep. 762; In re Bellah (D. C. 1902 116 Fed. 69, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 310 McAfee v. Arnold & Mathis (1908) 15 Ala. 561, 46 South. 870.

The petitioning creditors should show that their claims amount in the aggre gate to the jurisdictional minimum, bu the omission of this averment may be supplied by amendment. In re Scul (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 12,568 In re McKibben (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B R. 97, Fed. Cas. No. 8,859; In re Blai (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 492, Fed Cas. No. 1,481. And an allegation o the nature and amount of their severa debts or claims may be added b amendment. In re White (D. C. 1905 135 Fed. 199, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 241 But an amended petition cannot se forth, as part of the indebtedness t the petitioning creditor, a note indors ed by the debtor which did not fall du until after the original petition wa filed. In re Morse (C. C. 1879) Fed Cas. No. 9,851. If the petition is in valid by reason of a defect in the verifi cation, it is amendable. In re Vast binder (D. C. 1903) 126 Fed. 417, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 118. And a clerica error in the jurat may be cured b ıdment. In re Bellah (D. C. 1902) Fed. 69, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 310. tition which alleges the insolvency e debtor at the time of the filing he petition may be changed by ıdment so as to charge insolvency e date of the execution of the al- l preference. In re Pangborn (D. 910) 185 Fed. 673, 26 Am. Bankr. 40. But an amended petition, ex- ed as such by a creditor, to be filed proceedings previously instituted, ot thereafter and after the pro- ings have been dismissed by the t, be converted into an original pe- ı by striking out the word "amend- and so made the basis of a new independent proceeding. In re e & Gload Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1900) Fed. 617, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 602. e allegations in the petition con- ing the commission of an act of ruptcy may also be amended, e necessary, either in the way of g made more specific or in being e to conform more closely to the as developed. Thus, if these al- ions are vague, general, and lack- in detail, the particulars may be lied by amendment. In re Cliffe C. 1899) 94 Fed. 354, 2 Am. Bankr. 317; In re Nelson (D. C. 1899) ed. 76, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 63. the petition charges the commis- of an act of bankruptcy by a sfer of property with intent to er or defraud creditors, but it is loped at the hearing that the trans- was made in satisfaction of an ex- g debt or for a consideration, it is er for the court to permit an ıdment charging that the transfer made with intent to prefer the itor benefited by it. Hark v. C. M. ı Co. (1906) 146 Fed. 665, 77 C. . 91, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 3; In lark (D. C. 1905) 142 Fed. 279, 15 Bankr. Rep. 460; In re Henderson C. 1881) 9 Fed. 196.

. —— Setting up new act of bank- cy.—An amendment setting up a act of bankruptcy, not charged in original petition, is in the discre- of the court, and its allowance is improper, especially where the tes- ny at the trial or hearing plainly oses the commission of an act of ruptcy additional to that alleged e petition, and particularly if the f fails as to the act originally ged, so that the proceeding will be d and the ends of justice promoted ranting the amendment. Interna- l Bank v. Sherman (1879) 101 U. 03, 25 L. Ed. 866; Chicago Motor cle Co. v. American Oak Leather (1905) 141 Fed. 518, 72 C. C. A. 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 804; In re rick (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 279, ım. Bankr. Rep. 721; In re Nus- ı (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 835, 18 Bankr. Rep. 598; In re Miller (D. 900) 104 Fed. 764, 5 Am. Bankr. 140; In re Lange (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 197, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 231; In re Mercur (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 634, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 626; In re Strait, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 354; In re Gallinger (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 729, Fed. Cas. No. 5,202; Hardy v. Bininger, 4 N. B. R. 262, Fed. Cas. No. 6,057. An amendment may be allowed alleging any act of bankruptcy within the general scope of the facts set forth in the original petition. In re Irish (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 573. But it is necessary for the petitioning creditors, in order to obtain this privilege, to explain or excuse their omission to allege the new act of bankruptcy in their original petition. White v. Bradley Timber Co. (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 768, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 671; Wilder v. Watts (D. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 426, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 57.

Numerous cases, however, rule that a new or entirely different act of bankruptcy cannot be introduced into the petition by an amendment. In re Pure Milk Co. (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 682, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 735; In re Harris (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 216, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 204; In re Sears (1902) 117 Fed. 294, 54 C. C. A. 532, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 713; Reed v. Crowley (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 516, Fed. Cas. No. 11,644; In re Leonard (D. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 562, Fed. Cas. No. 8,255; Stern v. Schonfield (C. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 13,377.

If the introduction of a new act of bankruptcy by amendment is permissible, it is wholly improper to permit an amendment of this kind where the new act of bankruptcy proposed to be set up was committed more than four months before the application for leave to amend, so that it could not be made the basis of a new original petition. In re Haff (1905) 136 Fed. 78, 68 C. C. A. 646, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 362; Walker v. Woodside (1908) 164 Fed. 680, 90 C. C. A. 644, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 132; In re Pure Milk Co. (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 682, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 735; In re Perlhefter (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 299, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 576.

18. Filing and presenting petition.—Proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy take date from the filing of the petition, and not from the issuance of process or its service. In re Appel (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 931, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 722; In re Lewis (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 632, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 458; First Nat. Bank v. Masterson (1911) 29 Okl. 76, 116 Pac. 162.

The filing of a petition in bankruptcy is a caveat to all the world and in effect an attachment and injunction. In re Schow (D. C. 1914) 213 Fed. 514; Hamilton v. Smith (1907) 36 Mont. 1, 92 Pac. 32, 122 Am. St. Rep. 330.

It is not necessary that the petition should be filed or presented to the court simultaneously with its execution; the fact that it was attested a number of days before being filed affords no obstacle to its prosecution. In re Abrahams (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 20.

All petitions are intended by the statute to be filed with the clerk of the court in which the proceeding is to be taken, and it is bad practice to send them directly to the judge or to present them to a referee. In re Sykes (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 669, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 264. Relationship between the bankrupt and the deputy clerk of the court in whose office the petition was filed will be cause for transferring the cause to another seat of the court in the same district and division, and ordering the record to be filed and docketed in the office of the clerk of the court at the latter place. Bray v. Cobb (D. C. 1898) 91 Fed. 102, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 153.

A petition in bankruptcy is to be deemed "filed," within the meaning of the law, when it is delivered personally to the clerk of the court of bankruptcy and received by him for the purpose of being placed on file, although not at his office or during office hours. In re Von Borcke (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 352. See Franks v. Houston (1872) 9 Kan. 406. The time of filing does not date from the time when the clerk presents the petition to the judge for his action as to issuing an order to show cause. In re Bear (D. C. 1880) 5 Fed. 53.

Where a voluntary partnership petition in bankruptcy was signed, verified, and presented by all the members of the firm, and was accompanied by schedules of the firm's assets and debts, but not by any individual schedules, and no adjudication was made thereon, but subsequently the petition was in part withdrawn, and a new petition was filed, with parts of the old petition pasted thereon, and individual schedules of all the partners added by way of amendment, and thereupon an adjudication was made, it was held that the petition was "filed" on the later date and not the earlier. In re Washburn (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 84, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 585.

The clerk's indorsement on the petition of the day and hour of filing is evidence of the facts stated, and is for every legal purpose a certificate. In re Dean (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 249, Fed. Cas. No. 3,699. The record of the bankruptcy court showing that a petition was filed at a particular time is conclusive and cannot be contradicted by parol evidence. But if the recital as to the date of filing is actually incorrect, it may be made right by an order entered nunc pro tunc. Alabama & C. R. Co. v. Jones (C. C.) 7 N. B. R. 145, Fed. Cas. No. 127.

The requirement that petitions shall be filed in duplicate means that there shall be one petition in the form of two duplicate originals, each verified as prescribed, and both filed at the san time. In re Stevenson (D. C. 189 94 Fed. 110, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 6 In re Dupree (D. C. 1899) 97 Fe 28. Compare Millan v. Exchan Bank (1910) 183 Fed. 753, 106 C. A. 327, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 889. T omission of the petitioning credito to file both duplicates of the petiti within the time limited by the sta ute is not cured by the appearance the alleged bankrupt for the purpo of moving to dismiss the petition. re Stevenson (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 11 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 66. Compare In Plymouth Cordage Co. (1905) 1 Fed. 1000, 68 C. C. A. 434, 13 A Bankr. Rep. 665. The power of allo ing amendments should not be exe cised so as to dispense with the r quirement that petitions shall be fil in duplicate within the four mont specified. In re Stevenson (D. C. 189 94 Fed. 110, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 6

An affidavit accompanying a volu tary petition in bankruptcy, stating th the petitioner has not the money to p the filing fees and cannot obtain it, prima facie evidence of the inabili of the petitioner to make the requi ed deposit of fees, and if, upon e amination as to his available mean proper inquiries being fairly answere it appears that there was no money property held by the petitioner at t institution of the proceedings, or o tainable through his individual earnin or efforts, the exemption from maki such deposit must be allowed and t case proceed. In re Levy (D. C. 190 101 Fed. 247.

19. Service of process.—If service process in a bankruptcy case is n effected before the return day, the p titioning creditors are entitled to ali and successive subpœnas until due ser ice is had. Gleason v. Smith, Perki & Co. (1906) 145 Fed. 895, 76 C. C. 427, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 602. There nothing to prevent service on the a leged bankrupt wherever he may found, though it is outside the distric Stuart v. Hines (1871) 33 Iowa, 6 Hills v. F. D. McKinniss Co. (D. 1910) 188 Fed. 1012, 26 Am. Bank Rep. 329.

Where the alleged bankrupt is a par nership, service of process on one me ber of the firm will give jurisdiction the firm and its property. Bail Hartman (1905) 9 Ariz. 321, 83 Pa 358.

Where the alleged bankrupt is a co poration, service is good if made any of its principal officers. In California Pac. R. Co. (D. C. 187 Fed. Cas. No. 2,315. Service may made on the cashier of a banking con pany. Platt v. Archer (C. C. 187 Fed. Cas. No. 11,213. In the case a foreign corporation, service may made on that officer of the state w has been appointed its attorney to r service of process within the In re Magid-Hope Silk Co. (D. 01) 110 Fed. 352, 6 Am. Bankr. 610. If the corporation has been ved by decree of a state court, receiver appointed to wind up its s, service may be made by pub- on, as this is a case where the de- nt cannot be found. In re Wash- n Marine Ins. Co. (D. C. 1868) Cas. No. 17,246.

ile a defendant may ordinarily service of process, this cannot one in a bankruptcy proceeding, least it will not justify an adju- on before the return day of the because creditors have the right tervene and plead to the petition, hey must be allowed the full stat- time for that purpose. In re L. ert Co. (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 76.

the defendant is temporarily ab- from the district, but has his ng house or usual place of abode n, the service may be made by g a copy there with some adult er of the family, as authorized e equity rules, this being a per- service within the meaning of the uptcy act. In re Norton (D. C. 148 Fed. 301, 17 Am. Bankr. 504.

validity of service was sustain- here it had been effected by leav- e subpœna and a copy of the pe- with the clerk of a hotel of which ankrupt was the proprietor and he usually resided, although, at ime, he was absent in another in the last stage of a fatal illness. Risteen (D. C. 1903) 122 Fed. 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 494.

equity rule does not require the of the process to be left with a n within the dwelling-house, but is ied by a service at the door, out- the house. Phœnix Ins. Co. v. (C. C. 1880) 1 Fed. 775.

the case of bankruptcy proceedings st an absconding debtor, the law res the publication of an order nating a day on which the bank- is required to appear and answer, r, or plead; and where the order ublication did not designate a time appearance, and publication was of the citation issued by the clerk ting the marshal to summon the rupt, instead of the order for pub- on, it was held that this conferred risdiction on the court to make djudication. Sidney L. Bauman ond Co. v. Hart (C. C. A. 1911) Fed. 498, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 632.

he defendant in bankruptcy desires ise the objection that the court o jurisdiction because the writ was perly served, he may do so by n or by defense at the trial, but y demurrer. In re Seaboard Fire rwriters (D. C. 1905) 137 Fed. 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 722. A gen- appearance will waive all irregularities in the service of process, and confer jurisdiction of the defendant's person. In re Ulrich (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 14,327. Where there are several defendants, as in the case of a partnership, one who was not served may appear by attorney. In re Weyhausen (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 17,474.

20. Notice to creditors.—Notice to creditors of the commencement of bankruptcy proceedings by the filing of a petition is not necessary, the filing of the proper petition by the proper parties in the proper court conferring jurisdiction, and being in itself a lis pendens and notice to all concerned. In re Billing (D. C. 1906) 145 Fed. 395, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 80. And see International Bank v. Sherman (1879) 100 U. S. 406, 25 L. Ed. 866; Mueller v. Nugent (1902) 184 U. S. 14, 22 Sup. Ct. 269, 46 L. Ed. 405, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 224; Wiley v. Pavey (1878) 61 Ind. 457, 28 Am. Rep. 677. There is an exception in the case where the bankrupt alleges in his answer the existence of more than twelve creditors, and files a sworn list of his creditors, whereupon the court shall cause such creditors to be notified of the proceeding, it being in the discretion of the court to decide whether notice shall be served personally or by mail, and by whom the service shall be made. In re Tribelhorn (1905) 137 Fed. 3, 69 C. C. A. 601, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 491. Notice of bankruptcy proceedings, given to the owner of an interest in a judgment against the bankrupt, is not notice to the other co-owner. Strickland v. Capital City Mills (1906) 74 S. C. 16, 54 S. E. 220, 7 L. R. A. (N. S.) 426.

Although a creditor has had no notice of the petition, this will not entitle him to impeach the decree of adjudication, where the records show a regular proceeding. The fact that his name did not appear on the list of creditors and that he was not notified of the proceeding would not affect the jurisdiction of the court to proceed to an adjudication, nor will it affect the trustee's right to maintain an action against him to recover a preference or to set aside a fraudulent conveyance. Roberts v. Fernald (1903) 72 N. H. 198, 55 Atl. 942.

21. Parties.—Persons having a lien on the property of a bankrupt passing to his trustee are not parties to the bankruptcy proceeding, unless they come into the bankruptcy court to enforce their rights. In re Reading Hat Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 786. The appearance of a nonresident as a witness in bankruptcy proceedings, in obedience to a subpœna, does not make him a party to the proceedings. In re Geller (D. C. 1914) 216 Fed. 558. Where an alleged nonresident of the district was claimed to be a member of a bankrupt partnership, but was not joined in the original proceeding, the court had power to allow an amendment to bring him in under section 9586, ante, and to adjudicate the firm and its members bankrupt under section 2, subd. 1. In re J. & M. Schwartz (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 326. An assumption that a corporation, the assets of which are being administered in bankruptcy, is not insolvent, and that there will be a surplus, does not make a stockholder a proper party to the bankruptcy case. In re Witherbee (1913) 202 Fed. 896, 121 C. C. A. 254.

Where it is necessary to reform a contract in order to sustain a petition in bankruptcy against a corporation, the corporation should be made a party to the proceeding, notwithstanding its default as to the petition, which did not ask such reformation, or the assent of its board of directors to the bankruptcy. In re Imperial Corp. (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 73, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 199.

Where the act of bankruptcy alleged is the making of a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, it is not improper to join the assignee as a defendant in the bankruptcy proceeding, but his rights and interests cannot be adjudicated at this stage of the cause, and where the petition sets up no cause of action against him nor prays any special relief as to him, the mere fact of his being included does not make him continuously subject to the orders of the court without other process. Louisville Trust Co. v. Comingor (1902) 184 U. S. 18, 22 Sup. Ct. 293, 46 L. Ed. 413.

Where the alleged bankrupt in involuntary proceedings dies after the filing of the petition, but before service of process, the proceeding does not abate, but his heirs and personal representatives should be brought in and made parties to the proceeding before any adjudication. Shute v. Patterson (1906) 147 Fed. 509, 78 C. C. A. 75, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 99.

When the alleged bankrupt is insane, the court of bankruptcy has authority to appoint a guardian ad litem to defend against the petition, if he has no regular guardian or committee. If he has, then such guardian or committee must be brought in by process, as well as the lunatic, and may thereupon be appointed guardian ad litem for him. In re Burka (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 674, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 843.

22. —— Intervention and substitution of parties.—Any creditors having provable debts may enter their appearance and join in the petition. In re Etheridge Furniture Co. (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 329, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 112; In re Crenshaw (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 638, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 502; In re Black Diamond Copper Min. Co. (1906) 10 Ariz. 42, 85 Pac. 653. To sustain the intervention of other creditors, the petition should be sufficient on its face to give jurisdiction, and if it does not show that the requisite amount of debts is represented, it cannot be amended by the joinder of other creditors having sufficient claims. In re Stein (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 377, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 364. If there is no want of jurisdiction apparent on the face of the petition, but it transpires before adjudication that there is a deficiency in the amount of debts represented, then other creditors who have entered their appearance and joined in the petition may be reckoned in making up the statutory quorum. In re Crenshaw (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 638, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 502; In re Mackey (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 355, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 577; In re Bedingfield (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 190, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 355; In re Romanow (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 510, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 461; In re Vastbinder (D. C. 1903) 126 Fed. 417, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 118. Where a petition in involuntary bankruptcy, good upon its face, has been filed, other creditors, acting in good faith, have the right to file intervening petitions at any time during the pendency of the proceeding though original petitioners were estopped to file petition. In re Freeman Cotting Coat Co. (D. C. 1913) 212 Fed. 551.

To establish a right to intervene, it is not necessary that the party should have proved his debt in the ordinary form, provided he can satisfy the court that he is in fact a creditor. In re Boston, H. & E. R. Co. (C. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 1,677. The fact that his petition of intervention is defective in matter of form in setting out his claim is immaterial, where the deficiency is supplied by proof on the hearing. Hays v. Wagner (1907) 150 Fed. 533, 80 C. C. A. 275, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 163. But he must be a genuine creditor having a real and provable claim. In re Lewis F. Perry & Whitney Co. (D. C. 1909) 172 Fed. 752, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 780.

This right of additional creditors to come in and press the petition, being secured to them by law, cannot be defeated by any settlement or arrangement by which the original petitioners obtain satisfaction and seek to withdraw the petition or drop the proceedings. In re Lacey (C. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 477, Fed. Cas. No. 7,965; In re Calendar (D. C.) Fed. Cas. No. 2,307; In re Mammouth Pine Lumber Co. (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 308, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 84. Nor by their failure to appear or their omission or neglect to prosecute the proceeding to an adjudication. In re Sheffer (D. C. 1877) 17 N. B. R. 369, Fed. Cas. No. 12,742; In re Calendar (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 2,307; In re Buchanan (C. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 97, Fed. Cas. No. 2,073; In re Lacey (C. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 477, Fed. Cas. No. 7,965; In re Stein (1901) 105 Fed. 749, 45 C. C. A. 29, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 288.

statute does not limit the time which creditors may thus in-, and therefore it is held that ay come in at any time before judgment is rendered on the pe- that is, before the court either the adjudication or dismisses tition. In re Lewis F. Perry & y Co. (D. C. 1909) 172 Fed. 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 770; In re ith Cordage Co. (1905) 135 000, 68 C. C. A. 434, 13 Am. Rep. 665; In re Frisbee (C. C. Fed. Cas. No. 5,129. It is im- l that it may be more than four after the commission of the act kruptcy alleged. In re Charles Light & Power Co. (D. C. 1910) d. 160, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 687. n in involuntary bankruptcy, n its face, gives the court juris-, and other creditors, though by lapse of time from originat- proceeding, may, under section nte, intervene. In re Bolognesi 223 Fed. 771, 139 C. C. A. 351. e the parties appear and join and no further proceedings take and no formal adjournment is he matter will be regarded as from day to day until disposed permit any other creditor to in and prosecute the petition. Buchanan (C. C. 1874) 10 N. B. Fed. Cas. No. 2,073. But a ng and unreasonable delay will any creditors from the privilege ring the case and taking up the for action. Ex parte Freed- . C. 1844) Fed. Cas. No. 5,079. ter the petition has been defi- dismissed, whether for want of tion, for insufficiency of peti-, or because the issues were de- gainst them, it is then too late y other creditors to intervene, e petition cannot be revived for benefit. In re Tribelhorn (1905) d. 3, 69 C. C. A. 601, 14 Am. Rep. 491; In re Olmsted (D. 0) 4 N. B. R. 240, Fed. Cas. No. An order in an involuntary ding that the petition be dis- when the fees due the clerk arshal shall be paid, is not a iscontinuance, so as to deprive r creditor of the right to inter- nd prosecute the original peti- t any time before such fees are In re Lacey (C. C. 1874) 10 N. 477, Fed. Cas. No. 7,965 Their ourse is to bring a new and in- ent petition against the debtor, ey must found it on acts of ptcy committed within four before they file it; but in the tion of it they will not be es- by the judgment of dismissal. dter v. Chicago Dry Goods Co. 1899) 96 Fed. 830, 3 Am. Bankr. 6.

e are also some instances in a substitution of parties in a bankruptcy proceeding will be proper. This is the case, for example, where one of the creditors joining in an involuntary petition himself becomes a bankrupt before the hearing. In this event, his trustee in bankruptcy, who succeeds to all his rights and claims as against his debtors, should be substituted in his place as a petitioner. Hays v. Wagner (1907) 150 Fed. 533, 80 C. C. A. 275, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 163; In re Jones (D. C. 1873) 7 N. B. R. 506, Fed. Cas. No. 7,450.

23. —— Persons entitled to oppose adjudication.—Under the provision of this section that "any creditor may appear and plead to the petition within five days after the return day, or within such further time as the court may allow," and the provision of section 9643, post, that "creditors other than the original petitioners may at any time file an answer and be heard in opposition to the prayer of the petition," it rests in the discretion of the court to allow an extension of the time limited, but it is a proper exercise of such discretion to refuse to allow a creditor to file an answer when he knew of the proceeding and gives no sufficient excuse for his failure to answer within the five days. In re Marion Contract & Const. Co. (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 618, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 81; In re Mutual Mercantile Agency (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 152, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 607.

Any creditor whose interests are directly affected by the proceedings, or who conceives that he may be prejudiced by an adjudication of bankruptcy against the debtor, even a general unsecured creditor, may avail himself of this privilege and contest the petition, though the debtor himself fails to appear or to answer. In re Jonas (D. C. 1878) 16 N. B. R. 452, Fed. Cas. No. 7,442; In re Austin (D. C. 1878) 16 N. B. R. 518, Fed. Cas. No. 662; Johansen Bros. Shoe Co. v. Alles (1912) 197 Fed. 274, 116 C. C. A. 636, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 299; B-R Electric & Telephone Mfg. Co. v. Ætna Life Ins. Co. (C. C. A. 1913) 206 Fed. 885, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 424.

Where the act of bankruptcy alleged is the giving of an unlawful preference to a particular creditor, or the obtaining by that creditor of a preference through legal proceedings, such creditor may intervene, be made a defendant, and plead to the petition. Goldman v. Smith (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 182, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266; In re Heusted (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 6,440; In re Donnelly (D. C. 1881) 5 Fed. 783. A creditor who holds property of the alleged bankrupt under an attachment, the lien of which would be dissolved by an adjudication, may intervene and oppose the petition. In re C. Moench & Sons Co. (D. C. 1903)

123 Fed. 977, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 590; In re Williams (D. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 132, Fed. Cas. No. 17,706; In re Hatje (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 6,-215; In re Mendelsohn (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 9,420; In re Scrafford (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 12,557; In re Burton (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 2,214. So may a judgment creditor who would be injuriously affected by the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Jack (C. C. 1873) 13 N. B. R. 296, Fed. Cas. No. 7,119. And a receiver of the corporation defendant who is in possession of its property and conducting its business under the orders of the court which appointed him. In re Hudson River Electric Power Co. (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 934, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 191; In re Gold Run Mining & Tunnel Co. (D. C. 1912) 200 Fed. 162, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 563; Blackstone v. Everybody's Store (C. C. A. 1913) 207 Fed. 752, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 497. But stockholders of a corporation, as such, cannot ordinarily appear and defend involuntary proceedings against the corporation. In re Eureka Anthracite Coal Co. (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 216, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 758. And an assumption that the corporation is not insolvent and that there will be a surplus does not make a stockholder a proper party to the bankruptcy proceeding. In re Witherbee (C. C. A. 1913) 202 Fed. 896, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 314.

As to the grounds of opposition open to creditors thus coming in, it may be said that any defense which would be available to the debtor himself may be pleaded and proved by the interveners. Thus, they may contest the allegations concerning the commission of an act of bankruptcy, or show that the respondent is not within the operation of the statute, or allege a want of jurisdiction or a defect in the number and amount of the petitioning creditors. Clinton v. Mayo (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 39, Fed. Cas. No. 2,899; In re Williams (D. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 132, Fed. Cas. No. 17,-706. And in addition, they may allege and show that the proceeding is not instituted in good faith, but is the product of fraud and collusion between the debtor and the petitioning creditors. In re Jack (C. C. 1873) 13 N. B. R. 296, Fed. Cas. No. 7,119; In re Mendelsohn (D. C. 1875) 3 Sawy. 342, 12 N. B. R. 533, Fed. Cas. No. 9,-420; In re Scrafford (D. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 184, Fed. Cas. No. 12,557; In re Hatje (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 548, Fed. Cas. No. 6,215. A creditor at large may suggest suspicious circumstances, upon which the court will direct an inquiry to ascertain whether the petition is not collusively and fraudulently prosecuted. In re Hopkins (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 396, Fed. Cas. No. 6,684.

24. Answer and other pleadings. The terms of this section, as well the general orders in bankruptcy (se tion 9614, post), intend that there sh be a formal answer by the responde not only signed by him, but verified oath. Day v. Beck & Gregg Ha ware Co. (1902) 114 Fed. 834, 52 C. A. 468, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1 When a petition in bankruptcy s forth the necessary jurisdictional fac and is in conformity with the statu an adjudication must follow, unless answer is interposed. In re Cohn C. 1915) 220 Fed. 956. Where an voluntary bankruptcy petition is ve fied on information and belief, the titioners are not entitled to have better verification of the answer. La awanna Leather Co. v. La Porte C riage Co. (C. C. A. 1914) 211 F. 3 The answer of the defendant sho conform to the general rules of ple ing applicable in actions at law. re Findlay (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. 4,789.

An answer to a petition in involu tary bankruptcy should follow the si ple form of denial prescribed by fo No. 6 (post, § 9614). If responsive multifarious matter in the petition, unnecessarily defensive, it must be p pared in proper form and refiled as the original date, the original answ however, remaining on file. Mather Coe (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 333, 1 A Bankr. Rep. 504. An answer is sufficient or objectionable which is necessarily prolix, or which neit admits nor unevasively denies the ma rial allegations of the petition. Br ley Timber Co. v. White (1903) Fed. 779, 58 C. C. A. 55, 10 Am. Ban Rep. 329.

It is necessary for the defendant his answer to deny explicitly the legation as to his insolvency, wh that is an essential element of the of bankruptcy charged, and if not nied, the allegation will be taken as mitted. In re American Pub. (1905) 15 Okl. 177, 79 Pac. 7 Where the act of bankruptcy char in the petition was the giving o preference while insolvent, a denial the answer that the defendant comm ted such act of bankruptcy must construed as a denial of insolvency, least where it has been so accepted the petitioners and evidence taken the issue. Troy Wagon Works v. Va binder (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 232, Am. Bankr. Rep. 352. A simple de of insolvency in the language of official form is ordinarily sufficient. re Ouimette (D. C. 1870) Fed. C No. 10,622. But see Bray v. Cobb C. 1898) 91 Fed. 102, 1 Am. Ban Rep. 153. If insolvency is not an ment of the act of bankruptcy char the allegation of it in the petition superfluous and need not be travers George M. West Co. v. Lea (1899) he petition sets forth the debts al- to be due by the defendant, the er may contain detailed averments efenses and counterclaims to such , showing the solvency of the re- lent at the time alleged. In re (D. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 538, 3 Am. r. Rep. 679. The defendant may his insolvency and his willing- to be adjudged a bankrupt, and at case it is not necessary to sub- iate the various allegations of the on, but an adjudication may be at once. In re Cleary (D. C. 179 Fed. 990, 24 Am. Bankr. 742; Brinkley v. Smithwick (D. 03) 126 Fed. 686, 11 Am. Bankr. 500. Where the answer admitted the bankrupt owed debts which he unable to pay, and that he had ferred his property for cash, and pplied the proceeds in payment of of his debts, such answer was to constitute an admission that he prefered some of his creditors others, which constituted an act nkruptcy. Brinkley v. Smithwick, .

. 590, 19 Sup. Ct. 836, 43 L. Ed.

e respondent may plead that he is pt from the operation of the bank- y law, as being within one of the ted classes. In re Taylor (C. C. 00) 102 Fed. 728, 4 Am. Bankr. 515. He may allege that the pe- is not supported by the requisite er of creditors, or that they have rovable claims amounting to the red sum. In re John A. Etheridge iture Co. (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 112. The n list of creditors required to ac- any the answer, in case exception ken to the sufficiency of the num- of petitioning creditors, should in a statement of the amount due ch creditor appearing on it, the of the debt, when it is due, wheth- is due by note or account or some form of contract, the considera- therefor, whether it is owed joint- ith another as partner or other- and such full particulars as will the necessity and cost of referring ase to ascertain the facts. W. A. & Co. v. Bell (D. C. 1903) 124 371, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 696.

e defendant may plead such facts ill show that the creditors acting st him are equitably estopped to cute the petition. Cummins Gro- Co. v. Talley (1911) 187 Fed. 507, C. C. A. 273, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. The answer of opposing cred- in involuntary bankruptcy for en admission of inability to pay set up that the proceedings are result of fraud and collusion be- n the debtor and petitioning cred- In re Cohn (C. C. A. 1915) 227 843. In involuntary bankruptcy eeding, answer alleging that pro- ngs were collusive, to defraud tors, and would be withdrawn, and that the bankrupts, while insolvent, had bought largely of new stock, held not to warrant denial of adjudication. In re Cohn (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 956.

Distinct defenses to a petition in involuntary bankruptcy should be separately pleaded. In re Ouimette (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 10,622.

Where the allegations in a proposed answer which stockholders of a corporation, defendant in bankruptcy, sought leave to file, were not specific enough in charging fraud against the directors, motion to make more specific would have been proper. Ogden v. Gilt Edge Consol. Mines Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 225 Fed. 723.

A debtor who contests a proceeding in involuntary bankruptcy against him, does so in his own behalf and not in the interest of his creditors, and he is at liberty to withdraw his opposition at any time, when done in good faith, without notice to his creditors or their consent. In re Billing (D. C. 1906) 145 Fed. 395, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 80.

25. —— Demurrer.—In view of new equity rule 29 (ante, § 1536), abolishing demurrers, a demurrer will not lie to a petition in involuntary bankruptcy. In re Jones (D. C. 1913) 209 Fed. 717. Previously, it was held that the respondent might both demur and answer, where each pleading applied to only part of the petition, but if both demurrer and answer attacked the petition as a whole, the demurrer would be regarded as waived. In re Cooper Bros. (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 956, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 392. But the sufficiency of the petition could not be tested by demurrer in a collateral matter, such as an application for an injunction to restrain the defendant from disposing of his property pending the hearing. Blackburn v. Stannard (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 1,468. Petitioning creditors could not demur to the defendant's answer, but must set the case down for hearing on the petition and answer according to the rules of equity practice. Goldman v. Smith (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 182, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266. Demurrer was not the proper method of denying the substantive allegations of the petition, such as those with regard to the business or occupation of the defendant or the commission of acts of bankruptcy. In re Excelsior Café Co. (D. C. 1910) 175 Fed. 294, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 701; Orem v. Harley (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 263, Fed. Cas. No. 10,567. Where, after the trial and dismissal of a petition, other creditors file a petition asking leave to revive and prosecute the petition, the proper method of objecting is not by demurrer, but by motion to strike from the files. Neustadter v. Chicago Dry Goods Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 830, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 96.

26. —— Replication.—If the defendant answers in the form officially prescribed, no replication on the part of the petitioning creditors is necessary, since it is in effect a plea of the general issue. In re Dunham (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 4,143. But if the answer alleges new matter, there must be a replication, and if none is filed, and the case is submitted on the petition and answer, the allegations of the answer must be taken as true. Brinkley v. Smithwick (D. C. 1903) 126 Fed. 686, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 500; In re Taylor (C. C. A. 1900) 102 Fed. 728, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 515.

27. —— Time for pleading.—The defendant's answer or plea must be filed within five days after the return day, or within such further time as the court may allow. Amendment to Bankruptcy Act by Act Feb. 5, 1903, 32 Stat. 797. It is held that this authorizes the judge to receive and consider a meritorious pleading, though filed after the five days, if it is interposed in good faith and not merely for purposes of delay. In re Cooper Bros. (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 956, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 392. But the time to plead cannot be extended by an agreement of counsel, without leave of the court and without the consent of the other creditors, especially in a case where, the allegations of the petition being simple and easily answered, the court would not have extended the time if applied to for that purpose. In re Simonson (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 904, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 197. If an amended petition is filed, the defendant must be allowed a reasonable time to answer it; and if it charges him with new acts of fraud and bankruptcy, a single day is not a reasonable time, at least where the defendant is not in the district. Lockman v. Lang (1904) 132 Fed. 1, 65 C. C. A. 621, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 497.

Formal amendments to an answer filed by a creditor to a petition in involuntary bankruptcy may be allowed at any time before adjudication. In re Harris (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 216, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 204.

28. Defenses and grounds of opposition.—Want of jurisdiction is a complete defense to a petition in bankruptcy, and jurisdiction cannot be conferred by the consent of the parties or their failure to object, if the want of it appears on the face of the pleadings. Hopkins v. Carpenter (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 339, Fed. Cas. No. 6,686; Fogarty v. Gerrity (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 450, Fed. Cas. No. 4,895; In re Lady Bryan Min. Co. (C. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 394, Fed. Cas. No. 7,978. But compare Allen v. Thompson (D. C. 1882) 10 Fed. 116. The respondent may allege and show that the person bringing the petition is not a creditor, and so have the petition dismissed. In re Cornwall (C. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 3,250. Or if the petitioner is a creditor, the defendant may show that his debt is not such as to be provable in bankruptcy. Sigsby v. Willis (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 12,849. Or he may defend on the ground that the petitioning credito do not own debts sufficient in amount entitle them to maintain the petitio In re Ouimette (D. C. 1870) Fed. Ca No. 10,622; In re Skelley (D. C. 187 Fed. Cas. No. 12,921. Or he may sho that he is a farmer or a wage-earne or, if a corporation, that it is with the exempt classes. In re Tayl (1900) 102 Fed. 728, 42 C. C. A. 1, Am. Bankr. Rep. 515. An involunta bankruptcy proceeding is not void b cause facts show that the petitione are estopped from taking advantage the act of bankruptcy relied on. In Bolognesi (1915) 223 Fed. 771, 139 C. A. 351.

If the act of bankruptcy charged a fraudulent conveyance or concealme of property, it is a complete defen that the respondent is solvent at t time of the filing of the petitio George M. West Co. v. Lea (1899) 1 U. S. 590, 19 Sup. Ct. 836, 43 L. E 1098. But solvency is no defense to petition charging the fifth act of ban ruptcy. In re Russell Wheel & Fou dry Co. (D. C. 1915) 222 Fed. 569.

The personal disability of the defen ant may constitute an available defens as in case of insanity, infancy, or cove ture. In re Kehler (D. C. 1907) 1 Fed. 235, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 596; re Ward (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 755, Am. Bankr. Rep. 482.

An adjudication of bankruptcy du entered on the voluntary petition of t debtor, being personally within the j risdiction of the court, the petition b ing signed and verified by the ban rupt in person, will not be set aside motion of a creditor because the atto ney who appeared for the bankrupt h not been admitted to practice in t federal courts of the district, as su an irregularity does not affect the j risdiction of the court. In re Kin (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 867, 3 Am. Bank Rep. 546.

Under no circumstances can a pl of tender be a defense to a petition involuntary bankruptcy. In re Ou mette (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 1 622; In re Williams (D. C. 1869) Fe Cas. No. 17,703. But payments ma to petitioning creditors, after the filin of the petition and before trial or hea ing thereon, are material facts on su trial, and if such payments are show to an amount sufficient to reduce t indebtedness of the alleged bankru below the minimum prescribed by t act, the court loses jurisdiction to a judge the debtor a bankrupt; and t receipt of such payments by the pe tioning creditors must be considered waiver of the alleged act of bankrupto In re Skelley (D. C. 1871) Fed. Ca No. 12,921; In re Merkle (D. C. 187 Fed. Cas. No. 9,458. And where t only debt on which an adjudication m be entered is that of the petitioner, t bankrupt may have the petition dismis ed on its payment with costs. In ere the essential facts alleged in nkruptcy petition were admitted, s no answer to the creditors' right adjudication that after the peti- was filed foreclosure on the bank- s property was begun, and that alue of the property was less than lien. Vulcan Sheet Metal Co. v. h Platte Valley Irr. Co. (C. C. 915) 220 Fed. 106.

han (D. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 353, Cas. No. 12,738.

is not a defense to a petition in ruptcy that an insolvent corpora- after admitting its inability to its debts and its willingness to be iged a bankrupt, requested certain creditors to file an involuntary pe- against it. In re Duplex Radia- Co. (D. C. 1906) 142 Fed. 906, 15 Bankr. Rep. 324. An agreement vithdraw opposition to bankruptcy eedings, and to consent and sub- to an adjudication, is not in fraud e act. Sanford v. Huxford (1875) lich. 313, 20 Am. Rep. 647; First Bank v. Wyoming Valley Ice Co. C. 1905) 136 Fed. 466, 14 Am. r. Rep. 448. It is not a defense bankruptcy proceeding against a nership, on petition of one of its bers, that the firm is without as- having transferred all its property assignee for the benefit of credi- more than four months before the of the petition. In re J. M. Ce- s & Co. (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 445, m. Bankr. Rep. 459.

editors of alleged bankrupts held entitled to oppose adjudication on nds that bankrupts were solvent, preparing to conceal their assets, at false claims would be presented. e Cohn (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 956.

— Malicious or vexatious mo- of creditors.—In some cases under act of 1867 it was thought that, if court is satisfied that the petition ankruptcy is not presented in good , but for sinister, vexatious, or op- sive purposes, it has power to dis- the proceedings, as where one ber of a firm takes this method of ng and harassing his partner. In Hamlin (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 4. But other cases stand upon the t rule that if an act of bankruptcy nown to have been committed, and jurisdictional requisites are present, adjudication must follow as a mat- of course, and the reasons or mo- which may have instigated the eeding are entirely immaterial. In imonson (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 904, n. Bankr. Rep. 197; In re Bininger C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 1,420; In Duncan (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 1.

here there is ground to doubt the faith of the petitioning creditors, o suspect that they are speculating laims against the bankrupt with the ectation of realizing more by means proceedings in bankruptcy than un- a receivership managed by a state court, the court should be slow to lend its aid, and is justified in resolving all doubtful questions both of fact and law against the petitioners. Lowenstein v. Henry McShane Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 1007, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 601.

Proceedings to put a debtor into bankruptcy should never be resorted to as proceedings in terrorem to collect a debt; and if such action is taken by the creditor maliciously and without probable cause, and the petition is dismissed, the debtor is entitled to recover, in an action for that purpose, the damages he has sustained by the unlawful attempt to throw him into bankruptcy. Sonneborn v. Stewart (C. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 13,176.

30. Burden of proof and evidence.—The creditors filing a petition in involuntary bankruptcy are charged with the burden of proving all the facts necessary to warrant an adjudication, in so far as the same are contested or not admitted by the alleged bankrupt, not beyond a reasonable doubt, but by a fair preponderance of the evidence. In re Rome Planing Mill (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 812, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 123; In re Rogers Milling Co. (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 687, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 540; In re Oregon Bulletin Printing & Pub. Co. (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 503, Fed. Cas. No. 10,559; In re Scudder (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 12,563; Brock v. Hoppock (D. C. 1873) 2 N. B. R. 7, Fed. Cas. No. 1,912. Compare In re Price (D. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 514, Fed. Cas. No. 11,411. They must show the jurisdictional facts as to the debtor's residence or maintaining his principal place of business within the district for the requisite length of time, although, in the case of a voluntary petition, if the facts are ambiguous, it is the petitioner who must satisfy the court on this point. In re Waxelbaum (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 562, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 267. Where an involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed in New York against a Missouri corporation organized under Rev. St. Mo. 1909, § 3035, the burden was on petitioning creditors to prove that the corporation's principal place of business was in New York. Evidence that certain of the officers of a Missouri corporation lived in New York, that they held two directors' meetings there, and that certain letters written by its officers were "headed" there, did not show that its principal place of business was in New York so as to confer bankruptcy jurisdiction on the federal courts sitting in that state. In re Tennessee Const. Co. (1914) 213 Fed. 33, 129 C. C. A. 627, affirming decree (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 203.

If the answer filed on behalf of the bankrupt by his guardian or committee alleges his insanity at the time the alleged act of bankruptcy was committed, the burden is on the petitioning creditors to show that the act was done during a lucid interval. In re Kehler (1908) 159 Fed. 55, 86 C. C. A. 245, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 513. They must also prove affirmatively, by a preponderance of evidence, that the person or corporation proceeded against is not within one of the classes specifically exempted from the operation of the bankruptcy act. Walker Roofing & Heating Co. v. Merchant & Evans Co. (1909) 173 Fed. 771, 97 C. C. A. 495, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 185; In re Hudson River Electric Power Co. (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 934, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 191; Philpot v. O'Brion (1903) 126 Fed. 167, 61 C. C. A. 111, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 205; In re Pilger (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 206, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 244; In re Lake Jackson Sugar Co. (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 640; U. S. v. Freed (C. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 236, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 89; In re Leland (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 830, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 209; American Agricultural Chemical Co. v. Brinkley (C. C. A. 1912) 194 Fed. 411, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 438; Counts v. Columbus Buggy Co. (C. C. A. 1913) 210 Fed. 748. Likewise the burden is on them, if the point is disputed, to show that they have provable claims against the defendant, and that the same are sufficient in amount to support the petition. In re Crafts-Riordon Shoe Co. (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 931, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 449; In re Morgan & Williams (D. C. 1911) 184 Fed. 938, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 861; In re Borelli & Callahan (D. C. 1906) 142 Fed. 296, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 115; In re Ferguson (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 407, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 371; In re Lewis F. Perry & Whitney Co. (D. C. 1909) 172 Fed. 745, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 772; Ex parte Foster (C. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 4,959. If the debtor admits the existence of his promissory note in the hands of a creditor, but alleges that it is invalid because given in a gambling transaction, he must assume the burden of proving his contention. Hill v. Levy (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 94, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 374.

If the proceeding is against persons alleged to constitute a partnership, the burden of proving the partnership is on the creditors. Jones v. Burnham, Williams & Co. (1905) 138 Fed. 986, 71 C. C. A. 240, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 85; Lott v. Young (1901) 109 Fed. 798, 48 C. C. A. 654, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 436. In bankruptcy proceedings against a firm, the bankruptcy court has jurisdiction to inquire and determine whether an alleged secret partner is or is not a member of the firm, and, if he is, whether he is solvent. In re Samuels (C. C. A. 1914) 215 Fed. 845. In bankruptcy proceedings against a partnership, the court had no concern with an alleged issue of fraud by which a partner had been induced to enter the firm. In re Mitchell & Co. (D. C. 1914) 211 Fed. 778.

The creditors must also assume the burden of proving the commission of act of bankruptcy. This is absolut essential, and there can be no adjudi tion until the fact is satisfactorily pr ed or admitted. In re Rome Plani Mill (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 812, 3 A Bankr. Rep. 123; In re Brown (D. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 416, Fed. Cas. 1,981; In re Safe-Deposit & Sav. In (D. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 392, Fed. C No. 12,211; Lennox v. Allen-Lane (1908) 167 Fed. 114, 92 C. C. A. 5 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 648; In re Bill (D. C. 1906) 145 Fed. 395, 17 A Bankr. Rep. 80; Jones v. Coates (191 196 Fed. 860, 116 C. C. A. 422, 28 A Bankr. Rep. 249. An answer of an leged bankrupt to an involuntary ba ruptcy petition admitting his insolve and praying that he be adjudged bankrupt for the protection of all creditors, that they might all be tre ed alike, held not in effect a volunt petition, so as to relieve the credit from the burden of proving an act bankruptcy. In re Condon (1913) Fed. 800, 126 C. C. A. 524, affirm judgment (D. C. 1912) 198 Fed. 9 But if two distinct matters are alle conjunctively, each of which constitu an act of bankruptcy sufficient to w rant an adjudication, it is enough if ther of them be satisfactorily prov In re Drummond (D. C. 1873) 1 N. R. 231, Fed. Cas. No. 4,093. creditors cannot travel outside th petition, and they will not be perm ted to adduce evidence of acts of ba ruptcy not therein alleged. In re Sy (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 13,7 Ex parte Potts (D. C. 1842) Fed. C No. 11,344; Ex parte Shouse (D. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 12,815.

Where a fraudulent transfer of pr erty is charged as an act of bankrupt great latitude in the admission of e dence should be allowed on the tr and all the circumstances fairly c nected with the transaction may shown. In re Luber (D. C. 1907) Fed. 492, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 476.

The declarations, admissions, and ters of the respondent may be admit as evidence against him. In re Ha (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 6,2 Where the only proof of an act bankruptcy given by the creditors i statement of the bankrupt, such sta ment must be accepted, in its entire as true, and if it admits a transact which would constitute an act of ba ruptcy if not explained, but also cludes an explanation, the latter as w as the former part of the statem must be taken as true. In re Frank (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 5,053. T bankrupt's own testimony may be c tradicted and impeached, but the unc roborated testimony of a single witn to a declaration stated to have b made by the bankrupt will not prev as against his positive denial suppor by other witnesses. In re Foster ( ere the act of bankruptcy alleged e appointment of a receiver be- of insolvency, the record of the which appointed the receiver is ssible to show the fact and the n. Blue Mountain Iron & Steel . Portner (1904) 131 Fed. 57, 65 A. 295, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559. the recitals of the record cannot ntradicted by evidence aliunde. In dward Ellsworth Co. (D. C. 1909) Fed. 699, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 284. e the decree of the court appoint- receiver is silent as to the rea- for the appointment, papers may onsulted or evidence aliunde pro- in involuntary bankruptcy pro- ngs to determine the reason for appointment. In re Muir (D. C. 212 Fed. 495. Evidence that in of a corporation's agents and ounsel procured a creditor to file for the appointment of receivers not to show that the corporation itted an act of bankruptcy by pro- g such appointment, in the absence idence that the agents and counsel authorized so to do by the direc- acting as a board or that their were ratified by the stockholders full knowledge. In re Wm. S. r & Co. (C. C. A. 1913) 207 Fed.

903) 126 Fed. 1014, 11 Am. Bankr. 131.

ere a bill for the appointment of eiver, though nominally by a cred- was actually filed by the debtor, court in subsequent bankruptcy eedings against the debtor can look d the allegations of solvency con- in the bill and answer in order etermine whether the debtor was vent. In re Muir (D. C. 1914) 212 495. Where the act of bankrupt- eged is that because of insolvency eiver was put in charge of the r's property, the issue is not di- that of insolvency, but whether receiver was appointed on that d. In re Maplecroft Mills (D. C. 218 Fed. 659.

ere a bankrupt intended to make, n fact executed, a general assign- for the benefit of creditors in the form, and the assignee, by send- notice of a meeting of creditors, g that the assignment had been to him, and by other acts, ac- ledged and ratified his appoint- thereunder, such facts were suf- t to establish a general assignment creditors, constituting an act of ruptcy, though the original assign- was lost, and the evidence failed now with certainty the form in it was signed. Griffin v. Dutton 3) 165 Fed. 626, 91 C. C. A. 614, m. Bankr. Rep. 449.

transfer, removal, or concealment operty, in order to constitute an f bankruptcy, must have been ef- d "with intent" to hinder or de- creditors, or "with intent" to a preference, as the case may be. To make out a case for adjudication, therefore, it is necessary for the petitioning creditors to show not only the fact of transfer, concealment, etc., but also the intent of the debtor with reference to defrauding creditors or giving a preference. Cribben & Sexton Co. v. North End House Furnishing Co. (1915) 222 Fed. 830, 138 C. C. A. 256; Clark v. Henne & Meyer (1904) 127 Fed. 288, 62 C. C. A. 172, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 583; Cunningham v. Cady (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 525, Fed. Cas. No. 3,480; In re King (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 103, Fed. Cas. No. 7,783. This need not be, and ordinarily cannot be, established by direct testimony. But his conduct, actions, financial situation, and the method of dealing adopted by him on a particular occasion may be shown, and such an intent inferred therefrom, provided a careful examination of all the details warrants such an inference. Strauss v. Abrahams (C. C. 1887) 32 Fed. 310. Where the actual and necessary result of a payment or transfer of property is to give a preference to a particular creditor, a showing of this fact raises a presumption that a preference was intended by the debtor and casts upon him the burden of exculpating himself. In re Rome Planing Mill Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 812, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 123; In re Bloch (1901) 109 Fed. 790, 48 C. C. A. 650, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 300; In re Gilbert (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 951, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101.

Where the actual and necessary result of a conveyance or mortgage is to hinder or delay creditors or to put property out of their reach, a fraudulent intent on the part of the debtor will be presumed, and he must assume the burden of proving his good faith. Lansing Boiler & Engine Works v. Joseph T. Ryerson & Son (1904) 128 Fed. 701, 63 C. C. A. 253, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 558. This presumption is rebuttable by the defendant, and he may introduce evidence explaining the transaction and negativing the alleged fraudulent intention. Lansing Boiler & Engine Works v. Joseph T. Ryerson & Son (1904) 128 Fed. 701, 63 C. C. A. 253, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 558; Ex parte Potts (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 11,344. This may be done by showing that he was ignorant of his insolvency, and that his affairs were in such condition that he could reasonably expect to pay all his debts in full. In re Rome Planing Mill (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 812, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 123; In re Pangborn (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 673, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 40; In re Bloch (1901) 109 Fed. 790, 48 C. C. A. 650, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 300; Wager v. Hall (1872) 16 Wall. 584, 21 L. Ed. 504; Toof v. Martin (1871) 13 Wall. 40, 20 L. Ed. 481; Macon Grocery Co. v. Beach (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 1009, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 558.

Where an involuntary bankruptcy petition is based on an alleged preferential transfer within section 9587, ante, the burden of proving insolvency is on the petitioning creditors, provided the bankrupt appears and produces his books. In re Electron Chemical Co. (D. C. 1913) 208 Fed. 954.

The presumption of a fraudulent or preferential intention is not of great strength where the transfer involved a comparatively small part of the debtor's property. In re Gilbert (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 951, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101. Although the debtor was certainly insolvent, the fact that he paid a sum of less than three dollars in settlement of a current store bill in the usual course of such dealings, where his total indebtedness amounted to thirteen thousand dollars, cannot raise a presumption of an intent to give a preference, as against his own testimony that the payment was not made with any such intention. Macon Grocery Co. v. Beach (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 1009, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 558.

A court of bankruptcy as a court of equity has power to appoint a special master to take evidence, and these special masters may be standing masters in chancery, or appointed pro hac vice in particular cases. U. S. v. Coyle (D. C. 1916) 229 Fed. 256.

31. Discontinuance and dismissal of proceedings.—It is the duty of the court to dismiss the proceedings when it appears that there is a want of jurisdiction over the person of the defendant. In re Waxelbaum (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 589, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 392. See In re Tully (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 634, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 604. Or a want of sufficient petitioning creditors. Cummins Grocer Co. v. Talley (1911) 187 Fed. 507, 109 C. C. A. 273, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 484; In re Tribelhorn (1905) 137 Fed. 3, 69 C. C. A. 601, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 491. Or where, the case being submitted on the petition and answer, and the averments of the answer being therefore taken as true, it sufficiently negatives the commission of an act of bankruptcy. In re Doddy Jourdan & Co. (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 771, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 344.

If, after the institution of involuntary proceedings, the debtor files his own voluntary petition, and all the creditors, including the first petitioners, come in and prove their claims, under the last petition, this must be taken as a waiver of the involuntary petition, and it should be dismissed. In re Nounnan & Orr (1871) 1 Utah, 44. But see In re Waxelbaum (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 589, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 392. Where an alleged bankrupt resists an involuntary proceeding, a judgment of dismissal is not res judicata nor a bar to a subsequent voluntary proceeding. It is only where creditors, through a bankrupt's trustee, might not be able to recover property and avoid preferences, that the court will suspend proceedings under a voluntary petition, or set them aside in order that a pending involu tary proceeding may be expedited. re Lachenmaier (1913) 203 Fed. 121 C. C. A. 368, 29 Am. Bankr. R 325.

It is in the discretion of the cou though perhaps not its imperative du to dismiss a petition in voluntary ban ruptcy which schedules no debts whi would be barred by a discharge. In Shepardson (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 18 In re Colaluca (D. C. 1904) 133 F 255, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 292. where the petitioner's only purpose to try again for a discharge from t same debts which were listed in pre ous proceedings, wherein he failed apply for a discharge or in which a d charge was denied. Kuntz v. You (1904) 131 Fed. 719, 65 C. C. A. 4 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 505; In re El (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 935, 19 A Bankr. Rep. 734. But it is not grou for dismissing a petition in involunt bankruptcy that the petitioning cr itor, since filing the petition, has gun a suit at law against the ban rupt and prosecuted it to judgme Van Kleeck v. Thurber (D. C. 184 Fed. Cas. No. 16,861.

It is in the discretion of the court dismiss a petition in involuntary ban ruptcy for want of prosecution. In Levi & Klauber (1905) 142 Fed. 9 74 C. C. A. 132, 15 Am. Bankr. R 294; In re Camden Rolling Mill (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 590, Fed. C No. 2,338.

A voluntary bankruptcy proceedi may not be dismissed on motion of t bankrupt after adjudication by conse of all parties. In re McKee (D. 1914) 214 Fed. 885.

The mere fact that a corporation judged a bankrupt may be able to p its creditors in full is not ground dismissing the proceedings, although attempt has been made by one credit to use the bankruptcy court in an i proper way. In re Jamaica Slate Ro ing & Supply Co. (D. C. 1912) 1 Fed. 240, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 763.

Where an alleged bankrupt resists involuntary proceeding, a judgment dismissal is not res judicata, nor a b to a subsequent voluntary proceedi In re Lachenmaier (1913) 203 Fed. 121 C. C. A. 368.

32. —— By consent or agreement parties.—A petition may be dismis upon the consent or agreement of parties concerned, but the court m be a party to the agreement, and discontinuance by consent can only obtained upon an order of the co upon a special application. In re chanan (C. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. Fed. Cas. No. 2,073. A bankrup court will not set aside a stipulati discontinuing the bankruptcy proce ings given upon a release procured fraud, until relief is sought in a co having jurisdiction to set aside the lease for fraud or to award damag Bieler (D. C. 1873) 7 N. B. R. Fed. Cas. No. 1,394. Where proings before the referee on an intary petition warrant an inference the failure of petitioners to proany proof may be pursuant to an ment amounting to "consent of es" to a dismissal, the question d be investigated by the referee. Chalfen (D. C. 1915) 223 Fed. Application for leave to discon- or dismiss by consent of parties be made before an adjudication assed; after that, it is too late to with the debtor and drop the proings. In re Sherburne (D. C. 1 N. B. R. 558, Fed. Cas. No. 3.

oluntary petitioner in bankruptcy be permitted to withdraw his peti- f there are no creditors who have d their claims or who object to course. In re Hebbart (D. C. 104 Fed. 322, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. But he cannot have the petition ssed against the objection and pro- of any creditor. In re Smith (D. 07) 155 Fed. 688, 19 Am. Bankr. 63. In involuntary proceedings, etition may be dismissed when the upt desires it and all the creditors onsent. In re Miller (D. C. 1868) B. R. 410, Fed. Cas. No. 9,553; ard v. Abel (C. C. A. 1907) 156 649, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 383. petitioner, praying that his debt- adjudged a bankrupt, may, in the tion of the court, withdraw from roceeding. In re Bolognesi (1915) Fed. 771, 139 C. C. A. 351. But or more of the petitioning cred- insists upon an adjudication being or an intervening creditor pro- and shows cause against a dis- l, it cannot be ordered if the statu- grounds for an adjudication ex- d no fraud, mistake, or oppres- is shown. In re Cronin (D. C. 98 Fed. 584, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. In re Lewis (D. C. 1904) 129 147, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 683; In ndenhall (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. Fed. Cas. No. 9,424. If a trustee nkruptcy has been appointed, he appear and oppose an application smissal. In re Pennsylvania Con- oal Co. (1908) 163 Fed. 579, 20 Bankr. Rep. 872. But where a upt moved to dismiss the invol- proceedings against him, and the required notice to all his ors, and all but one freely as- to a dismissal, held, that the n should be dismissed. In re blatt & Co. (1912) 193 Fed. 638, . Bankr. Rep. 401.

— Notice to creditors.—Notice ditors of an application to dismiss ition in bankruptcy for want of cution or by consent of parties, uired by Bankruptcy Act, § 59g § 9643), is indispensable, and smissal of the proceedings with- ving such notice is erroneous and reversible, if not absolutely void. In re Plymouth Cordage Co. (1905) 135 Fed. 1000, 68 C. C. A. 434, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 665; In re Black Diamond Copper Min. Co. (1906) 10 Ariz. 42, 85 Pac. 653. Prior to the amendment of 1910, it was held that no such notice was necessary where no list of creditors had been filed and no creditors other than the petitioners had intervened or appeared in any way in the proceedings, since, in such a case the court would have no means of knowing whether there were any other creditors or their names or addresses, and therefore could not give them notice. In re Levi & Klauber (1905) 142 Fed. 962, 74 C. C. A. 132, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 294; In re Jemison Mercantile Co. (1902) 112 Fed. 966, 50 C. C. A. 641, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 588.

These provisions relate only to dismissals which withdraw the case without its having been submitted to the court for decision on the merits, and not to dismissals which follow as the result of a trial or hearing on the merits. Neustadter v. Chicago Dry Goods Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 830, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 96.

Orders by a court of bankruptcy in proceedings against a bankrupt corporation, directing that, on payment into court by a stranger to the proceedings of a stated sum, to be used in payment of the then proved claims of unsecured creditors, the proceedings should stand dismissed, made without notice to the bankrupt or its creditors, held without authority. Luxury Fruit Co. v. Harris (1914) 217 Fed. 740, 133 C. C. A. 434.

34. — Reinstatement after dismissal.—A petition which has been erroneously or improvidently dismissed may be reinstated and the proceedings resumed, but only when proper notice has been given to the defendant or he has appeared. Gage v. Gates (1876) 62 Mo. 412. But not where creditors have shown an unreasonable dilatoriness in applying for such reinstatement. In re Jemison Mercantile Co. (1902) 112 Fed. 966, 50 C. C. A. 641, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 588. Nor where the dismissal of the proceeding was ordered after a trial or hearing on the merits. Neustadter v. Chicago Dry Goods Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 830, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 96.

35. Trial or hearing.—If disputed questions of fact arise on a petition in bankruptcy, the judge may refer them to a special master or to a referee in bankruptcy to ascertain and report the facts. W. A. Gage & Co. v. Bell (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 371, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 696. Where an answer of the alleged bankrupt and a further answer of an objecting creditor only raised one issue, the petitioning creditors were not relieved from appearing before a master for trial because the order of reference only submitted the issue formed by the petition and the "answer" thereto. Lackawanna Leather Co. v. La Porte Carriage Co. (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 318. A court of bankruptcy is within new equity rule 62 (ante, § 1536), relating to the powers of a master, and providing that he shall have full authority to examine the parties to the cause on oath touching all matters contained in the reference, and to examine all witnesses produced by the parties before him. In re Automatic Musical Co. (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 334. The report of the master or referee is entitled to the highest consideration, and, if responsive to the reference, will ordinarily be regarded as conclusive and not to be set aside at the mere discretion of the court. In re Murphy (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 392; In re Senoia Duck Mills (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 711; Philpot v. O'Brion (1903) 126 Fed. 167, 61 C. C. A. 111, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 205.

It is within the authority of the court of bankruptcy to grant continuances or adjournments under proper circumstances. In re Cohen (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 391, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 439; In re Pupke (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 11,468. And the want of an adjournment to a day certain, after issue joined as to the acts of bankruptcy alleged, does not terminate the proceedings. In re Buchanan (C. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 97, Fed. Cas. No. 2,073. The alleged bankrupt cannot have the case set down for hearing on petition and answer. In re Fineman (D. C. 1915) 223 Fed. 652.

If the issues have been tried by a jury, the court has the same power over the verdict as a court of common law, and may set it aside and order a new trial for cause shown. In re De Forest (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 278, Fed. Cas. No. 3,745; Ex parte Corse (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 3,254. Or the court may award a new trial on the ground of error in its own instructions. In re Marks Bros. (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 448, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 830.

The court may order the consolidation of different petitions in bankruptcy filed by different creditors against the same debtor. In re McCracken & McLeod (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 621, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 95; Salt Lake Valley Canning Co. v. Collins (1910) 176 Fed. 91, 99 C. C. A. 611, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 716. But involuntary proceedings in bankruptcy against an individual cannot be changed, during their pendency and after testimony has been taken, by a mere order amending the title, so as to embrace also a proceeding against a partnership of which the original defendant is one member. In re Kaufman (1910) 176 Fed. 93, 99 C. C. A. 107, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 429.

Where a bankrupt against whom an involuntary petition is pending files a voluntary petition, notice should be given to the creditors filing the involuntary petition before any action on the voluntary one, and such action should then be taken with respect to the two petitions as appears to be for the best interest of the estate. Thus, it would not be proper to make an adjudication on the voluntary petition and dismiss the other, where the result would be to prevent the successful impeachment of certain conveyances alleged to be preferential. In re Dwyer (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 777, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 532.

A court of bankruptcy also has power to make proper orders respecting the pleadings. Young & Holland Co. v. Brandle Bros. (1908) 162 Fed. 663, 89 C. C. A. 455, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 612. But the rule is that if the petitioning creditors move for an adjudication on the petition and answer, they thereby admit the facts properly pleaded in the answer, in accordance with the general rules of equity practice, and the only question presented is as to the legal sufficiency of the answer; and if the motion is denied, the defendant is entitled to a final decree dismissing the petition. In re Cohn (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 956; In re Waugh (1904) 133 Fed. 281, 66 C. C. A. 659, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 187; In re Taylor (1900) 102 Fed. 728, 42 C. C. A. 1, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 515.

36. Adjudication.—If no pleadings have been filed on behalf of the bankrupt or any of his creditors, and the petition is sufficient on its face, it is the duty of the judge to make an adjudication of bankruptcy. In re Black Diamond Copper Min. Co. (1906) 10 Ariz. 42, 85 Pac. 653.

If an unreasonably long time elapses after the filing of the pleadings, without any attempt either on the part of the petitioning creditors or the court to bring the matter to a final determination, and more especially if creditors are allowed to take their own course, outside the bankruptcy proceedings, in regard to reorganizing the debtor's business and distributing his property, it may be concluded that the court of bankruptcy has lost its jurisdiction over the case, and a state court will be justified in entertaining and proceeding with an attachment suit of a single creditor. Acme Harvester Co. v. Beekman Lumber Co. (1911) 222 U. S. 300, 32 Sup. Ct. 96, 56 L. Ed. 208.

The entry of the order of court constitutes the adjudication; but a mere memorandum of the judge on the petition directing an order to be entered does not complete it. In re Hill (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 6,484.

37. —— Conclusiveness and effect.—The filing of a petition in bankruptcy is a caveat, and, on adjudication, the trustee takes the property as of the time of filing the petition. Ledgerwood v. Dashiell (Tex. Civ. App. 1915) 177 S. W. 1010. An adjudication of bankruptcy relates back to the date of the of the petition. In re Bear (D. 79) Fed. Cas. No. 1,177; Smith nkerhoff (1852) 6 N. Y. 305.

ecree of a federal district court in bankruptcy, upon a petition oluntary proceedings, whereby the is adjudged and declared a bank- is in the nature of a decree in ince it determines his legal status t respect, and is therefore notice, elf, to all creditors, and is con- e evidence that all the facts nec- to sustain the decree were prov- efore the court. Chapman v. er (1885) 114 U. S. 158, 5 Sup. 99, 29 L. Ed. 83; In re Billing C. 1906) 145 Fed. 395, 17 Am. . Rep. 80; Lewis v. Sloan (1873) C. 557; In re Wallace (D. C. 2 N. B. R. 134, Fed. Cas. No. 1; In re Banks (D. C. 1843) Fed. No. 958; In re Ordway (D. C. 19 N. B. R. 171, Fed. Cas. No. 2; Shawhan v. Wherritt (1849) w. 627, 12 L. Ed. 847; Morse v. ey (C. C. 1844) Fed. Cas. No. Rayl v. Lapham (1875) 27 Ohio 2; Thornton v. Hogan (1876) 63 43.

the creditors of a bankrupt are at constructively parties to the pro- g to have him so adjudged, and onclusively bound by the adjudica- at least in so far as it determines ct of his insolvency and his com- n of the act of bankruptcy charg- Cook v. Robinson (C. C. A. 1912) ed. 785, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 182; Broadway Savings Trust Co.) 152 Fed. 152, 81 C. C. A. 58, n. Bankr. Rep. 254; In re Billing C. 1906) 145 Fed. 395, 17 Am. . Rep. 80; Bear v. Chase (1900) ed. 920, 40 C. C. A. 182, 3 Am. . Rep. 746; In re American ng Co. (1902) 112 Fed. 752, 50 A. 517, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 463; us v. Eagen (D. C. 1912) 206 518, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 287; In ecox (1908) 164 Fed. 823, 90 C. 627, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 314; In lgin-Pace Contracting Co. (D. C. 224 Fed. 245.

insolvency of the debtor at the of making the conveyance or er of property alleged as an act nkruptcy is necessarily involved adjudication, and is conclusively ished by it when the question again arise at any stage of the edings, as, when it is sought to side the conveyance or recover the rence. In re V. & M. Lumber Co. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 231; In re ican Brewing Co. (1902) 112 Fed. 50 C. C. A. 517, 7 Am. Bankr. 463; Whitwell v. Wright (1910) App. Div. 246, 120 N. Y. Supp. De Graff v. Lang (1904) 92 App. 564, 87 N. Y. Supp. 78; Lazarus gen (D. C. 1912) 206 Fed. 518; vright v. West (Ala. 1913) 64 . 298. Bankruptcy adjudication h it may be res judicata, against attal mortgage creditor of the bankrupt, of the bankrupt's insolvency at the time he executed the mortgage does not determine the mortgagee's right to retain the security. Sheppard-Strassheim Co. v. Black (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 643.

If the validity of the claim of one of the petitioning creditors is put in issue by the bankrupt's answer and the issue is decided in favor of the creditor, the adjudication of bankruptcy is conclusive evidence upon that point, not only against the bankrupt and the trustee, but against all other creditors, since, under the statute, they might have become parties to the proceeding, and, failing to do so, are considered as represented by the bankrupt; so that, when the claim in question is filed for allowance before the referee, it cannot be again contested by any one. Ayres v. Cone (1905) 138 Fed. 778, 71 C. C. A. 144, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 739; In re Henry Ulfelder Clothing Co. (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 409, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 425; In re Fallon (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 277, Fed. Cas. No. 4,628. But if issue is taken on the question of insolvency or the commission of an act of bankruptcy, and no inquiry is made into the claims of the petitioning creditors the adjudication cannot be considered as conclusive on the question of the precise amount which the bankrupt owed to any one creditor or that he was indebted to any particular creditor in any sum. Cartwright v. West (1908) 155 Ala. 619, 47 South. 93. Where the defendant took issue on the question of his insolvency, and the petitioning creditors, for the purpose of proving insolvency, undertook to show the amount of existing indebtedness and offered in evidence certain promissory notes made by the debtor to third parties (who were not parties to the proceeding), and the debtor contested the validity and consideration of the notes, but the point was decided against him, and an adjudication was made, it was held that the adjudication was not conclusive as to the validity of the notes so as to prevent the bankrupt from opposing their allowance as claims against his estate. In re Henry Ulfelder Clothing Co. (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 409, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 425.

When the act of bankruptcy on which the petition was founded is made the basis of a subsequent suit by the trustee in bankruptcy (as, to set aside a fraudulent conveyance or recover a preference), the adjudication conclusively establishes the fact as against the bankrupt and all creditors. In re Hecox (C. C. A. 1908) 164 Fed. 823, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 314; Cook v. Robinson (C. C. A. 1912) 194 Fed. 785, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 182; Whitwell v. Wright (1909) 115 N. Y. Supp. 48; Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. (1903) 68 Neb. 624, 94 N. W. 822, 99 N. W. 675, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 164. But see Pepperdine v. Bank of Seymour (1903) 100 Mo. App. 387, 73 S. W. 890; John Silvey & Co. v. Tift (1905) 123 Ga. 804, 51 S. E. 748, 1 L. R. A. (N. S.) 386. Where involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were instituted on the ground that the bankrupt had made a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, the order of adjudication held not res judicata that the transfer was a general assignment. In re McCrum (1914) 214 Fed. 207, 130 C. C. A. 555. But if the petition charges different acts of bankruptcy, and the adjudication does not show upon which one of them it proceeded, it does not render either charge res judicata in the further proceedings. In re Julius Bros. (1914) 217 Fed. 3, 133 C. C. A. 328, L. R. A. 1915C, 89; In re Letson (1907) 157 Fed. 78, 84 C. C. A. 582, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 506.

An adjudication in a partnership case would ordinarily be conclusive as to the existence of the partnership and the identity of the persons composing it, but not, as against the trustee in bankruptcy of one of the persons included in the adjudication, who was not heard, although he filed a denial and answer. Manson v. Williams (1909) 213 U. S. 453, 29 Sup. Ct. 519, 53 L. Ed. 869, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 22, affirming (1907) 153 Fed. 525, 82 C. C. A. 475, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 674, which affirmed In re Hudson Clothing Co. (D. C. 1906) 148 Fed. 305, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 826. Order of bankruptcy court declaring copartnership a bankrupt held not an adjudication that the members were bankrupts. In re Hansley & Adams (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 564.

It is not only in contested cases that the conclusive effect of a judgment is to be attributed to an adjudication of bankruptcy. One entered on default for want of an answer is as binding on the bankrupt and the creditors as one entered upon a trial or hearing. In re American Brewing Co. (1902) 112 Fed. 752, 50 C. C. A. 517, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 463.

From the conclusive character of an adjudication in bankruptcy it follows necessarily that it cannot be attacked or impeached as to its validity in any collateral proceeding in the same or any other court. Graham v. Boston, H. & E. R. Co. (1886) 118 U. S. 161, 6 Sup. Ct. 1009, 30 L. Ed. 196; Michaels v. Post (1874) 21 Wall. 398, 22 L. Ed. 520; In re Dempster (C. C. A. 1909) 172 Fed. 353, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 751; Gilbertson v. U. S. (1909) 168 Fed. 672, 94 C. C. A. 158, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 32; In re New York Tunnel Co. (1908) 166 Fed. 284, 92 C. C. A. 202, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 531; In re Hintze (D. C. 1905) 134 Fed. 141, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 721; Huttig Mfg. Co. v. Edwards (1908) 160 Fed. 619, 87 C. C. A. 521, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 349; Graham v. Boston, H. & E. R. Co. (C. C. 1883) 14 Fed. 753; Sutton v. Mandeville (1804) Fed. Cas. No. 13,651; Cromwell v. Gallup (1879) Hun (N. Y.) 49; Mount v. Manha Co. (1886) 41 N. J. Eq. 211, 3 726; Slaughter v. Louisville & N Co. (1911) 125 Tenn. 292, 143 S. 603; Corbett v. Riddle (1913) 209 811, 126 C. C. A. 535; Sabin v. kin-Green Logging Co. (D. C. 1 218 Fed. 984.

A want of jurisdiction in the c of bankruptcy is such a fatal de as may be availed of in a collat proceeding. Stuart v. Aumiller (1 37 Iowa, 102; In re Goodfellow C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 5,536; I Davis (D. C. 1914) 217 Fed. 113. pecially in voluntary bankruptcy w the creditors may have no opportu to plead a want of jurisdiction be the adjudication is made. In re neau (1904) 127 Fed. 677, 62 C. C 403, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 679. B jurisdiction appears on the face of proceedings, or if there is nothin the face of the proceedings to dis an absence of jurisdiction, then the judication is not impeachable colla ally even on this ground. Sloan v. L (1874) 22 Wall. 150, 22 L. Ed. In re Billing (D. C. 1906) 145 395, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 80; U. Freed (C. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 236 Am. Bankr. Rep. 89; In re Ives (1879) 19 N. B. R. 97, Fed. Cas. 7,115. In re Sage (D. C. 1915) Fed. 525. Jurisdiction does not s depend upon the question whether defendant is one of the persons or porations subject to the act, or is empt, as to open the adjudication t tack on this ground. In re First Bank (1907) 152 Fed. 64, 81 C. C 260, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 265; I Columbia Real Estate Co. (D. C. 1 101 Fed. 965, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. And the same is true as to the ciency of the petitioning creditor number and amount. Roberts v. nald (1903) 72 N. H. 198, 55 Atl. Bail v. Hartman (1905) 9 Ariz. 32 Pac. 358; Larkin-Green Logging v. Sabin (1915) 222 Fed. 814, 13 C. A. 240. Even if it should be con ed that the question of jurisdictio always open, still this is not the where the bankrupt and all of his itors have recognized the validit the proceedings and have particip therein and sought the benefit the In re Worsham (1905) 142 Fed. 73 C. C. A. 665, 15 Am. Bankr. 672.

There are some decisions to the e that an adjudication in bankruptcy be impeached collaterally for frau its procurement or fraudulent collu between the debtor and the petitio creditors. In re Billing (D. C. 1 145 Fed. 395, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. Benedict v. Smith (1882) 48 Mich. 12 N. W. 866. But the better op is that these are matters of defens ground for vacating the adjudic irect proceeding for that purpose, ot for questioning its validity collly. Michaels v. Post (1874) 21 398, 22 L. Ed. 520; Bissell v. 1809) 4 Day (Conn.) 79.

adjudication cannot be assailed erally for mere errors of law or larities of practice, not going to risdiction of the court. In re (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 525; In tchell (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. Hobson v. Markson (C. C. 1843) Cas. No. 6,555; Edelstein v. U. 906) 149 Fed. 636, 79 C. C. A. 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 649; In re bia Real Estate Co. (D. C. 1900) ed. 965, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 411.

the entry of an adjudication of uptcy against a corporation on the day on which the petition against filed is not a mere irregularity; an act entirely void. The statute to creditors a substantial right to mitation of a time within which may come in and be heard, which is not derived through the bankand consequently cannot be waived n, nor can they be deprived of it by ct of his or by the court; and they may attack the validity of an adjudication collaterally in edings previously instituted by in another district. In re Elmira Co. (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 456, Bankr. Rep. 484.

adjudication in bankruptcy brings roperty of the bankrupt into the ly of the law and appropriates the payment of his debts, as efully as if it were taken on execuor attachment, subject to the ication, except as otherwise pro that the property is appropriatthe same condition and subject to ame equities as when in the posn of the bankrupt. In re Young (1907) 153 Fed. 98, 82 C. C. A. 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 572. The re of landlord and tenant is not ed by the tenant's adjudication in uptcy. Shapiro v. Thompson) 160 Ala. 363, 49 South. 391.

adjudication is also constructive to all persons, at least those the jurisdiction of the court, e transfer of title to the bank property, and they must take that the ownership of the bankhas ceased and that of his trusegun. Hough v. City of North s (1907) 196 Mass. 290, 82 N. 3. This applies to assessors of . Id.

adjudication does not create an l lien on the property in favor of rustee. In re Hager (D. C. 1909) Fed. 972; Marine Sav. Bank v. n (1910) 160 Mich. 614, 125 N. 54. But it operates as a caveat the world, and tacitly embodies junction against any interference any of the property by any perho has not a valid interest in it or lien upon it, so that intermeddling with the property by any such person amounts to a violation of the implied injunction and may be punished as a contempt of the court. Clay v. Waters (1910) 178 Fed. 385, 101 C. C. A. 645, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 293; In re Reynolds (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 760, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 758.

38. —— Effect on status of bankrupt corporation.—An adjudication in bankruptcy does not dissolve a corporation or terminate its existence. In re Russell Wheel & Foundry Co. (D. C. 1915) 222 Fed. 569; Morley v. Thayer (C. C. 1880) 3 Fed. 737; Holland v. Heyman (1878) 60 Ga. 174. CONTRA, State Savings Ass'n v. Kellogg (1873) 52 Mo. 583.

While a bankruptcy adjudication of a corporation remains in force, the corporation must be regarded as insolvent for all purposes of the bankruptcy administration, whatever the value of its assets or the amount of its liabilities. In re Witherbee (1913) 202 Fed. 896, 121 C. C. A. 254.

A decree adjudging a corporation bankrupt is in the nature of a decree in rem as respects the status of the corporation, and if the court rendering it had jurisdiction it can be assailed only by a direct proceeding in a competent court, unless it appears that the decree is void in form, or that due notice of the petition was not given. New Lamp Co. v. Ansonia Brass Co. (1875) 91 U. S. 656, 23 L. Ed. 336.

39. —— Vacating and setting aside.—An adjudication of bankruptcy taken by default, for want of appearance or answer, may be opened by the bankruptcy court, on application of the bankrupt or a creditor, to permit him to file an answer and contest the petition, provided a good excuse is shown for the default or for any delay in the application, and provided the answer proposed to be filed shows a meritorious defense and not merely a technical objection. In re Imperial Corp. (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 73, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 199; In re Urban & Suburban Realty Title Co. (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 140, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 687; In re Le Favour (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 8,-208; In re Neilson (D. C.) 7 N. B. R. 505, Fed. Cas. No. 10,090; In re Gill (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 643, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 333. Where petitioner, with knowledge that the firm of which he was a member was about to be adjudicated a bankrupt, selected an attorney in fact who appeared formally and filed an answer and later chose to abandon the case, and the attorney at law who acted for the attorney in fact stated that he did not intend to appear at the hearing, petitioner was not entitled to have the adjudication vacated on the ground that it was entered by his default or excusable neglect. In re Mitchell & Co. (D. C. 1914) 211 Fed. 778. Where an involuntary bankruptcy petition was denied, a motion for rehearing simply repeating petitioners' original charge of insolvency, but, containing no statements of new evidence to combat that offered by respondent, was properly denied. Lackawanna Leather Co. v. La Porte Carriage Co. (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 318.

After the entry of an adjudication as the result of a trial or hearing, it may be vacated or set aside, for good and sufficient cause, on the motion of the bankrupt himself. In re McFaun (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 592, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 66. But a bankrupt who made no defense to the adjudication, filed his schedules, and appeared personally and by attorney, is not entitled to a vacation of the adjudication without showing that fraud was practiced on him. In re Gill (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 643, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 333. An adjudication in bankruptcy may be vacated on the application of a receiver of the bankrupt corporation appointed by a state court. In re Atlantic Mut. Life Ins. Co. (D. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 628. Or on the application of any creditor who may conceive his interests to be injuriously affected by the adjudication. In re New England Breeders' Club (1909) 169 Fed. 586, 95 C. C. A. 84, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 124; In re Scott (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 144, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 39; In re Derby (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 3,-815. Or on the application of an attaching creditor. In re Donnelly (D. C. 1881) 5 Fed. 783; In re Bergeron (D. C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 385, Fed. Cas. No. 1,342. But a motion to vacate the adjudication cannot be made by a stranger, though it is in the discretion of the court to allow him to be heard as amicus curiæ, when the ground alleged is a want of jurisdiction. In re Columbia Real Estate Co. (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 965, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 411.

An application to vacate an adjudication in bankruptcy must be made with reasonable promptness and will not be granted if the applicant is justly chargeable with laches. In re First Nat. Bank (1907) 152 Fed. 64, 81 C. C. A. 260, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 265; Altonwood Park Co. v. Gwynne (1908) 160 Fed. 448, 87 C. C. A. 409, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 31; In re Ives (1902) 113 Fed. 911, 51 C. C. A. 541, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 692; In re Baltimore County Dairy Ass'n (D. C. 1877) 11 N. B. R. 253, Fed. Cas. No. 828; In re Groome (D. C. 1880) 1 Fed. 464; In re Lalor (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 253, Fed. Cas. No. 8,001; In re Court (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 555, Fed. Cas. No. 3,284; In re Republic Ins. Co. (D. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 317, Fed. Cas. No. 11,706; In re Meade (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 335, Fed. Cas. No. 9,370. An adjudication entered upon a confession of the acts of bankruptcy charged cannot be set aside after the death of the bankrupt on the application of a creditor who has proved his debt. In re Thomas (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 330, Fed. Cas. No. 13,891. That the wife of a bankrupt has allowed three years to elapse since the adjudication of bankruptcy constitutes such laches as will preclude her from then contesting the allegations of insolvency in the petition upon which the adjudication was founded. In re Gibbons (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 420.

Want of jurisdiction is a sufficient ground for vacating an adjudication in bankruptcy. In re Niagara Contracting Co. (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 782, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 643. It may be shown that the person or corporation proceeded against was within the exempt or excepted classes. In re Hudson River Electric Co. (D. C. 1909) 167 Fed. 986, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 915. But see In re Urban & Suburban Realty Title Co. (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 140, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 687. The adjudication may be vacated where it was based upon waiver of important rights of the alleged bankrupt, made by his attorney. In re Republic Ins. Co. (D. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 317, Fed. Cas. No. 11,706. Or where it is shown to have been the result of fraud or collusion. In re Lalor (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 253, Fed. Cas. No. 8,001. Or where newly discovered evidence is presented. In re Great Western Tel. Co. (C. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 5,739. And an adjudication may be set aside by consent, or proof of the assent of all known creditors. In re Magee (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 8,941. But an adjudication will not be set aside merely on showing a prior filing of the petition against the bankrupt in another district. In re Harris (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 6,111. Nor on the ground that the notary public who took the verification of the petition was the bankrupt's own attorney. In re Kindt (D. C. 1900) 9 Fed. 403, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 443. Nor because the attorney who appeared for the bankrupt had not been admitted to practice in the federal courts of the district. In re Kindt (D. C. 1900) 9 Fed. 867, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 546.

It is not necessary that creditors should be notified of an application or proceeding to vacate the adjudication in bankruptcy. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. McNairy (1906) 42 Tex. Civ. App. 222, 94 S. W. 111. But notice must be given to the bankrupt himself. In re Bus (D. C. 1870) 6 N. B. R. 179, Fed. Cas. No. 2,222.

A referee in bankruptcy has jurisdiction to set aside an adjudication, at least in a case where he himself made the adjudication, the case having been referred to him by the clerk on account of the absence of the judge. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. McNairy (1906) 42 Tex. Civ. App. 222, 94 S. W. 111.

Where, without unreasonable delay cess having been issued, cred- bankrupt filed a petition to va- judication, held that, although d not formally ask to defend, ould have been permitted to do a trial should have been had on the allegations of the involuntary petition, rather than on the allegations of the petition to vacate. B-R Electric & Telephone Mfg. Co. v. Ætna Life Ins. Co. (1913) 206 Fed. 885, 124 C. C. A. 545.

. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 19.) Jury trials.

Trials.—a A person against whom an involuntary petition een filed shall be entitled to have a trial by jury, in respect question of his insolvency, except as herein otherwise pro- and any act of bankruptcy alleged in such petition to have ommitted, upon filing a written application therefor at or before ne within which an answer may be filed. If such application is ed within such time, a trial by jury shall be deemed to have been l.

a jury is not in attendance upon the court, one may be specially oned for the trial, or the case may be postponed, or, if the case ding in one of the district courts within the jurisdiction of a court of the United States, it may be certified for trial to the court sitting at the same place, or by consent of parties when at any other place in the same district, if such circuit court has o have a jury first in attendance.

e right to submit matters in controversy, or an alleged offense this Act, to a jury shall be determined and enjoyed, except as ed by this Act, according to the United States laws now in force h as may be hereafter enacted in relation to trials by jury. at. 551.)

Notes of Decisions

ght to trial by jury.—The right and a trial by jury is given to krupt only, and creditors, while ay oppose the adjudication, can- and a jury trial, if the respond- s not ask it. In re Herzikopf 121 Fed. 544, 57 C. C. A. 606, Bankr. Rep. 745. The bankrupt, r to be entitled to this mode of nust enter his appearance and answer at the proper time. In hardt (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. d. Cas. No. 5,294. And he must or a jury in the manner and at e prescribed by the statute, oth- he will be deemed to have waiv- privilege in this respect and afterwards demand it. In re th (1906) 147 Fed. 160, 77 C. 402, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 128; . Cobb (D. C. 1898) 91 Fed. Am. Bankr. Rep. 153; In re 8 N. B. R. 142; In re Hunter 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 6,902. In se, it is the province of the o determine all the issues arising ne petition and answer without ervention of a jury. Carpenter l (1909) 174 Fed. 603, 98 C. C. , 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 463. If ged bankrupt files a general de- to the petition, which is over- after argument, it is then too him to file a general denial and l a trial by jury. In re Benham, . R. 94.

estions triable by jury.—If the dent admits or does not traverse egations of the petition with respect to his insolvency or the commission of an act of bankruptcy, but takes issue on the ground that the petitioner is not a creditor of his, that he does not owe him the debt alleged, or that it is not a debt provable in bankruptcy, he cannot demand a trial by jury. Phelps v. Clasen (C. C. 1868) 3 N. B. R. 87, Fed. Cas. No. 11,074; Morss v. Franklin Coal Co. (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 998, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 423; Ex parte Foster (C. C. 1842) 5 Law Rep. 406, Fed. Cas. No. 4,959. So where he chooses to contest the proceeding on the ground that he is a farmer or a wage-earner and therefore not amenable to involuntary bankruptcy; this is not an issue on which he is entitled as of right to a jury trial. Carpenter v. Cudd (1909) 174 Fed. 603, 98 C. C. A. 449, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 463; Stephens v. Merchants' Nat. Bank (1907) 154 Fed. 341, 83 C. C. A. 119, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 560. And so of the question whether one of the respondents was in fact a member of the partnership against which the proceedings are directed. In re Neasmith (1906) 147 Fed. 160, 77 C. C. A. 402, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 128; In re Samuels & Lesser (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 195, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 293.

As to contested issues of fact other than the question of insolvency or the commission of an act of bankruptcy, it is always in the discretion of the court to refer them to a jury, but this cannot be demanded as of right, and the verdict is advisory only, and not necessarily conclusive on the court. Barton v. Barbour (1881) 104 U. S. 126, 26 L. Ed. 672; Carpenter v. Cudd (1909) 174 Fed. 603, 98 C. C. A. 449, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 463; Oil Well Supply Co. v. Hall (1904) 128 Fed. 875, 63 C. C. A. 343, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 738; In re Neasmith (1906) 147 Fed. 160, 77 C. C. A. 402, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 128.

As to the issue of insolvency, this involves as elements the question of the amount of indebtedness and the fair valuation of the bankrupt's property, both of which he is entitled to have determined by a jury; and the court cannot make a preliminary finding as to the validity and amount of the claims of certain creditors which will be conclusive on the jury on the trial of such issue. Schloss v. Strellow (1907) 156 Fed. 662, 84 C. C. A. 374, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 359.

As to the issue of the commission of an act of bankruptcy, the question whether or not the defendant made a general assignment for the benefit of his creditors is a question of fact on which he is entitled to demand a jury. Day v. Beck & Gregg Hardware Co. (1902) 114 Fed. 834, 52 C. C. A. 468, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 175. And so, in respect to the fourth act of bankruptcy, it is proper to submit to a jury the questions whether the respondent was insolvent, whether receivers were appointed because of such insolvency, and whether such receivers took charge and possession of his property and still continue to hold it. Blue Mountain Iron & Steel Co. v. Portner (1904) 131 Fed. 57, 65 C. C. A. 295, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559. Whether the procurement of a receivership for an insolvent corporation was the act of the corporation so as to constitute it an act of bankruptcy held a question for the jury. Jan Supply & Hardware Co. v. Dayton C & Iron Co. (1915) 223 Fed. 991, 139 C. A. 367. But where the act of ba ruptcy charged is a transfer of prop ty with intent to prefer a creditor, the answer admits the respondent's solvency and the act charged, but me ly denies the intent, this does not ra such an issue as to entitle him to trial by jury. In re Harris (D. 1907) 155 Fed. 216, 19 Am. Ban Rep. 204.

3. Proceedings and review. — T bankruptcy court may, in its discreti issue a special venire and impanel jury to try the issue, at any time, wi out regard to the question of its be term time or vacation in the dist court proper. In re Findlay (D. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 4,789; Lehman Strassberger (C. C. 1875) Fed. C No. 8,216. The proceedings on a j trial held under this provision of bankruptcy act are the same in form on the trial of an ordinary action at in a federal court. In re Ward (D. 1908) 161 Fed. 755, 20 Am. Bankr. R 482; Morss v. Franklin Coal Co. (D 1903) 125 Fed. 998, 11 Am. Ban Rep. 423; In re Jelsh (D. C. 1874 N. B. R. 412, Fed. Cas. No. 7,257. error is committed, it can only be viewed on an application for a n trial or on a writ of error, and not appeal. In re Neasmith (1906) Fed. 160, 77 C. C. A. 402, 17 A Bankr. Rep. 128.

Requiring the jury, in an involunt bankruptcy proceeding, to find a sup mental verdict on an issue which been overlooked held not error. B ders Clothing Co. v. Burnham-Mung Root Dry Goods Co. (C. C. A. 19 228 Fed. 470.

§ 9604. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 20.) Oaths, affirmations.

Oaths, Affirmations.—a Oaths required by this Act, except up hearings in court, may be administered by (1) referees; (2) o cers authorized to administer oaths in proceedings before t courts of the United States, or under the laws of the State where t same are to be taken; and (3) diplomatic or consular officers of t United States in any foreign country.

b Any person conscientiously opposed to taking an oath may, in l thereof, affirm. Any person who shall affirm falsely shall be punish as for the making of a false oath. (30 Stat. 551, 552.)

§ 9605. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 21, as amended, Act Feb. 1903, c. 487, § 7.) Evidence.

Evidence.—a A court of bankruptcy may, upon application any officer, bankrupt, or creditor, by order require any designat person, including the bankrupt and his wife, to appear in court or fore a referee or the judge of any State court, to be examined co cerning the acts, conduct, or property of a bankrupt whose estate in process of administration under this Act: Provided, That the w may be examined only touching business transacted by her or to wh she is a party, and to determine the fact whether she has transac or been a party to any business of the bankrupt.

b The right to take depositions in proceedings under this Act sh be determined and enjoyed according to the United States la in force, or such as may be hereafter enacted relating to the takf depositions, except as herein provided.

Iotice of the taking of depositions shall be filed with the referee ery case. When depositions are to be taken in opposition to lowance of a claim notice shall also be served upon the claimant, when in opposition to a discharge notice shall also be served the bankrupt.

Certified copies of proceedings before a referee, or of papers, issued by the clerk or referee, shall be admitted as evidence like force and effect as certified copies of the records of district s of the United States are now or may hereafter be admitted as nce.

A certified copy of the order approving the bond of a trustee shall itute conclusive evidence of the vesting in him of the title to roperty of the bankrupt, and if recorded shall impart the same e that a deed from the bankrupt to the trustee if recorded would imparted had not bankruptcy proceedings intervened.

A certified copy of an order confirming or setting aside a com-ion, or granting or setting aside a discharge, not revoked, shall vidence of the jurisdiction of the court, the regularity of the edings, and of the fact that the order was made.

A certified copy of an order confirming a composition shall cone evidence of the revesting of the title of his property in the rupt, and if recorded shall impart the same notice that a deed the trustee to the bankrupt if recorded would impart. (30 551. 32 Stat. 798.)

In this section, as originally enacted, subdivision a was as follows:
"a A court of bankruptcy may, upon application of any officer, bankrupt, or editor, by order require any designated person, including the bankrupt, who a competent witness under the laws of the State in which the proceedings e pending, to appear in court or before a referee or the judge of any State urt, to be examined concerning the acts, conduct, or property of a bankrupt ose estate is in process of administration under this Act."

It was amended by Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 7, cited above, to read as set th here.

Section 19 of said amendatory Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, 32 Stat. 801, proded that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending when it took ect, but that such cases should be adjudicated and disposed of conformably the provisions of the original act.

Notes of Decisions

o may apply for examination.
ne and place of examination.
plication and order for examination.
- Notice of application.
duction and examination of books nd papers.
mpelling attendance of witnesses.
amination of nonresident witnesses.
sons subject to examination.
- Wife of bankrupt.
ond examination of bankrupt.
nduct of the examination.
- Right to counsel.
- Objections to questions and rulngs thereon.
pe and extent of the inquiry.
vileged communications.
vilege against self-criminating testimony.
e and effect of evidence.
tness fees and costs of examination.
ntempts by witnesses.

Who may apply for examination.—
eiver of the bankrupt's property, ted in the bankruptcy proceeds an "officer," within the meaning s section, and may apply for an nation in bankruptcy. In re Fix-en & Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 748, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 822. Any person who has connected himself with the proceedings in the character of a creditor and has proved his debt has the right to call for the examination of the bankrupt or of other witnesses. Ex parte Jewett (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 443, Fed. Cas. No. 7,303. A bankrupt summoned at the instance of a creditor who has proved his claim cannot refuse to be sworn and examined on the ground that the claim is not valid unless such invalidity has been proved. In re Winship (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 17,878. Nor on the ground that he has a set-off which will extinguish the claim of the creditor at whose instance the order for examination issued. In re Kingsley (D. C. 1873) 7 N. B. R. 558, Fed. Cas. No. 7,818. Creditors whose claims have been protested against, if duly proved, will be entitled to an order for the examination of the bankrupt. In re Belden (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 194, Fed. Cas. No. 1,241. When the bankrupt is summoned to an examination at the instance of a creditor who has proved his claim, counsel for other creditors have no right to interpose objections to his examination. In re Winship (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 17,878.

Any person who has a provable debt and who shows that he is actually a creditor of the bankrupt, by being named as a creditor in the bankrupt's schedule, or by other evidence satisfactory to the referee, is entitled to an order for the examination of the bankrupt, although he has not formally proved his claim. In re Samuelsohn (D. C. 1909) 174 Fed. 911, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 528; In re Rose (D. C. 1907) 163 Fed. 636, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 169; In re Kuffler (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 667, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 587; In re Jehu (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 638, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 498; In re Walker (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 550, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 35. On a similar principle, where the proposed examination of the bankrupt has a bearing on the question of his discharge, it is not a necessary prerequisite to the order for such examination that the creditor applying therefor should have filed specifications in opposition to the discharge. In re Baum (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 5, Fed. Cas. No. 1,116. But the right of a creditor to examine the bankrupt is suspended by the creditor's acceptance of a proposed composition. In re Tifft (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 177, Fed. Cas. No. 14,032.

2. Time and place of examination.—An examination in bankruptcy may be ordered and held after the filing of the petition, though prior to the adjudication. Cameron v. U. S. (1911) 192 Fed. 548, 113 C. C. A. 20, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 657. The court has authority to order the examination of a bankrupt or other witnesses at any time after the filing of an involuntary petition, although there has been no adjudication, nor appointment of a receiver. Rawlins v. Hall-Epps Clothing Co. (1914) 217 Fed. 884, 133 C. C. A. 594. The examination of a bankrupt under oath could be ordered by a bankruptcy court on application of the receiver, where adjudication in bankruptcy had not been made, as the estate must be regarded as in "process of administration" within § 9591 ante. Cameron v. U. S. (1914) 34 Sup. Ct. 244, 231 U. S. 710, 58 L. Ed. 448; Ex parte Bick (C. C. 1909) 155 Fed. 908, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 68; In re Fleischer (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 81, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 194. CONTRA, In re Davidson (D. C. 1907) 158 Fed. 678, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 833; In re Crenshaw (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 271, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266; Skubinsky v. Bodek (1909) 172 Fed. 332, 97 C. C. A. 116, 24 L. R. A. (N. S.) 985, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 689.

Under former bankruptcy acts it was held that, at least for the purposes of an examination, a person was to be considered a bankrupt from the tim the filing of the petition, whether it voluntary or involuntary; and he for example, if certain creditors fil petition against their debtor, and tain other creditors contested the s the debtor might be examined in tion to his indebtedness to the peti ing creditors, not only before an a dication had been made, but for the purpose of preventing one. In re H ted (D. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 6, Ex parte Lee (D. C. 1842) Fed. No. 8,178; In re Bromley (Utah) B. R. 686; In re Salkey (C. C. 1 9 N. B. R. 107, Fed. Cas. No. 12,2

Under the former law, it was that the bankrupt could not be com led to submit to an examination a he had received his discharge, o least after the expiration of the within which an application to set a the discharge might be made. I Jones (D. C. 1872) 6 N. B. R. 386, Cas. No. 7,449; In re Witkowski C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 209, Fed. Cas. 17,920; In re Dole (C. C. 1874) B. R. 193, Fed. Cas. No. 3,964. C pare In re Heath (D. C. 1873) 7 N R. 448, Fed. Cas. No. 6,304.

Where, proceedings in involun bankruptcy against a corporation been at issue on the petition, demu and answers denying insolvency fo months without being brought t hearing, a creditor is not entitled t order for an examination without s ing a present necessity for it. I Wilkes-Barre Light Co. (1913) 208 539, 125 C. C. A. 541.

3. Application and order for exam tion.—It is in the discretion of the c of bankruptcy to order the examina of a designated witness on a me oral application therefor. In re A Press (1904) 134 Fed. 51, 67 C. C 161, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 11.

In the case of a receiver or tru in bankruptcy, his simple applicatio demand for an order or summons i that is required to support it, and w a third person is to be examined, not necessary for the trustee to forth, in the form of an application the summons, the questions which to be asked upon the examination the particular facts or transaction to which he proposes to interrogate witness. In re Bryant (D. C. 1911) Fed. 530, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 504; re Fixen & Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 748, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 822; In Howard (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 41 Am. Bankr. Rep. 582.

An order requiring bankrupts to pear for examination before a ref at a distance from their residence, generally to produce their books, w ings, and memoranda, held unrea able and erroneous, as too broad. R lins v. Hall-Epps Clothing Co. (19 217 Fed. 884, 133 C. C. A. 594.

Power and jurisdiction to make order requiring the bankrupt or competent witness to appear and t to examination are vested in the e in bankruptcy. In re Pioneer Co. (D. C. 1869) 7 N. B. R. 250, Cas. No. 11,178; In re Brandt 1868) 2 N. B. R. 215, Fed. Cas. ,812; In re Lanier (D. C. 1868) B. R. 154, Fed. Cas. No. 8,070; Abbey Press (1904) 134 Fed. 51, C. A. 161, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 11. en a bankruptcy proceeding has referred generally to a given ref- he has jurisdiction to order a person to appear before him for nation. In re Abbey Press) 134 Fed. 51, 67 C. C. A. 161, 13 Bankr. Rep. 11.

— Notice of application.—When ankrupt is cited before the ref- for examination before any meet- f his creditors has been held and e the appointment of a trustee, he object of the examination is y to obtain information on which repare the schedules, it is not tial to the validity of the proceed- at notice should have been given e creditors. In re Franklin Syn- (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 402, 4 Bankr. Rep. 244.

s proper that an examination of ankrupt should be had to enable ors to prepare specifications in ition to his discharge. Notice of examination must be given, it be open to all creditors, and or- ly it will be had once for all. To expense and delay, the notice to ors to attend in opposition to ischarge may embrace a notice amination of the bankrupt. In re (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 635, 1 Am. r. Rep. 419.

order for examination of a bank- should not be granted in invol- y proceedings, where there has no adjudication, nor appointment receiver, without notice to the rupt. Rawlins v. Hall-Epps ing Co. (1914) 217 Fed. 884, 133 A. 594.

en the trustee desires to examine ness for the purpose of discover- roperty of the bankrupt, and caus- summons to issue, it is not nec- y to give notice to the bankrupt e time and place of such exami- n. In re Levy (D. C. 1867) Fed. No. 8,295; In re Duncan (D. 76) Fed. Cas. No. 4,132.

to informing third parties, whose ests may be affected by an ex- ation in bankruptcy and the or- which may be founded on it, it is that the proceeding is administra- n character, and one in which the liction of the court is not depend- n the service of regular process, would be in a suit, and hence a e given by mail a reasonable time e the hearing is sufficient. In re n (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 850, 4 Bankr. Rep. 632.

5. Production and examination of books and papers.—A referee in bankruptcy has jurisdiction to pass an order, in the course of the examination of a bankrupt at a statutory meeting of his creditors, to compel the bankrupt to produce necessary books of account for the proper administration of the estate in the interest of the creditors. In re Soloway & Katz (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 103, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 228.

When the bankrupt is ordered to attend before the referee for examination, he may be required in the same order, or by a separate similar order, to produce his books of account and other papers needed in the investigation of his affairs, and a formal subpœna duces tecum is not necessary. Id.

Where creditors of a bankrupt corporation contend that another corporation is in fact the bankrupt under another name, the bankruptcy court has jurisdiction to order such other corporation to produce its books and papers before the special master on the hearing of orders to show cause why the receiver should not be extended over the property of such company. In re Ironclad Mfg. Co. (1912) 201 Fed. 66, 119 C. C. A. 404.

Where it is alleged that the bankrupt's stock of goods was sold by him to a certain corporation without adequate consideration, the sale being induced by the fraud of the vendee, a receiver of the bankrupt's estate has the right, under process from the court of bankruptcy, to examine any books or documents of such corporation showing or tending to show its receipt or disposition of said stock, or in any other way relating thereto. In re Fixen & Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 748, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 822.

Where a corporation organized as the successor of a partnership is a mere fiction, its business and assets being those of the partnership, and the firm is adjudged bankrupt, the books of the corporation must be submitted for examination in the bankruptcy proceedings, if demanded. In re Horgan (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 319.

6. Compelling attendance of witnesses.—Where the bankrupt is a prisoner in jail, his attendance before the referee for examination may be secured by means of the writ of habeas corpus ad testificandum. But this writ does not issue as a matter of right, on the request of creditors, but its employment rests in the discretion of the court, and it will not be granted except where it is strictly necessary, and especially when the prisoner is confined by authority of a state court. In re Thaw (1908) 166 Fed. 71, 91 C. C. A. 657, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 561;

Id. (D. C. 1908) 172 Fed. 288, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 687.

Where a witness is actually present before the referee in bankruptcy for examination when an order that he shall be sworn is made, the fact that the subpœna issued and served upon him was not under seal is immaterial. In re Abbey Press (1904) 134 Fed. 51, 67 C. C. A. 161, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 11.

If the witness fails or refuses to appear, he is to be dealt with by the judge, on a certificate of the facts from the referee, and may be punished as for contempt; but an application to the court for an attachment in the first instance, without such certificate, is irregular and improper. In re Kerber (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 653, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 747.

7. Examination of nonresident witnesses.—In the matter of securing the attendance of a witness in bankruptcy proceedings, the court may exercise all the power conferred upon it in ordinary civil cases, and hence the process may run into another district. In re Woodward (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 18,000.

A person cannot be compelled to leave the state where he resides, to be a witness before a referee in bankruptcy, though his residence is less than 100 miles from the place of the hearing. In re Cole (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 414, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 300. And one cannot be compelled to attend an examination in bankruptcy at a distance of more than 100 miles from his residence, though it is within the same state. In re Hemstreet (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 568, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 760.

The witness may be required to appear before a designated referee in the district where the witness lives, and in this case the referee conducts the examination in the capacity and with the powers of a referee in bankruptcy, and not merely as an examiner with the powers granted under the general equity rules. In re Sturgeon (1905) 139 Fed. 608, 71 C. C. A. 592, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 681; In re Williams (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 321, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 538; In re Kyler (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 649, Fed. Cas. No. 7,956. Or the trustee or a creditor may apply to the court of bankruptcy in the district where the witness lives, and that court will have ancillary jurisdiction to order the examination within its own territory. In re Sutter Bros. (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 654, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 632. Compare In re Williams (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 321, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 538.

A court of bankruptcy is authorized to take the depositions of witnesses who reside more than 100 miles from the place of trial, whether within or without the state. In re Washington Steel & Bolt Co. (D. C. 1914) 2 Fed. 984.

When a commission is issued by court of bankruptcy and sent into other state, the federal court in su state may compel the witness to tes fy or punish him for refusal. In Johnston (C. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 5 Fed. Cas. No. 7,423. On an applicat for attachment of witnesses for co tempt in not making answers on exa ination under a commission sent by bankruptcy court into another distr and state, the attachment will be fused where no written interrogator accompanied the commission, and no formation is furnished as to the part ular inquiry. In re Glaser (C. C. 186 2 N. B. R. 398, Fed. Cas. No. 5,4

If the witness resides in a fore country, his testimony cannot be tak upon a deposition, but a commiss must issue. Cortes Co. v. Tannhau (C. C. 1883) 18 Fed. 667.

8. Persons subject to examination The bankrupt, when summoned for amination, cannot demand payment his fees as a witness, as a condition his being sworn. In re O'Kell (D. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 10,474. Where bankrupt who has been ordered to su mit to a further examination depa from the district before the time pointed, without an examination, discharge will not be granted until has duly submitted to the examinati In re Kingsley (D. C. 1877) 16 N. R. 301, Fed. Cas. No. 7,820.

Any creditor of the estate may ap for the examination of a third pers though his right to do so is not unqu ified, it being the duty of the court exercise its discretion as to awardi the summons asked for. In re A drews (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 383, Am. Bankr. Rep. 267. This exami tion of a third person is a proceedi entirely independent of the examinati of the bankrupt himself at the instan of the creditors; and a witness can object to being examined on the grou that there has not yet been any exa nation of the bankrupt. In re Le (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 8,295; re Fredenberg (D. C. 1868) Fed. C No. 5,075. Nor can he object to bei sworn and examined on the ground t no issue has been made up for deter nation, or that there is no fact in d pute, and that therefore he cannot questioned in the character of a "w ness." The object of such an exami tion is to obtain information as to bankrupt's property and conduct, to prove or disprove some controvert fact. In re Blake (D. C. 1868) 2 N. R. 10, Fed. Cas. No. 1,492. A pers summoned for examination in a p ceeding in bankruptcy, on the appli tion of a temporary receiver appoint by the court of bankruptcy, cannot fuse to attend or be examined on ground that the order appointing receiver was erroneous or improvide de. In re Fixen & Co. (D. C. 96 Fed. 748, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep.

editor, as well as any other per- ay be subject to this examination, ay be interrogated as to his own against the bankrupt, to the end t may be stricken out if the evi- shows that it cannot be support- n re Kyler (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. 9, Fed. Cas. No. 7,956; In re (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 540, 3 Bankr. Rep. 257. Where a wit- is the assignee of certain debts om the bankrupt to his creditors, not a sufficient reason for him to to testify before the referee as actual consideration paid for the , that the consideration did not from the bankrupt or his estate, at to answer would be revealing ivate business of the witness un- arily and prejudice him in anoth- t then pending. In re Trask (D. 73) Fed. Cas. No. 14,141.

assignee for the benefit of credi- r a trustee in insolvency appoint- a state court, though more than nonths before the bankruptcy pro- gs, may be summoned for exami- and interrogated concerning the ition made by him of the bank- assets. In re Pursell (D. C. 114 Fed. 371, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep.

trustee in bankruptcy may be naed and required to testify in me manner as any other witness. e is not subject to examination at me on the mere motion of a cred- and an order for his examination not be granted unless it is asked some issue regularly referred to eferee. In re Smith (D. C. 1876) B. R. 432, Fed. Cas. No. 12,988. eceiver appointed by a state court, t whom a suit is pending by the e in bankruptcy for the posses- of the bankrupt's books, is not ged to refuse to produce the and testify before the referee. Hulst (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. ,864.

officers of a corporation repre- t, and may be required to submit examination at the first creditors' g in bankruptcy. Powell v. orn (1914) 145 N. Y. S. 1073, 161 Div. 453.

— Wife of bankrupt.—Prior to mendment of 1903, where, by the of the state, a wife could not be ness for or against her husband, ould not be required, in proceed- n bankruptcy against her husband, stify concerning property in her ssion alleged to have been con- to her in fraud of the bankrupt's ors, though the trustee, seeking cover such property, may proceed ll of discovery against the wife. Kessler (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. In re Fowler (D. C. 1899) 93 417, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555; In re Jefferson (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 826, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 174; In re Mayer (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 328, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 222. But, if competent as a witness, the wife of the bankrupt might be interrogated as to money or other property in her possession, and as to how and when the same was received or acquired, provided only that the testimony showed such questions to be reasonably pertinent to the subject of inquiry, which is, in a general sense, the nature and location of the assets of the bankrupt. In re Foerst (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 190, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 259.

If reasonable ground has been laid, the wife of a bankrupt may be interrogated to determine whether a business conducted in her name is in fact hers or the bankrupt's, and she may be asked such questions as are pertinent to that inquiry. In re Worrell (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 159, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 744.

The bankrupt's wife cannot be required to testify as to confessions or admissions of her husband in regard to his dealings with third persons; there is nothing in the bankruptcy law to destroy the privilege of such confidences. In re Jefferson (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 826, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 174; In re Gilbert (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 5,410.

If the wife of the bankrupt, being duly summoned to appear and be examined, fails or refuses to attend before the referee, or declines to be sworn or to answer any proper question, she is to be dealt with as any other witness, that is, by an attachment to enforce her attendance, and punishment as for contempt if she will not respond to the questions. In re Bellis (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 270, Fed. Cas. No. 1,276; In re Woolford (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 444, Fed. Cas. No. 18,029; In re Van Tuyl (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 70, Fed. Cas. No. 16,881.

10. Second examination of bankrupt.—A full and fair opportunity must be allowed to all the creditors to inquire into the matters pertinent to such investigation, and it is unquestionably within the authority of the court to order the bankrupt to appear and be examined a second time, or as often as proper occasion for it may be found to exist. In re Bryant (D. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 530, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 504; In re Mellen (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 326, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 226; In re Vogel (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 393, Fed. Cas. No. 16,984; In re Brandt (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 345, Fed. Cas. No. 1,813. When the bankrupt has once fully submitted to an examination, he has a right to be protected against unreasonable demands upon his time for further examination, and after ample opportunity has been afforded and an apparently full examination had, a second examination will not be ordered unless some substantial reason for such an order is presented and established. In re Frisbie (D. C. 1876) 13 N. B. R. 349, Fed. Cas. No. 5,131; In re Adams (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 272, Fed. Cas. No. 40; In re Isidor (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 264, Fed. Cas. No. 7,105; In re Gilbert (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 152, Fed. Cas. No. 5,410. Where an examination of the bankrupt is abruptly terminated by the failure of the trustee's counsel to appear, and an order for a new examination is taken, the bankrupt cannot refuse to attend or to testify. In re Van Tuyl (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 70, Fed. Cas. No. 16,881.

11. Conduct of the examination.—Although the bankruptcy act gives latitude in the examination of a bankrupt, it does not otherwise abrogate the rule as to the examination and cross-examination of witnesses which prevails in the federal courts. In re Kinnane Co. (D. C. 1914) 217 Fed. 488, confirmation denied (D. C. 1915) 221 Fed. 762.

The attorney for the trustee in bankruptcy may act as attorney for the creditors in the examination of the bankrupt. In re Levy (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 184, Fed. Cas. No. 8,299. Where an attorney offers to examine the bankrupt in behalf of a creditor, and it appears that his power of attorney has been revoked, it is not error for the referee to refuse the attorney the right to examine the bankrupt as to the circumstances under which the revocation of his power of attorney had been obtained. In re Tifft (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 550, Fed. Cas. No. 14,030. On the examination of a witness respecting the bankrupt's estate, on the application of a creditor, it is held that other creditors have no right to intervene and object to questions asked. In re Stuyvesant Bank (D. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 445, Fed. Cas. No. 13,582.

When the bankrupt has been examined by a creditor or by the trustee, he may be cross-examined by his own counsel so far as may be necessary to explain or qualify any matters brought out on the direct examination which may seem to bear unfavorably upon his conduct or dealings, or which are obscure. In re Noyes (D. C. 1874) 11 N. B. R. 111, Fed. Cas. No. 10,370; In re Leachman (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 391, Fed. Cas. No. 8,157; In re Levy (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 136, Fed. Cas. No. 8,296. Compare In re Bragg (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 1,799.

The examining party has the right to have the examination reduced to writing. In re Jackson (D. C. 1874) 8 N. B. R. 424, Fed. Cas. No. 7,128. The referee, as a judicial officer, is not required either by custom, the bankruptcy act, or the rules, to take the notes of testimony personally, or to incur the expense of clerical or stenographic aid therein for the benefit of a creditor examining the bankrupt, without indemnity therefor. He should supervise or direct the taking of testimony at the expense of the parties desiring it, or may allow it to be taken by the part themselves. In re Warszawiak, 1 N Bankr. News, 135. But the refer upon the application of the trustee bankruptcy, may authorize the empl ment of a stenographer to report transcribe the proceedings at the pense of the estate. Bankruptcy A § 38, cl. 5. A witness, having been amined before a referee and his te mony taken down, is entitled to r over the testimony before he is co pelled to sign it. In re Waters-Col Co. (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 761. Wh a bankrupt's examination before a s cial master was taken by a stenog pher and a transcript made, it was bankrupt's duty to sign the transcr though he now claims that certain his answers were incorrect by rea of his misunderstanding the questi or not being correctly informed w he answered; he being entitled only make such entry on the record bef his signature and jurat. In re Samu (C. C. A. 1914) 213 Fed. 447.

The bankrupt cannot require the eree to have his testimony taken d in longhand when the trustee furnis a stenographer. In re Frey (D. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 5,114.

The referee has a general con over the conduct and course of the amination; but it is said that he no authority to limit in advance time within which the examinat must be concluded. In re Tift (D. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 421, Fed. Cas. 14,036; In re Waitzfelder (D. C. 18 Fed. Cas. No. 17,047. He may journ the examination for suffici cause. In re Robinson (D. C. 1869 N. B. R. 516, Fed. Cas. No. 11,9 And although he is required to cer to the judge for decision questions a ing in the course of the proceeding, may properly refuse to suspend the amination which is pending until the cision of such questions, at least wh no creditor is at that time entitled priority. In re Tifft (D. C. 1878) N. B. R. 550, Fed. Cas. No. 14,030.

12. —— Right to counsel.—A str ger to the proceedings (that is, who is neither the bankrupt himself a creditor) when summoned to app and be examined in bankruptcy, at instance of the trustee or the credit has no right to have the attenda and advice of counsel at his exami tion. In re Feinberg (D. C. 1869 N. B. R. 425, Fed. Cas. No. 4,716; re Fredenberg (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. 268, Fed. Cas. No. 5,075; In re Fe (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 4,715; re Stuyvesant Bank (D. C. 1872) 7 B. R. 445, Fed. Cas. No. 13,582; In Schonberg (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. 12,477; In re Comstock (D. C. 18 Fed. Cas. No. 3,080; In re Howard C. 1899) 95 Fed. 415, 2 Am. Ba Rep. 582.

A creditor of the bankrupt is no

y" to the proceeding, in any such as to entitle him to interfere with be represented in it by counsel, or st it is in the judicial discretion referee to permit or refuse such sentation. In re Abbey Press) 134 Fed. 51, 67 C. C. A. 161, n. Bankr. Rep. 11; In re Com- (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 3,080. bankrupt is entitled to be attend- his counsel on his examination, he attorney may interpose objec- to any improper questions pro- ed to the bankrupt. In re Tan- D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 13,745. he bankrupt has no absolute right nsult with his counsel before an- ng any given questions, or to take vice as to the necessity of his an- ng the question or the form of his er. This privilege may be allowed n by the referee, if the circum- es render it proper, but it cannot aimed as of right. The referee discretionary power to allow such sultation of the bankrupt with his el, and whether or not it shall be ed must be determined by him ac- ng to the circumstances of each ular case. In re Patterson (D. 67) 1 N. B. R. 150, Fed. Cas. No. 9; In re Tanner (D. C. 1868) 1 R. 316, Fed. Cas. No. 13,745; In dson (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 364, Cas. No. 7,562; In re Collins (D. 68) 1 N. B. R. 551, Fed. Cas. No. ; In re Lord (D. C. 1868) 3 N. 243, Fed. Cas. No. 8,502.

—— Objections to questions and s thereon.—Where the bankrupt attorney, he has the right to raise uestion on his examination which torney for him could raise, and he in contempt for refusal to answer ions to which he presents in good well-founded objections. In re er (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 982, 4 Bankr. Rep. 728.

Scope and extent of the inquiry. bankrupt may be examined sub- ially as under a reference upon a tor's bill, or in proceedings sup- entary to execution. In re Pioneer r Co. (D. C. 1869) 7 N. B. R. 250, Cas. No. 11,178. All questions proper which elicit answers tend- show an interest of the bankrupt operty at the time the petition was In re Carson (D. C. 1868) 2 N. 107, Fed. Cas. No. 2,461. A ion as to whether a bankrupt did nake a certain statement in writ- as to his assets within a few hs prior to his bankruptcy, on he obtained property on credit certain of his creditors, is materi- d proper to be asked him on his ination. In re Jacobs & Roth (D. 907) 154 Fed. 988, 18 Am. Bankr. 728.

s the duty of the bankrupt to dis- whatever it may concern any par- interested to know concerning his debts, business, or estate. In re Cooke (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 126, Fed. Cas. No. 3,168. He may be examined on the question whether a composition offered to his creditors should be accepted by them and confirmed by the court, as being for the best interest of all concerned. In re Ash (D. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 19, Fed. Cas. No. 571. He may be required to make known to the trustee the combination of a safe alleged to contain property of his. In re Hooks Smelting Co. (D. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 954, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 83.

If the bankrupt has testified that he is not the owner of certain property, questions relating to the identity of the owner, and the duration, extent, and character of the ownership of such property, are not relevant. In re Van Tuyl (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 636, Fed. Cas. No. 16,880.

It is not necessary for the examining creditor or trustee first to show that the bankrupt actually has an interest in the property, before questioning him about it, but only to show that he may have such an interest. In re Bonesteel (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 330, Fed. Cas. No. 1,628. Where the examination has shown that the wife of the bankrupt holds valuable property transferred to her by third persons after his insolvency, and enough has come out to furnish reasonable support for the theory that the consideration for such transfer moved from the bankrupt himself, or that the transfer to the wife was a mere cover, then it is the right of the creditor to examine the bankrupt fully and minutely with reference to the whole transaction, and the bankrupt must answer all pertinent questions. Id. And see In re Clark (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 237, Fed. Cas. No. 2,805. So where a bankrupt stated that he had sold certain property and used part of the proceeds in paying a debt for money borrowed, all the circumstances of the transaction are open to inquiry on the bankrupt's examination by his creditors. In re Brundage (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 613, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 47.

A creditor who has filed proof of debt, claiming that it was contracted by fraud, cannot examine the bankrupt as to the facts constituting the alleged fraud, the inquiry being irrelevant to the scope and purpose of the examination. In re Wright (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 18,065. Compare In re Koch (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 549, Fed. Cas. No. 7,916.

It is not proper, on the examination of the bankrupt, to interrogate him as to any property which he may have acquired since the commencement of the proceedings, as any such property is his own and is not subject to the bankruptcy. In re Levy (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 136, Fed. Cas. No. 8,296; In re Rosenfield (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 319, Fed. Cas. No. 12,059. But he may be asked questions tending to show that, within a short time after filing his petition, he had money in his possession not acquired by the transaction of any business subsequent to such filing. In re McBrien (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 344, Fed. Cas. No. 8,666. And if he has acquired valuable property during the proceedings under suspicious circumstances, he may be questioned concerning it. In re Walton, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 533. And see In re Tudor (D. C.) 96 Fed. 942, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 808.

A creditor who is examining the bankrupt is not limited in his questions to transactions taking place since his own debt accrued. In re Craig (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 3,322. And the examination is not limited to facts and transactions occurring within four months prior to the bankruptcy, but may be directed to matters anterior to that time, if the circumstances in question will throw any light upon the facts or issues pertinent to the proceedings. In re Brundage (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 613, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 47.

In the examination of others than the bankrupt, the witness may be interrogated generally as to the acts, conduct, and property of the bankrupt, the object being to obtain information touching the estate of the bankrupt, its condition and location, and his conduct as affecting his property and his disposal of it, in order that the necessary steps may be taken for its recovery and preservation. In re Blake (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 10, Fed. Cas. No. 1,492; In re Fixen & Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 748, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 822. The witness may be required to give information as to property of the bankrupt fraudulently held in his name, as to preferences alleged to have been given, as to his knowledge of any property concealed by the bankrupt, as to any secret trust or other arrangement between the bankrupt and himself, so far as it affects the estate or the rights of other creditors, as to alleged liens on the property, and so forth. In re Lathrop, Haskins & Co. (D. C. 1910) 184 Fed. 534, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 911; In re Pioneer Paper Co. (D. C. 1869) 7 N. B. R. 250, Fed. Cas. No. 11.178; Garrison v. Markley (C. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 246, Fed. Cas. No. 5,256.

The course of the examination must be confined within legal limits, and though the court is vested with a wide measure of discretion as to its scope, it must not be pushed so far as to encroach upon the witness' right of privacy in relation to his own affairs, where the concerns of the bankrupt are not involved. In re Horgan (1899) 98 Fed. 414, 39 C. C. A. 118, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 253; In re Howard (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 415, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 582. See In re Earle (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 304, Fed. Cas. No. 4,244; In re Stuyvesant Bank (D. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 445, Fed. Cas. No. 13,582; In re Lathrop (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 94, F Cas. No. 8,106.

While the statute should be libera construed, so as to enforce full a frank answers by a witness in aid the bankruptcy proceedings, yet it do not authorize an inquiry into his p vate affairs which have no relation the "acts, conduct, or property" of t bankrupt, nor can the court require h to produce private papers having relation thereto; and a mere affida of belief on the part of creditors others is not sufficient to overcome positive statement of the witness th the transactions inquired about or p pers demanded have no relation to t bankrupt, so as to authorize the cou to compel him to answer or to produ the papers. In re Carley (D. C. 190 106 Fed. 862, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 5 In re E. S. Wheeler & Co. (D. C. 190 151 Fed. 542, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 4

The court cannot compel an officer a corporation in which the bankru had stock, the same being admittedly the bankrupt's possession, to give e dence as to his opinion of the value the stock and to produce in supp thereof the records relating to the fina cial condition of the company. In Seligman (D. C. 1911) 192 Fed. 750, Am. Bankr. Rep. 664.

A witness cannot be compelled to a swer as to the original considerati for a negotiable bond issued by t bankrupt where the creditor is a bo fide holder for value. In re Leland (C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 8,229.

Where the bankrupt, more than year before the enactment of the ban ruptcy law, had made an assignme for the benefit of his creditors und the state law, it is not material proper, in his examination in the ban ruptcy proceedings, to inquire into t circumstances under which the assig ment was made, nor to require the signee to produce the books and p pers turned over to him at the tim unless a foundation is first laid for t belief that property of the bankru was withheld by him at the time such assignment and was still held his at the time of the enactment the bankruptcy law. In re Hayden (C. 1899) 96 Fed. 199, 1 Am. Ban Rep. 670.

It is not left to the judgment of t witness to decide whether or not t question put to him is relevant. If declines to answer any question on t ground, he does so at his peril, the decision as to relevancy of any qu tion or line of inquiry is for the cou People's Bank of Buffalo v. Bro (1902) 112 Fed. 652, 50 C. C. A. 4 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 475; In re Fi & Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 748, 2 A Bankr. Rep. 822. In examinations bankruptcy, saving the right of the w ness to refuse to criminate hims and respecting the inviolability of pr ileged communications, the courts ally rule on the side of relevancy, equire the witness to answer if it s even probable that the facts to icited may be relevant. People's of Buffalo v. Brown (1902) 112 652, 50 C. C. A. 411, 7 Am. Bankr. 475. See Robinson v. Philadelphia R. Co. (C. C. 1886) 28 Fed. 340; son Steel Street-Rail Co. v. North ch Steel Co. (C. C. 1891) 48 Fed.

editors cannot use the process of inations in bankruptcy for the pur- of obtaining information (from ons other than the bankrupt him- which they can use in opposition is discharge. In regard to such esses, and the facts they may know, editor must be left to the risk of olishing them upon the trial of the s as parties are in ordinary trials w. In re Brandt (D. C. 1868) 2 . R. 215, Fed. Cas. No. 1,812.

attorney cannot refuse to answer s the facts, which he is asked to ose came to his knowledge while g in his professional capacity and from the client or from some one g for the client. In re O'Donohoe C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 245, Fed. Cas. 10,435.

. Privileged communications.—The which forbids the disclosure, as er of evidence, of confidential com- cations passing between an attor- and his client will be respected and rced in examinations in bankruptcy ess than in other judicial investiga- . In re Krueger (D. C. 1872) Fed. No. 7,942. Counsel for the bank- , when examined as a witness, will ound to answer all questions ex- such as require him to disclose in- ation as to the affairs of the bank- which he received, as such coun- from the bankrupt or from persons hom he was referred by the bank- for the purpose of obtaining in- ation. In re Aspinwall (D. C.) 7 Ben. 433, Fed. Cas. No. 591; e Donohue (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. 3,990; In re Bellis (D. C. 1869) Cas. No. 1,274. A witness sum- ed for examination in a bankruptcy eeding cannot refuse to be sworn ely on the ground that he had been sel for the bankrupt and was still legal adviser. In re Woodward (D. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 17,999. Nor it be permitted to the attorney of bankrupt to add to his oath as a ess a reservation as to privileged munications. In re Adams (D. C.) Fed. Cas. No. 42.

hether the privilege is properly ned and should be allowed is a ques- which must be determined by the t and not by the witness, and e, by way of preliminary investiga- , the witness may be subjected to an interrogation as will put the t in position to decide the ques- . People's Bank of Buffalo v. Brown (1902) 112 Fed. 652, 50 C. C. A. 411, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 475.

16. Privilege against self-criminating testimony.—The provision of Bankruptcy Act, § 4, ante, § 9591, that no testimony given by the bankrupt "shall be offered in evidence against him in any criminal proceeding," does not take away the right of the bankrupt to decline answering questions which tend to criminate him, because it is not a sufficient protection, not being as broad and comprehensive as the constitutional provision, and therefore not to be taken as a substitute for it or as equivalent to it. In re Hess (D. C. 1905) 134 Fed. 109, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559; U. S. v. Goldstein (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 789, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 755; In re Nachman (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 995, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 180; In re Franklin Syndicate (D. C. 1900) 114 Fed. 205, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 511; In re Feldstein (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 269, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 321; In re Gilbert, 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 378; In re Rosser (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 305, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 755; In re Scott (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 815, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 49; In re Patterson (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 152, Fed. Cas. No. 10,816; In re Graham (D. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 5,659; In re Koch (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 549, Fed. Cas. No. 7,916. CONTRA, Mackel v. Rochester (1900) 102 Fed. 314, 42 C. C. A. 427, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1. This provision of the statute has reference only to crimes committed previous to the giving of such testimony, and not to any criminal proceeding based on a crime inherent in the bankrupt's examination, and it does not protect him from a prosecution for perjury committed by false swearing during the course of his examination. And in such a prosecution, not only may the alleged false testimony be given in evidence, but any other testimony of the defendant given in the examination may be put in evidence, provided it is relevant to the issue and tends to establish the falsity of that on which the prosecution is based. Glickstein v. U. S. (1911) 222 U. S. 139, 32 Sup. Ct. 71, 56 L. Ed. 128, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 786; Daniels v. U. S. (C. C. A. 1912) 196 Fed. 459, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 790; U. S. v. Brod (C. C. 1910) 176 Fed. 165, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 740; Cameron v. U. S. (1911) 192 Fed. 548, 113 C. C. A. 20, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 657. Further, it is to be noted that the protection afforded to the bankrupt by § 9591, ante, extends only to the testimony given by the bankrupt upon his examination under that clause and section, and does not render inadmissible, on a criminal prosecution, the schedules filed by him in the bankruptcy proceedings, or the testimony of an expert accountant based upon an examination of his books which he had turned over to the trustee. Ensign v. Pennsylvania (1913) 227 U. S. 592, 33 Sup. Ct. 321, 57 L. Ed. 658, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 408.

The constitutional privilege of a witness applies to a bankrupt and entitles him to refuse not only to give oral testimony, but to produce books and papers that will tend to incriminate him. U. S. v. Rhodes (D. C. 1913) 212 Fed. 518.

Where a person against whom indictments are pending in a state court is adjudged bankrupt on an involuntary petition, and brought before the referee in bankruptcy for examination, he cannot be compelled to answer any questions propounded on such examination where his answers would tend to criminate him on the trial of the pending indictments. In re Scott (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 815, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 49; In re Hooks Smelting Co. (D. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 954, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 83; In re Kanter (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 356, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 104; In re Gilbert, 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 378.

The constitutional privilege is to be claimed only when necessary, and only with reference to some particular question propounded to the witness. It does not exempt a witness from being sworn, nor permit him to add to his oath a reservation as to criminating matters; it only enables him to decline a particular question. In re Scott (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 815, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 49.

A witness cannot avoid answering a question by the mere statement that his answer would tend to criminate him, without regard to whether the statement is reasonable or not. In re Rosenblatt (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 663, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 306. Where, from the course of the evidence and the nature of the question, the court can definitely see that the question, if answered in a particular way, would tend to criminate the witness, the privilege claimed by the witness must be allowed. Ex parte Irvine (C. C. 1896) 74 Fed. 954; In re Feldstein (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 269, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 321; In re Shera (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 207, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 552. But if it is apparent that the answer could not possibly tend to criminate the witness, it must be given, notwithstanding the claim of privilege. In re Levin (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 388, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 382; In re Edward Hess & Co. (D. C. 1905) 136 Fed. 988. While a bankrupt has a privilege against self-crimination, the privilege can only be exercised after a showing of reasonable ground to suppose that answers to questions would be liable to incriminate him. In re Tobias, Greenthal & Mendelson (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed. 815.

Where a bankrupt attempts to withhold his books of account and other papers from his trustee or receiver, on the assertion that they contain matter which might be used against him in criminal proceeding and so tend criminate him, the rule is that th bankrupt must produce and deposit th books, in order that the question privilege may be determined by th court or referee, and if it appears th they do contain such criminating ev dence, the court will make such an o der as will protect the bankrupt fro its use in any criminal case, and the same time give the trustee the u of the books in the administration the estate. In re Harris (1911) 2 U. S. 274, 31 Sup. Ct. 557, 55 L. E 732, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 302; Id. (1 C. 1908) 164 Fed. 292, 20 Am. Bank Rep. 911; In re Hark (D. C. 190 136 Fed. 986, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 62 In re Hess (1905) 134 Fed. 109, 14 A Bankr. Rep. 559. No constitution or statutory rights of an accused pe son (either under the constitution provisions against unreasonable searc es and seizures and against the co pelling of self-criminating testimon or under the act of Congress prohib ing the use of a party's pleadings evidence to his prejudice in a subs quent criminal proceeding against hi are infringed by the use by a gra jury, in the investigation of the char es contained in an indictment, of books and papers procured from his r ceiver or trustee in bankruptcy, whom they had been delivered und an unconditional order of the ban ruptcy court, and which books and p pers contain information with resp to the matters charged in the indi ment against him. And further, the constitutional and statutory provisio do not prohibit the use of the boo and papers of a bankrupt, in the han of his receiver or trustee in bankru cy, as evidence against him in a cri inal prosecution for embezzlement a false pretenses, based upon the disc sures in such books and papers. U. v. Halstead (D. C. 1905) 38 App. C. 69.

A person undergoing an examinati in bankruptcy cannot refuse to answ questions concerning his dealings wi the bankrupt on the ground that h answers may furnish evidence again him in a civil action pending or to brought on behalf of the trustee bankruptcy. In re Cliffe (D. C. 189 97 Fed. 540, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 25 In re Fay (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 6 Fed. Cas. No. 4,708; In re Danfor (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. No. 3,560. A the constitutional privilege of refusi to give self-criminating testimony w not intended to shield the witness fr the personal disgrace or opprobri attaching to the exposure of his cri but only from actual prosecution a punishment. Hence, if the crime which he was implicated was such th a prosecution against him would barred by the statute of limitations, if he has already received a pardon f it, he may be compelled to answ n v. Walker (1896) 161 U. S. 591, up. Ct. 644, 40 L. Ed. 819. Nor a sufficient reason for refusing to er a proper and pertinent ques- that the answer will expose the ess to the contempt of the com- ty, or humiliate him, or bring him general disgrace, if he would not be liable to prosecution. In re ards (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 9. But if the question does not e to any matter of fact in issue, any matter contained in his di- testimony, the witness need not er it, and will not be compelled to er it, where he states that a truth- nswer would tend to degrade him. Danforth (D. C. 1842) Fed. Cas. 3,560; In re Lewis (D. C. 1870) Cas. No. 8,312.

the bankrupt volunteers a dis- re concerning property, assets, or ess dealings, he can be compelled into the matter fully. He cannot short at his own discretion, and e to answer further questions, on assertion that he might be crim- d. In re Bendheim (D. C. 1910) Fed. 918, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 254.

e bankrupt cannot claim the pro- on of the constitution where the tion objected to is clearly in the of cross-examination on what he volunteered himself, either in his ion and schedules or in testimony dy given. In re Walsh (D. C.) 104 Fed. 518, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep.

Where a bankrupt has filed dules, it is a representation that he no other property; and he cannot t to legitimate cross-examination reference thereto, on the ground it may incriminate him, so long as es not tend to develop any inde- ent fact. In re Tobias, Greenthal endelson (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed.

The bankrupt waives the privi- if he makes no objection to testi- before the referee, but answers questions put to him, so that any ssions made by him in the course he examination can properly be on his cross-examination in a inal proceeding against him. State urrell (1902) 27 Mont. 282, 70 982, affirmed, Burrell v. Montana 4) 194 U. S. 572, 24 Sup. Ct. 787, L. Ed. 1122. And where, at the nencement of the proceedings in ruptcy, he surrenders his books to receiver without raising any ques- of privilege as to their use against so far as it is a proper use of books by the trustee in bankruptcy llow prosecuting authorities to use , the bankrupt is chargeable with vledge of that right and has waiv- is privilege. In re Tarcy & Co. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 532, 23 Am. kr. Rep. 438.

. Use and effect of evidence.—The mony of a bankrupt, taken on his nination before the referee, is a of the record, to which creditors generally are entitled to access while it remains in the custody of the referee, and this remains true although the interests of the creditor seeking to examine the testimony are antagonistic to those of the trustee, in that the latter intends to sue the former to recover an alleged preference, and though a disclosure of the bankrupt's testimony, in view of his hostility to the trustee, may result prejudicially to the creditor. In re Samuelsohn (D. C. 1909) 174 Fed. 911, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 528. On the other hand, statements made by a bankrupt on his examination concerning the ownership of a particular article of property in his possession at the time of the filing of the petition, and in the absence of any documentary evidence as to the capacity in which he held it, are competent evidence, as admissions, though not conclusive, against his trustee on the hearing of a petition by an adverse claimant to reclaim the property, the trustee being at least to this extent in privity with the bankrupt. In re Thompson (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 681, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 794. But see Breckons v. Snyder (1905) 211 Pa. 176, 60 Atl. 575, holding that, where a trustee in bankruptcy sues to recover money of a bankrupt said to be in the hands of the defendant, the testimony of the bankrupt at the preliminary examination before the referee as to his assets and liabilities is not admissible in evidence, the issue not being between the same parties. The testimony of the bankrupt, taken on his examination and reduced to writing is admissible against him in a subsequent proceeding by the trustee to require him to surrender money or property of the estate alleged to be in his possession or under his control, and when the bankrupt is a corporation, the same rule applies to the testimony of any of its officers; but this does not apply in the case of any third person examined as a witness in the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Alphin & Lake Cotton Co. (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 824, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 653.

18. Witness fees and costs of examination.—The fees of a witness must be paid or tendered at the time of the service of the summons or subpœna upon him. In re Griffen (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 371, Fed. Cas. No. 5,810; In re Kerber (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 653, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 747. If the witness attends without the prepayment of the fees, the fees are to be collected as in ordinary actions and according to the practice of the courts therein. If there is an adjournment, the witness is entitled to be paid his attendance fee for the adjourned day before he is obliged to return on such adjourned day, and also travel fees, if it is reasonable for him to return to his home in the interval, as to which the referee is to judge. In re Griffen

(D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 5,810. The wife (or husband) of the bankrupt, if attending under an order and being examined as a witness, is entitled to the same fee and mileage as any other witness. In re Marcus (D. C. 1908) 160 Fed. 229, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 397; In re Griffen (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 5,810.

In regard to "expert witnesses," it has been decided that extra compensation to such persons, over and above the statutory witness fee and mileage, cannot be taxed as costs or allowed against a losing party in a court of bankruptcy, nor will the court be bound to make such an allowance because counsel have so agreed. In re Carolina Cooperage Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 604, holding also that any extra compensation to such witness may be a matter of private arrangement between the witness and the party calling him.

The cost of taking testimony must be defrayed by the party at whose instance it is taken, whether it be creditors seeking for information which will enable them to prepare opposition to the bankrupt's application for discharge, or the bankrupt himself desiring to have additional statements or explanations appear in the testimony after the examining creditors have finished their questions. In re Price (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 635, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 419; In re Mealy (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 128, Fed. Cas. No. 9,378; In re Eidom (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 160, Fed. Cas. No. 4,315; Scofield v. Moorhead (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 1, Fed. Cas. No. 12,-510. But this provision of the statute does not apply to hearings on the examination of the bankrupt before a special commissioner, and that, in such cases, the stenographer may be allowed a larger compensation if his bill is approved by the receiver and it is shown that all the examination was necessary and resulted in benefit to the estate. In re Stark (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 694, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 467.

19. Contempts by witnesses.—Disobedience on the part of a bankrupt to an order of the court requiring him to appear for examination, or refusal to be sworn or to answer a proper question, or to produce books and papers, is a contempt of court which may be punished, and the bankrupt's compliance compelled, by fine and imprisonment. Bankruptcy Act 1898, § 2, cl. 13. See In re Carpenter (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 299, Fed. Cas. No. 2,427; In re Holt (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 241, Fed. Cas. No. 6,646; In re Rosenfield (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 319, Fed. Cas. No. 12,059; In re Allen (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 208; In re Winship (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 17,878.

Where a bankrupt was examined before a special commissioner and failed to produce the cashbook of the bankrupt firm, testifying that he last saw it in the firm's office, but did not take it, such evidence did not indicate on face falsity or concealment suffici to justify contempt proceedings in absence of a certificate of the comm sioner that he was persuaded that witness' statements were false and t he was guilty of concealment. In Cantor (C. C. A. 1914) 215 Fed. 61. to contempt of court by refusal to p duce books, papers, and other do ments, see In re Herr (D. C. 191 182 Fed. 715, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1 In re Sorkin (D. C. 1908) 166 F 831, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 637; In Alper (D. C. 1907) 162 Fed. 207, Am. Bankr. Rep. 612; In re Fellerm (D. C. 1906) 149 Fed. 244, 17 A Bankr. Rep. 785; In re Johnson Knox Lumber Co. (1907) 151 Fed. 2 80 C. C. A. 259, 18 Am. Bankr. R 50; In re Soloway & Katz (D. C. 191 196 Fed. 132, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 3 In re Ironclad Mfg. Co. (C. C. A. 191 201 Fed. 66.

It is a contempt of court to interr and violently break up the examinati of a witness by persisting in the tempt to dictate to and prompt the w ness and control his answers, when t is done in an overbearing and viol manner and so as to prevent the f ther continuance of the examinati U. S. v. Anonymous (C. C. 1884) Fed. 761.

If the witness, after being duly su moned and after he has had a reaso ble time in which to make his appe ance, does not attend before the ref ee as ordered, the proper method of curing his presence is by an atta ment. Bowen v. Thornton (Pa. 18 9 Wkly. Notes Cas. 575. But this plies only to ordinary witnesses, compulsory measures of this kind not be directed, unless strictly nec sary, against one called as an expert one wanted only in the character of interpreter. In re Roelker (D. 1854) Fed. Cas. No. 11,995. And t process cannot be resorted to in case unless the witness was duly ord ed to appear by a summons, subpœ rule to show cause, or other pro process, and was tendered his pro fees and mileage. In re Johnson Knox Lumber Co. (1907) 151 Fed. 2 80 C. C. A. 259, 18 Am. Bankr. R 50. Nor unless the summons or or for examination was duly served wit the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy cou In re Hodges (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. 369, Fed. Cas. No. 6,562. But wher federal court orders the arrest of witness charged with having failed obey a subpœna issued by it, and d served, and the witness departs into other district before he can be arre ed, any judge of the United States h ing jurisdiction in the district to wh the witness has removed, may order arrest and removal back to the distr in which he is charged with the offen In re Ellerbe (C. C. 1882) 13 Fed. 5

When the contumacious conduct the part of the witness consists in al to answer a proper question, out any legal excuse or justification efor, he may be committed as for minal contempt, to stand commit- until he will answer the question h was propounded to him. People avidson (N. Y. 1885) 35 Hun, 471; le v. Fancher (N. Y. 1874) 4 np. & C. 467. But it must appear the matter in regard to which he interrogated was material and rele- to the point in issue, and that his er would not require him to crim- himself or to disclose privileged nunications. In re Romine (D. C.) 138 Fed. 837, 14 Am. Bankr. 785; Ex parte Peck (C. C.) Fed. Cas. No. 10,885.

hile a refusal to answer is contu- and a contempt, yet when an an- has been given, the judge in bank- cy cannot assume or decide that the er was false and punish the wit- for perjury as for a contempt. e v. Lazarus (1885) 37 La. Ann.

False swearing in an examina- in bankruptcy is a contempt of the t and punishable as such, notwith- ding that it is also a crime and pun- ble on indictment. In re Michaels C. 1912) 194 Fed. 552, 28 Am. kr. Rep. 38; In re Wiesebrock (D. 911) 188 Fed. 757, 26 Am. Bankr. 745; In re Shear (D. C. 1911) 188 677; Magen v. Campbell (1911) Fed. 675, 108 C. C. A. 531, 26 Bankr. Rep. 594; In re Bron- (D. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 349, 24 Bankr. Rep. 524; In re Magen C. 1910) 179 Fed. 572, 24 Am. kr. Rep. 63; In re Schulman (1910) Fed. 191, 101 C. C. A. 361, 23 Am. kr. Rep. 809; In re Singer (D. C.) 174 Fed. 208, 23 Am. Bankr. 28; In re Schulman (D. C. 1909) Fed. 237, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 288; re Gordon (D. C. 1909) 167 Fed. 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 290; In re in (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 71, 21 Bankr. Rep. 113; Ex parte Bick C. 1907) 155 Fed. 908, 19 Am. kr. Rep. 68; In re Fellerman (D. 906) 149 Fed. 244, 17 Am. Bankr. 785.

the witness refuses to answer tions or to produce books or pa- , but does so under the direction ounsel who in good faith advise him ursue that course, the circumstance palliate though it does not excuse contumacy, and he should not be ished (except, perhaps, to the ex- of paying costs) if he will profess readiness to submit to the exami- on, produce the books, etc., on the sion being rendered against him. S. v. Goldstein (D. C. 1904) 132 789, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 755; In re Fixen & Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 748, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 822; In re Rosenfield (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 319, Fed. Cas. No. 12,059; In re Winship (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 17,878. Where a bankrupt and two witnesses failed to appear for examination at an adjourned date, and after contempt proceedings were instituted against them appeared, apologized, and offered themselves freely for examination, they thereby purged themselves of the civil contempt, and the only question remaining was the punishment to be imposed to secure respect for the court's authority. In re Farkas (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 343.

Where proceedings to examine a bankrupt were instituted by petitioning creditors before the appointment of a receiver or trustee, an outside creditor, without applying to intervene and without leave, was not authorized to institute proceedings to punish the bankrupt for contempt in such examination. In re Cantor (C. C. A. 1914) 215 Fed. 61.

The referee in bankruptcy has no power to punish for contempts committed by witnesses before him. Bank of Ravenswood v. Johnson (1906) 143 Fed. 463, 74 C. C. A. 597, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 206; In re Schulman (1910) 177 Fed. 191, 101 C. C. A. 361, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 809. The referee must certify the facts to the judge, but if the judge shall find that they warrant the punishment of the witness, he may punish him in the same manner and to the same extent as for a contempt committed before the court of bankruptcy. See post, § 9625.

A rule requiring a bankrupt to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt for refusing to answer "sundry questions" put to him during his examination before the referee is not insufficient, although it does not set out the questions, where it refers to the transcript filed with the certificate of the referee, from which they fully appear. U. S. v. Goldstein (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 789, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 755.

Section 9591, ante, providing that bankrupt's testimony shall not be offered in evidence in any criminal proceeding, does not make the testimony inadmissible in a proceeding to punish him for contempt in giving evasive answers. Imprisonment of bankrupts for fixed term for contempt in giving evasive answers held justified; the proceeding having been initiated and prosecuted to punish the bankrupts and not to obtain civil relief. In re Kaplan Bros. (1914) 213 Fed. 753, 130 C. C. A. 267.

606. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 22.) Reference of cases after adjudication.

Reference of Cases after Adjudication.—a After a person has n adjudged a bankrupt the judge may cause the trustee to pro- d with the administration of the estate, or refer it (1) generally to the referee or specially with only limited authority to act in t premises or to consider and report upon specified issues; or (to any referee within the territorial jurisdiction of the court, the convenience of parties in interest will be served thereby, or f cause, or if the bankrupt does not do business, reside, or have l domicile in the district.

b The judge may, at any time, for the convenience of parties or f cause, transfer a case from one referee to another. (30 Stat. 552

Notes of Decisions

Reference of petitions and cases in bankruptcy.—Where a petition in bankruptcy is filed by certain of the members of a partnership, praying an adjudication against the firm, and averring that a partner who has not joined in the petition is not a resident of the district, and that his residence is unknown to the petitioners, if the judge of the court of bankruptcy is absent from the district, or the division of the district in which the petition is filed, at the time of its filing, the clerk should forthwith refer the case to the proper referee. In re Murray (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 600.

The authority to refer a petition in bankruptcy to the referee, in the absence of the judge, has not been conferred upon a deputy clerk of the court, but can be exercised only by the clerk in person. Bray v. Cobb (D. C. 1898) 91 Fed. 102, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 153. CONTRA, Gilbertson v. U. S. (1909) 168 Fed. 672, 94 C. C. A. 158, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 32. The referee cannot act on a petition sent to him by the clerk of the court if it is contested and issues raised by the bankrupt or any of his creditors on the facts stated, but he must certify the case to the judge. In re L. Humbert Co. (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 439, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 76; In re Murray (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 600, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 601.

This section does not permit a reference of the case to a referee until after an adjudication has been made. In re Back Bay Automobile Co. (D. C. 1907) 158 Fed. 679, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 835. But see In re Ruos (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 749, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 257. But where answers are filed to a petition in involuntary bankruptcy, it is proper for the court to refer the case to the referee (in the character of a special commissioner or master) to take and return the evidence and report upon the questions presented. Clark v. American Mfg. & E. Co. (1900) 101 Fed. 962, 42 C. C. A. 120, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 351; In re Lacov (1900) 134 Fed. 237, 67 C. C. A. 19, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 400. But compare, as to this point, In re King (1910) 179 Fed. 694, 103 C. C. A. 240, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 606. After an adjudication has been made, the judge may exercise his discretion as to which of the referees within his jurisdiction shall be placed in charge of the case, supposing none of them to be perso ally disqualified, and in so doing should consider what will best su serve the convenience of the parties terested in the estate. In re Weste Inv. Co. (D. C. 1908) 170 Fed. 677, Am. Bankr. Rep. 367. Where t place of business of a bankrupt fir and also the residence of one of members, were in one of the count comprised within the federal judic district where the adjudication w made, but the other partners resided two other counties in the same distri it was held to be within the discreti of the court of bankruptcy to send t case to the referee in either one the three counties. In re Watkins (1913) 205 Fed. 145, 123 C. C. 377. But this section refers only referees appointed within the distr where the case is pending, and t court has no jurisdiction to refer case, for any purpose whatever, to referee appointed and residing in a other district. In re Schenectady E gineering & Construction Co. (D. 1906) 147 Fed. 868, 17 Am. Ban Rep. 279.

As to referring a case specially, it the general practice, when petitio are presented for the reclamation of property by or from a trustee, requiring the determination of que tions respecting assets claimed as part of the bankrupt's estate, to ref them to a special master, or to a re eree in bankruptcy acting as spec master, to take the testimony and r port his conclusions of fact and la thereon. In re Tracy (1910) 179 Fe 366, 102 C. C. A. 644, 24 Am. Bank Rep. 539; In re Thomas (D. C. 188 35 Fed. 337. The powers of a spec referee, appointed on the petition a receiver for the property of an leged bankrupt pending a hearing the petition, with authority to exa ine the bankrupt and other witness in relation to the property and asse of the bankrupt, and for that spec purpose, with a view to discover wh had become of the bankrupt's pro erty, are superseded on the making an adjudication and an order of gene reference. In re Ruos (D. C. 190 164 Fed. 749, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 25

The fact that the order of refe ence designates a day "on" which t bankrupt shall attend before the re does not prevent that officer from g proper proceedings when the upt appears within a reasonable after the day fixed. His failure pear on or before the appointed vill not make it necessary to ob- a new order of reference. In re Hatcher (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 390, Fed. Cas. No, 6,210. But if the petitioner does not appear before the referee at the time fixed in the order, or within a reasonable time thereafter, excusing his delay, the petition may be dismissed. Id.

07. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 23, as amended, Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 8, and Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, § 7.) Jurisdiction of United States and State courts.

risdiction of United States and State Courts.—a The United es circuit courts shall have jurisdiction of all controversies at and in equity, as distinguished from proceedings in bankcy, between trustees as such and adverse claimants concerning property acquired or claimed by the trustees, in the same manner to the same extent only as though bankruptcy proceedings had been instituted and such controversies had been between the rupts and such adverse claimants.

Suits by the trustee shall only be brought or prosecuted in the ts where the bankrupt, whose estate is being administered by trustee, might have brought or prosecuted them if proceedings nkruptcy had not been instituted, unless by consent of the pro- d defendant, except suits for the recovery of property under sec- sixty, subdivision b; section sixty-seven, subdivision e; and on seventy, subdivision e.

The United States circuit courts shall have concurrent jurisdic- with the courts of bankruptcy, within their respective territorial s, of the offenses enumerated in this Act. (30 Stat. 552. 32 798. 36 Stat. 840.)

In this section, as originally enacted, subdivision b thereof was as follows: "b Suits by the trustee shall only be brought or prosecuted in the courts here the bankrupt, whose estate is being administered by such trustee, might ave brought or prosecuted them if proceedings in bankruptcy had not been in- ituted, unless by consent of the proposed defendant."

Said subdivision was amended by Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 8, cited above, by lding, at the end thereof, the words "except suits for the recovery of property nder section 60, subdivision b, and section sixty-seven, subdivision e."

It was further amended by Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, § 7, last cited above, by lding to said exception added by the previous amendment, at the end thereof, e words "section 70, subdivision e," making said subdivision b read as set rth here.

Section 19 of said first amendatory Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, 32 Stat. 801, rovided that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending when it ok effect, but that such cases should be adjudicated and disposed of con- rmably to the provisions of the original act.

Section 14 of said second amendatory Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, 36 Stat. 42, also provided that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending hen it took effect, but that such cases be adjudicated and disposed of con- rmably to the provisions of the original act as previously amended.

The circuit courts were abolished and their jurisdiction transferred to the istrict courts by Jud. Code, §§ 289–291, ante, §§ 1266–1268.

Notes of Decisions

its by or against trustees in bankruptcy in general rustee's right of action.

— Torts to bankrupt's property.
— Bankruptcy of corporations.
— Trustee's right of action exclusive.
eave or direction to sue.
uit by foreign assignee in bankruptcy.
uits against trustee.
— Form of action.
— Defenses.
— Judgment and enforcement thereof.
— Recovery of damages against trustee personally.
— Leave to sue.
13. Enjoining proceedings against trustee.
14. Garnishment of trustee.
15. Nature and form of remedy.
16. —— Suits in equity by trustee.
17. Summary proceedings in court of bankruptcy.
18. —— Against adverse claimants.
19. —— Determination of character of claim.
20. Joinder of causes of action.

II. Jurisdiction

21. Statutory provisions.
22. Jurisdiction of courts of bankruptcy.
23. —— Claims on property in possession of trustee.

II. Jurisdiction—Cont'd

24. —— Independent suits against third persons.
25. —— Preferences and fraudulent conveyances.
26. —— Suits which bankrupt could not have maintained.
27. —— Consent or waiver of objections.
28. Jurisdiction of other federal courts.
29. Jurisdiction of state courts.
30. Conflicting jurisdiction of state and federal courts.

III. Limitation of actions

31. Limitation of actions in general.
32. —— What suits and proceedings barred.
33. —— Ignorance of cause of action and concealed fraud.
34. —— Parties affected by statute.
35. —— Pleading the statute.
36. —— Laches of trustee.
37. —— Effect of reopening estate.

IV. Parties, pleading, evidence, and procedure

38. Parties.
39. —— Joinder of bankrupt.
40. Representation of trustee by counsel for bankrupt.
41. Injunction and receivership.
42. Allegations of trustee's bill or complaint.
43. Defenses to trustee's bill or complaint.
44. Pleadings in suits against trustees.
45. Burden of proof and evidence in trustee's suit.
46. Evidence in actions against trustee.
47. Trial and judgment.
48. Liability of trustee for costs.

I. SUITS BY OR AGAINST TRUSTEES IN BANKRUPTCY IN GENERAL

1. Trustee's right of action.—Though the bankruptcy act does not explicitly grant the right to sue to trustees in bankruptcy, yet the right of such trustee to bring and maintain whatever actions may become necessary in the process of collecting and reducing to money the assets of the estate may be derived by clear and necessary implications from various provisions of the act. Pease v. McQuillin (1901) 180 Mass. 135, 61 N. E. 819; Brunnemer v. Cook & Bernheimer Co. (1903) 89 App. Div. 406, 85 N. Y. Supp. 954; Johnson v. Bishop (C. C. 1868) 8 N. B. R. 533, Fed. Cas. No. 7,373; Babbitt v. Burgess (C. C. 1873) 7 N. B. R. 561, Fed. Cas. No. 693. The right to bring and maintain proper actions and suits is to be regarded as a necessary incident to the office of trustee. Mclanahan v. Blackwell (1903) 119 Ga. 64, 45 S. E. 785. The limitations upon the trustee's right to sue are, first, that the thing sought to be recovered shall be such as when recovered, shall be assets of the estate; and, second, that the action brought shall not be an action of tort for damages such as, at common law, is strictly personal and dies with the person. Trustees of Mutual Building Fund v. Bosseiux (D. C. 1880) 3 Fed. 817. But aside from questions of prefere or fraudulent conveyance, it is nec sary that the relation of debtor creditor should have existed betw the defendant and the bankrupt, circumstances must have existed wh equity would hold equivalent to s relation. Monroe v. Bushnell (19 158 Mich. 115, 122 N. W. 508. Th the trustee cannot maintain a suit the recovery of a statutory forfeit not claimed by the bankrupt either fore or after the beginning of bankruptcy proceedings. Bromley Smith (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 922. But since the statute vests with title to all the bankrupt's pr erty as of the date when he was judged a bankrupt, the trustee is hampered in suing for its recovery the previous appointment of a ceiver in a creditor's bill and the tra fer of the legal title to such recei Shainwald v. Davis (D. C. 1895) Fed. 687. But a trustee in bankrup has no right to sue on an agreem made between state receivers of bankrupt and one of its creditors; receivers must settle with the co which appointed them. Love v. port Storage Co. (1906) 143 Fed. 1, C. C. A. 155, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1

A trustee in bankruptcy should in his own name, not in the name the bankrupt, nor as use plain Ward v. Jenkins (Mass. 1846) 10 M 583; West v. Bank of Lahoma (19 16 Okl. 508, 86 Pac. 59.

A trustee in bankruptcy has a dis tion as to whether or not he will in vene in a suit pending in the name the bankrupt as plaintiff, and may pr erly refuse to continue its prosecut if it cannot result in benefit to the tate. In re Throckmorton (1906) Fed. 145, 79 C. C. A. 15, 17 Bankr. Rep. 856.

The trustee in bankruptcy represe the creditors and may sue to avoid conveyance which a creditor could h avoided. Blake v. Thwing (1914) Ill. App. 187. Crane v. Brewer (19 73 N. J. Eq. 558. 68 Atl. 78; In Geiver (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 128, Am. Bankr. Rep. 413. He may pay a creditor and be subrogated to rights in a pending suit against a t person, if it will be for the benefi the estate. In re Babcock (C. C. 18 Fed. Cas. No. 696. It is not a co tion to the filing of a bill by a tru in bankruptcy to reduce to posses the bankrupt's equitable assets that ecution should have issued upon judgments obtained by the bankru creditors. McKey v. Emanuel (19 104 N. E. 1051, 263 Ill. 276. As trustee represents the whole body creditors, he cannot ordinarily m tain an action in the name or for benefit of a single creditor or for advantage of less than all. Steven v. Bird (1910) 168 Ala. 422, 53 So 93; Smith v. Lawton (1869) 39 Ga.

mpare In re Bothe (1909) 173 97, 97 C. C. A. 547, holding that ee in bankruptcy represents all s interested in the estate, and force in the court of bankruptcy le rights existing in favor of cer- the creditors only.

contract made in a given state foreign corporation, and to be ned there, is void because of the of the corporation to comply he law of the state, its trustee kruptcy cannot sue on the con- in a federal court. Thomas v. gham Ry., Light & Power Co. 1912) 195 Fed. 340, 28 Am. Rep. 152.

trustee may recover property in nds of the bankrupt's assignee benefit of creditors. Faulkner lon (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 114. ay sue to set aside fraudulent rs of property or payments of made by the bankrupt. Meyer kins (Cal. App. 1913) 130 Pac. rewer v. Brown (1915) 268 Ill. 09 N. E. 264; Gregory v. Bing- Trust Co. (1915) 168 App. 05, 154 N. Y. Supp. 376. Trus- ld entitled to recover property rred to corporation organized by pt to defraud creditors, and to de chattel mortgage by the bank- and the corporation. Hane v. & Keystone Co. (D. C. 1915) ed. 439. A diamond engagement iven by a bankrupt to his fiancée, e was insolvent and within four s prior to his bankruptcy, held rable by his trustee. Pollock v. (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 1005. nce only such fraudulent convey- by bankrupts are null and void as t made to purchasers in good and for a present fair considera- e bankrupts may be denied a dis- because of a fraudulent convey- nd yet the property so conveyed recoverable. Lewis v. Julius (D. 3) 212 Fed. 225.

re a trustee had been appointed bankrupt, it was his duty to in- proceedings to recover alleged tant fees paid by the bankrupt to torneys to represent him in the dings; and such action could not en by creditors, in the absence averment that the trustee had equested, and had failed or re- to move. In re Oakley (D. C. 215 Fed. 265.

trustee may maintain suits to ide preferences given to particu- editors or to recover their pro- Lovell v. Latham & Co. (D. C. 211 Fed. 374; Rosenthal v. Nat. Bank (D. C. 1915) 222 83; In re Walsh Bros. (D. C. 163 Fed. 352, 21 Am. Bankr. 14; Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. (1905) 125 Wis. 465, 104 N. W. 5 Am. St. Rep. 955. Demand and l are not conditions precedent to ght of a trustee in bankruptcy to recover property received as a voidable preference. McCulloch v. Davenport Savings Bank (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 309.

The purchase price of land conveyed by a bankrupt to a stockholder of a creditor company, which furnished the money and received it back from the bankrupt, cannot be recovered by the trustee in bankruptcy as a preference, when the conveyance itself is set aside as a preference. Golden & Co. v. Loving (1914) 42 App. D. C. 489. One conspiring with L. to commit a fraud on the bankruptcy act, by advancing money to bankrupt to keep him going four months after preference to L., is, as well as L., liable to the trustee for accounts assigned by bankrupt on consideration of the advancement. Rubenstein v. Lottow (1915) 107 N. E. 718, 220 Mass. 156.

If an execution was levied on property of one who afterwards became bankrupt, and within such a time as to be avoided by the adjudication in bankruptcy, the trustee may claim the proceeds of the sale on such execution if they remain in the hands of the sheriff or have been paid into court, or if the money has been paid over to the execution creditor, the trustee may maintain a plenary suit against him to recover the proceeds as a voidable preference. In re Bailey (D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 214, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 289; In re Knickerbocker (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 1004, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 381; In re Blair (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 987, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 220; Horton v. Bamford (1911) 79 N. J. Eq. 356, 81 Atl. 761; Jordan v. Downey (1874) 40 Md. 401. Trustee in bankruptcy held entitled to sue for property sold under execution within four months before bankruptcy, or its value, without tendering back amount paid. Dreyer v. Kicklighter (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 744.

A trustee in bankruptcy may sue for the recovery of usurious interest paid by the bankrupt. Darby v. Boatman's Sav. Inst. (C. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 3,571; Bromley v. Smith (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 1,922. And for the bankrupt's share in a community estate. Collins v. Bryan (1905) 40 Tex. Civ. App. 88, 88 S. W. 432. And for an interest in a remainder assigned by the bankrupt. Clowe v. Seavey (1911) 74 Misc. Rep. 254, 131 N. Y. Supp. 817. And for property erroneously or improvidently surrendered to claimants by a previous receiver of the same estate in bankruptcy. Whitney v. Wenman (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 959, 14 Am. Bankr. 591. Where a bankrupt's trustee was in possession of certain gasoline engines received by the bankrupt under a conditional sale contract, and at the seller's direction by mistake delivered 4 of the machines to D. without payment or authority from the bankruptcy court, the trustee was entitled to recover from D. either the engines or their value. In re Caldwell Machinery Co. (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed. 428. The trustee in bankruptcy may sue for the profits of a manufacturing plant leased by the bankrupt corporation. Gill v. Bell's Knitting Mills (1910) 137 App. Div. 553, 121 N. Y. Supp. 692. And for an accounting on the part of a pledgee of property of the bankrupt, who has sold the same improvidently or contrary to the agreement of pledge. In re Peacock (C. C. 1910) 178 Fed. 851, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 159.

Where defendant took charge of a corporation's business under a factor's agreement entitling him to a lien for advances on stock, accounts receivable, etc., the corporation's trustee in bankruptcy was entitled to an accounting from defendant for merchandise sold, or its value, for accounts collected, and for loans and advances. Boise v. Talcott (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 268. Though it was decided in bankruptcy proceedings that possession of certain property was not in the bankrupt when the petition was filed, an assumpsit by the trustee and receiver for the proceeds of a sale thereof by a creditor who held warehouse receipts for the property, questions concerning such creditor's right to the proceeds may be litigated and the proceeds may be recovered by the trustee if the creditor was not bona fide or if an unlawful preference was given him. Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. First Nat. Bank (1912) 174 Ill. App. 339, judgment affirmed Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. National Storage Co. (1913) 103 N. E. 227, 260 Ill. 485.

It is within the province of a trustee in bankruptcy to maintain suits for the removal of clouds on the title of property coming into his hands as trustee. Lance v. Tainter (1904) 137 N. C. 249, 49 S. E. 211; Gazlay v. Williams (1906) 147 Fed. 678, 77 C. C. A. 662, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 249.

Rights of creditors enforceable under state statutes are enforceable by trustee in bankruptcy, though not available to him under the bankruptcy act. Courtney v. Fidelity Trust Co. (1914) 219 Fed. 57, 134 C. C. A. 595.

2. —— Torts to bankrupt's property. —A trustee in bankruptcy may sue on such torts as are not purely personal, but involve pecuniary injury or loss or diminution of the estate in bankruptcy. Brunnemer v. Cook & Bernheimer Co. (1903) 89 App. Div. 406, 85 N. Y. Supp. 954.

A suit by a trustee in bankruptcy against a mortgagee of the bankrupt to recover possession of property taken by the mortgagee under an alleged invalid mortgage is an independent and plenary suit by the trustee, and the mortgagee, answering to the merits, thereby admits the trustee's capacity to sue. In re Federal Contracting Co. (1914) 212 Fed. 688, 129 C. C. A. 224.

Creditors who obtain possession the debtor's property without his thority or consent, and proceed to minister it, by turning it into mo and paying off debts and claims, also liable to his trustee in bankrup afterwards appointed, who may them as for a conversion, or, waiv the tort, for the value of the prope In re Thomas (D. C. 1912) 199 I 214, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 945; S Bank of Chicago v. Cox (1906) Fed. 91, 74 C. C. A. 285, 16 Am. Ba Rep. 32. But the trustee cannot m tain a suit in tort for conspiracy in sisting the bankrupt to place his pr erty beyond the reach of credit against persons who are alleged have performed their acts of conspi pending the bankruptcy proceedings, before the adjudication, where it is alleged that any of the defendants ceived any portion of the estate, the only result of the conspiracy i turn the bankrupt's property into m ey in his hands, for which he has fa to account to the trustee. Fried v. Myers (1907) 30 Ohio Cir. Ct. 303.

The bankrupt himself is liable at suit of his trustee for a tort commi on the bankrupt's property when went into bankruptcy, and it is no fense to such an action that he has property of his own with which to spond. Carr v. Gale (C. C. 1847) Cas. No. 2,435.

It is not the duty of the trustee bring suits for the infringement patent owned by the bankrupt, and failure to do so is not negligence. tle v. Hall (C. C. 1887) 29 Fed.

3. —— Bankruptcy of corporatio The trustee of a bankrupt corpora may maintain appropriate proceed to enforce the liability of stockhol on their unpaid subscriptions for st Babbitt v. Read (D. C. 1914) 215 395; Bernard v. Carr (1914) 167 C. 481, 83 S. E. 816; Kiskadde Steinle (C. C. A. 1913) 203 Fed. 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 346; Babbit Read (C. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 712 Am. Bankr. Rep. 254; Edward Schillinger (1909) 148 Ill. App. Rathbone v. Ayer (1903) 84 App. 186, 82 N. Y. Supp. 235; Stocke Davidson (1906) 74 Kan. 214, 86 136, 118 Am. St. Rep. 315. Com Hunt v. Sharkey (1913) 20 Cal. 690, 130 Pac. 21.

Where a corporation becomes b rupt, payment upon unpaid subsc tions for capital stock cannot be enf ed, unless an assessment has been n by the proper court, or under its di tion, ratably distributing the liabili the bankrupt estate among the subsc ers. Hunt v. Sharkey (Cal. App. 1 130 P. 21. Notice to stockholder an opportunity to be heard as to validity of claims, and entry of an der directing proceedings against stockholders, held conditions prece ction by trustee in bankruptcy for id stock subscriptions. Chamber- v. Piercy (Wash. 1914) 143 P. 977. here, in proceedings to wind up an vent corporation, it was not clear the indebtedness would require ent in full of unpaid stock sub- tions, the corporation's trustee in ruptcy could not maintain a suit efor without a preliminary investi- n and assessment of the amount ssary to pay debts and expenses. ff v. Gilbert Transp. Co. (D. C.) 204 Fed. 349.

e trustee of a bankrupt corpora- may sue for the recovery of div- ds unlawfully paid out of capital. rell v. Albany Card & Paper Mfg. (1911) 142 App. Div. 148, 126 N. upp. 1070.

e trustee for a bankrupt corpora- may maintain an action under sec- 66 of the New York Stock Corpo- n Law against a trustee under a to recover payments made when vent and with intent to prefer the tor paid. Cardozo v. Brooklyn t Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 228 Fed.

der the law of Ohio, where a part- transfers his interest in the part- hip property to a corporation, and ves in exchange stock of the cor- tion which at par exceeds the value uch property, he is liable for the rence on the bankruptcy of the cor- tion, and such liability may be en- ed by the trustee. Kiskadden v. le (1913) 203 Fed. 375, 121 C. C. 59.

— Trustee's right of action ex- ve.—Upon an adjudication in bank- cy, the bankrupt's property and s of action vest in his trustee, and eafter suits in respect to the same be brought in the name of the tee, not in that of the bankrupt. au v. Johnson (N. Y. 1883) 66 . Prac. 4; Rea v. Richards (1876) la. 396; First Nat. Bank v. Waite 5) 57 Vt. 608; Elderkin v. Elder- (Conn. 1789) 1 Root, 139. If the rupt sues, it is a good plea in ement that he has been adjudicated a trustee appointed. Cook v. Lans- (C. C. 1847) Fed. Cas. No. 3,162. conversely, it is no defense to a by the trustee to recover a debt to the bankrupt that the same has been claimed by the bankrupt set-off in a pending suit. Miller Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. (C. C.) Fed. Cas. No. 9,566.

fore the election and qualification trustee, any creditor of the bank- has the right to institute a suit et aside a fraudulent conveyance or ver a preference, but when a trus- is elected pending such a suit, he ntitled to become a party plaintiff ein. Frost v. Latham & Co. (C. C.) 181 Fed. 866, 25 Am. Bankr. 313. If creditors, acting inde- lently, bring suits for the recovery of assets which the trustee is negligently or intentionally permitting to escape, it does not lie with the trustee to complain of their action. Davis v. W. F. Vandiver & Co. (1905) 143 Ala. 202, 38 South. 850.

After the trustee is in the exercise of his official functions, it belongs to him alone to institute and maintain a suit to set aside a fraudulent conveyance or recover a preference, at least to the exclusion of any creditor who has not a special lien on the property affected. Viquesney v. Allen (1904) 131 Fed. 21, 65 C. C. A. 259, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 402; Moore-Schafer Shoe Mfg. Co. v. Billings (1905) 46 Or. 401, 80 Pac. 422; New Orleans Nat. Banking Ass'n v. Le Breton (C. C. 1882) 14 Fed. 646. And the fact that creditors of a bankrupt had acquired a lien on property fraudulently transferred more than four months before the bankruptcy, and are therefore entitled to sue to set aside the conveyance, notwithstanding the bankruptcy proceedings, does not deprive the bankrupt's trustee of the right to maintain a similar suit, especially where the creditors have not yet brought their suit, and are joined as defendants in the trustee's suit. Thomas v. Roddy (1907) 122 App. Div. 851, 107 N. Y. Supp. 473.

5. Leave or direction to sue.—Before attempting to take the place of the bankrupt in a pending suit, the trustee should obtain the consent or order of the court of bankruptcy. Hahlo v. Cole (1906) 112 App. Div. 636, 98 N. Y. Supp. 1049; In re Haensell (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. 355, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 286; The Alert (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 542.

A suit to collect a debt, set aside a fraudulent transfer, or recover a preference may be brought in a state court by the trustee on his own initiative and responsibility, without first obtaining the leave or direction of the court of bankruptcy, and the fact that he proceeds without any order from that court is no defense or valid objection. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Mann (1903) 118 Ga. 381, 45 S. E. 426; Cartwright v. West (1908) 155 Ala. 619, 47 South. 93; Chism v. Citizens' Bank (1900) 77 Miss. 599, 27 South. 637; Chism v. Bank of Friars Point (Miss. 1900) 27 South. 610; Edwards v. Schillinger (1909) 148 Ill. App. 227; Avery v. Ryerson (1876) 34 Mich. 362; Hallack v. Tritch (C. C. 1878) 17 N. B. R. 293, Fed. Cas. No. 5,956. Compare Chisolm v. Wallace (1906) 146 Ala. 683, 40 South. 219. And see, under the act of 1867, Pollock v. Hill (1881) 69 Ala. 515; Maybin v. Raymond (C. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 353, Fed. Cas. No. 9,338. As to necessity of previous demand or notice to defendant, see Grant v. National Bank of Auburn (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 581, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 712.

The provision of the statute that trustees shall collect and liquidate the assets of the estate "under the direction of the court" does not require an express order or direction to institute any particular suit. Callahan v. Israel (1904) 186 Mass. 383, 71 N. E. 812.

A trustee who hesitates or refuses to bring a suit for the recovery of assets may be ordered to do so on the petition of a creditor, provided the latter will give a bond to protect the estate from liability for costs and expenses. In re Bailey (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 953, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 226.

Stockholders cited by the federal court which authorized the trustee of the bankrupt corporation to collect sums due on stock subscriptions can question the order authorizing suit only in a direct proceeding in the federal court. Bernard v. Carr (1914) 83 S. E. 816, 167 N. C. 481.

6. Suit by foreign assignee in bankruptcy.—While the right of a foreign assignee in bankruptcy, as respects the assets of the bankrupt, must yield to the claims of creditors of the bankrupt seeking the aid of the domestic courts, yet such foreign assignee may, as the representative of the bankrupt, sue to collect the assets to the same extent as the bankrupt could have done had not bankruptcy intervened, though whether he may sue in his own name or must sue in the name of the bankrupt is a local question, depending upon whether or not an assignment by operation of law is sufficient to enable the assignee to sue in his own name. Hunt v. Jackson (C. C. 1866) Fed. Cas. No. 6,893; Blane v. Drummond (C. C. 1803) Fed. Cas. No. 1,531; Merrick's Estate (Pa. 1842) 5 Watts & S. 9; In re Merrick (Pa. 1841) 2 Ashm. 485. CONTRA, Mosselman v. Caen (N. Y. 1861) 34 Barb. 66; Id. (1874) 1 Hun. 647: Id., 4 Thomp. & C. 171, 10 N. B. R. 512.

7. Suits against trustee.—A trustee in bankruptcy may be sued by any one having a valid claim against him for acts done in the administration of the estate, as, for the recovery of money which has come into his hands but which does not constitute assets of the estate, properly belonging to the plaintiff, or for the conversion of goods similarly claimed by such plaintiff as his own. In re Snelling (D. C. 1912) 202 Fed. 258; Gardner v. Planters' Nat. Bank (1909) 54 Tex. Civ. App. 572, 118 S. W. 1146; Schall v. Kinsella (1906) 117 La. 687, 42 South. 221; Hosmer v. Jewett (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 6,713; Smith v. Gordon (D. C. 1843) 6 Law Rep. 313, Fed. Cas. No. 13,052; North Carolina v. Trustees of University (C. C. 1871) 65 N. C. 714, 5 N. B. R. 466, Fed. Cas. No. 10,318; Cogdell v. Exum (1873) 69 N. C. 464, 12 Am. Rep. 657, 10 N. B. R. 326. A petition for reclamation from a receiver in bankruptcy of property s to the bankrupt conditionally was p maturely filed before the maturity o note whereby the time of payment v extended. In re Wegman Piano (D. C. 1915) 221 Fed. 128. So, a s may be maintained against the trus to establish the validity and lien of incumbrance on property of the ba rupt in his hands. Chattanooga N Bank v. Rome Iron Co. (C. C. 18 99 Fed. 82, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 5 Nauman Co. v. Bradshaw (1912) Fed. 350, 113 C. C. A. 274, 27 A Bankr. Rep. 565. Or by a chattel mo gagee to establish his claim upon fund arising from the trustee's sale the mortgaged goods, where a s was ordered reserved out of the p ceeds of the sale to satisfy any li which might be established. Skilton Codington (1906) 185 N. Y. 80, 77 E. 790, 113 Am. St. Rep. 885. Or trustee may officially be made a defe ant in a suit to foreclose a mortgage property of the bankrupt, commen after his appointment and qualificat Landon v. Townshend (1889) 112 Y. 93, 19 N. E. 424, 8 Am. St. R 712. So, also, an action lies aga him for money received by him as sets of the estate and not paid over creditors. Hall v. Cushing (1812 Mass. 521. A trustee in bankrup who has been charged by the ba ruptcy court in a summary proceed with the value of property which ca into his possession as assets of the tate, and was improperly delivered him to a firm in which he was a pa ner, may be enjoined by a state co from using the partnership assets satisfy the judgment against hims Hebert v. Crawford (1913) 228 U. 204, 33 Sup. Ct. 484, 57 L. Ed. 800 Am. Bankr. Rep. 24.

An action lies against a trustee bankruptcy for wrongfully paying ou fund in his hands to other credi than the one solely entitled to it. S. v. Dewey (C. C. 1889) 39 Fed. But a suit against the trustee is a proper or permissible procedure one who is simply a creditor of bankrupt and seeks thereby to col his debt. He must take the cou prescribed by the statute, proving claim in the bankruptcy proceedings taking his dividend with the rest. lin v. Foster (C. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. 2,519. In an ancillary suit by a ba rupt's trustee in a different jurisdic to recover alleged assets, claima may not intervene to impress a t on such assets in their favor. Kna Nachod & Kuhne v. Latham & (1915) 219 Fed. 721, 135 C. C. A. modifying order Lovell v. Same (D 1914) 211 Fed. 374.

The owner of timber, which one sequently adjudged bankrupt has tracted to cut and remove, may in on payment of damages by the tru reach of contract, as well as the before delivering the timber, and t a general creditor as to such ges. Mankins v. Forward Move- Syndicate (Cal. App. 1915) 152 3.

cannot sue a trustee in bank- y in a state court whose claim perly to be presented to the court nkruptcy as a part of the legiti- expenses of administration. In npire Construction & Supply Co. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 495, 19 Am. r. Rep. 704.

bankrupt himself has no stand- sue the trustee in respect to any rty vesting in the latter by vir- f the adjudication. In re Kranich C. 1909) 174 Fed. 908, 23 Am. r. Rep. 550.

the trustee dies or absconds pend- he suit, his co-trustee or his suc- r in the office of trustee may be ght in. Fenton v. Collerd (D. C.) Fed. Cas. No. 4,731.

e who purchases property pending t concerning it against the trustee nkruptcy is bound by the subse- proceedings. Kimberling v. Hart- . C. 1880) 1 Fed. 571.

— Form of action.—If the trus- alleged to have in his possession, have converted to the use of the e, property which did not consti- a part of the assets in bankruptcy, ay be sued in trespass or trover ts value by the rightful owner. In pitzer (1904) 130 Fed. 879, 66 C. . 35, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 346; In ussell (C. C. A. 1900) 101 Fed. 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 658; Truda v. od (1901) 71 N. H. 185, 51 Atl. But compare In re Mertens (D. 904) 131 Fed. 507, 12 Am. Bankr. 698. But not in replevin, since atter form of action would involve physical change of possession of erty which, being in the hands of rustee as an officer, is in the cus- and exclusive control of the court bankruptcy. Weeks v. Fowler 2) 71 N. H. 221, 51 Atl. 624; by v. Spear (1904) 98 Me. 542, tl. 881, 99 Am. St. Rep. 424; Con- Iron & Metal Co. v. Couch (1909) N. H. 593, 73 Atl. 301; Yegen v. hern Pac. Ry. Co. (1909) 19 N. D. 121 N. W. 205. But see Ayers v. well (1907) 196 Mass. 349, 82 N. 5, holding that one may maintain evin in a state court to obtain pos- ion of the property of a bankrupt, the adjudication in bankruptcy, before anything else has been done btain possession of his property in Federal courts.

state court has no jurisdiction to rtain a suit to enjoin the collection ssets by a trustee in bankruptcy. hern v. Fisher (1875) 6 S. C. 345, N. B. R. 414; Keegan v. King (D. 899) 96 Fed. 758, 3 Am. Bankr. 79.

Under Code Ala. 1907, §§ 5858, 5859, a defendant in a suit by a trustee in bankruptcy of a corporation held entitled by cross-bill to set off claims. West v. Cowan (Ala. 1914) 66 So. 816.

9. — Defenses.—In a suit against a trustee in bankruptcy, he is limited to such defenses on behalf of creditors as they themselves would be entitled to rely on. Marine Sav. Bank v. Norton (1910) 160 Mich. 614, 125 N. W. 754. He may plead usury, and probably it is his duty to do so. In re Hoole (D. C. 1880) 3 Fed. 496. He may plead the illegality of the consideration, as where the note in suit was given in a gambling transaction. In re Hill (D. C. 1911) 187 Fed. 214, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 133. The defense of usury held available to the trustee in bankruptcy of the debtor. Loganville Banking Co. v. Forrester (Ga. App. 1916) 87 S. E. 694.

10. — Judgment and enforcement thereof.—If the trustee, being made defendant to a suit, fails to come in and assert his rights, he will be as much barred by a default judgment or decree as any other party. Turner v. Indianapolis, B. & W. Ry. Co. (C. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 14,259.

Where, in an action in a circuit court against the trustee of a bankrupt in his official capacity, a judgment has been rendered against the trustee, the plaintiff should be required to apply to the bankruptcy court, which has exclusive possession of and jurisdiction to administer the estate, and of which defendant is an officer, for all orders relating to the satisfaction or payment of such judgment. J. B. McFarlan Carriage Co. v. Solanas (1901) 106 Fed. 145, 45 C. C. A. 253, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 442.

A court of bankruptcy cannot, by a summary order, require a trustee to pay a judgment for costs rendered against him in another jurisdiction, where there are no funds of the estate in his hands. In re Howard (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 1004, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 462.

11. — Recovery of damages against trustee personally.—A trustee in bankruptcy is not liable to suit in a state court for any acts done in the performance of his duty under the orders of the court of bankruptcy. Wood v. Cummings (1908) 197 Mass. 80, 83 N. E. 318. But he may be sued for damages for any wrongful acts which were entirely beyond his authority or duty and which resulted in injury to third persons. Berman v. Smith (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 735, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 662. An action lies against a trustee in bankruptcy for willful injury to creditors of the estate, resulting from his omission or improper performance of his duties as to notifying them of meetings, or retaining sufficient funds to provide for their known but undetermined claims. Russell v. Phelps (1880) 42 Mich. 377, 4 N. W. 1. For wrongful acts done by a trustee in bankruptcy beyond the scope of his authority or duty the estate of the bankrupt is not liable, but only the trustee individually. Adams v. Meyers (D. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 62.

The jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy over the estate of the bankrupt does not exclude the jurisdiction of the state courts to entertain an action for the abatement of a liquor nuisance on property of the estate, that being a matter of police regulation, which does not interfere with the proper jurisdiction of the federal court. Radford v. Thornell (1890) 81 Iowa, 709, 45 N. W. 890.

12. —— Leave to sue.—A trustee in bankruptcy cannot be sued in a state court, unless upon leave first obtained from the court of bankruptcy under which he is acting, where the object of the suit is to recover or reclaim specific property claimed by the trustee to constitute part of the estate in his hands and which he has reduced to possession. In re Russell (1900) 101 Fed. 248, 41 C. C. A. 323, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 658; Turrentine v. Blackwood (1900) 125 Ala. 436, 28 South. 95, 82 Am. St. Rep. 254; Carney v. Averill (1912) 110 Me. 172, 85 Atl. 494. A suit of this character brought against him without leave may be enjoined at his request by the court of bankruptcy. Lloyd v. Ball (D. C. 1896) 77 Fed. 365. If leave to sue was improvidently granted, it may be revoked by the court of bankruptcy on being fully advised of all the facts. In re Schermerhorn (1906) 145 Fed. 341, 76 C. C. A. 215, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 507.

But if the object of the suit is only to establish a lien or recover a money judgment, and it does not seek in any way to disturb the trustee's possession of property in his hands, or to interfere with or contravene the proceedings of the courts of bankruptcy, it may be maintained without leave of the bankruptcy court. Gardner v. Planters' Nat. Bank (1909) 54 Tex. Civ. App. 572, 118 S. W. 1146; In re Smith (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 1014, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 603.

13. Enjoining proceedings against trustee.—Since the possession of property of a bankrupt by his trustee is the possession of the court of bankruptcy, and that possession cannot be lawfully disturbed or ousted by any person without the permission of the court, the court has undoubted power and jurisdiction to enjoin any proceeding intended to take specific property out of the hands of the trustee. In re Schermerhorn (1906) 145 Fed. 341, 76 C. C. A. 215, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 507; Lloyd v. Ball (D. C. 1896) 77 Fed. 365; In re Russell (1900) 101 Fed. 248, 41 C. C. A. 323, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 658; Keegan v. King (D. 1899) 96 Fed. 758, 3 Am. Bankr. 79; In re People's Mail S. S. Co. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 552, Fed. No. 10,970; Hewett v. Norton (C. 1870) 13 N. B. R. 276, Fed. Cas. 6,441; In re Miller (C. C. 1874) Cas. No. 9,551. And a similar rule plies to any proceeding which w seriously interfere with the admi tration of the estate in bankruptcy cause unnecessary loss to creditors, for example, a suit in ejectment to cover premises leased to the bankr and which the receiver in bankrup continues to occupy for the purpos closing up the business of the ba rupt. In re Chambers (D. C. 19 98 Fed. 865, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 53

But the court will not stay suits ceeding in the state courts betw different creditors of the bankr when the trustee in bankruptcy ready has possession of the prope which is the subject-matter of s suits, and cannot be bound or in way affected by the results of s litigation. Main v. Bromley (D. 1881) 6 Fed. 477. And where a in equity is pending in another co to establish a lien on a fund in hands of a trustee in bankruptcy, i doubtful whether that court has ju diction to restrain the trustee from tributing the fund to creditors, pend the determination of the suit, pr ably the better rule requiring the c plainant to resort to the court of ba ruptcy for an order to that eff Chattanooga Nat. Bank v. Rome I Co. (C. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 82, 3 A Bankr. Rep. 582.

14. Garnishment of trustee.—A tr tee in bankruptcy cannot be requi by the process of garnishment, to count to a judgment creditor of bankrupt with respect to money property in his hands as such trus for it is in the custody of the law under the control of the court of ba ruptcy alone, and moreover the tr tee does not hold as the debtor or agent of the bankrupt, but adversely him. Colby v. Coates (Mass. 1850 Cush. 558; Lord v. Meachem (18 32 Minn. 66, 19 N. W. 346; Oliver Smith (1809) 5 Mass. 183; Field Jones (1852) 11 Ga. 413; Com. Hide & Leather Ins. Co. (1875) Mass. 155. But see In re Kranich C. 1910) 182 Fed. 849, 25 Am. Ban Rep. 50.

Neither money in the hands of trustee which is distributable in form of dividends, nor money paya under a composition agreement, can reached or tied up by the process attachment or garnishment from other court. In re Kohlsaat (D. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 570, Fed. Cas. 7,918. And this is true even afte dividend has been declared, the pre sum ascertained to which the particu creditor will be entitled, and the tr ordered to pay him that sum. Still udgment creditor of that creditor not obtain satisfaction of his claim garnishment of such distributive e. For it remains within the exive jurisdiction of the court of kruptcy, not only until its payment he creditor is ordered, but until it actually been paid to him. In re ningham (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. Fed. Cas. No. 3,478.

5. Nature and form of remedy.—If trustee in bankruptcy brings his ac- in the court of bankruptcy, it will governed by the ordinary rules of edure in the federal courts, such hat which preserves the distinction veen legal and equitable causes of on, and if the suit is essentially one quitable cognizance, it will be tria- by the court without a jury. Dok- v. Page (1906) 147 Fed. 438, 77 C. A. 674, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 228. the other hand, if he goes into the e courts, he must bring an action gnized by the state laws as apriate to secure the relief for which sks. McCormick v. Page (1901) 96 App. 447. And he will be bound he rules of procedure in the state ts. Bacon v. George (1910) 206 s. 566, 92 N. E. 721. In a suit by ustee in bankruptcy to set aside a dulent conveyance of the bankrupt, trustee must bring his case within rules of pleading and proof preed by the statutes and decisions of state wherein the suit is brought. man v. Hagey (Mo. 1913) 158 S. 829.

trustee in bankruptcy may sue in mpsit for the value of a preferen- transfer of goods by the bankrupt creditor, as the latter takes the ls impressed with the obligation ted by the bankruptcy act to re- e or pay on the trustee's electing ue, such obligation being a quasi ract. Reber v. Ellis Bros. (D. C. 1) 185 Fed. 313, 25 Am. Bankr. 567; Edwards v. Schillinger Bros. (1910) 153 Ill. App. 219. An ac- to recover property received by ndant as a voidable preference unsection 9644, post, held not a part he bankruptcy proceedings, but a roversy between the trustee and a d party. McCulloch v. Davenport ings Bank (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed.

the action concerns goods in the ession of a third person, but claim- s assets of the estate in bankrupt- the trustee may maintain replevin. don v. Farrington (1881) 46 Mich. 9 N. W. 456; Godwin v. Tuttle 1914) 141 Pac. 1120. If the ob- of the suit is to recover the value property transferred by the bank- t in fraud of the act or for the pur- e of hindering or defrauding his litors, the proper form of action is er. Lyon v. Clark (1902) 129 h. 381, 88 N. W. 1046; Jackman Eau Claire Nat. Bank (1905) 125 Wis. 465, 104 N. W. 98, 115 Am. St. Rep. 955; Chickering v. Raymond (1854) 15 Ill. 362; Carr v. Gale (C. C. 1847) Fed. Cas. No. 2,435. See Shuman v. Fleckenstein (D. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 224, Fed. Cas. No. 12,826; Brooke v. McCraken (C. C.) 10 N. B. R. 461, Fed. Cas. No. 1,932. But in the case of a sale of the debtor's property under attachment, if the trustee desires to pursue the attaching creditor, the officer making the sale, and the purchaser at the sale, on the ground that the attachment was dissolved by the debtor's adjudication in bankruptcy and that the defendants had notice thereof, the proper form of action is trespass, and not trover. Wallace v. Camp (1901) 200 Pa. 220, 49 Atl. 942. A creditor of a bankrupt which caused an attachment suit to be brought by one to whom it assigned its claim, and after the bankruptcy had property of the bankrupt sold by the sheriff to pay its judgment, held liable in conversion to the trustee. Withoft v. Western Meat Co. (D. C. 1913) 210 Fed. 986.

If property seized by the marshal has been surrendered to a claimant on a forthcoming bond, and the title of the claimant is finally adjudged invalid, but he is then insolvent, the trustee may proceed directly on the bond. Storrs v. Engel (D. C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 13,494.

He may also maintain a writ of error to reverse a judgment rendered against the bankrupt. Day v. Laflin (Mass. 1843) 6 Metc. 280.

But a refund of taxes formerly paid by the bankrupt and ordered by the state legislature to be restored to him, cannot be enforced by mandamus against the state auditor. Graham v. Norton (1872) 15 Wall. 427, 21 L. Ed. 177. And the trustee in bankruptcy of a tenant in common will not be allowed to sue in a state court for partition, when the provisions of the state laws and those of the bankruptcy act, which would be applicable to the resulting sale, are so irreconcilable that a conflict of jurisdiction would inevitably arise between the state court and the court of bankruptcy. Lindsay v. Rumkle (1910) 82 Ohio St. 325, 92 N. E. 489, 29 L. R. A. (N. S.) 659, 137 Am. St. Rep. 781.

16. —— Suits in equity by trustee.—A trustee in bankruptcy may bring a bill in equity, in the proper court, when the case is properly one of equitable cognizance. In re Plant (D. C. 1906) 148 Fed. 37, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 272. Assumpsit by the trustee and receiver of a bankrupt against creditors for the proceeds of the sale of certain property is in the nature of an equitable action. Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. First Nat. Bank (1912) 174 Ill. App. 339.

The trustee in bankruptcy must pursue appropriate remedies in all cases, and not resort to equity when he has a plain and adequate remedy at law, nor seek an injunction, receivership, or other equitable relief, where the proper course is to bring trover or replevin, or where a simple money judgment will give him all the relief to which he is entitled. In re Oregon Iron Works (D. C. 1877) 17 N. B. R. 404, Fed. Cas. No. 10,562; Sessler v. Nemcof (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 656, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 618. Where a bill by a trustee in bankruptcy of a person having a license by contract to conduct a concession in an amusement park alleges that by a conspiracy between the park and the principal stockholder the license was forfeited and that property was withheld from the concessionaire, and the decree ordered the forfeiture to be set aside and awarded a sum of money for the value of the concession, the theory of the bill and the decree is fallacious, since the remedy is at law for a breach of the contract. Day v. Luna Park Co. (1912) 174 Ill. App. 477.

Where the object is to set aside a fraudulent conveyance or recover the value of property fraudulently transferred by the debtor, a bill in equity in the form of a creditor's bill may be an appropriate form of action. Stotesbury v. Cadwallader (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 13,498; Taylor v. Rasch (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 399, Fed. Cas. No. 13,801; Simpson v. Western Hardware & Metal Co. (D. C. 1915) 227 Fed. 304. In the case of an alleged preferential payment by the bankrupt, where no actual fraud is charged, and there is no demand for the cancellation or setting aside of any conveyance, it is thought that a bill in equity will not lie, the case being one for an action at law as for money had and received. Maxwell v. Davis Trust Co. (1911) 69 W. Va. 276, 71 S. E. 270; Reber v. Ellis Bros. (D. C. 1911) 185 Fed. 313, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 567; Edwards v. Schillinger Bros. Co. (1910) 153 Ill. App. 219. But other decisions justify the maintenance of a bill in equity in this case on the ground that it is analogous to a creditor's suit to vacate a fraudulent conveyance. Parker v. Sherman (1914) 212 Fed. 917, 129 C. C. A. 437; Pond v. New York Exchange Bank (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 992, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 343; Parker v. Black (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 560, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 202; Arnold v. Knapp (W. Va. 1915) 84 S. E. 895.

A trustee in bankruptcy is not entitled to an order restraining the bankrupt and his wife from conveying real estate of which they are seised as tenants by entirety, since the court has no power to restrain the wife, and whatever title the bankrupt had, which he could have conveyed, passed from him to the trustee by operation of law on the adjudication. In re Beihl (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 870, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 310.

17. Summary proceedings in court of bankruptcy.—When the trustee seeks to recover property of the bankrupt whic is in the hands of a third person, wh makes no claim of title to it in his ow right, he need not resort to a plenar suit, but may institute summary pro ceedings in the court of bankruptcy by simple petition and order to show caus In re Fogelman (D. C. 1911) 188 Fe 755, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 742; In r Holland (D. C. 1910) 176 Fed. 62 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 835; In re Ho brook Shoe & Leather Co. (D. C. 1908 165 Fed. 973, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 511 In re Wiesen Bros. (D. C. 1905) 13 Fed. 164, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 27; I re Breslauer (D. C. 1903) 121 Fe 910, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 33. If n adverse claim to money or propert was made at the time the petition i bankruptcy was filed, the title theret passes to the trustee on his appoint ment, and the court has jurisdiction t require its surrender to him by a sum mary order, notwithstanding any ad verse right subsequently asserted by th party in possession. In re Davis (D C. 1903) 119 Fed. 950, 9 Am. Bankr Rep. 670. Where there is an advers claim to property, based on a transfe antedating bankruptcy, it can only b determined in a plenary suit; but wher the property is in the physical posses sion of a third person or agent of th bankrupts, who refuses to deliver, th trustee may recover it by means of a summary order. In re Goldstein (C. C A. 1914) 216 Fed. 887. A summary order of a court of bankruptcy, direct ing an adverse claimant of property t deliver possession of the same to it receiver, is not an adjudication of th title or right to ultimate possession. I re Petronio (C. C. A. 1914) 220 Fed 269.

Summary proceedings by the trustee are proper where the defendant holds the property merely as the agent o bailee of the bankrupt, not pretending himself to be the owner. Mueller v Nugent (1902) 184 U. S. 1, 22 Sup. Ct 269, 46 L. Ed. 405, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep 224; Wayne Knitting Mills v. Nugent (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 530, 4 Am Bankr. Rep. 747. The right to draw checks against an account in a bank distinguishes the possession of the bank from that of an ordinary debtor, and gives the bankruptcy court the right to order payment to the trustee of such deposits as are not claimed by the bank on some other ground than its holding as a depository. In re Radley Steel Const. Co. (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 462. Summary proceedings are proper where the object is to reach surplus income in the hands of a testamentary trustee. In re Baudouine (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 536, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 55. Or where the person holding the property is a mere cover or receptacle for it, for the purpose of concealing it and placing it beyond the reach of the bankrupt's creditors. Salsburg v. Blackford (C. C. A. 1913) 204 Fed. 438, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 320; In re dman (D. C. 1907) 153 Fed. 939, Am. Bankr. Rep. 112. But see In Mayer (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 839, 3 Bankr. Rep. 533, holding that the mary power of the court of bankcy cannot be employed to reach perty which is in the hands of third ons claiming title thereto by transor conveyance from the bankrupt r to the bankruptcy proceedings, gh such transfer was manifestly dulent. And see In re Stevens (D. 877) Fed. Cas. No. 13,390. Whethn bankrupt's trustee may maintain mary proceedings against the bank: and his wife to recover funds and rities in her hands alleged to be: to the estate, or is required to inte a plenary action against her, ends on whether she holds the prop pursuant to a bona fide claim or ely as agent for the bankrupt. In Shea (D. C. 1914) 211 Fed. 365. to justify the recovery of assets of estate by summary proceedings, it necessary that the property should followed into the hands of the detory and sufficiently identified to ble the marshal to take possession it without mistake. In re Jackier C. 1910) 179 Fed. 720, 24 Am. kr. Rep. 790. Where there is a inous contrivance between the bankt and others to embezzle the estate the benefit of the bankrupt and his ferred creditors, the court of bankcy may interpose by injunction. In Connolly (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 620, m. Bankr. Rep. 842; In re Smith C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 12,993. ere the bankrupt, after the filing of petition, sells goods in his possesn to one chargeable with knowledge the fraudulent character of the nsaction, the court of bankruptcy compel the restitution of the prop or its proceeds in a summary proding. In re Denson (D. C. 1912) Fed. 854, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 158. so also where an insolvent debtor made a gift of personal property to wife, or given her a bill of sale, hout any actual change of possesn. In re Pierce (C. C. 1877) Fed. No. 11,139; In re Norris (D. C. 0) 177 Fed. 598, 24 Am. Bankr. . 444; In re Hopkins (C. C. A. 6) 229 Fed. 378.

bankrupt's trustee appointed withfour months after the making of a eral assignment for the benefit of ditors may recover the assets asned from the assignee in summaproceedings; the assignee being a e naked bailee for creditors and an adverse claimant. In re Mcm (1914) 214 Fed. 207, 130 C. A. 555; In re Karp (D. C. 1915) Fed. 798.

court of bankruptcy held to have sdiction to make a summary order the return of a preferential payt made by a bankrupt after the g of the petition against him. In re Leigh (D. C. 1913) 208 Fed. 486. And money paid by a bankrupt partnership on one of its debts after the filing of the petition, is recoverable in a summary proceeding. In re R. & W. Skirt Co. (1915) 222 Fed. 256, 138 C. C. A. 67.

Attaching creditors may be proceeded against summarily, when their levies constituted the act of bankruptcy on which the adjudication was based, or where made after the filing of the petition and with knowledge thereof. Bear v. Chase (1900) 99 Fed. 920, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 746; In re Graessler & Reichwald (1907) 154 Fed. 478, 83 C. C. A. 304, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 694. And this applies also to an execution sale of the debtor's property, if held after the filing of the petition, and if the judgment creditor and the purchaser are chargeable with knowledge of the pendency of the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Breslauer (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 910, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 33. But if a sale on execution has been held and the proceeds paid over to the judgment creditor before the commencement of the bankruptcy proceedings, the mere fact that the judgment and sale are voidable under the bankruptcy act will not enable the trustee to recover the proceeds in a summary proceeding; his remedy is a plenary suit to recover the proceeds as a preference. In re Resnek (D. C. 1909) 167 Fed. 574, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 740; Stone-Ordean-Wells Co. v. Mark (C. C. A. 1915) 227 Fed. 975.

It is also held that a person claiming property as collateral security pledged to him by the bankrupt may be summarily ordered to surrender it, if the referee decides that the title to it is in the estate. In re Belfast Mesh Underwear Co. (D. C. 1911) 185 Fed. 834. And so a proceeding to recover or reduce the amount of money paid by a bankrupt to his counsel, in contemplation of bankruptcy and for services to be rendered therein, may be summary. In re Wood (1908) 210 U. S. 246, 28 Sup. Ct. 621, 52 L. Ed. 1046. There is no jurisdiction to proceed summarily in proceedings under section 9644, post, to re-examine as to an attorney's fee paid by a debtor, where the contract with the attorney was not made by the debtor in contemplation of bankruptcy proceedings. Tripp v. Mitschrich (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 424.

If the court of bankruptcy is in the actual possession of any given property, through its officers, such as the referee, a receiver, or a trustee in bankruptcy, it has jurisdiction to determine in a summary proceeding all claims of third persons asserting ownership of it or liens upon it, whether hostile and adverse or not. In re Rathman (1910) 183 Fed. 913, 106 C. C. A. 253, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 246; In re Plymouth Elevator Co. (D. C.

1911) 191 Fed. 633. See Johnston v. Spencer (C. C. A. 1912) 195 Fed. 215, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 800; Shea v. Lewis (C. C. A. 1913) 206 Fed. 877, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 436; In re Flanigan (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 339. But jurisdiction to foreclose a mortgage on the estate of the bankrupt, at the instance of the mortgagee, is not included in the powers to be exercised summarily. In re Casey (C. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 2,495. Nor can the court thus determine the rights of a third person who is apparently a joint owner of certain property with the bankrupt, although the trustee alleges that he is only nominally connected with it and has no real financial interest in it. In re Brodbine (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 643, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 53. Nor is this an appropriate proceeding for the trustee of a bankrupt corporation who seeks to compel a stockholder to pay the corporate debts because of his alleged participation in a fraudulent overvaluation of the corporation's assets in payment for stock. In re Haley (1908) 158 Fed. 74, 85 C. C. A. 404; In re Howe Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 524, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 477.

The summary jurisdiction of a court of bankruptcy may not only be invoked at the instance of the trustee, but also against him, since he is an officer of the court and always subject to its lawful orders. Thus, if the judgment of a competent court has decided that a fund in his hands does not belong to the estate in bankruptcy, but to a third person, he may be summarily ordered to pay it over. In re Howard (1905) 135 Fed. 721, 68 C. C. A. 359, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 296. A petition to have a trustee in bankruptcy decreed to hold certain real estate standing in the name of the bankrupt in trust for petitioner, and required to convey the same, is a summary proceeding. In re Snelling (D. C. 1912) 202 Fed. 258.

Finding in summary proceedings in bankruptcy that the trustee had received, as such, certain property as assets, was conclusive against him and not subject to collateral attack by third persons. Hebert v. Crawford (1913) 33 Sup. Ct. 484, 228 U. S. 204, 57 L. Ed. 800. A court of bankruptcy is without jurisdiction in a summary proceeding to decree specific performance of a contract made by a bankrupt by directing his trustee to execute a conveyance of land. Dreyer v. Perkins (1914) 217 Fed. 889, 133 C. C. A. 599.

18. —— Against adverse claimants.— A stranger to the bankruptcy proceedings, setting up an adverse title to property which is claimed by the trustee in bankruptcy as assets of the estate, cannot be compelled to submit his claim to adjudication in a summary proceeding in the court of bankruptcy, provid his claim is made with the apparent i tention of defending it in good faith a is not merely colorable, but is entitl to be heard in a plenary suit, at law in equity as the case may require. In Cotton (D. C. 1913) 209 Fed. 12 In re Flanigan (D. C. 1915) 228 Fe 339; Smith v. Mason (1871) 14 Wa 419, 20 L. Ed. 748; First Nat. Ba v. Hopkins (C. C. A. 1912) 199 Fe 873, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 434; In Cantelo Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1912) 2 Fed. 158, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 70 Johnston v. Spencer (1912) 195 Fe 215, 115 C. C. A. 167, 27 Am. Bank Rep. 800; In re Denson (D. C. 191 195 Fed. 854, 28 Am. Bankr. Re 158; In re Iron Clad Mfg. Co. (D. 1912) 194 Fed. 906; In re Mimms Parham (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 276, Am. Bankr. Rep. 469; In re Big C haba Coal Co. (D. C. 1911) 190 Fe 900, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 910; In Jackier (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 720, Am. Bankr. Rep. 790; Cooney v. Co lins (1910) 176 Fed. 189, 99 C. C. 543, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 840; In Hersey (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 99 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 856; In re Drig (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 897, 22 A Bankr. Rep. 621; In re Horgan (190 158 Fed. 774, 86 C. C. A. 130, 19 A Bankr. Rep. 857; In re Edwards (D C. 1907) 156 Fed. 794, 19 Am. Bank Rep. 632; In re Sunseri (D. C. 190 156 Fed. 103, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 23 In re Davis Tailoring Co. (D. C. 190 144 Fed. 285, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 48 In re New York Car Wheel Worl (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 203, 13 A Bankr. Rep. 60; In re Green (D. 1901) 108 Fed. 616, 6 Am. Bankr. Re 270; In re Sheinbaum (D. C. 190 107 Fed. 247, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 18 In re Baudouine (1900) 101 Fed. 57 41 C. C. A. 318, 3 Am. Bankr. Re 651; In re Cohn (D. C. 1899) Fed. 75, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 421; Mitc ell v. McClure (D. C. 1899) 91 Fe 621, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 53; In Staib (D. C. 1880) 3 Fed. 209; In Griffith, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 546; re Fowler, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 21 In re Waitzfelder (D. C. 1878) 18 B. R. 260, Fed. Cas. No. 17,048; re Bonesteel (C. C. 1870) 3 N. B. 517, Fed. Cas. No. 1,627; Ferguson Peckham (D. C. 1872) 6 N. B. R. 56 Fed. Cas. No. 4,741. As to an amen ment, converting a summary proceed ing into a plenary suit, see In re Bo ton-Cerrillos Mines Corporation (D. 1913) 206 Fed. 794, 30 Am. Bank Rep. 739.

This is a right which the claima may waive, and he may do so by su rendering the disputed property to th trustee for sale and presenting to th bankruptcy court his claim against th proceeds. In re Plymouth Elevat Co. (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 633. Or b answering the trustee's petition f urrender of the property by deng on the merits without raising bjection to the jurisdiction of the or referee. In re Carrier (D.

91) 48 Fed. 161; In re Emrich
C. 1900) 101 Fed. 231, 4 Am.
r. Rep. 89; People v. Brennan Y. 1875) 3 Hun, 666.

ere, in a summary proceeding to er goods alleged to have been ulently transferred by a bankrupt, ransferee, after a holding that the might be tried in such proceedparticipated in the trial, which conducted at great expense, he by waived his right to have the isetermined in a plenary suit. Sals-
v. Blackford (C. C. A. 1913) 204
438, affirming decree In re Schoen-
(D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 53.

arty claiming title to certain store es in the possession of a bankrupt not precluded by his failure to ar and answer an order to show why such fixtures as were never d by the bankrupt should not be from afterwards asserting that fixtures were never owned by the upt. Murphy v. John Hofman Co.
) 141 N. Y. S. 900, 157 App. Div.

But jurisdiction is not conferred e appearance of the adverse claim-n answer to an order to show , merely for the purpose of filing swer asserting his claim and his tion to contest the application. In alsh Bros. (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed.
21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 14.

e case of a transfer or conveyance operty by the bankrupt which the ee claims to have been fraudulent oid as against creditors, but which rantee claims to have been in good and for a consideration, falls with-is rule, and the issue cannot be in summary proceedings. Court-
v. Shea (1915) 225 Fed. 358, 140
A. 382; Camp v. Zellars (1899)
ed. 799, 36 C. C. A. 501; In re ox (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 985, 26 Bankr. Rep. 432. Nor can that is presented when the trustee to recover money or property on round that the transaction constia preference voidable under the te, and is met with a denial aptly interposed in good faith. In re rber (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 121, 12
Bankr. Rep. 616; In re Adams
C. 1904) 130 Fed. 788, 12 Am.
r. Rep. 367; In re Keystone Press
C. 1913) 203 Fed. 710, 29 Am.
r. Rep. 715.

ransfer of property by a bankrupt y debts owing by himself and an, not constituting substantially all ssets, not being an assignment for enefit of creditors, held, that credhaving objected to a surrender
e assets to the bankrupt's trustee, ransferee was an adverse claimant st whom the trustee could not er in summary proceedings. In re um (1914) 214 Fed. 207, 130 C.
555.

The wife of the bankrupt may be an adverse claimant, within this rule, if the law of the state removes the common-law disabilities of married women and gives them capacity to contract as if sole. Courtney v. Shea (1915) 225 Fed. 358, 140 C. C. A. 382; Shea v. Lewis (C. C. A. 1913) 206 Fed. 877; In re Markel (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 926; Blumberg v. Bryan (1901) 107 Fed. 673, 46 C. C. A. 552, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 20. And the holder of an assignment of money due to the bankrupt from a third person at the date of the bankruptcy is an adverse claimant. In re Lineberry (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 338, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 164. And so is a bank in which the bankrupt has money on deposit, but which claims the right to set off a debt due to it from the bankrupt. In re Gill (1911) 190 Fed. 726, 111 C. C. A. 454, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 883; First Nat. Bank v. Hopkins (1912) 199 Fed. 873, 118 C. C. A. 321, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 434. And the claims of a bank to corporate stock as a pledgee thereof are adverse to the trustee of the bankrupt pledgor, and not determinable by summary proceedings. In re Bacon (1913) 210 Fed. 129, 126 C. C. A. 643. A surety on the bail bond of the bankrupt is an adverse claimant, where the bankrupt, before the commencement of the bankruptcy proceedings, had deposited money to indemnify him against liability. In re Horgan (1907) 158 Fed. 774, 86 C. C. A. 130, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 857; Jaquith v. Rowley (1903) 188 U. S. 620, 23 Sup. Ct. 369, 47 L. Ed. 620.

The claim of a right to apply moneys of a bankrupt for the purpose of indemnity on some contingent liability carries the right to possession, and is such a claim of title that it cannot be disposed of summarily upon motion. In re Radley Steel Const. Co. (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 464. A stockholder in the bankrupt corporation against whom the trustee is proceeding to compel him to pay the balance due on his subscription for stock, is an adverse claimant and cannot be proceeded against summarily. In re Howe Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 524, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 477.

Where the trustee of a corporation in bankruptcy files a petition against two of its officers in their official capacity to compel them to account for the proceeds of sales of the corporation's stock and also to pay the balance due on their own shares, and it appears that they had controlled the corporation absolutely from its inception, the other incorporators and directors being mere dummies, they cannot be regarded as adverse claimants, in determining the jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy. In re Kornit Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1911) 192 Fed. 392, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 244. But see In re Spalding Cotton Mills (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 554. And so, where a receiver in bankruptcy, with the consent of the court, has vacated premises of which a third person was claiming the right of possession, and the latter has thereupon resumed the possession, a subsequently appointed trustee of the estate cannot oust the possessor and get possession of the premises by a summary proceeding. In re Rothschild (1907) 154 Fed. 194, 83 C. C. A. 288, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 682. But it has been held that the court of bankruptcy may summarily require a person in possession to turn over property to the trustee, although held under a claim of title, where such title depends on a question of law and not of fact. In re Michaelis & Lindeman (D. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 718.

The district court, appointing the superintendent of banks, taking possession under Banking Law N. Y. § 57, of a private banker's assets, books, and papers, as receiver in bankruptcy, would not compel district attorney of New York to deliver to receiver books and papers about to be used in a criminal case. In re Mandel (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 642.

Where property of which the receiver in bankruptcy has taken possession is subject to a judicial lien duly obtained in a state court, the court of bankruptcy will not determine a controversy between the judgment creditors and third persons claiming the property. In re Pilcher & Son (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 139.

19. —— Determination of character of claim.—Whenever a trustee in bankruptcy lays claim to money or property which is in the possession of a third person, and petitions for an order requiring its surrender to him, the court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to cite such person to show cause why he should not be required to yield up the money or property to the trustee. In re Waukesha Water Co. (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 1009, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715; In re Cantelo Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 158. And if the respondent denies that the property in question belongs to the estate in bankruptcy and sets up a claim of title in himself, the court has jurisdiction to inquire and determine whether or not such claim is genuine, really adverse, and interposed in good faith. If it shall determine that such claim is merely colorable or fictitious, frivolous on its face or plainly false, or manifestly pretended and without any foundation in law, it may proceed to make the order asked by the trustee; but on the other hand, if it shall be determined that the respondent's claim to the property is genuine and interposed in good faith and with the intention of supporting it, the court cannot proceed to inquire into the merits, but must dismiss the petition and remit the trustee to his remedy by a plenary suit. Johnston v. Spencer (C. C. A. 1912) 195 Fed. 215, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 800; In re Ironclad Mfg. Co. (C. C. A. 1911) 191 Fed. 831, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 490; In re Rathman (1910) 183 Fed. 913, 106 C. C. A. 2 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 246; In re No (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 598, 24 A Bankr. Rep. 444; In re Hayden (D. 1908) 172 Fed. 623, 22 Am. Ban Rep. 764; In re Ellis Bros. Print Co. (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 430, 19 A Bankr. Rep. 472; In re Gilroy Bloomfield (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 7 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 627; In re K (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 386, 12 A Bankr. Rep. 444; In re Teschmac & Mrazay (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 7 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 547; In re Br lauer (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 910, Am. Bankr. Rep. 33; In re Baird C. 1902) 116 Fed. 765, 8 Am. Ban Rep. 649; In re Tune (D. C. 19 115 Fed. 906, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 2 In re Radley Steel Const. Co. (D. 1914) 212 Fed. 462; Courtney v. S (1915) 225 Fed. 358, 140 C. C. A. 3 In other words, if the responde plea sets forth facts showing that claim is adverse and in good faith, trustee should file a pleading deny the averments relating to this po and an issue should be framed as whether the claim pleaded is substan or merely colorable, and this p should be decided on investigation; is error simply to overrule the p and proceed to judgment. In re (C. C. A. 1911) 190 Fed. 726, 26 A Bankr. Rep. 883; In re Goldstein C. A. 1914) 216 Fed. 889.

If there is nothing to impeach good faith of the claim, and it is s stantiated by verified pleadings or o testimony, the issue cannot be he summarily. In re Kane (D. C. 19 131 Fed. 386, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 4 In fact, it has been said that it is o in clear cases, in which the proof is cisive, that the court of bankruptcy justified in making a peremptory or for the surrender of property. In Gilroy & Bloomfield (D. C. 1905) Fed. 733, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 6

Where a transferee of a bankru assets, alleged to have been frau lently transferred, claimed that he purchased and paid for the same w the bankrupt was engaged in his o nary business, the transferee was titled to have the question determi in a plenary suit, regardless of the f that his testimony was incredible. re Green (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 6 Where a bankrupt's trustee brings su mary proceedings to recover prope in the hands of a third person, a n colorable claim, requiring dismissal, pears on the filing of the claimant's v ified answer, which, if true, shows t and possession antedating the bankru cy petition. In re Goldstein (C. C. 1914) 216 Fed. 887.

Where a claimant's right to hold c seized under a distress warrant agai a bankrupt depended on whether lien was obtained within four mon prior to the bankruptcy proceedi as provided by section 9651, post, validity of such lien was not so v color as to authorize the bankrupt-court to determine it by summary ceedings over protest. In re Luken . C. A. 1914) 216 Fed. 890.

0. Joinder of causes of action.—In a t against the bankrupt and his trans-ees to set aside alleged fraudulent nveyances of property, the trustee s the right to include all such matters d causes of action as might have en included by the creditors in a editors' bill against the defendants. rcross v. Nathan (D. C. 1900) 99 d. 414, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 613; aulding v. McGovern (C. C. 1874) N. B. R. 188, Fed. Cas. No. 13,217. A petition by the trustee against the nkrupt and one of his creditors, to ocure the setting aside of a mort-ge on land, a chattel mortgage, and lease of real and personal property, l made by the bankrupt at different nes to the defendant creditor, and al-ged to be fraudulent as to other cred-ors, and to have been given and ac-pted with intent to prefer the cred-or receiving the same, is not demur-ble for multifariousness. Carter v. obbs (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 594, 1 m. Bankr. Rep. 215; Hunt v. Doyal 1907) 128 Ga. 416, 57 S. E. 489. And o, a bill is not multifarious though rought to recover from several de-endants different portions of the es-ate of the debtor, if the alleged illegal ransfers were the result of a common urpose on the part of the defendants o dismember the estate. Van Kleeck . Miller (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 484, Fed. Cas. No. 16,860.

II. JURISDICTION

21. Statutory provisions.—This sec-ion of the statute is intended to define and limit the jurisdiction of the courts of bankruptcy, and it operates as an ex-ception to, or limitation upon, the more extended expressions of § 9586, ante, so that jurisdiction of civil actions at law and plenary suits in equity, to de-termine title to and reduce to posses-sion assets of the bankrupt cannot be claimed under § 9586, if not within the terms of this section. Bardes v. First Nat. Bank (1900) 178 U. S. 524, 20 Sup. Ct. 1000, 44 L. Ed. 1175.

The provision of the amendatory cts of 1903 and 1910, giving courts f bankruptcy and state courts concur-ent jurisdiction of suits by trustees to et aside fraudulent conveyances or ecover preferences, is not unconstitu-ional as imposing on state courts ju-isdiction over causes of action which rise solely under the constitution and aws of the United States. French v. . P. Smith & Sons Co. (1900) 81 Minn. 341, 84 N. W. 44.

The final clause of this section, that the United States circuit courts shall ave concurrent jurisdiction with the courts of bankruptcy of the offenses enumerated in this act," has no applica-bility to civil actions, the "offenses enumerated" meaning the crimes else-where described in the act. Goodier v. Barnes (C. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 798, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 328.

22. Jurisdiction of courts of bank-ruptcy.—The mere fact that the plain-tiff in a suit is a trustee in bankruptcy is not sufficient to give jurisdiction to a federal court. McEldowney v. Card (C. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 475, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 937. Such court has no jurisdiction of a formal action at law or a plenary suit in equity between a trustee in bankruptcy and an adverse claimant, unless the action might have been maintained in that court by the bankrupt himself, if bankruptcy pro-ceedings had not intervened. Brumby v. Jones (1905) 141 Fed. 318, 72 C. C. A. 466, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 578; Plaut v. Gorham Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1909) 174 Fed. 852, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 42; Real Estate Trust Co. v. Thompson (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 945, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 520. Compare In re Hammond (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 845.

A proceeding by the trustee of a bankrupt corporation to have an as-sessment ordered on unpaid stock is not a "suit" within the meaning of the statute, but is an administrative pro-ceeding within the jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy, since it does not require notice to nor the presence of the stockholders, whose personal rights are not involved, but remain to be de-termined in subsequent suits to collect the assessment if made. In re New-foundland Syndicate (D. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 443, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 119. See, also, In re Crystal Spring Bottling Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 945, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 194. So the court has jurisdic-tion of a controversy between persons, each claiming the right to a conveyance of land as a purchaser from the trus-tee in bankruptcy, since, while the title remains in the trustee, its jurisdiction with respect to such lands is exclusive. In re Henderson (D. C. 1905) 142 Fed. 568, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 760. This decision was reversed (Henrie v. Hen-derson [1906] 145 Fed. 316, 76 C. C. A. 196, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 617), but on the ground that the sale to one of the contending parties had been con-firmed and the price paid, though no deed made, before any controversy arose. The court of bankruptcy has ju-risdiction of proceedings to recover property in the possession of a receiver appointed by a state court. In re He-cox (C. C. A. 1908) 164 Fed. 823, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 314.

The court of bankruptcy has juris-diction of an application for the rejec-tion of a claim, and, in addition thereto, to require the creditor to repay to the trustee the amount of a dividend pre-viously paid on the claim. Pirie v. Chi-cago Title & Trust Co. (1901) 182 U. S. 438, 21 Sup. Ct. 906, 45 L. Ed. 1171. And of a proceeding to re-examine and reduce a payment made by an intending bankrupt to an attorney for services to be rendered in the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Wood (1908) 210 U. S. 246, 28 Sup. Ct. 621, 52 L. Ed. 1046.

The bankruptcy court, in summary proceedings to recover property in the hands of third persons, has jurisdiction over the latter's protest to determine only whether the adverse claim is colorable, and may not pass on the weight of the evidence and determine the merits of the claim. In re Yorkville Coal Co. (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 619.

In a summary proceeding by a trustee to require a third person to turn over money and property alleged to belong to the bankrupt estate, the court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to determine the question whether respondent has such money or property; a denial of possession not being the assertion of an adverse claim. In re Kramer (D. C. 1914) 218 Fed. 138. Where, on the bankruptcy of a corporation, it owned certain whisky subject to the rights of a pledgee of warehouse receipts covering the same the bankruptcy court had jurisdiction to determine the rights of the bankrupt and the pledgee and the claims of stockholders in the corporation, nor was such jurisdiction affected by the sale of the whisky and substitution of the proceeds. In re Miller Pure Rye Distilling Co. of Pennsylvania (1914) 214 Fed. 189, 130 C. C. A. 537.

But the provision of the statute which allows the court of bankruptcy to take jurisdiction of controversies with the consent of the proposed defendant relates only to plenary actions, and does not enlarge such portion of the court's jurisdiction as may be exercised summarily, even with the consent of the respondent. In re Teschmacher & Mrazay (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 728, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 547. Since this portion of the statute only speaks of suits "by" the trustee, it places no restriction upon the jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy as to suits "against" the trustee or the estate; so that, when its jurisdiction is voluntarily invoked by an adverse claimant as plaintiff, it may take cognizance of the action without regard to the citizenship of the parties or the amount in controversy. In re McCallum (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 393, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 596; In re Whitener (1900) 105 Fed. 180, 44 C. C. A. 434, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 198; Swann v. Sanborn (C. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 13,-675. The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, sitting as a court of equity, has jurisdiction to entertain a suit for the establishment of an equitable lien against the estate of a bankrupt. Crosby v. Ridout (1906) 27 App. D. C. 481. But nothing in the bankruptcy act operates to abolish the distinction between legal and equitable remedies, so far as regards suits or controversies arising out of, but not constituting a part of, the bankrup proceeding. Hence a suit in equity a trustee is not maintainable in district court, though otherwise wit its jurisdiction, where a plain, a quate, and complete remedy might had at law. Warmath v. O'Dar (1908) 159 Fed. 87, 86 C. C. A. 277, Am. Bankr. Rep. 101. See Grant National Bank of Auburn (D. C. 191 197 Fed. 581, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 7

23. —— Claims on property in p session of trustee.—If any particu item or parcel of property has co into the custody of the court of ba ruptcy, by actual possession vesting one of its officers, such as a trustee receiver, and is claimed as a part of estate in bankruptcy, that court full jurisdiction to hear and determi all controversies involving the ass tion of a title to such property, or right or interest in it, or a lien up it, in a summary manner if that fo of proceeding is otherwise justified, else in a plenary action where all nec sary parties are duly served a brought into court. Whitney v. We man (1905) 198 U. S. 539, 25 Sup. 778, 49 L. Ed. 1157, 14 Am. Ban Rep. 45; Clay v. Waters (1910) 1 Fed. 385, 101 C. C. A. 645, 24 A Bankr. Rep. 293; Bray v. United Stat Fidelity & Guaranty Co. (1909) 1 Fed. 689, 96 C. C. A. 9, 22 Am. Ban Rep. 363; Thomas v. Woods (190 173 Fed. 585, 97 C. C. A. 535, 23 A Bankr. Rep. 132; Treat v. Wood (C. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 934, 14 A Bankr. Rep. 736; J. B. McFarlan Ca riage Co. v. Solanas (1901) 106 F 145, 45 C. C. A. 253, 5 Am. Ban Rep. 442; In re Kellogg (D. C. 190 113 Fed. 120, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 62 In re Rodgers (1903) 125 Fed. 16 60 C. C. A. 567, 11 Am. Bankr. Re 79; In re McCallum (D. C. 1902) 1 Fed. 393, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 596; D vis v. Coe (1899) 19 Ohio Cir. Ct. 639; In re Sabin (D. C. 1878) 18 N. R. 151, Fed. Cas. No. 12,195.

Property having been found in t possession of the bankrupt and havi passed into the possession of his tru tee, the court of bankruptcy has juri diction to determine the claim of third person, who sold the property the bankrupt and asserts the right rescind the sale for fraud. In re Me tens (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 507, 12 A Bankr. Rep. 698. And so, bailors consignors, who permit their goods the hands of the bankrupt to pass in the custody of the receiver or truste cannot occupy the position of adver claimants in determining the jurisdi tion of the court. In re Leeds Wool Mills (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 922, Am. Bankr. Rep. 136; In re McCallu (D. C. 1902) 113 Fed. 393, 7 A Bankr. Rep. 596. And a controver between a trustee in bankruptcy a one asserting an adverse title to pro erty which is in the custody of t t is a "proceeding in bankruptcy" hich the court has jurisdiction, and "controversy at law or in equity" as can only be tried there with consent of the proposed defendant. e Rochford (1903) 124 Fed. 182, . C. A. 388, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. In re Leeds Woolen Mills (D. C.) 129 Fed. 922, 12 Am. Bankr. 136. See Havens & Geddes Co. v. ek (1903) 120 Fed. 244, 57 C. C. A. Am. Bankr. Rep. 569. A court of ruptcy has jurisdiction to deter- a controversy as to the ownership roperty between the trustees of different estates, both of which being administered by such court. e Rosenberg (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 624.

e property being in the possession n officer of the court, the court of ruptcy has jurisdiction of a pro- ing in equity to establish the lien mortgage or other incumbrance on property. Cleminshaw v. Interna- l Shirt & Collar Co. (D. C. 1908) Fed. 797, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 616. o impeach the validity of an exist- mortgage covering the property. e Kellogg (1903) 121 Fed. 333, 57 . A. 547, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 7; e Waterloo Organ Co. (D. C. 1902) Fed. 904, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 427. o set aside the mortgage as fraud- or preferential or as having been within four months previous to ankruptcy. In re McMahon (1906) Fed. 684, 77 C. C. A. 668, 17 Am. r. Rep. 530; Carter v. Hobbs (D. 899) 92 Fed. 594, 1 Am. Bankr. 215. Or to recover property un- ully sold on foreclosure of a chat- nortgage after an adjudication in ruptcy and before the appointment trustee. In re Brooks (D. C.) 91 Fed. 508, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. But not of a suit to foreclose a gage. In re San Gabriel Sanatori- Co. (1901) 111 Fed. 892, 50 C. C. 6, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 206.

here a bankrupt's trustee had pos- iop of real property of the bank- , located in another state, the bank- cy court in which the proceedings pending had jurisdiction, by any eedings which would constitute due ess of law, to determine whether a gage, executed to secure a pre-ex- g debt, was a voidable preference. raith v. Robson-Hilliard Grocery (C. C. A. 1914) 216 Fed. 842. But court has not jurisdiction of a pro- ing to impeach a mortgage as dulent where the property affected the possession of the creditor, and of the trustee. Bardes v. Haward- Nat. Bank (1900) 178 U. S. 524, 20 Ct. 1000, 44 L. Ed. 1175.

order thus to confer jurisdiction, e must be actual possession on the of the receiver or trustee, not a e claim to possession. But it may constructive or symbolic. Thus, re the trustee in bankruptcy locks up the bankrupt's store and keeps the key, this brings the goods in the store into the custody and jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy. Wood v. Cummings (1908) 197 Mass. 80, 83 N. E. 318. And jurisdiction, having thus vested in virtue of possession of the res, cannot be divested or impaired by the unauthorized surrender of possession of the property by the officers of the court or by a seizure thereof by an adverse claimant. In re Schermerhorn (1906) 145 Fed. 341, 76 C. C. A. 215, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 507; Plaut v. Gorham Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 754, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 269.

In an action against defendant trustee in bankruptcy to restrain him from cutting timber, the petition held not to allege constructive possession of such timber, either in the bankrupt or the trustee so as to give the bankruptcy court jurisdiction to determine conflicting claims to such timber. Bennette v. Lewis (Tex. Civ. App. 1915) 176 S. W. 660.

24. —— Independent suits against third persons.—A district court of the United States, in its capacity as a court of bankruptcy, has no jurisdiction of an independent suit brought by a trustee in bankruptcy against a stranger (that is, one who has not been in any way made a party to the bankruptcy proceedings) to collect a debt due to the bankrupt or to recover money or property claimed as assets of his estate, unless by consent of the proposed defendant, such jurisdiction being expressly denied by the twenty-third section of the bankruptcy act. Bardes v. First Nat. Bank (1900) 178 U. S. 524, 20 Sup. Ct. 1000, 44 L. Ed. 1175, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 163; Wall v. Cox (1901) 181 U. S. 244, 21 Sup. Ct. 642, 45 L. Ed. 845, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 727; Jaquith v. Rowley (1903) 188 U. S. 620, 23 Sup. Ct. 369, 47 L. Ed. 620, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 525; In re Horgan (C. C. A. 1908) 164 Fed. 415, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 31; In re Bailey (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 691, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 470; Hull v. Burr (1907) 153 Fed. 945, 83 C. C. A. 61, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 541; Hatch v. Curtin (C. C. 1906) 146 Fed. 200, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 629; In re Flynn & Co. (D. C. 1903) 126 Fed. 422, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 318; In re Hartman (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 940, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 387; In re Rochford (1903) 124 Fed. 182, 59 C. C. A. 388, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 608; J. B. McFarlan Carriage Co. v. Solanas (C. C. A. 1901) 106 Fed. 145, 45 C. C. A. 253, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 442; In re Tollett (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 425, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 305; In re Silberhorn (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 899, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 568; Chattanooga Nat. Bank v. Rome Iron Co. (C. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 82, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 582; Woods v. Forsyth (C. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 17,992; Tate v. Brinser (D. C. 1915) 226 Fed. 878; Chicago Title & Trust

Co. v. National Storage Co. (1913) 260 Ill. 485, 103 N. E. 227. This rule does not apply as to any property which has come into the hands of the trustee, the court of bankruptcy having jurisdiction to determine adverse claims to it or liens asserted upon it. Chattanooga Nat. Bank v. Rome Iron Co. (C. C. 1899) 99 Fed. 82, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 582.

Since the 1903 and 1910 amendments to the bankruptcy act, the court has jurisdiction of a suit to set aside a fraudulent transfer or recover a preference, but not where the property is in the defendant's possession under a conveyance not preferential nor made within four months, unless he consents to the jurisdiction. Wood v. A. Wilbert's Sons Shingle & Lumber Co. (1912) 226 U. S. 384, 33 Sup. Ct. 125, 57 L. Ed. 264. Even under the amendments of 1903 and 1910, the court of bankruptcy has no jurisdiction of an action by a trustee in bankruptcy to recover property from a third person who sets up an adverse claim to it in his own right, where the trustee does not contend that the property was ever "transferred" to the defendant by the bankrupt, but only that the defendant holds it under a secret trust for the bankrupt. Newcomb v. Biwer (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 529, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 15.

The court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction of a suit between the trustee and a third person where the bankrupt and the defendant are citizens of different states and the amount in controversy is sufficient to give jurisdiction, though, in trying such a suit, it does not sit as a court of bankruptcy. Scott v. George's Creek Coal & Iron Co. (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 251; In re Ballou (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed. 810; In re MacDougall (D. C. 1909) 175 Fed. 400, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 762; Sims v. Union Assur. Soc. (C. C. 1903) 129 Fed. 804; In re Nugent (1901) 105 Fed. 581, 44 C. C. A. 620, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 176. Diversity of citizenship between the defendant and the trustee in bankruptcy is not necessary; the test is whether the citizenship of the bankrupt and of the defendant is such that the former might have sued in a federal court if bankruptcy had not intervened. Bush v. Elliott (1906) 202 U. S. 477, 26 Sup. Ct. 668, 50 L. Ed. 1114, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 656. The district court, in a suit by a trustee in bankruptcy against nonresidents and residents, held without jurisdiction of residents merely holding claims against the bankrupt and having nothing belonging to him, where many necessary parties are nonresidents and cannot be brought in. In re Smith Const. Co. (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 228.

A suit by a trustee in bankruptcy against a national bank to recover usurious interest received by the defendant from the bankrupt, is cogniz in the court of bankruptcy, becs "arising under the laws of the Un States." Reed v. German-Ameri Nat. Bank (C. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 140.

The bankruptcy court has no ju diction of an action of replevin, brou by a receiver or trustee in bankrup to recover the possession of chat alleged to belong to the bankr but held adversely by the defe ant under a claim of title. Mitchel McClure (1900) 178 U. S. 539, 20 S Ct. 1000, 44 L. Ed. 1182; Waite Gottstein (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. Nor of a suit by the trustee of a ba rupt corporation to compel a sto holder to pay corporate debts beca of his alleged participation in a frau lent overvaluation of the corpor assets in payment for stock. In Haley (1908) 158 Fed. 74, 85 C. C. 404. Nor of an action to enforc mechanic's lien existing in favor of bankrupt, a contractor, at the date his adjudication. In re Grissler (19 136 Fed. 754, 69 C. C. A. 406, 13 Bankr. Rep. 508. Proceeding to c pel wife, claiming title to insura policy, to turn it over to trustee, to be dismissed, where she never c sented to exercise of summary ju diction over her. In re Flanigan C. 1915) 228 Fed. 339.

While the trustee may petition court to examine summarily into reasonableness of a fee paid by a p spective bankrupt to his attorney, if, instead of taking this course, files a petition to compel the attor to account for moneys claimed to h been paid to him in contemplation bankruptcy, the case falls within jurisdictional clause of the statute, cannot be maintained in the bankrup court except with the consent of defendant. In re Raphael (C. C. 1911) 192 Fed. 874.

25. —— Preferences and fraudul conveyances.—Prior to the 1903 ame ment to the bankruptcy act, the cou of bankruptcy as such had no ju diction of actions brought to vac fraudulent transfers or to recover pr erences, unless with the consent of proposed defendant. Bardes v. Fi Nat. Bank (1900) 178 U. S. 524, Sup. Ct. 1000, 44 L. Ed. 1175, 4 Bankr. Rep. 163; Mitchell v. M Clure (1900) 178 U. S. 539, 20 S Ct. 1000, 44 L. Ed. 1182, 4 Am. Ban Rep. 177; In re San Gabriel Sanato um Co. (1901) 111 Fed. 892, 50 C. A. 56, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 206; In Michie (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 749 Am. Bankr. Rep. 734; Perkins v. M Cauley (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 286 Am. Bankr. Rep. 445; Hicks v. Kn (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 625, 2 Am. Ban Rep. 153; Camp v. Zellars (1899) Fed. 799, 36 C. C. A. 501; Goodier Barnes (C. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 798, 2 A kr. Rep. 328; Burnett v. Morris cantile Co. (D. C. 1899) 91 Fed. , 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 229; Jackman Eau Claire Nat. Bank (1905) 125 . 465, 104 N. W. 98, 115 Am. St. . 955; Nye v. Hart (1901) 22 Ohio Ct. R. 427; Heath v. Shaffer (D. 1899) 93 Fed. 647, 2 Am. Bankr. . 98. But since the act of 1903, sdiction of such actions is vested the courts of bankruptcy, without ard to diverse citizenship of the ties. Shutts v. First Nat. Bank C. 1899) 98 Fed. 705, 3 Am. Bankr. . 492; Pepperdine v. Headley (D. 1900) 98 Fed. 863, 3 Am. Bankr. . 455; Carter v. Hobbs (D. C. 9) 92 Fed. 594, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. ; In re Hammond (D. C. 1899) Fed. 845; In re Woodbury (D. C. 0) 98 Fed. 833, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. ; Norcross v. Nathan (D. C. 1900) Fed. 414, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 613; man v. Crosby (D. C. 1900) 99 . 542, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 662; re Kerski, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 328; ll v. Cox (1900) 101 Fed. 403, 41 C. A. 408, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 659; l v. Kincell (1900) 102 Fed. 301, 42 C. A. 360; Louisville Trust Co. v. x (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 456, 3 Am. kr. Rep. 450.

he effect of the amendment is to fer jurisdiction on the courts of kruptcy of plenary proceedings at or in equity brought by a trustee bankruptcy to avoid preferences n contrary to the act, or to recover perty transferred in violation of the which jurisdiction is concurrent that of the proper state courts, may be exercised without the con- t of the proposed defendant. Mc- ain v. Hardesty (1909) 169 Fed. 31, C. C. A. 399, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. ; Wallace v. Jefferson County Sav. k (C. C. A. 1907) 157 Fed. 838; v. Hakes (1905) 142 Fed. 364, C. C. A. 464, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. ; Frost v. Latham & Co. (C. C. 0) 181 Fed. 866, 25 Am. Bankr. . 313; Lynch v. Bronson (D. C. 8) 160 Fed. 139, 20 Am. Bankr. . 409; Bowman v. Alpha Farms C. 1907) 153 Fed. 380, 18 Am. kr. Rep. 700; Horskins v. Sander- (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 415, 13 Am. kr. Rep. 101; McNulty v. Feingold C. 1904) 129 Fed. 1001, 12 Am. kr. Rep. 338; Kraver v. Abrahams C. 1913) 203 Fed. 782, 29 Am. kr. Rep. 365; Breit v. Moore (1915) Fed. 97, 135 C. C. A. 573. This arged jurisdiction was not confined rights of action arising subsequent the amendatory statute, but was ilable to enforce rights of action n existing. Pond v. New York Nat. change Bank (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. , 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 343. The ending act did not apply to bank- tcy cases then pending. In re Hart- n (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 940, 10 Am. nkr. Rep. 343.

An action by a trustee in bankruptcy to recover damages from defendants, upon allegations that they conspired with the bankrupt, knowing him to be insolvent, and pursuant to such conspiracy he purchased goods on credit, which he turned over to defendants for less than their value, is an action merely to recover damages for the conspiracy, and not to set aside a fraudulent transfer of property, and therefore is not brought within the jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy by the amendatory statute. Lynch v. Bronson (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 605, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 513.

A suit by a trustee in bankruptcy against directors of the bankrupt corporation cannot be regarded as one to recover property fraudulently transferred by the bankrupt, and hence justiciable in a court of bankruptcy, where the import of the allegations of the bill is not that the corporation has done anything, but that certain of its officers by false pretenses have withdrawn its funds. Park v. Cameron (1915) 237 U. S. 616, 35 Sup. Ct. 719, 59 L. Ed. 1147.

United States district court held to have jurisdiction of suit to recover payments by insolvent corporation preferential under Stock Corporation Law N. Y. § 66, though not constituting preferences under section 9644, post. Grandison v. Robertson (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 985.

Prior to the amendment of 1910, the court of bankruptcy could not take jurisdiction of an action by the trustee, founded on the provision of section 9654, post, that "the trustee may avoid any transfer by the bankrupt of his property which any creditor of such bankrupt might have avoided, and may recover the property so transferred, or its value, from any person to whom it was transferred, unless he was a bona fide holder for value prior to the adjudication," unless the consent of the proposed defendant was given. Wood v. A. Wilbert's Sons Shingle & Lumber Co. (1912) 226 U. S. 384, 33 Sup. Ct. 125, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 220; Harris v. First Nat. Bank (1910) 216 U. S. 382, 30 Sup. Ct. 296, 54 L. Ed. 528, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 632; Hull v. Burr (1907) 153 Fed. 945, 83 C. C. A. 61, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 541; Sheppard v. Lincoln (D. C. 1910) 184 Fed. 182, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 804; In re Rathman (1910) 183 Fed. 913, 106 C. C. A. 253, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 246; Palmer v. Roginsky (D. C. 1910) 175 Fed. 883, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 358; Gregory v. Atkinson (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 183, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 495; Skewis v. Barthell (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 534, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 429. Compare Hurley v. Devlin (D. C. 1906) 149 Fed. 268, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 793. But since the amendment of 1910, an action under section 70e may be maintained by a trustee in bankruptcy in a court of bankruptcy, without the consent of the proposed defendant. Newcomb v. Biwer (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 529, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 15; Parker v. Sherman (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 648, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 379.

26. —— Suits which bankrupt could not have maintained.—The provision of this section that "suits by the trustee shall only be brought or prosecuted in the courts where the bankrupt might have brought or prosecuted them if proceedings in bankruptcy had not been instituted," does not give to the court of bankruptcy jurisdiction of actions by the trustee which the bankrupt himself could not have brought or prosecuted in any court, such as suits upon causes of action created by the bankruptcy proceedings, or vesting originally in the trustee as trustee, in cases where it would not otherwise have jurisdiction of such actions. Bardes v. First Nat. Bank (1900) 178 U. S. 524, 20 Sup. Ct. 1000, 44 L. Ed. 1182. This decision in effect overruled numerous previous decisions of the inferior federal courts to the contrary. See In re Baudouine (1900) 101 Fed. 574, 41 C. C. A. 318, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 651; Skillin v. Magnus (D. C. 1907) 162 Fed. 689, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 397; Pepperdine v. Headley (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 863, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 455; Murray v. Beal (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 567, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 284; Carter v. Hobbs (D. C. 1899) 92 Fed. 594, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 215; In re Gutwillig (D. C. 1898) 90 Fed. 481, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 78; Jones v. Smith (C. C. 1889) 38 Fed. 380; Main v. Glen (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 8,973.

27. —— Consent or waiver of objections.—The consent of the defendant to be sued by the trustee in the court of bankruptcy need not expressly appear of record, but may be sufficiently shown by conduct necessarily implying such consent. McEldowney v. Card (C. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 475, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 937.

If an adverse claimant of property, or a creditor alleged to have received a preference or a voidable lien, voluntarily appears in the court of bankruptcy and himself invokes its jurisdiction in his own behalf, that court may proceed to determine the controversy. In re D. H. McBride & Co. (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 285, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 81; In re Riker (1901) 109 Fed. 63, 48 C. C. A. 220, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 720; Philips v. Turner (1902) 114 Fed. 726, 52 C. C. A. 358, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 171; Fisher v. Cushman (1900) 103 Fed. 860, 43 C. C. A. 381, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 646; In re Hadden Rodee Co. (D. C. 1904) 135 Fed. 886, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 604. This rule applies where such a claimant applies to the court of bankruptcy for an order or decree recognizing and establishing his claims or giving him any affirmative relief whatever. In re Mertens (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 507, Am. Bankr. Rep. 698; In re Rik (1901) 109 Fed. 63, 48 C. C. A. 2 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 720; Id. (D. 1901) 107 Fed. 96, 5 Am. Bankr. R 720. But see In re Keystone Pre (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 710, 29 A Bankr. Rep. 715. Or where he plea a set-off, on which he asks judgme McEldowney v. Card (C. C. 1911) 1 Fed. 475, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 937. where he shows that the money clai ed to be recovered from him by t trustee is also claimed by a third par and that he occupies the position of mere stakeholder and offers to pay t money into court. In re Blake (C. A. 1906) 150 Fed. 279, 17 Am. Bank Rep. 668. But merely proving claim against a bankrupt does not co stitute a consent to the jurisdiction a federal court in a suit subsequent brought by the trustee against t claimant. Tate v. Brinser (D. C. 191 226 Fed. 878.

If the defendant in an action by t trustee enters a general appearan and pleads to the merits, and procee to a hearing before the referee court, without raising any objection the jurisdiction of the court, he mu be taken to have "consented" that t court might try the case, and cann object to the jurisdiction after a d cision adverse to him. Detroit Tru Co. v. Pontiac Sav. Bank (C. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 29, 27 Am. Bankr. Re 821; McEldowney v. Card (C. C. 191 193 Fed. 475, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 93 In re Elletson Co. (D. C. 1909) 1 Fed. 859, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 53 Mitchell v. Mitchell (D. C. 1906) 1 Fed. 280, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 38 In re Blake (C. C. A. 1906) 150 Fe 279, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 668; Rytte berg v. Schefer (D. C. 1904) 131 Fe 313, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 652; In Durham (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 75 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 115; Sinsheimer Simonson (D. C. 1901) 106 Fed. 87 In re Leeds Woolen Mills (D. C. 190 129 Fed. 922, 12 Am. Bankr. Re 136; In re Steuer (D. C. 1900) 1 Fed. 976, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 209; re Emrich (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 23 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 89; In re Connol (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 620, 3 A Bankr. Rep. 842; Cohen v. America Surety Co. (1908) 192 N. Y. 227, 84 E. 947; In re Raphael (1911) 192 Fe 874, 113 C. C. A. 198. But a me entry of a general appearance is n a waiver of objections to the jurisdi tion, when the petition of the trust does not state a cause of action, a objection to the jurisdiction is promp ly taken upon the filing of an amen ed petition. In re Hemby-Hutchins Pub. Co. (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 909, Am. Bankr. Rep. 569.

A respondent who files a paper which he sets up that the court without jurisdiction of the action, a who repeats and urges the same o jection in a proceeding to have t ge of the court of bankruptcy rev a decision of the referee adverse im, cannot be said to have consent-to the jurisdiction, although he also epts to the petition as not stating a se of action and further pleads a eral denial. In re Michie (D. C.

2) 116 Fed. 749, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep.

he consent of a defendant to be d in the court of bankruptcy means sent to the tribunal in which the troversy is to be carried on, and to the mode of procedure, which is ulated by general principles of law, ess other provision is made. In Raphael (1911) 192 Fed. 874, 113
C. A. 198. And if the mode of proure adopted is unlawful, the appear-e of the defendant and his contest-the proceedings will not confer judiction. Sinsheimer v. Simonson
01) 107 Fed. 898, 47 C. C. A. 51,
m. Bankr. Rep. 537.

he consent of the defendant, pro-ed for in this part of the banktcy act, governing the jurisdiction suits by a trustee in bankruptcy, not intended to enlarge the jurision of the federal circuit courts so to confer a jurisdiction which they ld not have because of diverse citiship of the parties or because of a eral question being involved. Lovell
Isidore Newman & Son (1913) 227
S. 412, 33 Sup. Ct. 375, 57 L. Ed.

8. Jurisdiction of other federal rts.—A court of bankruptcy may ex-se ancillary jurisdiction to enable rustee appointed in another jurisdicto reduce to possession property the bankrupt within its district. In Sage (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 525.
Babbitt v. Dutcher (1910) 216 U.
102, 30 Sup. Ct. 372, 54 L. Ed. 402,
Ann. Cas. 969, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep.
; In re Elkus (1910) 216 U. S. 115, Sup. Ct. 377, 54 L. Ed. 407; The rt (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 542; In Lipman (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 169,
Am. Bankr. Rep. 139.

bankruptcy court in Louisiana has illary jurisdiction of a suit by a krupt's trustee to subject property Louisiana to distribution in banktcy in Mississippi under a bill al-ing that property of less value than 000 had been omitted from the bank-t's schedules and conveyed to dedant after adjudication. Hartman Ackoury (D. C. 1914) 210 Fed. 188. s to plenary actions, for the recov-of property against adverse claims or the like, the jurisdiction of the rts of bankruptcy is territorially reicted, and such a court cannot take isdiction of a trustee's suit for the overy of property outside the bound-es of its own district, but, in order obtain the possession of such prop-y or its avails, the trustee must ine the jurisdiction of the proper lo-court, either state or federal. In re Brittania Mining Co. (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 459, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 651; Paine v. Caldwell (D. C. 1872) 6 N. B. R. 558, Fed. Cas. No. 10,674; In re Farrell (1912) 201 Fed. 338, 119 C. C. A. 576; In re Geller (D. C. 1914) 216 Fed. 558.

A trustee in bankruptcy desiring to sue for the recovery of a preference or to avoid a fraudulent conveyance, may go into the federal district court in the district where the proposed defendant resides, and there prosecute his action. Parker v. Sherman (D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 648, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 379; Teague v. Anderson Hardware Co. (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 765, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 424; Lawrence v. Lowrie (D. C. 1903) 133 Fed. 995, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 297; Hills v. F. D. McKinniss Co. (D. C. 1910) 188 Fed. 1012, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 329; Sherman v. Bingham (C. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 490, Fed. Cas. No. 12,762. He may also sue in another district to collect assets of the estate. In re Farrell (C. C. A. 1912) 201 Fed. 338. In re Rathfon Bros. (D. C. 1912) 200 Fed. 108, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 22; Shainwald v. Lewis (D. C. 1880) 5 Fed. 510; Goodall v. Tuttle (D. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 193, Fed. Cas. No. 5,533; In re Murphy, 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 393. Or to recover a sum of money due to the bankrupt under a written contract. Babbitt v. Burgess (C. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 693. Or to redeem mortgaged property of the bankrupt. Barnard v. Hartford, P. & F. R. Co. (C. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 1,003.

The jurisdiction thus to be exercised by the court in another district in a plenary suit is not a jurisdiction in bankruptcy, but its ordinary jurisdiction, in law or equity as the case may be, and therefore the trustee must pursue the same remedies and is subject to the same rules as those would be whose rights he represents, that is, either the bankrupt or the creditors according to the nature of the suit. Markson v. Heaney (C. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 510, Fed. Cas. No. 9,098; In re Williams (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 321, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 538; Hull v. Burr (1907) 153 Fed. 945, 83 C. C. A. 61, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 541. And see United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Bray (1912) 225 U. S. 205, 32 Sup. Ct. 620, 56 L. Ed. 1055, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 207; Scott v. George's Creek Coal & Iron Co. (D. C. 1913) 202 Fed. 251.

The trustee cannot maintain a plenary suit in a court of bankruptcy of another district to recover alleged excessive payments or transfers to counsel made by the bankrupt in contemplation of bankruptcy and for services to be rendered therein, when the court in which the proceeding is pending has made no order for the re-examination and reduction of such payments or transfers. In re Wood (1908) 210 U.

S. 246, 28 Sup. Ct. 621, 52 L. Ed. 1046, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1.

29. Jurisdiction of state courts.—Under former bankruptcy statutes, many state courts held that they had no jurisdiction of actions brought by trustees in bankruptcy to recover property alleged to have been transferred by the bankrupt in violation of, or in fraud of, the provisions of the bankruptcy act, as in cases of preferences and fraudulent conveyances, but that the jurisdiction of the federal courts in such cases was exclusive. Olcott v. McLean (N. Y. 1877) 10 Hun, 277, 16 N. B. R. 79; Brigham v. Claflin (1872) 31 Wis. 607, 11 Am. Rep. 623; Bromley v. Goodrich (1876) 40 Wis. 131, 22 Am. Rep. 685, 15 N. B. R. 289; Gilbert v. Priest (N. Y. 1873) 65 Barb. 444; Shaw v. Meldrum (N. Y. 1862) 14 Abb. Prac. (N. S.) 165, note; Voorhies v. Frisbie (1872) 25 Mich. 476, 12 Am. Rep. 291, 8 N. B. R. 152; Redd v. Wallace (1906) 145 Ala. 209, 40 South. 407. Compare Otis v. Hadley (1873) 112 Mass. 100; Dambmann v. White (1874) 48 Cal. 439.

In view of the provision of section 9654, post, giving concurrent jurisdiction in certain cases to the state and federal courts, it is now held that any state court of competent jurisdiction may enforce actionable rights arising under the bankruptcy law. Maxwell v. Davis Trust Co. (1911) 69 W. Va. 276, 71 S. E. 270; Nisbet v. Sigel-Campion Live Stock Commission Co. (1912) 21 Colo. App. 494, 123 Pac. 110; Robinson v. White (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 33. But any suit brought in a state court by a trustee in bankruptcy, except as specially authorized by the bankruptcy law, is without the jurisdiction of the court. Glover v. Love (1880) 68 Ala. 219. Such a court, in passing upon the claims of a trustee in bankruptcy, is not proceeding under the bankruptcy law, but simply recognizes that statute as the source of the trustee's title, in the same manner as it would if he derived his title from a deed or contract. Cook v. Whipple (1873) 55 N. Y. 150, 14 Am. Rep. 202. The jurisdiction exercised by the state courts concurrently with the federal courts, in enforcing rights and duties created by the bankruptcy law, is discretionary on their part, and may at any time be renounced or incumbered with onerous conditions. In re Woodbury (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 833, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 457.

Any state court which would have jurisdiction of the subject-matter as between citizens of the state, and which acquires jurisdiction of the persons of the litigants, has jurisdiction, concurrent with that of the courts of bankruptcy, of actions by trustees in bankruptcy to set aside alleged fraudulent transfers or conveyances of property made by the bankrupts upon whose estates they are appointed to administer. Frank v. Vollkommer (1907) 205 U. S. 521, 27 Sup. Ct. 596, 51 L. Ed. 911, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 806; McKenna v Simpson (1889) 129 U. S. 507, 9 Sup Ct. 365, 32 L. Ed. 771; Johnston v Forsyth Mercantile Co. (D. C. 1904 127 Fed. 845, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 669 In re Steed (D. C. 1901) 107 Fe 682, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 73; Robinso v. White (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 33, Am. Bankr. Rep. 88; Cox v. Wall (I C. 1900) 99 Fed. 546; Norcross v Nathan (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 414, Am. Bankr. Rep. 613; Andrews v Mather (1902) 134 Ala. 358, 32 Soutl 738; Rison v. Powell (1873) 28 Arl 427; Hull v. Hudson (1911) 9 Del. Cl 205, 80 Atl. 674; Hobbs v. Frazie (1911) 61 Fla. 611, 55 South. 848 Isett v. Stuart (1875) 80 Ill. 404, 2 Am. Rep. 194; Lyon v. Clark (1900 124 Mich. 100, 82 N. W. 1058, 83 N W. 694; Sheldon v. Parker (1902) 6 Neb. 610, 92 N. W. 923, 95 N. W. 1015 Bindseil v. Smith (1900) 61 N. J. Ec 654, 47 Atl. 456; Jones v. Schermer horn (1900) 53 App. Div. 494, 65 N Y. Supp. 999; Bouton v. Wheeler (1907 118 App. Div. 426, 104 N. Y. Supp. 33 Small v. Muller (1901) 67 App. Div 143, 73 N. Y. Supp. 667; Breckons v Snyder (1905) 211 Pa. 176, 60 At 575; Mueller v. Bruss (1901) 112 Wis 406, 88 N. W. 229; Blick v. Nimm (1913) 121 Md. 139, 88 Atl. 116. CON TRA, Frost v. Hotchkiss, 14 N. B. R 443; McLean v. Lafayette Bank (C C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 8,885; Hull v Fifty-Second St. Storage House (1915 166 App. Div. 739, 152 N. Y. Supp 363; Corey v. Blackwell Lumber Co (1913) 24 Idaho, 642, 135 Pac. 742 Union Banking Co. v. Truscott Boa Mfg. Co. (Mich. 1916) 155 N. W. 717 In case the conveyance is voidable a the suit of the trustee only because i is voidable under the laws of the state the trustee must show that he repre sents creditors of that class who alon would be entitled to attack it, as, fo example, creditors having a lien on th particular property. Sparks v. Weath erly (Ala. 1912) 58 South. 280.

In a suit in the state court by a trus tee in bankruptcy to set aside voidabl conveyances by the bankrupt, it is im material as to how the fund is to b administered, or who is to get the ben efit of it, and hence the validity of al other claims cannot be litigated. A bil in a state court by a trustee to se aside a voluntary conveyance by th bankrupt need only show one existin creditor who could have avoided th conveyance, and the court will set i aside in favor of all existing creditor who file and prove their claims in th bankruptcy court. Cartwright v. Wes (Ala. 1914) 64 So. 293.

The jurisdiction of the state cour over a suit to set aside a fraudulen conveyance is not divested by the institution of bankruptcy proceeding more than four months after the commencement of the suit. Blick v. Nim-

(1913) 88 A. 116, 121 Md. 139. re a receiver is appointed in a by a trustee in bankruptcy to set conveyances, the money recovered in should not be appropriated by rustee, but paid first to the receiv-Hull v. Fifty-Second St. Storage
e (1915) 152 N. Y. S. 363, 166
Div. 739.

e state courts have jurisdiction an action by a trustee in bank-cy to recover money or property or transferred by the bankrupt to editor by way of a voidable prefer-Claflin v. Houseman (1876) 93
. 130, 23 L. Ed. 833; Russell v. n (1875) 61 Mo. 185, 15 N. B. R.
Dambmann v. White (1874) 48
439, 12 N. B. R. 438; Jordan v. ney (1875) 40 Md. 401, 12 N. B. R.
Boudinot v. Hamann (1902) 117
, 22, 90 N. W. 497; Goodrich v. on (1876) 119 Mass. 429, 14 N.
. 555; Detroit Trust Co. v. Old Bank (1908) 155 Mich. 61, 118 N.
729; Drew v. Myers (1908) 81 Neb.
116 N. W. 781, 17 L. R. A. (N.
350; Bindseil v. Cashion (1900) 60
. Eq. 116, 45 Atl. 697; Vollkom-
v. Frank (1905) 107 App. Div.
95 N. Y. Supp. 324; Stern v. er (1904) 99 App. Div. 427, 91 N.
Supp. 292; Silberstein v. Stahl 00) 32 Misc. Rep. 353, 66 N. Y.
p. 646; Exler v. American Box Co.
10) 226 Pa. 384, 75 Atl. 661, 134
St. Rep. 1067; Maxwell v. Davis st Co. (1911) 69 W. Va. 276, 71 S.
270. But in an action of the latter in a state court, it is not permisto enter into an inquiry into the lity of all other claims against the krupt and into the question whether r creditors have received voidable erences and have not been requiro surrender them, since this would, ffect, transfer the administration of bankrupt's estate from the bank-cy court to the state courts. Eau re Nat. Bank v. Jackman (1907)
U. S. 522, 27 Sup. Ct. 391, 51 L.
596, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 675.

ne state courts have jurisdiction of ons by trustees in bankruptcy to ect the assets of the estate, realize choses in action, enforce contracts, recover debts due to the bankrupt.
ter v. Gaff (1875) 91 U. S. 521, 23
Ed. 403; Burbank v. Bigelow (1875)
U. S. 179, 23 L. Ed. 542; Cox v.
l (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 546; Heath
Shaffer (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 647, 2
Bankr. Rep. 98; In re Gerdes, 2
. Bankr. News, 131; In re Mur-
, 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 393; Clark wing (D. C. 1880) 3 Fed. 83; Farn-
v. Friedmeyer (1903) 109 Ill. App.
McIntyre v. Malone (1902) 3 Neb. of.) 159, 91 N. W. 246; Frank v.
dams (Sup. Ct. 1900) 32 Misc.
. 512, 66 N. Y. Supp. 379; Peiper Harmer (Pa. 1871) 8 Phila. 100;
y v. Arnot (N. D. 1915) 154 N. W.

And to hear and determine the rights or titles of third persons, not parties to the bankruptcy proceedings, claiming property adversely to the bankrupt or in hostility to the trustee. In re Russell (1900) 101 Fed. 248, 41 C. C. A. 323, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 658; McLeod's Trustee v. McLeod (1905) 89 S. W. 199, 28 Ky. Law Rep. 284; In re Kane (D. C. 1907) 152 Fed. 587, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 654; Bennette v. Lewis (Tex. Civ. App. 1915) 176 S. W. 660.

A bank which had been appointed a depositary for bankruptcy funds became insolvent and passed into the hands of the state superintendent of banks. A trustee in bankruptcy claimed that deposits made by him in such bank in his official character were entitled to priority of payment out of its assets, in view of the act of Congress giving preference to debts due to the United States. But the state statute declares that dividends to be paid by the superintendent of banks, out of the assets of institutions in his charge, shall be paid to such persons and in such amounts as shall be directed by the local state court. Held, that the question raised by the trustee in bankruptcy was within the exclusive jurisdiction of the state court, and could not be determined on a motion in the court of bankruptcy for an order requiring the superintendent of banks to pay out money so deposited. In re Bologh (D. C. 1911) 185 Fed. 825, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 726.

An action which merely seeks a money judgment, to recover an amount alleged to have been paid out by the bankrupt to a creditor as a preference, is not a suit in equity but an action at law. Cohen v. Small (1908) 190 N. Y. 568, 83 N. E. 1123; Merritt v. Halliday (1905) 107 App. Div. 596, 95 N. Y. Supp. 331. But on the other hand, it is not triable in a state court of inferior and limited statutory jurisdiction. Dyer v. Kratzenstein (1905) 103 App. Div. 404, 92 N. Y. Supp. 1012.

In one state, it is held that, in an action by a trustee in bankruptcy to vacate a deed executed by the bankrupt, a state court has jurisdiction of the subject-matter, notwithstanding the fact that the property is located in another state. Bowler v. First Nat. Bank (1907) 21 S. D. 449, 113 N. W. 618, 130 Am. St. Rep. 725. But elsewhere it is held that a trustee in bankruptcy cannot maintain, in the district court of one county, a suit to set aside as fraudulent a sale of land made under a decree of the district court of another county, in a foreclosure suit against the bankrupt which was pending therein when the petition in bankruptcy was filed. W. C. Belcher Land Mortgage Co. v. Bush (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 67 S. W. 444.

Assuming that the state court has jurisdiction of an action by the trustee, or of one in which he voluntarily appears, its judgment rendered in the case is binding and conclusive upon him and upon those whom he represents. Winchester v. Heiskell (1886) 119 U. S. 450, 7 Sup. Ct. 281, 30 L. Ed. 462; Lindstroth Wagon Co. y. Ballew (1907) 149 Fed. 960, 79 C. C. A. 470, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 23. And it is thereafter too late for him to allege that the federal court alone had jurisdiction of the controversy. Scott v. Kelly (1874) 22 Wall. 57, 22 L. Ed. 729. Nor will the judgment of the state court be reviewed or in any manner revised by the court of bankruptcy. Robinson v. White (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 33, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 88.

Under proper conditions, an action of trover will lie in a state court to recover the value of property unlawfully taken by the trustee as a part of the bankrupt estate but really belonging to the plaintiff. Weeks v. Fowler (1902) 71 N. H. 518, 53 Atl. 543.

A state court may have jurisdiction of a suit to quiet title to real estate, at the instance of a person in possession, against the bankrupt and his trustee. Reinhard v. Reinhard (1901) 22 Ohio Cir. Ct. R. 362. And of a suit by the solvent partner of a solvent firm against the trustee in bankruptcy of the insolvent partner for an accounting and to gain control of the administration of the firm's assets. Williams v. Lane (1910) 158 Cal. 39, 109 Pac. 873. A trustee in bankruptcy charged with the value of certain property which had come into his possession as an asset and improperly delivered to a firm of which he was a member may be enjoined by a state court at the instance of the other partners from using the partnership assets to satisfy the judgment in summary proceedings against himself. Hebert v. Crawford (1913) 33 Sup. Ct. 484, 228 U. S. 204, 57 L. Ed. 800.

A suit by a state against one of its own citizens, being a trustee in bankruptcy, cannot be maintained in a federal court, but only in a court of the state. North Carolina v. Trustees of University (C. C. 1871) 65 N. C. 714, Fed. Cas. No. 10,318.

Claims against a bankrupt's estate are not to be settled or liquidated by suit in a state court (unless so ordered by the court of bankruptcy), since this is properly a step or proceeding in the bankruptcy case. In re Heim Milk Product Co. (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 787, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 746. Nor will a state court take jurisdiction of any action which seeks to determine the title to, or gain the possession of, any property which has already passed into the actual custody of the court of bankruptcy. In re Reynolds (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 760, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 758; Mishawaka Woolen Mfg. Co. v. Powell (1903) 98 Mo. App. 530, 72 S. W. 723.

A state court has jurisdiction of a garnishment proceeding by a judgment creditor of the bankrupt against a trustee in bankruptcy, who had collected note after it had been set apart the bankrupt as exempt. Barker-Bo Lumber Co. v. Whaley (Va. 1915) S. E. 160.

Where the state court has no jur diction of the subject-matter of an tion against a trustee in bankrupt the trustee cannot confer jurisdiction answering and praying for affirmati relief. Goodnough Mercantile Co. Galloway (1906) 48 Or. 239, 84 P 1049.

The judgment rendered by a st court against a trustee in bankrupt while it may bind him personally, is effective against the assets of the ba rupt in his hands for administrati and hence, if such a judgment und takes to direct the payment of a cert sum out of such assets, it is erro ous and not at all binding on the co of bankruptcy. In re Central Bank C. 1875) 12 N. B. R. 286, Fed. C No. 2,549; Skilton v. Codington (190 185 N. Y. 80, 77 N. E. 790, 113 A St. Rep. 885; In re Rogers & Stef (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 267, 19 A Bankr. Rep. 566.

30. Conflicting jurisdiction of st and federal courts.—In bankruptcy m ters, as between a state court and federal court, each will respect t jurisdiction of the other lawfully a quired, and neither will attempt to d turb or interfere with the possessi of property rightfully in the custody under the control of the other. In Kellogg (1903) 121 Fed. 333, 57 C. A. 547, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 7; Be v. Chase (1900) 99 Fed. 920, 40 C. A. 182, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 746; Dau ters v. Christy (1906) 223 Ill. 612, N. E. 292; National Surety Co. Medlock (1907) 2 Ga. App. 665, 58 E. 1131; Simmons v. Richards (190 28 Tex. Civ. App. 112, 66 S. W. 68 Scott v. George's Creek Coal & Ir Co. (1913) 202 Fed. 251; Mutual L Ins. Co. v. Fleischman (1912) 149 A Div. 23. 133 N. Y. Supp. 512.

If property which is claimed as p of the assets of an estate in ban ruptcy is found to be in the possessi of a receiver previously appointed a state court, the proper course is f the trustee in bankruptcy to apply the state court for an order directi the receiver to turn over the proper to him, which order the state court m and should make; but if it refuses, t trustee should not seek coercive mea to force the surrender of the proper but should intervene in the proceedin in the state court for the protection the interests which he represents. Ca ling v. Seymour Lumber Co. (1902) 1 Fed. 483, 51 C. C. A. 1, 8 Am. Ban Rep. 29; In re Lesser (D. C. 190 100 Fed. 433, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 81 Mauran v. Crown Carpet Lining C (1901) 23 R. I. 324, 50 Atl. 331; W son v. Parr (1902) 115 Ga. 629, 42 either of the courts will undertake eview, modify, or vacate a judgment fully rendered by the other in the exercise of its jurisdiction. In re nolds (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 585, Am. Bankr. Rep. 245; Robinson v. te (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 33, 3 Am. kr. Rep. 88; Clendening v. Red er Valley Nat. Bank (1903) 12 N. D. 94 N. W. 901.

. And see In re Sage (D. C. 1915) Fed. 525.

I. LIMITATION OF ACTIONS

. Limitation of actions in general.—provision of section 9595, ante, that ts shall not be brought by or against ustee of a bankrupt estate subse- t to two years after the estate has closed," is applicable in all courts, e as well as federal, and its effect be in some cases to prolong, and thers to shorten, the period of limi- on given by the law of the state. er v. Harmer (1871) 8 Phila. (Pa.) 5 N. B. R. 252; Rock v. Dennett 92) 155 Mass. 500, 30 N. E. 171; old Grocery Co. v. Shackelford (Ga. 3) 79 S. E. 470.

n action by a bankrupt's trustee ght in 1911 before the estate was ed to recover against a transferee value of goods received from the krupt in 1907 in payment of a pre- ting debt less than four months r to the filing of the petition is gov- d by the limitation prescribed by ion 9595, ante, requiring actions e brought within two years from closing of the estate. Arnold Gro- Co. v. Shackelford (1913) 79 S. 70, 140 Ga. 585.

nce the title of the trustee in kruptcy relates back to the date of adjudication, but no further, if a icular cause of action was then ed by the state statute of limita- s, the trustee cannot sue upon it. e Dunavant (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 41; Sheldon v. ker (1902) 66 Neb. 610, 92 N. W. 95 N. W. 1015. But it is not nec- ry that a cause of action should inally accrue or arise within two s before suit is brought upon it the trustee; he may sue at any within two years after the closing the estate, provided the cause of on existed at the time of the filing the petition in bankruptcy. Trus- of Mutual Building Fund v. Bos- x (D. C. 1880) 3 Fed. 817.

here the action is commenced in season, but the trustee directs the k of the court not to issue the sum- s, and it is not issued or served un- nore than two years after the clos- of the estate, the action will be ed. Walker v. Towner (C. C. 1877) . Cas. No. 17,089.

elay by a party in bringing on his tion that a trustee be required to l shares of stock until his rights e determined held not laches bar- ring recovery. In re Jamison Bros. & Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 227 Fed. 30.

32. —— What suits and proceedings barred.—The special statute of limitations prescribed by the bankruptcy act applies to all judicial contests between the trustee in bankruptcy and any person whose interest is adverse to his. Bailey v. Glover (1874) 21 Wall. 342, 22 L. Ed. 636. It applies to a suit to collect a debt or to recover any property constituting assets of the estate. Jenkins v. International Bank (1882) 106 U. S. 571, 2 Sup. Ct. 1, 27 L. Ed. 304; Doty v. Johnson (D. C. 1881) 6 Fed. 481; Payson v. Coffin (C. C. 1877) Fed. Cas. No. 10,858; Ross v. Wilcox (1883) 134 Mass. 21. But see Smith v. Crawford (D. C. 1873) 9 N. B. R. 38, Fed. Cas. No. 13,030. And to an action to compel specific performance of a contract to sell and convey land to the bankrupt. Ruff's Appeal (1887) 117 Pa. 310, 11 Atl. 553. Or to set aside a deed absolute in form under which the grantee claims adversely to the bankrupt. Jenkins v. Rosenberg (1882) 105 Ill. 157. Or to annul a judgment confessed by the bankrupt under such circumstances as to make it a voidable preference. Reber v. Gundy (C. C. 1883) 16 Fed. 801. Or to enforce against stockholders of the bankrupt corporation the payment of the balance due on their shares. Payson v. Coffin (C. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 10,859. Or to compel a transfer of stock on the books of the corporation. Moses v. St. Paul (1880) 67 Ala. 168. And to an action against the administrator of a deceased bankrupt to recover the proceeds of insurance policies on the bankrupt's life. Avery v. Cleary (1890) 132 U. S. 604, 10 Sup. Ct. 220, 33 L. Ed. 469. Or to set aside a sale under foreclosure of a mortgage. Phelan v. O'Brien (D. C. 1882) 12 Fed. 428. Or to set aside a tax deed on property of the estate in bankruptcy. Gage v. Du Puy (1889) 127 Ill. 216, 19 N. E. 878. And to a suit to enjoin the trustee in bankruptcy from selling property claimed adversely by the plaintiff. West Portland Homestead Ass'n v. Lownsdale (D. C. 1883) 17 Fed. 205.

The special statute of limitation does not apply to a proceeding against the bankrupt himself, not cast in the form of a plenary suit, to compel him to surrender property omitted from his schedule and alleged to be fraudulently withheld from the trustee. Phelps v. McDonald (1878) 99 U. S. 298, 25 L. Ed. 473; Thomas v. Blythe (1893) 55 Fed. 961, 5 C. C. A. 356. Nor to a proceeding taken merely as a step in the administration of the estate and involving merely the authority of the court of bankruptcy to ascertain and settle liens claimed upon the property of the estate. In re Anderson (D. C. 1885) 23 Fed. 482. But see In re Churchman (D. C. 1881) 5 Fed. 181. Nor to a proceeding to review a bill in equity. Wilt v. Stickney (D. C. 1876) 15 N. B. R. 23, Fed. Cas. No. 17,854. Nor to an action founded upon a cause arising after the estate comes to the hands of the trustee. Bowen v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. (1897) 153 N. Y. 476, 47 N. E. 907, 60 Am. St. Rep. 667. Compare Norton v. De La Villebeuve (C. C. 1871) 13 N. B. R. 304, Fed. Cas. No. 10,350; Rock v. Dennett (1892) 155 Mass. 500, 30 N. E. 171. It does not apply to adverse claims arising out of an equitable attachment and an assignment of the bankrupt's interest under a testamentary trust, where both attachment and assignment were subsequent to the assignment in bankruptcy. Hammond v. Whittredge (1907) 204 U. S. 538, 27 Sup. Ct. 396, 51 L. Ed. 606. In cases where the trustee in bankruptcy would be barred by the statute, it will not prevent an action by his grantee. Burton v. Perry (1893) 146 Ill. 71, 34 N. E. 60.

33. —— Ignorance of cause of action and concealed fraud.—Under the bankruptcy act of 1867, it was held that when the assignee's cause of action arose from a fraud concealed by the opposite party, or which from its nature remained secret, the statute did not begin to run until the fraud was discovered. Rosenthal v. Walker (1884) 111 U. S. 185, 4 Sup. Ct. 382, 28 L. Ed. 395; Bailey v. Glover (1874) 21 Wall. 342, 22 L. Ed. 636; Scott v. Devlin (D. C. 1898) 89 Fed. 970; Shainwald v. Davids (D. C. 1895) 69 Fed. 687; Duff v. First Nat. Bank (C. C. 1882) 13 Fed. 65; Martin v. Fullings (D. C. 1880) 3 Fed. 206; Nicholas v. Murray (C. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 469, Fed. Cas. No. 10,223; Pritchard v. Chandler (C. C. 1855) Fed. Cas. No. 11,436; Forbes v. Overby (D. C. 1881) Fed. Cas. No. 4,928a; Fullings v. Fullings (D. C. 1880) Fed. Cas. No. 5,-151a; Toney v. Spragins (1886) 80 Ala. 541. This rule was applied if there was no reason to impute laches to the assignee or want of due diligence in discovering the fraud. Pearsall v. Smith (1893) 149 U. S. 231, 13 Sup. Ct. 833, 37 L. Ed. 713; Andrews v. Dole (D. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 352, Fed. Cas. No. 373.

Where claimant, having been fraudulently induced to sell goods to the bankrupt which were delivered December 9, 1912, though having knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings on December 10th or 12th, filed no intervening petition claiming the goods or the proceeds until May 24, 1913, its right to rescind was barred by laches. In re Watmough (D. C. 1913) 210 Fed. 539.

34. —— Parties affected by statute The special limitation of the ba ruptcy act does not apply to an act by or against a purchaser from trustee in bankruptcy, where the ca of action arose after the purcha Brewer v. Yazoo & M. V. R. (1911) 128 La. 544, 54 South. 9 Burton v. Perry (1893) 146 Ill. 71, N. E. 60. But if the statute had ready begun to run against the tr tee at the time of the sale, it will c tinue to run against his vend Greene v. Taylor (1889) 132 U. S. 4 10 Sup. Ct. 138, 33 L. Ed. 411; R v. Dennett (1892) 155 Mass. 500, N. E. 171. And the purchaser can sue on a cause of action which was ready barred before the transfer the property to him. Lewis v. Pr dergast (1891) 45 Minn. 533, 48 N. 439. The limitation does not aff an action brought by the bankrupt hi self respecting property rights wh the trustee has abandoned or elec not to take. Sessions v. Roma (1892) 145 U. S. 29, 12 Sup. Ct. 7 36 L. Ed. 609. Nor a suit by a per claiming under a conveyance made the bankrupt before the adjudicat in bankruptcy. Ludeling v. Ch (1892) 143 U. S. 301, 12 Sup. Ct. 4 36 L. Ed. 313.

Where a decree was made by court of bankruptcy establishing priority of the lien of one cert creditor over all other creditors, was held that a creditor who had been made a party to the proceed and had no notice of it was not bar by the statute from asserting rights more than two years after date of the decree. Tennessee & C. Co. v. East Alabama Ry. Co. (1883) Ala. 516, 51 Am. Rep. 475. But wh a creditor brings an action to set as an alleged fraudulent conveyance, claiming any peculiar rights for hi self, but simply because the assig has refused to sue, he is as m bound by the statute as the assig himself would be. Freelander v. H loman (D. C. 1873) 9 N. B. R. 3 Fed. Cas. No. 5,081.

35. —— Pleading the statute.—T special short statute of limitations p scribed by the bankruptcy act, like other statute of limitations, must taken advantage of either by demur or answer; if not pleaded, it will waived, since it does not take away jurisdiction of the court in which action may be brought, but only p an end to the action if seasonably up. Upton v. McLaughlin (1881) U. S. 640, 26 L. Ed. 1197; Bartles Gibson (C. C. 1883) 17 Fed. 293.

If an action begun by the bankru and in which the trustee is substitu as plaintiff, is allowed to proceed judgment without any objection be taken on the ground that the stat limitations had run against it, the ceeds of the judgment cannot be med by the bankrupt, but belong to estate in bankruptcy. Maybin v. ymond (C. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 353, l. Cas. No. 9,338.

6. —— Laches of trustee.—Without cial reference to the statute of limions, an action by a trustee in kruptcy to collect a debt, avoid a udulent conveyance, or recover a ference, may be successfully defendon the ground of his laches, if he unreasonably and negligently reined from asserting his claims as stee, and rights have meanwhile aced which are of value and should be pected. Sparhawk v. Yerkes (1891) U. S. 1, 12 Sup. Ct. 104, 35 L. 915; Swartz v. Frank (1904) 183 438, 82 S. W. 60; Beall v. Dune (1892) 149 Pa. 439, 24 Atl. 284; obson v. Sims (1877) 60 Ala. 185.

he statute requires claims against estate in bankruptcy to be exhibited hin one year after the adjudication, l also requires a creditor who has eived a preference to surrender the e as a condition precedent to his nt to prove his claim. But where a stee in bankruptcy failed to take any ps towards the avoidance of an aled preference until the year had so rly expired that there did not rein to the preferred creditor a reably sufficient time in which to surder his preference and prove his m, it was held that the trustee's sequent suit to avoid the preference uld be dismissed on account of his es. Swartz v. Frank (1904) 183 438, 82 S. W. 60.

he trustee is not barred, on the und of laches, from asserting rights er the liens of execution creditors n property held by the bankrupt er a contract of conditional sale, ch liens had been preserved for the efit of the estate by order of the rt of bankruptcy, simply because he t based his right to relief solely upon ground that an unlawful preference created through the payment of an ebtedness by the transfer of the perty to the vendor by the bankrupt n insolvent. Rock Island Plow Co. Reardon (1912) 222 U. S. 354, 32 . Ct. 164, 56 L. Ed. 231, 27 Am. kr. Rep. 492.

hat the trustee allowed an attaching ditor to proceed to judgment in her against a debtor of the bankrupt l not laches preventing him from ing aside judgment in her favor. son v. Van Buren County Farmers' t. Fire Ins. Co. (Mich. 1915) 151 N. 752.

7. —— Effect of reopening estate.—en a closed estate is reopened on etition by creditors or the former stee, showing that certain solvent ms had not been collected, subsent suits brought to collect such ms are not barred by the special statute of limitations, although the estate was not reopened until more than two years after the final settlement and closing of it. Bilafsky v. Abraham (1903) 183 Mass. 401, 67 N. E. 318. CONTRA, under the act of 1867, see Geisreiter v. Sevier (1878) 33 Ark. 522; Scott v. Little (D. C. 1896) 76 Fed. 563.

An estate cannot thus be reopened for the purpose of allowing the trustee to bring a suit to set aside an alleged fraudulent conveyance by the bankrupt, on the theory that property conveyed away by a bankrupt, although for the purpose of defrauding his creditors, is not property of his estate until the sale is set aside, and therefore the existence of a cause of action in the trustee to vacate such a conveyance is insufficient to show that the estate was not fully administered when it was closed by order of the court. Kinder v. Sharff (1911) 129 La. 218, 55 South. 769, judgment affirmed (1913) 34 S. Ct. 164, 231 U. S. 517, 58 L. Ed. 343.

The two years' limitation after the closing of an estate prescribed by section 9595, ante, of suits by or against trustees in bankruptcy, bars an action by a former trustee to set aside a conveyance as in fraud of creditors after the bankruptcy proceedings had been reopened for that purpose, on the ground that he had just discovered the facts, where pending the original proceedings the trustee made some inquiries but dropped the matter. Kinder v. Scharff (1913) 34 S. Ct. 164, 231 U. S. 517, 58 L. Ed. 343, affirming judgment (1911) 55 So. 769, 129 La. 218.

IV. PARTIES, PLEADING, EVIDENCE, AND PROCEDURE

38. Parties.—In an action by a trustee in bankruptcy, the complaint should represent him as suing in his official capacity, and not as an individual, but when this is done, the fact that his name, in the caption, is followed by the word "trustee," instead of the words "as trustee," is immaterial. Newland v. Zodikow (1902) 39 Misc. Rep. 541, 80 N. Y. Supp. 375. If the same trustee is appointed for two bankrupts individually and also for the firm of which they are the members, in the same proceeding, he holds but one office, and may sue to set aside a fraudulent conveyance made by the bankrupts jointly. Wright v. Simon (1907) 52 Misc. Rep. 360, 102 N. Y. Supp. 1108. He generally sues in his own name as trustee in bankruptcy, but if a technical legal title to the property in suit is outstanding in the name of another, it will be necessary for the trustee (the local rules of practice so requiring) to use the name of such other as the nominal plaintiff in the action. Bacon v. George (1910) 206 Mass. 566, 92 N. E. 721; Traders' Ins. Co. v. Mann (1903) 118 Ga. 381, 45 S. E. 426. In any proceedings affecting property or assets of the estate, the trustee in bankruptcy must be made a party, or he will not be bound by the decree. Atkinson v. Farmers' Bank (D. C. 1844) Fed. Cas. No. 609; Magruder v. Hattiesburg Trust & Banking Co. (Miss. 1915) 67 South. 485. See Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Floyd (1912) 158 N. C. 455, 74 S. E. 465. Thus, he is a necessary party to a bill to foreclose a mortgage given by the bankrupt. Clark v. Clark (1875) 56 N. H. 105.

As to the joinder of parties, bankruptcy follows the general rule of equity, that all those should be brought in who have any interests in the subject-matter of the suit or claims upon it, or whose rights may be prejudicially affected by the decree to be made in the case, in order that complete justice to all concerned may be effected at one time. United Sheet & Tin Plate Co. v. Hess (1908) 159 Fed. 889, 87 C. C. A. 69, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 254; In re Kane (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 633, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 616; In re Beede (D. C. 1903) 126 Fed. 853, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 387; In re Baudouine (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 536, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 55. See In re Frey's Estate (1912) 237 Pa. 269, 85 Atl. 147. A trustee in bankruptcy, suing for money paid by bankrupt without consideration to a corporation, should as a protection, in case of the corporation becoming insolvent, join as defendants all those shown by the complaint to be personally liable. The complaint of a trustee in bankruptcy to recover money paid defendant, alleging that persons constituting a majority of the board of directors both of bankrupt and defendant, acting for bankrupt, caused it to pay money to defendant without consideration, "knowing" the facts, shows a personal liability, as regards propriety of joining them as defendants. Billings v. Charles Millar & Son Co. (D. C. 1915) 227 Fed. 185. Under Civ. Code Ga. 1910, § 2251, all shareholders of an insolvent corporation who received dividends paid out of the capital assets may be joined in one action instituted by the trustees in bankruptcy to recover the amount of the dividends. Carlisle v. Ottley (1915) 85 S. E. 1010, 143 Ga. 797.

An objection on the ground of a want of necessary parties will be available only in so far as it prevents the doing of complete justice without the presence of the omitted parties, and it will not be allowed to prevent relief which can be given as between the parties before the court, and which will not affect the rights of the omitted parties. Greenhall v. Carnegie Trust Co. (D. C. 1910) 180 Fed. 812, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 300. But it is not necessary to bring in parties who may have some contingent or ultimate rights in the subject of the suit, if those rights are not to be affected by the proceeding immediately before the court. Vollkommer v. Frank (1905) 107 App. Div. 594, 95 N. Y. Supp. 324; Bank of Waldron v. Euper (1910) 93 Ark. 609, 125 S. W. 1022. Thus, in suits to vacate fraudulent transfers and the like, judgment creditors of the bankrupt are not necessary parties. Traders' Bank v. Campbell (1871) 14 Wall. 87, 20 L. Ed. 832; Smith v. Belden (1901) 35 Misc. Rep. 113, 71 N. Y. Supp. 246; Grant v. National Bank of Auburn (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 581, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 712. So, in a suit to set aside a transfer of the bankrupt's interest in a partnership to a third person, the bankrupt's partner is not a necessary party. Lamb v. Hall (1905) 147 Cal. 37, 81 Pac. 286. And in an action to vacate an alleged fraudulent chattel mortgage, persons to whom the bankrupt had subsequently given other chattel mortgages on the same property are not necessary parties. Shanks v. National Casket Co. (1904) 95 App. Div. 187, 88 N. Y. Supp. 839. And a fraudulent transferee of property, who has transferred the property to another fraudulent transferee, need not be joined. Skillen v. Endelman (1902) 39 Misc. Rep. 261, 79 N. Y. Supp. 413. And in a suit by the trustee against the bankrupt's wife, to whom he had assigned policies of insurance on his life, to determine the amount of premiums paid in fraud of creditors, the insurer is not a necessary party. Bailey v. Wood (1909) 202 Mass. 562, 89 N. E. 149.

A bill by the trustee in bankruptcy of an insolvent corporation to recover from a former shareholder money received from the corporation upon purchase of his shares is not objectionable because joining other stockholders charged with similar transactions. Sherrill v. Hutson (Ala. 1914) 65 So. 538.

It is no objection to the trustee's bringing a suit to recover assets in the form of a creditors' bill, that there are also other creditors of the defendant, for in such a bill, the complainant sues as one of a class for the benefit of all members thereof who may become parties. Stotesbury v. Cadwallader (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 13,498. But see Biggs v. Westen (1913) 248 Mo. 333, 154 S. W. 708. But if property of the bankrupt is subject to a valid lien, the mere taking possession of the property by the court of bankruptcy does not make the holder of the lien a party to the proceedings in bankruptcy. In re Platteville Foundry & Machine Co. (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 828, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 291.

In a suit by a trustee to establish rights in property within the district, a nonresident defendant claiming adversely may be brought in by an order and service by publication. Horskins v. Sanderson (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 415, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101; Olcott v. Maclean (1878) 73 N. Y. 223.

9. —— Joinder of bankrupt.—The ıkrupt is neither a necessary nor a ›per party to any action relative to assets of his estate in the hands of trustee; and it is not necessary to ı him as a party of record in any h proceeding, whether the suit be ›ught by the trustee or brought ıinst him, and whether its object is collect a debt, recover a preference, ›id a fraudulent transfer, or estab- ı a title to, or lien upon, property in possession of the trustee. Wall v. x (1900) 101 Fed. 403, 41 C. C. A. 3, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 659; Cox v. ıll (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 546; Good- ıgh Mercantile & Stock Co. v. Gallo- y (D. C. 1906) 156 Fed. 504, 19 ı. Bankr. Rep. 244; Buckingham v. tes (1904) 128 Fed. 584, 63 C. C. 20, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 182; French R. P. Smith & Sons Co. (1900) 81 nn. 341, 84 N. W. 44; Edwards v. billinger (1909) 148 Ill. App. 227; ank v. Musliner (1902) 76 App. Div. 3, 78 N. Y. Supp. 369; Fry v. Street 881) 37 Ark. 39.

0. Representation of trustee by unsel for bankrupt.—A rule of the ırt of bankruptcy forbidding the nkrupt's counsel to represent the ıstee in litigation applies only to pro- edings in the bankruptcy case before e bankruptcy court, and has no ap- cation to a suit by the trustee in a ıte court, and it is no defense to a it brought by a trustee in bankruptcy, equity, to recover assets of the bank- pt alleged to be in the possession of e defendant, that the plaintiff's at- rney was attorney for the bankrupt the bankruptcy proceedings. Calla- n v. Israel (1904) 186 Mass. 383, 71 E. 812.

1. Injunction and receivership.—hen the trustee in bankruptcy brings it to recover an alleged preference, to set aside an alleged fraudulent nveyance, he may obtain an injunc- ›n restraining the defendant from dis- sing of the property or letting it go t of his hands pending the suit. In Norris (D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 598, Am. Bankr. Rep. 444; In re chwartzman (D. C. 1909) 167 Fed. 9, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 885; Blake Nesbet (D. C. 1905) 144 Fed. 279, Am. Bankr. Rep. 269; In re Latimer D. C. 1905) 141 Fed. 665, 15 Am. ankr. Rep. 461; Jobbins v. Montague 872) 23 N. J. Eq. 182. But the trus- e must show some emergency justify- ; such action or some imminent dan- r of loss which the court would be un- le to redress. Beecher v. Bininger C. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 1,222; Row- ıd v. Auto Car Co. (C. C. 1905) 133 ed. 835, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 799. here his claim is to the possession of ecific property, presently within the ach of the court, he may be entitled to injunction restraining its shipment t of the district until after the termi- nation of the suit. Pyle v. Texas Transport & Terminal Co. (D. C. 1911) 185 Fed. 309, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 829. A trustee in bankruptcy of a husband cannot maintain a bill to restrain the husband and wife from alienating property which they hold by that peculiar tenure still surviving in some states, known as "tenancy by entireties." Weiss v. Beihl (1911) 232 Pa. 97, 81 Atl. 148.

A court of bankruptcy held to have power to enjoin violation of a contract made with a trustee. In re Consumers' Albany Brewing Co. (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 235.

To enable court to pass on motion to vacate injunction restraining sale of property fraudulently transferred and other property, plaintiff held to be required to furnish a bill of particulars separating the classes of property. Hane v. Crown & Keystone Co. (D. C. 1915) 223 Fed. 439.

A receiver was held properly appointed at the instance of a trustee in bankruptcy, as plaintiff in an action, where the property alleged to have been fraudulently transferred to the defendants was a stock of merchandise, and it appeared that it consisted of goods subject to deterioration and fluctuation in price, and that it had not been inventoried, so that its value could not be correctly estimated, and that the defendants were probably not worth much more than the amount of their debts. Cox v. Wall (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 546. But proof of the defendant's insolvency or unstable financial condition is essential to the appointment of a receiver. Webb v. Manheim (1905) 109 App. Div. 63, 95 N. Y. Supp. 1003; McKenzie v. Thomas (1903) 118 Ga. 728, 45 S. E. 610. And a receiver should not be appointed where there is a probability that a valid claim of set-off existing in the defendant may wipe out the indebtedness sued for. Rowland v. Auto Car Co. (C. C. 1905) 133 Fed. 835, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 799. Where respondent corporation did an independent business, and had goods honestly belonging to it, and creditors to whom it was indebted, and was not insolvent, a receiver would not be appointed to assist a trustee in bankruptcy of respondent's managing stockholder to trace property which he fraudulently concealed from his creditors by means of respondent corporation. Sprague v. L. D. Margolis Co. (D. C. 1913) 211 Fed. 171.

A receiver appointed at the instance of a trustee in bankruptcy as plaintiff in a suit should only be charged with the preservation of the property, and should not be authorized to sell it. Small v. Muller (1901) 67 App. Div. 143, 73 N. Y. Supp. 667. Compare Cox v. Wall (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 546.

Even if a sufficient case for the appointment of a receiver is not made out, the trustee in bankruptcy, suing in equity to establish rights in property, may have a writ of sequestration to prevent the removal of the property from the district. Horskins v. Sanderson (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 415, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101, citing Steam Stone Cutter Co. v. Sears (C. C. 1881) 9 Fed. 8; Same v. Jones (C. C. 1882) 13 Fed. 567. And if his attempt to realize the value of assets claimed to belong to the estate in bankruptcy, by a suit to quiet title, is met by an assertion of title on the part of the defendant and an attempt to enjoin him from proceeding with his suit, he may be entitled to a writ of prohibition, addressed to the state court in which the injunction is asked, forbidding it to grant the writ. Hudson v. Judge of Superior Court (1879) 42 Mich. 239, 3 N. W. 913.

42. Allegations of trustee's bill or complaint.—In a bill or complaint by a trustee in bankruptcy it is not necessary to set out in detail the various steps in the bankruptcy proceeding, but only the fact of the adjudication and the appointment of the trustee, and these may be alleged to have been by orders or decrees "duly made or given." Bouton v. Wheeler (1907) 118 App. Div. 426, 104 N. Y. Supp. 33; Mears v. Shaw (1905) 32 Mont. 575, 81 Pac. 338; Wheelock v. Lee (1873) 15 Abb. Prac. N. S. (N. Y.) 24, 10 N. B. R. 363; Seaton v. Scovill (1877) 18 Kan. 433, 21 Am. Rep. 212, note, 26 Am. Rep. 779. It has been said that, in suing for the recovery of assets, the trustee need not aver in his complaint the various steps in the bankruptcy proceeding, as they are not ultimate but probative facts; the pleading is good if he alleges ownership in himself, for under such an allegation he can prove the bankruptcy and his own appointment. Dambmann v. White, 48 Cal. 439. But if he undertakes to set out in detail the manner in which he claims to have become the owner of the property, by alleging the proceedings in bankruptcy, it is fatal to the declaration if he omits to allege the adjudication in bankruptcy. Wright v. Johnson (C. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 626, Fed. Cas. No. 18,082. But compare, as to this last point, Lakin v. First Nat. Bank (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 7,999. Where the plaintiff's appointment as trustee in bankruptcy is denied, it must be proved, and judgment given in his favor without proof of such appointment is erroneous. Van Houten v. Oliver (Sup. 1904) 91 N. Y. Supp. 36. Further, as to showing authority of trustee to sue, see Security Trust Co. v. Glazier (1912) 170 Mich. 26, 135 N. W. 904. The trustee of a bankrupt cannot delay taking charge of the property, so as to work an injustice to the parties interested; and a bill by a trustee to take possession of the bankrupt's property should know that there has been no unnecessary delay. Trenholm v. Miles (Miss. 1914) 64 So. 209.

The trustee should also aver that he is the beneficial owner of the property in question, or that it belongs to the bankrupt's estate, or was held for him or for his benefit, as the case may be. A. Dreher & Co. v. National Surety Co. (1911) 174 Ala. 490, 57 South. 34. And he should show whether the right of action is one vesting originally in himself as trustee or one originally accruing to the bankrupt. Murray v. Beal (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 567, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 284. Where, pending an action on unpaid stock subscription, a trustee in bankruptcy was appointed and substituted as plaintiff, held that the complaint must allege notice to the stockholder and an opportunity to be heard as to the validity of the claims, etc. Chamberlain v. Piercy (Wash. 1914) 143 P. 977. But when he sues in trover for a conversion of goods occurring either before or after the bankruptcy, he may join in the declaration a count upon the bankrupt's title and a count upon the trustee's title. Burns v. O'Gorman Co. (C. C. 1906) 150 Fed. 226, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 815.

If the action is at law, and for the recovery of money alleged to belong to the bankrupt, a demand should be alleged and also the fact that the money has not already been paid over to the bankrupt. Cohen v. Wagar (1903) 87 App. Div. 255, 84 N. Y. Supp. 377. The complaint, in an action by a trustee to avoid assignment by the bankrupt, held to sufficiently allege that the money assigned was still in the assignee's hands and part of the estate and that at the time the trustee became subrogated to an attachment of the property in the hands of the assignee the attachment was still in force. Corey v. Blackwell Lumber Co. (1913) 135 P. 742, 24 Idaho, 642. But in equity, no allegation of a previous demand is necessary, the rule in equity being that the bringing of the suit is itself a sufficient demand. Wright v. Skinner (D. C. 1905) 136 Fed. 694, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 500.

When the action is to recover a mere debt, or, generally, where it is a suit which the bankrupt himself might have prosecuted, it is not necessary for the trustee to allege that he has not sufficient assets in his hands to pay all the debts of the estate. Drew v. Myers (1908) 81 Neb. 750, 116 N. W. 781, 17 L. R. A. (N. S.) 750. But otherwise where the suit is to set aside a fraudulent transfer or recover the proceeds thereof. Seager v. Armstrong (1905) 95 Minn. 414, 104 N. W. 479; Roney v. Conable (1904) 125 Iowa, 664, 101 N. W. 505; Mayhew v. Todisman (1912) 246 Mo. 288, 151 S. W. 436; Grant v. National Bank of Auburn (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 581, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 712. CONTRA, Kraver v. Abrahams (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 782, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 365. A bill by a trustee in bankruptcy, attacking a conveyance as voluntary, must show that there were existing creditors, or charge a fraudulent intent. Cartwright v. West (Ala. 1913) 64 So. 293.

The trustee's declaration, complaint, or bill is likewise subject to the ordinary rules of pleading which require certainty and definiteness in the statement of a plaintiff's case and the inclusion of all facts necessary to make out a clear right of action. See Crowe v. Baumann (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 399, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 100; Cohen v. Wagar (1905) 183 N. Y. 33, 75 N. E. 691; Rathbone v. Ayer (1903) 84 App. Div. 186, 82 N. Y. Supp. 235; Carr v. Myers (1905) 211 Pa. 349, 60 Atl. 913; Herzberg v. Riddle (1911) 171 Ala. 368, 54 South. 635; Dickey v. Gray Lumber Co. (1907) 127 Ga. 460, 56 S. E. 481; Smith v. Auerbach (1876) 2 Mont. 348; McKey v. Smith (1912) 255 Ill. 465, 99 N. E. 695; Sparks v. Weatherly (Ala. 1912) 58 South. 280; Rodolf v. First Nat. Bank (1912) 30 Okl. 631, 121 Pac. 629, 41 L. R. A. (N. S.) 204; In re Berkman (D. C. 1901) 201 Fed. 180; In re Young (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 187, 31 Am. Bankr. Rep. 82; McEwen v. Kelly (1913) 140 Ga. 720, 79 S. E. 777.

On an issue in bankruptcy as to the priority of a mortgage lien, the bill should allege the names of all the creditors of the bankrupt other than the mortgagee, the amounts of their debts, the character of the same, and when they arose or were created. Teague v. Anderson Hardware Co. (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 765, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 424.

43. Defenses to trustee's bill or complaint.—In an action by a trustee in bankruptcy, the defendant may deny the plaintiff's official capacity or right to sue, which constitutes a plea in bar, and not in abatement. Peel v. Ringgold (1847) 6 Ark. 546. Or he may allege that a suit upon the same cause of action, brought by the bankrupt himself in another court, and in which the trustee should have intervened, is still pending and undetermined. Radford v. Folsom (D. C. 1882) 14 Fed. 97. If the trustee's bill is to set aside a conveyance or transfer and contains allegations of fraud, there must be an answer denying the fraud, without which a general demurrer should not be allowed. Johnston v. Forsyth Mercantile Co. (D. C. 1904) 127 Fed. 845, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 669. And generally in actions of this kind, although the answer need not set forth in detail all the circumstances of the transaction, it should be responsive to the bill and should contain specific allegations covering the ground of intended defense, as, that the defendant paid a present and adequate consideration in cash, that he purchased in good faith and without intention to delay or defraud the bankrupt's creditors, or otherwise as the case may be. McNulty v. Wiesen (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 1012, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 341. Or that the property in question was exempt from execution and therefore not within the statute. Meyer v. Perkins (1913) 20 Cal. App. 661, 130 Pac. 206.

In an action to recover an alleged preference, the defendant should plead the essential facts of his defense, as, that the property transferred did not belong to the bankrupt, but to his wife. Goode v. Elwood Lodge (1903) 160 Ind. 251, 66 N. E. 742. That he had no knowledge of the insolvency of the debtor and no reasonable cause to believe that a preference was intended. Gamble v. Elkin (1903) 205 Pa. 226, 54 Atl. 782. Or that the goods in question were not taken by defendant in payment of a debt, but on the rescission of a sale of them to the bankrupt, which had been induced by the latter's false and fraudulent representations. American Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Taylor (1905) 137 Fed. 321, 70 C. C. A. 21, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 231.

44. Pleadings in suits against trustees.—A bill in equity against a trustee in bankruptcy which alleges that the complainant held a mortgage on property of the bankrupt, and was induced by the fraudulent representations of the bankrupt to release the same, and offers to restore the consideration received therefor, states a sufficient cause of action for equitable relief by the restoration of the lien. Cleminshaw v. International Shirt & Collar Co. (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 797, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 616.

Great particularity is required in the case of a petition for the restoration to the plaintiff of goods in the hands of the trustee, and which the plaintiff claims under his right to rescind the contract by which they were sold to the bankrupt, on account of its having been induced by the latter's fraud. Such a petition must not only allege all the facts necessary to entitle the petitioner to rescind, but must also set out all the circumstances of the transaction and describe the goods in detail. In re Levi & Pickard (D. C. 1906) 155 Fed. 262, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 430. But see In re Pierce (C. C. A. 1907) 157 Fed. 757, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 664.

In a suit to trace and recover the proceeds of certain drafts with forged bills of lading attached into the hands of the trustee in bankruptcy of the bankrupt drawers, averments of the bill held consistent with the idea that the drafts were deposited for collection only with the right to charge back if uncollected, and not that they were discounted by the local bank. Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne v. Lovell (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 337.

Answer of a bankrupt's trustee in proceedings to show cause why the proceeds of mortgaged property should not be turned over to the mortgage claimant held sufficient for that purpose and to entitle the trustee to an accounting. In re Keystone Press (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 710.

45. Burden of proof and evidence in trustee's suit.—In an action in a state court by a trustee in bankruptcy, it is not necessary for him to establish the jurisdiction of the court of bankruptcy or the petition on which the bankruptcy proceedings were based, in order to sustain the action; but it is sufficient for him to show the adjudication in bankruptcy and his appointment as trustee. Cone v. Purcell (1874) 56 N. Y. 649; Carr v. Gale (C. C. 1847) Fed. Cas. No. 2,434; Burk v. Winters (1872) 28 Ark. 6, 15 N. B. R. 140. But see Pace v. Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co. (1903) 103 Mo. App. 662, 78 S. W. 52, where it was held that, since the bankruptcy law primarily commits the making of an adjudication in bankruptcy to the judge of the court, and only in his absence authorizes the clerk to refer the case to the referee, where an action is brought by a trustee in bankruptcy, and it appears that the adjudication was made by a referee, the jurisdiction of the referee must be established by affirmative proof that the judge was absent. And see also McKey v. Smith (1913) 255 Ill. 465, 99 N. E. 695.

The presumption is in favor of the regularity of all the proceedings leading up to the appointment of the trustee, and that, as trustee, he has complied with all the requirements of the law and is qualified to act. Breckons v. Snyder (1905) 211 Pa. 176, 60 Atl. 575; Laubaugh v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (1905) 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 247. He is not required to produce record proof of an acceptance in writing of his appointment as trustee, or that he has given notice of such appointment. Rogers v. Stevenson (1871) 16 Minn. 68 (Gil. 56); Wooldbridge v. Rickert (1881) 33 La. Ann. 234. And see Babbitt v. Walbrun (C. C. 1871) 6 N. B. R. 359, Fed. Cas. No. 695. He is presumed to represent the creditors of the bankrupt, and the burden is on one who denies his authority to prove the contrary. Oliver v. Hilgers (1902) 88 Minn. 35, 92 N. W. 511.

Where the suit is to recover specific property or its proceeds, the trustee must assume the burden of proving that it belonged to the bankrupt at the time of the adjudication, but this need not be done by direct or positive testimony, if the circumstances of the case do not permit it, but by evidence of facts sufficiently strong to justify the jury in inferring such ownership. Burleigh v. Foreman (1904) 130 Fed. 13, 64 C. C. A. 381, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 88; Clay v. Waters (C. C. A. 1908) 161 Fed. 815, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 561; Waters v. Davis (1906) 145 Fed. 91 76 C. C. A. 444, 16 Am. Bankr. Re 667; Talcott v. Goodwin (1808) 3 D (Conn.) 264; Makins v. Crocker (191 193 Fed. 976, 113 C. C. A. 596; Uni Trust & Savings Bank v. Amery (191 72 Wash. 648, 131 Pac. 199; Walkof Fox (Sup. 1915) 153 N. Y. Supp. 27.

If the suit is for the recovery of mo ey or property in the hands of a thi person, but alleged to belong to t bankrupt, it is essential to show t actual possession of the property the defendant, and the trustee has t burden of establishing this fact. B the trustee is only bound to establi his possession by evidence plain a convincing beyond reasonable contr versy. In re Alphin & Lake Cott Co. (D. C. 1905) 134 Fed. 477, 14 A Bankr. Rep. 194; In re Feldser (D. 1905) 134 Fed. 307, 14 Am. Ban Rep. 216; Mowry v. Reed (1905) 1 Mass. 174, 72 N. E. 936; Clay v. W ters (C. C. A. 1908) 161 Fed. 815, Am. Bankr. Rep. 561; In re Rose zweig (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 360, Am. Bankr. Rep. 680.

The trustee has also the burden showing exactly what property of t bankrupt is in the defendant's posse sion. Mattley v. Wolfe (D. C. 190 175 Fed. 619, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 67 But if he shows the fraudulent posse sion of property of the bankrupt the defendant, he may recover t value of the goods, even if they cann be precisely identified. In re Jacki (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 720, 24 A Bankr. Rep. 790; Page v. Moo (1912) 235 Pa. 161, 83 Atl. 580. A if a fund is once traced into the han of the defendant, the latter must a sume the burden of making some re sonable explanation of its dispositio in order to avoid being required to su render it. In re Alphin & Lake Co ton Co. (D. C. 1905) 134 Fed. 477, Am. Bankr. Rep. 194; Pope v. Ca well (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 908; re Silverman (D. C. 1913) 206 Fe 960; Woodford v. Rice (D. C. 191 207 Fed. 473, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 45 Williams v. Noyes & Nutter Mfg. C (1914) 112 Me. 408, 92 Atl. 482.

If the action is to recover proper conveyed away in fraud of creditors by way of preference, the trustee h the burden of showing the wrongf character of the transaction, or t defendant's knowledge of its purpos as the case may be. Smith v. Auerba (1876) 2 Mont. 348; Lynam v. B fast Nat. Bank (1904) 98 Me. 448, Atl. 799.

In a suit by a trustee in bankrupt of a corporation against its directo and officers to recover dividends, e dence held to show that the directo knew, or by the exercise of care mu have known, the dividends were pa out of the capital stock. E. L. Moo & Co. v. Murchison (C. C. A. 191 226 Fed. 679.

In an action by the trustee of a ban

: corporation to recover money paid the corporation for its stock from rson who claimed that he sold the k to a third person, the burden of ving that the sale was to the cor- ation was on plaintiff. Union Trust Savings Bank v. Amery (1913) 131 99, 72 Wash. 648.

ie burden of proving that a sale of perty of the bankrupt by one hold- it in pledge, made conformably to contract of pledge, was unfair or rwise voidable, is on the trustee. cock v. Varick Bank (1907) 206 U. 8, 27 Sup. Ct. 681, 51 L. Ed. 945.

may be necessary for the trustee prove the insolvency of the bank- at a given date. Clark v. Mulcahy 06) 190 Mass. 64, 76 N. E. 236; re F. M. & S. Q. Carlile (D. C. 2) 199 Fed. 612, 29 Am. Bankr. . 373; Ernst v. Mechanics' & Met- Nat. Bank (D. C. 1911) 200 Fed.

The burden is on him who claims a lien is void under section 9651, , to plead and prove the insolvency the person against whom the lien obtained at the time of its being ined. Stone-Ordean-Wells Co. v. k (C. C. A. 1915) 227 Fed. 975.

testimony of the bankrupt at the iminary examination before the ref- , touching his assets and liabilities, ot admissible on the question of his lvency, in a suit between the trus- and a third party, as the issue is between the same parties. Breck- v. Snyder (1905) 211 Pa. 176, 60 575.

6. Evidence in actions against trus- —One seeking to recover or reclaim perty from a trustee in bankruptcy the burden of proving that it con- uted part of the bankrupt's estate n the same passed into the hands the trustee. In re Marsh (D. C. 2) 116 Fed. 396, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. . And since, presumptively, any perty in the possession of the bank- t and passing from him to his trus- belongs to the estate, the burden is a claimant to show his superior ti- or right thereto. In re Burke (D. 1909) 168 Fed. 994, 22 Am. Bankr. . 69; In re Heckathorn (D. C. 6) 144 Fed. 499, 16 Am. Bankr. . 467. Evidence that the bank- t did not include the property in schedule of assets filed in the bank- tcy proceeding is admissible on this ie. Rudy v. Katz (1902) 23 Ky. w Rep. 1697, 66 S. W. 18. But it inarily requires stronger proof, and s said such a claim cannot be sup- ted by the uncorroborated testimony the claimant, where, if true, he could e produced other evidence to fortify In re Mayer (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 2, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 480.

ikewise the burden is on the claim- to establish by evidence the par- ular ground on which he claims the perty or fund as against the cred- rs represented by the trustee, as, t the sale of the property to the bankrupt was induced by false and fraudulent representations as to his financial condition. Ellett-Kendall Shoe Co. v. Ward (1911) 187 Fed. 982, 110 C. C. A. 320, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 114; In re O'Connor (C. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 777, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 18; In re Berg (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 885, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 170. Or that the sale was conditional and the article not accepted by the bankrupt. In re Simpson Mfg. Co. (1904) 130 Fed. 307, 64 C. C. A. 553, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 212. Or that the transaction was not a sale, but a mere consignment for sale, the title remaining in the claimant. In re Leeds Woolen Mills (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 922, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 136. Party seeking to reclaim property conditionally sold from trustee in bankruptcy held to have burden of showing that there were prior creditors, as to whom the contract was not invalid, and that the claims of subsequent creditors would not exhaust the property. Potter Mfg. Co. v. Arthur (1915) 220 Fed. 843, 136 C. C. A. 589.

47. Trial and judgment.—In an action by a creditor against the trustee in bankruptcy of his debtor to recover personal property claimed under a transfer from the debtor, held, under the evidence, a question for the jury whether the debtor was insolvent at the time of the transfer, and, if so, whether the creditor had notice of such facts as to put him upon inquiry. L. A. & Scharff Distilling Co. v. Dennis (Ark. 1914) 168 S. W. 141.

In an action by a bankrupt's trustee against a mortgagee creditor, it was proper for the court to render judgment requiring the creditor to pay the reasonable value of property taken under a bill of sale, which was in fact a mortgage, instead of delivering the property to the trustee. Gill v. Ely-Norris Safe Co. (1913) 156 S. W. 811, 170 Mo. App. 478.

The legal effect of a decree in bankruptcy proceedings that certain property was not in possession of the bankrupt when the petition was filed is not changed by words, "without prejudice to the rights of the trustee, if this court shall authorize, to litigate in any proper court the question of the right of the said trustee to recover said fund as a part of the bankrupt estate." Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. First Nat. Bank (1912) 174 Ill. App. 339.

48. Liability of trustee for costs.—Where a statute exempts "trustees of an express trust" from personal liability for costs in the absence of misconduct or bad faith, it is held that a trustee in bankruptcy is the trustee of an express trust, and the question of his liability is not affected by the fact that the fund is under the jurisdiction and control of another court. Reade v. Waterhouse (1873) 52 N. Y. 587.

The estate must bear the costs of actions or proceedings properly undertaken by the trustee for the purpose of recovering assets or contesting spurious claims, but he will not be allowed the costs of unfounded or unnecessary litigation, and more especially he is personally chargeable with costs incurred willfully or recklessly in litigation, when the exercise of ordinary prudence and foresight would have taught him that litigation was necessary or would fail. In re Jose son (D. C. 1903) 121 Fed. 146 Am. Bankr. Rep. 608; Kingsbury Powers (1889) 131 Ill. 182, 22 N. 479; In re Preston (D. C. 1873) N. B. R. 454, Fed. Cas. No. 11,394; re Brinkman (D. C. 1872) 6 N. B. 541, Fed. Cas. No. 1,883.

§ 9608. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 24.) Jurisdiction of appell courts.

Jurisdiction of Appellate Courts.—a The Supreme Court of t United States, the circuit courts of appeals of the United Stat and the supreme courts of the Territories, in vacation in chambe and during their respective terms, as now or as they may be he after held, are hereby invested with appellate jurisdiction of co troversies arising in bankruptcy proceedings from the courts bankruptcy from which they have appellate jurisdiction in oth cases. The Supreme Court of the United States shall exercise a li jurisdiction from courts of bankruptcy not within any organized c cuit of the United States and from the supreme court of the Distr of Columbia.

b The several circuit courts of appeal shall have jurisdiction equity, either interlocutory or final, to superintend and revise in ma ter of law the proceedings of the several inferior courts of bankrupt within their jurisdiction. Such power shall be exercised on d notice and petition by any party aggrieved. (30 Stat. 553.)

Judgments and decrees of the circuit courts of appeals in proceedings a causes arising under the Bankruptcy Act are made final, except that the S preme Court may, by certiorari, require such proceedings and causes to be c tified to it for review and determination with the same power and authority a with like effect as if taken to it by appeal or writ of error, by Act Jan. 1915, c. 22, § 4, as amended by Act Sept. 6, 1916, c. 448, § 3, ante, § 1120a.

Provisions conferring appellate and supervisory jurisdiction on the circ court of appeals were made by Jud. Code, § 130, ante, § 1122.

Provisions conferring appellate jurisdiction on the supreme court were ma by Jud. Code, § 252, ante, § 1229.

Notes of Decisions

1. Jurisdiction of United States supreme court.
2. —— Cases involving jurisdiction of court below.
3. —— On certiorari.
4. —— Writ of error to supreme court of state.
5. —— Rules governing appeal.
6. Jurisdiction of circuit court of appeals on writ of error.
7. Appellate jurisdiction of circuit court of appeals.
8. Revisory jurisdiction of circuit court of appeals.

8½. —— Construction of rules of Court.

9. Appellate and revisory jurisdiction contrasted.
10. Controversies and proceedings in bankruptcy distinguished.
11. Reviewing discretionary action of district court.
12. Jurisdiction of territorial supreme courts.

1. Jurisdiction of United States supreme court.—Appellate jurisdiction under this section is restricted to "controversies arising in bankruptcy proceedings," as distinguished from steps taken in the ordinary course of the bankruptcy proceeding, and a ruling of the lower court allowing or rejecting a claim against the bankrupt's e tate is not such a controversy. Tefft Munsuri (1911) 222 U. S. 114, 32 Su Ct. 67, 56 L. Ed. 118, 27 Am. Bank Rep. 338. And see Munsuri v. Fric er (1911) 222 U. S. 121, 32 Sup. C 70, 56 L. Ed. 121, 27 Am. Bankr. Re 344. But a contest in the bankrupt court over distribution of a fund fro sale under order of state court of pro erty conveyed by bankrupt in fraud creditors is a controversy arising u der bankruptcy proceedings, the d cree in which is appealable under A March 3, 1891, to the circuit court appeals, and to the supreme cou Globe Bank & Trust Co. of Paduca Ky., v. Martin (1915) 35 S. Ct. 37 236 U. S. 288, 59 L. Ed. 583, denyi certiorari In re Martin (1912) 193 Fe 841, 113 C. C. A. 627.

The general provisions of this se tion do not broaden the jurisdiction the supreme court, and have no rel tion to appeals from the circuit cou of appeals, and do not give author to entertain an appeal from every d cision in bankruptcy rendered by t intermediate courts, the same bei ifically limited by other provisions the statute. Hutchinson v. Otis 2) 123 Fed. 14, 59 C. C. A. 94, Am. Bankr. Rep. 275.

n appeal will not lie to the federal eme court from a circuit court of eals which affirmed a judgment of bankruptcy court, refusing a dis- ge, but the only appeal contem- ed under this section is from the kruptcy court to the circuit court appeals. James v. Stone & Co. 3) 33 S. Ct. 351, 227 U. S. 410, L. Ed. 573.

nder Judicial Code, § 128, ante, §), providing that "in any case in ch the judgment or decree of the uit court of appeals is not made by the provisions of this title, e shall be of right an appeal or of error to the supreme court of United States, where the matter ontroversy shall exceed one thou- l dollars besides costs," an appeal lie to the supreme court from a judgment or decree of a circuit t of appeals, entered on a formal al from a district court sitting in kruptcy, where the other condi- s are fulfilled and the matter at e is a "controversy arising in bank- cy proceedings," that is, not a e step in the progress of the pro- ing in bankruptcy, but a separable roversy, such as might have arisen een the parties independently of bankruptcy. Hurley v. Atchison, & S. F. Ry. Co. (1909) 213 U. S. 29 Sup. Ct. 466, 53 L. Ed. 729, Am. Bankr. Rep. 17; Hewit v. lin Mach. Works (1904) 194 U. S. 24 Sup. Ct. 690, 48 L. Ed. 986, Am. Bankr. Rep. 709; Hobbs v. d & Dowst Co. (1911) 191 Fed. 112 C. C. A. 325, 27 Am. Bankr. . 484; O'Reilly v. Edrington (1877) U. S. 724, 24 L. Ed. 659; Milner v. k (1877) 95 U. S. 252, 24 L. Ed. ; J. W. Calnan Co. v. Doherty 2) 224 U. S. 145, 32 Sup. Ct. 460, L. Ed. 702, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 880. lecree of a federal circuit court of eals affirming an order of a court bankruptcy enjoining temporarily prosecution in a state court of a affecting the bankrupt estate is rlocutory and not reviewable under division "a" of this section, al- ugh the case is not one which Act rch 3, 1891, § 6 (ante, § 1120), es final in the circuit court of ap- ls. Mitchell Store Bldg. Co. v. roll (1914) 34 S. Ct. 410, 232 U. S. , 58 L. Ed. 650, dismissing appeal denying certiorari (1912) 193 Fed. , 113 C. C. A. 484.

n appeal does not lie to the supreme rt of the United States from a de- on of a circuit court of appeals dered in the exercise of its jurisdic- n to "superintend and revise in mat- of law the proceedings of the in- ior courts of bankruptcy," but such a decision is final unless the supreme court will grant a writ of certiorari to review it. Mitchell Store Building Co. v. Carroll (1914) 232 U. S. 379, 34 Sup. Ct. 410; Holden v. Stratton (1903) 191 U. S. 115, 24 Sup. Ct. 45, 48 L. Ed. 116, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 786; Bryan v. Bernheimer (1901) 181 U. S. 188, 21 Sup. Ct. 557, 45 L. Ed. 814, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 623; Hutchinson v. Otis, 123 Fed. 14, 59 C. C. A. 94, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 275; Kyle v. Hammond (1912) 225 U. S. 692, 32 Sup. Ct. 406, 56 L. Ed. 1260. And see Morgan v. Thornhill (1870) 11 Wall. 65, 20 L. Ed. 60; Conro v. Crane (1876) 94 U. S. 441, 24 L. Ed. 145; Hall v. Allen (1870) 12 Wall. 452, 20 L. Ed. 458; Coit v. Robinson (1873) 19 Wall. 274, 22 L. Ed. 152; Mead v. Thompson (1872) 15 Wall. 635, 21 L. Ed. 242; Marshall v. Knox (1872) 16 Wall. 551, 21 L. Ed. 481; Hill v. Thompson (1876) 94 U. S. 322, 24 L. Ed. 193; Nimick v. Coleman (1877) 95 U. S. 266, 24 L. Ed. 447; Cleveland Ins. Co. v. Globe Ins. Co. (1878) 98 U. S. 366, 25 L. Ed. 201; Graham v. Boston, H. & E. R. Co. (1886) 118 U. S. 161, 6 Sup. Ct. 1009, 30 L. Ed. 196; Kyle v. Hammond (1912) 225 U. S. 692, 32 Sup. Ct. 406, 56 L. Ed. 1260.

An appeal to the United States supreme court, under subdivision "a" of this section from a decree of a circuit court of appeals, opens up the whole case as in other equity cases, and the provision of the general orders in bankruptcy relating to findings of fact has no application. Houghton v. Burden (1913) 228 U. S. 161, 33 Sup. Ct. 491, 57 L. Ed. 780, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 16.

Under the provision of this section, an appeal may be taken directly to the supreme court of the United States from the United States district court for Porto Rico. Tefft v. Munsuri (1911) 222 U. S. 114, 32 Sup. Ct. 67, 56 L. Ed. 118, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 338. And see Munsuri v. Fricker (1911) 222 U. S. 121, 32 Sup. Ct. 70, 56 L. Ed. 121, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 344.

2. —— Cases involving jurisdiction of court below.—Under the provisions of Judicial Code, § 238, ante, § 1215, the circuit courts of appeals have no jurisdiction of a writ of error from the district court, when the jurisdiction of that court is in question for review, the appellate jurisdiction in such cases being in the supreme court of the United States. In re Abbey Press (1904) 134 Fed. 51, 67 C. C. A. 161, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 11; U. S. v. Sutton (C. C. A. 1891) 47 Fed. 129; Davis & Rankin Bldg. Co. v. Barber (1894) 60 Fed. 465, 9 C. C. A. 79; Cabot v. McMaster (1895) 65 Fed. 533, 13 C. C. A. 39. The fact that the ruling of the district court, involving a question of jurisdiction, has been affirmed by the circuit court of appeals on a petition for revision, will not preclude a writ of error from the supreme court to the district court to review the final decision in the case. Frederic L. Grant Shoe Co. v. W. M. Laird Co. (1909) 212 U. S. 445, 29 Sup. Ct. 332, 53 L. Ed. 591, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 484.

The question whether the petition in a case of involuntary bankruptcy alleges an act of bankruptcy does not go to the jurisdiction of the court and therefore the decision is reviewable by the circuit court of appeals rather than by the supreme court. Exploration Mercantile Co. v. Pacific Hardware & Steel Co. (1910) 177 Fed. 825, 101 C. C. A. 39, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 216. So also, the question whether a corporation against which a petition is filed comes within one of the classes of corporations made amenable to the bankruptcy law is a question upon which the jurisdiction may depend, but it is an issue which the district court has jurisdiction to determine, and hence an appeal cannot be taken direct to the supreme court. Columbia Ironworks v. National Lead Co. (1904) 127 Fed. 99, 62 C. C. A. 99, 64 L. R. A. 645, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 340. Since the act confers upon courts of bankruptcy jurisdiction to determine all claims of bankrupts to their exemptions, the decision of such a court that it has authority to adjudicate the validity of an alleged equitable lien upon property which it decides to be assets of the estate in bankruptcy and not exempt property, does not create a question of jurisdiction which will sustain a direct appeal to the supreme court. Lucius v. Cawthon-Coleman Co. (1905) 196 U. S. 149, 25 Sup. Ct. 214, 49 L. Ed. 425, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 696. It has also been ruled that the acts of congress do not authorize a district court to certify questions of its jurisdiction to the supreme court for decision, in order to obtain the instruction of that court for its guidance, before deciding the case; and such a certificate, made before the final judgment or decree in the case, will be dismissed. Bardes v. Hawarden Bank (1899) 175 U. S. 526, 20 Sup. Ct. 196, 44 L. Ed. 262.

3. —— On certiorari.—A decree rendered by the circuit court of appeals in the exercise of its jurisdiction to "superintend and revise in matter of law" the proceedings of the inferior courts of bankruptcy, and not in the way of allowing or rejecting a claim, is not the proper subject for an appeal to the supreme court, but it may be reviewed by that court on writ of certiorari. Holden v. Stratton (1903) 191 U. S. 115, 24 Sup. Ct. 45, 48 L. Ed. 116, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 786; Bryan v. Bernheimer (1901) 175 U. S. 724, 21 Sup. Ct. 557, 44 L. Ed. 338, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 623; Louisville Trust Co. v. Comingor (1902) 181 U. S. 620, Sup. Ct. 293, 45 L. Ed. 1031, 7 A Bankr. Rep. 421; Kyle v. Hamm (C. C. A. 1911) 192 Fed. 559.

4. —— Writ of error to supre court of state.—Where the only c troversy in a case in a state court as to the effect to be given to an or of a district court of the United Sta sitting in bankruptcy, for the sale mortgaged property free from liens writ of error will lie from the fede supreme court to review a decision nying the right claimed by one of parties. Factors' & Traders' Ins. v. Murphy (1884) 111 U. S. 738 Sup. Ct. 679, 28 L. Ed. 582; New leans, S. F. & L. R. Co. v. Delam (1885) 114 U. S. 501, 5 Sup. Ct. 1 29 L. Ed. 244. So when a state co decides against the claim of a trus in bankruptcy to certain property the bankrupt, the decision is agai a right or title claimed under a stat of the United States, within the me ing of the judiciary act, and the ju ment of the court of last resort of state is subject to review by the U ed States supreme court. William Heard (1891) 140 U. S. 529, 11 S Ct. 885, 35 L. Ed. 550. Where issue is as to the validity of a tra fer by a trustee in bankruptcy, whether the suit is barred by the l itation of the bankruptcy act, the preme court has jurisdiction on v of error to the highest court of state. Traer v. Clews (1885) 115 S. 528, 6 Sup. Ct. 155, 29 L. Ed. 4

Where the question actually deci by the state court was whether bankrupt had title to certain prope and not whether the title would p to the trustee in bankruptcy by ope tion of the bankruptcy law, this is such a decision as can be reviewed error. Scott v. Kelly (1874) 22 W 57, 22 L. Ed. 729.

The United States supreme court no jurisdiction to review the deci of a state court dismissing a bill brou by creditors against a bankrupt to aside his discharge, and to which defendant demurred on the ground staleness; for if the state court m any decision on the bankruptcy act must have sustained, not denied, privilege claimed by the bankr Calcote v. Stanton (1855) 18 How. 2 15 L. Ed. 348.

5. —— Rules governing appeal.—' limitation of thirty days after the ju ment or decree prescribed by gen order No. 36 (post, § 9614), for tak an appeal to the supreme court of United States, relates only to appe taken expressly under the bankrup act, and not to an appeal from a d sion rendered on a formal appeal fr the district court in a controversy a ing in a bankruptcy proceeding. Ho v. Head & Dowst Co. (1911) 191 F 811, 112 C. C. A. 325, 27 Am. Ban Rep. 484. But the fact that an app allowed from a circuit court of ap-ls in a bankruptcy case, on the cercate of a justice of the supreme rt, cannot operate as an adjudication t the appeal was taken in due time.

hboy v. First Nat. Bank (1906) 203
S. 141, 27 Sup. Ct. 50, 51 L. Ed.
.

'he requirement of general order No.
that the court from which the apl lies shall, at or before the time entering its judgment or decree, ke and file a finding of the facts, and conclusions of law thereon, stated arately, does not require a circuit rt of appeals, of its own motion, to ertain and determine in advance of decision, whether a question is raison which a party is entitled to the wance of an appeal to the supreme rt, but such right, if claimed, should called to the court's attention in ance of its decision, by a request for lings in the event of an adverse rulon the question claimed to be aplable. Knapp v. Milwaukee Trust
(1908) 162 Fed. 675, 89 C. C. A.
, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 671; Crucible el Co. v. Holt (1909) 174 Fed. 127,
C. C. A. 101, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep.
. Where the parties to an appeal m an order disallowing a claim as ured against a bankrupt's estate did give notice at the argument that ther appeal to the supreme court uld be taken, the court of appeals uld not make separate findings of t and conclusions of law within neral Bankr. Order No. 36 (post, § 4), but would decide the case as ugh it was a court of final jurisdic-
n. Lumpkin v. Foley (C. C. A.
3) 204 Fed. 372, affirming decree re Walden Bros. Clothing Co. (D.
1912) 199 Fed. 315. This require-nt as to findings does not apply ere the appeal is from a "controver-arising in bankruptcy proceedings," distinguished from a proceeding in the kruptcy case proper, since, in such case, the manner of review in the preme court is not governed by the kruptcy statute but by the act creng the circuit courts of appeals.
app v. Milwaukee Trust Co. (1910) 6 U. S. 545, 30 Sup. Ct. 412. Nor es this requirement of findings on peal apply to appeals from decisions adverse claims to property. Baker Mach. Co. v. Bailey (1913) 209
d. 844, 126 C. C. A. 568.

When a party appeals from a decision the circuit court of appeals to the preme court of the United States, e allowance of the appeal is to re-te back to the time when the original plication was made for an appeal to e judge of the circuit court, and enles a party to a stay of proceedings.
hornhill v. Bank of Louisiana (C. C.
70) 5 N. B. R. 377, Fed. Cas. No.
,991.

6. Jurisdiction of circuit court of ap-als on writ of error.—A proceeding in bankruptcy is in the nature of a proceeding in equity, and orders and decrees made therein cannot ordinarily be reviewed by writ of error. Lockman v. Lang (1903) 128 Fed. 279, 62 C. C. A. 550, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 597.

Where an alleged bankrupt in involuntary proceedings against him demands as of right and receives a trial by jury, the judgment of the court of bankruptcy, entered on the verdict and making the adjudication of bankruptcy, may be reviewed by the circuit court of appeals on writ of error, and this is the exclusive method of obtaining such review. Frederick L. Grant Shoe Co. v. W. M. Laird Co. (1906) 203 U. S. 502, 27 Sup. Ct. 161, 51 L. Ed. 292, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1; Elliott v. Toeppner (1902) 187 U. S. 327, 23 Sup. Ct. 133, 47 L. Ed. 200, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 50; Knickerbocker Ins. Co. v. Comstock (1872) 16 Wall. 258, 21 L. Ed. 493; Bower v. Holzworth (1905) 138 Fed. 28, 70 C. C. A. 396, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 22; In re Neasmith (1906) 147 Fed. 160, 77 C. C. A. 402, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 128; Lennox v. Allen-Lane Co. (1908) 167 Fed. 114, 92 C. C. A. 566, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 648; Duncan v. Landis (1901) 106 Fed. 839, 45 C. C. A. 666, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 649.

An order of the district court in bankruptcy adjudging a defendant in contempt for disobeying a previous order whereby he was required to surrender certain property to the trustee in bankruptcy, and imposing a fine payable to the United States as a punishment, and not as compensation to the trustee for damages, is in effect a criminal judgment, although made as a part of the proceeding in bankruptcy, and is therefore reviewable by a writ of error, and not by a petition for revision. Brown v. Detroit Trust Co. (1912) 193 Fed. 622, 113 C. C. A. 490. So also of a suit brought by a trustee in bankruptcy against a third person to enjoin him from interfering with the alleged possession by the trustee of property claimed by both parties. Stelling v. G. W. Jones Lumber Co. (1902) 116 Fed. 261, 53 C. C. A. 81, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 521. And so of a suit by the trustee to recover property alleged to have been transferred in fraud of creditors. Delta Nat. Bank v. Easterbrook (1904) 133 Fed. 521, 67 C. C. A. 236, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 338.

7. Appellate jurisdiction of circuit court of appeals.—The appellate jurisdiction of the circuit court of appeals, as defined in this section, is not revoked or limited by the enumeration in section 25a (post, § 9609), of three kinds of appealable orders, as the latter are "proceedings in bankruptcy," as distinguished from "controversies arising in bankruptcy proceedings," within the meaning of this section. Dodge v. Norlin (1904) 133 Fed. 363, 66 C. C. A. 425, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 176; In re Mueller (1905) 135 Fed.

711, 68 C. C. A. 349, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 256. CONTRA, Ogden v. Gilt Edge Consol. Mines Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 225 Fed. 723.

The circuit court of appeals has jurisdiction to review on appeal a decision of the court of bankruptcy on an application to transfer the bankruptcy proceeding from one district to another. Kyle Lumber Co. v. Bush (1905) 133 Fed. 688, 66 C. C. A. 592, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 535.

An order denying to a stranger the right to intervene in a bankruptcy proceeding, not being a final decision upon the merits of his case, is not appealable. In re Columbia Real Estate Co. (1902) 112 Fed. 643, 50 C. C. A. 406, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 441. But a voluntary intervention in bankruptcy proceedings to assert a claim to property in possession of the trustee is reviewable by appeal to the circuit court of appeals. Houghton v. Burden (1913) 33 Sup. Ct. 491, 228 U. S. 161, 57 L. Ed. 780, affirming decree In re Canfield (1912) 193 Fed. 934, 113 C. C. A. 562. And where, in bankruptcy proceedings in controversy between mortgagee and vendor of machinery, the court dismissed the vendor's intervening petition, appeal held the proper remedy, and a writ of error will be dismissed. Triumph Electric Co. v. Patterson (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 244, affirming decree In re W. O. Craig Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 548. Appearance of mortgagees on notice of petition of mortgagor's trustees in bankruptcy, and their assertion of conflicting rights, held equivalent to an affirmative intervention in connection with the trustees' petition so as to constitute a controversy over which the circuit court of appeals had jurisdiction, with the same appellate jurisdiction which it possesses under Judicial Code, § 128. Robert Moody & Sons v. Century Sav. Bank (1915) 36 Sup. Ct. 111.

An order enjoining the prosecution of an action of replevin, brought in a state court against a trustee in bankruptcy by a third person claiming goods in his possession, and referring the claim of such party to a referee in bankruptcy to ascertain and report the facts, is not a final decision nor appealable. In re Russell (1900) 101 Fed. 248, 41 C. C. A. 323, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 658. And so of an interlocutory order entered by a court of bankruptcy, reversing a ruling of the referee, made during the examination of the bankrupt, refusing to require him to produce his books. Goodman v. Brenner (1901) 109 Fed. 481, 48 C. C. A. 516, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 470.

An order in a so-called omnibus proceeding in bankruptcy, directing the distribution of the proceeds of sale of certain securities, is a final order, and so is a final decree, within Act Feb. 13, 1911, which abolishes the clerk's supervision fee where a final order or decree is sought to be reviewed by the circuit court of appeals. In re B Mfg. Co. (C. C. A. 1914) 215 Fed. 8

Order sustaining referee's dismi of rule to compel trustees to con land to highest bidder held not revi able by appeal. Untereiner v. Cam (C. C. A. 1916) 228 Fed. 890.

An interlocutory order granting injunction, made by a district court bankruptcy, is reviewable on app where the nature of the cause or p ceeding is such that the final dec therein would be reviewable by app under the provisions of the act; it is not appealable where the final cree or order would be one in a "p ceeding in bankruptcy," reviewable o on petition to "revise in matter of la O'Dell v. Boyden (1906) 150 Fed. 7 80 C. C. A. 397, 17 Am. Bankr. R 751.

A decree in a suit by a bankrup trustee to set aside an instrument form a deed from the bankrupt c veying certain described real estate v reviewable by appeal and not by w of error. Carey v. Donohue (191 209 Fed. 328, 126 C. C. A. 254.

Where an order setting aside a ch tel mortgage of a bankrupt's ass resulted from consideration of the d puted facts and depended on findi made thereon, it was reviewable o by appeal, and not by petition to revi T. E. Wells & Co. v. Sharp (C. C. 1913) 208 Fed. 399.

Order of bankruptcy court affirmi order and findings of referee that de of trust had been paid held reviewa only by appeal and not by petition superintend and revise. Rison v. P ham (1915) 219 Fed. 176, 134 C. A. 550.

8. Revisory jurisdiction of circ court of appeals.—The revisory jur diction of the circuit court of appe extends only to orders made in t bankruptcy proceedings proper, s does not embrace proceedings in p nary suits by the trustee against th parties which might have been ma tained in a state court. In re Rus (1902) 116 Fed. 270, 53 C. C. A. 6 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 518; In re Jac (1900) 99 Fed. 539, 39 C. C. A. 6 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 671. Compare re Bonesteel (C. C. 1870) 3 N. B. 517, Fed. Cas. No. 1,627. Where court of bankruptcy has erroneously tained jurisdiction to adjudicate t rights of an adverse claimant, its jud ment may be reviewed by a petition revise. Shea v. Lewis (1913) 206 F 877, 124 C. C. A. 537.

A petition lies under this clause this section to review an order requ ing the bankrupt to surrender to trustee money or property alleged be in his possession and to belong his estate in bankruptcy. In re Gr boyes (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 574; re Shidlovsky (1915) 224 Fed. 450, 1 C. C. A. 654; In re Purvive (1899) Fed. 192, 37 C. C. A. 446, 2 Am. Ban

p. 787. Or an order adjudging him contempt for disobeying an order re-ring him to pay over money to his stee. Kirsner v. Taliaferro (C. C. 1912) 202 Fed. 51; In re Cole 907) 163 Fed. 180, 90 C. C. A. 50, L. R. A. (N. S.) 255, 20 Am. Bankr. p. 761. Or an order requiring him indorse a liquor license so that it y be transferred to the trustee. her v. Cushman (1900) 103 Fed.), 43 C. C. A. 381, 51 L. R. A. 292, Am. Bankr. Rep. 646. Or an order uiring the surrender of property by bankrupt's voluntary assignee for ditors, or by his alienee. Lazarus, chel & Lazarus v. Harding (1915) 3 Fed. 50, 138 C. C. A. 414; In re pkins (C. C. A. 1916) 229 Fed. 378; re Abraham (1899) 93 Fed. 767, C. C. A. 592, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 3; Davis v. Bohle (1899) 92 Fed. 5, 34 C. C. A. 372, 1 Am. Bankr. p. 412; In re Gutwillig (1899) 92 d. 337, 34 C. C. A. 377, 1 Am. Bankr. p. 388. Or an order denying a trus-'s petition to recover dividends paid claimants, involving questions of only. Nelson v. Heckscher (1914) 9 Fed. 682, 135 C. C. A. 354.

The decision of a court of bankruptcy a petition claiming ownership of nds in the hands of a trustee in bank-ptcy may be reviewed on petition ere the facts are not in dispute. In Petronio (C. C. A. 1914) 220 Fed. 9; Hutchinson v. Le Roy (1902) 113 d. 202, 51 C. C. A. 159, 8 Am. Bankr. p. 20.

Where a mortgagee in possession of operty of the bankrupt surrenders it the trustee, reserving the right to sert his lien against the proceeds of sale, the proceeds are held by the urt as assets of the bankrupt estate, d in dealing with the fund it acts as court of bankruptcy, and its action the claim of the mortgagee is sub-ct to review on petition. In re An-go Screen Door Co. (1903) 123 Fed. 9, 59 C. C. A. 248, 10 Am. Bankr. p. 359. And see In re Flatland 912) 196 Fed. 310, 116 C. C. A. 130, Am. Bankr. Rep. 476. This is also e proper method of reviewing a cision as to the effect of the ad-dication in bankruptcy upon a judg-ent lien acquired within four months ior thereto. In re Richards (1899) Fed. 935, 37 C. C. A. 634, Am. Bankr. Rep. 145; Moore v. reen (1906) 145 Fed. 472, 76 C. C. 242, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 648. An der made in a bankruptcy proceeding, nying a lien claimed by a creditor, is viewable by petition to revise. J. M. adford Grocery Co. v. Powell (C. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 1.

Any order made by the bankruptcy urt in the exercise of its summary risdiction may be reviewed on petition revise. In re Goldstein (C. C. A. 914) 216 Fed. 887; In re Casey (C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 2,495; Hurst v. Teft (C. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 6,-939.

A petition lies to revise in matter of law an order appointing a referee in bankruptcy. Ex parte Steele (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 694, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 575. Or an order removing or refusing to remove a trustee in bankruptcy from his office. In re Briggs (1894) 61 Fed. 498, 9 C. C. A. 585. Or an order refusing to a bankrupt the right to amend his schedule in order to supply an accidental omission and claim his exemptions. Goodman v. Curtis (1909) 174 Fed. 644, 98 C. C. A. 398, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 504. Or an order made on petition of a creditor directing the sale of property which had previously been set apart to the bankrupt as a homestead. Ingram v. Wilson (1903) 125 Fed. 913, 60 C. C. A. 618, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 192. Or a decision upon an application to confirm a sale of the bankrupt's estate. Pindel v. Holgate (1915) 221 Fed. 342, 137 C. C. A. 158; In re York (C. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 18,139. CONTRA, In re Chotiner (1914) 218 Fed. 813, 134 C. C. A. 501. Or an order directing the distribution of the proceeds of a sale of real estate made by a trustee in bankruptcy. In re Groetzinger & Sons (1903) 127 Fed. 124, 62 C. C. A. 124, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 467. Or an order made on appeal from an order of the referee regarding the disposition of a balance in the trustee's hands. In re John W. Farley & Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 227 Fed. 378. Or a decision of the court of bankruptcy upon an application for the confirmation of a composition. In re South Boston Iron Co. (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 13.183. Or an order directing that a set-off of mutual debts be allowed. Wilson v. National Bank of Rolla (C. C. 1880) 3 Fed. 391.

Where a proceeding in bankruptcy is dismissed for want of jurisdiction, the trustee, having duly excepted, is entitled to have the order of dismissal reviewed, for error in matters of law, on an original petition in the circuit court of appeals. In re New England Breeders' Club (1909) 169 Fed. 586, 95 C. C. A. 84, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 124. And see In re Seebold (1901) 105 Fed. 910, 45 C. C. A. 117, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 358.

An order of the bankruptcy court refusing leave to intervene to stockholders of a corporation, defendant in involuntary bankruptcy proceedings, held reviewable by circuit court of appeals on petition to revise. Ogden v. Gilt Edge Consol. Mines Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 225 Fed. 723.

The circuit court of appeals will not ordinarily review a mere incidental question of practice in the district court. In re Robinson (C. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 11,939. This provision of this section does not require the circuit court of appeals to revise every interlocutory order in a bankruptcy proceeding, but only such decrees as have a certain degree of definiteness and finality. In re Chotiner (1914) 218 Fed. 813, 134 C. C. A. 501, dismissing petition to review (D. C. 1914) 216 Fed. 916.

The jurisdiction of the circuit court of appeals to review the proceedings of the district courts in bankruptcy, under this provision of the statute, is not limited by any measure of the amount in controversy or the value of the property involved. In re Clark (C. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 2,802; In re Rouse, Hazard & Co. (1899) 91 Fed. 96, 33 C. C. A. 356, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 234.

Proceedings for review do not operate to transfer to the appellate court the entire bankruptcy proceeding, to be continued there as in a court of first instance. The proceeding is not a removal of the case to the appellate court, and the statute confers no power to execute the decrees of the district court, or to assume primary exercise of the jurisdiction conferred on the latter as a court of bankruptcy. In re Bininger (C. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 1,418.

8½. —— Construction of rules of court.—Under rule 38 of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit (set forth ante, vol. 2, p. 1353) which provides that petitions to review orders in bankruptcy under the provision of subd. b of this section Bankr. Act "must be filed and served within 10 days after the entry of the order sought to be reviewed, and a transcript of the record * * * filed and the cause docketed within 30 days thereafter, but the judge of the bankruptcy court may for good cause shown enlarge the time, * * * the order of enlargement to be made and filed with the clerk of this court before the times hereby limited for filing the petition and record, respectively," stipulations by the parties cannot take the place of the discretionary order of enlargement by the bankruptcy court, made and filed within the time required by the rule, nor, except under unusual circumstances, will a nunc pro tunc order of said court, made after the time limited has expired, be effective. In re Brown (1909) 174 Fed. 339, 98 C. C. A. 211; In re Light (1909) 174 Fed. 341, 98 C. C. A. 213. Under such rule petition to review not served and filed until 11 days after entry of the order, will be dismissed. In re Tanenhaus (1914) 211 Fed. 971, 128 C. C. A. 469. Under such rule where the District Judge on October 30th fixed the allowance to the trustee's attorney, and on December 3d a creditor obtained an order to show cause why the allowance should not be reduced, which the District Judge denied, a petition to revise subsequently filed was too late, as it should have been taken within 10 days after the original order was entered, and could not be extended by a motion to resettle. In re John M. Linck Const. Co. (1915) 225 Fed. 488, 140 C. A. 18.

Circuit Court of Appeals Rule subd. 2 (set forth ante, vol. 2, pp. 13 1352) relating to petitions to sup intend and revise and providing t petitioner shall cause a certified tr script of the record and proceedings the bankruptcy court of the matter be reviewed to be filed in the cle office of the Circuit Court of Appe within 30 days from the date of filing of such petition, contemplates certification of the record and p ceedings by the clerk of the bankrup court, and not a transcript certified the referee. Cook Inlet Coal Fi Co. v. Caldwell (1906) 147 Fed. 4 78 C. C. A. 17.

Under rule 39 of the Circuit Cou of Appeals (set forth ante, vol. 2, 1354) which provides that the respo to a petition to revise, under subd. b this section shall be filed at least days before the day set for the he ing, the failure of the defendant to ny allegations of fact in such petit will be taken as an admission that t are true. In re Frank (1910) 182 F 794, 105 C. C. A. 226.

9. Appellate and revisory jurisdict contrasted.—Several of the circ courts of appeals have held that two grants of appellate jurisdiction those courts contained in the bankru cy act—that which gives them autho to review by appeal a controversy, that which gives them authority to s erintend and revise in matter of the proceedings of the several infe courts of bankruptcy—are not exclus of each other, but are concurrent cumulative grants, the former allow a review of both questions of law questions of fact, and the latter be restricted to the review of matters law only, and that consequently an grieved party often has, and may ex cise, a choice of remedy as betw these two methods of bringing his c tention before the appellate court. re McKenzie (1905) 142 Fed. 383, C. C. A. 483, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 6 In re Lee (1910) 182 Fed. 579, C. C. A. 117, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 4 In re Holmes (1905) 142 Fed. 391, C. C. A. 491, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 6 Dodge v. Norlin (1904) 133 Fed. 3 66 C. C. A. 425, 13 Am. Bankr. R 176.

The circuit court of appeals sho not decline to take jurisdiction of petition for revision, notwithstandi the fact that the controversy is which ought to have been brought by appeal, where no objection to method of seeking a review is prese ed by the parties, and where only qu tions of law are presented for its c sideration. In re Endlar (1911) 1 Fed. 763, 113 C. C. A. 48. And Samson v. Blake (C. C. 1873) 6 N. R. 401, Fed. Cas. No. 12,284.

. party who has made a mistake in ›ealing from an order which is not ›ealable may be permitted, in lieu of appeal, to file a petition for revi-n. In re Abraham (1899) 93 Fed. , 35 C. C. A. 592, 2 Am. Bankr. ›. 266.

Vhere a party has duly taken an ap-l from an order in bankruptcy, ch is not appealable, the appellate rt need not dismiss the appeal and the party to the necessity of com-ncing anew with a petition for revi-n, but may simply treat the appeal f it were a petition for revision, and ceed to decide the controversy, pro-ed that questions of fact are not in-ved. Chesapeake Shoe Co. v. Seld-(1903) 122 Fed. 593, 58 C. C. A. , 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 466; Gaudette Graham (1908) 164 Fed. 311, 90 C. A. 243; In re Williams' Estate 07) 156 Fed. 934, 84 C. C. A. 434, Am. Bankr. Rep. 389; In re Abra-n (1899) 93 Fed. 767, 35 C. C. A. , 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266. But this rse cannot be taken where the ques-s presented for review all involve ters of fact. In re Whitener (1900) Fed. 180, 44 C. C. A. 434, 5 Am. kr. Rep. 198. A writ of error ch aims to correct only errors of arising on the common-law or ninal law side of a court of bank-tcy may be treated as a petition to se, and especially in contempt cas-where a liberal practice should be pted. Freed v. Central Trust Co. Illinois (C. C. A. 1914) 215 Fed. .

he circuit court of appeals, having n an appeal and a petition before it, dismiss the one which it deems roper and retain and adjudicate up-the other, or may retain both pro-dings and hear both and grant re-upon either or both, according to view of the justice and necessity of case. In re Worcester County 00) 102 Fed. 808, 42 C. C. A. 637, Am. Bankr. Rep. 496; Fisher v. hman (1900) 103 Fed. 860, 43 C. C. 381, 51 L. R. A. 292, 4 Am. Bankr. ›. 646; Nauman Co. v. Bradshaw 12) 193 Fed. 350, 113 C. C. A. 274, Am. Bankr. Rep. 565; Hendricks v. bster (1908) 159 Fed. 927, 87 C. A. 107, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 112; avelle v. Washington Trust Co. (C. A. 1915) 226 Fed. 400.

n numerous cases it has been held t the right of appeal and the right review on petition to revise are mu-lly exclusive; that an appealable gment cannot be brought up on peti-n, and a question properly subject to reviewed on petition cannot be made subject of an appeal; that an ap-l erroneously brought cannot be rd and determined as if it were a ition, and vice versa; and conse-ently, that a party who has mistaken remedy must be dismissed and put the institution of a new proceeding in the proper form. In re Mueller (1905) 135 Fed. 711, 68 C. C. A. 349, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 256; Brady v. Bernard (1909) 170 Fed. 576, 95 C. C. A. 656, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 342; Dickas v. Barnes (1905) 140 Fed. 849, 72 C. C. A. 261, 5 L. R. A. (N. S.) 654, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 566; In re Kuffler (1903) 127 Fed. 125, 61 C. C. A. 259, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 469; First Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank (1904) 131 Fed. 430, 65 C. C. A. 414, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 440; In re Friend (1905) 134 Fed. 778, 67 C. C. A. 500, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 595; Salsburg v. Blackford (1913) 204 Fed. 438, 122 C. C. A. 624, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 320; In re Martin (1912) 201 Fed. 31, 119 C. C. A. 363, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 935; Kirsner v. Taliaferro (1912) 202 Fed. 51, 120 C. C. A. 305, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 832; Courtney v. Shea (1914) 225 Fed. 358, 140 C. C. A. 382; Bothwell v. Fitzgerald (1915) 219 Fed. 408, 135 C. C. A. 212.

The revisory proceeding authorized by this section is not intended as a substitute for an appeal in cases where an appeal would lie under Bankruptcy Act, § 25a. Matter of Loving (1912) 224 U. S. 183, 32 Sup. Ct. 446, 56 L. Ed. 725.

10. Controversies and proceedings in bankruptcy distinguished.—The term "proceedings in bankruptcy" includes all questions arising in the administration of the bankrupt's estate, such as the appointment of receivers and trustees, orders requiring the bankrupt to surrender property of the estate in bankruptcy, orders requiring the bankrupt's voluntary assignee to surrender property of the estate, orders giving priority to the claim of a creditor, orders directing a set-off of mutual debts, and orders confirming a composition. Morehouse v. Pacific Hardware & Steel Co. (C. C. A. 1910) 177 Fed. 337, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 178.

Proceedings in bankruptcy are confined to questions arising between the bankrupt and his creditors, and are the subject of administrative orders and judgments of the district court, from the petition for adjudication to the discharge, including intermediate administrative steps, and such controversies as arise between the parties to the bankruptcy proceedings as are involved in the allowing of claims and fixing their priorities, sales, allowances, and other matters which are disposed of summarily. Thompson v. Mauzy (1909) 174 Fed. 611, 98 C. C. A. 457, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 489.

The "controversies" spoken of in the act are distinct and separable issues, raised between intervening parties, involving substantial rights, and such as might arise at common law or in equity, and of which the circuit courts of appeals would have had jurisdiction if those controversies had arisen in the federal courts in other cases outside of bankruptcy proceedings. Burleigh v.

Foreman (1903) 125 Fed. 217, 60 C. C. A. 109, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 74; Dodge v. Norlin (1904) 133 Fed. 363, 66 C. C. A. 425, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 176. They are those independent or plenary suits which concern the bankrupt's estate, and arise by intervention or otherwise between the trustees representing the bankrupt's estate and claimants representing some right or interest adverse to the bankrupt or his general creditors. Barnes v. Pampel (1912) 192 Fed. 525, 113 C. C. A. 81, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 192.

"Proceedings in bankruptcy," as used in sections 23–25, held to cover questions between the alleged bankrupt or the receiver or trustee on the one hand and the general creditors, arising in the settlement of the estate, while "controversies at law and in equity arising in the course of bankruptcy proceedings" involve questions between the receiver or trustee and adverse claimants concerning property, to be litigated in suits. In re Breyer Printing Co. (C. C. A. 1914) 216 Fed. 878.

A dispute between the assignor of a bankrupt's accounts and his trustee in bankruptcy over proceeds of assigned accounts collected by the trustee on a petition filed in bankruptcy proceedings is a controversy arising in bankruptcy. Greey v. Dockendorff (1913) 34 S. Ct. 166, 231 U. S. 513, 58 L. Ed. 339, affirming decree In re Schwab-Kepner Co. (1913) 203 Fed. 475, 121 C. C. A. 597.

A question raised by the claimant of property adverse to a trustee in bankruptcy, whether the bankruptcy court had jurisdiction to determine that claim is a question of a bankruptcy proceeding, reviewable by petition to revise, under subdivision "b" of this section. Gibbons v. Goldsmith (1915) 222 Fed. 826, 138 C. C. A. 252.

An order of the court of bankruptcy requiring the bankrupt to assign and turn over to his trustee certain life insurance policies as assets of the estate is a "proceeding in bankruptcy" and reviewable by petition for revision. In re Mertens (1905) 142 Fed. 445, 73 C. C. A. 561, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 701. And so is an order requiring the members of a bankrupt partnership to schedule and surrender their individual property. Dickas v. Barnes (1905) 140 Fed. 849, 72 C. C. A. 261, 5 L. R. A. (N. S.) 654, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 566. And an order, made in the exercise of the summary jurisdiction, directing the turning over of money or property by any third person to a trustee in bankruptcy. Courtney v. Shea (1915) 225 Fed. 358, 140 C. C. A. 382; In re Rose Shoe Mfg. Co. (1909) 168 Fed. 39, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 725; O'Dell v. Boyden (1906) 150 Fed. 731, 80 C. C. A. 397, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 751. Such an order is a proceeding in bankruptcy when it requires the surrender of property by one to whom the bankrupt had previously made a general assignm for the benefit of his creditors. In Farrell (1910) 176 Fed. 505, 100 C. A. 63, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 826; In Abraham (1899) 93 Fed. 767, 35 C. A. 592, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266. O receiver of a state court similarly possession of assets of the estate. re Hecox (1908) 164 Fed. 823, 21 A Bankr. Rep. 314. And an order quiring a creditor of the bankrupt return property which was mistake surrendered to him by a receiver bankruptcy is a proceeding in ba ruptcy. In re Strobel (C. C. A. 190 160 Fed. 916, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. And so is an order requiring s creditor to pay to the trustee amount of an unlawful preference. re First Nat. Bank (1907) 155 F 100, 84 C. C. A. 16, 18 Am. Ban Rep. 766. And an order relating to sale of property of the estate in ba ruptcy. Schuler v. Hassinger (191 177 Fed. 119, 100 C. C. A. 539; Fi Nat. Bank v. Chicago Title & Trust (1905) 198 U. S. 280, 25 Sup. Ct. 6 49 L. Ed. 1051, 14 Am. Bankr. R 102; In re McMahon (C. C. A. 190 147 Fed. 684, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 5 But a controversy between a trus and a claimant of property who s rendered the same for sale is revie able by appeal, and not by petition revise. Scandinavian-American Ba v. Sabin (C. C. A. 1915) 227 Fed. 5

A decision of the court of bankrup concerning the validity of a mortg on his property made by the bankr is a proceeding in bankruptcy. M gan v. First Nat. Bank (1906) 145 F 466, 76 C. C. A. 236, 16 Am. Ban Rep. 639; Ritchie County Bank McFarland (1910) 183 Fed. 715, 1 C. C. A. 153, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 8 And so of an order determining right to participate in the proceeds admittedly valid securities. Snow Dalton (1913) 203 Fed. 843, 29 A Bankr. Rep. 240. And so is an or allowing or rejecting the claim of creditor offered for proof in the ba ruptcy proceedings. Tefft v. Muns (1911) 222 U. S. 114, 32 Sup. Ct. 56 L. Ed. 118. And where petitio filed a claim against a bankrupt, also claimed a lien on property h by the trustee, the issue of petitione right to a lien was a controversy a ing in the bankruptcy proceedings, viewable by petition to superintend revise, and not by appeal. Hutt Sash & Door Co. v. Stitt (1914) 2 Fed. 1, 133 C. C. A. 641. A cl against a bankrupt and an applicati for the establishment of a mechani lien held a bankruptcy proceeding, not a controversy arising in a ba ruptcy proceeding; and hence an or denying the application was reviewa by appeal, and not by petition to revi In re Streator Metal Stamping (1913) 205 Fed. 280, 123 C. C. A. 4

A decision on objections by credit

the accounts rendered by the trus- is a proceeding in bankruptcy, and t a "controversy." In re Moore 09) 166 Fed. 689, 92 C. C. A. 285, Am. Bankr. Rep. 651. And so is an ler dismissing a petition for the rev- ation of the bankrupt's discharge. ompson v. Mauzy (1909) 174 Fed. 1, 98 C. C. A. 457, 23 Am. Bankr. p. 489.

A separate and independent litiga- n, whether instituted by petition in bankruptcy court in the nature of bill in equity or by intervention or a plenary suit at law, concerning perty alleged to belong to the estate bankruptcy, and maintained between trustee in bankruptcy, as repre- ting the estate, and an adverse imant representing some right or erest adverse to the bankrupt or general creditors, is a "controversy sing in bankruptcy proceedings." wit v. Berlin Machine Works (1904) 4 U. S. 296, 24 Sup. Ct. 690, 48 L. . 986, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 709; der v. Arts (1909) 213 U. S. 223, Sup. Ct. 436, 53 L. Ed. 772, 22 Am. nkr. Rep. 1; Tefft v. Munsuri (1911) 2 U. S. 114, 32 Sup. Ct. 67, 56 L. Ed. 3, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 338; Barnes Pampel (1912) 192 Fed. 525, 113 C. A. 81, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 192; roshow v. Ott (1905) 134 Fed. 740, C. C. A. 644, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. ; Hinds v. Moore (1905) 134 Fed. 1, 67 C. C. A. 149, 14 Am. Bankr. p. 1; Mound Mines Co. v. Hawthorn 09) 173 Fed. 882, 97 C. C. A. 394, Am. Bankr. Rep. 242; Loeser v. vings Deposit Bank & Trust Co. 908) 163 Fed. 212, 89 C. C. A. 642, Am. Bankr. Rep. 845; Knapp v. lwaukee Trust Co. (1908) 162 Fed. 5, 89 C. C. A. 467, 20 Am. Bankr. p. 671; Security Warehousing Co. Hand (1906) 143 Fed. 32, 74 C. A. 186, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 49; dge v. Norlin (1904) 133 Fed. 363, C. C. A. 425, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 6; John Deere Plow Co. v. Mc- vid (1905) 137 Fed. 802, 70 C. C. A. 2, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 653; In re rst Nat. Bank (1905) 135 Fed. 62, C. C. A. 536, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 0; Walter Scott & Co. v. Wilson 902) 115 Fed. 284, 53 C. C. A. 76, Am. Bankr. Rep. 349; Warren v. nth Nat. Bank (C. C. 1871) Fed. s. No. 17,201.

Wherever a third person claims the operty held by the trustee in bank- ptcy, he institutes a controversy in a nkruptcy proceeding in which the dgment is appealable. Gibbons v. oldsmith (1915) 222 Fed. 826, 138 C. A. 252. A proceeding by an ad- rse claimant to recover property in ossession of a trustee is a "contro- rsy arising in a bankruptcy proceed- g," and the decree therein is ap- alable at any time within six months. re Gold (C. C. A. 1913) 210 Fed. 410. A controversy in bankruptcy, appealable under Judicial Code, § 128, ante, § 1120, to the circuit court of appeals, and thence to the federal supreme court, was not initiated by an attempted intervention in a summary proceeding in a court of ancillary jurisdiction to restore certain property of bankrupts in the custody of those having no right to it, to the bankruptcy court where the interveners claim under assignments made after the filing of the petition in bankruptcy. Lazarus, Michel & Lazarus v. Prentice (1914) 34 S. Ct. 851, 234 U. S. 263, 58 L. Ed. 1305, dismissing appeal Musica v. Prentice (1914) 211 Fed. 326, 127 C. C. A. 575.

Where a trustee instituted proceedings to set aside certain conveyances of real estate alleged to have been made in fraud of the bankrupt's creditors, and also to vacate the lien of a mortgage thereon as against the mortgagee, who was not a party to the bankruptcy proceedings and not a creditor of the estate, but a stranger thereto, asserting rights paramount to and independent of those of the estate, the proceeding was held to be a "controversy," as distinguished from a "proceeding in bankruptcy." Barnes v. Pampel (1912) 192 Fed. 525, 113 C. C. A. 81, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 192. And see McCarty v. Coffin (C. C. A. 1907) 150 Fed. 307, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 148. And so of a petition by a trustee to have certain adverse claims and liens on property belonging to the estate declared void, and for a sale of the property free and clear of the same. Thomas v. Woods (1909) 173 Fed. 585, 97 C. C. A. 535, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 132. And of a decision that a chattel mortgage on the property of the bankrupt is voidable by the trustee, and that the mortgagee has no lien and no preference in payment out of its proceeds. Dodge v. Norlin (1904) 133 Fed. 363, 66 C. C. A. 425, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 176. So, where proceedings are instituted by the trustee to compel the payment to him of the proceeds of a sale of the bankrupt's assets, this is a controversy arising in bankruptcy proceedings. Mason v. Wolkowich (1906) 150 Fed. 699, 80 C. C. A. 435, 10 L. R. A. (N. S.) 765, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 709. And the same is true of a proceeding on a petition filed by an adverse claimant to recover property from a trustee in bankruptcy. Smith v. Means (1906) 148 Fed. 89, 78 C. C. A. 10, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 433; Liddon & Bro. v. Smith (1905) 135 Fed. 43, 67 C. C. A. 517, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 204. So also is a dispute between a receiver in bankruptcy and an outside person as to whether a contract was made between them for the sale and purchase of property of the estate, brought before the bankruptcy court for determination. In re J.

Jungmann, Inc. (1911) 186 Fed. 302, 108 C. C. A. 380, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 401. And an order of the court of bankruptcy requiring the bankrupt's attorney to account for a payment received in contemplation of bankruptcy. In re Raphael (C. C. A. 1911) 192 Fed. 874. Petition of a bankrupt's landlord to be paid rent in arrear out of the proceeds of property seized, in which the trustee claimed a superior title to the chattels, held not a proceeding in bankruptcy, reviewable by petition to review, but a controversy arising in the course of bankruptcy proceedings, reviewable by appeal. In re Breyer Printing Co. (C. C. A. 1914) 216 Fed. 878; In re Orr, Id. 883.

An order dissolving a temporary injunction restraining proceedings in the state court against the bankrupt is a controversy arising under bankruptcy proceedings, reviewable on appeal, and not by a petition for revision, under section 24b. Bothwell v. Fitzgerald (1915) 219 Fed. 408, 135 C. C. A. 212.

And an order to show cause why petitioners should not be punished for contempt for violating an injunction of the court of bankruptcy in a collateral matter is a controversy and not a proceeding in bankruptcy. Morehouse v. Pacific Hardware & Steel Co. (1910) 177 Fed. 337, 100 C. C. A. 647, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 178.

Where a claim to personal property sold by the claimant to the bankrupt under a conditional sale was denied, because not filed within a year after the adjudication in bankruptcy, and also because the state law regulating such sales had not been complied with, the decision of the district court may be reviewed on appeal. Nauman Co. v. Bradshaw (C. C. A. 1912) 193 Fed. 350, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 565.

An action on the bond of a trustee in bankruptcy is a plenary action, and the judgment therein is not reviewable by petition to revise. U. S. v. Ruggles (1915) 221 Fed. 256, 137 C. C. A. 109.

11. Reviewing discretionary action of district court.—The power given circuit courts of appeals to superintend and revise in matter of law the proceedings of inferior courts of bankruptcy, does not authorize the revising court to exercise the discretion vested in the courts of bankruptcy, nor in ordinary cases to revise the exercise of such discretion. In re J. B. Judkins Co. (1913) 205 Fed. 892, 124 C. C. A. 205; Blackstone v. Everybody's Store (C. C. A. 1913) 207 Fed. 752, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 497. Thus, rejection of charges against a receiver in bankruptcy for expenses incurred under receiver's orders or contracts for the preservation or care of the bankrupt's estate is within the discretion of the bankruptcy court, and its action thereon will not be reviewed on appeal. O'Brien v. Ely (C. C. A. 1912) 195 Fed. 64, 28 A Bankr. Rep, 247.

The circuit court of appeals will r attempt to control the discretion of t district court in the matter of appoi ing and removing referees. Birch Steele (1908) 165 Fed. 577, 91 C. A. 415, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 539. N in the approval by the district co of the trustee in bankruptcy selec by the creditors. In re Merritt Co Co. (1914) 219 Fed. 555, 135 C. C. 323.

The bankruptcy act provides t suits pending against a bankrupt "n be stayed" for a period of twe months or until the question of his d charge is determined. This invests bankruptcy court with authority, does not impose upon it an invaria duty; and the granting or refusing an order staying a pending suit rests the discretion of the district court, a its action will not be interfered w by the appellate court unless it is pl that such discretion has been abus In re Lesser (1900) 99 Fed. 913, C. C. A. 177, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 7 New River Coal Land Co. v. Ruff Bros. (1908) 165 Fed. 881, 91 C. A. 559, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 100; re Guanacevi Tunnel Co. (C. C. 1912) 201 Fed. 316, 29 Am. Ban Rep. 229. The determination of district judge as to whether admin tration of mortgaged stock of merch dise should be left to the state cou which had taken jurisdiction, or brought into bankruptcy, will not reviewed unless his discretion is cle ly abused. Bank of Dillon v. Murc son (1914) 213 Fed. 147, 129 C. C. 499.

In the examination of third pers as witnesses in bankruptcy proceedi and the scrutiny of their books and pers, the court of bankruptcy sho see to it that the examination is c fined to the legitimate objects of s an investigation, that is, the discov of assets of the bankrupt or of grou of opposition to his discharge. But this matter it is invested with a w discretion, and a manifest abuse such discretion must be shown bef the appellate court will interfere. re Horgan (1899) 98 Fed. 414, 39 C. A. 118, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 253.

The same rule has been applied review of the action of the court bankruptcy in refusing to permit amendment of a petition in involunt bankruptcy for the purpose of insert additional alleged acts of bankrupt Pittsburgh Laundry Supply Co. v. I perial Laundry Co. (1907) 154 F 662, 83 C. C. A. 486, 18 Am. Ban Rep. 756; Sabin v. Blake-McFall (1915) 223 Fed. 501, 139 C. C. A. And to the action of the court of ba ruptcy in denying to a creditor right to amend his specifications in position to the bankrupt's applicat for discharge. In re Carley (190 117 Fed. 130, 55 C. C. A. 146, 8 A kr. Rep. 720. And to the dismissal petition in involuntary bankruptcy want of prosecution. In re Levi Klauber (1905) 142 Fed. 962, 74

C. A. 132, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 294.
to the refusal of the judge to ction an arrangement between the krupt and certain of his creditors persons who have received prefer-al transfers. Mulford v. Fourth eet Nat. Bank (1907) 157 Fed. 897,
C. C. A. 225, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep.
. And the refusal to allow a com-sion to a broker who had negotiata sale of property of the bankrupt.
d v. South Side Trust Co. (1910)
Fed. 210, 102 C. C. A. 476, 24
. Bankr. Rep. 578. And to the ac-of the district court in fixing the e, terms, and conditions of a sale he bankrupt's property. Schuler v. ssinger (1910) 177 Fed. 119, 100 C.
A. 539, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 184;
re Throckmorton (1912) 196 Fed.
, 116 C. C. A. 348, 28 Am. Bankr.
. 487. And to its action in adopt-or rejecting the verdict of a jury ich was taken as advisory only. Oil ll Supply Co. v. Hall (1904) 128
d. 875, 63 C. C. A. 343, 11 Am.
nkr. Rep. 738.

n a petition to revise an order makcertain allowances to a bankrupt's eiver and his counsel, the record rely showing receipts and disbursents and that nearly half the assets re used for expenses of administran, held insufficient to show an abuse the trial court's discretion. In re sh-Papworth Grow-Sir (1913) 210
d. 24, 126 C. C. A. 604.

ction of the referee in bankruptcy, proved by the district court and cirt court of appeals in subrogating stee in bankruptcy to the liens of gment creditors, will be accepted as rrect in the absence of proof of use of discretion. Fallows v. Contintal & Commercial Trust & Savings nk (1914) 35 S. Ct. 29, 235 U. S.
0, 59 L. Ed. 238, affirming decree In Tengwall Co. (1912) 201 Fed. 82,
9 C. C. A. 420.

Where the granting of a discharge to bankrupt was objected to on the und that he had fraudulently con-led property, and there was rea-able ground for the action of the trict court in discrediting his testiny given in explanation, the exercise of its discretion will not be reviewed. Seigel v. Cartel (1908) 164 Fed. 691, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 140.

A mere order of the district court, allowing the trustee to amend his specifications of objection to discharge of bankrupt, has not the finality necessary for review. In re Pechin (C. C. A. 1915) 227 Fed. 853.

12. Jurisdiction of territorial supreme courts.—Under this and the following section, the supreme courts of the territories have appellate jurisdiction to review judgments making or refusing an adjudication of bankruptcy, judgments granting or refusing a discharge, and judgments allowing or rejecting a debt or claim of $500 or over. In re McCasland (1906) 16 Okl. 499, 85 Pac. 1118. An appeal does not lie from a judgment allowing or rejecting a debt or claim of less than five hundred dollars. Ex parte Stumpff (1900) 9 Okl. 639, 60 Pac. 96.

The supreme courts of the territories have no jurisdiction to "superintend and revise in matter of law the proceedings of the several inferior courts of bankruptcy," but petitions for such revision must be brought in the proper circuit court of appeals. Ex parte Stumpff (1900) 9 Okl. 639, 60 Pac. 96; In re American Copper Co. (1907) 11 Ariz. 36, 89 Pac. 516.

The summary revisory power of the circuit court of appeals for the eighth circuit under this provision of the bankruptcy act, extended to questions of law arising in the progress of bankruptcy proceedings in a district court of the territory of Oklahoma, which was assigned to the eighth circuit, although jurisdiction by appeal or writ of error was vested in the territorial supreme court. Plymouth Cordage Co. v. Smith (1904) 194 U. S. 311, 24 Sup. Ct. 725, 48 L. Ed. 992.

The Circuit Court of Appeals of the Eighth Circuit has no revisory jurisdiction over the proceedings of the courts of bankruptcy in the Indian Territory, the court of appeals for the territory alone having appellate jurisdiction over such courts since its creation three years before the enactment of the bankruptcy law. In re Blair (1901) 106 Fed. 662, 45 C. C. A. 530, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 793; In re Crawford (1907) 152 Fed. 169, 81 C. C. A. 419, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 258.

9609. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 25.) Appeals and writs of error.

Appeals and Writs of Error.—a That appeals, as in equity cases, ay be taken in bankruptcy proceedings from the courts of bankptcy to the circuit court of appeals of the United States, and the supreme court of the Territories, in the following cases, wit, (1) from a judgment adjudging or refusing to adjudge the efendant a bankrupt; (2) from a judgment granting or denying a ischarge; and (3) from a judgment allowing or rejecting a debt or aim of five hundred dollars or over. Such appeal shall be taken ithin ten days after the judgment appealed from has been rendered, and may be heard and determined by the appellate court in term or cation, as the case may be.

b From any final decision of a court of appeals, allowing or rej ing a claim under this Act, an appeal may be had under such r and within such time as may be prescribed by the Supreme Cour the United States, in the following cases and no other:

1. Where the amount in controversy exceeds the sum of two th sand dollars, and the question involved is one which might h been taken on appeal or writ of error from the highest court State to the Supreme Court of the United States; or

2. Where some Justice of the Supreme Court of the United St shall certify that in his opinion the determination of the questio questions involved in the allowance or rejection of such claim is es tial to a uniform construction of this Act throughout the Un States.

c Trustees shall not be required to give bond when they take peals or sue out writs of error.

d Controversies may be certified to the Supreme Court of United States from other courts of the United States, and the for court may exercise jurisdiction thereof and issue writs of certio pursuant to the provisions of the United States laws now in force such as may be hereafter enacted. (30 Stat. 553.)

See notes to preceding section.

Notes of Decisions

1. Appeal to United States supreme court.
2. Appeals to circuit court of appeals.
3. —— Adjudication of bankruptcy.
4. —— Decision on discharge or composition.
5. —— Allowance or rejection of claims.
6. Time for taking appeal.
7. Time for filing petition for revision.
8. Parties to appeal or review.
9. —— From order allowing or rejecting claim.
10. —— On petition for revision.
11. Practice on appeal.
12. Practice on petition for revision.
13. Assignment of errors and bill of exceptions.
14. Record on appeal.
15. —— On petition for revision.
16. —— Bringing up evidence.
17. Scope of review—Law and facts.
18. —— Questions not raised below.
19. Review of evidence and findings.
20. Effect of appeal and stay of proceedings.
21. Determination on appeal.

1. Appeal to United States supreme court.—Under the express provisions of this section, an appeal lies to the supreme court of the United States from an order allowing or rejecting a claim against the estate of a bankrupt, where the amount involved is more than $2,000. Lumpkin v. Foley (1913) 204 Fed. 372, 122 C. C. A. 542. This provision excludes an appeal to the supreme court from a decision of a circuit court of appeals allowing or rejecting a claim save in the specified cases. Hutchinson v. Otis (1902) 123 Fed. 14, 59 C. C. A. 94, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 275. And see Wynkoop, Hallenbeck, Crawford Co. v. Gaines (1913) 227 U. S. 4, 33 Sup. Ct. 214, 57 L. Ed. 391, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 369.

As to the allowance of an appeal on a certificate of a justice of the supr court, that the determination of question involved is essential to a form construction of the bankru act, see Conboy v. First Nat. B (1906) 203 U. S. 141, 27 Sup. Ct. 51 L. Ed. 128, 16 Am. Bankr. 773, where an appeal was allowe the certificate of a justice of the preme court, the decision in the c below (In re Philip Semmer Glass [1905] 135 Fed. 77, 67 C. C. A. 551 Am. Bankr. Rep. 25) turning o question of the right of set-off in a where a national bank was indebte a bankrupt on a deposit, and he indebted to the bank as indorser note, which liability, however, did become absolute until after the f of the bankrupt's petition. But the peal in this case was dismissed bec not taken in time.

An appeal involving a question w would have sustained a writ of e to the highest court of a state a where, in determining the validity lien asserted to secure a claim ag the bankrupt's estate, a construc of the statute is directly involved, party contending for an interpreta which would defeat the lien, and other for a construction which w sustain it. Coder v. Arts (1909) U. S. 223, 29 Sup. Ct. 436, 53 L. 772, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1. A de of a circuit court of appeals affir a decree of a district court dismis the petition of a trustee in bankru to prevent the enforcement of a in a state court for labor and mate is appealable to the federal supr court. Hobbs v. Head & Dowst (1914) 34 S. Ct. 253, 231 U. S.

L. Ed. 440, affirming decrees (1911) Fed. 409, 106 C. C. A. 519, and 11) 185 Fed. 1006, 107 C. C. A. 663. assertion of a right of set-off in a ceeding in bankruptcy presents a n of federal right which will sus- an appeal from a decision of the uit court of appeals, rejecting the n, to the supreme court. Western & Timber Co. v. Brown (1905) 196 S. 502, 25 Sup. Ct. 339, 49 L. Ed. 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 447. But the e denial by a trustee in bankruptcy claim presented against the estate a creditor is not the assertion by trustee of a right under the act of gress, in such sense as to give him right to appeal from a decision of circuit court of appeals in favor of creditor. Chapman v. Bowen 07) 207 U. S. 89, 28 Sup. Ct. 32, L. Ed. 116, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 844. decision of the circuit court of ap- ls that a creditor is entitled to have claim allowed against the bankrupt te of an individual partner, as well against the estate of the bankrupt tnership, which proceeds upon a l-settled principle of general law, ad enough to sustain it without ref- nce to the bankruptcy act, is not ewable by the supreme court. pman v. Bowen (1907) 207 U. S. 28 Sup. Ct. 32, 52 L. Ed. 116, 18 Bankr. Rep. 844.

he question whether an order of the kruptcy court from which no appeal taken, postponing a part of the m of an officer of a bankrupt cor- ation to the claim of an intervener, correctly interpreted below, is not concerning the allowance or rejec- of claim, but is a matter which supreme court has no authority to iew. Wynkoop, Hallenbeck, Craw- d Co. v. Gaines (1913) 33 S. Ct. 227 U. S. 4, 57 L. Ed. 391.

Appeals to circuit court of ap- ls.—In the three particular cases cified in this section, appeal is the per and only method of obtaining a iew of the judgment of the court of kruptcy. Cook Inlet Coal Fields v. Caldwell (1906) 147 Fed. 475, C. C. A. 17, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. As regards proceedings in bank- tcy, that is, the successive steps in ordinary administration of an es- e in bankruptcy, as distinguished m "controversies arising in bank- tcy proceedings," the specification these three classes of appealable gments implies an exclusion of all ers, and in matters of this kind no eal lies from any order or decree the court of bankruptcy unless it es within one of the specified class- Bank of Clinton v. Kondert (1908) Fed. 703, 86 C. C. A. 571, 20 Am. kr. Rep. 178; In re Whitener 00) 105 Fed. 180, 44 C. C. A. 434, m. Bankr. Rep. 198.

— Adjudication of bankruptcy. n adjudication on a petition in involuntary bankruptcy without the intervention of a jury can be reviewed only on appeal, and not on a petition for revision. In re Good (1900) 99 Fed. 389, 39 C. C. A. 581, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 605; Cook Inlet Coal Fields Co. v. Caldwell (1906) 147 Fed. 475, 78 C. C. A. 17, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 136. When an appeal is taken from such an adjudication, it is an "appeal as in equity cases," under the terms of the statute, and both the facts and the law are brought before the reviewing court. In re Neasmith (1906) 147 Fed. 160, 77 C. C. A. 402, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 128.

An order of the district court dismissing a petition in involuntary bankruptcy, on the ground that it does not state facts sufficient to constitute an act of bankruptcy, is a judgment "refusing to adjudge the defendant a bankrupt," and is therefore appealable under the statute. Stevens v. Nave-McCord Mercantile Co. (1906) 150 Fed. 71, 80 C. C. A. 25, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 609. But no appeal lies from an order refusing to vacate and set aside an adjudication of bankruptcy. B-R Electric & Telephone Mfg. Co. v. Ætna Life Ins. Co. (1913) 206 Fed. 885, 124 C. C. A. 545, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 424; In re Ives (1902) 113 Fed. 911, 51 C. C. A. 541, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 692. And an order which simply adjudges an individual to be a member of a bankrupt partnership and to be liable for its debts is not appealable under this section. Francis v. McNeal (1909) 170 Fed. 445, 95 C. C. A. 168, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 337.

4. — Decision on discharge or composition.—An order simply affirming the report of a special master on a contested application for a discharge, is not a "judgment granting or denying a discharge," and therefore is not appealable. Ragan Malone & Co. v. Cotton & Preston (1912) 195 Fed. 69, 118 C. C. A. 640, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 246. Under the act of 1867, an order granting a discharge could not be reviewed on writ of error, where only questions of fact were presented, but could be reviewed under the superintending and revisory jurisdiction of the circuit court. Ruddick v. Billings (C. C. 1868) 3 N. B. R. 61, Fed. Cas. No. 12,110.

An order of a court of bankruptcy dismissing an application for discharge on the ground of want of prosecution is, in substance and effect, one denying a discharge and is therefore appealable. In re Kuffler (1903) 127 Fed. 125, 61 C. C. A. 259, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 469. A denial of a motion to dismiss an application of a bankrupt for a discharge on undisputed facts presents a question of law reviewable by petition to revise. Lindeke v. Converse (1912) 198 Fed. 618, 117 C. C. A. 322, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 596.

But where a creditor applies for an order to set aside the discharge of the bankrupt, and it is denied on the ground that, if all the facts claimed by the creditor were established, they would not warrant the court in refusing a discharge, this action of the court is more properly reviewable on a petition for revision. In re Louisville Nat. Banking Co. (1908) 158 Fed. 403, 85 C. C. A. 513. See Comercial Bank of Manchester v. Buckner (1857) 20 How. 108, 15 L. Ed. 862.

Where a bankrupt's application for discharge was dismissed for a technical error, but no order was entered on the judge's minutes, and new proceedings were instituted, in which the former denial was pleaded as res judicata, it was held that the bankrupt was still entitled to have an order entered on the prior decision and to appeal therefrom. In re Elkind (1909) 175 Fed. 64, 99 C. C. A. 86, 23 Am. Bankr. 166.

Review of order overruling objections to bankrupt's discharge will be denied until the order is amended to show whether the objections were overruled on the merits, or under the impression that a proposed compromise had made them immaterial. In re Doyle (C. C. A. 1915) 220 Fed. 434.

An order denying an application for discharge will be reversed on appeal where clearly inconsistent with the testimony in the case and the referee's report overruling the specifications of objection. Boyd v. Arnold (1906) 149 Fed. 187, 79 C. C. A. 135, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 839.

A judgment confirming a composition is in effect a judgment granting a discharge, and is therefore reviewable on appeal under this provision of the act. In re Bay State Milling Co. (1915) 223 Fed. 778, 139 C. C. A. 598; In re Friend (1905) 134 Fed. 778, 67 C. C. A. 500, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 595. An appeal lies from an order of the district court refusing to confirm a composition tendered by the debtor and accepted by the required number of creditors. U. S. v. Hammond (1900) 104 Fed. 862, 44 C. C. A. 229, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 736, reversing In re Adler (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 444, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 583. But see In re McVoy Hardware Co. (C. C. A. 1912) 200 Fed. 949, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 322.

5. —— Allowance or rejection of claims.—A judgment of the court of bankruptcy allowing or rejecting a debt or claim of a creditor against the estate of the bankrupt may be reviewed on appeal to the circuit court of appeals, provided the sum in controversy amounts to $500. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Elliotte (1914) 218 Fed. 567, 134 C. C. A. 295; Sterne v. Merchants' Nat. Bank (C. C. A. 1914) 216 Fed. 862; Duff v. Carrier (1893) 55 Fed. 433, 5 C. C. A. 177.

In this case the remedy by appeal is exclusive, and the contested matter cannot be brought before the reviewing court on petition for the exercise of its power to superintend and revise matters of law. Pindel v. Holg (1915) 221 Fed. 342, 137 C. C. A. 1 In re Lane Lumber Co. (1914) Fed. 546, 133 C. C. A. 398; Adam Deckers Valley Lumber Co. (1912) Fed. 48, 120 C. C. A. 302; In re D son (1901) 111 Fed. 726, 49 C. C. 574, 55 L. R. A. 349, 7 Am. Ba Rep. 186; Cooper v. Miller (19 203 Fed. 383, 121 C. C. A. 567, Am. Bankr. Rep. 194; Matter of I ing (1912) 224 U. S. 183, 32 Sup. 446, 56 L. Ed. 725, 27 Am. Bankr. R 852; First Nat. Bank v. Cooper (18 20 Wall. 171, 22 L. Ed. 273; In Place (C. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 5 Fed. Cas. No. 11,200. But the de of an application by an individual cr itor of a bankrupt member of a f for an allowance of interest out of individual estate, subsequent to allowance of his claim, is reviewable original petition to revise. In re Ch dler (1911) 184 Fed. 887, 107 C. A. 209, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 865. Wh an order involved both rejection allowance of claims each for more t $500, and a controversy of fact as t preference, it was reviewable by peal, and not by petition to rev Cooper v. Miller (1913) 203 Fed. 3 121 C. C. A. 567.

Where there is no dispute as to validity or amount of the claim, only as to whether or not it is enti to priority of payment out of the sets of the estate, the decision may reviewed on petition for revision, stead of on appeal. In re Rouse, H ard & Co. (1899) 91 Fed. 96, 33 C. A. 356, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 234; re Worcester County (1900) 102 F 808, 42 C. C. A. 637, 4 Am. Ba Rep. 496. But although the validity the claim as a general claim agai the estate is not denied, still an or of the district court establishing it a lien against the estate is appeala and is not the proper subject of a view under the revisory power of circuit court of appeals. Matter Loving (1912) 224 U. S. 183, 32 S Ct. 446, 56 L. Ed. 725, 27 Am. Ba Rep. 852; Bernard v. Lea (C. C. 1913) 210 Fed. 583; Home Bank Savings v. Lohm (1915) 223 Fed. 6 139 C. C. A. 179. And a decree rej ing a landlord's claim against the ba rupt, but allowing a lien covering portion of the rent, is reviewable appeal. Courtney v. Fidelity Trust (1914) 219 Fed. 57, 134 C. C. A. 59

If a claim is reduced by the co and allowed for an amount sma than that asserted by the creditor, if a claim made up of various items sifted, and some of the items disall ed and others allowed, it is necessa in order to give a right of appeal, t the matter which will come before appellate court, namely, the amount the reduction or of the partial all ance or rejection, should reach the ictional sum. Gray v. Grand Forks cantile Co. (1905) 138 Fed. 344, 70 C. A. 634, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 780, g Hilton v. Dickinson (1883) 108 . 165, 2 Sup. Ct. 424, 27 L. Ed. 688; s v. Johnson (1884) 110 U. S. 233, ıp. Ct. 640, 28 L. Ed. 128. Where ate filed a claim against a bankrupt oration for the amount of a fran- e tax alleged to be in arrear, and e than $500 of the claim was disal- ed, the state was entitled to appeal. e Cosmopolitan Power Co. (1905) Fed. 858, 70 C. C. A. 388, 14 Am. kr. Rep. 604. Where the allowed n against bankrupt is for $2,500, specific liens as security, appeal to the circuit court of appeals, gh no one of the liens amounts to), and the contest is only as to n. Stuart v. Britton Lumber Co. 5) 227 Fed. 49.

here claims are made for the al- ınce of expenses, costs, and counsel , incurred by the petitioning cred- s in involuntary cases, or by the tee or by creditors who co-operate him in contesting claims and ecuting suits, it is held that an or- of the court of bankruptcy allow- or disapproving such a claim is not judgment allowing or rejecting a or claim," but is an administra- order reviewable only on petition revise. Ohio Valley Bank Co. v. tzer (1907) 153 Fed. 362, 82 C. C. 438, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 689; W. Davidson & Co. v. Friedman (1906) Fed. 853, 72 C. C. A. 553, 15 Bankr. Rep. 489. And see Street- . Lowe (1911) 184 Fed. 263, 106 C. A. 405, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 774. ıpare In re Curtis (1900) 100 Fed. , 41 C. C. A. 59, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep.

Where a mortgage creditor of a krupt proves his claim as a secured t, including the amount stipulated e paid as an attorney's fee in case foreclosure, and the district court erses the action of the referee in cting the latter item, and orders its wance, this constitutes an appeal- judgment. In re Roche (1900) 101 . 956, 42 C. C. A. 115, 4 Am. Bankr. . 369.

decision of the court of bankrupt- n a contest between the trustee and adverse claimant of property may reviewed on appeal, but not under provision here under consideration, on the ground that it involves a ntroversy arising in a bankruptcy ceeding." See Rode & Horn v. pps (1912) 195 Fed. 414, 115 C. C. 316, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 827; Fidel- Trust Co. v. Gaskell (1912) 195 . 865, 115 C. C. A. 527, 28 Am. nkr. Rep. 4; In re Hamilton Auto- bile Co. (1912) 198 Fed. 856, 117 C. A. 135, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 163; kpatrick v. Harnesberger (1912) Fed. 886, 118 C. C. A. 334, 29 Am. nkr. Rep. 439; Franklin v. Stough- Wagon Co. (1909) 168 Fed. 857, 94 C. A. 269, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 63; Houghton v. Burden (1913) 228 U. S. 161, 33 Sup. Ct. 491, 57 L. Ed. 780, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 16; Kiskadden v. Steinle (1913) 203 Fed. 375, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 346; Shea v. Lewis (C. C. A. 1913) 206 Fed. 877, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 436.

An order allowing (or refusing to allow) a certain claim to be filed for the purpose of voting in the election of a trustee, is not appealable. Duryea Power Co. v. Sternbergh (1910) 218 U. S. 299, 31 Sup. Ct. 25, 54 L. Ed. 1047. So of an order denying the right of a petitioner to participate in the individual assets of a member of a bankrupt firm, until after the individual creditors should have been paid. Euclid Nat. Bank v. Union Trust & Deposit Co. (1906) 149 Fed. 975, 79 C. C. A. 485, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 834. Where a referee announces that, as the proofs stand before him, he declines to allow a creditor's claim as established, and the district court approves and affirms his decision, the creditor's claim has been "rejected" so as to give him a right of appeal. Hiscock v. Varick Bank (1907) 206 U. S. 28, 27 Sup. Ct. 681, 51 L. Ed. 945. And so there is an "allowance" where a creditor holding a note given by a bankrupt firm, and signed as surety by a member of the firm, also in bankruptcy, having proved the debt against the firm estate, also files it as an individual debt against the estate of the surety, and the court decides that it is provable against such individual estate. In re Mueller (1905) 135 Fed. 711, 68 C. C. A. 349, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 256. And there is an appeal where the court of bankruptcy decides that the bankrupt is not entitled to a business homestead in certain property covered by a deed of trust, and orders that the incumbered property shall be applied to the claim of the creditor holding the security. Burow v. Grand Lodge of Sons of Hermann (1905) 133 Fed. 708, 66 C. C. A. 538, 13 Am. Rep. 542.

Where a creditor of the bankrupt, after the filing of the petition, sold securities which he held, credited the proceeds on his debt, and filed a claim for the balance due, an order disallowing such sale and directing a resale of the securities at public auction, is an order rejecting the claim and therefore appealable. In re Mertens (1906) 144 Fed. 818, 75 C. C. A. 548, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 362.

If there is no contest as to the validity of the claim as such, nor as to its amount, a decision of the district court either allowing or disallowing the creditor's claim to priority or to a lien is an appealable judgment under the statute. Coder v. Arts (1909) 213 U. S. 223, 29 Sup. Ct. 436, 53 L. Ed. 772, 16 Ann. Cas. 1008, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1; Matter of Loving (1912) 224 U. S. 183, 32 Sup. Ct. 446, 56 L. Ed. 725, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 852; Bell v. Arledge (1912) 192 Fed. 837, 113 C. C. A. 161,

27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 773; In re Doran (1907) 154 Fed. 467, 83 C. C. A. 265, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 760; Nauman Co. v. Bradshaw (1912) 193 Fed. 350, 113 C. C. A. 274, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 565; In re Streator Metal Stamping Co. (C. C. A. 1913) 205 Fed. 280, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 55. Compare Hutchinson v. Otis (1903) 190 U. S. 552, 23 Sup. Ct. 778, 47 L. Ed. 1179, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 135; Gaudette v. Graham (1908) 164 Fed. 311, 90 C. C. A. 243; In re York (C. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 479, Fed. Cas. No. 18,139. Where the disallowance of a claim against the bankrupt's estate is properly before the circuit court of appeals on an appeal respecting the provability of the claim in general or respecting its amount, any question concerning an alleged lien, security, rank, or priority of the claim is an incident to its allowance or rejection and may therefore be reviewed by the appellate court, and such an appeal brings up both questions of law and of fact. In re Cosmopolitan Power Co. (1905) 137 Fed. 858, 70 C. C. A. 388, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 604; Courier-Journal Job Printing Co. v. Schaefer-Meyer Brewing Co. (1900) 101 Fed. 699, 41 C. C. A. 614, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 183; Cunningham v. German Ins. Bank (1900) 103 Fed. 932, 43 C. C. A. 377, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 192; Morris v. Brush (C. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 371, Fed. Cas. No. 9,828; New Hampshire Savings Bank v. Varner (1914) 216 Fed. 721. On presentation for allowance of a demand against a bankrupt's estate, an appeal lies, and if both a demand and lien are presented at the same time the lien is treated as an incident, though the creditor may have an independent assertion of the lien so as to create a controversy appealable under section 24a. In re Hartzell (1913) 209 Fed. 775, 126 C. C. A. 499.

Where a proof of debt is disallowed by the district court and an appeal taken to the circuit court of appeals, the cause of action prosecuted in the latter court must be the same one which was rejected by the former; and it is not permissible, under cover of an appeal, to transform the claim into a new and distinct cause of action. In re Jaycox (C. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 7,237.

The right of appeal in cases of this kind is not confined to the trustee and the creditor whose claim is in question, but may be exercised by a creditor who has opposed its allowance. In re Joseph (C. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 7,532. A trustee in bankruptcy may also appeal from an order denying his motion to expunge a claim allowed, unless further preferences were surrendered, and directing a return of a preference previously surrendered by the creditor. Livingstone v. Heineman (1903) 120 Fed. 786, 57 C. C. A. 154, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 39.

An order of the district judge reversing a referee's order denying a trustee's application to introduce c tain testimony, and allowing the cl without passing on the merits of application to confirm the referee's port, held interlocutory and not appe able. In re Strauss (C. C. A. 19 211 Fed. 123.

6. Time for taking appeal.—The p vision of general order in bankrup No. 36, that appeals to the supre court of the United States must taken within thirty days after the ju ment or decree, does not apply to writ of error from the federal supre court to a court of bankruptcy, p senting the question of the jurisdict of the latter to make an adjudication bankruptcy, but such proceeding is g erned by the two-year limitation fi by other statutes. Frederic L. Gr Shoe Co. v. W. M. Laird Co. (190 212 U. S. 445, 29 Sup. Ct. 332, 53 Ed. 591, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 484. an appeal to the Supreme Court fr a decree of a circuit court of appe on a bill in equity brought by a trus in bankruptcy to set aside a trans of property by the bankrupt, alle to have been made in fraud of creditc need not be taken within the thi days prescribed by the general orde but as the appellate jurisdiction is der, or the same as that under, circuit court of appeals act of 1891, appeal is in time if taken within a ye Thomas v. Sugarman (1910) 218 U. 129, 30 Sup. Ct. 650, 54 L. Ed. 9 29 L. R. A. (N. S.) 250, reversing ju ment (1907) 157 Fed. 669, 85 C. C. 337, 15 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1267. In eff the limitation of time in the bankrup act and in the general orders rela only to appeals taken expressly un the bankruptcy statute, and does apply to an appeal from a decision r dered on a formal appeal taken un subd. a of the preceding section i "controversy" arising in a bankrup proceeding. Hobbs v. Head & Do Co. (C. C. A. 1911) 191 Fed. 811, Am. Bankr. Rep. 484. But where limitation of thirty days is applica the time cannot be extended by filin petition for rehearing after the thi days have expired. Conboy v. Fi Nat. Bank (1906) 203 U. S. 141, Sup. Ct. 50, 51 L. Ed. 128, 16 A Bankr. Rep. 773.

The same order requires that court below, at or before the time entering the judgment, shall make file findings of fact and conclusions law. A sufficient compliance with t direction is shown where, the app having been taken within the thi days, the circuit court of appeals m its findings of fact and conclusions law a part of the record by an or made within the thirty days, direct the same to be filed nunc pro tunc of the date of the judgment. Co v. Arts (1909) 213 U. S. 223, 29 S Ct. 436, 53 L. Ed. 772, 16 Ann. C 1008, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1.

judgment of a court of bankruptcy resumptively "rendered" on the date ts filing with the clerk, and the ten s for taking an appeal will begin to from that time, notwithstanding the er bears an earlier date. Peterson Nash Bros. (1901) 112 Fed. 311, C. C. A. 260, 55 L. R. A. 344, 7 . Bankr. Rep. 181.

Vhere an appeal in a proper case is yed and allowed within the ten days, prescribed by the statute, the failure ile a bond and serve the citation un- a few days after such period will necessitate a dismissal of the ap- l, no material prejudice being shown. umbia Ironworks v. National Lead (1904) 127 Fed. 99, 62 C. C. A. 64 L. R. A. 645, 11 Am. Bankr. . 340; Morris v. Brush (C. C. 6) 14 N. B. R. 371, Fed. Cas. No. 8; Fellows v. Burnap (C. C. 1876) l. Cas. No. 4,721. Compare Nor- s v. Nave & McCord Mercantile (1900) 101 Fed. 796, 42 C. C. A. 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 317. Appeal l taken in time, where petition for eal was filed within 10 days and mptly presented, though allowed e than 10 days after the decree. ertson Banking Co. v. Chamberlain C. A. 1916) 228 Fed. 500. Under S. § 4982, providing that an appeal n the district to the circuit court ll be entered at the term of the uit court which shall be held with- the district next after the expira- of 10 days from the time of claim- the same, the filing in the district rt of a petition of appeal within 10 s after the appeal was claimed and notice of it was given to the clerk the court and to the opposite solic- is an entry of the appeal in the uit court. Platt v. Preston, 8 Fed. . But the requirement as to the e of taking the appeal itself is im- ative. If the appeal is not taken hin the ten days limited, the appel- court will have no jurisdiction of case and must dismiss the attempt- appeal. Williams Bros. v. Savage 03) 120 Fed. 497, 56 C. C. A. 647, m. Bankr. Rep. 720; Nazima Trad- Co. v. Martin (C. C. A. 1908) 164 d. 838, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 159; lgwick v. Fridenberg, 11 Blatchf. 77, d. Cas. No. 12,611; In re Alexander C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 29, Fed. Cas. 160; In re Kyler (C. C. 1869) 3 B. R. 46, Fed. Cas. No. 7,957; In Place (C. C. 1872) 4 N. B. R. 541, d. Cas. No. 11,200; Ex parte Wool- (1881) 104 U. S. 300, 26 L. Ed. 3; Wood v. Bailey (1874) 21 Wall. , 12 N. B. R. 132, 22 L. Ed. 689.

The time limited by the statute cannot extended or revived by any subse- ent proceeding whatever. Brady v. rnard (1909) 170 Fed. 576, 95 C. A. 656, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 342. us, when the right to appeal from adjudication of bankruptcy has been t by the expiration of the ten days, cannot be revived by moving to vacate the adjudication. In re Billing (D. C. 1906) 145 Fed. 395, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 80; In re Goldberg (1909) 167 Fed. 808, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 828. Nor by the subsequent entry of an alias adjudication. In re Berkebile (1906) 144 Fed. 577, 75 C. C. A. 333, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 277.

Where the district court, in a controversy between a trustee in bankruptcy and a creditor of the estate, has rendered a decree on the merits adverse to the trustee, and the latter, without culpable neglect, has lost his right of appealing therefrom by the expiration of the time limited, the district court may grant a rehearing, on his petition filed thereafter, for the purpose of reviving his right of appeal. In re Wright (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 820, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 184.

While the district court has power to grant a rehearing for the sole purpose of reviving a right of appeal, the effect is to nullify the explicit provisions of the statute, and therefore if the court is of opinion that there is no sufficient ground for a rehearing on the merits (aside from any question of appealing) it should not be granted on a mere pretense and for the real purpose of permitting an appeal to be taken. Conboy v. First Nat. Bank (1906) 203 U. S. 141, 27 Sup. Ct. 50, 51 L. Ed. 128, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 773; In re Hudson Clothing Co. (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 49, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 254; Morgan v. Benedum (1907) 157 Fed. 232, 84 C. C. A. 675, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 601; In re Girard Glazed Kid Co. (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 841, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 295; Rode & Horn v. Phipps (C. C. A. 1912) 195 Fed. 414, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 827. But if a petition for rehearing is filed within ten days after the judgment or order complained of, an appeal taken within ten days after the court's ruling on the petition will be in time. Mills v. J. H. Fisher & Co. (1908) 159 Fed. 897, 87 C. C. A. 77, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 237.

The ten-day limitation of time for taking an appeal, prescribed by this section, is imperative in the case of an appeal from an order denying an application to revoke a bankrupt's discharge. Thompson v. Mauzy (1909) 174 Fed. 611, 98 C. C. A. 457, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 489. And from a judgment allowing or rejecting a claim of $500 or over. Postlethwaite v. Hicks (1908) 165 Fed. 897, 91 C. C. A. 575, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 70.

An order of a bankruptcy court held not a judgment allowing claims, within the meaning of subdivision a(3) of this section, from which an appeal could only be taken within 10 days, but an order made in a controversy arising in a bankruptcy proceeding, appealable under section 24a (ante, § 9608). In re Martin (1912) 201 Fed. 31, 119 C. C. A. 363, denying rehearing (1912) 193 Fed. 841, 113 C. C. A. 627.

Appeal from order in bankruptcy disallowing claim of lien on proceeds of specific property held to be treated as taken under section 24a (ante, § 9608), and not required to be taken within 10 days under subdivision "a" of this section. Massachusetts Bonding & Ins. Co. v. Kemper (1915) 220 Fed. 847, 136 C. C. A. 593.

This limitation does not apply to appeals in "controversies arising in bankruptcy proceedings," or independent proceedings instituted for the recovery of assets of the estate, or to set aside alleged preferences, which are governed by the general provisions regulating appeals to the circuit courts of appeals, and may be brought within the time fixed by the statute creating those courts, which is six months. Boonville Nat. Bank v. Blakey (1901) 107 Fed. 891, 47 C. C. A. 43, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 13; Steele v. Buel (1900) 104 Fed. 968, 44 C. C. A. 287, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 165; In re Youngstrom (1907) 153 Fed. 98, 82 C. C. A. 232, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 572; Kenova Loan & Trust Co. v. Graham (1905) 135 Fed. 717, 68 C. C. A. 355, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 313; In re Martin (C. C. A. 1912) 201 Fed. 31, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 935.

7. Time for filing petition for revision.—Where a rule of court provides that a petition for revision must be filed and served within ten days after the entry of the order sought to be reviewed, unless the time is enlarged by order of the court of bankruptcy, stipulations by the parties cannot take the place of the discretionary order of enlargement by the court. In re Strobel (C. C. A. 1908) 160 Fed. 916, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 22; In re Brown (1909) 174 Fed. 339, 98 C. C. A. 211, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 93; In re Light (1909) 174 Fed. 341, 98 C. C. A. 213. And a petition not filed until eleven days after entry of the order will be dismissed. In re Tanenhaus (1914) 211 Fed. 971. And the time for filing a petition to review an order fixing the allowance to the trustee's attorney is not extended by applying for a reduction of the allowance. In re John M. Link Const. Co. (1915) 225 Fed. 488, 140 C. C. A. 18.

In some circuits, the time for filing a petition for revision has been fixed by rule of court at six months. (See notes under section 1114, pp. 1346, 1350, 1353, 1354, ante.) In re Worcester County (1900) 102 Fed. 808, 42 C. C. A. 637, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 496; In re Thomlinson Co. (1907) 154 Fed. 834, 83 C. C. A. 550, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 691; In re Holmes (1905) 142 Fed. 391, 73 C. C. A. 491, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 689.

Where the rules of court do not prescribe any particular time within which a petition for revision must be filed, the application must be made within a reasonable time, in order that the purpose of the act to effect a speedy settlement of the bankrupt's affairs may not be thwarted, but it should not be dismissed unless it appears that there has b an unreasonable delay, amounting laches, and operating to the prejudice parties in interest. First Nat. Bank Cooper (1873) 20 Wall. 171, 22 L. 273; In re Beck (C. C. 1887) 31 F 554; In re New York Economi Printing Co. (1901) 106 Fed. 839, C. C. A. 665, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 6 In re Groetzinger & Sons (1903) Fed. 124, 62 C. C. A. 124, 11 A Bankr. Rep. 467; In re Milgraum C. 1904) 133 Fed. 802, 13 Am. Ban Rep. 337. A delay of 30 days in fil a petition for revision is not unreas ably great. Littlefield v. Delaware H. Canal Co. (C. C. 1871) Fed. C No. 8,400. CONTRA, In re Wink C. 1913) 206 Fed. 348. The lapse more than six months is not necessa an imperative reason for dismissing petition. In re Groetzinger & S (1903) 127 Fed. 124, 62 C. C. A. 1 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 467. But a de of six months and twelve days may unreasonably great. In re Milgra (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 802, 13 A Bankr. Rep. 337. Neglect to file petition for over seven months amou to laches. First Nat. Bank v. Pe (1905) 133 Fed. 1019, 66 C. C. A. 1 A petition filed three years after matter sought to be reviewed had b disposed of was too late. Blanchard Ammons (1910) 183 Fed. 556, 106 C. A. 102, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 590.

The right of review on petition be claimed only in respect to some p ceeding which is pending in the court bankruptcy. In re Alexander (C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 160. But supervisory jurisdiction may be ex cised by the circuit court of appeals fore the district court has taken final even interlocutory action on the mat in question, if it has been conside and an opinion rendered by the lat court. In re Kyle (C. C. 1910) Fed. 617. And exceptions to a p posed distribution of the bankrupt's tate must be filed before the final cree of confirmation is entered; exc tions taken, and a petition for revi based thereon, if not filed until af the confirmation and after the final d idend has been distributed in acco ance with it, will not be consider In re Heebner (D. C. 1904) 132 F 1003, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 256. Time file a petition of review held to co mence from entry of orders direct payment to a trustee in bankruptcy a denying an application to open the c for additional testimony. In re Pl (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 778.

8. Parties to appeal or review Where a single order or judgment made by a district court in a ban ruptcy proceeding, which determines question affecting alike different clai ants, they may unite in an app therefrom, although their interests a several and distinct. Crim v. Woo ford (1905) 136 Fed. 34, 68 C. C.

4, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 302. And it mmaterial that some complain of one eged error and some of another, ce, on such an appeal, all prior rul- s are reviewable. Stevens v. Nave-Cord Mercantile Co. (C. C. A. 1906)) Fed. 71, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 609. necessary parties are not joined in appeal in due time, it will become perative in so far as it challenges or ects their rights. Gray v. Grand rks Mercantile Co. (1905) 138 Fed. 4, 70 C. C. A. 634, 14 Am. Bankr. p. 780.

Creditors who appear in opposition a petition in involuntary bankruptcy l contest the adjudication have a ht to appeal from the decree of ad- ication. In re Meyer (1899) 98 d. 976, 39 C. C. A. 368, 3 Am. Bankr. p. 559. On appeal from a decree re- ing to adjudge a defendant bankrupt, ditors other than the original peti- ners who intervened and joined in petition must join in or be severed m the appeal. In re Dandridge & gh (1913) 209 Fed. 838, 126 C. C. 562. Where, pending a motion to miss an appeal from a bankruptcy udication because the bankrupt was joined as a party, he voluntarily peared, waived notice, and submitted nself to the court's jurisdiction, he reby became a party as though orig- lly joined, and the motion to dismiss uld be denied. Hill v. Western Elec- Co. (1914) 214 Fed. 243, 130 C. A. 613, affirming order In re Ran- (D. C. 1913) 210 Fed. 529. Cred- rs who oppose a bankrupt's applica- n for discharge have a right to ap- l from an order granting the dis- rge; and a creditor's right to be rd on appeal with respect to the nting of a bankrupt's discharge can- be prejudiced by the acceptance of proposed compromise by a majority the other creditors. In re Doyle (C. A. 1915) 220 Fed. 434.

A bankrupt whose application to have composition confirmed was not for- lly opposed by creditors cannot ap- l from a decree of refusal, there ng a want of parties, as the ques- n is merely between the bankrupt d the court. Ross v. Saunders (1901) 5 Fed. 915, 45 C. C. A. 123, 5 Am. nkr. Rep. 350. But if a composition confirmed, and the assenting cred- rs have received the amounts to ich they are entitled, they are neces- y parties to an appeal by another editor. Marshall Field & Co. v. Wolf Bro. Dry Goods Co. (1903) 120 Fed. 5, 57 C. C. A. 326, 9 Am. Bankr. p. 693.

9. —— From order allowing or re- ting claim.—In the case where a editor presents a claim against the tate of the bankrupt, and another editor objects to and contests it, and is allowed, an appeal may be taken rectly by the contesting creditor. In Roche (1900) 101 Fed. 956, 42 C. A. 115, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 369; Gray v. Grand Forks Mercantile Co. (1905) 138 Fed. 344, 70 C. C. A. 634, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 780. Trustees in bankruptcy do not represent creditors in prosecuting their claims to an allowance in the bankruptcy proceeding or to a judgment in other courts, and hence where, in a suit against stockholders of bankrupt corporation, the court disallowed the claim of a creditor, it was improper for the trustee to appeal at the instance of such creditor. Biggs v. Westen (Mo. 1913) 154 S. W. 708. Where, after proof of a claim against a bankrupt's estate by an importer of wool, it was assigned to another and later expunged, on a holding that the claim belonged to a bank, there was a sufficient controversy between the bank and the assignee to entitle the latter to appeal. Assets Realization Co. v. Sovereign Bank of Canada (1914) 210 Fed. 156, 126 C. C. A. 662, affirming judgment In re Dunlap Carpet Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 726. A creditor of a bankrupt's estate is not entitled to appeal from an order allowing claims, where the referee has found that the assets are amply sufficient to pay all scheduled claims. Claimant against the estate of a bankrupt, having continually assumed the status of a creditor, could not appeal from an order allowing other claims against the estate on the ground that he was a stockholder. In re National Pressed Brick Co. (1914) 212 Fed. 878, 129 C. C. A. 398.

But other authorities hold that an appeal from the allowance of a claim in bankruptcy can be taken only by the trustee in bankruptcy, who represents all the creditors. Chatfield v. O'Dwyer (1900) 101 Fed. 797, 42 C. C. A. 30, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 313; Foreman v. Burleigh (1901) 109 Fed. 313, 48 C. C. A. 376, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 230. If the trustee, in such a case, refuses to appeal, the objecting creditor may move the district court to direct the trustee to take an appeal or to permit the creditor to prosecute an appeal in the name of the trustee. The granting of such leave is in the discretion of the court, and may be conditioned on the payment of the costs of the litigation by the objecting creditor, if the appeal is unsuccessful. Chatfield v. O'Dwyer (1900) 101 Fed. 797, 42 C. C. A. 30, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 313; Ohio Valley Bank Co. v. Mack (1906) 163 Fed. 155, 89 C. C. A. 605, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 919. A bankrupt's creditor under proper circumstances may be permitted to appeal from an order allowing claims against the bankrupt's estate when the trustee has refused to do so. In re National Pressed Brick Co. (1914) 212 Fed. 878, 129 C. C. A. 398. The circuit court of appeals refused to dismiss an appeal taken by the objecting creditor, instead of by the trustee, where it appeared that the latter had refused to allow the use of his name for the purpose of an appeal, when the time for appealing had so nearly expired that it was impossible to obtain an order requiring him to consent in time, and that the district court had subsequently made an order that the appeal taken should be continued in the name of the trustee in connection with the appealing creditor. McDaniel v. Stroud (1901) 106 Fed. 486, 45 C. C. A. 446, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 685.

10. —— On petition for revision.—Since there must be a "party aggrieved" to sustain a petition for revision, a person who is not a party to the bankruptcy proceedings cannot file such a petition. Alabama & C. R. Co. v. Jones (C. C.) 7 N. B. R. 145, Fed. Cas. No. 127. The appellate court will not review an order or decision at the instance of a petitioner who cannot be in any manner prejudiced by it. In re Shoe & Leather Reporter (1904) 129 Fed. 588, 64 C. C. A. 156, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 248. Nor at the instance of one who no longer has any interest in the particular matter to be determined. In re Baker (1900) 104 Fed. 287, 43 C. C. A. 536, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 778.

Where an order requiring a bankrupt to turn over to his trustee a life insurance policy which he had assigned to another person prior to the adjudication does not purport to affect the rights of the assignee, neither such assignee nor the bankrupt can be heard to complain of it, the former because his rights are not in jeopardy, the latter because his title, whatever it was, passed to the trustee by operation of law. In re Madden (1901) 110 Fed. 348, 49 C. C. A. 83, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 614.

The bankrupt himself may bring a petition for revision, and the fact that he has accepted the benefit of a decision of the referee allowing him certain personal property exemptions, does not preclude him from appealing from so much of the same order as relates to his homestead exemption. In re Letson (1907) 157 Fed. 78, 84 C. C. A. 582, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 506.

Any lien creditor may maintain a petition for revision of the proceedings of the court below. In re Taliafero (C. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 13,736. A judgment creditor who has proved his claim may maintain such petition. Clark v. Pidcock (1904) 129 Fed. 745, 64 C. C. A. 273, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 309.

Where claims adverse or paramount to the rights of the estate in bankruptcy are put forward by attaching or other creditors, the trustee is a proper party to maintain a petition for revision, as the representative of creditors in general. In re Utt (1901) 105 Fed. 754, 45 C. C. A. 32, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 383; In re Glen Iron Works (C. C. 1884) 20 Fed. 674.

A statement by counsel that they are authorized by a corporation to file su a petition, for a review of proceedin in bankruptcy against the corporati and to appear for it in the appell court, will be taken as conclusive e dence of their authority, in the abse of proof to the contrary. Alabama C. R. Co. v. Jones (C. C. 1871) F Cas. No. 126.

11. Practice on appeal.—The pract on an appeal in bankruptcy is govern by substantially the same rules as appeal in equity, except where oth wise directed. Cook Inlet Coal Fie Co. v. Caldwell (1906) 147 Fed. 4 78 C. C. A. 17, 17 Am. Bankr. R 135; First Nat. Bank v. Abbott (190 165 Fed. 852, 91 C. C. A. 538, 21 A Bankr. Rep. 436.

Any party appealing from a judgme or order in bankruptcy affecting rights must comply strictly with t requirements of the act and of the ge eral orders in bankruptcy applicable the case, and in default of such co pliance the appellate court must d miss the attempted appeal. In re Co man (C. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 2,9

Notice and citation and bond are n under the existing bankruptcy act, risdictionally requisite in an app proper, in the sense that notice m issue within the time limited for taki the appeal, though notice is necess in order to perfect the appeal, unl prayed in open court, and the appell court will not proceed to a hearing til citation has been issued and serv In re Quality Shop Co. (1912) 202 F 196, 120 C. C. A. 410; In re T. E. E Co. (1906) 148 Fed. 832, 78 C. C. 522, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 517; Colu bia Iron Works v. National Lead C (1904) 127 Fed. 99, 62 C. C. A. 64 L. R. A. 645, 11 Am. Bankr. R 340; Lockman v. Lang (1904) 132 F 1, 65 C. C. A. 621, 12 Am. Bankr. R 497; Gray v. Grand Forks Mercant Co. (1905) 138 Fed. 344, 70 C. C. 634, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 780; Ruby Atkinson (1899) 93 Fed. 577, 35 C. A. 458; Norcross v. Nave & McCo Mercantile Co. (1900) 101 Fed. 7 42 C. C. A. 29, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 3

Appellants other than the trustee bankruptcy are not exempt from t necessity of giving a proper bond appeal, and unless such bond is fil and is sufficient in form and substan the appeal must be dismissed. In Miller (1904) 13 Okl. 557, 75 P 1128; Hawkins v. Hastings Nat. Ba (C. C. 1870) Fed. Cas. No. 6,245; re Alexander (C. C. 1869) 3 N. B. 29, Fed. Cas. No. 160; Benjamin Hart (D. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 408, F Cas. No. 1,302. But compare In re E. Hill Co. (1906) 148 Fed. 832, 78 C. A. 522, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 5 As to form and sufficiency of bond, s In re Barton's Estate (D. C. 1906) 1 Fed. 540, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 56 Flickinger v. First Nat. Bank (190

Fed. 162, 76 C. C. A. 132, 16 Am. kr. Rep. 678. The bond on appeal t be approved by the judge, and ority to approve it may not be del- ed to the clerk of the court. In re k Diamond Copper Min. Co. (1906) Ariz. 39, 85 Pac. 656.

proceeding for the appointment of eceiver under section 3e (ante, § ') is separate and distinct from a eeding to adjudicate; so that, re an appeal is taken from an order issing the petition, the filing of an al bond does not operate as a su- edeas so as to prolong the receiv- ip, but operates to supersede only order of dismissal. T. E. Hill Co. United States Fidelity & Guaranty (1914) 184 Ill. App. 528, judgment med (1914) 107 N. E. 194, 265 Ill.

. Practice on petition for revision. n application for review under the sory jurisdiction of the circuit court ppeals is made by petition, which ld be addressed to and filed in the er circuit court of appeals. In re iams (D. C. 1901) 105 Fed. 906.

petition may be presented to, and wed by, a judge of the circuit t of appeals, but not by the judge he district court. In re Williams C. 1901) 105 Fed. 906. Compare e Abraham (1899) 93 Fed. 767, 35 C. A. 592, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266. see Meyer Bros. Drug Co. v. in Drug Co. (1905) 136 Fed. 396, C. C. A. 240, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. holding that a petition for revi- will not be dismissed because it not allowed by a judge.

petition for review which fails to e that the error complained of was matter of law" or to assign any ific errors of law, is insufficient. e Witherbee (1913) 202 Fed. 896, C. C. A. 254. It should state spe- ally the question of law which was lved and ruled upon by the district t, and as to which a reversal of its on is sought, and should be ac- panied by a certified copy of so h of the record as will exhibit the ner in which the question arose and determination; and the question of so presented is the only question h will be decided by the appellate t. Steiner v. Marshall (1905) 140 710, 72 C. C. A. 103, 15 Am. kr. Rep. 486; In re Taft (1904) Fed. 511, 66 C. C. A. 385, 13 Am. kr. Rep. 417; Courier-Journal Job ting Co. v. Schaefer-Meyer Brew- Co. (1900) 101 Fed. 699, 41 C. C. 314, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 183; In re er (1900) 104 Fed. 287, 43 C. C. 536, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 778; In re ards (1899) 96 Fed. 935, 37 C. C. 334, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 145; In re aham (1899) 93 Fed. 767, 35 C. C. 592, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 266; Little- v. Delaware & H. Canal Co. (C. 871) 4 N. B. R. 257, Fed. Cas. No. 8,400; In re South Boston Iron Co. (C. C. 1876) Fed. Cas. No. 13,183; In re Sutherland (C. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 13,636; In re Grant (C. C. 1843) Fed. Cas. No. 5,690. The statements in a petition for review, like those in any other pleading, must be taken as true on demurrer, and if sufficient, the decree below will be reversed. Curran v. Munger (C. C. 1871) 6 N. B. R. 33, Fed. Cas. No. 3,487. A stipulation that two petitions to review orders in bankruptcy, with certified copies transmitted by the clerk of the district court, should be printed in one appeal book, is not sufficient to constitute a waiver of any legal objection to the petitions. In re Strobel (C. C. A. 1908) 160 Fed. 916, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 22.

Where petitioners in bankruptcy ask the court of appeals to review restraining and reference orders made by the district court, enjoining the prosecution of suits against the bankrupt in a state court, and referring the claims in suit to a special master for liquidation, they cannot obtain a review of the district court's jurisdiction of the entire bankruptcy proceeding. In re New York Tunnel Co. (1908) 159 Fed. 688, 86 C. C. A. 556, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 25.

Where the response to such a petition is not filed within the time prescribed by the applicable rule of court, the failure of the defendant to deny allegations of fact in such petition will be taken as an admission that they are true. In re Frank (1910) 182 Fed. 794, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 486.

By the terms of the statute, "due notice" is a prerequisite to the exercise of the jurisdiction of the reviewing court. This means that proper and sufficient notice of the petition for review must be served upon the party occupying a position in the controversy adverse to that of the petitioner, or upon his attorney, within a reasonable time. Alabama & C. R. Co. v. Jones (C. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 97, Fed. Cas. No. 126; In re Seebold (1901) 105 Fed. 910, 45 C. C. A. 117, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 358. See In re Sweetser (C. C. A. 1909) 168 Fed. 1018.

There must be something in the nature of an appealable decision to be brought before the reviewing court. An order of the district court setting aside a sale of the bankrupt's property and directing a resale is not reviewable on petition until after the resale has been made and confirmed. Sturgiss v. Corbin (1905) 141 Fed. 1, 72 C. C. A. 179, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 543.

13. Assignment of errors and bill of exceptions.—The rule of the circuit courts of appeals requiring the filing of an assignment of errors in the court below is applicable to appeals taken under the bankruptcy act, such as an appeal from a judgment making or refusing to make an adjudication, granting or denying a discharge, or allowing or rejecting a claim. If, on such an appeal, no assignment of errors is filed, the judgment of the district court will be affirmed. In re Dunning (1899) 94 Fed. 709, 36 C. C. A. 437; Lloyd v. Chapman (1899) 93 Fed. 599, 35 C. C. A. 474; In re Smith (C. C. A. 1913) 203 Fed. 369, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 628. In re Federal Contracting Co. (1914) 212 Fed. 693, 129 C. C. A. 229. And an assignment not conforming to the rule, in failing to point out the errors complained of, is not entitled to be considered, although, where a general assignment is made, the court is not without jurisdiction and may permit an amendment. Flickinger v. First Nat. Bank (1906) 145 Fed. 162, 76 C. C. A. 132, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 678. And where specific questions are raised by the assignment of errors, no others will be reviewed by the appellate court. Buckingham v. Estes (1904) 128 Fed. 584, 63 C. C. A. 20, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 182.

In the case of a petition for revision, as distinguished from an appeal, no formal assignment of errors is necessary. But the petition must set forth clearly and specifically the matter of law, or questions of law, decided by the district court and as to which a reversal of its judgment is desired, so that the issue may be clearly defined before the appellate court, and only such errors of law as are thus plainly presented will be considered on the review. Ross v. Stroh (1908) 165 Fed. 628, 91 C. C. A. 616, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 644; In re Lans (1907) 158 Fed. 610, 85 C. C. A. 432, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 458. But compare Davis v. Crompton (1907) 158 Fed. 735, 85 C. C. A. 633, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 53. See In re Witherbee (C. C. A. 1913) 202 Fed. 896, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 314. But where there is no sufficient specification of legal error, presenting the questions sought to be reviewed, but the evidence is such as to raise a doubt as to the merits of the petitioner's claim, the revisory petition may be dismissed without prejudice to such further proceedings as the district court may consider to be proper. Ross v. Stroh (1908) 165 Fed. 628, 91 C. C. A. 616, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 644.

As a proceeding in bankruptcy is substantially a proceeding in equity, no bill of exceptions is ordinarily necessary. Dodge v. Norlin (1904) 133 Fed. 363, 66 C. C. A. 425, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 176. Formal exceptions to a referee's ruling allowing fees to a bankrupt's attorneys were not essential to a review thereof on appeal. In re Lane Lumber Co. (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 780. A bill of exceptions is necessary in the case of a trial by jury, except where the verdict was taken as merely advisory. In re Neasmith (1906) 147 Fed. 160, 77 C. C. A. 402, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 128.

14. Record on appeal.—The rule the circuit courts of appeals pro ing that "no case will be heard u a complete record, containing in self, and not by reference, all the pers, exhibits, depositions, and ot proceedings which are necessary to hearing in this court, shall be fil (see section 1114, p. 1294, ante) applicable to appeals in bankrup cases. Cook Inlet Coal Fields Co. Caldwell (1906) 147 Fed. 475, 78 C. A. 17, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 135. see Synnott v. Tombstone Con Mines Co. (C. C. A. 1913) 207 F 544. And if the record is not f within the time allowed by law, nor application made for an extension the time, the appeal will be dismi ed. In re Alden Electric Co. (19 123 Fed. 415, 59 C. C. A. 509, 10 A Bankr. Rep. 370. If it does not cle ly set forth facts necessary to a termination of the questions involv it will be remanded to the dist court with directions to have the fa fully reported to it and to pass on same. Devries v. Shanahan (19 122 Fed. 629, 58 C. C. A. 482, 10 A Bankr. Rep. 518.

In bankruptcy appeals, the record quired to be certified and filed is record of the case in the bankrup court. Cook Inlet Coal Fields v. Caldwell (1906) 147 Fed. 475, C. C. A. 17, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1 And in the absence of a stipulation agreement of the parties, the whole the record, in the strict sense of word, must be transmitted to the pellate court. In re A. L. Robertsh Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 2 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 341; Dodge Norlin (1904) 133 Fed. 363, 66 C. A. 425, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 176. the court of bankruptcy from which appeal is taken has no jurisdiction designate what records shall be certif on which the appellate court shall termine the appeal. The parties to appeal may agree as to the contents the appeal record, but if they are u ble to do so, it is the duty of the pellant to file a præcipe with the cl pointing out specifically what recor in his judgment, should be certifi leaving the appellee, if he thinks records certified are insufficient, to s gest a diminution of the record and for a certiorari. In re A. L. Robe shaw Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1905) 135 F 220, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 341. On appeal from an order under subdivisi "a" of this section, the court is not quired to state its findings of fact a conclusions of law. In re Mar (1912) 201 Fed. 31, 119 C. C. A. 3 denying rehearing (1912) 193 Fed. 8 113 C. C. A. 627. A decree of a distr court, disallowing a claim in bankrupt based on written instruments on t ground that they constituted a c tingent liability, cannot be reviewed appeal where the record does not d e the terms, provisions, or condi-s of such instruments. Synnott v. bstone Consol. Mines Co. (C. C.

913) 207 Fed. 544, rehearing denied
C. A. 1913) 208 Fed. 251.

e appellate court will not travel ide the record, nor pass upon quess which it does not raise or which not clearly defined by the facts and included. Buckingham v. Estes
4) 128 Fed. 584, 63 C. C. A. 20,
Am. Bankr. Rep. 171; In re Oak-
Lumber Co. (1909) 174 Fed. 634,
C. C. A. 388, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep.
In re Myer (1907) 14 N. M. 45,
Pac. 246; In re Grant (C. C. 1843)
Cas. No. 5,690. Except in so far may be aided by the presumptions l and proper in such cases. Shaf-
v. Koblegard Co. (1910) 183 Fed.
105 C. C. A. 363, 24 Am. Bankr.
898. Without a special finding or fficient transcript, or showing that rneys had contracted for employ-t in advance of the selection of a tee for the bankrupt, the court of eals could not review an objection n allowance for the attorney's servon that ground. In re Smith
3) 203 Fed. 369, 121 C. C. A. 485.

. —— On petition for revision.—On etition to superintend and revise in ter of law, the rules in some cir-s require that a record shall be filthe same as in case of an appeal.
k Inlet Coal Fields Co. v. Caldwell
06) 147 Fed. 475, 78 C. C. A. 17, 17
Bankr. Rep. 135. And at any rate record brought up must contain a ing of facts, or so far disclose the s as clearly to show the question aw which was raised and passed up-by the district court, and also show ther the particular question sought e reviewed was decided by the dist court as one of fact or of law.
dry v. San Antonio Brewing Ass'n
08) 159 Fed. 700, 86 C. C. A. 568,
Am. Bankr. Rep. 226; Hegner v.
erican Trust & Sav. Bank (1911)
Fed. 599, 109 C. C. A. 429, 26 Am.
kr. Rep. 571; In re Pettingill &
(1905) 137 Fed. 840, 70 C. C. A.
, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 757; In re ton Dry Goods Co. (1903) 125 Fed.
, 60 C. C. A. 118, 11 Am. Bankr.
. 97; In re Throckmorton (1912)
Fed. 656, 116 C. C. A. 348, 28 Am.
kr. Rep. 487; Johansen Bros. Shoe
v. Alles (1912) 197 Fed. 274, 116
C. A. 636, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 299.
want of such findings or statents of the facts cannot be supplied the mere opinion rendered by the rict court in deciding the case. In Boston Dry Goods Co. (1903) 125
l. 226, 60 C. C. A. 118, 11 Am.
kr. Rep. 97; In re Pettingill & Co.
05) 137 Fed. 840, 70 C. C. A. 338,
Am. Bankr. Rep. 757. But still the nion may be looked to for the pure of determining in a general way propositions on which the case was posed of, and especially the questions of law which were passed upon. Samel v. Dodd (1906) 142 Fed. 68, 73 C. C. A. 254, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 163; In re Pettingill & Co. (1905) 137 Fed. 840, 70 C. C. A. 338, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 757.

Where an order appointing a referee in bankruptcy was in the usual form and contained no suggestions that proceedings in the case might be heard by referees in another county, the fact that such suggestion was contained in the court's memorandum did not render it a part of the record, or reviewable on petition to revise. In re Watkinson (1913) 205 Fed. 145, 123 C. C. A. 377.

16. —— Bringing up evidence.—Where questions of fact or of mixed law and fact are sought to be reviewed on an appeal in bankruptcy, the evidence must be brought up. In re Myer (1907) 14 N. M. 45, 89 Pac. 246. Otherwise, it will be presumed that the facts disclosed were sufficient to sustain the decision of the court below, and only such matters of law as are apparent on the face of the record can be considered. In re Baum (1909) 169 Fed. 410, 94 C. C. A. 632, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 295. And see Chestertown Bank v. Walker (C. C. A. 1908) 163 Fed. 510, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 840. If the record does not contain all the evidence, a motion to include additional matter may be granted, reserving the right to determine which party shall ultimately bear the expense thereof. Herman Keck Mfg. Co. v. Lorsch (1910) 179 Fed. 485, 103 C. C. A. 65, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 705. But the failure to incorporate any evidence in the record on an appeal from an adjudication of bankruptcy will not be ground for dismissal where it does not appear from the record that any evidence was taken, but rather that the case was submitted on petition and answer. C. C. Taft Co. v. Century Sav. Bank, 141 Fed. 369, 72 C. C. A. 671, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 594. A court of bankruptcy in a proceeding on its equity side may allow and certify a bill of exceptions nunc pro tunc to bring on the record evidence introduced on a prior hearing. Freed v. Central Trust Co. of Illinois (1914) 215 Fed. 873.

When a referee has certified to the district judge the question presented before him and his decision thereon, with a summary of the evidence relating thereto, and the matter has been heard and determined by the district judge on the record so made, it is that summary, and not the original evidence before the referee, which should be included in the record on appeal to the circuit court of appeals. Cunningham v. German Ins. Bank (1900) 103 Fed. 932, 43 C. C. A. 377, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 192. And see In re French & Holmes (1904) 13 Okl. 549, 75 Pac. 278. It has also been laid down that examiners, masters, referees, and the court taking evidence in bankruptcy in the absence of a jury, should record, and in case of appeal, return, all the evidence, so that, if the appellate court thinks that the evidence rejected should have been received, it may consider it and render a final decree without remanding the suit. But from this rule should be excepted evidence plainly privileged and evidence so clearly irrelevant or immaterial that it would be an abuse of process to compel its production. Missouri-American Electric Co. v. Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. (1908) 165 Fed. 283, 91 C. C. A. 251, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 270; First Nat. Bank v. Abbott (1908) 165 Fed. 852, 91 C. C. A. 538, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 436.

17. Scope of review—Law and facts.—An appeal in bankruptcy (as distinguished from a petition for revision) is subject to the rules governing appeals in equity, and therefore, on such an appeal, the facts as well as the law are before the appellate court, if proper assignments of error have been filed, and it is its duty to review questions of fact as well as of law. Ross v. Stroh (1908) 165 Fed. 628, 91 C. C. A. 616, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 644; Hatch v. Curtin (1907) 154 Fed. 791, 83 C. C. A. 495, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 82; Rush v. Lake (1903) 122 Fed. 561, 58 C. C. A. 447, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 455; Courier-Journal Job Printing Co. v. Schaefer-Meyer Brewing Co. (1900) 101 Fed. 699, 41 C. C. A. 614, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 183; Simonson v. Sinsheimer (1900) 100 Fed. 426, 40 C. C. A. 474, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 824; In re Richards (1899) 96 Fed. 935, 37 C. C. A. 634, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 145. But since the statute explicitly provides that an appeal may be taken from a "judgment adjudging or refusing to adjudge the defendant a bankrupt," such an adjudication may be reviewed on appeal, although only questions of law are presented for the consideration of the appellate court. C. C. Taft Co. v. Century Sav. Bank (1905) 141 Fed. 369, 72 C. C. A. 671, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 594.

On a petition to "superintend and revise in matter of law" the proceedings of a court of bankruptcy, the statute does not contemplate any review of the facts by the appellate court, and only questions of law decided by the court below can be brought up for revision in this mode. Stuart v. Reynolds (1913) 204 Fed. 709, 123 C. C. A. 13; Hall v. Reynolds (1915) 224 Fed. 103, 139 C. C. A. 659; Whitla & Nelson v. Boyd (1914) 213 Fed. 587, 130 C. C. A. 167; In re Donnelly (1911) 187 Fed. 121, 109 C. C. A. 39; In re Stewart (1910) 179 Fed. 222, 102 C. C. A. 348; Ryan v. Hendricks (C. C. A. 1908) 166 Fed. 94, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 570; Ross v. Stroh (1908) 165 Fed. 628, 91 C. C. A. 616, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 644; Lesaius v. Goodman (1908) 165 Fed. 889, 91 C. C. A. 567, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 446; In re Graessler & Reichwald (1907) Fed. 478, 83 C. C. A. 304, 18 Bankr. Rep. 694; In re Throckmor (1906) 149 Fed. 145, 79 C. C. A. 15, Am. Bankr. Rep. 856; Kenova Loa Trust Co. v. Graham (1905) 135 717, 68 C. C. A. 355, 14 Am. Ba Rep. 313; In re Antigo Screen D Co. (1903) 123 Fed. 249, 59 C. C. 248, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 359; Cour Journal Job Printing Co. v. Schae Meyer Brewing Co. (1900) 101 699, 41 C. C. A. 614, 4 Am. Ba Rep. 183; In re Rosser (1900) Fed. 562, 41 C. C. A. 497, 4 Am. Ba Rep. 153; In re Richards (1899) Fed. 935, 37 C. C. A. 634, 3 Bankr. Rep. 145; In re Purvine (18 96 Fed. 192, 37 C. C. A. 446, 2 Bankr. Rep. 787; In re Great West Tel. Co. (C. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 739; In re Salkey (C. C. 1875) 11 B. R. 516, Fed. Cas. No. 12,254; In Zinner (C. C. A. 1912) 202 Fed. 1 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 860; B-R El tric & Telephone Mfg. Co. v. Æ Life Ins. Co. (C. C. A. 1913) 206 885, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 424; Willi son v. Richardson (C. C. A. 1913) Fed. 245, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559; re Witherbee (C. C. A. 1913) 202 896, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 314; In Holden (C. C. A. 1913) 203 Fed. 2 In re J. B. Judkins Co. (C. C. A. 191 205 Fed. 892, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 5

The issue whether an order should made requiring the bankrupt to t over money or property to his trus is purely of a civil character, det minable on a preponderance of e dence, and at least partially depend on the question of fact whether money or property is in the possess or under the control of the bankr and the finding thereon cannot be viewed by the circuit court of appe on a petition for revision in matter law, unless so wholly unsupported the proofs that the court would be j tified, on a writ of error, in setti aside a verdict of a jury for want any evidence whatever to sustain In re Cole (1906) 144 Fed. 392, 75 C. A. 330, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 3 Ellis v. Krulewitch (1905) 141 954, 73 C. C. A. 270, 15 Am. Ba Rep. 615. But the question of whether there was any substantial e dence to sustain an order that a ba rupt turn over assets to the trus could be determined by the appell court on a petition to revise such ord Good v. Kane (C. C. A. 1914) 211 956.

The question whether money depos ed by a bankrupt in a bank in his o name as attorney belonged to him to his wife cannot be reviewed on pe tion to revise, being one of fact. In Donnelly (1911) 187 Fed. 121, 109 C. C. A. 39. And for the same reason revisory jurisdiction does not extend the question whether or not the ba rupt was guilty of fraud in a giv asaction, where, so far as appears n the record, there may have been onflict of testimony as to the facts. re Letson (1907) 157 Fed. 78, 84 C. A. 582, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 506. to the question whether a certain was a reasonable allowance for attorney's fee in a case of volun- bankruptcy. In re Irwin (1909) Fed. 642, 98 C. C. A. 396, 23 Am. kr. Rep. 487. And an allowance the bankruptcy court for services the attorneys for the petitioning ditors in involuntary bankruptcy in- ves questions of fact only, and a ition to revise will be denied. Hall Reynolds (1915) 224 Fed. 103, 139 C. A. 659. The same rule applies to question whether a creditor of the krupt did or did not have reasona- ground to believe his debtor to be olvent at the time he obtained se- ity for his debt. In re Eggert (1900) Fed. 735, 43 C. C. A. 1, 4 Am. nkr. Rep. 449. And to the question ether the lien claimed by a creditor the bankrupt under a trust deed stituted a valid preference under bankruptcy law. Kenova Loan & ust Co. v. Graham (1905) 135 Fed. , 68 C. C. A. 355, 14 Am. Bankr. p. 313. And to the question wheth- or not the court below erred in or- ing a sale of property free from in- nbrances, on the ground that it was vered by a mortgage which left no ity of redemption of value to the es- e. In re Union Trust Co. (1903) Fed. 937, 59 C. C. A. 461.

On petition to revise an order refus- to vacate adjudication, the court ld not consider the evidence, but ld only determine, as matter of law, ether the petitioning creditors had a ht to come in and defend. B-R ectric & Telephone Mfg. Co. v. Ætna e Ins. Co. (1913) 206 Fed. 885, 124 C. A. 545.

8. —— Questions not raised below.

On appeals in bankruptcy the general e obtains that the appellate court l review only those issues and ques- ns which were raised in the court ow and passed on and decided by parties will not be permitted to ge for the first time, on appeal, ob- tions or contentions which they neg- ted to take advantage of in the court ow when they might have done so. re Friedman (C. C. A. 1908) 161 d. 260, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 37; In Bacon (1908) 159 Fed. 424, 86 C. A. 404, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 107; ve v. Export Storage Co. (1906) 143 d. 1, 74 C. C. A. 155, 16 Am. Bankr. p. 171; In re O'Connell (1904) 137 d. 838, 70 C. C. A. 336, 14 Am. nkr. Rep. 237; Buckingham v. Estes 904) 128 Fed. 584, 63 C. C. A. 20, Am. Bankr. Rep. 182; In re Cale 911) 191 Fed. 31, 111 C. C. A. 89. t see In re Cole (C. C. A. 1908) 163 d. 180, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 761.

On appeal from a district court's decree in a controversy arising in bankruptcy proceedings, the only objection as to a want of jurisdiction available to the appellant, when raised for the first time in the court of appeals, is that the district court had no jurisdiction to render the decree appealed from. Knapp v. Milwaukee Trust Co. (1908) 162 Fed. 675, 89 C. C. A. 467, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 671.

A court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction of a suit in behalf of the bankrupt's estate to recover an alleged preference, if the defendant consents; and after a hearing on the merits, without any objection by the defendant on the ground of a want of jurisdiction, he cannot raise that objection for the first time on an appeal. Boonville Nat. Bank v. Blakey (1901) 107 Fed. 891, 47 C. C. A. 43, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 13; In re Canfield (1912) 193 Fed. 934, 113 C. C. A. 562.

On an appeal from an adjudication of bankruptcy, where creditors appeared and contested the adjudication solely on the ground that the occupation of the alleged bankrupt was such as to exempt him from the statute, and they appeal from the decree, they cannot be heard to raise the objection of a want of evidence or of findings as to the alleged act of bankruptcy. Armstrong v. Fernandez (1908) 208 U. S. 324, 28 Sup. Ct. 419, 52 L. Ed. 514, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 746. So, where the capacity of a trustee in bankruptcy to sue, on account of alleged defects in the petition for adjudication and the proofs on which it was based, was not challenged at the trial, the question cannot be raised on appeal. Knapp v. Milwaukee Trust Co. (1908) 162 Fed. 675, 89 C. C. A. 467, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 671. And where it was not objected in the court below that property of a bankrupt ordered to be sold had not been inventoried in the manner required by the statute, the objection will not be considered on a revisory petition. In re Shoe & Leather Reporter (1904) 129 Fed. 588, 64 C. C. A. 156, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 248.

An appeal from an order discharging a bankrupt will be dismissed on the motion of the appellee, when the record does not show that the question of law suggested in the assignment of errors on which the appeal is based was ruled by the court below. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Robinson (1912) 192 Fed. 562, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 784; Vehon v. Ullman (1906) 147 Fed. 694, 78 C. C. A. 82, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 435.

Where a referee passed upon only one of a number of objections filed to the discharge of the bankrupt, which objection he sustained, and his report was confirmed by the district court, an appeal from the order denying the discharge brings only that specific objection before the appellate court for consideration. Shaffer v. Koblegard Co.

(1910) 183 Fed. 71, 105 C. C. A. 363, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 898.

Where creditors appear in opposition to the bankrupt's application for discharge and file their specifications of objection, as provided by the act, objections to the sufficiency of such specifications must be presented to and decided by the district court, and if no objection is there made, no criticism of the specifications will be heard on appeal. Osborne v. Perkins (1901) 112 Fed. 127, 50 C. C. A. 158, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 250; E. H. Godshalk Co. v. Sterling (1904) 129 Fed. 580, 64 C. C. A. 148, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 302.

19. Review of evidence and findings. —On an appeal in bankruptcy (as distinguished from a petition for revision), where the evidence is in the record, it is within the province of the appellate court to review the same and thereupon to scrutinize the correctness of the decisions of the court below on questions of fact or evidence, proper assignments of error having been made. Bernard v. Lea (1913) 210 Fed. 583, 127 C. C. A. 219; In re Neasmith (1906) 147 Fed. 160, 77 C. C. A. 402, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 128; In re Salkey (C. C. 1875) 11 N. B. R. 516, Fed. Cas. No. 12,254; In re Picton (C. C. 1873) 11 N. B. R. 420, Fed. Cas. No. 11,136. On a petition to revise, a decision may not be reviewed where such a review would require a consideration of conflicting evidence, or of evidence, although not conflicting, from which different deductions or conclusions may reasonably be drawn. In re Frank (C. C. A. 1910) 182 Fed. 794, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 486. A petition to revise in matter of law the proceedings of a district court in bankruptcy does not usually bring the prior proceedings of a referee before the circuit court of appeals for review. In re Pettingill & Co. (1905) 137 Fed. 840, 70 C. C. A. 338, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 757. On a proceeding to revise in matter of law an order of the court of bankruptcy, findings of fact cannot be questioned. In re Stearns Salt & Lumber Co. (1915) 225 Fed. 1, 140 C. C. A. 461.

Where the proceedings to be reviewed are had, in the first instance, before a referee, parties who desire a review of the evidence should either have the testimony before the referee taken down stenographically, and by him certified to the judge, or they should specifically point out to the referee the particular evidence which they wish summarized and should ask him to certify specific findings of fact. In re Cohen (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 391, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 439.

Where the evidence is not in the record, the appellate court will presume that it was sufficient to establish the particular facts on which the decision was based. First State Bank v. Haswell (1909) 174 Fed. 209, 98 C. C. A. 217, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 330. The district court is not required to make find ings of fact for the purposes of an ap peal from its decision to the circui court of appeals in a bankruptcy cas In re Meyers (D. C. 1900) 105 Fe 353. 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 4.

Where an application for dischar was heard by the referee, and the cou affirmed his report and ordered the di charge, it will be presumed in suppo of the order that the court investigat objections made thereto and overrul the same on the merits. Kentucky N Bank v. Carley (1904) 127 Fed. 68 62 C. C. A. 412, 12 Am. Bankr. Re 119.

Where the decision complained of w based on the court's opinion of t weight and tendency of conflicting e dence, it will not be reversed on a peal unless some error of law has i tervened, or unless a serious mistake fact is plainly apparent. First N Bank v. Abbott (1908) 165 Fed. 8 91 C. C. A. 538, 21 Am. Bankr. Re 436; In re Sullivan (1904) 14 Okl. 4 78 Pac. 85; In re Straschnow (C. A. 1910) 181 Fed. 337, 24 Am. Ban Rep. 948. A stipulation, between parties in interest before the cou submitting an involuntary bankrupt petition to the court without a ju constitutes the trial judge an arbit tor; and his decision, if supported evidence, will not be disturbed by t appellate court. Ft. Worth Hea Hardware Co. v. Shapleigh Hardwa Co. (1915) 221 Fed. 257, 137 C. C. 110.

On an appeal to the supreme court the United States, where the question one of fact, as, concerning the exi ence of a partnership, the concurri decisions of the two courts below w not be reversed on appeal if the e dence fairly tends to support the Manson v. Williams (1909) 213 U. 453, 29 Sup. Ct. 519, 53 L. Ed. 869, Am. Bankr. Rep. 22.

When it is sought, on appeal to the c cuit court of appeals, to reverse order made by the district court on question of fact, the appellant m very clearly satisfy the appellate co that the decision of the court below w erroneous; it will not be reversed u less plain and manifest error appea or unless plainly contrary to the weig of the evidence. In re Schulman (191 177 Fed. 191, 101 C. C. A. 361, Am. Bankr. Rep. 809; In re No Bros. (1903) 127 Fed. 286, 62 C. C. 218, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 506; Osbor v. Perkins (1901) 112 Fed. 127. C. C. A. 158, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 2 In re D. Levy & Co. (1905) 142 F 442, 73 C. C. A. 558, 15 Am. Ban Rep. 166; Adler v. Jones (1901) 1 Fed. 967, 48 C. C. A. 761, 6 Am. Ban Rep. 245; In re Mooney (C. C. 187 15 N. B. R. 456, Fed. Cas. No. 9,74 In re Dorr (C. C. A. 1912) 196 F 292, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 505.

Findings of fact made by a referee bankruptcy upon the testimony of w

sses examined before him, especially the evidence was conflicting, have ery reasonable presumption in their vor, and (particularly after they have en approved or confirmed by the dis- ct court) will not be disregarded or aside on appeal, unless it very clear- appears that there was error or mis- e on his part, but in the absence of ch plain error, they will be accepted thout review by the appellate court. ge v. Rogers (1909) 211 U. S. 575, Sup. Ct. 159, 53 L. Ed. 332, 21 Am. nkr. Rep. 496; Canner v. Webster pper Co. (C. C. A. 1909) 168 Fed. 9, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 872; Ells- rth v. Lyons (C. C. A. 1910) 181 d. 55; Stephens v. Merchants' Nat. nk (1907) 154 Fed. 341, 83 C. C. A. 9, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 560; John ylon & Co. v. Christiansen Harness g. Co. (1908) 158 Fed. 290, 85 C. C. 522, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 789; South- n Pine Co. v. Savannah Trust Co. 905) 141 Fed. 802, 73 C. C. A. 60, Am. Bankr. Rep. 618; In re Sween- (1909) 168 Fed. 612, 94 C. C. A. , 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 866; In re ponigri (1910) 183 Fed. 307, 105 C. A. 519, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 509; ard v. Buffalo, N. Y. & P. R. Co. . C. 1879) Fed. Cas. No. 12,831; mpkin v. Foley (C. C. A. 1913) 204 d. 372, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 673; lsburg v. Blackford (C. C. A. 1913) 4 Fed. 438, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 320; re Coney Island Lumber Co. (D. C. 12) 199 Fed. 803; In re San Miguel ld Min. Co. (D. C. 1912) 197 Fed. 6, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 901; In re J. ngmann (1912) 197 Fed. 159, 116 C. A. 596; In re Walden Bros. othing Co. (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 315, Am. Bankr. Rep. 80; Epstein v. einfeld (C. C. A. 1914) 210 Fed. 6; Carroll v. Stern (1915) 223 Fed. 3, 139 C. C. A. 253; Deupree v. atson (1914) 216 Fed. 483; In re nnell (1914) 214 Fed. 337, 130 C. C. 645.

Where there are no findings of fact either the referee or the district urt, the court of appeals, lacking the d of the presumption which ordina- y attaches to such findings, must de- rmine the questions of fact for itself on a review of the evidence. Bur- gh v. Foreman (1904) 130 Fed. 13, C. C. A. 381, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 88. On a petition for revision, the ap- llate court will not review findings fact on which the order of the lower urt was based, and the evidence will considered only for the purpose of certaining whether the order com- ained of was wholly unsupported by e evidence. Shea v. Lewis (1913) 206 ed. 877, 124 C. C. A. 537, 30 Am. ankr. Rep. 436; Stuart v. Reynolds C. C. A. 1913) 204 Fed. 709, 29 Am. ankr. Rep. 412.

20. Effect of appeal and stay of pro- ceedings.—Where an appeal has been ly taken and perfected under the bankruptcy act, the district court is thereby deprived of jurisdiction to consider further or act upon any matters involved in the appeal. First Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank (1904) 131 Fed. 430, 65 C. C. A. 414, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 440. Where involuntary petition in bankruptcy proceeding in which receiver was appointed was dismissed, held, that it was within the discretion of the bankruptcy court to continue the receivership pending an appeal to the circuit court of appeals. T. E. Hill Co. v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. (1914) 107 N. E. 194, 265 Ill. 534, affirming judgment (1914) 184 Ill. App. 528. The proceeding is still pending in the court of first instance while the case stands on appeal in the appellate court, and the appeal bond does not operate to stay proceedings, unless a supersedeas is also taken, so that, as to other steps or proceedings in the cause, it is still competent for the court of bankruptcy to act. In re Barton's Estate (D. C. 1906) 144 Fed. 540, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 569; In re Chandler (D. C. 1904) 135 Fed. 893, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 614.

Bond on appeal from order dismissing petition in bankruptcy proceeding held not operative as a supersedeas bond, and the surety was therefore not liable for the damages from the wrongful receivership, which continued pending the appeal. T. E. Hill Co. v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. (1914) 107 N. E. 194, 265 Ill. 534, affirming judgment (1914) 184 Ill. App. 528.

It is within the authority of the circuit court of appeals to order a stay of proceedings pending the appeal, on an application made to the court, not to a judge. In re Ironclad Mfg. Co. (C. C. A. 1911) 190 Fed. 320; In re Oregon Bulletin Co. (C. C. 1875) 14 N. B. R. 394, Fed. Cas. No. 10,560. But it ought not to be granted where it does not appear that the rights of the party applying will be prejudiced or seriously endangered if the proceedings in the court below are allowed to continue in their ordinary course. In re Oregon Bulletin Co. (C. C. 1875) 14 N. B. R. 394, Fed. Cas. No. 10,560.

An appeal from an adjudication of bankruptcy does not stay further proceedings in the case, such as ruling the bankrupt to file his schedules, unless a supersedeas is also taken. In re Brady (D. C. 1908) 169 Fed. 152, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 364.

21. Determination on appeal.—The appeal will be dismissed where the same question has previously been fully determined in another appeal in the same case. In re Kehler (1908) 162 Fed. 674, 89 C. C. A. 466, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 669; Beach v. Macon Grocery Co. (1903) 120 Fed. 736, 57 C. C. A. 150, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 762. Where, pending an appeal in a bankruptcy proceeding, a stipulation was filed for reversal and dismissal, and it appeared that practically there was no unpaid claim, either proved or provable, against the bankrupt's estate which was not represented in the petition, the appeal would be dismissed without determination of the merits. In re Donnelly (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 118, reversing order In re Donnelly (D. C. 1915) 193 Fed. 755. The appeal will be dismissed where the question has become merely academic, as where, pending an appeal from an order dismissing a petition in involuntary bankruptcy, the defendant has been adjudged bankrupt in the district court of another district. In re Sears, Humbert & Co. (1904) 128 Fed. 275, 62 C. C. A. 623. Where, after the denial of a motion to withdraw a petition to revise after submission, petitioner filed consent that the petition be dismissed, the bankrupt's trustees were nevertheless entitled to a decision of the court. In re Witherbee (1913) 202 Fed. 896, 121 C. C. A. 254. The appeal will be dismissed where a person appeals from an order made in summary proceedings requiring him to indorse a liquor license, held by him jointly with the bankrupt, in order that it may be sold, with which order he has nevertheless complied. Fisher v. Cushman (1900) 103 Fed. 860, 43 C. C. A. 381, 51 L. R. A. 292, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 646. But it was held under the former statute that if an order of the district court, removing a trustee in bankruptcy, was right when made, it cannot be reversed on appeal, notwithstanding the only creditors who were competent to move against the trustee have since withdrawn from the proceedings and are no longer in the case. In re Prouty (C. C. 1885) 24 Fed. 554.

If the appellate court proceeds with the appeal, it is not bound to reverse on strictly legal grounds, if satisfied that the facts were correctly found and that no injustice has been done. In re Clark (C. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 2,802. If an adjudication of bankruptcy is supported by a sufficient allegation and proof of an act of bankruptcy, it cannot be set aside on appeal because other acts alleged were neither properly pleaded nor sufficiently proved. In re Lynan (1903) 127 Fed. 123, 62 C. C. A. 123, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 466.

The motion of a bankrupt to dismiss an appeal from a judgment allowing certain exemptions, for want of jurisdiction, may be denied without consideration on the merits, when the bankrupt fails to take a cross appeal. McGahan v. Anderson (1902) 113 Fed. 115, 51 C. C. A. 92, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 641.

In disposing of the appeal, the court of appeals may reverse or modify the judgment of the court below, or r mand the cause with specific instru tions as to the further steps to taken. White v. Thompson (1903) 1 Fed. 868, 56 C. C. A. 398, 9 Am. Banl Rep. 653. And see In re Medina Quar Co. (1912) 197 Fed. 308, 117 C. C. 54. Or, where the rights of the pa ties are perfectly plain, it may iss its own order to a receiver or trust in bankruptcy to perform the du which it decides to be incumbent him. Sprague Canning & Machine Co. v. Fuller (1908) 158 Fed. 588, C. C. A. 46, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1 But where a claimant in bankrupt did not appeal from an order allowi him only a small portion of his clai as filed, he cannot be allowed more the appeal of objecting creditor Spencer v. Lowe (1912) 198 Fed. 96 117 C. C. A. 497, 29 Am. Bankr. Re 876.

Dismissal of appeal from so much order as disallowed general claim, b cause not taken within 10 days, as r quired by subdivision "a" of this se tion held not to require dismissal appeal from so much of the order disallowed a claim of lien. Massach setts Bonding & Ins. Co. v. Kemp (1915) 220 Fed. 847, 136 C. C. A. 59

It is the duty of the district court make such orders or take such actio as may be directed by the mandate the appellate court in sending the ca back. Brown v. Persons (1903) 1 Fed. 212, 58 C. C. A. 658, 10 A Bankr. Rep. 416; Ex parte First Na Bank of Chicago (1907) 207 U. S. 6 28 Sup. Ct. 23, 52 L. Ed. 103, 19 A Bankr. Rep. 542. But, except as directed, it has no further power deal with the judgment or order a pealed from. If reversed, it is annull for all purposes. If affirmed, it mu stand as made. In neither case, h the district court any authority change or modify or amend the jud ment or order or to grant a rehea ing. In re Lesaius (C. C. A. 1910) 1 Fed. 690, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 102; re Lennox (D. C. 1909) 181 Fed. 42 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 922; In re Hu son River Electric Co. (D. C. 191 184 Fed. 970, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 87

On an appeal in a bankruptcy pr ceeding, findings of fact and conclusio of law will not ordinarily be stated the circuit court of appeals, unless n tice is given of an intended appeal the supreme court, or unless they a requested, and in that case the reque should be made at the time of the arg ment. Washington v. Tearney (191 197 Fed. 307, 117 C. C. A. 53, 28 A Bankr. Rep. 633; Lumpkin v. Fol (C. C. A. 1913) 204 Fed. 372, 29 A Bankr. Rep. 673; In re Martin (C. A. 1912) 201 Fed. 31, 29 Am. Bank Rep. 157.

9610. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 26.) Arbitration of controversies.

Arbitration of Controversies.—a The trustee may, pursuant to e direction of the court, submit to arbitration any controversy ising in the settlement of the estate.

b Three arbitrators shall be chosen by mutual consent, or one by e trustee, one by the other party to the controversy, and the ird by the two so chosen, or if they fail to agree in five days after eir appointment the court shall appoint the third arbitrator.

c The written finding of the arbitrators, or a majority of them, as the issues presented, may be filed in court and shall have like rce and effect as the verdict of a jury. (30 Stat. 553.)

Notes of Decisions

Arbitration and award.—The method selecting arbitrators prescribed by s section must be followed. It is an egularity if one of the arbitrators selected by the trustee, one by the ner party, and the third agreed upon the two contending parties. In re cLam (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 922, 3 n. Bankr. Rep. 245.

Under the act of 1867, a disputed im might be submitted to the decision of the register by stipulation, but his judgment was not final, but was subject to review by the court. In re Ford (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 426, Fed. Cas. No. 4,932.

The finding of the arbitrators, when filed in court, has no greater effect than a verdict of a jury, and is subject to be set aside or adjudged upon by the court in like manner as a verdict would be. In re McLam (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 922, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 245.

9611. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 27.) Compromises.

Compromises.—a The trustee may, with the approval of the urt, compromise any controversy arising in the administration the estate upon such terms as he may deem for the best interts of the estate. (30 Stat. 553, 554.)

Notes of Decisions

Compromise and settlement of controversies.—A compromise should not be ected by the trustee without first taining leave of the court, but if the rcumstances are such that the apoval of the court would have been ven if asked, the compromise may be stained if afterwards questioned. icot v. Heyward (1875) 5 S. C. 441. nd see Simmons v. Richards (1902) Tex. Civ. App. 112, 66 S. W. 687.

trustee in bankruptcy has no power give his consent to a decree of a ate court, in a suit to which he is ade defendant, brought for the purse of determining the right and title property scheduled by the bankrupt part of his assets. In re Anderson D. C. 1885) 23 Fed. 482. Leave to mpromise a controversy will be resed where the claim of the trustee n apparently be collected in full if roper measures are taken, or where is secured. In re Furbish (D. C. 1876) ed. Cas. No. 5,159. When the court s been misled into making an order thorizing the compromise of a conoversy by misrepresentations as to e true state of the facts in question, application to have such order vated may be made by any creditor of e estate. In re Hoole (D. C. 1880) 3 ed. 496.

The fact that a proposed compromise s been approved by the creditors asembled in a meeting does not prevent its disapproval by the judge or the referee. In re Heyman (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 207, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 808. No compromise can be made by the creditors or any of them directly with the bankrupt, but any such agreement must have the concurrence of the trustee and the approval of the court. In re Ford (D. C. 1878) 18 N. B. R. 426, Fed. Cas. No. 4,932; In re Anderson (C. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 351.

An order of the bankruptcy court made upon the ex parte application of the trustee, approving the terms of an agreement of compromise, and authorizing the trustee to consummate the same, has no binding effect upon the other party to the proposed compromise. Duff v. Hopkins (D. C. 1887) 33 Fed. 599. But compare Lake v. Dredge (Iowa, 1912) 138 N. W. 869.

Payment under compromise of controversy over stock transferred to bankrupt's wife, and release of claims by wife, held to be returned, where provision of compromise as to withdrawing objections to discharge was not carried out. In re Doyle (C. C. A. 1915) 220 Fed. 434.

The expense and delay of a litigation will not justify a compromise in a case where public interests and the due administration of the bankruptcy law require the settlement of the questions of law involved by the judgment of the court. In re Rowe (D. C. 1878) Fed.

Cas. No. 12,092. Nor where the proposed settlement would result in creating an illegal preference, contrary to the spirit and purpose of the statute. In re Geiselhart (D. C. 1910) 181 Fed. 622, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 318.

A court of bankruptcy is not authorized by this section to confirm a proposed plan for the reorganization of a bankrupt corporation, under which dissenting creditors would be compelled to accept stock in a new corporation in exchange for their claims and submit to the creation of a prior mortgage lien to provide a working capital. In re Northampton Portland Cement Co. (D. C. 1911) 185 Fed. 542, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 565. And see In re Woodend (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 593, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 768.

Stockholders of a bankrupt corporation, at whose instance a suit has been brought by the trustee against officers and directors to recover damages for the alleged wrecking of the corporati are entitled to have an offer of co promise rejected by the bankrupt court, on giving security to protect t estate against any loss consequent u on the failure to realize the amou offered. In re John H. Woodbury D matological Institute (C. C. A. 191 191 Fed. 819, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 4

A compromise may be confirmed whe the interests of all concerned will promoted by a judicious settlement of court, as where a claim against third person for money and prope alleged to belong to the bankrupt contested, and the evidence is confli ing, and it is apparent that if the tr tee could recover at all, it would o be at the end of a long and costly su In re Kranich (D. C. 1909) 174 F 908, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 550. S Matter of Croton Ins. Co. (N. Y. 184 3 Barb. Ch. 642.

§ 9612. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 28.) Designation of new papers.

Designation of Newspapers.—a Courts of bankruptcy shall order designate a newspaper published within their respective te ritorial districts, and in the county in which the bankrupt resid or the major part of his property is situated, in which notices r quired to be published by this Act and orders which the court may rect to be published shall be inserted. Any court may in a particul case, for the convenience of parties in interest, designate son additional newspaper in which notices and orders in such case sh be published. (30 Stat. 554.)

Notes of Decisions

Designation of newspapers for publication of bankruptcy notices.—Where the referee in bankruptcy, pursuant to a rule of the court, designates certain newspapers, approved by the court wherein all notices required under the bankruptcy law shall be published, this amounts to a designation of such papers by the court for each particular notice therein published. Hills v. Alden (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 6,507.

A referee may also, in the exercise of a wise discretion, select additional newspapers, published elsewhere th in the district, for the publication such notices. Thus, where many the creditors of a particular bankru lived in other states, it was held tirely proper for the referee to requ the publication of notices, for that tate, in papers published in those o er states, as well as in the papers d ignated by the court within the distri Ex parte Robinson (C. C. 1876) F Cas. No. 11,933.

§ 9613. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 29.) Offenses.

Offenses.—a A person shall be punished, by imprisonment f a period not to exceed five years, upon conviction of the offense having knowingly and fraudulently appropriated to his own u embezzled, spent, or unlawfully transferred any property or s creted or destroyed any document belonging to a bankrupt esta which came into his charge as trustee.

b A person shall be punished, by imprisonment for a period not exceed two years, upon conviction of the offense of having kno ingly and fraudulently (1) concealed while a bankrupt, or after discharge, from his trustee any of the property belonging to his esta in bankruptcy; or (2) made a false oath or account in, or in relati to, any proceeding in bankruptcy; (3) presented under oath any fal claim for proof against the estate of a bankrupt, or used any su claim in composition personally or by agent, proxy, or attorne or as agent, proxy, or attorney; or (4) received any material amou property from a bankrupt after the filing of the petition, with ent to defeat this Act; or (5) extorted or attempted to extort any ney or property from any person as a consideration for acting forbearing to act in bankruptcy proceedings.

A person shall be punished by fine, not to exceed five hundred lars, and forfeit his office, and the same shall thereupon become ant, upon conviction of the offense of having knowingly (1) acted a referee in a case in which he is directly or indirectly inter- ed; or (2) purchased, while a referee, directly or indirectly, any perty of the estate in bankruptcy of which he is referee; or refused, while a referee or trustee, to permit a reasonable oppor- ity for the inspection of the accounts relating to the affairs of, l the papers and records of, estates in his charge by parties in erest when directed by the court so to do.

A person shall not be prosecuted for any offense arising under s Act unless the indictment is found or the information is filed court within one year after the commission of the offense. (30 t. 554.)

Notes of Decisions

Persons liable.
Concealment of property by bankrupt.
Making false oath or account.
Conspiring with bankrupt.
Aiding and abetting commission of offense.
Indictment or information.
—— Concealment of property.
—— Perjury or false oath in bankruptcy.
—— Conspiracy to conceal assets.
Burden of proof and evidence.
—— Self-criminating evidence.
Limitation of prosecution.

Persons liable.—A bankrupt cor- ation may be guilty of the offense concealing assets, and its president any other officer, though not him- a bankrupt, may be indicted and ished for that offense if he brought ut the concealment or participated rein or conspired with others to ef- it, and it is immaterial that the oration is not or cannot be indict- for the same offense or as one of conspirators. Kaufman v. U. S. 14) 212 Fed. 613, 129 C. C. A. 149; en v. U. S. (1907) 157 Fed. 651, C. C. A. 113, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 8; S. v. Freed (C. C. 1910) 179 Fed. , 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 89. CON- A, Field v. U. S. (1905) 137 Fed. 9 C. C. A. 568, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. ; U. S. v. Lake (D. C. 1904) 129 l. 499, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 270.

Concealment of property by bank- t.—To constitute a criminal con- lment of assets by a bankrupt, such ets must have been concealed from trustee by the bankrupt as such, after his discharge; the assets must e belonged to the estate; and the cealment must have been knowingly l fraudulently made. U. S. v. Rhodes . C. 1913) 212 Fed. 513.

he offense of concealing assets con- s of a continuous concealment dur- the whole course of the bankruptcy ceedings, or after discharge, or un- discovery, and the crime may be iated, but is not necessarily consummated, by the fraudulent omission of property from the schedule. Johnson v. U. S. (1908) 163 Fed. 30, 89 C. C. A. 508, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 724; Kern v. U. S. (1909) 169 Fed. 617, 95 C. C. A. 145, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 223. Compare U. S. v. Clark (C. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 14,806. A mere omission of property from the bankrupt's schedule through mistake or accident is not a fraudulent concealment of it in the sense of this section. In re Scott (D. C. 1880) 11 Fed. 133. But the fact that the bankrupt used a part of the proceeds of property which he had concealed from his trustee in the payment of debts does not negative a fraudulent intent in such concealment. Corenman v. U. S. (1911) 188 Fed. 424, 110 C. C. A. 341. And see U. S. v. Lowenstein (D. C. 1904) 126 Fed. 884, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 134.

Where a bankrupt conceals property prior to the appointment of a trustee, and continues the concealment after such appointment, it is a concealment of property "from his trustee." U. S. v. Rhodes (D. C. 1913) 212 Fed. 513; U. S. v. Goldstein (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 789, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 755.

After a successful concealment of assets has been practiced, and an indictment found against the bankrupt therefor, he cannot purge himself of his criminal liability by filing an amended schedule, setting forth the assets alleged to have been concealed. Such conduct may properly influence the court in determining the measure of punishment after conviction, but does not render the bankrupt any the less guilty of the statutory offense. Kern v. U. S. (1909) 169 Fed. 617, 95 C. C. A. 145, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 223.

Where a state statute makes it a punishable offense, under certain circumstances, for an insolvent debtor to conceal his property, the proper state court is not deprived of jurisdiction to try and punish a person violating the statute by the fact that he afterwards becomes bankrupt and thereupon becomes liable to punishment under the bankruptcy act in respect to the same concealment of property. State v. Thompson (1878) 58 N. H. 270.

3. Making false oath or account.—The provision of this section for the punishment of any person who shall have "made a false oath in, or in relation to, any proceeding in bankruptcy" does not create a new offense, but merely prescribes a different penalty for the crime of perjury when committed in or in relation to bankruptcy proceedings. Wechsler v. U. S. (1907) 158 Fed. 579, 86 C. C. A. 37, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1.

A bankrupt commits this offense if he intentionally, and with a fraudulent purpose, omits from his sworn schedule of assets any material amount of property which should have been included. U. S. v. Nihols (C. C. 1845) Fed. Cas. No. 15,880. But not where he fairly submitted the facts to his counsel, and, acting on advice then received, withheld a certain item from the schedule. U. S. v. Conner (C. C. 1845) Fed. Cas. No. 14,847. And not where the item omitted was of very doubtful value, or where the bankrupt's title to it was doubtful in law. In re Shoemaker (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 12,799.

This provision of the statute applies to any false testimony which may be given by the bankrupt on his examination concerning his property and assets before the referee. U. S. v. Coyle (D. C. 1916) 229 Fed. 256; Wechsler v. U. S. (1907) 158 Fed. 579, 86 C. C. A. 37, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1. Or on his examination before the referee on an investigation of specifications in opposition to his application for discharge. Edelstein v. U. S. (1906) 149 Fed. 636, 79 C. C. A. 328, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 649; In re Kretsch (D. C. 1909) 172 Fed. 523, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 284.

On an examination of a third person in bankruptcy, a false statement that the witness had received currency from the bankrupts for a check for $1,500 given them on the day they began business held sufficiently material to be the subject of a prosecution for perjury. Ulmer v. U. S. (1915) 219 Fed. 641, 134 C. C. A. 127.

Accused in a prosecution for perjury, though having made the same false statement on three occasions and convicted under three counts, held only guilty of one offense, and not subject to successive sentence on each conviction. Id.

4. Conspiring with bankrupt.—Persons may be indicted for conspiring with a bankrupt to commit the acts made criminal by the bankruptcy law, although no one but the bankrupt himself is mentioned in that connection. U. S. v. Bayer (C. C. 1876) Fed. (
No. 14,547.

The offense of conspiring to conce bankrupt's property from his tru may be committed although it is shown that a trustee was ever appo ed, as in a case where, by the carr out of the conspiracy, all the ba rupt's property was removed out the jurisdiction of the court before adjudication in bankruptcy, so that appointment of a trustee would h been a useless formality. Radin v.
S. (1911) 189 Fed. 568, 111 C. C.
6, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 640.

An indictment does not state an fense when it charges that the defe ants, who were not in any manner ficially connected with the bankr corporation, either as directors stockholders, conspired to conceal sets of the corporation from the tr tee in bankruptcy (that is, conspi with each other, but not with the ba rupt or its officers), and in pursua of such conspiracy removed the poration's stock of goods from its pl of business and sold the same and c cealed the proceeds. U. S. v. Waldr
(C. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 524, 26
Bankr. Rep. 677.

5. Aiding and abetting commissio offense.—Concealment of assets f the trustee in bankruptcy is an offe which can be committed only w there is a person in bankruptcy, with his participation, but when i so committed, not only the bankrup punishable, but also any others aid and abet in the concealment. U
v. Young & Holland Co. (C. C. 19
170 Fed. 110, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep.

Where accused was charged with ing and abetting a corporation of wh he was president and manager in c cealing its assets from its trustee bankruptcy, it was not necessary t the corporation be first convicted fore accused could be convicted, un Cr. Code, § 332, making aiders abettors principals. Kaufman v. U
(1914) 212 Fed. 613, 129 C. C. A.

6. Indictment or information.—
offenses enumerated and denounced the bankruptcy act are mere mis meanors, and not "infamous crim within the meaning of the term as u at common law or in the fifth ame ment to the constitution, and theref may be prosecuted by information stead of indictment. U. S. v. Bl
(D. C. 1877) 15 N. B. R. 325, Fed. C
No. 14,609; U. S. v. Reilly (C. C. 18
20 Fed. 46. Compare Mackin v. U.
(1886) 117 U. S. 348, 6 Sup. Ct. 7
29 L. Ed. 909; Ex parte Wilson (18
114 U. S. 417, 5 Sup. Ct. 935, 29 L.
89. In an indictment for an offe against the bankruptcy act, the w
"feloniously" should be omitted, offenses being indictable as misdeme ors. U. S. v. Prescott (D. C. 1870

B. R. 112, Fed. Cas. No. 16,084. an indictment against the presi- t and manager of a bankrupt cor- ation, charging him with knowingly fraudulently aiding and abetting n the concealment of its assets from trustee, held to charge a felony un- subdivision "b" of this section, and Code, §§ 332, 335. Kaufman v. U. (1914) 212 Fed. 613, 129 C. C. A.

he indictment must set forth the ceedings in the court of bankruptcy h such particularity as to show af- atively that an adjudication of kruptcy was made in a case in which court, describing it, had jurisdic- n. U. S. v. Prescott (D. C. 1870) l. Cas. No. 16,084. An indictment ch does not state the name of the rt or the time or place where the ceedings were instituted is not suf- ent. U. S. v. Latorre (C. C. 1871) l. Cas. No. 15,567. But see U. S. Deming (C. C. 1845) Fed. Cas. No. 945, holding an indictment for per- y in a proceeding in bankruptcy icient in alleging the petition as de "to a judge sitting as a bankrupt rt." It is not necessary to set th in detail the petition in bank- tcy on which the adjudication was de, but only to refer to it in such nanner as to show its character and ect. U. S. v. Deming (C. C. 1845) l. Cas. No. 14,945. And as an in- tment need not ordinarily negative exception, the jurisdiction of the rt to make an adjudication in bank- tcy against the corporation in ques- n may be sufficiently alleged without particular averment that it was one the classes of corporations made ject to the bankruptcy law. U. S. Freed (C. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 236, Am. Bankr. Rep. 89. And in fact as been held sufficient simply to al- e that the defendant "was lawfully udged a bankrupt." U. S. v. Crane C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 14,887.

. —— Concealment of property.— e word "conceal" is of plain import, l when coupled in an indictment with words "unlawfully, knowingly, and udulently" clearly excludes uninten- nal acts, as the provisions of the tute relating to this offense set th all the elements of the offense, indictment in the words of the stat- is sufficient, and the particular man- of concealment of the property in estion need not be described in the ictment, as this is a matter of evi- ce and not of pleading. U. S. v. odes (D. C. 1913) 212 Fed. 513; S. v. Comstock (C. C. 1908) 161 l. 644, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 520.

t is necessary to plead the time of the cealment, sufficiently to show that occurred while the defendant was in kruptcy or after his discharge. But nay be laid as of any date when the cealment continues, and hence it is per to charge the commission of the offense as of the date when the bankrupt refused to turn over the property in question to the trustee. U. S. v. Stern (D. C. 1911) 186 Fed. 854, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 110.

The ownership of the property must be alleged. But an averment that the defendant concealed property "which then and there belonged to the estate in bankruptcy" sufficiently alleges the ownership of the property, and is not rendered insufficient or uncertain by the further averment that the property was "then and there the personal property of" the bankrupt, which must be construed in conjunction with the prior averment, or, even if the two averments must be regarded as repugnant, the latter may be rejected as surplusage. U. S. v. Comstock (C. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 644, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 520. So, where the indictment alleged the concealment, some months after the adjudication, of property "all then and there the property of him the said bankrupt," the failure to allege specifically that the property concealed was the property of the bankrupt at the time of the adjudication was a defect of form only, and not of substance. U. S. v. Jackson (C. C. 1880) 2 Fed. 502. And an averment that the bankrupt "unlawfully, knowingly, willfully, and fraudulently" concealed the property carries with it a sufficient averment of his knowledge that such property belonged to his estate in bankruptcy. McNiel v. U. S. (C. C. A. 1907) 150 Fed. 82, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 18.

It is not an essential element of this offense, such as must be averred in the indictment, that the bankrupt at the time of concealing the property knew either the fact that a trustee had been appointed for his estate or the name of the trustee. U. S. v. Comstock (C. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 644, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 520.

Under section 1, subd. 19 (ante, § 9585), and subdivision "b" of this section, counts of an indictment against an individual, merely alleging that, while a corporation was bankrupt, the defendant (an individual) did conceal from the trustee in bankruptcy the proceeds of a sale of the bankrupt's property, etc., but not alleging that he was an officer or agent of the corporation, were demurrable. U. S. v. Rosenstein (D. C. 1914) 211 Fed. 738.

Indictment for concealing property from trustee in bankruptcy, under subdivision "b" of this section, held not demurrable for failure to allege a demand. Meyer v. U. S. (1915) 220 Fed. 822, 136 C. C. A. 432.

8. —— Perjury or false oath in bankruptcy.—An indictment for making a false oath in bankruptcy, by swearing to a schedule of assets known to be false or incomplete, must allege the facts concerning the omission or understatement of assets sufficiently to show the materiality of the false statement, but need not expressly aver that it was material. U. S. v. Lake (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 499, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 270.

The particular property claimed to have been fraudulently and knowingly omitted from the schedule must be described in the indictment, but an allegation that it consisted of "one hundred and fifty thousand dollars in lawful money of the United States" is sufficiently specific. U. S. v. Lake (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 499, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 270. But it will not do to allege that the bankrupt knew that his schedule was false and that he knew that he was the owner of a specified sum of money in addition to what was mentioned in the schedule. It is not the bankrupt's knowledge that is in question in this averment, but the fact itself. Hence the indictment must charge directly that he did have other property than that listed in the schedule. Bartlett v. U. S. (1901) 106 Fed. 884, 46 C. C. A. 19, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 678.

In an indictment for perjury committed in an examination or other proceeding in bankruptcy, if it is founded on the general provision of the federal criminal law as to perjury, it is essential to allege that the false oath was taken "willfully," and the omission of this word is a fatal defect. U. S. v. Lake (D. C. 1904) 129 Fed. 499, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 270. But where the alleged perjury consists in not giving a full and true account of his property by the bankrupt, the items on the schedule need not be set out in the indictment. U. S. v. Chapman (C. C. 1844) Fed. Cas. No. 14,784. And an indictment is sufficient which, after alleging the prior proceedings and that an examination of the bankrupt was held and that he was sworn to make true answers, avers that he attempted to account for a certain item of property, with intent to defraud his creditors, by a fictitious loss. U. S. v. Crane (C. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 14,887.

Indictment charging alleged bankrupt with testifying falsely concerning transfers of money to wife or son held not insufficient for failure to show that his attention was called to a payment which he failed to disclose. U. S. v. Coyle (D. C. 1916) 229 Fed. 256.

An indictment which charges that defendant committed perjury when he swore that his books were burned on a certain day in April, that instead of being burned on that day they were in existence and in his possession as late as November following, and that he knew that he was making a false oath when he swore that they were burned in April, is good and sufficient, the defects, if any, being merely in matter of form not prejudicial to the defendant. Kovoloff v. U. S. (C. C. A. 1912) 202 Fed. 475, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 767.

An indictment for perjury assigned on defendant's testimony in a bankruptcy proceeding, that he received $1,500 in currency from the bankrupts, held not objectionable for failure to charge that he did not receive $1,500 or any substantially similar sum. Ulmer v. U. S. (1915) 219 Fed. 641, 134 C. C. A. 127.

9. —— Conspiracy to conceal assets.—An indictment charging a bankrupt and another with conspiracy to conceal property from the bankrupt's trustee, and also alleging such concealment by the bankrupt, is not bad for duplicity. Steigman v. U. S. (1915) 220 Fed. 63, 135 C. C. A. 631.

Indictment for conspiring to conceal bankrupt's property held not defective for failure to use the words "knowingly and fraudulently," in view of R. S. § 1025, ante, § 1691. Tapack v. U. S. (C. C. A. 1915) 220 Fed. 445.

In an indictment under Cr. Code, § 37, post, § 10201, for conspiracy to conceal property from a trustee in bankruptcy, in violation of subdivision b (1) of this section, an averment that a trustee was appointed is not essential. Steigman v. U. S. (1915) 220 Fed. 63, 135 C. C. A. 631.

Where an indictment for conspiracy to conceal the assets of a bankrupt corporation from its trustee alleged, as the overt act, that defendants removed and sold the bankrupt's stock of goods and concealed the proceeds from the trustee, but did not allege any of the circumstances under which the goods were removed, so as to show that the removal was illegal and not under legal process, it was held insufficient. U. S. v. Waldman (C. C. 1911) 188 Fed. 524, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 677.

10. Burden of proof and evidence.—In a prosecution of a bankrupt for the offense of concealing assets from his trustee, the burden is on the government to establish the defendant's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, and where the charge concerns property which he had previously transferred, he is entitled to the presumption of law that he acted legally and in good faith in conveying it. Chodkowski v. U. S. (1912) 194 Fed. 858, 114 C. C. A. 624, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 62. But if the evidence traces valuable property into the recent possession of the bankrupt, and then shows that he has failed to surrender it or account for it, it is incumbent on him to give a reasonable and credible account of its disappearance or disposition, and the jury will not be bound to accept his bare denial under oath. In re Lasky (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 99, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 729; U. S. v. Stern (D. C. 1911) 186 Fed. 854, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 110; Stern v. U. S. (1912) 193 Fed. 888, 114 C. C. A. 102, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101.

The offense of concealing assets in bankruptcy may be proved by circumstantial evidence. Stern v. U. S. (1912) 193 Fed. 888, 114 C. C. A. 102, 28 Am.

nkr. Rep. 101. In a prosecution for jury committed by defendant in his mination concerning the estate of krupts, evidence of defendant's con- ntial relations with the bankrupts l admissible to show motive. Ul- v. U. S. (1915) 219 Fed. 641, 134 C. A. 127.

is not improper to admit evidence the amount and value of defendant's k in trade a few days prior to the g of the petition in bankruptcy and a short time afterwards. Jacobs J. S. (C. C. A. 1908) 161 Fed. 694, Am. Bankr. Rep. 550. And the stee may testify that he was never rmed by the bankrupt that property nging to him was stored in a par- lar place, the property described he indictment having been found by trustee in that place. Johnson v. S. (1909) 170 Fed. 581, 95 C. C. A. , 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 359. To ve a continuous concealment of perty, it is not necessary to take up h moment of the bankrupt's life le the proceedings lasted, and prove t he did as a means of proving what failed to do. Johnson v. U. S. 08) 163 Fed. 30, 89 C. C. A. 508, Am. Bankr. Rep. 724. It is not essary to prove the concealment of h and every article or sum of mon- et forth in the indictment, but proof the concealment of any part of the perty or money described is suffi- t to sustain a conviction. U. S. v. n (D. C. 1911) 186 Fed. 854, 26 Bankr. Rep. 110. It is not nec- ry to prove that a demand for the ender of the property was made the trustee. U. S. v. Smith (D. C. 4) 13 N. B. R. 61, Fed. Cas. No. 39.

charge against a bankrupt of con- ing property belonging to the es- from his trustee cannot be sus- ed without proof of an adjudication bankruptcy, though the evidence ws a concealment of property from rustee de facto. Gilbertson v. U. (1909) 168 Fed. 672, 94 C. C. A. , 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 32.

a prosecution for false swearing bankruptcy, evidence which not only tradicts defendant's testimony, but far preponderates it as to justify a ing that the latter was not only e, but was given knowingly and dulently, is sufficient to sustain a viction. Kahn v. U. S. (1914) 214 . 54, 130 C. C. A. 494.

alse swearing in bankruptcy is not equal enormity with perjury, and is within the common-law rule that, to tain a conviction of perjury, it must proved by two witnesses, or one ness and corroborating circumstanc- Id.

n indictment for perjury which al- es that the accused gave false tes- ony before the referee in bankrupt- is sustained by evidence that the ring at which the accused testified was had in the referee's office, that the referee administered the oath to the accused as a witness, and personally conducted part of the examination, while the rest was conducted by counsel, that all the testimony was taken by a stenographer, and that the referee was at all times in the same room, or in an adjacent or adjoining room, in the absence of anything to show that the referee was not within the hearing of the examination at all times, as against the objection that the perjury was not committed before the referee in person, based on the statement of the stenographer, deduced from signs in her notes, that the referee was out of the room part of the time, but without any independent recollection on her part that such was the case. Kovoloff v. U. S. (1912) 202 Fed. 475, 120 C. C. A. 605, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 767.

In a prosecution of the president and manager of a bankrupt corporation for aiding and abetting it in the concealment of assets from its trustee, the fact that there was no evidence that defendant was holding the money for the bankrupt did not impair the government's case. Kaufman v. U. S. (1914) 212 Fed. 613, 129 C. C. A. 149.

11. —— Self-criminating evidence.—The provision of Bankruptcy Act, § 7 (ante, § 9591), with reference to the examination of the bankrupt, that no testimony given by him shall be offered in evidence against him in any criminal proceeding, does not render bankrupts immune from prosecutions for perjury committed on their examination. U. S. v. Coyle (D. C. 1916) 229 Fed. 256; Wechsler v. U. S. (1907) 158 Fed. 579, 86 C. C. A. 37, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1. Nor from a prosecution for testifying falsely in a proceeding to investigate the truth of specifications filed in opposition to the bankrupt's application for discharge. Edelstein v. U. S. (1906) 149 Fed. 636, 79 C. C. A. 328, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 649.

The protection afforded to the bankrupt by Bankruptcy Act, § 7 (ante, § 9591), providing for the examination of bankrupts and that "no testimony given by him shall be offered in evidence against him in any criminal proceeding," extends only to the testimony given by the bankrupt on his examination under that section, and does not render inadmissible, on a criminal prosecution, the schedules filed by him in the bankruptcy proceedings. Ensign v. Pennsylvania (1913) 227 U. S. 592, 33 Sup. Ct. 321, 57 L. Ed. 658.

On trial for conspiring to conceal bankrupt's assets, schedules held not excluded by any statute. U. S. v. Green (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 973.

12. Limitation of prosecution.—Where all of a bankrupt's acts in reference to property alleged to have been concealed from his trustee occurred at a time more than 12 months prior to the finding of the indictment, the offense of concealment could not be regarded as a continuing one, and the bankrupt having done nothing during the 12-months period except to remain passive and silent, a prosecution was barred by the limitation prescribed by this section. Warren v. U. S. (1912) 199 Fed. 753, 118 C. C. A. 191, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555.

§ 9614. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 30.) Rules, forms, and orders.

Rules, Forms, and Orders.—a All necessary rules, forms, and orders as to procedure and for carrying this Act into force and effect shall be prescribed, and may be amended from time to time, by the Supreme Court of the United States. (30 Stat. 554.)

GENERAL ORDERS AND FORMS IN BANKRUPTCY.*

ADOPTED AND ESTABLISHED BY THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES NOVEMBER 28, 1898.

GENERAL ORDERS IN BANKRUPTCY, 1898.

In pursuance of the powers conferred by the constitution and laws upon the supreme court of the United States, and particularly by the act of congress approved July 1, 1898, entitled "An act to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States," it is ordered, on this 28th day of November, 1898, that the following rules be adopted and established as general orders in bankruptcy, to take effect on the first Monday, being the second day, of January, 1899. And it is further ordered that all proceedings in bankruptcy had before that day, in accordance with the act last aforesaid, and being in substantial conformity either with the provisions of these general orders, or else with the general orders established by this court under the bankrupt act of 1867 and with any general rules or special orders of the courts in bankruptcy, stand good, subject, however, to such further regulation by rule or order of those courts as may be necessary or proper to carry into force and effect the bankrupt act of 1898 and the general orders of this court.

Notes of Decisions

Rules of practice and forms in general.—The rules and forms prescribed by the Supreme Court of the United States under and by virtue of the Bankruptcy Act for its administration have the force and effect of law. In re Gerber (1911) 186 Fed. 693, 108 C. C. A. 511, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 608. In case of inconsistency or disagreement between the statute and a rule or general order so made, the statute must prevail and the rule or order give way. In re Baker (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 954, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101. The general orders and forms in bankruptcy adopted and established by the Supreme Court have the force and effect of law. Sabin v. Blake-McFall Co. (1915) 223 Fed. 501, 139 C. C. A. 49.

The practice in proceedings in bankruptcy, when not controlled by the statute and the rules of the Supreme Court, must be prescribed by the district courts sitting in bankruptcy. In re Kerosene Oil Co. (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 7,725.

When a rule made by a district court in bankruptcy is in conflict with one of the official forms prescribed by the Supreme Court, the rule is void and must give way. In re Johnson (D. C. 1908) 158 Fed. 342, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 814.

Bankruptcy rules of circuit courts of appeals.—These rules are printed in the notes to § 1114, ante.

I.

DOCKET.

The clerk shall keep a docket, in which the cases shall be entered and numbered in the order in which they are commenced. It shall

*Rules of Circuit Court of Appeals in matters of bankruptcy are set forth in Vol. 2, pages 1346 to 1355, inclusive.

ntain a memorandum of the filing of the petition and of the action the court thereon, of the reference of the case to the referee, and the transmission by him to the clerk of his certified record of the oceedings, with the dates thereof, and a memorandum of all proceedgs in the case except those duly entered on the referee's certified cord aforesaid. The docket shall be arranged in a manner convenient r reference, and shall at all times be open to public inspection.

Notes of Decisions

Necessary entries to be made in docket.—See note 4 under § 9635, post.

II.

FILING OF PAPERS.

The clerk or the referee shall indorse on each paper filed with him e day and hour of filing, and a brief statement of its character.

III.

PROCESS.

All process, summons and subpœnas shall issue out of the court, der the seal thereof, and be tested by the clerk; and blanks, with e signature of the clerk and seal of the court, may, upon application, furnished to the referees.

IV.

CONDUCT OF PROCEEDINGS.

Proceedings in bankruptcy may be conducted by the bankrupt in rson in his own behalf, or by a petitioning or opposing creditor; but creditor will only be allowed to manage before the court his individl interest. Every party may appear and conduct the proceedings by torney, who shall be an attorney or counsellor authorized to practice the circuit or district court. The name of the attorney or counsellor, th his place of business, shall be entered upon the docket, with the te of the entry. All papers or proceedings offered by an attorney to filed shall be indorsed as above required, and orders granted on otion shall contain the name of the party or attorney making the otion. Notices and orders which are not, by the act or by these genal orders, required to be served on the party personally may be served on his attorney.

V.

FRAME OF PETITIONS.

All petitions and the schedules filed therewith shall be printed or ritten out plainly, without abbreviation or interlineation, except where ch abbreviation and interlineation may be for the purpose of referce.

VI.

PETITIONS IN DIFFERENT DISTRICTS.

In case two or more petitions shall be filed against the same individl in different districts, the first hearing shall be had in the district in hich the debtor has his domicil, and the petition may be amended by serting an allegation of an act of bankruptcy committed at an earlier te than that first alleged, if such earlier act is charged in either of e other petitions; and in case of two or more petitions against the me partnership in different courts, each having jurisdiction over the case, the petition first filed shall be first heard, and may be amended by the insertion of an allegation of an earlier act of bankruptcy than that first alleged, if such earlier act is charged in either of the other petitions; and, in either case, the proceedings upon the other petitions may be stayed until an adjudication is made upon the petition first heard; and the court which makes the first adjudication of bankruptcy shall retain jurisdiction over all proceedings therein until the same shall be closed. In case two or more petitions shall be filed in different districts by different members of the same partnership for an adjudication of the bankruptcy of said partnership, the court in which the petition is first filed, having jurisdiction, shall take and retain jurisdiction over all proceedings in such bankruptcy until the same shall be closed; and if such petitions shall be filed in the same district, action shall be first had upon the one first filed. But the court so retaining jurisdiction shall, if satisfied that it is for the greatest convenience of parties in interest that another of said courts should proceed with the cases, order them to be transferred to that court.

Notes of Decisions

Retention of jurisdiction—Transfer.—See note under § 9616, post.

"Individual."—See note under § 9616, post.

What constitutes "district of domicile."—See note under § 9616, post.

Involuntary petition in one district and voluntary petition in another.—See note under § 9616, post.

VII.

PRIORITY OF PETITIONS.

Whenever two or more petitions shall be filed by creditors against a common debtor, alleging separate acts of bankruptcy committed by said debtor on different days within four months prior to the filing of said petitions, and the debtor shall appear and show cause against an adjudication of bankruptcy against him on the petitions, that petition shall be first heard and tried which alleges the commission of the earliest act of bankruptcy; and in case the several acts of bankruptcy are alleged in the different petitions to have been committed on the same day, the court before which the same are pending may order them to be consolidated, and proceed to a hearing as upon one petition; and if an adjudication of bankruptcy be made upon either petition, or for the commission of a single act of bankruptcy, it shall not be necessary to proceed to a hearing upon the remaining petitions, unless proceedings be taken by the debtor for the purpose of causing such adjudication to be annulled or vacated.

VIII.

PROCEEDINGS IN PARTNERSHIP CASES.

Any member of a partnership, who refuses to join in a petition to have the partnership declared bankrupt, shall be entitled to resist the prayer of the petition in the same manner as if the petition had been filed by a creditor of the partnership, and notice of the filing of the petition shall be given to him in the same manner as provided by law and by these rules in the case of a debtor petitioned against; and he shall have the right to appear at the time fixed by the court for the hearing of the petition, and to make proof, if he can, that the partnership is not insolvent or has not committed an act of bankruptcy, and to make all defences which any debtor proceeded against is entitled to take by the provisions of the act; and in case an adjudication of bankruptcy is made upon the petition, such partner shall be required to file a schedule of his debts and an inventory of his property in the same nner as is required by the act in cases of debtors against whom ad-ication of bankruptcy shall be made.

Notes of Decisions

Duty of partner not adjudged bankrupt to file schedule.—See note 4 under § 9591, ante.

IX.

SCHEDULE IN INVOLUNTARY BANKRUPTCY.

n all cases of involuntary bankruptcy in which the bankrupt is abt or can not be found, it shall be the duty of the petitioning creditor file, within five days after the date of the adjudication, a schedule ing the names and places of residence of all the creditors of the krupt, according to the best information of the petitioning creditor.
the debtor is found, and is served with notice to furnish a schedule his creditors and fails to do so, the petitioning creditor may apply an attachment against the debtor, or may himself furnish such edule as aforesaid.

X.

INDEMNITY FOR EXPENSES.

Before incurring any expense in publishing or mailing notices, or travelling, or in procuring the attendance of witnesses, or in peruating testimony, the clerk, marshal or referee may require, from bankrupt or other person in whose behalf the duty is to be per-med, indemnity for such expense. Money advanced for this purse by the bankrupt or other person shall be repaid him out of the ate as part of the cost of administering the same.

Notes of Decisions

lling fees of clerk.—See note 1 un-§ 9635, post.

xpenses of claimants on re-examination of labor claims.—See note 37 under § 9641, post.

Expense of stenographer.—See note 31 under § 9586, ante.

XI.

AMENDMENTS.

The court may allow amendments to the petition and schedules on plication of the petitioner. Amendments shall be printed or written, ned and verified, like original petitions and schedules. If amend-nts are made to separate schedules, the same must be made sepaely, with proper references. In the application for leave to amend, e petitioner shall state the cause of the error in the paper originally d.

Notes of Decisions

ower to allow amendments irrespec-e of this order.—See note 15, § 9602, te.

Effect of amendments to petition and defects curable by amendment.—See note 15 et seq., § 9602, ante.

Correction of schedule.—See note 11 under § 9591, ante.

XII.

DUTIES OF REFEREE.

1. The order referring a case to a referee shall name a day upon hich the bankrupt shall attend before the referee; and from that day e bankrupt shall be subject to the orders of the court in all matters lating to his bankruptcy, and may receive from the referee a protec-n against arrest, to continue until the final adjudication on his application for a discharge, unless suspended or vacated by order of the court. A copy of the order shall forthwith be sent by mail to the referee, or be delivered to him personally by the clerk or other officer of the court. And thereafter all the proceedings, except such as are required by the act or by these general orders to be had before the judge, shall be had before the referee.

2. The time when and the place where the referees shall act upon the matters arising under the several cases referred to them shall be fixed by special order of the judge, or by the referee; and at such times and places the referees may perform the duties which they are empowered by the act to perform.

3. Applications for a discharge, or for the approval of a composition, or for an injunction to stay proceedings of a court or officer of the United States or of a state, shall be heard and decided by the judge. But he may refer such an application, or any specified issue arising thereon, to the referee to ascertain and report the facts.

Notes of Decisions

Filing exceptions to master's report.—See note 56 under § 9598, ante.

XIII.

APPOINTMENT AND REMOVAL OF TRUSTEE.

The appointment of a trustee by the creditors shall be subject to be approved or disapproved by the referee or by the judge; and he shall be removable by the judge only.

Notes of Decisions

Power of referee to remove trustee.—See note 2 under § 9630, post.

Disapproval of trustee selected.—See note 10 under § 9628, post.

XIV.

NO OFFICIAL OR GENERAL TRUSTEE.

No official trustee shall be appointed by the court, nor any general trustee to act in classes of cases.

XV.

TRUSTEE NOT APPOINTED IN CERTAIN CASES.

If the schedule of a voluntary bankrupt discloses no assets, and if no creditor appears at the first meeting, the court may, by order setting out the facts, direct that no trustee be appointed; but at any time thereafter a trustee may be appointed, if the court shall deem it desirable. If no trustee is appointed as aforesaid, the court may order that no meeting of the creditors other than the first meeting shall be called.

Notes of Decisions

Direction of court.—See note 4 under § 9628, post.

XVI.

NOTICE TO TRUSTEE OF HIS APPOINTMENT.

It shall be the duty of the referee, immediately upon the appointment and approval of the trustee, to notify him in person or by mail of his appointment; and the notice shall require the trustee forthwith to notify the referee of his acceptance or rejection of the trust, and shall contain a statement of the penal sum of the trustee's bond.

XVII.

DUTIES OF TRUSTEE.

The trustee shall, immediately upon entering upon his duties, prepare a complete inventory of all the property of the bankrupt that comes into his possession. The trustee shall make report to the court, within twenty days after receiving the notice of his appointment, of the articles set off to the bankrupt by him, according to the provisions of the forty-seventh section of the act, with the estimated value of each article, and any creditor may take exceptions to the determination of the trustee within twenty days after the filing of the report. The referee may require the exceptions to be argued before him, and shall certify them to the court for final determination at the request of either party. In case the trustee shall neglect to file any report or statement which it is made his duty to file or make by the act, or by any general order in bankruptcy, within five days after the same shall be due, it shall be the duty of the referee to make an order requiring the trustee to show cause before the judge, at a time specified in the order, why he should not be removed from office. The referee shall cause a copy of the order to be served upon the trustee at least seven days before the time fixed for the hearing, and proof of the service thereof to be delivered to the clerk. All accounts of trustees shall be referred as of course to the referee for audit, unless otherwise specially ordered by the court.

Notes of Decisions

Specification of items—Appraisal.—See note 24 under § 9590, ante.

Assignment of exemption right.—See note 24 under § 9590, ante.

XVIII.

SALE OF PROPERTY.

1. All sales shall be by public auction unless otherwise ordered by the court.

2. Upon application to the court, and for good cause shown, the trustee may be authorized to sell any specified portion of the bankrupt's estate at private sale; in which case he shall keep an accurate account of each article sold, and the price received therefor, and to whom sold; which account he shall file at once with the referee.

3. Upon petition by a bankrupt, creditor, receiver or trustee, setting forth that a part or the whole of the bankrupt's estate is perishable, the nature and location of such perishable estate, and that there will be loss if the same is not sold immediately, the court, if satisfied of the facts stated and that the sale is required in the interest of the estate, may order the same to be sold, with or without notice to the creditors, and the proceeds to be deposited in court.

Notes of Decisions

"Perishable property."—See note 29 under § 9586, ante.

XIX.

ACCOUNTS OF MARSHAL.

The marshal shall make return, under oath, of his actual and necessary expenses in the service of every warrant addressed to him, and for custody of property, and other services, and other actual and necessary expenses paid by him, with vouchers therefor whenever practicable, and also with a statement that the amounts charged by him are just and reasonable.

XX.

PAPERS FILED AFTER REFERENCE.

Proofs of claims and other papers filed subsequently to the reference, except such as call for action by the judge, may be filed either with the referee or with the clerk.

XXI.

PROOF OF DEBTS.

1. Depositions to prove claims against a bankrupt's estate shall be correctly entitled in the court and in the cause. When made to prove a debt due to a partnership, it must appear on oath that the deponent is a member of the partnership; when made by an agent, the reason the deposition is not made by the claimant in person must be stated; and when made to prove a debt due to a corporation, the deposition shall be made by the treasurer, or, if the corporation has no treasurer, by the officer whose duties most nearly correspond to those of treasurer; if the treasurer or corresponding officer is not within the district wherein the bankruptcy proceedings are pending, the deposition may be made by some officer or agent of the corporation having knowledge of the facts. Depositions to prove debts existing in open account shall state when the debt became or will become due; and if it consists of items maturing at different dates the average due date shall be stated, in default of which it shall not be necessary to compute interest upon it. All such depositions shall contain an averment that no note has been received for such account, nor any judgment rendered thereon. Proofs of debt received by any trustee shall be delivered to the referee to whom the cause is referred. [As amended and promulgated November 1, 1915.]

2. Any creditor may file with the referee a request that all notices to which he may be entitled shall be addressed to him at any place, to be designated by the post-office box or street number, as he may appoint; and thereafter, and until some other designation shall be made by such creditor, all notices shall be so addressed; and in other cases notices shall be addressed as specified in the proof of debt.

3. Claims which have been assigned before proof shall be supported by a deposition of the owner at the time of the commencement of proceedings, setting forth the true consideration of the debt and that it is entirely unsecured, or if secured, the security, as is required in proving secured claims. Upon the filing of satisfactory proof of the assignment of a claim proved and entered on the referee's docket, the referee shall immediately give notice by mail to the original claimant of the filing of such proof of assignment; and, if no objection be entered within ten days, or within further time allowed by the referee, he shall make an order subrogating the assignee to the original claimant. If objection be made, he shall proceed to hear and determine the matter.

4. The claims of persons contingently liable for the bankrupt may be proved in the name of the creditor when known by the party contingently liable. When the name of the creditor is unknown, such claim may be proved in the name of the party contingently liable; but no dividend shall be paid upon such claim, except upon satisfactory proof that it will diminish pro tanto the original debt.

5. The execution of any letter of attorney to represent a creditor, or of an assignment of claim after proof, may be proved or acknowledged before a referee, or a United States commissioner, or a notary public. When executed on behalf of a partnership or of a corporation, the person executing the instrument shall make oath that he is a member of the partnership, or a duly authorized officer of the corporation on whose behalf he acts. When the person executing is not personally known to the officer taking the proof or acknowledgment, his identity shall be established by satisfactory proof.

6. When the trustee or any creditor shall desire the re-examination of any claim filed against the bankrupt's estate, he may apply by petition to the referee to whom the case is referred for an order for such re-examination, and thereupon the referee shall make an order fixing a time for hearing the petition, of which due notice shall be given by mail addressed to the creditor. At the time appointed the referee shall take the examination of the creditor, and of any witnesses that may be called by either party, and if it shall appear from such examination that the claim ought to be expunged or diminished, the referee may order accordingly.

Notes of Decisions

Time of making proof.—See note 4 under § 9641, post.

XXII.

TAKING OF TESTIMONY.

The examination of witnesses before the referee may be conducted by the party in person or by his counsel or attorney, and the witnesses shall be subject to examination and cross-examination, which shall be had in conformity with the mode now adopted in courts of law. A deposition taken upon an examination before a referee shall be taken down in writing by him, or under his direction, in the form of narrative, unless he determines that the examination shall be by question and answer. When completed it shall be read over to the witness and signed by him in the presence of the referee. The referee shall note upon the deposition any question objected to, with his decision thereon; and the court shall have power to deal with the costs of incompetent, immaterial, or irrelevant depositions, or parts of them, as may be just.

XXIII.

ORDERS OF REFEREE.

In all orders made by a referee, it shall be recited, according as the fact may be, that notice was given and the manner thereof; or that the order was made by consent; or that no adverse interest was represented at the hearing; or that the order was made after hearing adverse interests.

XXIV.

TRANSMISSION OF PROVED CLAIMS TO CLERK.

The referee shall forthwith transmit to the clerk a list of the claims proved against an estate, with the names and addresses of the proving creditors.

XXV.

SPECIAL MEETING OF CREDITORS.

Whenever, by reason of a vacancy in the office of trustee, or for any other cause, it becomes necessary to call a special meeting of the creditors in order to carry out the purposes of the act, the court may call such a meeting, specifying in the notice the purpose for which it is called.

XXVI.

ACCOUNTS OF REFEREE.

Every referee shall keep an accurate account of his travelling and incidental expenses, and of those of any clerk or other officer attending him in the performance of his duties in any case which may be referred to him; and shall make return of the same under oath to the judge, with proper vouchers when vouchers can be procured, on the first Tuesday in each month.

XXVII.

REVIEW BY JUDGE.

When a bankrupt, creditor, trustee, or other person shall desire a review by the judge of any order made by the referee, he shall file with the referee his petition therefor, setting out the error complained of; and the referee shall forthwith certify to the judge the question presented, a summary of the evidence relating thereto, and the finding and order of the referee thereon.

Notes of Decisions

Sufficiency of certification.—See note 15 under § 9622, post.

Mode of review prescribed as exclusive.—See note 11 under § 9622, post.

XXVIII.

REDEMPTION OF PROPERTY AND COMPOUNDING OF CLAIMS.

Whenever it may be deemed for the benefit of the estate of a bankrupt to redeem and discharge any mortgage or other pledge, or deposit or lien, upon any property, real or personal, or to relieve said property from any conditional contract, and to tender performance of the conditions thereof, or to compound and settle any debts or other claims due or belonging to the estate of the bankrupt, the trustee, or the bankrupt, or any creditor who has proved his debt, may file his petition therefor; and thereupon the court shall appoint a suitable time and place for the hearing thereof, notice of which shall be given as the court shall direct, so that all creditors and other persons interested may appear and show cause, if any they have, why an order should not be passed by the court upon the petition authorizing such act on the part of the trustee.

XXIX.

PAYMENT OF MONEYS DEPOSITED.

No moneys deposited as required by the act shall be drawn from the depository unless by check or warrant, signed by the clerk of the court, or by a trustee, and countersigned by the judge of the court, or by a referee designated for that purpose, or by the clerk or his assistant under an order made by the judge, stating the date, the sum, and the account for which it is drawn; and an entry of the substance of such check or warrant, with the date thereof, the sum drawn for, and the account for which it is drawn, shall be forthwith made in a book kept for that purpose by the trustee or his clerk; and all checks and drafts shall be entered in the order of time in which they are drawn, and shall be numbered in the case of each estate. A copy of this general order shall be furnished to the depository, and also the name of any referee or clerk authorized to countersign said checks.

Notes of Decisions

Deposit and disbursement of funds by trustee.—See note 17 under § 9631, post.

XXX.

IMPRISONED DEBTOR.

If, at the time of preferring his petition, the debtor shall be imprisoned, the court, upon application, may order him to be produced upon habeas corpus, by the jailor or any officer in whose custody he may be, before the referee, for the purpose of testifying in any matter relating to his bankruptcy; and, if committed after the filing of his petition upon process in any civil action founded upon a claim provable in bankruptcy, the court may, upon like application, discharge him from such imprisonment. If the petitioner, during the pendency of the proceedings in bankruptcy, be arrested or imprisoned upon process in any civil action, the district court, upon his application, may issue a writ of habeas corpus to bring him before the court to ascertain whether such process has been issued for the collection of any claim provable in bankruptcy, and if so provable he shall be discharged; if not, he shall be remanded to the custody in which he may lawfully be. Before granting the order for discharge the court shall cause notice to be served upon the creditor or his attorney, so as to give him an opportunity of appearing and being heard before the granting of the order.

Notes of Decisions

Construction with section 9 of bankruptcy act.—See note 2 under § 9593, ante.

XXXI.

PETITION FOR DISCHARGE.

The petition of a bankrupt for a discharge shall state concisely, in accordance with the provisions of the act and the orders of the court, the proceedings in the case and the acts of the bankrupt.

XXXII.

OPPOSITION TO DISCHARGE OR COMPOSITION.

A creditor opposing the application of a bankrupt for his discharge, or for the confirmation of a composition, shall enter his appearance in opposition thereto on the day when the creditors are required to show cause, and shall file a specification in writing of the grounds of his opposition within ten days thereafter, unless the time shall be enlarged by special order of the judge.

Notes of Decisions

Restricting creditor to hour of day appointed.—See note 41 under § 9598, ante.

XXXIII.

ARBITRATION.

Whenever a trustee shall make application to the court for authority to submit a controversy arising in the settlement of a demand against a bankrupt's estate, or for a debt due to it, to the determination of arbitrators, or for authority to compound and settle such controversy by agreement with the other party, the application shall clearly and distinctly set forth the subject-matter of the controversy, and the reasons why the trustee thinks it proper and most for the interest of the estate that the controversy should be settled by arbitration or otherwise.

XXXIV.

COSTS IN CONTESTED ADJUDICATIONS.

In cases of involuntary bankruptcy, when the debtor resists an adjudication, and the court, after hearing, adjudges the debtor a bankrupt, the petitioning creditor shall recover, and be paid out of the estate, the same costs that are allowed to a party recovering in a suit in equity; and if the petition is dismissed, the debtor shall recover like costs against the petitioner.

Notes of Decisions

Amount and items of cost.—See note 31 under § 9586, ante.

Resistance of adjudication by debtor.—See notes 30 and 37 under § 9586, ante.

XXXV.

COMPENSATION OF CLERKS, REFEREES, AND TRUSTEES.

1. The fees allowed by the act to clerks shall be in full compensation for all services performed by them in regard to filing petitions or other papers required by the act to be filed with them, or in certifying or delivering papers or copies of records to referees or other officers, or in receiving or paying out money; but shall not include copies furnished to other persons, or expenses necessarily incurred in publishing or mailing notices or other papers.

2. The compensation of referees, prescribed by the act, shall be in full compensation for all services performed by them under the act, or under these general orders; but shall not include expenses necessarily incurred by them in publishing or mailing notices, in travelling, or in perpetuating testimony, or other expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties under the act and allowed by special order of the judge.

3. The compensation allowed to trustees by the act shall be in full compensation for the services performed by them; but shall not include expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties and allowed upon the settlement of their accounts.

4. In any case in which the fees of the clerk, referee and trustee are not required by the act to be paid by a debtor before filing his petition to be adjudged a bankrupt, the judge, at any time during the pendency of the proceedings in bankruptcy, may order those fees to be paid out of the estate; or may, after notice to the bankrupt, and satisfactory proof that he then has or can obtain the money with which to pay those fees, order him to pay them within a time specified, and, if he fails to do so, may order his petition to be dismissed. He may also, pending such proceedings, both in voluntary and involuntary cases, order the commissions of referees and trustees to be paid immediately after such commissions accrue and are earned. [Last sentence promulgated December 11, 1905.]

Notes of Decisions

Fees of clerks for copies of petition and notice of application for discharge.—See note 1 under § 9636, post.

Duties of clerks—Deposit of filing fees.—See note 1 under § 9635, post.

Per diem for services of referee when away from home.—See note under § 9624, post.

XXXVI.

APPEALS.

1. Appeals from a court of bankruptcy to a circuit court of appeals, or to the supreme court of a territory, shall be allowed by a judge of the court appealed from or of the court appealed to, and shall be regulated, except as otherwise provided in the act, by the rules governing appeals in equity in the courts of the United States.

2. Appeals under the act to the supreme court of the United States from a circuit court of appeals, or from the supreme court of a territory, or from the supreme court of the District of Columbia, or from any court of bankruptcy whatever, shall be taken within thirty days after the judgment or decree, and shall be allowed by a judge of the court appealed from, or by a justice of the supreme court of the United States.

3. In every case in which either party is entitled by the act to take an appeal to the supreme court of the United States, the court from which the appeal lies shall, at or before the time of entering its judgment or decree, make and file a finding of the facts, and its conclusions of law thereon, stated separately; and the record transmitted to the supreme court of the United States on such an appeal shall consist only of the pleadings, the judgment or decree, the finding of facts, and the conclusions of law.

Notes of Decisions

Compliance with order.—See note 11 under § 9609, ante.

Application alone to appeals taken under bankruptcy act.—See note 5 under § 9608, ante.

Application to writ of error from supreme court to determine question of jurisdiction.—See note 6 under § 9609, ante.

Action by court sua sponte in allowance of appeal.—See note 5 under § 9608, ante.

Separate findings of fact and conclusions of law.—See note 5 under § 9608, ante.

Findings made part of record by order nunc pro tunc.—See note 6 under § 9609, ante.

XXXVII.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

In proceedings in equity, instituted for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of the act, or for enforcing the rights and remedies given by it, the rules of equity practice established by the supreme court of the United States shall be followed as nearly as may be. In proceedings at law, instituted for the same purpose, the practice and procedure in cases at law shall be followed as nearly as may be. But the judge may, by special order in any case, vary the time allowed for return of process, for appearance and pleading, and for taking testimony and publication, and may otherwise modify the rules for the preparation of any particular case so as to facilitate a speedy hearing.

Notes of Decisions

Application to summary proceedings to compel bankrupt to turn over property to trustee.—See note 14 under § 9591, ante.

Filing exceptions to master's report.—See note 56 under § 9598, ante.

XXXVIII.

FORMS.

The several forms annexed to these general orders shall be observed and used, with such alterations as may be necessary to suit the circumstances of any particular case.

Notes of Decisions

Observance of forms.—The simple forms of bankruptcy practice found in the general orders and forms prescribed by the Supreme Court should be followed, and there should be no unnecessary departures by falling into a habit of using the more costly, prolix, and less suitable forms of special pleadings and procedure used in chancery cases. W. A. Gage & Co. v. Bell (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 371, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 696. Importance and necessity of closely following provisions of bankruptcy act and prescribed forms and methods of procedure in preparing papers stated. Sabin v. Blake-McFall Co. (1915) 223 Fed. 501, 139 C. C. A. 49.

FORMS IN BANKRUPTCY

[N. B.—Oaths required by the act, except upon hearings in court, may be administered by referees and by officers authorized to administer oaths in proceedings before the courts of the United States, or under the laws of the state where the same are to be taken. Bankrupt Act of 1898, c. 4, § 20, ante, § 9604.]

[Form No. 1.]

Debtor's Petition.

To the Honorable ————,
Judge of the District Court of the United States
for the —— District of ——:

The petition of ————, of ——, in the county of ——, and district and state of ——, —— [state occupation], respectfully represents:

That he has had his principal place of business [or has resided, or has had his domicile] for the greater portion of six months next immediately preceding the filing of this petition at ——, within said judicial district; that he owes debts which he is unable to pay in full; that he is willing to surrender all his property for the benefit of his creditors except such as is exempt by law, and desires to obtain the benefit of the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy.

That the schedule hereto annexed, marked A, and verified by your petitioner's oath, contains a full and true statement of all his debts, and (so far as it is possible to ascertain) the names and places of residence of his creditors, and such further statements concerning said debts as are required by the provisions of said acts:

That the schedule hereto annexed, marked B, and verified by your petitioner's oath, contains an accurate inventory of all his property, both real and personal, and such further statements concerning said property as are required by the provisions of said acts:

Wherefore your petitioner prays that he may be adjudged by the court to be a bankrupt within the purview of said acts.

————,

————, Attorney.

United States of America, District of ——, ss:

I, ————, the petitioning debtor mentioned and described in the foregoing petition, do hereby make solemn oath that the statements contained therein are true according to the best of my knowledge, information, and belief.

————, Petitioner.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————,

————,
[Official character.]

Notes of Decisions

Form to be used in proceedings against a partnership.—See note 2 under § 9602, ante.
Averments on information and belief.—See note 6 under § 9602, ante.
Variance from the official form.—See note 2 under § 9602, ante.

SCHEDULE A.—STATEMENT OF ALL DEBTS OF BANKRUPT.

Schedule A. (1)

Statement of All Creditors Who are to be Paid in Full, or to Whom Priority is Secured by Law.

Claims which have priority.	Reference to ledger or voucher.	Names of creditors.	Residence (if unknown, that fact must be stated).	Where and when contracted.	Nature and consideration of the debt, and whether contracted as partner or joint contractor; and if so, with whom.	Amount.
(1.) Taxes and debts due and owing to the United States.						$	c.
(2.) Taxes due and owing to the state of ——, or to any county, district, or municipality thereof.
(3.) Wages due workmen, clerks, or servants, to an amount not exceeding $300 each, earned within three months before filing the petition.
(4.) Other debts having priority by law.
					Total.....

——————, Petitioner.

(11395)

Schedule A. (2)

Creditors Holding Securities.

[N. B.—Particulars of securities held, with dates of same, and when they were given, to be stated under the names of the several creditors, and also particulars concerning each debt, as required by acts of congress relating to bankruptcy, and whether contracted as partner or joint contractor with any other person; and if so, with whom.]

Reference to ledger or voucher.	Names of creditors.	Residences (if unknown, that fact must be stated).	Description of securities.	When and where debts were contracted.	Value of securities.		Amount of debts.
					$	c.	$	c.
				Total.....

_____, Petitioner.

Schedule A. (3)

Creditors Whose Claims are Unsecured.

[N. B.—When the name and residence (or either) of any drawer, maker, indorser, or holder of any bill or note, etc., are unknown, the fact must be stated, and also the name and residence of the last holder known to the debtor. The debt due to each creditor must be stated in full, and any claim by way of set-off stated in the schedule of property.]

Reference to ledger or voucher.	Names of creditors.	Residence (if unknown, that fact must be stated).	When and where contracted.	Nature and consideration of the debt, and whether any judgment, bond, bill of exchange, promissory note, etc., and whether contracted as partner or joint contractor with any other person; and, if so, with whom.	Amount.
					$	c.
				Total

_____, Petitioner.

Schedule A. (4)

Liabilities on Notes or Bills Discounted Which ought to be Paid by the Drawers, Makers, Acceptors, or Indorsers.

[N. B.—The dates of the notes or bills, and when due, with the names, residences, and the business or occupation of the drawers, makers, or acceptors thereof, are to be set forth under the names of the holders. If the names of the holders are not known, the name of the last holder known to the debtor shall be stated, and his business and place of residence. The same particulars as to notes or bills on which the debtor is liable as indorser.]

Reference to ledger or voucher.	Names of holders as far as known.	Residence (if unknown, that fact must be stated).	Place where contracted.	Nature of liability, whether same was contracted as partner or joint contractor, or with any other person; and, if so, with whom.	Amount.
					$	c.
				Total

_____, Petitioner.

Schedule A. (5)

Accommodation Paper.

[N. B.—The dates of the notes or bills, and when due, with the names and residences of the drawers, makers, and acceptors thereof, are to be set forth under the names of the holders; if the bankrupt be liable as drawer, maker, acceptor, or indorser thereof, it is to be stated accordingly. If the names of the holders are not known, the name of the last holder known to the debtor should be stated, with his residence. Same particulars as to other commercial paper.]

Reference to ledger or voucher.	Names of holders.	Residences (if unknown that fact must be stated).	Names and residence of persons accommodated.	Place where contracted.	Whether liability was contracted as partner or joint contractor, or with any other person; and, if so, with whom.	Amount.
						$	c.
					Total.....

_____, Petitioner.

Oath to Schedule A.

United States of America, District of _____ ss:

On this _____ day of _____, A. D. 18—, before me personally came _____, the person mentioned in and who subscribed to the foregoing schedule, and who, being by me first duly sworn, did declare the said schedule to be a statement of all his debts, in accordance with the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this _____ day of _____, A. D. 18—.

_____,
[Official character.]

SCHEDULE B.—STATEMENT OF ALL PROPERTY OF BANKRUPT.

Schedule B. (1)

Real Estate.

Location and description of all real estate owned by debtor, or held by him.	Incumbrances thereon, if any, and dates thereof.	Statement of particulars relating thereto.	Estimated value.
			$	c.
		Total.....

———, Petitioner.

Schedule B. (2)

Personal Property.

a.—Cash on hand.....		$	c.
b.—Bills of exchange, promissory notes, or securities of any description (each to be set out separately) c.—Stock in trade, in —— business of ——, at ——, of the value of —— d.—Household goods and furniture, household stores, wearing apparel and ornaments of the person, viz.
e.—Books, prints, and pictures, viz.....
f.—Horses, cows, sheep, and other animals (with number of each), viz.....
g.—Carriages and other vehicles, viz.....
h.—Farming stock and implements of husbandry, viz.
i.—Shipping, and shares in vessels, viz.....
k.—Machinery, fixtures, apparatus, and tools used in business, with the place where each is situated, viz.
l.—Patents, copyrights, and trade-marks, viz.....
m.—Goods or personal property of any other description, with the place where each is situated, viz..
	Total.....

———, Petitioner.

Schedule B. (3)

Choses in Action.

		Dollars.	Cents.
a.—Debts due petitioner on open account.....
b.—Stocks in incorporated companies, interest in joint stock companies, and negotiable bonds....
c.—Policies of insurance.....
d.—Unliquidated claims of every nature, with their estimated value
e.—Deposits of money in banking institutions and elsewhere Total.....

———, Petitioner.

Schedule B. (4)

Property in Reversion, Remainder, or Expectancy, Including Property Held in Trust for the Debtor or Subject to Any Power or Right to Dispose of or to Charge.

[N. B.—A particular description of each interest must be entered. If all or any of the debtor's property has been conveyed by deed of assignment or otherwise, for the benefit of creditors, the date of such deed should be stated, the name and address of the person to whom the property was conveyed, the amount realized from the proceeds thereof, and the disposal of the same, as far as known to the debtor.]

General interest.	Particular description.	Supposed value of my interest.
		$.	c.
Interest in land.....
Personal property
Property in money, stock, shares, bonds, annuities, etc.
Rights and powers, legacies and bequests.....	Total.....
Property Heretofore Conveyed for Benefit of Creditors.		Amount realized from proceeds of property conveyed.
		$	c.
What portion of debtor's property has been conveyed by deed of assignment, or otherwise, for benefit of creditors; date of such deed, name and address of party to whom conveyed; amount realized therefrom, and disposal of same, so far as known to debtor
What sum or sums have been paid to counsel, and to whom, for services rendered or to be rendered in this bankruptcy	Total.....

———, Petitioner.

Schedule B. (5)

A Particular Statement of the Property Claimed as Exempted from the Operation of the Acts of Congress Relating to Bankruptcy, Giving Each Item of Property and Its Valuation; and, if Any Portion of It is Real Estate, Its Location, Description, and Present Use.

		Valuation.
		$	c.
Military uniform, arms, and equipments.....
Property claimed to be exempted by state laws; its valuation; whether real or personal; its description and present use; and reference given to the statute of the state creating the exemption.....
	Total.....

———, Petitioner.

Schedule B. (6)

Books, Papers, Deeds, and Writings Relating to Bankrupt's Business and Estate.

The following is a true list of all books, papers, deeds, and writings relating to my trade, business, dealings, estate, and effects, or any part thereof, which, at the date of this petition, are in my possession or under my custody and control, or which are in the possession or custody of any person in trust for me, or for my use, benefit, or advantage; and also of all others which have been heretofore, at any time, in my possession, or under my custody or control, and which are now held by the parties whose names are hereinafter set forth, with the reason for their custody of the same.

Books.
Deeds.
Papers.

———, Petitioner.

Oath to Schedule B.

United States of America, District of ——, ss:

On this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, before me personally came ———, the person mentioned in and who subscribed to the foregoing schedule, and who, being by me first duly sworn, did declare the said schedule to be a statement of all his estate, both real and personal, in accordance with the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy.

———,

———,

[Official character.]

(11400)

Summary of Debts and Assets.

[From the Statements of the Bankrupt in Schedules A and B.]

Schedule A.....	1 (1)	Taxes and debts due United States.....
" ".....	1 (2)	Taxes due states, counties, districts, and municipalities.
" ".....	1 (3)	Wages.....
" ".....	1 (4)	Other debts preferred by law.....
Schedule A.....	2	Secured claims.....
Schedule A.....	3	Unsecured claims.....
Schedule A.....	4	Notes and bills which ought to be paid by other parties thereto.
Schedule A.....	5	Accommodation paper.....
		Schedule A, total.....
Schedule B.....	1	Real estate
Schedule B.....	2-a	Cash on hand.....
" ".....	2-b	Bills, promissory notes, and securities
" ".....	2-c	Stock in trade.....
" ".....	2-d	Household goods, &c.....
" ".....	2-e	Books, prints, and pictures.....
" ".....	2-f	Horses, cows, and other animals.....
" ".....	2-g	Carriages and other vehicles.....
" ".....	2-h	Farming stock and implements.....
" ".....	2-i	Shipping and shares in vessels.....
" ".....	2-k	Machinery, tools, &c.....
" ".....	2-l	Patents, copyrights, and trade-marks.
" ".....	2-m	Other personal property.....
Schedule B.....	3-a	Debts due on open accounts.....
" ".....	3-b	Stocks, negotiable bonds, &c.....
" ".....	3-c	Policies of insurance.....
" ".....	3-d	Unliquidated claims.....
" ".....	3-e	Deposits of money in banks and elsewhere.....
Schedule B.....	4	Property in reversion, remainder, trust, &c.....
Schedule B.....	5	Property claimed to be excepted.....
Schedule B.....	6	Books, deeds, and papers.....
		Schedule B, total.....

[Form No. 2.]

Partnership Petition.

To the Honorable ————,
Judge of the District Court of the United States
for the —— District of ——:

The petition of ———— respectfully represents:

That your petitioners and ———— have been partners under the firm name of ————, having their principal place of business at ——, in the county of ——, and district and state of ——, for the greater portion of the six months next immediately preceding the filing of this petition; that the said partners owe debts which they are unable to pay in full; that your petitioners are willing to surrender all their property for the benefit of their creditors, except such as is exempt by law, and desire to obtain the benefit of the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy.

That the schedule hereto annexed, marked A, and verified by —— oath, contains a full and true statement of all the debts of said partners, and, as far as possible, the names and places of residence of their creditors, and such further statements concerning said debts as are required by the provisions of said acts.

That the schedule hereto annexed, marked B, verified by —— oath, contains an accurate inventory of all the property, real and personal, of said partners, and such further statements concerning said property as are required by the provisions of said acts.

And said ———— further states that the schedule hereto annexed, marked C, verified by his oath, contains a full and true statement of all his individual debts, and, as far as possible, the names and places of residence of his creditors, and such further statements concerning said debts as are required by the provisions of said acts; and that the schedule hereto annexed, marked D, verified by his oath, contains an accurate inventory of all his individual property, real and personal, and such further statements concerning said property as are required by the provisions of said acts.

And said ———— further states that the schedule hereto annexed, marked E, verified by his oath, contains a full and true statement of all his individual debts, and, as far as possible, the names and places of residence of his creditors, and such further statements concerning said debts as are required by the provisions of said acts; and that the schedule hereto annexed, marked F, verified by his oath, contains an accurate inventory of all his individual property, real and personal, and such further statements concerning said property as are required by the provisions of said acts.

And said ———— further states that the schedule hereto annexed, marked G, verified by his oath, contains a full and true statement of all his individual debts, and, as far as possible, the names and places of residence of his creditors, and such further statements concerning said debts as are required by the provisions of said acts; and that the schedule hereto annexed, marked H, verified by his oath, contains an accurate inventory of all his individual property, real and personal, and such further statements concerning said property as are required by the provisions of said acts.

And said ———— further states that the schedule hereto annexed, marked J., verified by his oath, contains a full and true statement of all his individual debts, and, as far as possible, the names and places of residence of his creditors, and such further statements concerning said debts as are required by the provisions of said acts, and that the schedule hereto annexed, marked K, verified by his oath, contains an accurate inventory of all his individual property, real and personal, and such further statements concerning said property as are required by the provisions of said acts.

Wherefore your petitioners pray that the said firm may be adjudged by a decree of the court to be bankrupts within the purview of said acts.

————,
————,
————,
Petitioners.

————, Attorney.

————, the petitioning debtors mentioned and described in the foregoing petition, do hereby make solemn oath that the statements contained therein are true according to the best of their knowledge, information, and belief.

————,
————,
————.
Petitioners.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————,
[Official character.]
————.

[Schedules to be annexed corresponding with schedules under Form No. 1.]

[Form No. 3.]

Creditors' Petition.

To the Honorable ————, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——:

The petition of ————, of ——, and ————, of ——, and ————, of ——, respectfully shows:

That ————, of ——, has for the greater portion of six months next preceding the date of filing this petition, had his principal place of business, [or resided, or had his domicil] at ——, in the county of —— and state and district aforesaid, and owes debts to the amount of $1,000.

That your petitioners are creditors of said ————, having provable claims amounting in the aggregate, in excess of securities held by them, to the sum of $500. That the nature and amount of your petitioners' claims are as follows: _____

_____

And your petitioners further represent that said ———— is insolvent, and that within four months next preceding the date of this petition, the said ———— committed an act of bankruptcy, in that he did heretofore, to wit, on the —— day of _____

_____

Wherefore your petitioners pray that service of this petition, with a subpœna, may be made upon ————, as provided in the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy, and that he may be adjudged by the court to be a bankrupt within the purview of said acts.

———,
———,
———,
Petitioners.

———, Attorney.

United States of America, District of ——, ss:

———, ———, ———, being three of the petitioners above named, do hereby make solemn oath that the statements contained in the foregoing petition, subscribed by them, are true.

Before me, ———, this —— day of ——, 189—.

———,
———.
(Official character.)

[Schedules to be annexed corresponding with schedules under Form No. 1.]

[Form No. 4.]

Order to Show Cause upon Creditors' Petition.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ——— ——— ———	In Bankruptcy.

Upon consideration of the petition of ——— that ——— be declared a bankrupt, it is ordered that the said ——— do appear at this court, as a court of bankruptcy, to be holden at ——, in the district aforesaid, on the —— day of ——, at — o'clock in the —— noon, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted; and

It is further ordered that a copy of said petition, together with a writ of subpœna, be served on said ———, by delivering the same to him personally or by leaving the same at his last usual place of abode in said district, at least five days before the day aforesaid.

Witness the honorable ———, judge of the said court, and the seal thereof, at ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

{Seal of the Court.}
———,
Clerk.

[Form No. 5.]

Subpœna to Alleged Bankrupt.

United States of America, —— District of ——.

To ———, in Said District, Greeting:

For certain causes offered before the district court of the United States of America within and for the —— district of ——, as a court of bankruptcy, we command and strictly enjoin you, laying all other matters aside and notwithstanding any excuse, that you personally appear before our said district court to be holden at ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, ——— to answer to a petition filed by ——— in our said court, praying that you may be adjudged a bankrupt; and to do further and receive that which our said district court shall consider in this behalf. And this you are in no wise to omit, under the pains and penalties of what may befall thereon.

Witness the Honorable ———, judge of said court, and the seal thereof, at ——, this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

{Seal of the Court.}
———,
Clerk.

[Form No. 6.]

Denial of Bankruptcy.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————————— ———————————— ———————————— deeds, books of account, and papers, and to hold and keep the same safely subject to the further order of the court.

Witness the Honorable ————, judge of the said court, and the seal thereof, at ——, in said district, on the —— of ——, A. D. 189—.

{ Seal of the Court. } ————, Clerk.

Return by Marshal Thereon.

By virtue of the within warrant, I have taken possession of the estate of the within-named ————, and of all his deeds, books of account, and papers which have come to my knowledge.

————, Marshal [or Deputy Marshal].

Fees and Expenses.

1. Service of warrant.....
2. Necessary travel, at the rate of six cents a mile each way.....
3. Actual expenses in custody of property and other services as follows.....
[Here state the particulars.]

————, Marshal [or Deputy Marshal].

District of ——, A. D. 18—

Personally appeared before me the said ————, and made oath that the above expenses returned by him have been actually incurred and paid by him, and are just and reasonable.

————, Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 9.]

Bond of Petitioning Creditor.

Know all men by these presents. That we, ————, as principal, and ————, as sureties, are held and firmly bound unto ————, in the full and just sum of —— dollars, to be paid to the said ————, executors, administrators, or assigns, to which payment, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, our heirs, executors, and administrators, jointly and severally, by these presents.

Signed and sealed this —— day of —— A. D. 189—.

The condition of this obligation is such that whereas a petition in bankruptcy has been filed in the district court of the United States for the —— district of —— against the said ——, and the said —— has applied to that court for a warrant to the marshal of said district directing him to seize and hold the property of said ————, subject to the further orders of said district court.

Now, therefore, if such a warrant shall issue for the seizure of said property, and if the said ———— shall indemnify the said ———— for such damages as he shall sustain in the event such seizure shall prove to have been wrongfully obtained, then the above obligation to be void; otherwise to remain in full force and virtue.

Sealed and delivered in presence of ———— [Seal.]
———— ———— [Seal.]
———— ———— [Seal.]

Approved this —— day of ——, A. D., 189—.

————, District Judge.

[Form No. 10.]

Bond to Marshal.

Know all men by these presents: That we, ————, as principal, and ————, as sureties, are held and firmly bound unto ————, marshal of the United States for the —— district of ——, in the full and just sum of —— dollars, to be paid to the said ————, his executors, administrators, or assigns, to which payment, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, our heirs, executors, and administrators, jointly and severally, by these presents.

Signed and sealed this —— day of ——, A. D. 189–.

The condition of this obligation is such that whereas a petition in bankruptcy has been filed in the district court of the United States for the —— district of ——, against the said ————, and the said court has issued a warrant to the marshal of the United States for said district, directing him to seize and hold property of the said ————, subject to the further order of the court, and the said property has been seized by said marshal as directed, and the said district court upon a petition of said ———— has ordered the said property to be released to him.

Now, therefore, if the said property shall be released accordingly to the said ————, and the said ————, being adjudged a bankrupt, shall turn over said property or pay the value thereof in money to the trustee, then the above obligation to be void; otherwise to remain in full force and virtue.

Sealed and delivered in the presence of ———— [Seal.]
———— ———— [Seal.]
———— ———— [Seal.]

Approved this —— day of ——, A. D. 189–.

————,
District Judge.

[Form No. 11.]

Adjudication that Debtor is not Bankrupt.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————————— ———————————— ————————————

[Form No. 12.]

Adjudication of Bankruptcy.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, before the Honorable ————, judge of said court in bankruptcy, the petition of ———— that ———— be adjudged a bankrupt, within the true intent and meaning of the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy, having been heard and duly considered, the said ———— is hereby declared and adjudged bankrupt accordingly.

Witness the Honorable ————, judge of said court, and the seal thereof, at ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

{Seal of the Court.} ————, Clerk.

[Form No. 13.]

Appointment, Oath, and Report of Appraisers.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

It is ordered that ————, of ——, ———— of ——, and ————, of ——, three disinterested persons, be, and they are hereby, appointed appraisers to appraise the real and personal property belonging to the estate of the said bankrupt set out in the schedules now on file in this court, and report their appraisal to the court, said appraisal to be made as soon as may be, and the appraisers to be duly sworn.

Witness my hand this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————, Referee in Bankruptcy.

—— District of ——, ss:

Personally appeared the within-named ———— and severally made oath that they will fully and fairly appraise the aforesaid real and personal property according to their best skill and judgment.

————.
————.
————.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

————, [Official character.]

We, the undersigned, having been notified that we were appointed to estimate and appraise the real and personal property aforesaid, have attended to the duties assigned us, and after a strict examination and careful inquiry, we do estimate and appraise the same as follows:

	Dollars.	Cents.

In witness whereof we hereunto set our hands, at ——, this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

———.
———.
———.

[Form No. 14.]

Order of Reference.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ——— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

Whereas ————, of ——, in the county of —— and district aforesaid, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, was duly adjudged a bankrupt upon a petition filed in this court by [or, against] him on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, according to the provisions of the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy,

It is thereupon ordered, that said matter be referred to ————, one of the referees in bankruptcy of this court, to take such further proceedings therein as are required by said acts; and that the said ———— shall attend before said referee on the —— day of —— at ——, and thenceforth shall submit to such orders as may be made by said referee or by this court relating to said —— bankruptcy.

Witness the Honorable ————, judge of the said court, and the seal thereof, at ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

{ Seal of the Court. } ———, Clerk.

[Form No. 15.]

Order of Reference in Judge's Absence.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ——— .	In Bankruptcy.

Whereas on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, a petition was filed to have ————, of ——, in the county of —— and district aforesaid, adjudged a bankrupt according to the provisions of the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy; and whereas the judge of said court was absent from said district at the time of filing said petition [or, in case of involuntary bankruptcy, on the next day after the last day on which pleadings might have been filed, and none have been filed by the bankrupt or any of his creditors], it is thereupon ordered that the said matter be referred to ————, one of the referees in bankruptcy of this court, to consider said petition and take such proceedings therein as are required by said acts; and that the said ———— shall attend before said referee on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, at ——.

Witness my hand and the seal of the said court, at ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

{ Seal of the Court. } ————,
Clerk.

[Form No. 16.]

Referee's Oath of Office.

I, ————, do solemnly swear that I will administer justice without respect to persons, and do equal right to the poor and to the rich, and that I will faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent on me as referee in bankruptcy, according to the best of my abilities and understanding, agreeably to the constitution and laws of the United States. So help me God.

————.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————,
District Judge.

[Form No. 17.]

Bond of Referee.

Know all men by these presents: That we ———— of —— as principal, and ———— of —— and ———— of ——, as sureties are held and firmly bound to the United States of America in the sum of —— dollars, lawful money of the United States, to be paid to the said United States, for the payment of which, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, our heirs, executors, and administrators, jointly and severally, by these presents.

Signed and sealed this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

The condition of this obligation is such that whereas the said ————, has been on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, appointed by the Honorable ————, judge of the district court of the United States for the —— district of ——, a referee in bankruptcy, in and for the county of ——, in said district, under the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy.

Now, therefore, if the said ———— shall well and faithfully discharge and perform all the duties pertaining to the said office of referee in bankruptcy, then this obligation to be void; otherwise to remain in full force and virtue.

Signed and sealed in the presence of

————, [L. S.]
————, [L. S.]
————, [L. S.]

Approved this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

————,
District Judge.

[Form No. 18.]

Notice of First Meeting of Creditors.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.
In Bankruptcy.

In the Matter of ———— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

To the creditors of ————, of ——, in the county of ——, and district aforesaid, a bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, the said ———— was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of his creditors will be held at —— in ——, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, at —— o'clock in the —— noon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

———,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

———, 18—.

[Form No. 19.]

List of Debts Proved at First Meeting.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ——— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, before ———, referee in bankruptcy.

The following is a list of creditors who have this day proved their debts:

Names of creditors.	Residence.	Debts proved.
		Dolls.	Cts.

———,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 20.]

General Letter of Attorney in Fact When Creditor is not Represented by Attorney at Law.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ——— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

To ———:

———.

I, ———, of ——, in the county of —— and state of ——, do hereby authorize you, or any one of you, to attend the meeting or meetings of creditors of the bankrupt aforesaid at a court of bankruptcy, wherever advertised or directed to be holden, on the day and at the hour appointed and notified by said court in said matter, or at such other place and time as may be appointed by the court for holding such meeting or meetings, or at which such meeting or meetings, or any adjournment or adjournments thereof may be held, and then and there from time to time, and as often as there may be occasion, for me and in my name to vote for or against any proposal or resolution that may be then submitted under the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy; and in the choice of trustee or trustees of the estate of the said bankrupt, and for me to assent to such appointment of trustee; and with like powers to attend and vote at any other meeting or meetings of creditors, or sitting or sittings of the court, which may be held therein for any of the purposes aforesaid; also to accept any composition proposed by said bankrupt in satisfaction of his debts, and to receive payment of dividends and of money due me under any composition, and for any other purpose in my interest whatsoever, with full power of substitution.

In witness whereof I have hereunto signed my name and affixed my seal the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

————. [L. S.]

Signed, sealed, and delivered in presence of

————.

Acknowledged before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

————,
[Official character.]

[Form No. 21.]

Special Letter of Attorney in Fact.

In the Matter of ———— Bankrupt	In Bankruptcy.

To ————:

————.

I hereby authorize you, or any one of you, to attend the meeting of creditors in this matter, advertised or directed to be holden at ——, on the —— day of ——, before ——, or any adjournment thereof, and then and there —— for —— and in —— name to vote for or against any proposal or resolution that may be lawfully made or passed at such meeting or adjourned meeting, and in the choice of trustee or trustees of the estate of the said bankrupt.

————. [L. S.]

In witness whereof I have hereunto signed my name and affixed my seal the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

Signed, sealed, and delivered in presence of

————.

Acknowledged before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————,
[Official character.]

[Form No. 22.]

Appointment of Trustee by Creditors.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, before ————, referee in bankruptcy.

This being the day appointed by the court for the first meeting of creditors in the above bankruptcy, and of which due notice has been given in the [here insert the names of the newspapers in which notice was published], we, whose names are hereunder written, being the majority in number and in amount of claims of the creditors of the said bankrupt, whose claims have been allowed, and who are present at this meeting, do hereby appoint ————, of ——, in the county of —— and state of ——, to be the trustee— of the said bankrupt's estate and effects.

Signatures of creditors.	Residences of the same.	Amount of debt.
		Dolls.	Cts.

Ordered that the above appointment of trustee— be, and the same is hereby approved.

——————,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 23.]

Appointment of Trustee by Referee.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————————— Bankrupt	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, before ——————, referee in bankruptcy.

This being the day appointed by the court for the first meeting of creditors under the said bankruptcy, and of which due notice has been given in the [here insert the names of the newspapers in which notice was published] I, the undersigned referee of the said court in bankruptcy, sat at the time and place above mentioned, pursuant to such notice, to take the proof of debts and for the choice of trustee under the said bankruptcy; and I do hereby certify that the creditors whose claims had been allowed and were present, or duly represented, failed to make choice of a trustee of said bankrupt's estate, and therefore I do hereby appoint ——————, of ——, in the county of —— and state of ——, as trustee of the same.

——————,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 24.]

Notice to Trustee of His Appointment.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

To ——————, of ——, in the County of ——, and District Aforesaid:

I hereby notify you that you were duly appointed trustee [or one of the trustees] of the estate of the above-named bankrupt at the first meeting of the creditors, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, and I have approved said appointment. The penal sum of your bond as such trustee has been fixed at —— dollars. You are required to notify me forthwith of your acceptance or rejection of the trust.

Dated at —— the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

——————,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 25.]

Bond of Trustee.

Know all men by these presents: That we, ————, of ——, as principal, and ————, of ——, and ————, of ——, as sureties, are held and firmly bound unto the United States of America in the sum of —— dollars, in lawful money of the United States, to be paid to the said United States, for which payment, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves and our heirs, executors, and administrators, jointly and severally, by these presents.

Signed and sealed this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

The condition of this obligation is such, that whereas the above-named ———— was, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, appointed trustee in the case pending in bankruptcy in said court, wherein ———— is the bankrupt, and he, the said ————, has accepted said trust with all the duties and obligations pertaining thereunto:

Now, therefore, if the said ————, trustee as aforesaid, shall obey such orders as said court may make in relation to said trust, and shall faithfully and truly account for all the moneys, assets, and effects of the estate of said bankrupt which shall come into his hands and possession, and shall in all respects faithfully perform all his official duties as said trustee, then this obligation to be void; otherwise, to remain in full force and virtue.

Signed and sealed in presence of

———— ————, [Seal.]
———— ————, [Seal.]
————, [Seal.]

[Form No. 26.]

Order Approving Trustee's Bond.

At a court of bankruptcy, held in and for the —— district of ——, at ——, ——, this —— day of ——, 189—.

Before ————, referee in bankruptcy, in the district court of the United States for the —— district of ——.

In the Matter of ———— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

It appearing to the court ————, of ——, and in said district, has been duly appointed trustee of the estate of the above-named bankrupt, and has given a bond with sureties for the faithful performance of his official duties, in the amount fixed by the creditors [or by order of the court], to wit, in the sum of —— dollars, it is ordered that the said bond be, and the same is hereby, approved.

————,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 27.]

Order that No Trustee be Appointed.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

It appearing that the schedule of the bankrupt discloses no assets, and that no creditor has appeared at the first meeting, and that the appointment of a trustee of the bankrupt's estate is not now desirable, it is hereby ordered that, until further order of the court, no trustee be appointed and no other meeting of the creditors be called.

————,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 28.]

Order for Examination of Bankrupt.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

Upon the application of ————, trustee of said bankrupt [or creditor of said bankrupt], it is ordered that said bankrupt attend before ————, one of the referees in bankruptcy of this court, at —— on the —— day of ——, at —— o'clock in the ——noon, to submit to examination under the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy, and that a copy of this order be delivered to him, the said bankrupt, forthwith.

————, Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 29.]

Examination of Bankrupt or Witness.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, before ————, one of the referees in bankruptcy of said court.

————, of ——, in the county of ——, and state of ——, being duly sworn and examined at the time and place above mentioned, upon his oath says. [Here insert substance of examination of party.]

————, Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 30.]

Summons to Witness.

To ————:

Whereas ————, of ——, in the county of ——, and state of ——, has been duly adjudged bankrupt, and the proceeding in bankruptcy is pending in the district court of the United States for the —— district of ——,

These are to require you, to whom this summons is directed, personally to be and appear before ————, one of the referees in bankruptcy of the said court, at ——, on the —— day of ——, at —— o'clock in the ——noon, then and there to be examined in relation to said bankruptcy.

Witness the Honorable ———— judge of said court, and the seal thereof at ——, this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

————. Clerk.

Return of Summons to Witness.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

On this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, before me came ————, of ——, in the county of —— and state of ——, and makes oath, and says that he did, on ——, the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, personally serve ————, of ——, in the county of —— and state of ——, with a true copy of the summons hereto annexed, by delivering the same to him; and he further makes oath, and says that he is not interested in the proceeding in bankruptcy named in said summons.

————.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————.

[Form No. 31.]

Proof of Unsecured Debt.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district of ——, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, came ————, of ——, in the county of ——, in said district of ——, and made oath, and says that ————, the person by [or against] whom a petition for adjudication of bankruptcy has been filed, was at and before the filing of said petition, and still is, justly and truly indebted to said deponent in the sum of —— dollars; that the consideration of said debt is as follows:

————————————————

————————————————

that no part of said debt has been paid [except————————————]; that there are no set-offs or counterclaims to the same [except————————————]; and that deponent has not, nor has any person by his order, or to his knowledge or belief, for his use, had or received any manner of security for said debt whatever.

————,
Creditor.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————,
[Official character.]

[Form No. 32.]

Proof of Secured Debt.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district of ——, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, came ————, of ——, in the county of ——, in said district of ——,

and made oath and says that ————, the person by [or against] whom a petition for adjudication of bankruptcy has been filed, was at and before the filing of said petition, and still is, justly and truly indebted to said deponent, in the sum of —— dollars; that the consideration of said debt is as follows ————; that no part of said debt has been paid [except ————]; that there are no set-offs or counterclaims to the same [except ————]; and that the only securities held by this deponent for said debt are the following: ————

————,
Creditor.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————,
[Official character.]

[Form No. 33.]

Proof of Debt Due Corporation.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district of ——, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, came ————, of ——, in the county of —— and state of ——, and made oath and says that he is —— of the ——, a corporation incorporated by and under the laws of the state of ——, and carrying on business at ——, in the county of —— and state of ——, and that he is duly authorized to make this proof, and says that the said ————, the person by [or against] whom a petition for adjudication of bankruptcy has been filed, was at and before the filing of the said petition, and still is justly and truly indebted to said corporation in the sum of —— dollars; that the consideration of said debt is as follows: ————; that no part of said debt has been paid [except ————]; that there are no set-offs or counterclaims to the same [except ————]; and that said corporation has not, nor has any person by its order, or to the knowledge or belief of said deponent, for its use, had or received any manner of security for said debt whatever.

————,
—— of Said Corporation.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————,
[Official character.]

[Form No. 34.]

Proof of Debt by Partnership.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district of ——, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, came ————, of ——, in the county of ——, in said district of ——,

and made oath and says that he is one of the firm of ————, consisting of himself and ————, of ——, in the county of —— and state of ——; that the said ————, the person by [or against] whom a petition for adjudication of bankruptcy has been filed, was at and before the filing of said petition, and still is, justly and truly indebted to this deponent's said firm in the sum of —— dollars; that the consideration of said debt is as follows:

————————————————————————————————;

that no part of said debt has been paid [except————————————

————————————————————————————————];

that there are no set-offs or counterclaims to the same [except————————

————————————————————————————————];

and this deponent has not, nor has his said firm, nor has any person by their order, or to this deponent's knowledge or belief, for their use, had or received any manner of security for said debt whatever.

————,
Creditor.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————,
[Official character.]

[Form No. 35.]

Proof of Debt by Agent or Attorney.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At —— in said district of —— on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, came ————, of ——, in the county of ——, and state of ——, attorney [or authorized agent] of ——, in the county of ——, and state of ——, and made oath and says that ————, the person by [or against] whom a petition for adjudication of bankruptcy has been filed, was at and before the filing of said petition, and still is, justly and truly indebted to the said ————, in the sum of —— dollars; that the consideration of said debt is as follows:————————————————————————

————————————————————————————————;

that no part of said debt has been paid [except————————————

————————————————————————————————];

and that this deponent has not, nor has any person by his order, or to this deponent's knowledge or belief, for his use had or received any manner of security for said debt whatever. And this deponent further says, that this deposition can not be made by the claimant in person because————————

————————————————————————————————,

and that he is duly authorized by his principal to make this affidavit, and that it is within his knowledge that the aforesaid debt was incurred as and for the consideration above stated, and that such debt, to the best of his knowledge and belief, still remains unpaid and unsatisfied.

————.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————,
[Official character.]

[Form No. 36.]

Proof of Secured Debt by Agent.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of _____ Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district of ——, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, came ————, of ——, in the county of ——, and state of ——, attorney [or, authorized agent] of ——, in the county of ——, and state of ——, and made oath, and says that ————, the person by [or, against] whom a petition for adjudication of bankruptcy has been filed, was, at and before the filing of said petition, and still is, justly and truly indebted to the said ———— in the sum of —— dollars; that the consideration of said debt is as follows:_____;

that no part of said debt has been paid [except_____];

that there are no set-offs or counterclaims to the same [except_____];

and that the only securities held by said ———— for said debt are the following_____ and this deponent further says that this deposition can not be made by the by the claimant in person because_____,

and that he is duly authorized by his principal to make this deposition, and that it is within his knowledge that the aforesaid debt was incurred as and for the consideration above stated.

————.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————,
[Official character.]

[Form No. 37.]

Affidavit of Lost Bill, or Note.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of _____ Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

On this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, at ——, came ————, of ——, in the county of ——, and state of ——, and makes oath and says that the bill of exchange [or note], the particulars whereof are underwritten, has been lost under the following circumstances, to wit, _____ and that he, this deponent, has not been able to find the same; and this deponent further says that he has not, nor has the said ————, or any person or persons to their use, to this deponent's knowledge or belief, negotiated the said bill [or note], nor in any manner parted with or assigned the legal or beneficial interest therein, or any part thereof; and that he, this deponent, is the person now legally and beneficially interested in the same.

Bill or Note above Referred to.

Date.	Drawer or maker.	Acceptor.	Sum.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

[Official character.]

[Form No. 38.]

Order Reducing Claim.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of —— Bankrupt	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

Upon the evidence submitted to this court upon the claim of —— against said estate [and, if the fact be so, upon hearing counsel thereon], it is ordered, that the amount of said claim be reduced from the sum of ——, as set forth in the affidavit in proof of claim filed by said creditor in said case, to the sum of ——, and that the latter-named sum be entered upon the books of the trustee as the true sum upon which a dividend shall be computed [if with interest, with interest thereon from the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—].

Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 39.]

Order Expunging Claim.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of —— Bankrupt	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

Upon the evidence submitted to the court upon the claim of —— against said estate [and, if the fact be so, upon hearing counsel thereon], it is ordered, that said claim be disallowed and expunged from the list of claims upon the trustee's record in said case.

Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 40.]

List of Claims and Dividends to be Recorded by Referee and by Him Delivered to Trustee.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

A List of Debts Proved and Claimed under the Bankruptcy of ——, with —— Dividend at the Rate of —— per Cent. This Day Declared Thereon by ————, a Referee in Bankruptcy.

No.	Creditors. [To be placed alphabetically, and the names of all the parties to the proof to be carefully set forth.]	Sum proved.		Dividend.
		Dollars.	Cents.	Dollars.	Cents.

————,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 41.]

Notice of Dividend.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

To ————,
Creditor of ————, Bankrupt:

I hereby inform you that you may, on application at my office, ——, on the —— day of ——, or on any day thereafter, between the hours of ——, receive a warrant for the —— dividend due to you out of the above estate. If you can not personally attend, the warrant will be delivered to your order on your filling up and signing the subjoined letter.

————, Trustee.

(11420)

Creditor's Letter to Trustee.

To ————,

Trustee in Bankruptcy of the Estate of ————, Bankrupt:

Please deliver to ———— the warrant for dividend payable out of the said estate to me.

————, Creditor.

[Form No. 42.]

Petition and Order for Sale by Auction of Real Estate.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

Respectfully represents ——, trustee of the estate of said bankrupt, that it would be for the benefit of said estate that a certain portion of the real estate of said bankrupt, to wit: [here describe it and its estimated value] should be sold by auction, in lots or parcels, and upon terms and conditions, as follows: ————————

Wherefore he prays that he may be authorized to make sale by auction of said real estate as aforesaid.

Dated this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————, Trustee.

The foregoing petition having been duly filed, and having come on for a hearing before me, of which hearing ten days' notice was given by mail to creditors of said bankrupt, now, after due hearing, no adverse interest being represented thereat [or after hearing ———— in favor of said petition and ———— in opposition thereto], it is ordered that the said trustee be authorized to sell the portion of the bankrupt's real estate specified in the foregoing petition, by auction, keeping an accurate account of each lot or parcel sold and the price received therefor and to whom sold; which said account he shall file at once with the referee.

Witness my hand this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

————,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 43.]

Petition and Order for Redemption of Property from Lien.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

Respectfully represents ————, trustee of the estate of said bankrupt, that a certain portion of said bankrupt's estate, to wit: [here describe the estate or property and its estimated value] is subject to a mortgage [describe the mortgage], or to a conditional contract [describing it], or to a lien [describe the origin and nature of the lien], [or, if the property be personal property, has been pledged or deposited and is subject to a lien] for [describe the nature of the lien], and that it would be for the benefit of the estate that said property should be redeemed and discharged from the lien thereon. Wherefore he prays that he may be empowered to pay out of the assets of said estate in his hands the sum of ——, being the amount of said lien, in order to redeem said property therefrom.

Dated this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————, Trustee.

The foregoing petition having been duly filed and having come on for a hearing before me, of which hearing ten days' notice was given by mail to creditors of said bankrupt, now, after due hearing, no adverse interest being represented thereat [or after hearing ———— in favor of said petition and ———— in opposition thereto], it is ordered that the said trustee be authorized to pay out of the assets of the bankrupt's estate specified in the foregoing petition the sum of ——, being the amount of the lien, in order to redeem the property therefrom.

Witness my hand this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

————,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 44.]

Petition and Order for Sale Subject to Lien.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

Respectfully represents ————, trustee of the estate of said bankrupt, that a certain portion of said bankrupt's estate, to wit: [here describe the estate or property and its estimated value] is subject to a mortgage [describe mortgage], or to a conditional contract [describe it], or to a lien [describe the origin and nature of the lien], or [if the property be personal property] has been pledged or deposited and is subject to a lien for [describe the nature of the lien], and that it would be for the benefit of the said estate that said property should be sold, subject to said mortgage, lien, or other incumbrance. Wherefore he prays that he may be authorized to make sale of said property, subject to the incumbrance thereon.

Dated this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

————, Trustee.

The foregoing petition having been duly filed and having come on for a hearing before me, of which hearing ten days' notice was given by mail to creditors of said bankrupt, now, after due hearing, no adverse interest being represented thereat [or after hearing ———— in favor of said petition and ———— in opposition thereto], it is ordered that the said trustee be authorized to sell the portion of the bankrupt's estate specified in the foregoing petition, by auction [or at private sale], keeping an accurate account of the property sold and the price received therefor and to whom sold; which said account he shall file at once with the referee.

Witness my hand this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

————,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 45.]

Petition and Order for Private Sale.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

Respectfully represents ————, duly appointed trustee of the estate of the aforesaid bankrupt.

That for the following reasons, to wit, ————————

————————

————————

it is desirable and for the best interest of the estate to sell at private sale a certain portion of the said estate, to wit:_____

_____

_____

Wherefore he prays that he may be authorized to sell the said property at private sale.

Dated this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

_____, Trustee.

The foregoing petition having been duly filed and having come on for a hearing before me, of which hearing ten days' notice was given by mail to creditors of said bankrupt, now, after due hearing, no adverse interest being represented thereat [or after hearing _____ in favor of said petition and _____ in opposition thereto], it is ordered that the said trustee be authorized to sell the portion of the bankrupt's estate specified in the foregoing petition, at private sale, keeping an accurate account of each article sold and the price received therefor and to whom sold; which said account he shall file at once with the referee.

Witness my hand this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

_____,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 46.]

Petition and Order for Sale of Perishable Property.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of _____ Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

Respectfully represents ——, the said bankrupt, [or, a creditor, or the receiver, or the trustee of the said bankrupt's estate].

That a part of the said estate, to wit,_____

_____

_____

now in ——, is perishable, and that there will be loss if the same is not sold immediately.

Wherefore he prays the court to order that the same be sold immediately as aforesaid.

Dated this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

_____.

The foregoing petition having been duly filed and having come on for a hearing before me, of which hearing ten days' notice was given by mail to the creditors of the said bankrupt, [or without notice to the creditors], now after due hearing, no adverse interest being represented thereat, [or after hearing _____ in favor of said petition and _____ in opposition thereto] I find that the facts are as above stated, and that the same is required in the interest of the estate, and it is therefore ordered that the same be sold forthwith and the proceeds thereof deposited in court.

Witness my hand this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

_____,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 47.]

Trustee's Report of Exempted Property.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, on the —— day of ——, 18—.

The following is a schedule of property designated and set apart to be retained by the bankrupt aforesaid, as his own property, under the provisions of the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy.

General head.	Particular description.	Value.
		Dolls.	Cts.
Military uniform, arms, and equipments.....
Property exempted by state laws.

——,
Trustee.

[Form No. 48.]

Trustee's Return of No Assets.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

On the day aforesaid, before me comes ——, of ——, in the county of —— and state of ——, and makes oath, and says that he, as trustee of the estate and effects of the above-named bankrupt, neither received nor paid any moneys on account of the estate.

Subscribed and sworn to before me at ——, this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

——,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 49.]

Account of Trustee.

Dr. The Estate of ———, Bankrupt, in Account with ———, Trustee. Cr.

		Dolls.	Cts.	Dolls.	Cts.			Dolls.	Cts.	Dolls.	Cts.

[Form No. 50.]

Oath to Final Account of Trustee.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ——— Bankrupt.	In Bankruptcy.

On this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, before me comes ———, of ——, in the county of —— and state of ——, and makes oath, and says that he was, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, appointed trustee of the estate and effects of the above-named bankrupt, and that as such trustee he has conducted the settlement of the said estate. That the account hereto annexed containing —— sheets of paper, the first sheet whereof is marked with the letter —— [reference may here also be made to any prior account filed by said trustee] is true, and such account contains entries of every sum of money received by said trustee on account of the estate and effects of the above-named bankrupt, and that the payments purporting in such account to have been made by said trustee have been so made by him. And he asks to be allowed for said payments and for commissions and expenses as charged in said accounts

————, Trustee.

Subscribed and sworn to before me at ——, in said —— district of ——, this —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————,
[Official character.]

[Form No. 51.]

Order Allowing Account and Discharging Trustee.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

The foregoing account having been presented for allowance, and having been examined and found correct, it is ordered, that the same be allowed, and that the said trustee be discharged of his trust.

————,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 52.]

Petition for Removal of Trustee.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

To the Honorable ————,
Judge of the District Court for the —— District of ——:

The petition of ————, one of the creditors of said bankrupt, respectfully represents that it is for the interest of the estate of said bankrupt that ————, heretofore appointed trustee of said bankrupt's estate, should be removed from his trust, for the causes following to wit: [here set forth the particular cause or causes for which such removal is requested.]

Wherefore ———— pray that notice may be served upon said ————, trustee as aforesaid, to show cause, at such time as may be fixed by the court, why an order should not be made removing him from said trust.

————.

[Form No. 53.]

Notice of Petition for Removal of Trustee.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

To ————,
Trustee of the estate of ————, bankrupt:

You are hereby notified to appear before this court, at ——, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, at —— o'clock —. m., to show cause (if any you have) why you should not be removed from your trust as trustee as aforesaid, according to the prayer of the petition of ————, one of the creditors of said bankrupt, filed in this court on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, in which it is alleged [here insert the allegation of the petition].

————, Clerk.

[Form No. 54.]

Order for Removal of Trustee.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

Whereas ————, of ——, did, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, present his petition to this court, praying that for the reasons therein set forth, ————, the trustee of the estate of said ————, bankrupt, might be removed:

Now, therefore, upon reading the said petition of the said ———— and the evidence submitted therewith, and upon hearing counsel on behalf of said petitioner and counsel for the trustee, and upon the evidence submitted on behalf of said trustee,

It is ordered that the said ———— be removed from the trust as trustee of the estate of said bankrupt, and that the costs of the said petitioner incidental to said petition be paid by said ————, trustee [or, out of the estate of the said ————, subject to prior charges].

Witness the Honorable ————, judge of the said court, and the seal thereof, at ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

{Seal of the Court.} ————.
Clerk.

[Form No. 55.]

Order for Choice of New Trustee.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

At ——, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

Whereas by reason of the removal [or the death or resignation] of ————, heretofore appointed trustee of the estate of said bankrupt, a vacancy exists in the office of said trustee,

It is ordered, that a meeting of the creditors of said bankrupt be held at ——, in ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—, for the choice of a new trustee of said estate.

And it is further ordered that notice be given to said creditors of the time, place, and purpose of said meeting, by letter to each, to be deposited in the mail at least ten days before that day.

————, Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 56.]

Certificate by Referee to Judge.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

I, ————, one of the referees of said court in bankruptcy, do hereby certify that in the course of the proceedings in said cause before me the following question arose pertinent to the said proceedings: [Here state the question, a summary of the evidence relating thereto, and the finding and order of the referee thereon.]

And the said question is certified to the judge for his opinion thereon.

Dated at ——, the —— day of ——, A. D. 18—.

————,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

[Form No. 57.]

Bankrupt's Petition for Discharge.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

To the Honorable ————,
Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of ——.

————, of ——, in the county of —— and state of ——, in said district, respectfully represents that on the —— day of ——, last past, he was duly adjudged bankrupt under the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy; that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts and of the orders of the court touching his bankruptcy.

Wherefore he prays that he may be decreed by the court to have a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate under said bankrupt acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

Dated this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

————, Bankrupt.

Order of Notice Thereon.

District of ——, ss:

On this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, on reading the foregoing petition, it is—Ordered by the court, that a hearing be had upon the same on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, before said court, at ——, in said district, at —— o'clock in the —— noon; and that notice thereof be published in ————, a newspaper printed in said district, and that all known creditors and other persons in interest may appear at the said time and place and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered by the court, that the clerk shall send by mail to all known creditors copies of said petition and this order, addressed to them at their places of residence as stated.

Witness the Honorable ————, judge of the said court, and the seal thereof, at ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

{ Seal of the Court. }

————,
Clerk.

—— hereby depose, on oath, that the foregoing order was published in the ———— on the following —— days, viz.:

On the —— day of —— and on the —— day of ——, in the year 189—.

————,

District of ——.

——————, 189—.

Personally appeared ——————, and made oath that the foregoing statement by him subscribed is true.

Before me,

——————,
[Official character.]

I hereby certify that I have on this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, sent by mail copies of the above order, as therein directed.

——————,
Clerk.

Notes of Decisions

Notice of hearing of application for discharge.—See note 36 under § 9598, ante.
Fees of clerks for giving notices.—See note 1 under § 9636, post.

[Form No. 58.]

Specification of Grounds of Opposition to Bankrupt's Discharge.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of —————————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

——————, of ——, in the county of —— and state of ——, a party interested in the estate of said ——————, bankrupt, do hereby oppose the granting to him of a discharge from his debts, and for the grounds of such opposition do file the following specification: [Here specify the grounds of opposition.]

——————, Creditor.

[Form No. 59.]

Discharge of Bankrupt.

District Court of the United States,
—— District of ——.

Whereas, ——————, of ——, in said district, has been duly adjudged a bankrupt, under the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy, and appears to have conformed to all the requirements of law in that behalf, it is therefore ordered by this court that said —————— be discharged from all debts and claims which are made provable by said acts against his estate, and which existed on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, on which day the petition for adjudication was filed —— him; excepting such debts as are by law excepted from the operation of a discharge in bankruptcy.

Witness the Honorable ——————, judge of said district court, and the seal thereof this —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

{Seal of the Court.}

——————,
Clerk.

[Form No. 60.]

Petition for Meeting to Consider Composition.

District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

—————————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

To the Honorable ——————, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——:

The above-named bankrupt respectfully represent that a composition of —— per cent. upon all unsecured debts, not entitled to a priority —————— in satisfaction of —— debts has been proposed by —— to —— creditors, as provided by the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy, and —— verily believe that the said composition will be accepted by a majority in number and in value of —— creditors whose claims are allowed.

Wherefore, he pray that a meeting of —— creditors may be duly called to act upon said proposal for a composition, according to the provisions of said acts and the rules of court.

————,
Bankrupt.

[Form No. 61.]

Application for Confirmation of Composition.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

To the Honorable ————, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

At ——, in said district, on the —— day of ——, A. D. 189—, now comes ————, the above-named bankrupt, and respectfully represents to the court that, after he had been examined in open court [or at a meeting of his creditors] and had filed in court a schedule of his property and a list of his creditors, as required by law, he offered terms of composition to his creditors, which terms have been accepted in writing by a majority in number of all creditors whose claims have been allowed, which number represents a majority in amount of such claims; that the consideration to be paid by the bankrupt to his creditors, the money necessary to pay all debts which have priority, and the costs of the proceedings, amounting in all to the sum of —— dollars, has been deposited, subject to the order of the judge, in the —— National Bank, of ——, a designated depository of money in bankruptcy cases.

Wherefore the said ———— respectfully asks that the said composition may be confirmed by the court.

————, Bankrupt.

[Form No. 62.]

Order Confirming Composition.

In the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— ———————— ————————

[Form No. 63.]

Order of Distribution on Composition.

ited States of America:

n the District Court of the United States for the —— District of ——.

In the Matter of ———————— Bankrupt .	In Bankruptcy.

'he composition offered by the above-named bankrupt in this case having en duly confirmed by the judge of said court, it is hereby ordered and de- ed that the distribution of the deposit shall be made by the clerk of the urt as follows, to wit: 1st, to pay the several claims which have priority; to pay the costs of proceedings; 3d, to pay, according to the terms of the nposition, the several claims of general creditors which have been allowed, d appear upon a list of allowed claims, on the files in this case, which list made a part of this order.

Vitness the Honorable ————, judge of said court, and the seal thereof, s —— day of ——, A. D. 189—.

Seal of the Court. } ————, Clerk.

9615. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 31.) Computation of time.

Computation of Time.—a Whenever time is enumerated by days this Act, or in any proceeding in bankruptcy, the number of ys shall be computed by excluding the first and including the t, unless the last fall on a Sunday or holiday, in which event the y last included shall be the next day thereafter which is not a nday or a legal holiday. (30 Stat. 554.)

9616. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 32.) Transfer of cases.

Transfer of Cases.—a In the event petitions are filed against the ne person, or against different members of a partnership, in ferent courts of bankruptcy each of which has jurisdiction, the ses shall be transferred, by order of the courts relinquishing isdiction, to and be consolidated by the one of such courts which n proceed with the same for the greatest convenience of parties interest. (30 Stat. 554.)

Notes of Decisions

'riority of petitions and transfer of es.—The provisions of this section, l of General Order in Bankruptcy . 6 for carrying it into effect, apply a case where an involuntary peti- n is presented in one district and debtor's own voluntary petition in ther. In re Waxelbaum (D. C. 99) 98 Fed. 589, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 2.

f a debtor files two petitions in vol- tary bankruptcy, setting forth the ne debts, and the first is still pend- , proceedings under the second will stayed. In re Wielarski (D. C. 71) Fed. Cas. No. 17,619.

'riority of jurisdiction, as between itions in bankruptcy filed in differ- t courts of bankruptcy, each having isdiction, is determined by the date the filing of the petition, rather than the date of the adjudication. In Elmira Steel Co. (D. C. 1901) 109 d. 456, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 484; In Tybo Mining & Reduction Co. (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 697, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 62.

Creditors, by filing a second petition against an individual in another district, and obtaining a first hearing and adjudication thereon, cannot thereby oust the jurisdiction of the court in the district of the bankrupt's domicile, in which a petition had been first filed by other creditors. In re Elmira Steel Co. (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 456, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 484.

Where two petitions have been filed against the same person, one in the district in which he has resided for the greater portion of the preceding six months, and the other in a district to which he has recently removed and established his residence there, the former is the "district of his domicile," within the meaning of the general order. In re Isaacson (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 779, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 430. It is also held that the word "individual" is used in the order in the sense of a single person, and as a corporation is a person under the statute, so it is also an individual under the order. In re United Button Co. (D. C. 1904) 137 Fed. 668, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 454; In re Globe Sec. Co. (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 709. And where two petitions are filed against a corporation, one in the state by which it was incorporated, and one in a district in which it does business, the first hearing should be had at the former place, as that is the place of its domicile, and proceedings in the other court will be stayed to await such hearing and the decision thereon. In re Globe Sec. Co. (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 709; In re United Button Co. (D. C. 1904) 132 Fed. 378, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 761. In case there is substantial doubt as to the domicile or place of residence of a debtor, against whom petitions are filed in different districts, the court having jurisdiction of the petition earliest in date should be allowed to hear and determine the question of jurisdiction as depending on domicile, and the other court, without dismissing the petition before it, will stay proceedings thereon to await the result. In re Waxelbaum (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 589, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 392.

The provision of the general order that the court which makes the first adjudication shall "retain jurisdiction over all proceedings," is to be taken subject to the directions of this section with reference to the transfer of cases to other districts. In re Isaacson (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 779, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 430. This provision is not to be read as narrowly restricted to the bankruptcy of single debtors, but it applies equally to cases where different petitions are filed against a partnership. In re Sears (D. C. 1901) 112 Fed. 58, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 279. The "parties in interest" whose convenience is to be consulted, are not limited to unsecured creditors of the bankrupt, but the term is intended to include all persons whose pecuniary interests may be directly affected by the bankruptcy proceedings. In re United Button Co. (D. C. 1904) 137 Fed. 668, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 454. The burden of proof, however, as to the place where the proceedings will be most convenient for parties in interest rests upon those who ask for a transfer. And where the applicants are a minority of the creditors, and represent only a small part of the indebtedness, a transfer will not be warranted by the single fact that the greater part or all of the bankrupt's property is in the other district, a court has power to order its sale if deemed best. In re Tybo Min Reduction Co. (D. C. 1904) 132 978, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 68. transfer will not be ordered whe request therefor is presented by ors who have received prefe which they do not offer to surr and it is doubtful whether the fer will be for the greater conve of the creditors who have not bee ferred. In re Sears (D. C. 1901 Fed. 58, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 279. imity of the place of business of a rupt to the court entertaining pr ings in bankruptcy, and proxim a majority of the bankrupt's cre in number or amount of claims, i suasive, but not conclusive, in mining the court which shall a final jurisdiction. In re United ton Co. (D. C. 1904) 137 Fed. 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 454.

Where a petition in involuntary ruptcy against a debtor was fi Georgia, and, pending a hearing on, he filed his voluntary petit New York, alleging that he was dent of the latter state, but it a ed that he had formerly been e in business in Georgia, that the to be affected were all contracted that his present business was agent or employé of the corpo which succeeded his former firm he was accustomed to spend a p his time in Georgia, and that his itors desired that the bankruptc ceedings should be conducted i latter state, it was held that it be for the "greatest convenie the parties in interest" that the in Georgia should proceed wit case. In re Waxelbaum (D. C. 98 Fed. 589, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep And see further as to consider affecting question of "greatest c ience." In re Southwestern Bri Iron Co. (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 304; In re G Metals Co. (D. C. 1904) 133 F 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 770.

Relationship between the ba and the deputy clerk of the c court in whose office the petitio filed will be cause for transferri case to another seat of the court same district and division and o the record to be filed and docke the office of the clerk of the co the latter place. Bray v. Cobb 1898) 91 Fed. 102, 1 Am. Bank 153.

CHAPTER FIVE

Officers, Their Duties and Compensation

c.
17. Creation of two offices.
18. Appointment, removal, and districts of referees.
19. Qualifications of referees.
20. Oaths of office of referees.
21. Number of referees.
22. Jurisdiction of referees.
23. Duties of referees.
24. Compensation of referees.
25. Contempts before referees.
26. Records of referees.
27. Referee's absence or disability.
28. Appointment of trustees.

Sec.
9629. Qualifications of trustees.
9630. Death or removal of trustees.
9631. Duties of trustees.
9632. Compensation of trustees, receivers, and marshals.
9633. Accounts and papers of trustees.
9634. Bonds of referees and trustees.
9635. Duties of clerks.
9636. Compensation of clerks and marshals.
9637. Duties of Attorney-General.
9638. Statistics of bankruptcy proceedings.

9617. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 33.) Creation of two offices.

Creation of Two Offices.—a The offices of referee and trustee are ereby created. (30 Stat. 555.)

9618. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 34.) Appointment, removal, and districts of referees.

Appointment, Removal, and Districts of Referees.—a Courts of ankruptcy shall, within the territorial limits of which they reectively have jurisdiction, (1) appoint referees, each for a term two years, and may, in their discretion, remove them because eir services are not needed or for other cause; and (2) designate, nd from time to time change, the limits of the districts of referees, that each county, where the services of a referee are needed, ay constitute at least one district. (30 Stat. 555.)

Notes of Decisions

1. Appointment of referees.—The ovision of the Bankruptcy Act which legates to the several courts of bankptcy the appointment of the necesry referees, is justified by the provion of the Constitution that Congress ay vest the appointment of such inrior officers as they think proper in e courts of law. Birch v. Steele 908) 165 Fed. 577, 91 C. C. A. 415, Am. Bankr. Rep. 539.

Where there are two district judges r the same federal judicial district, th authorized to hold the district urt and sit in bankruptcy cases, eier one of them, holding the court at e time, has power to appoint or reove a referee in bankruptcy, and such tion does not require the concurrence the two judges. Birch v. Steele 908) 165 Fed. 577, 91 C. C. A. 415, Am. Bankr. Rep. 539. And see In Steele (D. C. 1908) 161 Fed. 886, Am. Bankr. Rep. 446; In re Steele D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 853, 19 Am. ankr. Rep. 671; Ex parte Steele (D. 1908) 162 Fed. 694, 20 Am. Bankr. ep. 575.

A referee in bankruptcy cannot fulfill e duties of his appointment for any unty in which the business in bankptcy must wait upon his convenience, in which he cannot hold sessions whenever business may require them, or cannot continue them at convenient intervals; nor can he fulfill the requirements of his official duty as to any county in which the books and papers of his office are not open to inspection at the local seat of justice. In re Sherwood (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 344, Fed. Cas. No. 12,774.

While probably the action of a district court in appointing a referee in bankruptcy may be subject to review by the circuit court of appeals on petition to revise, yet the latter court will not in any way attempt to control the discretion of the district court in making an appointment to an office so intimately connected with its own functions, and where the qualifications of the nominee are so peculiarly within its own knowledge. Birch v. Steele (1908) 165 Fed. 577, 91 C. C. A. 415, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 539.

2. —— Special referees.—When the referee to whom a case in bankruptcy would regularly be referred is absent or disqualified, the judge may appoint a special referee and send the case to him; and this may be done before the answer of the alleged bankrupt is filed, and does not require the consent or approval of the respondent or his attorney. Bray v. Cobb (D. C. 1898) 91 Fed. 102, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 153.

3. Removal of referees.—The provision of section 24b (ante, § 9608), giving to the circuit courts of appeals jurisdiction to superintend and revise in matter of law the proceedings of the several inferior courts of bank confers no power on such cou control the discretion of a court in making an order for moval of a referee in bank Birch v. Steele (1908) 165 Fe 91 C. C. A. 415, 21 Am. Bank 539.

§ 9619. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 35.) Qualifications of ref

Qualifications of Referees.—a Individuals shall not be el to appointment as referees unless they are respectively (1) petent to perform the duties of that office; (2) not holdin office of profit or emolument under the laws of the United Sta of any State other than commissioners of deeds, justices c peace, masters in chancery, or notaries public; (3) not relat consanguinity or affinity, within the third degree as determin the common law, to any of the judges of the courts of bankr or circuit courts of the United States, or of the justices or jud the appellate courts of the districts wherein they may be appo and (4) residents of, or have their offices in, the territorial di for which they are to be appointed. (30 Stat. 555.)

The circuit courts were abolished and their jurisdiction transferred district courts by Jud. Code, §§ 289–291, ante, §§ 1266–1268.

Notes of Decisions

Disqualification of referees by interest.—The provision of section 39b (post, § 9623), that referees shall not act in cases in which they are directly or indirectly interested, does not apply to the interest of a referee by way of commissions on sums paid to creditors as dividends. In re Abbey Press (1904) 134 Fed. 51, 67 C. C. A. 161, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 11.

A referee is not disqualified by interest from acting in a particular case because he is a debtor to the bankrupt. The interest which will disqualify is an interest either in the proceedi bankruptcy or in the estate bankrupt; and the bankrupt's cannot be said to be "interested" way, since his liability is not i ed, diminished, or in any way c by the proceedings. But the ju being apprised of the fact that t eree is a debtor of the bankrupt in his discretion, revoke the or reference and send the case to a referee. Bray v. Cobb (D. C. 91 Fed. 102, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep.

§ 9620. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 36.) Oaths of office of ref Oaths of Office of Referees.—a Referees shall take the same of office as that prescribed for judges of United States courts. Stat. 555.)

§ 9621. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 37.) Number of referees.

Number of Referees.—a Such number of referees shall b pointed as may be necessary to assist in expeditiously transa the bankruptcy business pending in the various courts of ruptcy. (30 Stat. 555.)

§ 9622. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 38.) Jurisdiction of refere

Jurisdiction of Referees.—a Referees respectively are hereb vested, subject always to a review by the judge, within the of their districts as established from time to time, with jur tion to (1) consider all petitions referred to them by the clerk make the adjudications or dismiss the petitions; (2) exercise the ers vested in courts of bankruptcy for the administering of oa and the examination of persons as witnesses and for requirin production of documents in proceedings before them, excep power of commitment; (3) exercise the powers of the judge fo taking possession and releasing of the property of the ban in the event of the issuance by the clerk of a certificate showin absence of a judge from the judicial district, or the division c district, or his sickness, or inability to act; (4) perform such p the duties, except as to questions arising out of the applicatio nkrupts for compositions or discharges, as are by this Act confer-d on courts of bankruptcy and as shall be prescribed by rules or ders of the courts of bankruptcy of their respective districts, except herein otherwise provided; and (5) upon the application of the ustee during the examination of the bankrupts, or other proceed-gs, authorize the employment of stenographers at the expense of e estates at a compensation not to exceed ten cents per folio for porting and transcribing the proceedings. (30 Stat. 555.)

Notes of Decisions

Jurisdiction and powers of referees.
— Determination of adverse claims.
Specific powers and authorities of referees.
— Ordering surrender of property.
— In proceedings for reclamation of property.
— Grant of injunction.
— Appointment of receiver.
Proceedings before referees.
— Taking and preservation of evidence.
— Review and reopening of case.
Certifying questions for review by judge.
— Parties entitled to review.
— Time of petitioning for review.
— Exceptions.
— Record on petition for review.
Review of proceedings by judge.
— Effect of referee's findings of fact.

1. Jurisdiction and powers of referees. The jurisdiction of referees in bankptcy is confined to the limits of the tricts for which they are appointed the judge, and does not extend to ses pending outside such districts, cept where the referees are specially pointed to fill a vacancy temporarily. re Schenectady Engineering & Const. . (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 868, 17 Am. nkr. Rep. 279.

A referee in bankruptcy has no judiction of summary proceedings to mpel a corporation to issue stock to e trustee pursuant to an agreement ade with the bankrupt. A referee in nkruptcy, having no jurisdiction of a it by a trustee to enforce specific rformance of a contract between the nkrupt and a third person, acquires jurisdiction by the consent of such ird person. In re Ballou (D. C. 14) 215 Fed. 810.

On a petition to sell mortgaged property free from the lien and transfer the me to the proceeds, there being no egation in the petition nor in the tice that an attack was made on the lidity of the mortgage, the referee d no jurisdiction to adjudge it void. re Martin (C. C. A. 1914) 210 Fed. 0.

2. —— Determination of adverse ims.—The referee has no power or risdiction to order third persons, in ssession of property claimed by the ustee, to deliver it to the latter, where e possession of the third person is t admitted to be in subordination to e bankrupt's title, but is based on a na fide adverse claim. In re Blum . C. A. 1913) 202 Fed. 883, 29 Am. nkr. Rep. 332; In re Gill (1911) 190 Fed. 726, 111 C. C. A. 454, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 883; In re Peacock (C. C. 1910) 178 Fed. 851, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 159; In re F. M. & S. Q. Carlile (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 612, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 373; In re Bacon (D. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 986, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 565. As to consent of defendant conferring jurisdiction in such cases, see Kilgore v. Barr (1912) 114 Va. 70, 75 S. E. 762. A referee in bankruptcy has no jurisdiction of a proceeding to determine the validity of a transfer of property by bankrupts to one claiming adversely, and who objects to the jurisdiction. In re Petronio (C. C. A. 1914) 220 Fed. 269. Where a creditor asserted that he had received goods from a bankrupt in payment of his debt, and refused consent to a summary adjudication, the referee is without jurisdiction, and must remit the trustee to a plenary suit. In re Vallozza (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 334.

Where such a case arises, it is the duty of the referee to hear the testimony, in order to determine whether the third person's claim is real or pretended. If he finds that the claim is made in good faith and is probably real, but of doubtful validity or questionable faith, it should then be determined in a plenary suit; but if he finds that the claim is without any actual merit or legal foundation, he should require a surrender of the property to the trustee. In re Holbrook Shoe & Leather Co. (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 973, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 511.

Within the rule that a referee has jurisdiction to determine claims of third persons which are merely colorable, a claim to property alleged to belong to a bankrupt's estate is not "colorable" when the claimant sets up as facts and not as conclusions of law matters which, if true, would constitute a statement of an adverse claim. In a proceeding by a trustee against a bankrupt's wife to recover $3,000, alleged to belong to his estate, her answer, that she had owned the money since 1910, had loaned it to her son-in-law, and that he had repaid it in May, 1911, did not indicate that her claim was merely colorable, and she was therefore entitled to a determination thereof in a plenary suit. In re Blum (1913) 202 Fed. 883, 121 C. C. A. 241.

The administrator of an estate, who appeared in bankruptcy proceedings in response to an order of the referee to show cause, and went to trial upon the merits without questioning the jurisdiction, waived his right to insist that the trustee should have proceeded against him by an action. In re F. W. Hall & Sons (D. C. 1913) 208 Fed. 578.

A referee in bankruptcy has jurisdiction to determine whether a preference has been received by a secured creditor. In re Keystone Press (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 710.

3. Specific powers and authorities of referees.—The referee has power to make an order requiring the trustee to give the bankrupt a certificate of the names and addresses of the creditors who have proved their claims, to enable him to apply for his discharge. In re Blaisdell (D. C. 1871) 6 N. B. R. 78, Fed. Cas. No. 1,488.

The referee, in case there is delay in winding up the estate in bankruptcy, may properly inquire why a settlement has not been made, and suggest the propriety of making progress, and indicate what steps the trustee should take. In re Bank of North Carolina (D. C. 1879) 19 N. B. R. 164, Fed. Cas. No. 896.

The referee has authority to order notice to creditors of a meeting to authorize the trustee to oppose the bankrupt's application for discharge. In re Hockman (D. C. 1912) 205 Fed. 330. He may call a meeting of creditors, if deemed advisable, before action is taken with respect to property subject to liens. In re Cutler & John (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 771. An order continuing a meeting of creditors of a bankrupt estate was a matter of discretion with the referee. In re Rosenfeld-Goldman Co. (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 921.

Referees in bankruptcy may administer the oath to witnesses appearing for examination or in any hearing before them. U. S. v. Simon (D. C. 1906) 146 Fed. 89, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 41; In re Dean (D. C. 1874) 2 N. B. R. 89, Fed. Cas. No. 3,700.

It is within the jurisdiction and the discretion of a referee in bankruptcy to order amendments to be made in the petition and schedules of a voluntary bankrupt referred to him, in particulars as to which he finds them defective or insufficient, and to refuse to call a first meeting of creditors until such amendments are made. In re Brumelkamp (D. C. 1899) 95 Fed. 814, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 318.

A referee in bankruptcy has no authority to dismiss a bankruptcy proceeding generally, or any particular matter in bankruptcy referred to him after the adjudication. In re Elby (D. C. 1907) 157 Fed. 935, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 734.

A referee in bankruptcy has no authority to collect or receive money belonging to an estate in bankruptcy. In re Pierce (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 516, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 747.

Although courts of bankruptcy have jurisdiction and authority to auth the business of the bankrupt to be tinued for a limited time, when is for the best interests of the es yet a referee in bankruptcy shoul take it upon him to exercise such thority, where it involves transac of considerable magnitude, espe since the amount of his own com sation may be directly involved, n any case should he authorize the of trustee's certificates to raise m to accomplish that end. Bray v. J son (1908) 166 Fed. 57, 91 C. C 643, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 383.

4. —— Ordering surrender of p erty.—A referee in bankruptcy ha risdiction of an application by a tee in bankruptcy for an order re ing the bankrupt to surrender mon property of his estate alleged to b his possession or control and t withheld or concealed from the tee, to cite the bankrupt before to show cause, and to make an o in accordance with his findings. I Oliver (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 85, 2 Bankr. Rep. 783; In re Tudor (D. 96 Fed. 942, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. In re Mayer (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 533; In re M (D. C. 1900) 105 Fed. 57, 5 Bankr. Rep. 184; Prather v. Pra (1882) 4 Ky. Law Rep. 454. His tion is subject to review by the j of the court of bankruptcy, but his cision will not be reversed unless p ly erroneous or based on clearly in cient evidence. In re Tudor (D. C Fed. 942, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 808. the order of the referee requiri surrender of property was based mistake of fact, the referee has po on petition of the bankrupt, filed in the time limited for review o decision, to reopen and reconsider matter, and, the mistake being sh to set aside the order. In re Bre (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 209, 26 Bankr. Rep. 646. If the bankrupt or refuses to obey an order of kind, lawfully made, the referee enter the fact on his record, and then his duty to certify the fact the judge, as the latter alone has authority to adjudge the bankrup contempt and impose a punish therefor. In re Miller (D. C. 1900) Fed. 57, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 184.

The referee has power in the instance to enter an order again third person to show cause why should not be required to surrende pay over to the trustee propert money in his hands, alleged to belo the estate in bankruptcy, and up hearing, to make an order requ such surrender or payment withi limited time. Mueller v. Nugent (1 184 U. S. 1, 22 Sup. Ct. 269, 46 L 405, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 224; I Famous Clothing Co. (D. C. 1910) Fed. 1015, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep.

ompare Woodward v. McDonald 1902) 116 Ga. 748, 42 S. E. 1030. ee, also, In re Logan (D. C. 1912) 96 Fed. 678, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 543. hus he may compel a creditor to return money received from the bankupt after the institution of the proeedings. Knapp & Spencer Co. v. Drew (1908) 160 Fed. 413, 87 C. C. A. 65, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 355. He may rder the officers of a bankrupt corporation to pay over the proceeds of ales of its stock alleged to belong to he corporation, and also to pay an mount assessed against them for unaid shares. In re Kornit Mfg. Co. D. C. 1911) 192 Fed. 392, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 244. And see Bilder v. Ellis (1912) 75 Misc. Rep. 255, 133 N. Y. Supp. 425.

5. —— In proceedings for reclamation of property.—A referee has jurisdiction to entertain and determine a claim set up by a third person, by intervening petition or otherwise, asserting a lien upon or interest in property which is lawfully in the possession of the trustee, or asserting that it is he property of the petitioner and not of the estate in bankruptcy. In re Rochford (1903) 124 Fed. 182, 59 C. C. A. 388, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 608; In re Drayton (D. C. 1904) 135 Fed. 383, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 602.

The referee in bankruptcy has power to fix a time limit for customers and creditors of a bankrupt stockbroker to file petitions for the reclamation of securities and claims to establish liens on cash in possession of the trustee. In re Gay & Sturgis (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 127.

6. —— Grant of injunction.—A referee in bankruptcy has no jurisdiction to grant an injunction staying proceedings in a state or federal court. In re Berkowitz (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 598, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 251; In re Siebert (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 781, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 348.

In cases other than those designed to obtain a stay of pending proceedings in a state or federal court, it is within the power of a referee in bankruptcy, in a proper case, to issue a restraining order or an order having the force of an injunction. In re Matthews (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 603, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 96, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 720; In re Booth (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 943, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 770; In re Steuer (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 976, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 209; In re Wilkes (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 975, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 574; In re Northrop, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 427; In re Adams, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 94, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 167; In re Rogers, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 541, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 211; In re Kilian, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 267; In re Kerski, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 79.

Where a trustee in bankruptcy was entitled to the possession of premises leased by the bankrupt, as against persons to whom the landlord had granted a lease after the adjudication, the referee had power to enjoin those persons from interfering with the possession of the trustee. In re Adams (D. C. 1905) 134 Fed. 142, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 23. The courts refuse to interfere with his action in granting an injunction where the parties in interest have voluntarily appeared before him and submitted the questions at issue to his determination, as, where his decision is that incumbered property of the bankrupt estate shall be taken in charge by the trustee and sold free of liens, and the proceeds distributed among those entitled, and this includes an order enjoining the incumbrancer from making a sale. In re Matthews (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 603, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 96; In re Benjamin (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 320, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 351. But where a referee has already decided that certain property does not belong to the estate in bankruptcy, but to a third person, he has no further jurisdiction over it, and therefore cannot enjoin its seizure by a sheriff under a writ of replevin issued from a state court, in an action brought therein by the trustee against such third person. In re Berkowitz (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 598, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 251.

Referee in bankruptcy held without jurisdiction to restrain trustee from proceeding for commitment of bankrupt for failure to comply with order modified by district court, and affirmed by circuit court of appeals, for delivery of assets. In re Epstein (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 635.

7. —— Appointment of receiver.—A referee in bankruptcy has jurisdiction and authority to appoint a receiver to take charge of the property of a bankrupt until the appointment and qualification of a trustee, where it is absolutely necessary for the preservation of the estate. In re Florcken (D. C. 1901) 107 Fed. 241, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 802.

But the referee's authority to appoint a receiver dates from the time the order of court referring the case to him is actually placed in his hands, and not from the time of its signing or filing. Hence the action of a referee in appointing a receiver before the delivery of the order of reference to him, and immediately upon his being informed by a telephone message that such an order had been made, would be improvident and unauthorized. Id.

8. Proceedings before referees.—A referee in bankruptcy may grant adjournments or postponements of proceedings before him, but should not do so except for good cause properly substantiated. In re Finkelstein (C. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 989; In re Hyman (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 6,984. The postponement of a meeting of the bankrupt's creditors for the purpose of allowing a restatement or perfecting of a proof of debt is a matter within the discretion of the referee, which will not be interfered with except for abuse. In re Morris (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 211, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 828.

It is in the discretion of a referee to allow or refuse a proposed amendment to a pleading in a case before him, on the same terms and in the same circumstances as would ordinarily be operative in a court of justice. Knapp & Spencer Co. v. Drew (1908) 160 Fed. 413, 87 C. C. A. 365, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 355. Where part of the subject-matter of a petition filed by a trustee before a referee is within the jurisdiction of the court, and a part is not, it should be retained, and an amendment allowed limiting it to the matter within the jurisdiction. In re Newfoundland Syndicate (D. C. 1912) 196 Fed. 443, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. 119. He should dismiss a petition presented to him by a trustee in bankruptcy but not filed in the office of the clerk of the court where such filing is necessary. In re Gerdes (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 318, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 346.

While the referee is to preside at the first meeting of the creditors, when a trustee is to be chosen, and the choice of the creditors is subject to his approval, it is highly improper for him to interfere in any way with their election of a trustee or to attempt to influence them in their choice, and on a petition by creditors alleging such interference the cause will be sent to another referee. In re Smith (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 12,971.

Where there is an appearance in a contest before a referee, the litigating parties should be notified of his decision; but where creditors do not appear, or they appear and their appearance is not noted, no duty rests upon the referee to give notice of his decisions, especially where claims are presented and no objection is made. In re Nichols (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 603, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 216.

A referee's order, directing the bankrupts to pay to the trustee a definite sum and to deliver merchandise, was sufficient in so far as it provided for the payment of money, but was fatally defective as to the merchandise for indefiniteness in failing to describe the goods. In re Kramer (D. C. 1913) 209 Fed. 627.

9. —— Taking and preservation of evidence.—It is the duty of the referee to be present in person throughout the progress of an examination and hear the evidence, unless, perhaps, where his presence is waived by the parties. It is not a proper practice to administer the oath to a witness, and then leave the parties to proceed with a stenographer. In re Wilde's Sons (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 142, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 714.

It is the duty of the referee to take and preserve all the evidence offere on the examination, and the remed his refusal to do so is by applic to the district court, and, failing t to the circuit court of appeals, fo order that it be taken and prese First Nat. Bank v. Abbott (1908) Fed. 852, 91 C. C. A. 538, 21 Bankr. Rep. 436.

In a proceeding before a refer bankruptcy to compel the delive property by a third person to trustee, it was irregular to receive hear the evidence before the trus petition was filed and the rule to cause order to the third person is In re Ballou (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed.

Upon an examination or hearin fore a referee in bankruptcy, whe objection to a question is interp it is the duty of the referee to i porate in the deposition the que asked, the fact of objection and reasons given for objection, and ruling on the objection, and then, though he decides the question t improper, to allow and require be answered and the answer to b tered in the deposition. Bank of venswood v. Johnson (1906) 143 463, 74 C. C. A. 597, 16 Am. B Rep. 206; In re Sturgeon (C. C 1905) 139 Fed. 608, 14 Am. B Rep. 681; In re Harrison (D. C. 1 197 Fed. 320, 28 Am. Bankr. Rep. In re Romine (D. C. 1905) 138 837, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 785; In r Gottardi (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723; In re L (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 379, 9 Bankr. Rep. 32; Dressel v. North Lumber Co. (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 541; First Bank v. Abbott (1908) 165 Fed. 91 C. C. A. 538, 21 Am. Bankr. 436. CONTRA, In re Graves (I 1910) 182 Fed. 443, 25 Am. B Rep. 372; In re Wilde's Sons (I 1904) 131 Fed. 142, 11 Am. B Rep. 714.

The referee has power absolute exclude evidence attempted to be tracted from a witness who is priv ed against testifying, also parti items of evidence as to which priv is claimed and where the claim s clearly be allowed, and further, dence which is clearly and unmista incompetent, irrelevant, or immat in so much that it would be an abu process or of the power of the cou compel its production or permit it troduction. First Nat. Bank v. A (1908) 165 Fed. 852, 91 C. C. A. 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 436; In re (D. C. 1914) 218 Fed. 860.

10. —— Review and reopening case.—Before the end of the time for filing a petition for a review order or decision of the refere bankruptcy by the court, such ord decision is in the control of the eree, and he may set it aside, r sider the case, and make a new o or cause shown, as, where the original rder was based on a mistake of fact. n re Brenner (D. C. 1911) 190 Fed. 09, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 646. But fter the expiration of such time, the emedy by petition for review is exlusive, and the referee cannot reiew or revoke his own orders. In e Marks (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 281, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 568; In re Greek Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 211, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 111. But some of he authorities hold that a referee may evise and change his findings and orlers on proper application and for suficient reasons, such as mistake, misnderstanding of counsel, or new evilence, though in such a case it is the roper practice to give notice to counel, so that they may be reheard on the uestion if they desire. In re Hawley (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 429, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 629; In re Porter (Pa. 1881) 14 Phila. 449.

Where a party has had an opportunity to call and examine his witnesses in a proceeding before a referee, and the matter is closed, he should not be permitted to reopen the case for the purpose of introducing omitted evidence, unless there is a special reason therefor. In re Booss (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 494, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 658.

A petition filed before a referee to review an order previously entered by him after a hearing is in the nature of a bill of review in equity and governed by the same rules of procedure. It can only be filed for error of law apparent upon the face of the decree, or because of the discovery of new evidence since the hearing, and, when on the latter ground, it can only be filed by express leave, and the evidence relied on must be relevant, material, and such as would have produced a different result, and it must have been unknown to the petitioner at the time of the hearing and such as he could not have discovered by the exercise of due diligence. In re McIntire (D. C. 1906) 142 Fed. 593, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 80.

Where a proceeding before a referee is dismissed by the court for want of jurisdiction, all that has been done in the proceeding is necessarily annulled, including the findings of the referee and the taking of evidence by him; and he cannot thereafter, in a new proceeding, base a determination of the same issues on the findings made in the prior proceeding, or consider the evidence taken therein, unless by stipulation of the parties. In re Rosenberg (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 402, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 624.

11. Certifying questions for review by judge.—The mode prescribed by General Order in Bankruptcy No. 27, for obtaining a review by the judge of orders or decisions of the referee is exclusive, and the party desiring a review must file his petition therefor in the manner prescribed, in default of which the application for review will be dismissed. In re Octave Mining Co. (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 457; In re Home Discount Co. (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 538, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 168; Craddock-Terry Co. v. Kaufman (D. C. 1900) 175 Fed. 303, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 724; In re Sharick (1901) 1 Alaska, 398; In re Smith (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 791, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 190; In re Schiller (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 400, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 704. Specific questions arising in proceedings before a referee in bankruptcy, and upon which the opinion of the district judge is desired, should be presented on the certificate of the referee, or, in the case of orders entered, on petition for review, and not in the form of an assignment of errors. In re T. L. Kelly Dry-Goods Co. (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 747, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 528. Counsel desiring to be heard by the court must file exceptions to the findings of the referee, as required by the rule of the court. In re Carolina Cooperage Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 604. An attempted appeal from an order of the referee rejecting a claim as a secured claim confers no power of review on the court. In re Octave Mining Co. (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 457.

The decision of the referee on a contest between the bankrupt and one of his creditors cannot be certified to the judge for review when the referee's finding is not followed by any order made by him. In re Smith (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 791, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 190. An order of a referee denying a motion to dismiss a petition by the trustee to require the bankrupt to turn over property is not reviewable because not a final order. In re Schimmel (D. C. 1913) 203 Fed. 181, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 361.

In order to be properly certified to the judge, the question must arise regularly in the course of proceedings before the referee, and between parties having the legal right to raise it. No opinion can be asked, or will be given, upon merely abstract questions or hypothetical questions, nor upon such as are merely anticipated or likely to arise. The question must be one actually arising and existing on issues of law or fact in proceedings had. Questions stated by consent must be by parties in a particular case upon proceedings actually had. In re Pulver (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 46, Fed. Cas. No. 11,466; In re Wright (D. C. 1873) 1 N. B. R. 393, Fed. Cas. No. 18,069; In re Sturgeon (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 498, Fed. Cas. No. 13,564; In re Bray (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 139, Fed. Cas. No. 1,818; In re Peck (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 757, Fed. Cas. No. 10,887; In re Haskell (D. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 558, Fed. Cas. No. 6,191.

The petition for review is not to be filed in the office of the clerk of the court, but with the referee, but if it is wrongly filed, by inadvertence, it rests within the discretion of the court, in the absence of any rule on the subject, to permit the mistake to be corrected, even though the time ordinarily limited for the filing of such petitions has elapsed. In re Nippon Trading Co. (D. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 959, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 695.

In the absence of any provision in the statute or the rules of the court, a petition to review an order of a referee in bankruptcy does not of itself operate as a supersedeas, and whether or not it shall have that effect rests in the discretion of the reviewing or reviewed authority in the particular case; but the district court may provide by rule that such a petition for review shall not operate as a supersedeas, unless a bond be given to indemnify the opposite party in such sum as may be prescribed by the referee or the judge, or it may require the petitioner to give security for the costs of the review. In re Home Discount Co. (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 538, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 168.

12. —— Parties entitled to review.—The review must be asked for by some person entitled. The referee should not certify any question to the court until requested to do so in a proper manner. In re Ruos (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 252, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 281; In re Clark Coal & Coke Co. (D. C. 1909) 173 Fed. 658, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 273. And where no party in interest has asked that an order of the referee be certified for review, it is not reviewable merely on a report by the referee of his proceedings in the case, including the order. In re Kimmel (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 665, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 595. And the referee himself has no jurisdiction, of his own motion, to certify a question not raised by the parties to the bankruptcy proceeding, but which the referee anticipates may arise, and on which he desires to be advised. In re Reukauff, Sons & Co. (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 251, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 344.

13. —— Time of petitioning for review.—Since neither the statute nor the rules prescribed by the supreme court fix any particular time within which a party aggrieved by a ruling or order of a referee must file his petition for review, the time may be limited by a rule of the particular court, and if this is not done, the only limitation is that the petition must be filed within a reasonable time. In re Verdon Cigar Co. (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 813, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 56; In re Foss (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 790, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 439; In re Rome (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 971, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 820; Bacon v. Roberts (1906) 146 Fed. 729, 77 C. C. A. 155, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 421; In re Grant (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 661, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 256; In re Sharick (1901) 1 Alaska, 398; Crim v. Woodford (1905) 136 Fed. 34, 68 C. C. A. 584, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 302; In re Nichols (D. C. 1908) 166 Fed. 603, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 216.

Whether a petition for review was filed within a reasonable time in a g en case is to be determined by the d trict court in its discretion, in the sence of any rule of court on the s ject, and its action will not be review by the appellate court except for abuse of discretion or manifest err Bacon v. Roberts (1906) 146 Fed. 7 77 C. C. A. 155, 17 Am. Bankr. R 421.

A reasonable time to file a petit for review of an order of a referee bankruptcy is the time fixed for an peal from the same class of orders. re Nichols (D. C. 1909) 166 Fed. 6 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 216; In re N pon Trading Co. (D. C. 1910) 182 F 959, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 695.

The filing of a petition for review an order of a referee, 30 days af such order was made, held to have b within a reasonable time, in the sence of any rule of court on the s ject, and where it appeared that prejudice resulted from the delay. re Foss (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 790, Am. Bankr. Rep. 439. Where a cr itor's petition for review was filed days after the making of an order punging his claim, the creditor hav been away from home a considera part of the intervening time, he not guilty of such laches as authori the dismissal of the petition. In Rome (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 971, Am. Bankr. Rep. 820. A petition review a referee's order in bankrup not filed until 30 days after the en of the order, is too late. In re W (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 348, 30 Bankr. Rep. 298. A delay of ne five months in filing a petition to view a referee's ruling in bankru constituted laches for which the p tion would be dismissed, where the excuse was the pendency of an ap taken by another party from an or disallowing a part of another cl which prevented the closing and settlement of the estate. In re Ver Cigar Co. (D. C. 1913) 193 Fed. 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 56. An order missing a petition for review filed days after the making of the or sought to be reviewed, on the groun unreasonable delay, was not an abus discretion, where no good reason the delay was shown. Bacon v. Rob (1906) 146 Fed. 729, 77 C. C. A. 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 421. A peti filed more than three months after order was made, and on the day f for the declaring of a dividend, was reasonably late, especially as the eree had repeatedly called the at tion of counsel to the matter, and it held that, on the objection of the tr tee, the referee was justified in re ing to certify the matter to the co In re Grant (D. C. 1906) 143 Fed. 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 256. A peti filed six months after the date of order complained of is clearly and tainly too late and should be dismis In re Sharick (1901) 1 Alaska, petition to review the order of a ref-e in bankruptcy comes too late, when d nearly 11 months after the decision nplained of. In re Octave Mining

. (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed. 457.

But this rule does not apply to a mon to vacate an order made by a ref-ee in bankruptcy, on the ground that had no jurisdiction to make it. Such notion should be entertained at any e and disposed of on the merits, as doctrine of laches does not apply such a case. In re Willis W. Russell rd Co. (D. C. 1909) 174 Fed. 202,
Am. Bankr. Rep. 300.

A referee is not required to stop proedings before him and certify to the urt for decision questions raised on jections to evidence. Bank of Ranswood v. Johnson (1906) 143 Fed.
3, 74 C. C. A. 597, 16 Am. Bankr.
p. 206.

4. —— Exceptions.—It is not necesy for the purpose of obtaining a re-w that formal exceptions should have en taken to the decision and ruling the referee; the want of them will t prevent the court from reviewing e matter in question, unless they are quired by a local rule of court. In Peoples' Department Store Co. (D.
1908) 159 Fed. 286, 20 Am. Bankr.
p. 244; In re Swift (D. C. 1902) 118
d. 348, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 237; In Miner (D. C. 1902) 117 Fed. 953, Am. Bankr. Rep. 100. But if exptions are taken before a referee in nkruptcy, they must be specific, as quired by the settled practice of the deral courts. Dressel v. North State mber Co. (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 531, Am. Bankr. Rep. 541. In the absence such exceptions, the specific errors law complained of must be clearly d distinctly pointed out in the petion for review. In re Carver (D. C.
02) 113 Fed. 138, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep.
9; In re Covington (D. C. 1901) 110
ed. 143, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 373.

15. —— Record on petition for re-ew.—Where the referee transmits to e clerk of the court the creditor's pe-tion for review, the notes of the tesmony, and his own opinion, this is not compliance with General Order in ankruptcy No. 27, requiring him to ertify "the question presented, a sumary of the evidence relating thereto, nd the finding or order of the referee hereon." In re Kurtz (D. C. 1903)
25 Fed. 992, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 129.
Where it appeared that the referee, in-tead of making a summary of the evience, returned all the evidence that as taken, and the matter was determin-d by the judge without any motion aving been made to require the evience to be summarized, it was held at the proceeding for review was not validated, where it involved substan-al matters, because the rule was not bserved by the referee. Crim v.
Foodford (1905) 136 Fed. 34, 68 C. C.
A. 584, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 302. Where objections to evidence offered before a referee were sustained, the referee, at the request of the party offering the same, was not required to certify the objections made to the court for revision. In re Romine (D. C. 1905) 138 Fed. 837, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 785.

The report of a referee of a hearing and order on a motion to require delivery of property to a trustee should contain his finding of the ultimate facts in issue, and not merely a summary of the evidence on which his order was based. In re Turetz (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 400.

Where a referee's findings were not sufficiently definite to enable the court on a petition to review to determine the legal questions involved, the proceeding will be remanded to the referee for further hearing and additional findings. In re Hawley Down Draft Furnace Co. (D. C. 1914) 214 Fed. 500.

Where any matter is referred to a referee in bankruptcy to find the facts, it is proper for him in his report to state his conclusions on the facts found. In re Baker (D. C. 1913) 212 Fed. 765.

16. Review of proceedings by judge.—The jurisdiction of the district courts to review the orders and rulings of referees is exclusive, and an appeal cannot be taken directly from the referee to the circuit court of appeals, but only from a decision of the district court. Knapp & Spencer Co. v. Drew (1908) 160 Fed. 413, 87 C. C. A. 365, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 355.

Where a court of bankruptcy, on a petition for review of an order of a referee requiring a bankrupt to turn over certain property to his trustee, or to pay its value, made an order giving the bankrupt a stated time within which to comply with the order of the referee, it was impliedly an affirmance of such order, and it is not again subject to review in subsequent proceedings. But the fact that the court, in affirming such order, struck out a provision for the commitment of the bankrupt in case of his default, and gave him additional time, is not an adjudication that he should not be so punished, but leaves that matter to be brought up anew by motion in case the bankrupt fails to obey the order within the time allowed. In re Hershkowitz (D. C. 1903) 136 Fed. 950, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 86.

A petition to review an order or ruling of a referee in bankruptcy does not contemplate a general review of the entire proceeding before the referee. In re T. L. Kelly Dry-Goods Co. (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 747, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 528; In re Stokes (D. C. 1910) 185 Fed. 994, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 255. And see In re Tudor (D. C.) 96 Fed. 942, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 808. Where the only matter certified to the district court for review by the referee was an order overruling a demurrer to and denying a motion to strike out portions of a motion filed by a trustee, a subsequent order made by the referee on such motion was not before the district court for review. Ellis v. Krulewitch (1905) 141 Fed. 954, 73 C. C. A. 270, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 615. A petition for review of a referee's order in bankruptcy does not contemplate a trial of the whole proceeding de novo by the district judge. In re Home Discount Co. (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 538, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 168. Upon a review of a referee's decision, the judge is not bound to reverse because of the erroneous admission or exclusion of evidence, but it is his duty to determine the issue de novo upon all the evidence in the record which he decides to be competent. In re De Gottardi (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 328, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 723. On such review, the court may properly consider any point presented by the record before it, whether or not such point was discussed before or by the referee. In re Samuel Wilde's Sons (1906) 144 Fed. 972, 75 C. C. A. 601, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 386; In re Elmore Cotton Mills (D. C. 1914) 217 Fed. 810.

It is perfectly permissible for the judge to take new testimony if it is offered before him. In re Leech (1909) 171 Fed. 622, 96 C. C. A. 424, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 599. But generally, the judge will restrict his consideration of the case to the specific errors complained of in the petition, and to such objections and exceptions as were raised in the proceedings before the referee, and matters not then pressed, or not mentioned in the petition, will be considered as waived. In re McCann Bros. Ice Co. (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 265, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 555; In re Rome (D. C. 1908) 162 Fed. 971, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 820; In re Scott (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 404, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 625; In re Carolina Cooperage Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 604; In re Cohn (D. C. 1909) 171 Fed. 568, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. 761.

On petition to review an order of the referee, the court is authorized to protect and secure to the bankrupt any substantial right of his which may have been overlooked by the referee, though there may be no specific assignment of error in relation thereto. In re Monongahela Distillery Co. (D. C. 1910) 186 Fed. 220.

In a summary proceeding before a referee in bankruptcy to enforce performance of a contract between the bankrupt and a third party, it was not too late to question the referee's jurisdiction on a petition to review his order. In re Ballou (D. C. 1914) 215 Fed. 810.

The discretionary power of a referee to direct a private sale of a bankrupt's estate will not be disturbed unless it clearly appears to have been improvidently exercised. In re Knox Automobile Co. (D. C. 1913) 210 Fed. 569.

Creditors who petitioned for review of an order of a referee and ob its reversal held not entitled to p ence over other creditors havin cisely similar claims who did no in the petition. In re Jamison B Co. (1913) 209 Fed. 541, 126 C. 363.

17. —— Effect of referee's fi of fact.—On review of a ruling or of a referee in bankruptcy, his de upon a question of fact will be e to respectful consideration, but wi possess any conclusive or constr force, where it is a deduction or ence from admitted or established of which the judge may take a dif view. In re McCrary Bros. (1 1909) 169 Fed. 485, 22 Am. B Rep. 161; Ohio Valley Bank C Mack (1906) 163 Fed. 155, 89 A. 605, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 40; Peoples' Department Store Co. (1908) 159 Fed. 286, 20 Am. B Rep. 244. The referee's findin fact, while presumptively correct not as conclusive as the verdict jury, or as findings of fact made judge in an action at law, where a has been waived. In re Hawks (1913) 204 Fed. 309, 30 Am. B Rep. 365.

If the referee's decisions or fin on questions of fact are based u review of conflicting evidence, or involved the necessity of weighin credibility of witnesses, they are titled to very great weight, and not be rejected or disregarded b court unless clearly and manifestl roneous. In re Booth (D. C. 189 Fed. 943, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 77 re Rome Planing Mill Co. (D. C. 1 99 Fed. 937, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. In re Waxelbaum (D. C. 1900) Fed. 228, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 120 re Stout (D. C. 1900) 109 Fed. 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 505; In re Covi (D. C. 1901) 110 Fed. 143, 6 Bankr. Rep. 373; In re Miner (1 1902) 117 Fed. 953, 9 Am. B Rep. 100; In re Williams (D. C. 1 120 Fed. 542, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. In re Shults (D. C. 1905) 135 623, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 378; Benjamin (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 351; In re S & Sternberg (D. C. 1907) 151 Fed. 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 204; In re yon (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 863, 19 Bankr. Rep. 194; In re Littman C. 1908) 159 Fed. 233, 20 Am. B Rep 300; In re Hatem (D. C. 1 161 Fed. 895, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. Ohio Valley Bank Co. v. Mack (1 163 Fed. 155, 89 C. C. A. 605, 20 Bankr. Rep. 40; In re Braselton C. 1909) 169 Fed. 960, 22 Am. B Rep. 419; In re MacKissic (D 1909) 171 Fed. 259, 22 Am. B Rep. 817; Fouche v. Shearer (D 1909) 172 Fed. 592, 22 Am. B Rep. 828; In re Hoffman (D. C. 1 173 Fed. 234, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep In re C. K. Hutchins Co. (D. C. 1 9 Fed. 864, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 647; re Schwartz (D. C. 1909) 179 Fed. 7, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 37; In re umhauer (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 966, Am. Bankr. Rep. 750; In re Boner D. C. 1910) 189 Fed. 93, 26 Am. ankr. Rep. 321; In re Brenner (D. 1911) 190 Fed. 209, 26 Am. Bankr. ep. 646; In re American National everage Co. (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 2; In re Silverman (D. C. 1913) 6 Fed. 960; Couts v. Townsend (D. 1903) 126 Fed. 249, 11 Am. Bankr. ep. 126; In re Soloway & Katz (D. 1912) 195 Fed. 103, 28 Am. Bankr. ep. 228; In re Charlestown Light & ower Co. (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 846, Am. Bankr. Rep. 721; In re Cox D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 952, 29 Am. ankr. Rep. 456; McCulloch v. Davenort Savings Bank (D. C. 1915) 226 ed. 309; In re Cozatsky (D. C. 1914) 6 Fed. 920; In re Heffron Co. (D. 1914) 216 Fed. 642; In re Gay & urgis (D. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 127; In re Malschick & Levin (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 71.

A finding by a referee that a claim for a mechanic's lien did not involve "construction," and therefore that the lien was not filed in time, held a finding of fact which, being based on evidence, would not be set aside on review. In re Kligerman (D. C. 1915) 219 Fed. 758.

On review by the district judge of an order made by the referee in bankruptcy, requiring the bankrupt to surrender to his trustee money or property alleged to be in his possession and to constitute assets of his estate, the ordinary rule as to the force of the referee's findings of fact is not applicable, because the determination is not governed by the weight of testimony, but it is the duty of the judge to ascertain that cause is shown for making such an order beyond a reasonable doubt. In re Mayer (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 839, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 533.

9623. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 39.) Duties of referees.

Duties of Referees.—a Referees shall (1) declare dividends and repare and deliver to trustees dividend sheets showing the dividends declared and to whom payable; (2) examine all schedules f property and lists of creditors filed by bankrupts and cause such as re incomplete or defective to be amended; (3) furnish such information concerning the estates in process of administration before them s may be requested by the parties in interest; (4) give notices to reditors as herein provided; (5) make up records embodying the vidence, or the substance thereof, as agreed upon by the parties n all contested matters arising before them, whenever requested to o so by either of the parties thereto, together with their findings herein, and transmit them to the judges; (6) prepare and file the chedules of property and lists of creditors required to be filed by he bankrupts, or cause the same to be done, when the bankrupts ail, refuse, or neglect to do so; (7) safely keep, perfect, and transmit o the clerks the records, herein required to be kept by them, when he cases are concluded; (8) transmit to the clerks such papers s may be on file before them whenever the same are needed in any roceedings in courts, and in like manner secure the return of such papers after they have been used, or, if it be impracticable to transmit he original papers, transmit certified copies thereof by mail; (9) upon application of any party in interest, preserve the evidence taken or the substance thereof as agreed upon by the parties before them when a stenographer is not in attendance; and (10) whenever their respective offices are in the same cities or towns where the courts of bankruptcy convene, call upon and receive from the clerks all papers filed in courts of bankruptcy which have been referred to them.

b Referees shall not (1) act in cases in which they are directly or ndirectly interested; (2) practice as attorneys and counselors at law in any bankruptcy proceedings; or (3) purchase, directly or indirectly, any property of an estate in bankruptcy. (30 Stat. 555, 556.)

Notes of Decisions

See notes under § 9622, ante.

§ 9624. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 40, as amended, Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 9.) Compensation of referees.

Compensation of Referees.—a Referees shall receive as full compensation for their services, payable after they are rendered, a fee of fifteen dollars deposited with the clerk at the time the petitic filed in each case, except when a fee is not required from a volun bankrupt, and twenty-five cents for every proof of claim filed allowance, to be paid from the estate, if any, as a part of the of administration, and from estates which have been administ before them one per centum commissions on all moneys disbu to creditors by the trustee, or one-half of one per centum on amount to be paid to creditors upon the confirmation of a c position.

b Whenever a case is transferred from one referee to anothe judge shall determine the proportion in which the fee and commiss therefor shall be divided between the referees.

c In the event of the reference of a case being revoked before concluded, and when the case is specially referred, the judge determine what part of the fee and commissions shall be paid tc referee. (30 Stat. 556. 32 Stat. 799.)

In this section, as originally enacted, subdivision a was as follows:

"a Referees shall receive as full compensation for their services, payabl er they are rendered, a fee of ten dollars deposited with the clerk at the the petition is filed in each case, except when a fee is not required from a v tary bankrupt, and from estates which have been administered before the per centum commissions on sums to be paid as dividends and commissio one-half of one per centum on the amount to be paid to creditors upo confirmation of a composition."

Said subdivision was amended by Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 9, cited abo read as set forth here.

Section 19 of said amendatory Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, 32 Stat. 801 vided that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending when it effect, but that such cases should be adjudicated and disposed of confor to the provisions of the original act.

Referees were prohibited from receiving any further compensation than allowed by the act, by section 72, added thereto by amendment by Act 5, 1903, c. 487, § 18, post, § 9656.

Notes of Decisions

Fees and expenses of referees.—Prior to the amendment of 1903, particular matters or issues arising in the course of a bankruptcy case could be referred to the referee in the character of a special master, and fees or compensation allowed to him as such. In re Hurley (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 126, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 567; In re Goldville Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 579, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 552. See In re Talton (D. C. 1905) 137 Fed. 178, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 617. Where objections to a bankrupt's application for discharge were referred to the referee for hearing and report, he was entitled to a reasonable allowance for his services, in addition to the fees allowed him by the bankruptcy act. Fellows v. Freudenthal (1900) 102 Fed. 731, 42 C. C. A. 607, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 490; In re Grossman (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 507, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 510; Bragassa v. St. Louis Cycle (1901) 107 Fed. 77, 46 C. C. A. 154, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 700. CONTRA, In re Wilcox (D. C. 1907) 156 Fed. 685, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 241.

Since the amendatory act of 1903, the court is absolutely prohibited from allowing any extra or additional compensation to the referee for any services whatever. In re Daniels (D. C. 1904) 130 Fed. 597, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 446; In re Mammoth Pine Lumber Co. (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 731, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 651; Dressel v. North State ber Co. (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. Am. Bankr. Rep. 541; In re Trot C. 1900) 104 Fed. 291, 4 Am. Rep. 780. And the court cannot convert a referee in bankruptcy special master and compensate h such. In re Sweeney (1909) 168 612, 94 C. C. A. 90, 21 Am. Bankr 866. Power of court to allow co sation to a referee for services re ed as special master considered. Langford, Felts & Myers. (D. C. 225 Fed. 311.

On an issue raised on an involu bankruptcy petition as to whethe court had jurisdiction and the a bankrupt was subject to adjudic the fees of the referee under ruptcy Rule 10 cannot exceed $1 re Hurley (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed

The compensation of the refer fixed by the statute will not be aba diminished in a particular case be some of the duties which ordi would be discharged by the refer the holding of hearings and mak orders, were assumed by the jud the request of the parties, on ac of the magnitude of the interes volved and the unusual character proceedings. In re Barber (1 1899) 97 Fed. 547, 3 Am. Bankr. 306.

A referee cannot make an arge for his services in presiding at editors' meetings, conducting the examination of the bankrupt, or making it the dividend sheet, as these services are particularly required of him by the statute, and are supposed to be compensated by the $15 fee. In re Barker (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 501, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 132.

Under General Order in Bankruptcy No. 35, a referee is entitled only to necessary expenses incurred by him in publishing or mailing notices, in traveling, in perpetuating testimony, or in the performance of other duties under the act and allowed by special order of the court. He is not entitled to the allowance of a per diem for his services when away from home, to traveling expenses of a clerk, nor to hire of a clerk or stenographer unless the necessity therefor is shown. In re Elk Valley Coal Mining Co. (D. C. 1914) 213 Fed. 383.

The referee may make a general charge for blanks used in mailing notices to creditors and for orders entered, and also for the hire of a clerk, where the extent of his business is such that a clerk is needed, which charge should be a gross sum, and uniform in each case, regardless of the amount of work done. In re Pierce (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 516, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 747; In re Tebo (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 419, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 235; In re Mammoth Pine Lumber Co. (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 731, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 651. Compare In re Carolina Cooperage Co. (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 950, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 154; In re Dean (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 249, Fed. Cas. No. 3,699.

Expenses incurred by the referee in the publication of notice of the bankrupt's application for discharge, and for stationery, are chargeable against the bankrupt. In re Dixon (D. C. 1902) 114 Fed. 675, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 145.

The referee's order allowing fees to himself and the trustee is reviewable by the court. In re Allert (D. C. 1908) 173 Fed. 691, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 101. It may be so reviewed even after payment has been made to the trustee, if the referee's account was not presented to and passed upon by the court as required. In re Mammoth Pine Lumber Co. (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 731, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 651. But not where his account was duly kept, presented, and approved and distribution of the estate has already been made. In re Tebo (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 419, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 235.

Commissions of referees.—A referee in bankruptcy is only entitled to commissions on moneys disbursed to creditors under his authority, and not on the claims and liabilities scheduled. In re Philips & McEachin (C. C. A. 1914) 210 Fed. 889.

As originally enacted, the bankruptcy act allowed commissions to the referee and trustee on sums disbursed "as dividends and commissions." And it was held that this restricted them to the specified percentage on such sums as were available for, and distributed to, the general or unsecured creditors; that the payment in full of those claims which were entitled to priority (taxes, labor claims, etc.) was not the payment of a "dividend," and that commissions could not be reckoned either on the amount so paid out or on sums paid over to mortgagees or other secured creditors or lien holders. In re Iowa Falls Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1905) 140 Fed. 527, 15 Am. Bankr. Rep. 384; In re Hinckel Brewing Co. (D. C. 1903) 124 Fed. 702, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 692; In re Goldville Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 579, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 522; In re Mammoth Pine Lumber Co. (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 731, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 651; Hawthorne v. Hendrie & Bolthoff Mfg. & Supply Co. (1911) 50 Colo. 342, 116 Pac. 122; In re Barker (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 501, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 132; In re Smith (D. C. 1901) 108 Fed. 39, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 559; In re Utt (1901) 105 Fed. 754, 45 C. C. A. 32, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 383; In re Barber (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 547, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 306; In re Fielding (D. C. 1899) 96 Fed. 800, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 135; In re Fort Wayne Electric Corp. (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 109, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 706; In re Fielding, 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 735; In re Sabine, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 312. Where pledged securities having a market value about equal to the secured loans were sold in bankruptcy, realizing a small surplus, referee held entitled to commissions only on the surplus. In re Meadows (C. C. A. 1914) 211 Fed. 948, affirming order (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 304. The setting apart of a homestead exemption to the bankrupt from the proceeds of property sold by the trustee, was not the making of a dividend so as to entitle the referee to a commission on the amount. In re Gardner (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 922, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 420. This rule was applied although the whole estate in bankruptcy might be consumed in the payment of priority claims and secured debts, leaving nothing on which a commission for the referee could be computed. Smith v. Township of Au Gres (C. C. A. 1906) 150 Fed. 257, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 745.

Since the amendments of 1903 and 1910, referees are entitled to commissions on moneys received and disbursed by the trustee which were derived from the sale of mortgaged property, and which were covered by and applicable to the payment of the lien. In re Howard (D. C. 1913) 207 Fed. 402; In re Anders Push Button Telephone Co. (D. C. 1905) 136 Fed. 995, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 643; In re Holmes Lumber Co. (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 178, 26

Am. Bankr. Rep. 119. The referee is not entitled to recover fees out of the proceeds of a sale of mortgaged property when it brings less than the amount of the mortgage debt. In re Stewart (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 791, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529. And this rule applies although the property is purchased by the party holding the incumbrance, the price in such case being treated as constructively paid to the trustee. In re Columbia Cotton Oil & Provision Corporation (C. C. A. 1913) 210 Fed. 824; In re Sanford Furniture Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1903) 126 Fed. 888, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 414; In re Morse Iron Works & Dry Dock Co. (D. C. 1906) 154 Fed. 214, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 846. Compare In re Ft. Wayne Electric Corp. (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 109, 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 706.

The referee is entitled to commissions on sums which would have been paid through the trustee but for an outside agreement between the parties and their attorneys. In re Sanford Furniture Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1903) 126 Fed. 888, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 414. The referee in bankruptcy held entitled to fees upon the total amount of the assets transferred to a new corporation, not upon the amount actually received at the sale of the assets subject to existing liens. In re Breakwater Co. (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 226, decree reversed American Surety Co. v. Freed (1915) 224 Fed. 333, 140 C. C. A. 19. Where, to preserve assets of a bankrupt, they were transferred to corporation for a small sum, and secured and unsecured creditors received stock, the commissions to referee must be based on the cash. American Surety Co. v. Freed (1915) 224 Fed. 333, 140 C. C. A. 19, reversing decree In re Breakwater (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 226. An agreement by a referee in bankruptcy to reduce his fees to enable a reorganization plan to be carried out, which was approved by practically all of the creditors, is not illegal. In re Breakwater Co. (D. C. 1915) 220 Fed. 226, decree reversed American Surety Co. v. Freed (19 224 Fed. 333, 140 C. C. A. 19.

When the trustee is permitted to pledged collaterals on paying the for which they were pledged, the ance of the price after paying the constitutes the "money disbursed" which the commissions are to be mated. In re Meadows (D. C. 19 199 Fed. 304, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. Property which comes into the pos sion of the trustee through the frau the bankrupt, and which is restore the defrauded party, is not a par the estate in bankruptcy out of w the officers may be allowed their st tory percentage. Gillespie v. J. C. & Co. (1910) 178 Fed. 886, 102 C A. 120, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 502. the same is true of real estate for recovery of which the trustee brought suit, but which never co into the estate, because it is made subject of a private settlement betw the claimant and the creditors, the tee thereupon dismissing his suit. re Kaiser (D. C. 1902) 112 Fed. 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 108.

A referee is not entitled to com sions on money paid out by a trust conducting the business of the bank In re J. Bacon & Sons (D. C. 1915) Fed. 764. Where a bankrupt's tru is permitted to continue the bankr business under the supervision of referee, the latter is not entitle commissions on funds disbursed the trustee on debts incurred by but is limited to commissions on eys disbursed by the trustee to c tors. In re M. F. Rourke Co. (D 1913) 209 Fed. 877. Where the ref continued the bankrupt's business in der to complete certain governm contracts, and for that purpose r and paid out nearly $500,000 durin period of 18 months, and as a r distributed to creditors about $30 he was entitled to commissions onl the latter sum. Bray v. Joh (1908) 166 Fed. 57, 91 C. C. A. 64 Am. Bankr. Rep. 383.

§ 9625. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 41.) Contempts before refer

Contempts before Referees.—a A person shall not, in proce ings before a referee, (1) disobey or resist any lawful or process, or writ; (2) misbehave during a hearing or so near the p thereof as to obstruct the same; (3) neglect to produce, after hav been ordered to do so, any pertinent document; or (4) refuse to pear after having been subpœnaed, or, upon appearing, refuse to t the oath as a witness, or, after having taken the oath, refuse to be amined according to law: Provided, That no person shall be quired to attend as a witness before a referee at a place outside of State of his residence, and more than one hundred miles from s place of residence, and only in case his lawful mileage and fee one day's attendance, shall be first paid or tendered to him.

b The referee shall certify the facts to the judge, if any per shall do any of the things forbidden in this section. The judge s thereupon, in a summary manner, hear the evidence as to the complained of, and, if it is such as to warrant him in so do unish such person in the same manner and to the same extent as or a contempt committed before the court of bankruptcy, or commit uch person upon the same conditions as if the doing of the forbidden ct had occurred with reference to the process of, or in the presence f, the court. (30 Stat. 556.)

Notes of Decisions

Contempts before referees.—It is the ourt alone that possesses the power f punishment for contempt, and it is rror to leave the question of comitment by way of punishment or as a eans of enforcing obedience, to the scretion of the referee. Smith v. Belord (1901) 106 Fed. 658, 45 C. C. A. 26, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 291; In re Iaring (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 168, 27 m. Bankr. Rep. 285.

If a party affected by an order of the eferee, requiring him to take certain ction forthwith, files a petition for reiew by the judge, but does not seure a supersedeas, the referee's order ontinues operative, and the failure to bey it is a contempt, which cannot e justified on the theory that it is not n offense to disobey the order until fter it has been confirmed by the court. n re Home Discount Co. (D. C. 1906) 47 Fed. 538, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 168. But see Brown v. Detroit Trust Co. 1912) 193 Fed. 622, 113 C. C. A. 490, olding that where a third person was rdered by the referee to surrender roperty of the bankrupt in his possesion within a limited time, and, before he expiration of such time, he took roceedings to review the order of the eferee, those proceedings suspended he operation of the referee's order, nd therefore a judgment imposing a ne on defendant for contempt in failng to comply with the order was eroneous.

Failure or refusal to obey an order ade by a referee in bankruptcy reuiring the bankrupt or some third peron to surrender money or property to he trustee in bankruptcy is punishable s a contempt. In re Graessler (1907) 54 Fed. 478, 83 C. C. A. 304, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 694; In re Home Discount Co. (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 538, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 168; In re Soloway & Katz D. C. 1912) 195 Fed. 100, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 225. But where a trusee in bankruptcy, being ordered by the eferee to demand assets of the estate rom his attorney, obeys the order and nakes such demand, he is not guilty of ontempt though the attorney refuses o comply with the demand. In re Stemper (D. C. 1915) 222 Fed. 690.

Where referee orders private sale of roperty, inducing bidder to withdraw id in order that another may purchase t a lower price, held punishable as a ontempt. In re Boyd (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 1003.

A court of bankruptcy has no power o commit any person for a contempt ommitted before a referee, except strictly in accordance with the provisions of this section, which require that the proceedings shall be based on a certificate of the referee. In re Gitkin (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 71, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 113.

The referee may certify contumacious behavior on the part of the bankrupt to the court for punishment as for contempt without notice to him, as he will have notice and an opportunity to be heard in the proceedings before the court. But where the referee does not act on his own motion, in contempt proceedings against a bankrupt, but on the motion or petition of some one else, the bankrupt should be accorded notice and a hearing before the referee. In re Magen (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 572, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 63.

In proceedings for contempt before a court of bankruptcy, the pleadings pro and con may be of a summary character, but while no pleading on the part of the respondent may be necessary, it is often advantageous to set out the defense in a definite manner, with a view to bringing the issues clearly before the appellate court. In re Goodrich (1910) 184 Fed. 5, 106 C. C. A. 207, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 787.

The statute does not invest courts of bankruptcy with broader powers in the matter of punishment for contempt than are possessed by other federal courts; and the mode of proceeding in such courts to determine whether a constructive contempt has been committed should conform to the established practice in like cases in other courts of the United States, as near as may be. Boyd v. Glucklich (1902) 116 Fed. 131, 53 C. C. A. 451, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 393.

The classification of contempts and contempt proceedings into civil and criminal contempts is applicable to proceedings in bankruptcy. In re Kahn (C. C. A. 1913) 204 Fed. 581.

An order of commitment of a bankruptcy court is not invalid because it does not run in the name of the United States. Mueller v. Nugent (1902) 184 U. S. 1, 22 Sup. Ct. 269, 46 L. Ed. 405.

A person cannot be held in contempt for disobedience of an order made by a referee in bankruptcy unless the order was based upon a sufficient finding of the facts to inform the party affected, fully and completely, of the action which he is required to take. In re Rogowski (D. C. 1908) 166 Fed. 165, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 553.

The provision of this section, that the judge shall in a summary manner hear the evidence as to the acts complained of, requires a hearing as to the facts, and by necessary implication excludes any inference that the alleged contemnor is to be purged merely by a denial upon oath. In re Boyd (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 1003.

Where a person is in contempt for failure to perform a duty imposed by the bankruptcy law, he should first be allowed to purge himself of the civil contempt by performing the duty, after which he may be fined or imprisoned for the criminal contempt, if not excused. In re Farkas (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 343.

A person charged with contempt committed before a referee will not be heard to allege in defense matters which were set up and contested in the proceedings before the referee, such contentions being res judicata. In re Home Discount Co. (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 538, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. In re Strobel (D. C. 1908) 163 280, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 754.

Intentional and willful disobe of an order clearly within the ju tion of the referee to make, persis continued, cannot be justified as been under the advice of counse re Home Discount Co. (D. C. 190 Fed. 538, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 1

In a proceeding to punish a rupt for failure or refusal to ob order of the referee requiring surrender to his trustee proper leged to be in his possession and t stitute assets of his estate in ban cy, the order of the referee is no clusive as to the existence of the which would justify it, or as t ability of the bankrupt to compl re Haring (D. C. 1912) 193 Fe 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 285.

§ 9626. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 42.) Records of referees.

Records of Referees.—a The records of all proceedings in case before a referee shall be kept as nearly as may be in the manner as records are now kept in equity cases in circuit cou the United States.

b A record of the proceedings in each case shall be kept in a rate book or books, and shall, together with the papers or constitute the records of the case.

c The book or books containing a record of the proceedings when the case is concluded before the referee, be certified to by and, together with such papers as are on file before him, be t mitted to the court of bankruptcy and shall there remain as a of the records of the court. (30 Stat. 556, 557.)

The circuit courts were abolished and their jurisdiction transferred district courts by Jud. Code, §§ 289–291, ante, §§ 1266–1268.

Notes of Decisions

Records and accounts of referees.—The provisions of the bankruptcy act do not constitute the referee the keeper of the records nor authorize him to certify records directly to a circuit court of appeals. Cook Inlet Coal Fields Co. v. Caldwell (1906) 147 Fed. 475, 78 C. C. A. 17, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 135.

A referee in bankruptcy is not required to furnish copies of the papers or proceedings before him; and the jurisdiction of a referee to proceed with a hearing on a reference made by the court is not affected by his refusal to furnish to a party, on demand, a copy of the petition on which the hearing is based and of the order of reference. In re Lewin (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 850, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 632.

Original papers referred to bankrupt's deposition and a thereto cannot be withdrawn fr files at the option of the bankru the court may order a withdraw good reason shown by a party ested. In re McNair (D. C. 1 N. B. R. 343, Fed. Cas. No. 8,90 Exceptions to the referee's c against the estate in bankruptcy expenses therein will not be he the court, when the referee's a of such expenses has been dul and returned to the court unde with vouchers, as required by la approved by the court, and esp when distribution of the estate ready been made before such tions are presented. In re Tel C. 1900) 101 Fed. 419, 4 Am. Rep. 235.

§ 9627. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 43.) Referee's absence o ability.

Referee's Absence or Disability.—a Whenever the office referee is vacant, or its occupant is absent or disqualified t the judge may act, or may appoint another referee, or an feree holding an appointment under the same court may, by order the judge, temporarily fill the vacancy. (30 Stat. 557.)

9628. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 44.) Appointment of trustees. Appointment of Trustees.—a The creditors of a bankrupt estate all, at their first meeting after the adjudication or after a vancy has occurred in the office of trustee, or after an estate has en reopened, or after a composition has been set aside or a disarge revoked, or if there is a vacancy in the office of trustee, apint one trustee or three trustees of such estate. If the creditors not appoint a trustee or trustees as herein provided, the court all do so. (30 Stat. 557.)

Notes of Decisions

Election of trustee.
— Conduct of election.
— Adjournment of meeting.
— Cases where no trustee appointed.
— Rights of creditors as voters.
— Secured and preferred creditors.
— Majority required and ascertainment thereof.
— Representation by agent or attorney.
— Corrupt practices and improper influences in election.
Confirmation or disapproval by court.
Appointment of trustee by court or referee.
— Number of trustees to be appointed.

1. Election of trustee.—There can be trust estate for administration, and nsequently no authority to choose a ustee, until after an adjudication in nkruptcy has been made. In re Back y Automobile Co. (D. C. 1907) 158 d. 679, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 835.

If the creditors elect two trustees, ere is a vacancy in the office of third ustee, which the creditors should fill a subsequent meeting to be called by e referee, but if they fail to do so, e referee himself may fill it. In re illiam F. Fisher & Co. (D. C. 1905) 5 Fed. 223, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 366.

2. —— Conduct of election.—The ection of a trustee by the creditors a bankrupt may be by ballot, or viva ce, or by calling the name of each editor, or by calling upon the persons presenting them to name their choice. re Lake Superior Ship Canal Co. (D. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 376, Fed. Cas. No. 997. There is no such thing known the law as an informal vote or balt in an election of this kind. In re earson (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 477, d. Cas. No. 10,878.

The meeting should be organized at e hour designated in the notice, and ould be kept open for a proper length time to enable all the creditors who sire to participate to come in and st their votes. In re Gilley (D. C. 873) Fed. Cas. No. 5,438; In re helps (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 525, d. Cas. No. 11,071.

A majority of those creditors who are esent at the meeting, and have had eir claims allowed, must concur in e selection of a trustee, as well as a ajority in value of the claims of such creditors. In re Henschel (D. C. 1901) 109 Fed. 861, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. 305.

3. —— Adjournment of meeting.—If no choice of a trustee is made at the first session of the creditors, the meeting may be adjourned to another day, and the trustee then chosen; it continues to be the "first meeting" notwithstanding such adjournment. In re Phelps (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 525, Fed. Cas. No. 11,071. The creditors present at a meeting do not exhaust their right to select a trustee by a single ineffectual vote, but they are entitled to a reasonable adjournment of such meeting in order that an agreement may be reached. In re Nice & Schreiber (D. C. 1903) 123 Fed. 987, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 639. If objections are raised to proxies offering to vote, and the referee decides that they are disqualified, he may adjourn the meeting, in order to enable the creditors affected to appear in person or by valid proxies, but he is not bound to do so, and if he directs the creditors present to proceed forthwith to an election, the result will not be set aside for that reason unless it is shown that he abused his discretion. In re McGill (1901) 106 Fed. 57, 45 C. C. A. 218, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 155. Where objections were filed to claims, and no person received the votes of an undisputed majority in number and amount for trustee, referee held authorized to postpone the election, and, having done so, the election should be treated as tentative. In re Knox (1915) 221 Fed. 36, 136 C. C. A. 562.

It is also sufficient cause for adjourning the meeting that the person chosen as trustee declines to act (although creditors should try to avoid this emergency by first obtaining the consent of the trustee whom they expect to elect), or that objections are presented against the person elected and are taken under advisement by the referee. In re Lewensohn (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 576, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 299.

Where, at the first meeting, the bankrupt proposes to offer terms of composition to his creditors, the referee, in a proper case, should postpone the choice of a trustee, to give opportunity for the filing of the proposed composition, and if it is filed, he should further postpone the selection of a trustee until the entry of an order refusing to confirm such agreement. In re Rung, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 406.

4. —— Cases where no trustee appointed.—Under General Order in Bankruptcy No. 15, where the schedule of a voluntary bankrupt shows no other assets than such as are exempt by law, the court may direct that no trustee shall be appointed. Smalley v. Laugenour (1902) 30 Wash. 307, 70 Pac. 786. Even though some available assets may be disclosed, but no substantial amount, the appointment of a trustee is not indispensable, and no person elected to that office can be compelled to serve without compensation, so that, if creditors insist upon the appointment of a trustee, they must advance the statutory fees or otherwise arrange for his remuneration. In re Levy (D. C. 1900) 101 Fed. 247. But if assets afterwards come to light, a trustee must be appointed. This step is essential to divest the bankrupt of title to his property, and so make it available for administration in bankruptcy. Miller v. Barto (1910) 247 Ill. 104, 93 N. E. 140. But in the absence of proof to the contrary, it will be presumed that, after the institution of a bankruptcy proceeding, a trustee was appointed, thus divesting the bankrupt's title to real estate. Stern v. Bradner Smith & Co. (1907) 225 Ill. 430, 80 N. E. 307, 116 Am. St. Rep. 151. If the referee, after ordering that no trustee should be appointed, for the causes set forth in the general order, shall learn that property of the bankrupt has been found which creditors can claim as assets of the estate, he should then take measures for the appointment of a trustee. In re Smith (D. C. 1899) 93 Fed. 791, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 190.

5. —— Rights of creditors as voters.—The right of a creditor to participate in bankruptcy proceedings against his debtor does not depend on his being named as a creditor in the bankrupt's list or schedule. In re Evening Standard Pub. Co. (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 517, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 156. But proof and allowance of his claim is necessary to entitle him to vote as a creditor in the election of a trustee, or to challenge the right of any other voter. In re Jones (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 59, Fed. Cas. No. 7,447; In re Hill (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 6,481; In re Briscoe (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 226, Fed. Cas. No. 1,886.

Since the right to elect a trustee belongs to the proving creditors, the vote will not be postponed to allow other creditors to prove their claims, unless by consent of those who have already proved. In re Lake Superior Ship Canal Co. (D. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 376, Fed. Cas. No. 7,997. But it is not necessarily an abuse of discretion or an error of law for a referee to journ a creditors' meeting held the election of a trustee, in orde allow the filing and proof of c claims. In re Rosenfeld-Goldman (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 921.

If objection is made to the rece of the vote of any creditor, the c tion will be decided by the referee certified to the judge for review, i sired. It is the duty of the refere least to hear the objections suffic ly to determine whether they are i in good faith, and if so, and if they pear to be well founded, the c should not be allowed for voting poses. In re Malino (D. C. 1902) Fed. 368, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 205 re Kelly Dry Goods Co. (D. C. 1 102 Fed. 747, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. Referee's decision as to whether would be disfranchised in electing tee upon filing of objections, or it lidity summarily determined, held to be set aside, unless an abuse of cretion. In re Rosenfeld-Goldman (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 921. If claim has not yet been proved o lowed, the referee may, on a good against it being made, postpone question of allowance until after vote for trustee. In re Noble (I 1869) 3 N. B. R. 96, Fed. Cas. No. 282; In re Northern Iron Co. (C 1876) 14 N. B. R. 356, Fed. Cas. 10,322. Creditors whose proofs claims have been thus postponed have the proceedings certified to court, and if the postponement is to have been erroneous, the ele may be set aside and a new vote t provided it appears that the r would be changed by allowing vot be cast on such claims. In re E (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 695, 3 Am. B Rep. 733; In re Lake Superior Canal Co. (D. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. Fed. Cas. No. 7,997. Where on two disputed claims would have be voted at election of trustee as n affect result, referee held not c upon to pass upon such claim. I Rosenfeld-Goldman Co. (D. C. 1 228 Fed. 921. Mere oral unverifie jections to claims of creditors, not ported by any proof offered or pr ed, are not sufficient to require the eree to adjourn the meeting until objections can be tried before pro ing with the election. In re Syr Paper & Pulp Co. (D. C. 1908) 164 275, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 174.

If some of the creditors objec the votes offered to be cast by c creditors, on the ground that were procured by the influence o bankrupt and in collusion with hi that they are controlled by him meant to be cast in his interest. referee has power to hear and d the question thus raised, and to ex such votes from the election if he the facts to be as stated. In re

Gill (1901) 106 Fed. 57, 45 C. C. A. 218, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 155; In re Van De Mark (D. C. 1910) 175 Fed. 287, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 760. See In re Noble (D. C. 1868) 3 N. B. R. 96, Fed. Cas. No. 10,282. But it is no reason for excluding a claim, unquestionably valid, from the right to vote, that it is due to the bankrupt's attorney or his clerk, and therefore may be voted in his interest. In re Ployd (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 791, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 194. Where, by want of proper advice, creditors have named as their agent and attorney a person who has acted for the bankrupt, and whom mere judicial policy discourages from acting for them, they should not for that reason be denied a voice in the selection of the trustee. In re Kaufman (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 552, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 117.

Where majority creditors of a bankrupt were represented by attorneys, who had previously represented the bankrupt, and who had solicited the claims, and for this reason were not allowed to vote in the election of a trustee, the referee should have granted a continuance, in order that they might secure other proper representation and participate and proceed to the election of a trustee by the majority, and it was error for him to refuse. In re E. A. Walker & Co. (D. C. 1913) 204 Fed. 132, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 499.

A creditor of a bankrupt who is also a debtor to the bankrupt's estate is not entitled to vote in the election of a trustee where he has not made his indebtedness good. In re Duryea Power Co. (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 783, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 219. But an unliquidated claim for damages which the bankrupt purposes to set off against the claim of a creditor must be wholly disregarded in the proceedings for the choice of a trustee. That is, the creditor is entitled to vote, and for the full amount of his claim, as it is not competent at this stage of the proceedings to consider the question of set-off. In re Orne (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 57, Fed. Cas. No. 10,581.

Where the creditor is a firm, either of the partners may vote the full amount of the claim; but if the debt is owned by joint creditors who are not partners, or by joint trustees, neither can vote or act without the authority or consent of the other. In re Purvis (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 163, Fed. Cas. No. 11,476.

The managing officers of a bankrupt corporation, when bona fide creditors of the company, have the same right to vote for the trustee as any other claimant. In re Northern Iron Co. (C. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 356, Fed. Cas. No. 10,322.

Claims which have been proved and then sold and assigned, before the election of a trustee, must be voted upon in such election by the actual owner at the time and not by the original creditor. In re Frank (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. No. 5,050.

A creditor may change his vote as often as he sees fit until he has signed the certificate of choice of trustee, but not after that has been done and the meeting has adjourned, at least where such a change would cause a failure to elect, but if a mistake has been made, he may present his objection to the judge. In re Pfromm (D. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 357, Fed. Cas. No. 11,061; In re Scheiffer (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 591, Fed. Cas. No. 12,445.

6. —— Secured and preferred creditors.—In the election of a trustee in bankruptcy, a secured creditor may surrender his security and vote as on an unsecured claim, but failing this, he will not be entitled to vote unless his claim exceeds the value of the security which he holds, and then only for such excess as shall be allowed by the court. In re Eagles (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 695, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 733.

Where a referee in bankruptcy ascertained that the security held by a creditor would be insufficient to satisfy his claim, and no exception was taken to the method of liquidation, which was not favorable to the creditor, the referee did not err in permitting him to vote in the selection of a trustee, for the amount of the deficit, without surrendering the collateral. In re Milne, Turnbull & Co. (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 280, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 248.

A creditor holding a mortgage as security, who, in his proof of the debt, states upon information and belief that the mortgage is worth less than the amount of the debt, is not entitled to vote on the difference between its value as stated by him and the amount of his debt. In re Hanna (D. C. 1871) 7 N. B. R. 502, Fed. Cas. No. 6,027.

Where the foundation of a claim against a bankrupt is a judgment by confession based on notes of the bankrupt, the fact that the validity of some of the notes is contested by other creditors is not ground for refusing the creditor the right to vote for trustee at least to the extent of the part of his judgment which is undisputed. In re Wenatchee-Stratford Orchard Co. (D. C. 1913) 205 Fed. 964.

Where the security held by the creditor covers the entire debt, though it may be insufficient in amount, he cannot vote at a creditors' meeting unless his security has been valued in the manner prescribed by the act and the excess thus ascertained. But where a specific portion or amount of the debt is secured, so that the debt secured can be separated from the entire debt, at once and with certainty, the creditor may vote and act, as to the residue, as a general creditor. In re Parkes (D. C. 1874) 10 N. B. R. 82, Fed. Cas. No. 10,754.

A preferred creditor cannot participate in the choice of a trustee unless he has surrendered his preference, but he may do this at the first meeting and then vote for the trustee, when the preference is of such a nature as to be effectually destroyed by such surrender. In re Saunders (D. C. 1875) Fed. Cas. No. 12,371.

7. —— Majority required and ascertainment thereof.—If only a single creditor appears at the first meeting and proves his debt, he is entitled to name the trustee. Anonymous (D. C.) 1 N. B. R. 216, Fed. Cas. No. 458; In re Haynes (D. C. 1867) 2 N. B. R. 227, Fed. Cas. No. 6,269. And where, in the course of the proceedings, one creditor has become the sole creditor, he may apply for the appointment of a new trustee in place of the one acting, and such person will be appointed as he and the bankrupt may agree upon, or, if they do not agree, the matter may be referred to the referee. In re Sacchi (C. C. 1872) 6 N. B. R. 497, Fed. Cas. No. 12,200.

Where several creditors take part in the election, the majority required by the statute for the election of a trustee is not merely a majority of the votes cast, but a majority of all the creditors who are present and have had their claims allowed. In re Purvis (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 163, Fed. Cas. No. 11,476; In re Scheiffer (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 591, Fed. Cas. No. 12,445. See In re Portsmouth Savings Fund Soc. (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 11,297.

Creditors are not to be counted as present merely because their claims have been allowed, but they must attend in person or by duly authorized agent or attorney, and those creditors who do so attend constitute the meeting. In re Kaufman (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 552, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 117; In re Mackellar (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 547, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 669; In re Henschel (1902) 113 Fed. 443, 51 C. C. A. 277, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 662. And even though the creditor may be present by a proxy, still if the latter's power of attorney is invalid because given under the influence or control of the bankrupt for the purpose of being voted for a trustee of his choice, the creditor will not be counted as present and necessary for a choice. In re McGill (1901) 106 Fed. 57, 45 C. C. A. 218, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 155.

Where a firm is the creditor, and the vote of the firm for the trustee is cast by one member thereof, in computing the number of votes such vote can be counted only as one; it would be incorrect to count each member of the creditor firm as a separate creditor who has voted. In re Purvis (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 163, Fed. Cas. No. 11,476.

Where creditors, before the institution of the bankruptcy proceedings, assigned their claims to a committee in trust for the purpose of purchasing the bankrupt's assets from the trustee and selling them for the benefit of su signors as distinguished from the rupt's general creditors, the com is entitled to only a single vote selection of a trustee, and not to for each of the claims so assign re E. T. Kenney Co. (D. C. 190 Fed. 451, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 6

8. —— Representation by ag attorney.—The vote of a credit be cast by an attorney in fact, c ducing a written authority fro creditor for that purpose, which s ity will be filed by the referee as of his record in the case. In re (D. C. 1900) 99 Fed. 695, 3 Am. Rep. 733. The power of attorne be actually produced and ex One claiming that such a paper v ecuted to him, but that it has be or mislaid, is properly exclude participating in the election. In r Ridge Packing Co. (D. C. 190 Fed. 619, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 36 one in this situation, or whose has been ruled invalid, has no i or standing which gives him a r object to the action of the refe behalf of his alleged principal. v. Reinhard (D. C. 1900) 104 Fe 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 782. The le attorney must be acknowledged a competent officer, and it ha held that an acknowledgment b foreign consul may be sufficient. Sugenheimer (D. C. 1899) 91 Fe 1 Am. Bankr. Rep. 425.

An attorney at law, represen creditor, cannot cast his client in the election of a trustee me virtue of his retainer, but must constituted attorney in fact. In zoris (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 31; In re Scu C. 1901) 108 Fed. 372, 5 Am. Rep. 716; In re Blankfein (D. C 97 Fed. 191, 3 Am. Bankr. Re In re Purvis (D. C. 1867) 1 N. 163, Fed. Cas. No. 11,476; In re ley (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No.

If a power of attorney is give firm, and not to either member one alone is not authorized to vot it in the election of a trustee. Frank (D. C. 1871) Fed. Cas. 050. But one member of a partn on behalf of the firm, may exe power of attorney to a third pers thorizing him to cast the vote firm in such election. In re (D. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 1,0 this special case, the rule requi letter of attorney to show that t son executing it is a member firm. But if a statement to tha is contained in the proof of d companying the letter, though from the letter itself, it is suffic entitle the attorney to represe creditor. In re Blue Ridge Co. (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 619, Bankr. Rep. 36.

Attorney, representing conflict terests of trustee in bankrupt ssignee for creditors, held, upon removal of the trustee, not to be permitted to represent creditors in the election of a new trustee. In re Forestier (D. C. 1915) 222 Fed. 537.

9. —— Corrupt practices and improper influences in election.—The referee should not in any way attempt to influence the creditors in their choice of a trustee. If he endeavors to secure the election of a particular person, by urging and soliciting creditors to vote for him, it may be sufficient cause for taking the case out of his hands and sending it to another referee. In re Smith (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 12,971.

Where it appears that the choice of the trustee has been influenced by the bankrupt himself, by bribery, soliciting votes, electioneering, packing the meeting with his own friends, or any other form of active interference with the free choice of the creditors, the court will not hesitate to disapprove or vacate the election. In re Ployd (D. C. 1910) 183 Fed. 791, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 194; In re L. W. Day & Co. (D. C. 1910) 178 Fed. 545, 101 C. C. A. 461, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 252; Falter v. Reinhard (D. C. 1900) 104 Fed. 292, 2 Am. Bankr. Rep. 782; In re Lloyd (D. C. 1906) 148 Fed. 92, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 96; In re Hanson (D. C. 1904) 156 Fed. 717, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 235; In re Houghton (D. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 6,729; In re Bliss (D. C. 1867) 1 N. B. R. 78, Fed. Cas. No. 1,543; In re Wetmore (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 514, Fed. Cas. No. 17,466; In re Pfromm (D. C. 1873) 8 N. B. R. 157, Fed. Cas. No. 11,061. In one case the court refused to conurm the election of a trustee who was the bankrupt's bookkeeper, when it appeared that a large number of the creditors could not be present at the meeting, though the election was almost unanimous. In re Wetmore (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 514, Fed. Cas. No. 17,466. Where the trustee chosen is a perfectly competent and trustworthy person, and is elected by a large majority of creditors apparently exercising their independent judgment in his election, and it does not appear that his administration would be in any way detrimental to the estate, it is no sufficient reason for setting him aside that the bankrupt urged his creditors to vote for him, giving reasons for his belief that he would be the best person to have charge of the estate. In re Eastback (D. C. 1906) 145 Fed. 68, 16 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529; In re Ketterer Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 987, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 225. And see In re Morton (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 908, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 508.

The bankrupt's attorney should not attempt to control or influence the election in the interest of his client, and if he does so, it will be ground for refusing to confirm the trustee chosen. In re Blue Ridge Packing Co. (D. C. 1903) 125 Fed. 619, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 36; In re Lamont, 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 291; In re Wink (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 348, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 298. Where an attorney's retainer for a bankrupt was limited to the filing of the bankrupt's petition, for which he received no fee, he is not disqualified to accept claims from creditors sent to him thereafter without his solicitation or the procurement of the bankrupt, and to vote such claims in the election of a trustee. In re Cooper (D. C. 1905) 135 Fed. 196, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 320.

It is not in accordance with good policy or the spirit of the law that an election of this kind should be determined by the desire of a particular person to be chosen as the trustee, and even if no corrupt practices are charged, nor any secret or improper influences brought to bear on the creditors, the mere fact that the trustee secured his election by the solicitation of votes will be sufficient reason why the judge should refuse to confirm it. In re Fisher (D. C. 1911) 193 Fed. 104, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 793; In re Mallory (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 153, Fed. Cas. No. 8,990; In re Doe (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 308, Fed. Cas. No. 3,957; In re Haas (D. C. 1876) 8 N. B. R. 189, Fed. Cas. No. 5,884. See In re Brown, 2 Nat. Bankr. News, 590. Especially where the same person appears as trustee in numerous bankruptcies, and makes it his business to seek out creditors and secure their votes, though he does not wield any sinister influence and seeks only the legitimate profits of the office. In re Doe (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 308, Fed. Cas. No. 3,957; In re Mallory (D. C. 1870) 4 N. B. R. 153, Fed. Cas. No. 8,990. It is not proper to disapprove an election made by the creditors on a mere suspicion that the appointment of the trustee was procured by improper considerations, based on the frequency with which the same person has been selected as trustee in bankruptcy under the influence of the same attorneys who have procured his appointment in the present case. In re Kreuger (D. C. 1911) 196 Fed. 705, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 440.

Where, in bankruptcy proceedings against a corporation, the attorney for petitioning creditors claimed that the president and certain other officers of the corporation were largely indebted to it for unpaid stock subscriptions, and that the president desired the election of a trust company as trustee which was identified with certain other interests represented by him, it was not improper for such attorney to obtain proxies for use in the election of a different trustee, by means of letters stating his claim as to the officers' liability, and that it would be for the interest of the unsecured creditors to select a trustee not identified with the president's interest, which letters contained no materially false statements of fact. In re Duryea Power Co. (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 783, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 219.

A person appointed trustee in bankruptcy was a stockholder in and employé of a corporation which was a large creditor of the bankrupt. This creditor openly solicited other creditors to send their claims to it to be used in appointing the trustee, offering to handle the claims free of charge, and voted all such claims in favor of the person appointed. The creditor also held security for a part of its debt against the bankrupt's estate, and it was claimed that it would become the duty of the trustee to institute proceedings to set aside alleged unlawful preferences to such creditor. Held, that the person appointed was disqualified, and that his appointment should be set aside. In re Anson Mercantile Co. (D. C. 1911) 185 Fed. 993, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep. 429.

10. Confirmation or disapproval by court.—Under this section and General Order in Bankruptcy No. 13, the district judge and the referee have discretion to disapprove, for substantial reasons, the trustee selected by the creditors. In re Merritt Const. Co. (1914) 219 Fed. 555, 135 C. C. A. 323. One elected a trustee in bankruptcy does not become a trustee in fact, or have any power to act as such, until his selection is approved by the court. In re Kellar (1912) 192 Fed. 830, 113 C. C. A. 154; In re Scheiffer (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 591, Fed. Cas. No. 12,445. The decision of the referee approving the choice of creditors in the election of a trustee is subject to review by the judge. In re Hanson (D. C. 1904) 156 Fed. 717, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 235. The proper method of reviewing the proceedings in the election of a trustee is by a petition for review of the order of the referee approving the appointment made by the creditors. In re Arti-Stain Co. (D. C. 1914) 216 Fed. 942. If the referee is satisfied that any reason exists why a trustee selected by the creditors should not be approved by the court, it is his duty to state such reasons fully in submitting to the judge the question of approval. In re Bliss (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 1,543. The referee's decisions respecting conduct of election of trustees are not to be set aside, except for an unjust and injurious abuse of discretion, or a clear mistake of law. In re Grat (D. C. 1915) 228 Fed. 925.

The person who is chosen by the requisite majority of creditors is entitled to be confirmed in the office of trustee, unless it is satisfactorily shown that he is disqualified under the statute, or is an incompetent person, or that the election was determined by improper or corrupt influences. In re Margolies (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 369, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 398; In re lack (D. C. 1906) 145 Fed. 68, 1 Bankr. Rep. 529; In re Blue Packing Co. (D. C. 1903) 125 619, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 36; Funkenstein (D. C. 1870) Fed. No. 5,157; In re Clairmont (1868) Fed. Cas. No. 2,781; Grant (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. Fed. Cas. No. 5,692; In re We (D. C. 1877) 16 N. B. R. 514, Fed. No. 17,466.

Where the referee and judge c in disapproving the selection of a tee, made by the creditors, their will be sustained, unless an abu discretion is shown. M. C. Kise v. Georgia Cotton Oil Co. (1913 Fed. 548, 125 C. C. A. 550.

The bankrupt himself has a sta in court to object to the confirm of the person selected by the itors as trustee. In re McGlyn C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 8,804. bankrupt may move to set asid election of a trustee on the g that the persons whose votes e him were not creditors of the ban In re Stokes (D. C. 1868) 1 N. 489, Fed. Cas. No. 13,475.

The court will not take the st disapproving the choice of the cre when the objections presented f consideration would not have af the result if recognized at the tim re Jackson (D. C. 1876) Fed. Ca 7,123; In re Pfromm (D. C. 1873) B. R. 357, Fed. Cas. No. 11,061. not an abuse of discretion to ref request of objecting creditors to evidence of the unfitness of the t selected by the creditors where presented no objections not rais the creditors' meeting. In re M Const. Co. (1914) 219 Fed. 555 C. C. A. 323.

When the judge refuses to ap the appointment of the trustee se by the creditors, he may order a election to be held. In re Scheiffe C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 591, Fed. Ca 12,445.

The action of a referee in appo a trustee in bankruptcy is subje review by the district court, bu not be disturbed unless a plain a jurious error of law or abuse o cretion is shown. In re Rose Goldman Co. (D. C. 1915) 228 921. But the appointment of a t in bankruptcy by a court having diction, though it may be erroneo not void, and therefore cannot b sailed collaterally. Raymond v. M son (1882) 59 Iowa, 371, 13 N. W

11. Appointment of trustee by or referee.—This section makes th pointment of a trustee in bankr by a referee proper. Referees ta same powers in certain matters a prescribed for judges, and may a trustees where creditors do not. C er v. U. S. (1913) 48 Ct. Cl. 383 re Knox (1915) 221 Fed. 36, 136 C. C. A. 562.

If no creditors appear and prove their claims at the time and place appointed for the first meeting, a trustee must usually be appointed by the court. In re Cogswell (D. C. 1867) Fed. Cas. No. 2,959. Whether a trustee should be appointed for a bankrupt's estate is for determination after an adjudication has been entered. Vulcan Sheet Metal Co. v. North Platte Valley Irr. Co. (C. C. A. 1915) 220 Fed. 106.

If creditors fail to agree upon a trustee, no person receiving the statutory majority of votes, and no adjournment for the purpose of a second election is asked or granted, or if, at an adjourned meeting of creditors, no election results, and it appears impossible to secure a majority vote for any one person, while there is immediate need of a trustee to take charge of the estate, it is proper for the referee to appoint a trustee of his own selection, not necessarily one of the candidates already voted for, though he may be properly influenced by the wishes of any considerable body of the creditors. In re Goldstein (D. C. 1912) 199 Fed. 365, 29 Am. Bankr. Rep. 301; In re Cohen (D. C. 1904) 131 Fed. 391, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 439; In re Machin (D. C. 1904) 128 Fed. 315, 11 Am. Bankr. Rep. 449; In re Brooke (D. C. 1900) 100 Fed. 432, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 50; In re Kuffler (D. C. 1899) 97 Fed. 187, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 162; In re Richards (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 849, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 631; In re Jackson (D. C. 1876) 14 N. B. R. 449, Fed. Cas. No. 7,123; In re Portsmouth Savings Fund Soc. (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 11,297. The appellate court will not set aside the appointment of a trustee by the district judge where the only error claimed is in holding that no election had been made by the creditors, there being no allegation against the fitness of the person appointed. Woods v. Buckewell (C. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 405, Fed. Cas. No. 17,991. Where majority in amount of claims was disputed, causing considerable delay, a referee, in view of the necessity for a trustee, held empowered to appoint a disinterested person, under Bankruptcy Act, §§ 2(17), and 44. In re Knox (1915) 221 Fed. 36, 136 C. C. A. 562.

If the requisite majority of creditors concur in the election of a trustee, the referee has no authority to disregard their action and select a trustee and appoint him, merely because he disapproves of the choice made by the creditors. He may, in the exercise of a sound discretion and for cause, refuse to confirm their choice. But when this action is taken, it creates a vacancy in the office of trustee, and it is the right of the creditors to fill it, wherefore it becomes the duty of the referee to call a new election and give the creditors the opportunity of uniting upon a different candidate. In re Margolies (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 369, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 398; In re Van De Mark (D. C. 1910) 175 Fed. 287, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 760; In re Kaufman (D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 552, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 117; In re Morris (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 211, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 828; In re Mangan (D. C. 1903) 133 Fed. 1000, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 303; In re Mackellar (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 547, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 669; In re Hare (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 246, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 520; In re Lewensohn (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 576, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 299; In re Forestier (D. C. 1915) 222 Fed. 537. But if the creditors, at the second election, fail or refuse to make a second choice, then it is proper for the referee to appoint a trustee. In re Kellar (C. C. A. 1912) 192 Fed. 830.

12. —— Number of trustees to be appointed.—Upon a petition to the court of bankruptcy showing good grounds therefor, an additional trustee may be appointed to act in conjunction with the one previously appointed. In re Overton (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 366, Fed. Cas. No. 10,625.

In a case where a corporation holding property and carrying on business in three different states was adjudged bankrupt and assignees were appointed who were respectively citizens of two of the states in which the proceedings in bankruptcy were pending, but none was appointed in the third state, it was considered that it ought to have been so arranged that each of the districts could have an assignee within it a resident thereof. In re Boston, H. & E. R. Co. (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 233, Fed. Cas. No. 1,680.

§ 9629. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 45.) Qualifications of trustees.

Qualifications of Trustees.—a Trustees may be (1) individuals who are respectively competent to perform the duties of that office, and reside or have an office in the judicial district within which they are appointed, or (2) corporations authorized by their charters or by law to act in such capacity and having an office in the judicial district within which they are appointed. (30 Stat. 557.)

Notes of Decisions

Qualifications of trustees.—A person is not disqualified from acting as a trustee in bankruptcy because he is an alien, if he is competent to perform the duties of the office and resides or has an office in the district, and is duly chosen by the creditors. In re Coe (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 162, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 715.

A near relative of the bankrupt, if not absolutely disqualified, is not a suitable person to be appointed trustee of his estate. In re Powell (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 45, Fed. Cas. No. 11,-354; In re Zinn (D. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 370, Fed. Cas. No. 18,216; In re Bogert (D. C. 1870) 3 N. B. R. 651, Fed. Cas. No. 1,600; In re Zinn (D. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 436, Fed. Cas. No. 18,215.

A person is not disqualified to be a trustee in bankruptcy by the fact that he is a creditor of the bankrupt. In re Lazoris (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 716, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 31; In re Lewisohn (D. C. 1899) 98 Fed. 576, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 299; In re Clairmont (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 2,781. That a trustee in bankruptcy, elected at a meeting of the creditors, was a stockholder in a corporation having a claim filed which amounted to nearly half the bankrupt's entire indebtedness, and that it might become the trustee's duty to move to have such claim expunged or reduced, did not render such trustee ineligible to act. In re Lazoris (D. C. 1903) 120 Fed. 716, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 31.

It is no objection to the approval by the court of a trustee in bankruptcy elected by the creditors that he has incurred the violent hostility of the bankrupt. In re Mangan (D. C. 1903) 133 Fed. 1000, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 303.

There is nothing to prevent an attorney for one or more of the creditors from being chosen as trustee, and if he is duly elected by the creditors and is not otherwise objectionable, he will be confirmed. In re Margolies (D. C. 1911) 191 Fed. 369, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 398; In re Lawson (D. C. 1868) 2 N. B. R. 113, Fed. Cas. No. 8,150; In re Barrett (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 533, Fed. Cas. No. 1,043; In re Clairmont (D. C. 1868) Fed. Cas. No. 2,781; Redick v. Woolworth (1885) 17 Neb. 260, 22 N. W. 693, 52 Am. Rep. 410. When an attorney accepts the office of trustee, he surrenders for the time his standing in the court of bankruptcy as an attorney for creditors. In re Evans (D. C. 1902) 116 Fed. 909, 8 Am. Bankr. Rep. 730.

A trustee will not be approved or confirmed by the court, where it is evident that he has been elected under the influence or control of the bankrupt or in his interest. In re Van De Mark (D. C. 1910) 175 Fed. 287, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 760. A bankrupt's former attorney should not be allowed to act as the bankrupt's trustee, unless there is at least some evidence that his election has been brought about by activities of others than himself and the bankrupt. In re Wink (D. C. 1913) 206 Fed. 348. One who has no apparent connection with the bankrupt's attorneys, other than having an office same building with them, may aside as unsuitable for the off trustee, when objected to by th nority creditors, and when the which elected him were cast under ers of attorney held by the bank attorneys. In re Sitting (D. C. 182 Fed. 917, 25 Am. Bankr. Rep In re Reckersdres (D. C. 1901 Fed. 206, 6 Am. Bankr. Rep. Compare In re Fisher (D. C. 191 Fed. 104, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep One who has acted as attorne the bankrupt, in matters not con with the bankruptcy, may be eligi trustee, but a person who has a interest adverse to that of the tors generally, or who is the at of such person, is disqualified. Clairmont (D. C. 1868) Fed. Ca 2,781; In re Dayville Woolen C C. 1902) 114 Fed. 674. 8 Am. Rep. 85; In re Wink (D. C. 191 Fed. 348, 30 Am. Bankr. Rep. 29

No debtor of the bankrupt sho appointed trustee, and hence the will disapprove the selection bankrupt's common-law assigne assignment being the act of bank relied on, and the assignee havi unsettled account and a claim services. In re Kellar (C. C. A. 192 Fed. 830. But the mere fac one who is chosen by the credit the trustee advised the volunta signment under the state law constituted the act of bankrupt not render him incompetent. Blue Ridge Packing Co. (D. C. 125 Fed. 619, 11 Am. Bankr. Re

A person who does not reside the district is absolutely disqu from being trustee, unless he fixed place of daily business with district. In re Havens (D. C. 1 N. B. R. 485, Fed. Cas. No. 6.23 re Clairmont (D. C. 1868) Fed No. 2,781; In re Loder (D. C. 2 N. B. R. 515, Fed. Cas. No. 8,45 one case, where the trustee elect not reside in the same city wit bankrupt, and certain creditors ed to him on this ground, the suggested that the parties should on some suitable person, living i city, to be associated with the trustee as co-trustee. In re J (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 7,166 mere remoteness of the trustee's dence from the place where the property is to be administered instance, where he lives in a county) is no ground for disapp the election if he satisfies the re ments of the statute and is th choice of the creditors. In re K (D. C. 1911) 196 Fed. 705, 2 Bankr. Rep. 440; In re Jacobs & (D. C. 1907) 154 Fed. 988, 1 Bankr. Rep. 728.

A stockholder and officer of a rupt corporation is not, ipso fac competent to act as its trustee in ptcy. In re Merritt Const. Co. (C. A. 1914) 219 Fed. 555, 133 C. C. A. 23. Where three trustees are elected r a bankrupt corporation, it is no ound of objection that one of them a director of the corporation, and in se it becomes the duty of the trustees bring an action against the direcrs, it may be done by the other two, aking their co-trustee a defendant as director. In re Syracuse Paper & Pulp Co. (D. C. 1908) 164 Fed. 275, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 174.

A man who is himself a bankrupt and undischarged is not a proper person to be appointed trustee of the estate of another bankrupt, and the referee should not receive votes cast for such a person. In re Smith, 1 Nat. Bankr. News, 136.

9630. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 46.) Death or removal of trustees.

Death or Removal of Trustees.—a The death or removal of a trusee shall not abate any suit or proceeding which he is prosecuting r defending at the time of his death or removal, but the same may e proceeded with or defended by his joint trustee or successor n the same manner as though the same had been commenced or vas being defended by such joint trustee alone or by such successor. (30 Stat. 557.)

Notes of Decisions

1. Death of trustee.—Upon the death f a trustee in bankruptcy, the estate emaining undisposed of passes to the uccessor of the trustee, and not to s personal representatives. Howes v. arlisle (1899) 21 Ky. Law Rep. 613, 2 S. W. 936. And a state court has o authority to appoint a new trustee r to direct the execution of the trust nder its statutory equitable powers. loyd v. Davis (1899) 123 Cal. 348, 5 Pac. 1003. The court of bankruptcy, owever, has authority to appoint a ew trustee where evidence of the extence of unadministered assets is pronced after the death of the original rustee, even though his right to reover such assets may be doubtful, deending upon disputed questions of w and fact. In re Mahoney (D. C. 881) 5 Fed. 518. The settlement of n estate in bankruptcy by the trustee oes not divest the jurisdiction of the ederal district court which made the djudication in bankruptcy, and where e trustee dies, that court has power o take such steps as the circumstances ay require, so that a mistake as to e proper step to be taken does not arrant a collateral attack on its dgment. Lloyd v. Davis (1899) 123 al. 348, 55 Pac. 1003.

A cause of action against a trustee in ankruptcy, for wrongfully paying the ssets in his hands to other creditors han the plaintiff, in disregard of the atter's right of priority, does not tate by the death of the trustee. U. . v. Dewey (C. C. 1889) 39 Fed. 251.

2. Removal of trustee.—The power of emoving a trustee in bankruptcy can e exercised only by the judge; it is ot given to the referee. General Orler No. 13; In re Berree & Wolf (D. C. 1911) 185 Fed. 224. But it seems hat a referee may have a rule issued n a trustee to show cause why he hould not be removed. In re Price (D. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 406, Fed. Cas. No. 11,409; In re Stokes (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 489, Fed. Cas. No. 13,475.

Although the facts disclosed in a proceeding relative to the settlement of the bankrupt's estate may be such as would justify the removal of the trustee, this step cannot be taken except in pursuance of an application made in accordance with the forms prescribed. In re Schapter (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 324, Fed. Cas. No. 12,438.

The trustee is to have a "hearing," which means a full and fair opportunity to disprove the allegations against him. But the proceeding is summary, and the power of the court is similar to that exercised by courts of equity in the removal of receivers or trustees under a will. Bruns v. Stewart Mfg. Co. (N. Y. 1883) 31 Hun, 195. The referee may be directed to employ counsel to represent the estate of the bankrupt at the hearing of the order to show cause why the trustee should not be removed. In re Price (D. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 406, Fed. Cas. No. 11,409.

An order of the district court removing a trustee does not present such a case or question as can be reviewed by the appellate court, as it rests wholly in the discretion of the court of bankruptcy. In re Adler (C. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 82.

3. —— Grounds for removal.—Mistakes or negligence on the part of a trustee in bankruptcy sufficient to justify his removal must be such as to show a want of honesty or of capacity to perform the duties of his office, or a lack of reasonable fidelity to the trust, and such as to endanger the trust property. Williams v. Nichol (1886) 47 Ark. 254, 1 S. W. 243; Matthews v. Murchison (C. C. 1883) 17 Fed. 760; Putnam v. Timothy Dry Goods Co. (C. C. 1897) 79 Fed. 454. Involving the estate in unnecessary litigation, if caused by erroneous legal advice, is not ground for removing the trustee. In re Blodget (D. C. 1871) 5 N. B. R. 472, Fed. Cas. No. 1,552. The trustee will not be removed for unsuccessfully attacking mortgages given by the bankrupt, when it appears that such action was justifiable. In re Sacchi (D. C. 1872) Fed. Cas. No. 12,201. But a trustee who has embezzled the funds of the estate and absconded must be removed. Scofield v. U. S. (1909) 174 Fed. 1, 98 C. C. A. 39, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 259. And also one who is a fugitive from justice. Alexander v. Union Surety & Guaranty Co. (1903) 89 App. Div. 3, 85 N. Y. Supp. 282. And one who has mismanaged the estate and wholly failed to account. U. S. v. Union Surety & Guaranty Co. (D. C. 1902) 118 Fed. 482, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 114. A trustee may be removed for neglecting to take proper measures to secure the bankrupt's property and allowing it to be sold for taxes. In re Morse (D. C. 1872) 7 N. B. R. 56, Fed. Cas. No. 9,852. Ground for the removal of a trustee is also found in his dilatoriness in letting slip an opportunity to dispose of assets of the estate at great advantage, which resulted in protracted litigation and substantial injury to the interests of creditors. In re Prouty (C. C. 1885) 24 Fed. 554. So where the trustee has failed in properly informing creditors in regard to their rights and the value of the assets, and the information has been suppressed in the interest of one class of creditors, it is the duty of the court to remove him. Ex parte Perkins (C. C. 1873) Fed. Cas. No. 10,982.

Where it appears that the though he ought to be removed, of his mismanagement of the has acted in entire good faith t out, he should not be charged v costs of the proceeding for his al. In re Mallory (D. C. 1870) R. 153, Fed. Cas. No. 8,990.

A trustee who, from long-co intemperance, has become unfit charge of the trust property removed. Bayles v. Staats (184 J. Eq. 513. And if the trustee l insolvent, or himself applies benefit of the bankruptcy act, t be good cause for removing hi office. Harris v. Harris, 29 Be

One who, at the time of his a ment, resided in the district a still maintains an office therein, not be removed merely because changed his legal residence to district, unless it is shown t change interferes with the perfo of his duties or renders it diffi interested parties to communica him or serve notices on him. In der (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 138, Bankr. Rep. 708.

As the trustee holds a fiduci lation to the creditors, he sho be interested in any scheme of c tion. And his joining with th rupt to effect a composition, to riment of the creditors, by m false representations as to the is ground, not only for setting a composition, but also for remov trustee from his office. In re A Wrisley Co. (1904) 133 Fed. C. C. A. 450, 13 Am. Bankr. R § 9631. (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 47, as amended, Act F 1903, c. 487, § 10, and Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, § 8.) Du trustees.

Duties of Trustees.—a Trustees shall respectively (1) a for and pay over to the estates under their control all inter ceived by them on property of such estates; (2) collect and to money the property of the estates for which they are tr under the direction of the court, and close up the estate as e tiously as is compatible with the best interests of the parties in est; and such trustees, as to all property in the custody or into the custody of the bankruptcy court, shall be deemed veste all the rights, remedies, and powers of a creditor holding a l legal or equitable proceedings thereon; and also, as to all pr not in the custody of the bankruptcy court, shall be deemed with all the rights, remedies, and powers of a judgment cr holding an execution duly returned unsatisfied; (3) depo money received by them in one of the designated deposi (4) disburse money only by check or draft on the depos in which it has been deposited; (5) furnish such inforr concerning the estates of which they are trustees and the ministration as may be requested by parties in interest; (6) regular accounts showing all amounts received and from what s and all amounts expended and on what accounts; (7) lay befo final meeting of the creditors detailed statements of the ad tration of the estates; (8) make final reports and file final ac with the courts fifteen days before the days fixed for the final ings of the creditors; (9) pay dividends within ten days afte are declared by the referees; (10) report to the courts, in writing, the condition of the estates and the amounts of money on hand, and such other details as may be required by the courts, within the first month after their appointment and every two months thereafter, unless otherwise ordered by the courts; and (11) set apart the bankrupt's exemptions and report the items and estimated value thereof to the court as soon as practicable after their appointment.

b Whenever three trustees have been appointed for an estate, the concurrence of at least two of them shall be necessary to the validity of their every act concerning the administration of the estate.

c The trustee shall, within thirty days after the adjudication, file a certified copy of the decree of adjudication in the office where conveyances of real estate are recorded in every county where the bankrupt owns real estate not exempt from execution, and pay the fee for such filing, and he shall receive a compensation of fifty cents for each copy so filed, which, together with the filing fee, shall be paid out of the estate of the bankrupt as a part of the cost and disbursements of the proceedings. (30 Stat. 557. 32 Stat. 799. 36 Stat. 840.)

This section, as originally enacted, contained only two subdivisions, a and b.

It was amended by Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, § 10, cited above, by adding thereto subdivision c, as set forth here.

In the section as originally enacted, in subdivision a thereof, clause 2 was as follows:

"(2) Collect and reduce to money the property of the estates for which they are trustees, under the direction of the court, and close up the estate as expeditiously as is compatible with the best interests of the parties in interest;"

Said clause was amended by Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, § 8, last cited above, by adding thereto the provisions vesting trustees with the rights, etc., of creditors holding liens, etc., making said clause 2 read as set forth here.

Section 19 of said first amendatory Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, 32 Stat. 801, provided that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending when it took effect, but that such cases should be adjudicated and disposed of conformably to the provisions of the original act.

Section 14 of said second amendatory Act June 25, 1910, c. 412, 36 Stat. 842, also provided that the act should not apply to bankruptcy cases pending when it took effect, but that such cases be adjudicated and disposed of conformably to the provisions of the original act as previously amended.

The title to property of the bankrupt was vested in the trustee by section 70 of this act, post, § 9654; and the rights of the trustee to avoid preferences and other transfers, etc., by the bankrupt, were defined by sections 60 and 70 of this act, post, §§ 9644, 9654.

Notes of Decisions

I. Powers and duties of trustees

1. Effect of appointment and qualification of trustee.
2. Trustee as representative of creditors.
3. Instructions of court or referee.
4. Inventory and appraisal of property.
5. Custody and care of property.
6. Carrying on bankrupt's business.
7. Collection of assets.
8. Redemption of property.
9. Performance of bankrupt's contracts or obligations.
10. Duties with reference to leased property.
11. Expenditures by trustee.
12. Employment and compensation of trustee's attorney.
13. —— Selection of attorney.
14. —— Services of trustee as attorney at law.
15. —— Nature of services and amount of compensation of attorney.
16. —— Claim and allowance of attorney's fees.
17. Deposit and disbursement of funds.
18. Responsibility for negligence or misconduct.
19. Authority of joint trustees.
20. Accounts and reports of trustees.
21. Duty to furnish information.
22. Discharge of trustee.
23. Closing and reopening estates.

II. Sales of property by trustees

24. Authority of trustee in general.
25. Order of court.
26. Sale of incumbered property.
27. Sale free from incumbrances.
28. What interests not divested.
29. Sale of perishable property.
30. Sale of land in another district or state.
31. Notice of sale.
32. Manner and conduct of sale.
33. Terms of sale.
34. Who may purchase.
35. Rights and liabilities of purchasers.
36. Nature and extent of title conveyed.
37. Approval or confirmation of sale.
38. Payment or recovery of purchase money.
39. Conveyance and delivery.
40. Application of proceeds.
41. —— Application to liens and incumbrances.
42. —— Adjudicating validity and rank of liens.
43. —— Distribution of surplus.
44. Vacating and setting aside sale.
45. —— Grounds for vacating.
46. —— Inadequacy of price.
47. Collateral impeachment of sale.

I. POWERS AND DUTIES OF TRUSTEES

1. Effect of appointment and qualification of trustee.—An adjudication in bankruptcy and the appointment of a trustee operate to divest the bankrupt of all title to his property and of the right to possess and dispose of it. Kempner v. Bauer (1907) 53 Misc. Rep. 109, 104 N. Y. Supp. 76. Thereafter all the property which was in the bankrupt's possession or control is regarded as in the custody of the law and in the actual or constructive possession of the court of bankruptcy. Crosby v. Spear (1904) 98 Me. 542, 57 Atl. 881, 99 Am. St. Rep. 424; Devendorf v. Dickinson (1861) 21 How. Prac. (N. Y.) 275; Rogers v. Voss (1873) 1 Wils. (Ind.) 376. Not only the right of possession, but the title to the bankrupt's property is vested by operation of law in the trustee upon his appointment, as of the date of the adjudication. In re Youngstrom (1907) 153 Fed. 98, 82 C. C. A. 232, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 572; In re Walsh Bros. (D. C. 1908) 159 Fed. 560, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 472; In re Rosenberg (D. C. 1869) 3 N. B. R. 130, Fed. Cas. No. 12,055. The title descends upon the trustee by operation of law, and no other act is necessary to vest it than the adjudication and the qualification of a duly elected or appointed trustee. Hough v. City of North Adams (1907) 196 Mass. 290, 82 N. E. 46.

The trustee in bankruptcy for some purposes stands in position of the creditors and for others of the bankrupt himself. Jones v. Dugan (1914) 92 A. 775, 124 Md. 346.

The trustee acts under the direction or control of the court of bankruptcy, and must obey its orders even though the particular subject-matter is in litigation in a state court. Capital Nat. Bank v. Wilkerson (1905) 36 Ind. App. 550, 76 N. E. 258.

The 1910 amendment to the bankruptcy act, that "trustees, as to all property in the custody or coming into the custody of the bankruptcy court, shall be deemed vested with all the rights, remedies, and powers of a creditor holding a lien by legal or equitable proceedings thereon, and also, as to all property not in the custody of the bankruptcy court, shall be deemed vested with all the rights, remedies, and powers of a judgment creditor holding an execution duly returned unsatisfied," though not retroactive, applied to all future cases, and is consistent with the other provisions of the act, and is valid. In re Calhoun Supply Co. (D. C. 1911) 189 Fed. 537, 26 Am. Bankr. Rep. 528; In re Gartman (D. C. 1911) 186 Fed. 349.

2. Trustee as representative of creditors.—Although a trustee in bankruptcy succeeds to the title of the bankrupt, he does not for that reason act as the agent or representative of the bankrupt in the subsequent proceedings, only in the matter of setting a him the exemptions allowed b Aiken v. Edrington (C. C. 1876) B. R. 271, Fed. Cas. No. 111. other purposes and in all other r the trustee is the representat the creditors, and of them onl not in any sense of the bankru re Kessler (1911) 186 Fed. 127, C. A. 239; In re Kreuger (D. C. 196 Fed. 705, 27 Am. Bankr. Re In re Doran (D. C. 1906) 148 Fe 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 799; Ai Edrington (C. C. 1876) 15 N. 271, Fed. Cas. No. 111; Car v. West (1911) 173 Ala. 198, 55 917. See Edwards v. Schillinger 245 Ill. 231, 91 N. E. 1048, 33 A. (N. S.) 895, 137 Am. St. Re But it has also been said that tee in bankruptcy occupies a fi capacity, and is to some extent a holder, with duties to the bankr well as the creditors. In re I (D. C. 1915) 225 Fed. 878.

Where the bankrupt is a corpo the trustee represents its cr only, and not its stockholders. V. & M. Lumber Co. (D. C. 191 Fed. 231.

The trustee is free to assert test claims and rights to pr maintain or defend proceedings, assets, and avoid preferences, cumstances where the bankrupt would not be at liberty to act, on the ground of estoppel or c lic policy. In re Kessler (191 Fed. 127, 108 C. C. A. 239; Gurney (C. C. 1877) 15 N. B. Fed. Cas. No. 5,873; In re St. Mill Co. (C. C. 1875 & D. C. 10 N. B. R. 414, Fed. Cas. No. In re Desnoyers Shoe Co. (D. C 210 Fed. 533.

The trustee represents only who were creditors at the time filing of the petition, because the become parties to the proceeding chelder & Lincoln Co. v. Wh (1903) 122 Fed. 355, 58 C. C. 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 641. As to creditors, the trustee represents all equally and alike. He must vocate the cause of one against a or give to any creditor an adv which the law does not give, no himself to be controlled in his ac tration of the trust by any cred group or class of creditors. owes a like duty to all, he mus himself indifferent, and give to opportunities and absolutely im treatment. West v. Bank of L (1906) 16 Okl. 508, 86 Pac. 59; v. Security Life Ins. Co. (187 N. Y. 267; In re Sully (D. C. 142 Fed. 895, 15 Am. Bankr 304.

3. Instructions of court or ref The trustee, as an officer of the is subject to its orders and dir t all times from his appointment to is discharge, and may be controlled n his administration of the property y orders made in summary proceedings. In re Cadenas & Coe (D. C. 910) 178 Fed. 158, 24 Am. Bankr. Rep. 135; In re Howard (D. C. 1904) 30 Fed. 1004, 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 62. The trustee will be treated as in ontempt if he acts in contravention f the rulings and orders of the court. n re Smith (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 12,978.

He may submit for the sanction or pproval of the court arrangements or greements made with adverse claimnts of property or other third persons. Mulford v. Fourth Street Nat. Bank (C. C. A. 1907) 157 Fed. 897, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep. 742. And where he aplies for the directions of the court, nd a reference is ordered to ascertain he necessary facts, but the trustee ails to attend the hearing and acts ndependently, he will be held to the trictest accountability. In re Schapter (D. C. 1874) 9 N. B. R. 324, Fed. Cas. No. 12,438.

The trustee may, in any proper emergency, apply to the court of bankruptcy for directions as to the course o be pursued. But neither the judge nor the referee is the general adviser of the trustee in his dealings with the property of the estate. In re Sturgeon (D. C. 1868) 1 N. B. R. 498, Fed. Cas. No. 13,564. And where the trustee's duty is plain, or where the question is simply one of expediency or of probable advantage or disadvantage to the estate, or where the proposed act is entirely within his own discretion and power, he cannot as a matter of right obtain the instructions of the court, but should act on his own responsibility, or, if he prefers to take no risk, he should submit the matter to the creditors and be governed by their vote. In re Franklin Sav. Fund Soc. (D. C. 1874) Fed. Cas. No. 5,058. As to the authority and duty of the court to disapprove an improvident bargain proposed to be made by the trustee, and officially to inform creditors of the jeopardy in which their interests are thereby placed, though not applied to for instructions, but only to grant a petition for the carrying out of the bargain, see Henry v. Harris (D. C. 1912) 191 Fed. 868. The trustee should exercise his own judgment and discretion in deciding whether it is necessary or desirable for him to retain an attorney. In re Abram (D. C. 1900) 103 Fed. 272, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 575. So also, in deciding whether he should file a petition to have the claim of a creditor expunged for fraud. In re Baber (D. C. 1902) 119 Fed. 520, 9 Am. Bankr. Rep. 406.

4. Inventory and appraisal of property.—The object of the inventory and appraisement required by the statute is to secure for the benefit and protection of all parties concerned a designation and estimate of the property which passes into the hands of the trustee, and for which in the first instance he is to be accountable. In re Gordon Supply & Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 798, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 352.

Since it is the policy of the law that all steps in the administration of the estate should be taken by persons who are disinterested and will act for all the creditors, rather than for the benefit of any faction or clique, the referee should make the appointment of the appraisers in the exercise of his independent judgment, and their selection should not be submitted to a vote of the creditors, especially where there is a sharp conflict of views and interests between the creditors. In re Columbia Iron Works (D. C. 1904) 142 Fed. 234, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 526. A person is not disqualified for appointment as appraiser of a bankrupt's property merely because some of the officers and directors of a corporation creditor are also officers and directors of another corporation of which such appraiser is president. Id. That one of the appraisers appointed to appraise the property of a bankrupt mining company was a lessee of a portion of the property, and was required to work the same on a royalty, did not disqualify him to act as an appraiser, he having no interest in the bankruptcy proceedings nor in the sale of the property. Clark Hardware Co. v. Sauve (C. C. A. 1915) 220 Fed. 102.

The appraisement should be general and not special, and should not go into the detail practiced by a merchant in taking an account of stock, only such particularity being indulged in as is sufficient for a reasonable identification of the property in character and quantity and to give a fair idea of its value. In re Gordon Supply & Mfg. Co. (D. C. 1904) 133 Fed. 798, 13 Am. Bankr. Rep. 352.

The compensation of the appraisers is not fixed by the law, and rests in the discretion of the court. But in at least one district the rule has been established that, in any ordinary case, no more than $5 a day for three days' work will be allowed to each appraiser, the trustee being required to justify any greater allowance, and the court declares that "it must be an extraordinary case where over two or three days are necessary." In re E. I. Fidler & Son (D. C. 1909) 172 Fed. 632, 23 Am. Bankr. Rep. 16.

5. Custody and care of property.—A trustee in bankruptcy has an insurable interest in the property of the estate in his hands, and may be allowed credit in his accounts for the premiums paid for a reasonable amount of insurance on it, even though he did not first obtain the permission of the court or the consent of the creditors to insure it. In re Hamilton (D. C. 1900) 102 Fed. 683, 4 Am. Bankr. Rep. 543; Thompson v. Phenix Ins. Co. (1890) 136 U. S. 293, 10 Sup. Ct. 1019, 34 L. Ed. 408; Insurance Co. v. Chase (1866) 5 Wall. 509, 18 L. Ed. 524; In re Carow (D. C. 1871) 4 N. B. R. 543, Fed. Cas. No. 2,426; In re Fortune (D. C. 1869) 2 N. B. R. 662, Fed. Cas. No. 4,955. See Dortch v. Dortch (1874) 71 N. C. 224.

With the consent of all the creditors, the trustee may be authorized to withdraw the funds of the estate from the designated depository, and place them in a bank paying interest on deposits, taking a time certificate of deposit for them. Huttig Mfg. Co. v. Edwards (1908) 160 Fed. 619, 87 C. C. A. 521, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 349.

6. Carrying on bankrupt's business.—A trustee in bankruptcy who continues the business of the bankrupt will be personally liable unless he has obtained authority to do so from the court of bankruptcy. McCauley v. Jackson (1915) 165 App. Div. 846, 151 N. Y. Supp. 120. The authority of a trustee to continue the business under the order of the bankruptcy court may depend on his ability to raise money for that purpose on receiver's certificates. Roth v. Gotthold (1915) 90 Misc. Rep. 363, 153 N. Y. Supp. 187.

If the transactions involved in a proposed continuance of the bankrupt's business by the trustee are of magnitude, or involve the raising of money by means of trustees' certificates, the referee should not exercise the authority granted to "the court," but should refer the matter to the judge. Bray v. Johnson (1908) 166 Fed. 57, 91 C. C. A. 643, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 383.

The court will not pass on an application for modification of an order authorizing the receiver of a bankrupt corporation to borrow money and continue the business made by one claiming to be a bondholder, but whose ownership of any bonds is denied, until such question of ownership has been determined. In re Consumers' Albany Brewing Co. (D. C. 1914) 216 Fed. 988.

Where the assets of the bankrupt coming into the hands of the trustee include commodities in process of construction or preparation, such as unfinished machinery in the bankrupt's workshops, not so far completed as to be salable, but it is shown that they could be finished and made ready for the market in a short time and at a comparatively small cost, and would then command such a price as would result in substantial benefit to the estate, the court may authorize the trustee to finish such goods for sale and to defray the necessary cost thereof out of the funds of the estate. Foster v. Ames (C. C. 1869) Fed. Cas. No. 4,965. Such a course is also proper where the business must be cont in operation because it can on sold to good advantage as a going cern, as, for instance, in the case hotel. In re Bayley (D. C. 1909 Fed. 522, 22 Am. Bankr. Rep. Where a bankrupt orchard com having contracted to plant, cult and irrigate orchards pending pa of the price, had assigned all but such contracts before adjudicatio trustee was not entitled to continu tivation against the objection of a itor. In re Wenatchee Heights chard Co. (D. C. 1914) 212 Fed.

The trustee should be required t all bills properly and legitimately tracted by him in the conduct o bankrupt's business. In re Patte C. 1906) 143 Fed. 994, 16 Am. B Rep. 450. He should be requir pay the wages of skilled employés it is necessary to retain as bein only persons acquainted with the ness. J. I. Case Plow Works v wards (1898) 176 Ill. 34, 51 N. E

The trustee is not liable to an for damages for the negligence employé resulting in injury to a ger, where it is not shown that h himself out as conducting the bu in any other capacity than as an of the court, and where no pe negligence is imputable to him. C v. Barney (1875) 63 N. Y. 281, 2 Rep. 533.

7. Collection of assets.—If the tee in bankruptcy could learn c existence of available assets of t tate by proper inquiry, and fails so, he is chargeable with negli Avery v. Cleary (1890) 132 U. S 10 Sup. Ct. 220, 33 L. Ed. 469; hawk v. Yerkes (1891) 142 U. S. Sup. Ct. 104, 35 L. Ed. 915. A may be charged in his account wi value of assets which never cam his possession if he failed in his to recover them. In re Reinbot C. A. 1907) 157 Fed. 672, 19 Bankr. Rep. 15.

The trustee in bankruptcy, if h do so without a breach of the may take physical possession o property of the bankrupt, where may be found, and if money has converted into goods, they may be in the same manner, provided the be certainly identified. Brush v. B ard (1857) 19 Ill. 31. He may tain replevin for goods of the ban to which he is entitled as trustee. don v. Farrington (1881) 46 Mich 9 N. W. 456; Coats v. Farri (1881) 46 Mich. 422, 9 N. W. 45 may maintain ejectment for the ery of real property of the ban Kirkpatrick v. Clark (1890) 1 342, 24 N. E. 71, 8 L. R. A. 5 Am. St. Rep. 531. It may be th of the trustee to institute proce in bankruptcy against his bank insolvent debtor as the only av means of collecting any portion bt. In re Jones (D. C. 1873) 7 N. B. 506, Fed. Cas. No. 7,450. The ustee may, in proper cases, advance e interests of the estate by a bargain compromise with an adverse claimt or other party. In re E. M. Newn & Co. (1907) 153 Fed. 841, 83 C. A. 23, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 567. ut such bargain or compromise must t be contrary to law or to morality public policy. In re Rosenblatt (D. 1907) 153 Fed. 335, 18 Am. Bankr. ep. 663.

The trustee in bankruptcy may sumarily apply for an order requiring the nkrupt to surrender to him any propty which the latter has in his possesn or under his control. In re Wright D. C. 1910) 177 Fed. 578, 24 Am. ankr. Rep. 437; In re E. I. Fidler & n (D. C. 1908) 163 Fed. 973, 21 n. Bankr. Rep. 101. He may likewise pply for an order for the surrender property in the hands of third pers which is claimed by him as assets the estate. Mueller v. Nugent (1902) 4 U. S. 1, 22 Sup. Ct. 269, 46 L. d. 405, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 224; In Gill (C. C. A. 1911) 190 Fed. 726, Am. Bankr. Rep. 883; In re Peack (C. C. 1910) 178 Fed. 851, 24 Am. ankr. Rep. 159; In re Holbrook Shoe Leather Co. (D. C. 1908) 165 Fed. 3, 21 Am. Bankr. Rep. 511; In re avis (D. C. 1903) 119 Fed. 950, 9 m. Bankr. Rep. 670; In re Mills (D. 1910) 179 Fed. 409, 25 Am. Bankr. ep. 278; In re Famous Clothing Co. D. C. 1910) 179 Fed. 1015, 24 Am. ankr. Rep. 780; In re Meier (C. C. 1910) 182 Fed. 799, 25 Am. Bankr. ep. 272; In re Friedman (C. C. A. 908) 161 Fed. 260, 20 Am. Bankr. ep. 37.

A person having the possession of roperty which belongs to the estate in ankruptcy may be enjoined from disosing of it or transferring it. In re ackson (D. C. 1899) 94 Fed. 797, 2 m. Bankr. Rep. 501. Or such person ay be ordered to withdraw an unlawl claim to it. In re Home Discount o. (D. C. 1906) 147 Fed. 538, 17 Am. ankr. Rep. 168.

If property claimed as assets of the state is in the hands of a receiver ppointed by a state court, the trusee's proper course is to apply to the ourt which appointed the receiver for n order for its surrender. Seligman . Ferst (1873) 57 Ga. 561.

The trustee in bankruptcy may sue to et aside fraudulent conveyances or ransfers and recover the property afected. Falls City Tinware Co.'s Trusee v. Levine (1907) 31 Ky. Law Rep. 103, 104 S. W. 716. And he may roceed against a creditor to recover oney received by him from the bankupt after the institution of the proeedings. Knapp & Spencer Co. v. Drew (1908) 160 Fed. 413, 87 C. C. A. 365, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 355. The rustee may also proceed against directors of a bankrupt mercantile corporation, who were also its managing officers, having sole charge of its business and property, for an unexplained shortage in assets. Bynum v. Scott (D. C. 1914) 217 Fed. 122.

If the trustee is satisfied that property which comes into his hands did not belong to the bankrupt, he should at once return it to the true owner. In re Noakes (D. C. 1873) 1 N. B. R. 592, Fed. Cas. No. 10,281.

8. Redemption of property.—When a trustee finds that a bankrupt owns property subject to liens, he should petition the court for instructions as to the course which he should pursue. In re Cutler & John (D. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 771.

Under authority from the court of bankruptcy, the trustee may redeem land from a conveyance which, though absolute in form, was intended as a mortgage and was accompanied by a parol defeasance. Foraast v. Hyman (1891) 138 Ill. 423, 28 N. E. 800. And from a foreclosure sale under a decree rendered after the adjudication, if, by the law of the state, such a right of redemption remains in the bankrupt mortgagor. In re Novak (D. C. 1901) 111 Fed. 161, 7 Am. Bankr. Rep. 27. And he may redeem property of the bankrupt which has been sold on execution to the judgment creditor, without paying the unsatisfied balance of the judgment or taking the property subject to the lien of the judgment. Lloyd v. Hoo Sue (D. C. 1878) Fed. Cas. No. 8,432.

9. Performance of bankrupt's contracts or obligations.—A trustee in bankruptcy is bound to carry out the bankrupt's valid contracts made in good faith and not in fraud of his creditors. In re Stewart (D. C. 1912) 193 Fed. 791, 27 Am. Bankr. Rep. 529. And the trustee is estopped by the acts of the bankrupt, and bound by his conduct and agreements to the same extent that the bankrupt would be bound before the adjudication. Watson v. Proximity Mfg. Co. (1908) 147 N. C. 478, 61 S. E. 273. Rights of trustee in bankruptcy for bankrupt contractor are no greater than those of the contractor. Mankins v. Forward Movement Syndicate (Cal. App. 1915) 152 Pac. 313.

While a trustee in bankruptcy is not bound to accept property or take over contracts which are onerous and unprofitable, he is required to elect whether to assume an existing executory contract and to continue its performance and ultimately dispose of it for the benefit of the estate, or to renounce it, and leave the injured party to such legal remedies for the breach as the case affords. If he elects to assume a contract, and completes it, he is entitled to whatever the bankrupt would have received, but on the other hand he takes the contract cum onere, as the bankrupt held it, subject to all of its provisions and conditions. Dushane v.

Beall (1896) 161 U. S. 513, 16 Sup. Ct. 637, 40 L. Ed. 791; United States Trust Co. v. Wabash Ry. (1893) 150 U. S. 289, 14 Sup. Ct. 86, 37 L. Ed. 1085; Sparhawk v. Yerkes (1891) 142 U. S. 1, 12 Sup. Ct. 104, 35 L. Ed. 915; American File Co. v. Garrett (1884) 110 U. S. 288, 4 Sup. Ct. 90, 28 L. Ed. 149; In re Chambers, Calder & Co. (D. C. 1900) 98 Fed. 865, 3 Am. Bankr. Rep. 537; Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hurley (1907) 153 Fed. 503, 82 C. C. A. 453, 18 Am. Bankr. Rep. 396; Watson v. Merrill (1905) 136 Fed. 359, 69 C. C. A. 185, 14 Am. Bankr. Rep. 453; In re Nicholas (D. C. 1903) 122 Fed. 299, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 291; Wilkins v. Tourtellott (1882) 28 Kan. 825. This course is often proper with regard to property held by the bankrupt under a contract of conditional sale, where the assets of the estate will be increased by the completion of the conditions by the trustee and the consequent vesting of full title to the article in question. In re Grainger (1908) 160 Fed. 69, 87 C. C. A. 225, 20 Am. Bankr. Rep. 166; Hurley v. Allman Gas Engine & Machine Co. (1911) 144 App. Div. 300, 129 N. Y. Supp. 14; Tierney v. Butler (1909) 144 Iowa, 553, 123 N. W. 213. Where the bankrupt was a building contractor, and had an unfinished contract on hand at the time of his adjudication, the trustee may be directed by the court to complete the contract and collect the balance due under it. Davis v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. (1902) 75 App. Div. 518, 78 N. Y. Supp. 336; Ford v. State Board of Education (1911) 166 Mich. 658, 132 N. W. 467. Where the bankrupt corporation held property under a lease, which required it to erect an expensive building on the leased land, and had failed to perform the condition, and had received notice of a forfeiture of the lease for breach of such condition, all before its adjudication in bankruptcy, the court of bankruptcy, on petition of the lessor, decreed the enforcement of the forfeiture and directed the trustee to surrender possession, this being the only effective means of protecting the rights of the lessor. Lindeke v. Associates Realty Co. (1906) 146 Fed. 630, 77 C. C. A. 56, 17 Am. Bankr. Rep. 215.

